Work crews, under the supervision of Navy Lt. (jg) T. H. Wilson, Training Officer, include two carpenter crews, a mason crew, a pipe layer crew, and a plumber crew.

The construction men are presently working at Riseley Field, Pyramid Rock Recreation Area, and the Skeet Range.

At Riseley Field the crews are erecting new rest room facilities including the installations of approximately 500 feet of water line.

Pyramid Rock Recreation Area is receiving a new picnic shelter and is also being equipped with rest rooms.

The "Seabees" are also bringing a water line into the Skeet Range, and constructing both a high house and a new trap house. Previously the Skeet Range had no water facility.

Division 11-7 is composed of five officers and 35 enlisted men who volunteered for the ten days of training. This training is in addition to their regularly scheduled two-week training sessions.

The "Seabees" are scheduled to depart Aug. 31 for Santa Ana.

Anti-Tankers To Maneuver on Hawaii

The Brigade's tank-killers the "Ontos," will make their first trip to a neighbor island Wednesday when the Anti-Tanks Marines depart for three weeks of training at Pohakuloa on the Big Island.

After their arrival by LST, the Ontos will be driven cross country from Kawaihae to the Pohakuloa training area.

The Anti-Tankers will conduct company size maneuvers with their new M50A1 Ontos, and their motor transport and headquarters platoons during their stay on the Big Island.

An Ontos tactical test, which will include live-firing, and will determine the company's "top gun", will also be included in the training.

The Anti-Tankers hosted approximately 100 dependents of company Marines at an "Open House" and picnic last Saturday.

The event was staged to coincide with the company's departure.

Capt. H. L. Mills, Anti-Tanks CO, welcomed the dependents and discussed the future training of the company and the role of the Ontos in the Marine Corps.

The dependents then toured the Ontos Park where they saw motor transport, communications and weapons displays.

An Ontos demonstration including precision driving formations and loading techniques were also included in the days activities which were climaxed with a picnic at Pyramid Rock recreation area.

The Anti-Tankers are scheduled to return to K-Bay Sept. 24.

In Second Training Week

HMM-764 Reserves To Fly Instrument, Airlift Flights

Members of HMM-764 worked hand-in-hand with Leathernecks of HMM-161 this week as the Los Alamitos Marine Air Reservists began logging in their annual two weeks of active duty training.

The squadron, which arrived here last Saturday, is commanded by LtCol. F. W. Folk. Acting as host unit for the reserves during their visit is LtCol. L. J. Englehardt's HMM-161.

Flight schedules for the first week began with a sightseeing and orientation tour of the island for all hands Monday.

Marine Reservists flying in co-pilot positions assisted the "regulars" of HMM-161 in lifting 300 Army troops from Wheeler to Puukapu near Schofield; flew assistance flights for the Guerrilla Warfare School; airlifted a company of Marines from 3/4 and ended this week with over water flights to the island of Kauai.

Scheduled for next week are night instrument flights, more local training hops and another airlift of 4th Marines troops. HMM-764 will bid aloha to Kaneohe Sunday, Sept. 6, and fly back to the Mainland in KC-130F aircraft.

THE RESERVES HAVE LANDED—BrigGen. M. E. Carl, Brigade CG (c) bids "Aloha" to LtCol. R. W. Folk, HMM-764 CO (l) as Col. R. H. Spanjer, MAG-13 CO looks on. The Reserve helicopter squadron, based at NAS, Los Alamitos, Calif., arrived at K-Bay, last Saturday, for two weeks of active training with HMM-161.

Gen. McMath, presently on two weeks active duty with the Marine Corps Reserve, arrived at Honolulu International Airport last Sunday, where he was greeted by BrigGen. M. E. Carl, Brigade CG.

First stop on the General's itinerary Monday was Brigade Schools where he spoke with instructors and students of the Officers Embarkation Course and Shore Party Course. The courses are being conducted by instructors from LFTU, Pac.

At 10:45 Gen. McMath joined Adm. Moorer and LtGen. V. H. Krulak, FMFPac CG, to see the live-firing demonstration. They were introduced to a rifle squad from the 4th Marines by Col. E. P. Dupras, CO 4th Marines.

While at the live-fire range the party also witnessed the Marine Corps' tank killer, the "Ontos," in action, and watched as flame throwers, rocket launchers, and mortars were fired.

After the firing demonstration, infantrymen from the 4th Marines staged an amphibious raid on Ft. Hase Beach utilizing amphibious tractors.

