K-Bayites Begin Clean-up; Fire Inspection Due Soon

Today through Mar. 14 has been designated as "National Clean-up Week."

All K-Bayites are urged to turn to clean up, and make their homes and working areas "fire safe."

Says Wally Froiseth, District Fire Inspector: "a clean building seldom burns." He adds that the first line of defense against a fire is just plain, ordinary good house-keeping.

And National Clean-up Week is timed appropriately. Mar. 16-20 happens to be quarters inspection week aboard the Station.

What will they be looking for? Anything that could possibly create a fire hazard. This might include frayed electrical cords, unguarded wiring, switch plates, rubbish accumulation, flammables, and so on.

Considered one of the biggest headaches in the fire inspection business is the container for flammable liquids. According to Mr. Froiseth, only all-metal approved type (OK'd by Underwriters Laboratories) are authorized to be used aboard the Station.

AIR MEDAL — Capt. P. F. Cameron Jr., Station Flight Clearance (r), receives congratulations from Col. P. T. Johnston, Station CO, after the Colonel presented him an Air Medal with four bronze stars. Capt. Cameron received the awards for flying combat missions with HMM-162 in Vietnam Jan.-Mar. 1963.

HERE'S HOW — LCpl. V. M. Fisher, VMF-212 plane captain (l), demonstrates the proper way of disconnecting tie-down chains during pre-flight inspection of an aircraft to LCpl. J. M. Porter, the first to be graduated from the cross-training program conducted within the squadron.

Ordnanceman Cross Trains As VMF-212 Plane Captain

By Cpl. A. A. Denes
VMF-212's newly established cross-training program graduated its first plane captain last week with LCpl. J. M. Porter, squadron ordnanceman, receiving his qualification certificate from LtCol. J. J. Leogue, squadron CO.

Cpl. Porter kicked off the new program two weeks ago, beginning instruction under the watchful eyes of learned plane captains and squadron officers.

Cross-training is designed to school Marines, who hold an associated MOS, on the duties of the plane captain.

This training will provide qualified men to fill vacancies caused by rotating personnel. It will also enable the squadron to have stand-by captains needed for field and carrier operations.

Course of study for the program consists of schooling on daily and pre-flight inspections, airworthiness of the aircraft prior to flight, assisting the pilot in flight preparation and appraising the material condition of the aircraft.

Prospective students for the program are carefully screened to insure they possess the mechanical capability, integrity and desire to accept the high degree of responsibility.

To receive a completion certificate the student must pass a written examination and a flight-line application test.

The course, for one man at a time, does not have a set length as does most service training. How quickly the student becomes qualified varies according to the ability of the individual.

Lenten Sacrifices Offer Remedial Medicines for 'Spiritual Arthritis'

By Chaplain L. D. Ward

"Dust thou art and to dust thou shalt return" is the keynote to Lent and these few words are a gripping reminder of the true values capable of taking the strut out of any man and cutting Mr. Self-Importance, Mr. Swagger, and Mr. and Mrs. V.I.P. down to midget size.

It can take the chestiness and arrogance out of the human system in any fair trial. It can produce charity, patience, restraint and tolerance in a day of excesses, soft living and luxury served ala-king. It calls for sacrifice, a giving up of things.

The trouble is that this is an era when many people think that they are going all out for sacrifice when they lay up the big car, skip a cocktail party and avoid a third helping of hors d'oeuvres.

Never in history have so many had it so good for so long and accepted it with so little appreciation. And in the Ash-Wednesday-to-Easter season, the realization of this sinks away down deep, unless you have spiritual arthritis, hardening of the soul and a hole in your sense of proportion.

Hickam Aero Club Invites K-Bayites to Learn to Fly

K-Bayites interested in learning to fly are invited to join the Hickam Aero Club at Wheeler Air Force Base.

The Hickam Aero Club has an FAA approved flying school with FAA certified flight instructors to furnish all training desired from novice to expert.

The ground instructions cover pre-flight inspections of aircraft, theory of flight, radio and dead reckon-

Taxes Go Down; Pay's Up

If you notice a little extra "take home" pay next payday it's okay, you haven't been overpaid.

Marines, Navymen and civilians at K-Bay, like all other Americans across the globe, will be enjoying the recent tax cut that will have taxpayers more than $800 million each month.

Effective Wednesday, the new tax bill was signed into law by President Johnson Feb. 26. The Senate approved the bill 74 to 19.

In the past an individual was taxed 18 percent of his income. Under the new bill the percentage has dropped to 14.

Depending upon a serviceman's base pay and the number of exemptions, a partial table, based on a month's pay, follows. Your own personal tax rates can be obtained by checking with Station Disbursing between paydays.

Brigade Aggressor Force 'Under Fire' As 3dMarDiv Slams Taiwan Beaches

U. S. Marines based in the Far East met U. S. Marines based in Hawaii Tuesday on the beaches and in the hills of Southwestern Taiwan.

It was D-Day for Operation "Back Pack" and the two elements met in simulated combat.

Some 40,000 fighting men, 85 ships and 300 aircraft are sharing in the action.

Dispatches from the Command Information Bureau aboard the USS Currituck report four BLTs from the 3d-MarDiv in the amphibious assault.

At 8 o'clock sharp Tuesday morning, two BLTs rolled across the black sands of Southwestern Taiwan beaches in amtracs.

LtCol. A. I. Thomas's BLT-1/4, as aggressors, greeted the assault forces with all the opposition the First Brigade BLT could muster within the framework of TEC planning.

