Brigade CG, Staff Return from Calif.

Brig. Gen. Avery R. Kier, 1st Marine Brigade commanding general, and members of his staff, were slated to return to Kaneohe Bay yesterday after taking part in conferences on the forthcoming Operation "Tradewinds."

The group left by Marine aircraft for the West Coast Sunday, and were slated to confer with Air FMFPac representatives Monday at the Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, Calif. The conferences were to conclude with a meeting with the Navy's commander, Amphibious Group Three aboard the USS Calvert at Coronado, Calif.

Operation "Tradewinds" is an impending joint Navy-Marine Corps exercise scheduled for August in the Barking Sands area of Kauai.

Thailand Officers See Brigade, MCAS

Thirty-seven Thailand officers arrived yesterday morning to receive a first-hand look at this Air Station and the 1st Marine Brigade air-ground team. The officers are visiting Oahu-based military installations.

Brigade and Air Station officers briefed the group at Kansas Tower and then escorted them on a tour of the station with a look at MAG-13's installations and AD Skyraider pilots of VMA-212 undergoing Field Carrier Landing Practice.

A spectacular demonstration by the Air Station's crash crew showed the Thailand Armed Forces Staff College officers the speed with which gasoline-fed flames enveloping a downed aircraft can be extinguished while rescuers disappear into the holocaust to remove the pilot.

Blood Bank Sets Visit to K-Bay

Modern Warfare Techniques Tested By 4th Marines in FEX

A simulated atomic explosion at 1 p.m. Wednesday injected another test of modern warfare concepts practiced by the 4th Marines, in their three-day maneuvers in the Kahuku hills of Oahu.

The explosion came as the Marines were preparing to jump off in the attack again, having reorganized on the three regimental objectives which they had captured in mid-morning. Brisk winds had not dissipated the pink, mushroom cloud before command decisions had triggered the reflexes of recovery. A helicopter with a regimental monitoring team aboard swooped in low over the hillsides nearest the blast, measuring radioactivity.

Hardest hit was 2nd Battalion which had been defending positions on the left half of the 4th Marines main line of resistance at the time of the explosion. They sustained 75 per cent casualties.

Damage control teams and medical shock teams landed by copter in the 2nd Battalion sector and began to prepare the blast victims for evacuation. Simultaneously the 1st Bn., serving as regimental reserve, began to move into the defensive positions from which the 2nd Bn. was being evacuated by the 1st Marine Brigade copters and trucks.

The evacuation to the Brigade's medical company collection center was completed and the main line of resistance reestablished by reserve forces in approximately three hours. The regiment was tactically sound again, defending their 6,000 yard front.

The 4th Marines remained in their positions Wednesday night, alert for simulated aggressor action.

Earlier on Tuesday, a light rain had barely settled the red dust at Kahuku when the 4th Marines jumped off in attack to start the three-day exercise.

Shortly after the regiment reached the training area early that morning, the 1st Bn. was hit by aggressor forces and suffered light casualties. The 1st and 2nd Battalions moved into attack positions in preparation for the regimental attack Tuesday afternoon.

The 1st Bn. on the right and the 2nd Bn. on the left ran into simulated "enemy" mortar fire as they advanced up the rugged ridges toward their first objectives. Counter battery fire of the regiment's own mortars reduced the effectiveness of this fire, according to the umpires, but aggressor aircraft inflicted heavy "casualties" on the 1st Bn. as it continued its advance.

Marine Aircraft Group-13 provided both friendly and aggressor close air support.

In keeping with modern concepts of rapid movement and wide dispersal, the regiment relied entirely on radio for communications rather than the usual radio and wire.

Tuesday night the regiment tested night defense with aggressor forces continuing to add realism. Umpires down to platoon level decided the outcome of action.

During the night the 3rd Bn., which had been regimental reserve, moved in and effected a night relief of the heavily hit 1st Bn. The 2nd Bn. moved out in night attack between midnight and dawn Wednesday morning.

Witnessing the 4th Marines jump-off Tuesday were Col. John See KAHUKU EXERCISE P-2

K-Bay Is Site Of Two Week Summer Stints

"Citizen" servicemen of Hawaii will arrive by land and air tomorrow to begin two weeks of annual summer training. Arriving by land is the Marine Corps Reserve's 15th Infantry Battalion, while air guardsmen of the 119th Interceptor Squadron, Hawaii Air National Guard, will set their sleek P-86E jets down on the K-Bay runway, after first flying over the field in formation.

The 15th Infantry Bn., under command of Lt. Col. Lewis M. Nutting, will conduct training in two phases. Phase One which starts tomorrow, is designed to familiarize all recruits with the Marine Corps and to serve as a review for all personnel in basic individual and small unit training. Personnel will fire for qualification or requalification during this phase, which will be conducted at the Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station.

During its two-week stint, the Reserve Battalion will be hosted by the 3rd Bn., 4th Marines, which served as host during last year's training.

During phase two, the battalion will operate out of Camp Kyle located at Bellows Field. Helicopters will carry some of the Reserve Leathernecks to Bellows Field next Friday, with the remainder going by motor vehicle. Small unit training will again be emphasized at Bellows Field, culminating in a battalion landing exercise. Training will conclude with a battalion parade with Col. L. C. Reinberg, Director, 14th Marine Corps Recruiting District, as reviewing officer.

Concurrent with the two phases of training, the Reserve Marine unit will conduct officer and Staff NCO schools, and specialist schools in the Clerical and Supply fields.

The 15th Infantry Bn. offices and barracks are located in Bldg. 226. Enlisted Reservists will eat in the regimental mess hall.

Approximately 240 officers and enlisted men are expected to report in tomorrow. Some will be coming from Pearl Harbor, while others will report in from the satellite unit based at Kaneohe.

The Hawaii Air National Guard will experience 100 per cent participation in annual training where the pilots are concerned, Maj. George R. Duncan, HANG Operations Officer said this week, with 100 per cent anticipated from the enlisted ranks, too. Forty-seven officers and 382 airmen will report for duty.