Adm. Moorer, Gen. Krulak, and Gen. McMath ate lunch with NCOs of the Brigade in Messhall #2. They then toured MAG-13 and saw static displays of the aircraft employed by the Group.

They also visited 1st RadBn., for a briefing on the battalion's mission and equipment.

Adm. Moorer departed the Air Station by helicopter at 2 p.m.

Monthly Test Set for Sirens

K-Bay's sirens will be tested next Tuesday at 30 seconds prior to 11 a.m.

The tests are conducted monthly in connection with the sounding of the Civil Defense sirens on the island of Oahu. These tests ensure that each siren is operative.

Air raid tests will consist of a steady blast of one minute duration followed by one minute of silence, then one minute of the wailing "TAKE COVER" signal.

The tidal wave warning system will be tested one minute after the wailing tone ends. This is a one minute steady blast.

Announcements over the Station Public Address System will precede the tests.

Pledge Aid to 'Molly Marine'

WMs Hold Third Reunion, Institute Scholarship Fund

The curtain has rung down on the Third Reunion of the Women Marines Association. The Association motto might well be, "In peace as in war, few but efficient."

Founded in 1959-60 by Maj. Jean Durfee, USMCR, the Association held its first reunion in July 1960. At that time, the members decided the reunions would be held bi-annually.

Although the present membership is 800 less than battalion strength, the Association has six active chapters.

One thousand dollars have been set aside in a scholarship fund. In the Fall of 1965, the fund will send the child of a World War II, or later, Woman Reservist (or the grandchild of a World War I Marine) to college.

In addition, the Women Marines Association is backing the efforts to re-furbish "Molly Marine." Molly, a statue of a World War II Woman Marine, is the first monument dedicated to American Service Women. She was dedicated in New Orleans on Nov. 10, 1943, where she still stands.

According to Col. Barbara Bishop, Director of Women Marines and a keynote speaker at the reunion, "There is no doubt of the enthusiastic loyalty of the Association's membership."

Ballot Box Offers Citizens Sure Protection of Rights

By Chaplain K. M. Loughman

Offensive and oppressive laws had been levied on the early American colonists. Changes had to be made.

In 1776 patriots fought for these changes. Men died to gain representation in government.

From your days in grade school you remember such names as the Stamp Act, the Townsend Act, the Sugar and Molasses Act and the other Navigation Acts.

These laws imposed new taxes, closed ports and denied citizens their political rights. These very same things are happening today in many parts of the world.

They can even happen again in our own country. In fact, they will happen at home unless we guard what we have.

The election this November will determine how you will live for the next four years. Make that decision yourself. Vote this year.

America's Newest Amphibious Assault Ship Launched—Mrs. W. M. Greene Jr., wife of the Commandant of the Marine Corps, christened the nation's newest amphibious assault ship, the U.S.S. GUAM (PH-9), in ceremonies at the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard last Saturday.

The GUAM slid down the ways after Mrs. Greene broke a bottle of champagne across the bow.

Gen. Greene gave an address preceding the christening.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Military Vicar of the Armed Forces, was an honored guest at the Association banquet in New York.

LtGen. L. B. "Chesty" Puller, USMC, Ret., received the original painting used for the paper back edition of Marine: The Story of LtGen. Lewis B. (Chesty) Puller, USMC, Ret.

The East Coast Reunion will be held in Washington, D.C. The city and date for the West Coast Reunion has not been selected as yet. This year it was in San Francisco.

Former WWII SSgt To Head 3d MarDiv Association—The 3d Marine Division Association elected Harold J. Melloy, Knoxville, Tenn. businessman and a staff sergeant during WWII, as new president. He succeeds CWO Thomas O. Kelly, USMC, Ret., Annandale, Va., who served two terms as president.

Night Construction, Day Firing

B-Engineers Busy Building New Moving-Target Range

Work on the new moving target range at the Station's Rifle Range moved into full swing Monday evening when 15 members of B-Engineers began working a night shift.

According to Sgt. B. K. Brown, construction foreman, the Engineers are working at night on the new range located at the base of Ulupau Crater so that day-time range firing can continue.

Project officer for the range construction is 2dLt. H. A. Tompkins.

Sgt. Brown says that construction on the range began several weeks ago when Sgt. D. E. Short and four heavy equipment operators began to clear and level the area.

They built the berm (mound of earth in front of the butts) next and then dug a trench in which the tracks for the target will be installed.

Sgt. Brown added that the new range is being installed to enable Marines to increase their marksmanship proficiency by sighting in on moving targets.

