

Senate Approves Pay Bill; House Passage Expected

The Senate passed a 2.5 per cent military pay raise Monday for all officers and enlisted personnel with more than two years service.

Officers with less than two years would receive an 8.5 per cent raise, but enlisted men with less than two years would be left out of the proposed hike.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said, "My only criticism is that it (the pay bill) is not large enough."

Senator Richard B. Russell, (D-Ga.), who pushed the increase through the Senate in a record time, said that he expected the House to pass the bill without major changes.

This could send the measure on to President Johnson in time for the fatter military pay envelopes to begin next month or in September.

The Senate approved version, increases would range from $49 per month for top generals and admirals down to $3 per month for privates and recruits with two years prior service.

Sample increases for officers and EM with two or more years of service, based on average length of service and present pay are:

O-10, $49 over their present $1970; O-9, $45 on $1758; O-8, $36 on $1429; O-6, $25 on $1000; O-4, $18 on $700; O-2, $14 on $500; E-9, $12 on $485; E-7, $9 on $360; E-5, $6 on $255; E-3, $4 on $149, and a $3 boost for E-1's with more than two years service.

The Senate version of the bill will cost an estimated $202 million annually or about $8 million more than the Department of Defense proposed pay raise.

A Man's Personal Problems Could Be More Spiritual than He Realizes

By Chaplain R. R. Smith

Very few men come to the Chaplain's office and say, "Chaplain, I have a spiritual problem." If they were asked, most men would deny their problem was spiritual; instead they would say "No my problem is with my marriage, or my drinking, or my relationships in the company."

Too often what we seek in the way of assistance is only the relief of annoying symptoms, not the rooting out of the cause of our problems.

None of us would care to go to a physician, who merely gave us temporary relief from pain and let the cause of our illness go unchecked.

We consult a doctor because we trust he will find out what is really wrong and prescribe a cure.

Jesus warned us to clean the inside of the dish first before we worried about the appearance of the outside. Perhaps, we are too prone to see only the external side of our problems.

If we go deep enough, sometimes the most obvious problems have deep spiritual roots. The Psalmist said, "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me."

Search your heart in the light of God's truth. Your problems could be more spiritual than you realize.

CMC Congratulates All Hands — Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, has directed the following message to all hands:

"A milestone was reached during the 4th of July weekend, when the Marine Corps did not suffer a single traffic fatality. This is a tremendous achievement. FMF Units Now Receiving New Long Range Radios

Two field radios expressly designed and developed for the Marine Corps are now being phased into FMF units.

HQMC officials said last week the radios, designated AN/PRC-41 and AN/PRC-47, are replacing the MAY radio and the AN/GRC-9 respectively.

Acceptance of the new radios is expected to give tactical communications an extensive boost.

The AN/PRC-41 is a ground-to-air radio. The "41" offers a choice of 1750 channels as compared to the four-channel MAY set.

It is also lighter than its predecessor and has a longer range. The new model permits communication with aircraft as far as 100 miles away.

Infantry battalions, artillery units, division headquarters, and reconnaissance units are receiving the "41". It will be used primarily by forward air control parties.

The AN/PRC-47 is a two-man packed radio which can also be mounted in a quarter-ton truck. It provides medium range communications at distances up to 50 miles. The "47" is designed for battalion or higher echelon use.

Both radios were service tested at the Landing Force Development Center at Quantico.

The new radios are also being used by the Army, Navy and Air Force.

LDO and WO Programs Get New Changes

Certain changes in the FY 1965 Limited Duty and Warrant Officer Programs have been approved by CMC.

According to HQMC officials, the most important change in the LDO and WO programs for this fiscal year is an extension on the deadline date for submission of applications.

Marines now have until August 19 to seek nomination for the programs.

Another change is the addition of Category III MOS's to the list of occupational specialties in which Marines may be appointed warrant officers.

These MOS's include: 0302, Infantry Officer; 0802, Artillery Officer; 1802, Tank Officer; 1803, Amphibian Tractor Officer; 2502, Communications Officer; and 4915, Range Officer.

Marines selected for appointment to these MOS's will carry the title "Marine Gunner" and will wear the distinctive "bursting bomb" insignia.

Senior School Revises Requirements; Workshop Replaces Platform Lecture

In the future only lieutenant colonels and majors who complete resident Junior School or the Junior School correspondence course of the Marine Corps Extension School will be assigned to the revamped Senior School at Quantico.

The Senior School has discarded the platform lecture method in favor of a new "field grade officers workshop", created to stimulate critical thinking, and provide an atmosphere conducive to the serious contemplation and resolution of problems that the field grade officer can expect to encounter in and out of the FMF.

The new concepts will be phased into effect beginning in the next academic year with at least three years allowed for completion.

The course has eliminated the previous concentration on fundamentals, knowledge of which, officers are assumed to have attained by the time they reach Senior School.

Prospective student officers are expected to be aided by a reading program for which they will be furnished a reading list prior to reporting to Quantico.

Some of the subjects will cover the area of political-military theory, foreign policy, treaty obligations and mutual defense agreements.

The Marine Corps Schools educators emphasize the fact that the primary objective is to prepare officers to win battles on the battlefield; however, they realize that the military commander must be an educated man, well-versed in political-military relationships and geo-political affairs.

He must also understand the utilization of emergency actions short of war.

While not attempting to reach the War College level nor to decry the past courses as obsolete, Marine Corps Schools has revised the course to prepare lieutenant colonels and majors better for command at regiment-group level and for staff duty at the division-wing level.

Language instruction in French or Spanish, previously spread over the entire school year, will be concentrated into a shorter period. The course of instruction will remain at 100 hours but has been designed to give the student the continuity required to absorb a conversational language.