Intensive training for pilots and ground crews is on tap, with operations slated to begin in earnest Sunday. Thirteen full days of operations are planned, with each pilot gunning for 25 flight hours. See SUMMER TRAINING P-2

inflicted "heavy" casualties. At right, fast help for a "casualty" is made possible by the versatile helicopter that picked the man up from a remote point on a Kahuku ridge. Here being delivered to an aid station, this man already had been replaced during reestablishment of the main line of resistance to prevent the "enemy" from exploiting his weapon. ## Editor's Corner

It's pretty hard to argue seriously that work details are fun. They're chores, and not designed for entertainment. Goofing off on a detail is no fun either. There's no enjoyment in searching for ways to make it appear as if you're working when you're really not. You wind up laboring twice as hard figuring out how to avoid doing constructive work. The best policy is to do the work that's got to be done. The work goes easier that way, and there's the chance for a feeling of accomplishment when it's finished. (AFPS)

NEW ADDRESSES

All employees are reminded that it is their responsibility to keep their supervisors and the Industrial Relations Department informed of changes in their addresses and telephone numbers. Changes should be submitted in triplicate on Form 14ND-GEN-106, Employee's Address Record, which may be obtained from the operating departments or the Industrial Relations Department.

FACTORS INVOLVED IN POSITION CLASSIFICATION

One of the common misconceptions about the factors involved in position classification concerns the VOLUME OF WORK. This is not one of the "difficulty" factors which say where a job will fall on the grade scale.

Some of the proper factors which may effect classification include variety of work, commitment authority, supervision control, originality of thinking, personal relationship, and similar factors.

Position classification assumes the volume of work assigned each employee will be based on a reasonable standard for eight hours of work a day. If there is so much work that an employee must consistently work more than eight hours a day, the office is either understaffed or poorly staffed. If the work force cannot be expanded or improved, overtime or compensatory time may be required. Conversely, if an employee is not required to meet a reasonable standard of production for eight hours a day, the office may be overstaffed. Or if he does not meet the standard because of inefficiency, appropriate action should be taken.

But VOLUME OF WORK MAY NOT BE USED AS A FACTOR IN POSITION CLASSIFICATION.

Summer Training

for a squadron total of 824 by the end of the two-week period.

Ground crewmen will arrive tomorrow by Army buses, and will eat in the Station mess hall.

Air Guardsman training will be highlighted Saturday, June 22, when the Honorable Samuel W. King, Governor of Hawaii, will come aboard K-Bay to visit the unit.

HANG will use the hangar and facilities formerly used by VMF-214. During this annual training, it will concentrate on three phases: aerial gunnery, fighter to fighter combat tactics and Ground Control Intercept.

Maj. Duncan said that sometime during its two week training, the squadron would undergo an Operational Readiness Inspection, conducted by a group from Headquarters, HANG.

The Hawaii Air National Guard is under the command of Lt. Col. James R. Ashford.

Kahuku Exercise

H. Earle, Chief of Staff of the 1st Marine Brigade, and the Brigade's operations and personnel officers.

The problem was a test medium for many of the procedures to be used by the 4th Marines during the 1st Marine Brigade's air-ground exercise "Operation Tradewinds" in August.

Throughout the three-day problem, the regiment was harassed by aggressor personnel from the Brigade's Service Battalion, Anti-Tank Co., and 1st Anglico from FMFPac.

Yesterday, the regiment began a tactical withdrawal and redeployment to its barracks area at the Marine Corps Air Station.

the K-BAY KIBITZER by bradley

Last week I recounted the first of four days spent on Maui, the Valley Island, over Memorial Day weekend. About all I could get in one column was the trip to Haleakala and I felt the rest of the trip was too wonderful to suffer the fate of being buried in my memory. So, here's a quick accounting of glimpses at old Hawaiian communities, picturesque valleys, sheer cliffs, rain forests, desert, and friendly people.

After spending the night at Kihei on Maalaea Bay, leeward Maui, we cooked breakfast, broke camp and hit the road about 8 a.m., the Wenkams, my wife and son and daughter.

We went back to Lahaina, one-time capitol of the islands and anchor age for the great whaling fleets many years ago. In the center of the small town is a square almost completely shaded by a giant Banyan tree. While we were there students from the school across the street were recording group singing under just one part of the tree.

There are many reminders of the boisterous days of long ago. The Pioneer Hotel, the old prison built in 1851, rusty cannons salvaged from a Russian ship, the old court house. High on a hillside above town is the oldest school west of the Rockies, Lahainalua School which opened in 1831.

Today, Lahaina is a sleepy little community where the grocery store owner gives you ripe mangoes as a gift when you leave with your purchases. Another store owner on the outskirts of town tells you how to reach a cliff containing petroglyphs, the figures painted or carved on the stone by early Hawaiians.

Following lunch at Fleming's Beach, coupled with a nap in the shade and a swim, we started off around the West Maui mountains, past the north tip of the island, to Kahakuloa. This unimproved road is one car wide and quite tortuous in spots as it winds along cliffs, down into valleys, back and forth as the terrain permits. With the island of Molokai clearly visible across the channel, we took a road up a small valley to Honokahua where two or three families grow taro and make poi. This brief side trip served to point up the value of just meandering about. It's impossible to guess what will be around the next turn in the road. Drive along barren cliffs and, suddenly, there's a lush green valley.

Along the north coast there are multihued buttes looking much like smaller versions of the Badlands on the mainland. Continuing on, Kahakuloa valley suddenly spreads out from a viewpoint on a rocky point. Bright green with red-roofed houses scattered throughout the valley facing toward the small bay protected by a towering stone sentinel, this taro-producing community offers a glimpse of rural Hawaii that has been unaffected by tourism or modern conveniences, except for TV antennas surmounting the small buildings. Washing still is done in the streams and life is unhurried.

Climbing out of the valley, the setting sun strikes the white walls and spire of a church on the hillside, making it stand out in bold relief against the green of the foliage and the houses.

Around a sharp turn, wild goats scamper up a steep hillside. A haughty ram with large curved horns stands defiantly while the rest of the goats move to the safety of higher steeper slopes.

Supper at a little park on the road to Wailuku. Dusk, then darkness overtakes us as the gear goes back in the car. But not before Wenkam and I take a few pictures of pink streamers of cloud catching the last rays of the sun against Haleakala in the distance.

Since we are to be in the Hana area on the East coast of Maui the next day, Saturday, we head out through the darkness to Kaumahina Park, quite some distance away but right where we want to be to start taking pictures in the morning. Nearing the campsite, headlights often pick out nothingness as the car crawls around a sharp bend on the rough, stony road where it traverses a bluff hundreds of feet above the sea.