The target will consist of a bomb trailer which will be towed back and forth on the tracks by cables attached to each end of the trailer.

The cable will be looped and run to bunkers at each end of the butts from which Marines can safely operate the targets.

The bunker at the left end will allow entry of a Mitey-Mite vehicle, which, with one wheel removed and the cable placed on the wheel drum, will allow the operator to utilize the forward and reverse gears to control the target's direction.

According to 1stLt. G. W. Bean, Rifle Range OIC, there is no prescribed firing line and Marines will be able to fire at the target from any position.

He added that the 3.5 rocket launcher which is not presently being fired at the range, can fire practice rounds on the new range.

In addition the .50 caliber spotting rifles on the Ontos can also be fired on the new range. The range can also be adapted for the use of machine guns.

Sgt. Brown added that the Engineers expect to complete work on the new range in approximately three weeks.

'Top Squad' Shaping-Up To Ship Out For Quantico Competition Next Month

Practice Makes Perfect!

This adage is symbolic of the training schedule followed by the Brigade's Competition Squad as they prepare for the 7th Annual Squad Combat Practice Competition to be held Sept. 21-23 at Quantico, Va.

The F-2/4 squad, led by Sgt. R. W. Bradley, lists squad tactics, fire control, combat orders and physical conditioning on their schedule to condition the squad for the contest at Quantico.

The physical conditioning consists of calisthenics and a daily five-mile run aboard the Station.

According to Sgt. Bradley, all classes and practical application sessions are conducted and supervised by team leaders and himself.

The squad was selected from among the Brigade's 108 rifle squads, in competition held earlier this month at Kahuku Training area.

The squad is scheduled to fly to Quantico Sept. 15.

While at Quantico, the Brigade's "Best" will compete with eight other rifle squads, and he tested on helicopter lift procedures, combat orders, formations, night patrolling, and defensive combat.

Individual marksmanship, as well as squad accuracy and fire and maneuver, will be stressed.

Each of the squads will be graded by umpires from Marine Corps Schools, Quantico.

Prior to the competition, the squad will be briefed on the purpose, general and special situations, and safety instructions during the exercise. The squads will also be inspected for completeness and readiness of equipment.

Awards for the Corps "Top Squad" will be presented at Marine Barracks, Washington D.C. Sept. 25 at the Evening Parade.

The eyes of the umpire will also be focused on the squad leader, Sgt. Bradley, as they judge him on his ability to coordinate his fire teams, and his ability to control his squad in emergency situations.

On Kailua Beach

Collector Finds 29-Pound Glass Ball

By PFC. R. K. Sandbank

A rolling surf along a Hawaiian beach on a moonlit night can mean more than romance.

It can mean excitement and reward for a part time beachcomber whose hobby is collecting the glass balls which float thousands of miles across the Pacific and come to rest on the beaches of Hawaii.

It meant just that for Sgt. M. E. Brown, 1stRadBn., communications technician, on the night of Aug. 13.

While making one of his frequent nightly searches of the beach near his Kailua home, Sgt. Brown came upon the latest and largest addition to his collection.

The ball, which measures 56 inches in circumference and weighs 29 pounds, is believed to be one of the largest of its kind.

Sgt. Brown said, "I thought it odd when I first heard about people wandering along the beaches at all hours of the night looking for glass balls, until I found my first one. I then realized their beauty and became a collector myself."

Sgt. Brown started his collection with a 30-inch ball which he found while fishing on Kailua Beach.

In the three weeks following his first find, Sgt. Brown has made a nightly trek to the beach and has expanded his collection of the Japanese made sphere to 11.

The balls range in size from two and one-half to 18 inches in diameter and are pale green in color.

Sgt. Brown said, "Although they are often used as show pieces, the spheres are actually functional equipment used by Japanese fishermen to float their gigantic nets."

He plans to use his latest find as a center piece in a magazine rack that he is making.

WHAT A MARBLE!—Sgt. M. E. Brown, 1stRadBn., says "catch" to Christopher Carpenter (l), son of Maj. and Mrs. H. V. Carpenter, and Michael Smith, son of Maj. and Mrs. R. J. Smith. The ball is thought to be one of the largest of the glass spheres used by Japanese fishermen to float their nets.

DoD Approves Development of 'COIN' Rugged Counter-Insurgency Aircraft

A new counter-insurgency (COIN) aircraft, termed an airborne equivalent of the "jeep," is scheduled for its first flight in about one year.

Development of the COIN aircraft has been approved by Secretary of Defense R.S. McNamara. The program calls for "an aircraft designed specifically for air support of counter-insurgency and limited war operations."