While two 3dMarDiv BLTs slammed across the beaches, a third landing team prepared for vertical assault aboard helicopters launched from the USS Iwo Jima. They were ordered in two hours after the first waves crossed the beaches.

Still another BLT remained in reserve aboard Seventh Fleet amphibious task force ships.

Landing forces lost little time in penetrating aggressor defenses of an old airfield, dispatches say. The field was soon receiving and launching jet fighters and attack bombers of the 1st-

MAW flying in support of assault forces on the ground.

Enroute to the assault area, the task force took on—and repelled—attacks by aggressor submarines and aircraft.

Keeping with the realism of the exercise, the force was also resupplied at sea by an eight-ship replenishment group.

Backloading of Marines is scheduled to begin next Wednesday. The exercise ends Mar. 16.

K-Bay's Annual Red Cross Fund Drive Starts Mar. 15

K-Bay's Annual Red Cross Fund Drive will be conducted Mar. 15 through Apr. 16.

"We processed more than 1363 requests for emergency leave and nearly 2030 wire communications regarding health and welfare in 1963," said Mr. Cliff H. Hadley, K-Bay's Red Cross Director. "We also gave financial assistance amounting to over $48,000."

President Johnson started the national drive this week with a proclamation naming March as Red Cross Month.

Said the President, the Red Cross is essential to the United States and to the welfare of its people.

Other military leaders joined with the President in a salute to the ARC which, according to ARC figures, spent more than $38 million in 1963 to aid men and women in the Armed Forces, veterans and their families.

tainer features a spring-loaded cap assuring no spillage in case of upset. It also confines explosive vapors within the can.

Mr. Froiseth also cautions K-Bayites that all screw-on types can easily come loose and spill out in your home or car. Even more dangerous is their accessibility to small children.

"We consider this type to be taboo," he emphasized.

Total fire losses within the 14th Naval District amounted to $25,461.14 during the past calendar year. Of this, $24,589.54 was sustained by living quarters alone.

Here at K-Bay fire damage cost the government $903.80.

"This was a low, enviable record," said Maj. E. Rudolph, Assistant Station S-2 and Fire Prevention Officer. "Let's all shoot for a better mark this year."

THIRTY YEARS SERVICE — Stanley Paremba, Public Works (I), received his 30-year Length of Service Certificate last week from Col. P. T. Johnston, Station CO (c). W. E. Hooper, Mr. Paremba's supervisor, looks on. Mr. Paremba is a Quartermaster in the Maintenance Section.

Station Readiness Lauded In ORI; 'Best Response'

"This was the best response to an Operational Readiness Inspection I have seen in four years in this area," commented RAdm. C. H. Duerfeldt here last week during the critique of the Station's annual ORI.

In addition to the Admiral's praise of the Air Station's reflexes, his inspecting staff from 14th Naval District commands and from the Naval Station, Midway, singled out the Station Communications Department for an "outstanding" rating.

Another inspection party was "quite impressed" with the alertness, neatness and knowledge shown by the Station's

Wednesday night, if a telephone or radio went out, the Comm people had us back on the air in less than 10 minutes."

His security force was augmented by more than 130 Marines of L-3/4 commanded by Capt. D. T. Dale. In addition to the Brigade Marines, other Station sections provided reinforcements to beef up the ground defenses. In all, 25 aggressors were tagged during the night. They were from Marine Barracks, Pearl Harbor.

During the battle phase of the inspection Thursday morning, the inspectors threw in nearly every conceivable problem for the Air Station Commanding Officer, Col. P. T. Johnston, and his staffs to counter.

Command Center One carried the play of the problem until about 10:10 a.m., when the Senior Observer, Navy Capt. G. W. Davis V, CO of Midway, declared the CC "out of action."

Command Center Two, under the direction of the Station ExO, LtCol. R. F. Shields, immediately swung into action and continued countering the situations for the remainder of the CPX. Meanwhile, the Disaster

Control Unit, headed by LtCol. G. H. Benskin, had set up its mobile vans in the Ft. Hase area ready to spring to action on orders. The mobile unit, however, was not called into the problem's action but Adm. Duerfeldt visited the site to inspect the unit.

A detailed evaluation of the annual inspection is now being prepared by Adm. Duerfeldt's staff.

PROBLEM PRESENTED — RAdm. C. H. Duerfeldt (c), Commander of 14ND Air Bases, briefs Station CO, Col. P. T. Johnston (l), on the play of the problem conducted Thursday morning. Capt. G. W. Davis V, (r), CO of Midway Island Naval Station and Chief Observer of the ORI, looks on.

MEANWHILE . . . — While CC#1 was carrying the problem since its inception, Command Center #2 was following every move of the exercise. Air Station ExO, LtCol. R. F. Shields (r) CC#2 commander, passes on an order to LtCol. R. R. Klingman (c) and Operation Chief GySgt. W. E. Eggebraaten. Shortly after 10 a.m. CC#2 became the Air Station's CP when CC#1 was declared "out of operation."

utensils, the O-Wives Hospitality Committee is tailor-made for you.

Mary Jane Morrissey and Margaret Ann Dunwell are guardians of the kits which contain many housekeeping items.

According to Mary Jane, the kits contain everything needed in the kitchen except the groceries.

Two ironing boards, two irons, one crib and a high chair are also available for use.

A small fee of $1 per month is assessed for the use of the kits to help replace or repair needed items.

Pass the word along, gals. There's no need to eat off napkins while your things are in transit, storage or being packed by the movers.

Call Mary Jane at 252-552 or Margaret Ann at 253-561. They'll take care of your temporary housekeeping needs.