The parks, reached at about 10 p.m., offers a welcome grassy area for the tents and all six of us are soon sound asleep after a long day.

Dawn gets us underway and provides first look at the park. Beautifully maintained, it borders a cliff against the base of which the sea breaks in long swells. Tables, shelters, fireplaces and facilities are in a grassy area under the interlaced trees of a virtual rain forest. The view along the coast toward Hana is spectacular.

On the move, about eight, we stopped at a bamboo forest, passed waterfalls tumbling down sheer cliffs, took pictures of rocky coastline, green valleys, old churches and graveyards. We picked a wide variety of beautiful flowers along the way, including tiny, perfectly formed orchids.

By noon, we reached Hana and brought some food for lunch at a little country-type store. We ate in the shade overlooking a black sand beach. We explored lava tubes and visited a Hawaiian graveyard. At Waianapanapa cave we removed the dust with the crystal clear water that still runs red in April, so they say, the month that a legendary princess was slain in the cave by her jealous husband.

Leaving Hana for Kaupo, we stopped at the Seven Pools of Kipahulu for a refreshing swim in the lowest of the fresh water pools where the sun had taken the chill of the mountain water and left a perfect temperature. Water cascades from rocky pool to rocky pool, each different, some shallow and some quite deep. From the uppermost pool to the last with its waters sliding into the ocean, the drop is several hundred feet.

Saturday night we reached Hui Aloha church before dark, ate supper and pitched our tents in the churchyard. This church, built in July 1908, has walls at least three feet thick. It is situated on a promontory near the lava rock ruins of an old church school and is surrounded by the walls, graves and heiaus of an earlier Hawaiian community.

After a good night's sleep, up at dawn, eat, break camp and head back for Wailuku, since the road around the end of the island is reported to be impassable because of a slide. In view of the roads travelled up to Kaupo, it's quite believable.

More pictures on the way back with the morning and midday light. Another swim at Seven Pools. A better look at Hana where the best way in is by air and a vacation should be as relaxing and pleasant as anyplace I've ever seen.

We topped off the trip with dinner at the Maui Palms with the Trail and Mountain Club, then flew back to Honolulu with them on a chartered plane. Talk of their trip into Haleakala made good listening and sparked a desire to make the trip, too.

So ended four wonderful days. Perfect weather; unforgettable sights; a talk with Park Ranger Lindsey whose son is in the Corps; friendly people all with a wave of the hand or a thoughtful gesture; red, black, white and salt and pepper beaches; the largest dormant crater in the world—these are things we shall not forget. Before leaving Hawaii, we have managed really to see Hawaii.

I strongly recommend a trip like this to anyone who can possibly make it. I wish I could do it again, but I have over 70 beautiful color slides to refresh my memories.

THE LETTER "A" is formed by 89 men of "A" Co., 1st Bn., 4th Marines, as the 90th man to reenlist during a 12 month period ending June 1, 1957, is sworn in by Maj. Franklin J. Harte, 1st Bn. commanding officer. The man was Sgt. Jesse D. Hampton. "A" Co. consistently has led all companies in the 1st Marine Brigade in number of reenlistments. PHOTO BY ARLEN "SWEDE" WALSTEN.

90 Leathernecks Reenlisted by 'A' Co. Of 4th Marines in 12-month Period

On May 31 Sgt. Jesse D. Hampton of "A" Co., 1st Bn., 4th Marines, 1st Marine Brigade, raised his right hand in an oath of allegiance to the United States and became the 90th man within that company to reenlist in the Marine Corps during the 12-month period from June 1 of last year. In a drive to retain already trained and skilled Marines, "A" Co., commanded by Capt. Nye G. Rodes, over the past year continuously has led all other companies within the 1st Marine Brigade in reenlistments, and has saved the government $288,000, the amount of money it would cost to train replacements for these men. According to SSgt. Earl P. Hawn, reenlistment NCO for the company, the 90 men reenlisted for a total of 306 years.

Brigade Staff NCO To July Symposium

The 1st Marine Brigade will select one Staff Noncommissioned Officer to attend this year's Staff NCO Symposium at Quantico July 2-13, it was learned this week.

A message has requested nomination of one SNCO in Occupational Field 02 or 04 from each of the following: Marine Aircraft Group-13; 4th Marines; 3rd Bn., 12th Marines; Marine Helicopter Squadron 161; Service Bn., 1st MarBrig. and Headquarters Co., 1st MarBrig.

A board will meet Monday or Tuesday to select one of the six nominees to represent the Brigade at the second Annual Symposium.

Quotas for Marine Corps commands, established by the Commandant, also detailed specific MOS's to insure that when the group meets next month most occupational fields will be represented.

The hard work and efforts by the officers and men of "A" Co. have aided in putting their battalion and regiment in the leadership position for the reenlistment program of the Marine Corps. This was evidenced when the Commandant of the Marine Corps published the reenlistment program of the 4th Marines as a guide for all Marine Corps units.

The 1st Marine Brigade also has been commended for its reenlistment record by Lt. Gen. Edwin A. Pollock, commanding general, Fleet Marine Force, Pacific. Through the efforts of individual units like "A" Co., the Brigade has saved many thousands of dollars for the American taxpayer which otherwise would be spent training replacements for already highly skilled Marines.

NAVY RELIEF RODEO QUEEN TO BE PICKED

Six Navy Relief Rodeo Queen finalists will be picked by the 14th Naval District rodeo publicity committee Monday. The girl who will reign as Queen during the 4th of July weekend festivities at Furlong Field on Nimitz highway will be chosen in a final elimination on July 1.

The six finalists will be chosen Monday from the photographs and applications received by today's 4 p.m. deadline. The rodeo publicity committee has stipulated that applicants be 16 years or older, female dependents of Naval personnel or civilian employees of the Navy, and have at least some horseback riding experience.

The Rodeo Queen herself, when finally chosen on July 1, will receive a $500 mink stole, courtesy of Swift Company, and many other prizes.

The six girls surviving Monday's elimination will figure prominently in publicity for the Navy Relief Rodeo and Carnival, which is to take place on the afternoons of July 4, 5, 6 and 7.

