MABS-13 Gets 48 New Type Jeep Vehicles

The 136 officers and enlisted Marines of MABS-13, Motor Transport Section, have been busy readying their 48 new "Jeep" vehicles for distribution to the seven MAG-13 squadrons.

The new vehicle is manufactured by the Kaiser "Jeep" Corporation, Toledo, Ohio.

They were purchased by the Navy for use by Marine Corps aircraft squadrons and will not be introduced into infantry units.

The vehicle is capable of carrying twice the load of its predecessor while cutting fuel costs more than 75 per cent. It has a three cylinder diesel engine that delivers 85 horse power.

According to MSgt. John Demeter, MABS-13 MT chief, operating costs for the new wehicles are 34 cents per tonmile compared to $2.67 for old 3/4 ton jeep truck and field ambulances which have been a part of the Marine Corps since the beginning of WW-II.

There are four different types of the new vehicle in use. They are the M676 truck, cargo pickup; M677 truck, cargo pickup w/4 drs.; M678 truck, carry all; and M679 truck, ambulance.

Drivers assigned to the vehicles attend a special one-week training course on driver's maintenance at the MABS-13 Motor Pool.

A two-week training course for MABS-13 mechanics will be held in October by Kaiser Corporation technical representatives from Quantico, Va., and Toledo. Ohio

FADING AWAY—The jeep, a familiar sight to Marines since the beginning of WWII is fading away, but it's being replaced by another member of the "Jeep" family. MSgt. John Demeter, MABS-13 MT chief (I), and GySgt. C. E. Perryman, asst. maintenance chief, check over one of the new M676 "Jeeps" now in use by MAG-13. The new vehicles were purchased by the Navy from the Kaiser "Jeep" Corporation, Toledo, Ohio.

Brigade Air-Ground Units Preparing for 'Royal Oak'

An air-ground team of the Brigade will employ the Marine Corps-developed principle of vertical envelopment Sept. 28 when more than a thousand Marines assault Molokai by helicopter in an exercise dubbed "Royal Oak."

The exercise is designed to test the ability of the helicopter-born landing force to operate as a fast reaction force in trapping and destroying guerrillas. Reconnaissance missions and platoon-sized raids will also be conducted.

Marines of BLT 1/4, commanded by Maj. H. D. Fredericks, and HMM-161, commanded by LtCol. L. J. Englehardt, are scheduled to board the amphibious assault ship USS Princeton (LPH-5), and the landing ship USS Floyd County (LST 762) Sept. 23 for the exercise which will be conducted on the western end of Molokai.

The government of West Molokai has requested military assistance from the United States.

Hawaii Joins In Honoring Constitution

Thursday marks Citizenship Day and thus begins the weeklong National observance of Constitution Week.

According to a joint Congressional resolution passed in 1956, this week each year is a time for study and observances of the acts which resulted in the formation of the United States Constitution.

A traditional part of com-memorative activities is to honor newly naturalized citizens and youth having just arrived at voting age.

In Hawaii alone, 100 to 150 persons each month apply for United States citizenship. German born Cpl. Manfrad Pisters, Brigade Schools Language Company of the Company of guage Instructor, is one such person. Cpl. Pisters will soon complete his first year of American citizenship. He ob-tained his citizenship papers last Nov. 8.

President Lyndon B. Johnson urges "Federal, State and local officials, as well as all religions, civic, educational, and other organizations to hold appropriate ceremonies on Citizenship Day to inspire all our citizens to pledge themselves anew to the service of their country and to the support and defense of its Constitution.

The "Pele", a wood carving of a woman's face imbedded in lava rock; and the "Sacri-fice," a robed woman with her hair flying above her head; are being followed by the "Nude on the Rocks" which she is carving out of monkey-pod.

Dulcie said, "I name my pieces of driftwood as I find them. This way I plan my wood carvings before I start to work."

She has also mounted coral and glass balls on driftwood. Dulcie uses the smaller glass balls from their collection (about 60 in various) for these center pieces.

She also plans to carve a "Nude Madonna."

Capt. Cable and their daughters assist Dulcie by collecting the glass balls, coral, polished glass (which she uses for eyes in the carvings or decorations embedded in the lava rock) and the driftwood.

MCAS ElToro Staff NCOs Told To 'Give Of Yourself' by Gen. W. M. Greene Jr.

Gen. W. M. Greene Jr., CMC, and SgtMaj. T. J. Mc-Hugh, the Corps' top enlisted man, spoke to 400 Staff NCOs at a breakfast at MCAS, El

Toro, last week.
"All Marines will have to give of themselves to make an even better Corps than is here today and the Corps of 1964 is the best in our history," the Commandant said.

Gen. Greene pointed out to the senior enlisted men that the Corps now has a little less than 1000 officers and men in Vietnam of the 20,000 American personnel there.

The Commandant praised the efforts of Marine aviation and ground forces who have served in Vietnam the past two years saying they have done "a marvelous job and the whole Corps is proud of them.

Gen. Greene said the Corps still feels the basic requirement for close air support is fixed-wing aircraft.'
The Commandant also said that HQMC is making a de-increases given the Corps over the past five to seven years as compared to those given civil service personnel.

If the facts warrant it, Gen. Greene said he will "do something about it."

The Commandant outlined personnel problems anticipated in FY 1966. He said the aviation units will get the people needed to do the job, even if they must be "taken from ground forces."

Gen. Greene praised aviation personnel for getting a highly complicated job done, but said they must remember that they are Marines and, as such, have a double job.

SgtMaj. McHugh told the El Toro Staff NCOs a return to greater responsibilities for enlisted ranks will soon be forthcoming.

In other enlisted matters, the SgtMaj. said reassign-ments and transfers of personnel are based on vacancies and valid requirements.

Sgt Maj. McHugh also stressed the importance of

They are on display at every luncheon and contain all kinds of news, snapshots, etc., dating back to 1955!

You'll undoubtedly find familiar names and faces, and you're guaranteed a chuckle or two when you feast your eyes on the length of the dresses nine years ago!

Now that our September luncheon is over, perhaps you would be interested in attending one on "the other side.

The Awa Lau Wahine, Navv-Marine O-Wives Club meets on the first Thursday of every month. Be daring, brave the traffic and the Wilson Tunnel for a change of scenery. Their next get-together is scheduled for Oct. 8. Details in subsequent columns.

A reminder that the executive board will meet next Wednesday, Sept. 16 at 9:30 a.m. in the O-Club.