The Marine Corps initially stated the formal requirement for a light armed reconnaissance aircraft and the Air Force subsequently confirmed the need.

The Navy, named as the development agency, has ordered construction of seven prototype aircraft at a cost of approximately $18 million.

The airborne "jeep" will be of twin engine design, using turbo-prop engines of the 600-horsepower class. The aircraft will be capable of carrying six passengers or 3000 pounds of cargo.

The specifications call for takeoff over a 50-foot obstacle in less than 800 feet with a 1200-pound ordnance load and three hours of fuel. An ordnance load capacity of 3600 pounds can be employed where longer takeoffs are possible.

Also called for is a maximum level flight speed of 275 knots for helicopter escort and a minimum usable speed of less than 100 knots for such purposes as jungle search.

Ruggedness, simplicity of operation, and moderate cost have been emphasized in the specifications which combine the requirements for weapon delivery, reconnaissance and light transport.

Besides being capable of completing military missions such as light armed reconnaissance, helicopter escort and attack and support of ground troops, the new COIN aircraft will be able to perform peacetime emergency functions including disaster relief, medical missions or riot control.

The prop-driven aircraft will be able to operate from rough clearings and primitive roads and waterways, in addition to prepared airfields and aircraft carriers. (AFPS)

Minors, Adults Alike

Stiffer Penalties Provided For Liquor Law Violators

Liquor law violators are in for stiffer penalties due to an amendment to the Hawaii State Liquor Law aimed at minors and adults alike, according to a COM 14 announcement.

The amendment states that legal action will not only be directed at the seller, or adult, but charges will also be filed against the minor for the illegal purchase.

Under the new law, a minor who purchases alcoholic beverages is subject to a $500 fine or imprisonment not to exceed six months. Both the fine and the jail sentence may be imposed.

The previous policy excluded the minor from punishment because he was often a witness in the case against the seller.

Adults who purchase alcoholic beverages for minors are also subject to the same punishment.

According to the COM 14 notice, a minor is any person below the age of twenty. Intoxicating liquor includes beer, wine and the other usual intoxicating beverages.

Marines May Apply

Coast Guard Seeks Academy Cadets

K-Bay Marines between 17 and 22 years of age and otherwise qualified can compete for appointments to the U.S. Coast Guard Academy as Cadets.

The annual nationwide competitive examination for appointments to cadetship in the U.S. Coast Guard will be conducted Dec. 5.

Coast Guard Cadets attend

the U.S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn., for a four-year course leading to a commission in the regular Coast Guard and a Bachelor of Science degree.

Interested Marines may contact their Career Advisory NCOs or consult MCO 1306.17A for further information.

Bicyclists Urged To Practice Safety, Obey Traffic Laws as School Opens

K-Bay's children will be bicycling more as the school's Fall term is about to begin.

According to Al Roth, Station Safety Officer, approximately 500 cyclists are killed and 25,000 injured yearly in the United States.

In the majority of bike-car collisions the youngster, not the driver, is at fault.

A comprehensive study of 400 bicycle fatalities revealed that in four out of five cases the rider was violating a law or traffic rule.

Many parents don't realize that bicycle riders are supposed to obey traffic laws. Consequently many youngsters on bikes innocently break rules, jeopardizing their own safety.

Mr. Roth lists 10 suggestions that will help children become safe bike riders:

- Always ride on the far side of the road.
- Obey all traffic signs and signals.
- Always give correct hand signal for turns and stops. (LEFT TURN: Left arm extended out straight from shoulder. RIGHT TURN: Left arm extended, bent straight up from elbow. STOP: Left arm extended, bent straight down from elbow.)
- Before riding into street from sidewalk or driveway, stop and look both ways for approaching traffic.
- Walk bike across busy streets.
- Don't stunt, ride no-handed or "hitch" rides on back of vehicles.

- Pedal along at a steady pace, don't wobble or weave in and out of traffic. Keep good control of bike.

- Steer bike with both hands. Place books and packages in basket or saddlebags.

- Don't carry passengers.

- Wear light colored clothing during hours of darkness.

To be safe the bike must be in good mechanical condition and possess a light and warning device.

Another critical factor is the size of the bike. The size should match the rider.

Generally, the small 20-inch wheel fits the five to seven age group; the 24-inch wheel is designed for eight to ten year olds; and the standard 26-inch wheel is for anyone 11 and older.

The Bicycle Institute of America has some free bike safety material that might be helpful. The address is 122 E. 42nd St., New York 17, N.Y.