Home Burned

Marines, Civilians Rally to Support Of Kaneohe Sergeant in Time of Need

Marines and civilians have rallied to the support of Sgt. Donald S. Bugansky and his family whose rented home at Kaaawa was destroyed by fire May 24. Presently confined in Tripler Army Hospital, Sgt. Bugansky is recovering from burns suffered when he rushed into the flaming house to rescue his two daughters. Fortunately, they had already been taken to safety by his wife and a teen age passer-by.

His organization, Headquarters and Maintenance Squadron-13 established a fund on the last payday for Sgt. Bugansky and his family to give them financial assistance. The people of Kaaawa, besides providing clothing and a place to stay for Mrs. Bugansky and her two daughters the night of the fire, also mailed a check for $76.62 to Col. Jack R. Cram, CO, MCAS.

Temporary quarters have been arranged for the Buganskys' by Navy Relief. Permanent quarters aboard the station have been approved and will be available soon.

Other organizations lending financial aid besides H&MS-13 are: MAG-13 Headquarters section, MABS-13 and VMF-232.

The people of the surrounding communities have contributed also.

Merchandise has been received from Kaaawa, Kaneohe and a furniture store in Honolulu stated it will replace a set of china lost in the fire that the Buganskys had purchased from them.

The men of the engineering section of H&MS have also volunteered some of their off duty time. Since Mrs. Bugansky can't drive, and she does have a car, the men have been driving her to see her husband nightly.

14th ND Pistol Shoot On Tap for Tomorrow

Eligibility, fees, awards, rules and events will conform with all previous monthly shoots.

Until September

School Pau for Happy Mokapu Primary Tots

Station elementary school children joyously began annual summer vacations at noon yesterday when Mokapu School closed its doors until September.

Earlier in the week, the school's "graduating" sixth graders and the fifth grade class enjoyed merit recognition ceremonies and entertainment in the auditorium Monday afternoon.

Closing with an enrollment of over 600 students, Mokapu expects to begin the 1957-58 term on Sept. 3 with over 800 students. Four additional teachers and classrooms and an assistant principal will be added, according to Mr. James K. F. Lee, principal.

During the Monday afternoon ceremonies, six sixth graders received leis and congratulations for perfect attendance records during the years. They were: Pat Shivelhood, Joy Williams, Cheryl Sroufe, Larry Cheatum, Pat Newbury and Benny Harrison.

A like number of fifth graders were recognized for not missing a single day's attendance. They were: Jackie Williams, Walter Rathbun, Fagafua Fia, Ann Hutchinson, Theresa Moisan and John Foxworthy.

Mr. Lee, in acknowledging the Junior Police Officers of the school, expressed his appreciation

'Giant' Rescheduled At Sta. Main Theatre

The movie Sunday has been rescheduled due to its length. "Giant" will be shown at 3:30 p.m. and again at 7:30 p.m. Tickets will go on sale one-half hour earlier. "Giant" will be shown Monday at the regimental theater at 6 p.m.

"Giant" is the movie version of a book written by Edna Ferber. It is a lush, gushy story of Texas, Texans, oil and booze and covers a period of some 30 years. This is reduced to three hours, twenty-minutes on the screen.

It stars Rock Hudson, Elizabeth Taylor, James Dean and Mercedes McCambridge. The scenes are all big, the photography excellent and the acting of Rock Hudson is very good.

If it's news, call the WINDWARD MARINE at 72104.

MCTU-1 PAU ON JUNE 30

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif.—Marine Corps Test Unit One based here will be deactivated June 30 after having completed its mission. The unit was formed in July, 1954 at the direction of the Commandant of the Marine Corps to test and evaluate tactics and techniques then under study by the Marine Corps.

During its existence, MCTU-1 has tested the Marine Corps doctrine of vertical assault using helicopters for the movement of troops and equipment in amphibious operations.

In addition, the Unit has participated in tests to determine sound military tactics under conditions of nuclear warfare.

Cowboys to Vie in 'Roughest Sport' At Navy Relief Rodeo July 4 Thru 7

Two hours of bronc riding, brahma bull riding, calf roping, team roping, "bull dogging" and novelty events—this is what will be offered the entire Oahu public over the Fourth of July weekend. Sponsored by the Hawaii Navy Relief Society, the Oahu Championship Rodeo at Furlong Field will include added attractions such as refreshment booths, games of skill and carnival rides.

Competing in what has been called "the world's roughest sport" will be civilian and service cowboys from Hawaii, Maui and Oahu. There will be more than ten rodeo events in all, and for the youngsters there will be a "best dressed cowboy and cowgirl" contest during the intermission. Reigning over the proceedings will be the traditional Rodeo Queen and her attendants.

The Navy Relief Society hopes to raise $20,000 during the July 4 through 7 affair. There will be available on each of the four days 3,500 general admission seats at 90 cents apiece, or 50 cents for children 13 years and under. Six hundred and eighty reserve seats will be $1.50 apiece. There will be 320 box seats sold in blocks of ten at $2.00 per seat.

Rodeo events will begin at 2 p.m. on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons on the July 4th weekend at Furlong Field on Nimitz highway, midway between Pearl Harbor and Honolulu airport.

At the conclusion of the recognition ceremonies, a brief entertainment program was given. Mrs. Wilkins' "Hot'ooters" presented a novelty "Goofis dance." Linda Yost and Diane Garretson danced a traditional hula, accompanied by a choral group, while Bruce Garrison and Billy Carbine delivered accordion solos.

Refreshments and a movie were provided by the Parent Teachers Association.

THE BANKER—As recreation fund custodian, 1st Lt. Robert G. Hendricks Jr., is responsible for the vast sums of money required to operate all phases of Special Services. Using funds derived from both appropriated and non-appropriated sources, Lt. Hendricks "picks up the tab" for new equipment and facilities, labor, routine expenses and similar items. Mrs. Helen Freeman, bookkeeper and accountant for the Recreation Fund, is guardian of the ledgers and check books which record the financial story.

ATHLETIC AND RECREATION OFFICER—1st Lt. Ted Fling (right) inspects one of a new shipment of gloves which are destined for issue to teams of the Brigade and Station intra-mural circuit. TSgt. Dewey Lowe, supply and property chief for Special Services, lends a hand. Lt. Fling keeps an eye on Station sponsored athletic events, varsity sports, the Intra-Station sports program, plus the maintenance of such facilities as athletic fields, theatres, the swimming pool and gym.

BOWLING ALLEYS—One of the latest additions to recreational facilities at K-Bay are the ultra-modern lanes in Bldg. 1090. Shown here during an early stage of construction, the alleys are managed by TSgt. Jim Thresher. A top kegler in his own right, Thresher was captain of the MCAS bowling team last season.

DIRECTORS—As Station Special Services officer, Maj. Boyd Phelps (left) guides the complex operation and administration of his department. Loosely defined by the Marine Corps Manual, the duties of his office are: "to assist commanding officers in maintaining the high morale of the individual marine and his dependents through provision of athletic, recreational, and educational activities for their welfare." Capt. Raymond Cameron (right) serves as assistant to Maj. Phelps.

"SKIPPER" LEO NEAULT is in a large measure responsible for the mushrooming popularity of the Station Boathouse. As NCOIC, TSgt. Neault has been instrumental in promoting the use of boathouse facilities by K-Bay personnel and dependents. A recent attendance figure showed an average of nearly 100 people daily are taking advantage of the opportunity to enjoy water sports at K-Bay's "yacht club."

PARDONABLE PRIDE is evident as Capt. Paymond Cameron (right) and TSgt. George Gillespie watch workmen put the finishing touches to the new stables at Ft. Hase. Built from salvage lumber by men of "C" Co., 7th Engineers, the stables were designed by Capt. Cameron. TSgt. Gillespie is in charge.

ENVIED BY MOST, the life of a professional golfer is not devoid of desk work. Jimmy Ukauka (right) devotes much of his time to planning special events, keeping records, and conducting classes for dependents and military personnel. Sgt. Wally Moretti helps with a tourney calendar.

HEAD LIBRARIAN, Miss Frances Gleim, checks a file of membership cards at the Station library. In charge of both the Station and RCT branches, Miss Gleim must devote a large share of her time to the selection of new volumes. In this she believes that quality is the prime criterion and makes her selections on the basis of a thorough analysis of subject matter, timeliness, national and local popularity, plus a host of other factors.

Work on Jet Fueling Station Starts; Slated for Completion in April '58

Work began Monday at K-Bay on the construction of the new Jet Fueling Station which will be located near the northeast side of hangar 105 near runway 4-22. The construction is being performed by the D. R. Kincaid Construction Company, and is scheduled for completion in early April, 1958. Estimated cost is $574,000, when completed.

The location of the Fueling Station in that area has resulted in the relocation of the MCAS crash crew. The present crash crew office and quarters were vacated this week and will be demolished. Until new quarters, along the eastern side of runway 4-22 are completed in the near future, the crash crew will operate out of hangar 105.

The construction will call for a taxiway lighting system, paving and re-paving some sections near the runway, and the building of two concrete fueling islands.

When planes land and turn about, they will be able to taxi off runway 4-22 directly to the Fueling Station for refueling, and then can be taken by tractor to their parking apron. At the present time, all jet aircraft refueling is done by truck.

The Fueling Station will be fed by a 5,000 barrel capacity tank which will be located near the fuel farm. The work in connection with this tank is included in the overall construction.

When completed, each of the two fuel pumps will be able to pump 600 gallons per minute from each island.

D&B Corps to Play At Pool Dedication

A year ago April when the 1st Marine Brigade's air-ground forces attacked the Barking Sands area of Kauai, Kekaha didn't have a swimming pool. But on July 4 the Brigade's Drum and Bugle Corps will return to help in the dedication of the new pool made possible through the efforts of Kekaha's residents and Navy volunteers from Bonham Auxiliary Landing Field.

The pool, a major undertaking for small Kekaha, has been built by voluntary labor and is a tribute to community determination and spirit.

Shortly after Navy personnel arrived at Bonham, just a few short miles away, a spirit of helpfulness was fired by the hospitality of their civilian neighbors and the challenge of their community project. Twelve men, some from the guided missile group, with the strong approval of the commanding officer of ALF Bonham, Lt. Cdr. L. F. Price, pitched in during their off-duty time to help make Kekaha's dream come true.

The 1st Marine Brigade Drum and Bugle Corps, numbering about 22 men, will leave Kaneohe after lunch July 4 for Bonham. The men will play for the dedication at 6 p.m., remain overnight at Bonham and return to Kaneohe July 5.

Sta. Little Leaguers Play for Polio Fund

The MCAS Kaneohe Little League will join all segments of organized baseball, both amateur and professional, in a national Baseball Polio Day, staged for the purpose of raising funds to help the victims of Infantile Paralysis.

Tomorrow, June 15, is the designated Baseball Polio Day for the Station's Little League, and collections will be made during the scheduled games.

Proceeds will be forwarded to Bob Considine, Chairman Sports Council, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, New York.

FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION SLATED BY WINDWARD GROUPS

Kailua again is preparing to lead the way in safe and sane Independence Day celebrations on Oahu as it has for several years past with a parade in the morning, a full afternoon of entertainment and fireworks in the evening. K-Bay Marines last year were a highlight of the American Legion sponsored parade and similar participation is being requested for this July 4th. Sponsoring organizations for this major community effort, in addition to the Legion, are: Chamber of Commerce of Windward Oahu, Kailua Club, Windward Kiwanis Club and the Windward Rotary Club.

The afternoon festivities at Kailua Beach Park also will have Marine participation. So far, the recreation boathouse personnel are planning a water ski show. No other Marine entertainment has been arranged although the 4th of July committee is desirous of obtaining the services of a musical group for about a 20-minute stint. Outrigger canoe races, polynesian dances, and musical groups, already are scheduled with Windward groups and individuals.

The fireworks display set for the evening of July 4 was a stellar attraction last year. This year the show will be even bigger. Through contributions of Windward businesses, arrangements have been made for a $1,000 display. A tremendous variety of colorful creations will shoot skyward from Flat Island.

Rusnak Top Man In NCO School

Cpl. Kenneth P. Rusnak, "G" Co., 3rd Bn., 4th Marines, was graduated with top honors Tuesday from the fourth class conducted this year at the 1st Marine Brigade's NCO school.

Rusnak graduated with high average of 98.92. The class average was 88.10.

Highlighting the ceremonies in Bldg. 1033 was the presentation of a distinguished achievement award to Cpl. Rusnak by Lt. Cdr. H. George Abbas, USN, (ret.), Vice Commander, American Legion, Department of Hawaii.

SURVEY DAMAGE—SSgt. Malcolm Downey and sons Michael, 3, left, and Lance, 6, survey the damage to their home at 435-A Kainalu dr., Kailua, which was gutted by fire early Tuesday morning. Six-year-old Lance was hero of the tragedy. He first alerted his father, platoon sergeant in "G" Co., 3rd Bn., 4th Marines, to the smoke-filled house enabling him to remove his four children to safety. Mrs. Downey was in the hospital at the time. Temporary quarters aboard the Station have been made available to the Downey family until they are able to secure permanent quarters.

Drum Bugle Corps 'Copter to Shower Orchids on Matsonia

The 1st Marine Brigade Drum and Bugle Corps will perform at the 6th Annual Lanikai Carnival Sunday, June 23. The carnival will be held Saturday and Sunday, June 22-23 at the Lanikai Community Center on Aalapapa Drive in Lanikai. The Drum and Bugle Corps will play at 4:30 p.m.

Sheriff Ken will be at the playground at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. "Uncle Tom" Moffatt, KHVH disc jockey, will conduct a snow contest of Lanikai teenagers. There will be two shows each day, at 3 p.m. and again at 7 p.m.

Included in the carnival are a "Country Store"; "Farmers Market" which offers fresh corn, melons, tomatoes and other vegetables; "Hawaiian Booth" with Hawaiian type items; and a "German Garden" with strolling musicians.

An Italian buffet dinner will be served at 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

Service personnel from Kaneohe Bay have been extended an invitation to attend.

MCAS SNCO Meeting

A meeting of all Staff NCO's attached to Headquarters and Headquarters Squadron will be held in Room Two, Bldg. 267, June 19, at 3 p.m. Purpose of the meeting is to elect two members to the Staff NCO Club Board of Governors.

A novel use for Marine Helicopter Squadron 161's whirlybirds will be demonstrated tomorrow when an HRS disgorges 100,000 flowers over the SS Matsonia as part of gala welcoming ceremonies.

Latest addition to the Matson fleet of white cruise liners, the Matsonia was received festively in New York and on the West Coast before starting her maiden voyage to Hawaii.

Matsonia's Washburn, the chopper's pilot, is due to drop the flowers at about 9:10 a.m. as the gleaming ship nears her berth in Honolulu Harbor for a reception with all of the usual trimmings and a few special added attractions.

There will be a canoe pageant off the ship's starboard side as she approaches the pier. The flowers, probably orchids, are expected to cover the water between the Matsonia and the canoes.

Holiday Routine

Thursday, July 4, which is Independence Day, will be observed as a national holiday by civilian employees, and personnel of the 1st Marine Brigade and Marine Corps Air Station.

Certain personnel will be kept on board to handle emergencies, to provide security and maintenance services, and to meet essential commitments.

Air Station Special Services Encompasses Multitudinous Entertainment Activities

By CPL. BILL EASTBURN

Like many another activity at Kaneohe, the functions of Station Special Services remain a mystery to many, yet scarcely a day passes that its influence is not felt in the lives of every man, woman and child at the Marine Corps Air Station.

The diversity of facilities for recreation and entertainment embraced by the single department is astonishing, and the full scope is not appreciated until an attempt is made to catalog them in full.

Ranging from the magazines in barracks recreation rooms to the productions of stage shows or rodeos, the list of services here at K-Bay is not excelled by any post or station in the Marine Corps.

Behind the scenes of this complex organization is a relatively small group of men and women. The very nature of their work compels them to be on the job when others are seeking relaxation and entertainment.

On the feature page in this issue of the WINDWARD MARINE some are shown as they appear at their routine chores. Space is not available to pay tribute to all but their success is apparent in the great variety of recreational, entertainment, and educational facilities available here.

As set forth in Chapter 17 (Volume I) of the Marine Corps Manual, the degree to which special services can affect the morale and welfare of Marine personnel and their dependents is limited only by the imagination and interest of the commanding officer and his staff.

More specifically, the Manual states that special services will provide for athletic facilities, recreational facilities and educational opportunities.

In the first of these, the aim is to provide opportunity for sports participation by all, regardless of skill or experience. The answer is found in the intra-mural sports program, the varsity level program and the self-directed sports such as tennis, handball, golf, etc.

In providing recreational opportunities for Marines and their dependents, there is seemingly no limit. Movies, bowling alleys, stables, libraries, hobby shops, recreation rooms, hunting and fishing opportunities, live entertainment . . . all come within the design suggested by the MCM.

And as for education, the Station Education Officer is able to help the individual Marine map out a course of study which will prepare him for any field of endeavor. All this at a cost which is partially underwritten by the Marine Corps.

All this points to one conclusion. In a level appraisal, the facilities offered by Special Services are actually a "special service."

NAMEPLATE CHANGE—Cdr. W. T. Peach, III, relinquished the helm of the K-Bay Navy Supply and Fiscal department Wednesday to Cdr. J. D. Miller. To signify the change, Cdr. Peach places Cdr. Miller's nameplate on the desk the latter is now occupying. Cdr. Peach left Wednesday for his new duty station at NAS, North Island, San Diego, Calif. to become a logistic planning officer. Cdr. Miller, who was recently promoted to that rank, was assistant supply officer. He was replaced in that billet by Lt. Cdr. Henry McArdle, who arrived recently from New York.

Hawaii Inter-Service Swim Meet Here

MARINES TAKE 5th STRAIGHT; LEAD HMBL AS SUBPAC LOSES

The Hawaii Marines Baseball team climbed into undisputed possession of first place in the Hawaiian Major League last Tuesday night by virtue of their fifth straight win, a 5-2 victory over Hawaii Air Force while SubPac bowed to Naval Base 3-0, the same evening.

Tomorrow at 2 p.m., Millican Field at Pearl Harbor will be the site of the ninth meeting of the two powerful service nines. The Marines and the Raiders have broken even in their eight contests thus far this season with SubPac having a three-out-of-five edge in Inter-Service competition while the Leathernecks hold the edge in HMBL action, winning two of the clubs' three meetings.

The win over the Air Force put the Leathernecks one half game up on the second place Raiders who now sport an HMBL mark of 18 wins and four losses as against the Marines 18-3 slate.

In other action over the week's play, the Leathernecks were victorious in a pair of Inter-Service League contests. Last Saturday at Ward Field, the locals edged out a 4-3 victory over Naval Base and on the following afternoon no-hit game hurler Jack Vail held Barber's Point to one hit, a double at the sixth inning, to lead the Marines to a 2-0 rout over the Pointers.

Lefty Jim Peterson gave up four hits to Flyer batsmen Tuesday night and led his mates from the plate by smashing a home run in the seventh frame to put the Marines in the top spot in the HMBL.

Peterson also collected a double to become the only Leatherneck to pair base hits during this tilt. Gary Earnest and Hal Norton hit triples to contribute to the local's six hit batting attack.

Saturday's contest with Naval Base found the Navy crew coming close to upsetting the Marines with a three run rally in the ninth inning. Winning pitcher Ron Perry gave up 11 hits while his mates came back with 13 to bring about the 4-3 Leatherneck victory.

Hal Norton led the Leatherneck attack from the plate by knocking out three base hits with Perry, Jack Keller and George Uremovich collecting two each. One of Uremovich's hits was a bases-empty home run in the sixth stanza.

Jack Vail was in top form Sunday afternoon at Risley Field when he handcuffed Barber's Point, striking out 15 of the hapless Pointer batsmen. His teammates supported the Big Guy with an 18 hit outburst including a three run circuit smash by first baseman Hal Norton in the fourth stanza and a two run four-bagger by center fielder Ed Olsen in the second inning.

Norton led the Marine offensive, combining three singles with his home run while Olsen added a double and a single to his circuit blow. Third baseman Jack Keller had three hits in five trips and catcher Mick Taylor and second baseman Charles Smith paired base hits.

Results of the Marine-Red Sox contest Wednesday night were not available at press time.

RECORD HOLDER — "Skeets" Shimizu, veteran Leatherneck merman and holder of two Marine swim records in the 400 and 1500 meter freestyle events, poses during a practice session in preparation for the Hawaii Inter-Service Swimming and Diving meet beginning Thursday at the K-Bay Enlisted Men's Pool.

Competition For Area Title June 20-22 at Station Pool

Beginning Thursday at 7 p.m., K-Bay will host the First Annual Hawaiian Inter-Service Swimming and Diving Meet. The meet is slated to get underway the evening of June 20, at the Enlisted Men's pool with the running of the finals in the 400 and 1500 meter individual medley relay events which will require no trials. The inaugural Inter-Service swim meet will run through Saturday evening with trials for Friday and Saturday's events taking place at 1 p.m. each respective day, the finals commencing at 7 p.m. each evening.

The Marines, who earlier this year captured the Hawaiian AAU Senior Men's Swim crown, will face formidable competition from such standout performers as Army's Ford Konno, 1952 and '56 Olympic star performer and former Big Ten 440 and 1500 yard freestyle champion from Ohio State, and Bob Rinker, last year's Keo Nakama Meet 100 meter freestyle champion. Representing Navy will be the 1955 National AAU Outdoor diving champion Gerry Harrison. The Air Force will be led by Michael Buck, ex-Dartmouth College star and diver Reg Clark.

Honorary referee of the gala three day swim festival will be Lt. Gen.

Edwin A. Pollock, CG FMFPAC.

An added feature of the meet will be an exhibition of synchronized swimming by a group from the Honolulu YWCA under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Wendt. This fine group will perform twice during the Inter-Service affair, one exhibition to be performed Thursday at 6 p.m., and the other to wind up the meet Saturday evening.

This competition will mark the end of Marine Bob Kenny's tenure as a Leatherneck merman. During two years of service swim competition Kenny has helped establish two AIMar records, being a member of last year's AIMar champion Hawaii Marine Swim team. Kenny swam on the record setting 400 meter medley and 800 meter freestyle relay teams in the AIMar meet and has also established himself as a standout performer in Island competition.

Two Marine swimmers, backstroker Bill Austin and freestyler Bob Axt, will not be able to participate in the first annual classic due to illness. Austin has been confined at Tripler Army Hospital with the mumps and Axt has contracted influenza.

Otherwise, swimmer-coach Ivar Svenson and his mermen will be well represented and are the favored team in the Inter-Service meet.

Representing the Leathernecks will be sprinters, Dan Pukahi and John Manion; backstrokers, Herb Kawamoto and "Woody" Prescott; breaststrokers, Ivar Svenson, Lee Holmes, Dave Sharpe, and Herb Shim; divers, Reg Ridgely, Ted Bodnar, Jim Healy, and Melvin Mohr; and distance men, Clarence Holt, Bob Kenny, Chuck Dreyer, "Skeets" Shimizu, and Allen Wakinekona.

SWIMMER COACH—Ivar Svenson (above) and his Hawaii Marine Mermen will face competition from such standouts as 1952 and 1956 Olympic star Ford Konno of the Army's 25th Division in the Area Inter-Service Meet here June 20-22. Konno has recently been elected to the Swimming Hall of Fame.

ServPac Here Tonight

Tex Hinojosa Hurls 2nd No-Hitter Of Season But Loses to SubPac 3-2

Tex Hinojosa hurled his second no-hit softball game of the 1957 season last Wednesday night, June 5 against SubPac, but lost the contest by a count of 3-2. In other action over the week's play the Marines were victorious over the Barber's Pt. Pointers and the Wahiawa Comm. Station Nine to retain their hold on second place in the Inter-Service softball circuit.

Tonight, here at K-Bay the Leathernecks will encounter league leading ComServPac at 8 p.m.

Player-coach Bernie Eilerts has selected Hinojosa to oppose ServPac's ace hurler, Irving Green. The stocky Marine right hander has beaten the Packers twice this season and this evening's contest promises to be another tight pitchers' duel between the Inter-Service league's two best hurlers.

In last Wednesday's contest the Marines were guilty of numerous defensive miscues which spoiled Hinojosa's classic hurling effort and also spelled the Leatherneck's seventh league loss.

Marine batsmen garnered five hits during the contest, each of them singles by "Ike" Ikehara, Clark Christiansen, Dave Kline, George Craig, and Tex Hinojosa.

The locals came back Friday night with a 5-3 victory over Barber's Point at Pointer Field. Winning pitcher John Boyd notched his eighth win of the season as against his record of three defeats. Boyd allowed three base hits, struck out eight, and walked three in fashioning his winning performance.

The locals got things rolling in the first frame when Ken Wedemeyer came through with a single to tally Ikehara and Kline. The Marines countered again in the fourth stanza when Ray Ford singled in Wedemeyer and added another in the fifth on consecutive singles by Eilerts, Craig, and Wedemeyer, who was the leading Leatherneck batter in the tilt with three hits in four attempts.

The victors added another insurance run in the sixth when pinch-hitter Hinojosa singled in Ikehara.

Monday night the Marines hosted third place Wahiawa Comm. Station and walked off with a 6-1 triumph. The victory gave the locals a 17-7 won, lost mark for the season and was winning pitcher Hinojosa's ninth triumph. The Marine ace allowed two hits, one of them a triple in the fourth inning which was converted into the Navy team's lone tally later in the same stanza.

The locals accumulated a total of three hits including doubles by Hinojosa and Clark Christiansen, the latter's hit driving in the Marines' fifth and sixth runs. The Leatherneck shortstop delivered his timely blow in the fifth inning with Craig and Hinojosa aboard.

Results of the Marine-Naval Base contest Wednesday night were not available at press time.

10th PLACE—And a certificate as a Distinguished Marksman went to SSgt. Michael Pietroforte of MCAS in this year's AIMar Rifle Match held June 5-6 at Camp Matthews, Calif. Pietroforte compiled an aggregate score of 564x600. First place in the match went to Sgt. Claude W. Lemond of Weapons Training Bn., Camp Matthews, who shot a 570x600.

LITTLE LEAGUE HOME RUN LEADER—Gray Hutchinson of the 4th Marines Dragons grins as he accepts an autographed baseball from Col. Bryghte D. Godbold, CO, 4th Marines, in commemoration of his third home run of the 1957 MCAS Little League season. The ball was signed by Brig. Gen. Avery R. Kier, CG, 1st Marine Brigade, Col. Jack R. Cram, CO MCAS, Col. Elmer T. Dorsey, CO MAG-13, C. D. Mize, team manager, and J. E. Bresette, league president.

Fia Brothers Lead Brigade Giants To First Place in Little League

Sparkling play in the major division of the MCAS Kaneohe Little League in the second half of the season's games have been the Fia brothers, Fagafua and Mafua. In their latest effort against the MCAS Flyers last Tuesday, winning pitcher Mafua held the Flyers to two hits and Fagafua led the Giants from the plate with three hits in four trips. Mafua contributed two hits in four tries from the plate to support his own effort.

THURSDAY, JUNE 6
Giants 6—Dragons 0

Fagafua Fia led his teammates to a victory over the Dragons by hurling a one-hitter and leading his mates from the plate with two hits in four tries. Losing pitcher Gray Hutchinson struck out nine Giants but walked 10.

SATURDAY, JUNE 8
Giants 10—Skyraiders 9

The Skyraiders came close to upsetting the First Section champions in this extra inning tilt. The Giants' Mike Smock pitched the first seven frames but was then removed on account of a Little League regulation. The stellar Giant performer blasted out his first home run of the season during this contest and also banged out a single.

Allan Klimek led Giant batsmen with three hits in four attempts followed by Fagafua Fia with three for five. Smock was relieved by Mafua Fia in the eighth inning who also took the credit for the win.

Tolia Solita sparked the loser's hitting efforts with three hits in four tries. Bob Stephan was the losing pitcher.

Dragons 13—Flyers 2

Displaying the form which beat the Skyraiders in the Second Section opener, Rod Nicol bested Flyer hurler Bobby Atwood to record a 13-2 triumph. Terry Hitchcox topped the winners' batting efforts by garnering two hits in four attempts.

TUESDAY, JUNE 11
Giants 9—Flyers 0

Once again the Fia brothers teamed up to notch another victory for the Giants. Winning hurler Mafua allowed only two hits and garnered two out of four trips himself. Brother Fagafua led all Giant batsmen with three hits in four attempts. Losing pitcher was Don Smith.

Pony League Indians Beaten by White Sox

The E-Bay Indians dropped a tilt to the Kailua White Sox last Sunday afternoon by a score of 3-1. Losing pitcher Milo Solita garnered the lone Indian tally in the first inning with a 290 foot home run. Reliever Bill Martin allowed one hit in his three inning tour on the mound for the MCAS team. Both teams totaled three hits with Sammy Meyers getting credit for the victory.

Aku-Marines

By JACK FISHER

Bill Borgman and Larry Windley, past president of the Aku-Marines, teamed up last Saturday to make one of the most thrilling catches recorded in these Islands during recent years.

Their little 14-foot boat had just anchored in the rocky waters near Moku Manu when they spotted a seven and a half foot sand shark directly below them. They quickly exchanged their lightweight spear fishing equipment for heavy duty arbaletes with hammer heads and then dove to engage the big one in a battle that was to require all the strength and know-how they could muster.

Easing in slowly, the divers approached within a scant few feet when Larry let loose the first spear and drove the heavy shaft eight inches into the solid flesh between the gill and eye. Things happened quickly and violently after that, but Bill pulled even closer and from little more than an arm's length away, plunged his spear deeply into the same spot as the first one.

Now the test of endurance and skill of both man and shark began. To keep the shark swimming in circles, Larry clung tenaciously to the spears, and Bill in a slowing-up technique, locked his arms around the small part of the shark's body adjoining the tail.

Using techniques of his own, the shark flipped and tugged and rolled against the sharp coral in an effort to brush off the hangers-on. At times, one or the other of the divers had to turn loose to avoid being crushed, but the shark's vigorous maneuvers failed to dislodge them permanently.

Although still struggling, the shark tired to the point where Bill and Larry could steer it to the surface and the boat, but even with the help of two other members of their party, Bill Lang and Gerald Kelley, they couldn't subdue the unwieldy creature enough to boat it.

Failing this, they tried to "drown" it by towing it tail first behind the boat. This was only a partial success and many tugs, pulls and pushes later, the 275 pound brawler lay thrashing but beaten on the bottom of the boat.

Larry and Bill both disclaim any desire to become shark killers, but they and other club members have felt that some reliable first hand information about sharks was needed to give local divers a better understanding of what they were up against should they have an encounter with one.

Their findings and conclusions are decidedly helpful to the average skin diver who needs to know what to do under such circumstances, but for the diver who wants to fight them, there are words of caution: Don't do it until you've thoroughly discussed the subject with someone who has had experience. After that you won't want to.
