Maintenance Facility Saving Thousands By Repairing Amtrac Engines At K-Bay

Facility has come up with a practical method of saving the Marine Corps thousands of dollars, according to Capt. G. B. Tucker, Field Maintenance Officer

Capt. Tucker says his unit can usually save 50 per cent of the acquisition cost of an LVT engine, plus the entire cost of shipping it back to the Mainland, when an engine breaks down.

The cost of a new LVT engine is $11,020.

After LVT maintenance was switched from Amtracs to Field Maintenance fate in September, Capt. Tucker had his tracked-vehicle section repair an LVT engine instead of coding it and sending it back to Marine Corps Supply Center, Barstow, Calif., for repairs.

This was the first time such a job had been undertaken at K-Bay, according to Capt. Tucker

Field Maintenance Marines rebuilt the engine at a cost of $689.09, about $120 less than it would cost just the Mainland.

Maj. J. "G" Buckman, ServBn ExO, said, "Each time an LVT engine is shipped back for repairs, $11,200 must be requisitioned to buy a new one, and an additional $812.50 must be paid for air freight shipping fees."

He added that repairing the engines at K-Bay is also a time-saver. Maj. Buck-man's records show that it takes from 60-90 days to receive an LVT engine from the Mainland, once a requisition has been put in.

Field Maintenance has cut this time by repairing the engine in three weeks.

They do it by using an LVT-R1 equipped with a boom to extract the giant engine from the LVT and move it to the working area. Marines from the tracked-vehicle section then strip the engine down completely and give it a thorough cleaning.

They replace all worn and unserviceable parts during the rebuilding. The engine is tested and "tuned" in the working area before it is returned to the LVT.

Capt. Tucker says Field Maintenance will also undertake the repair of LVT transmissions, which are just as expensive as the engines.

He is now working to get a maintenance "float" which would enable him to have two complete engines and transmissions, and a complete line of replacement parts on hand to install in the LVT's while his men are completing the

Marching Pleases Gen. H. M. Smith During Brigade's Review in His Honor

Gen. H. M. Smith, USMC (Retired), who, according to LtCen. V. H. Krulak, FMFPac CG, did a lot of "howling," and was pretty "mad" about the Corps' operational and material readiness at the outset of World War II, was not so mad Monday.

In fact, he was pretty happy with what he saw when some 5000 Marines of the Brigade's air-ground team honored him with a Combat Review and Flyover.

After the Review, he told Col. E. P. Dupras Jr., Commanding Officer of Troops and 4th Marines CO, "I have never seen Marines march that well before.

Gen. Smith, the 82-yearold "Father of Amphibious Warfare", who was in Ha-wail to participate in Birthday celebrations as the guest of LtGen. Krulak, had a handshake and a smile for all who gathered around him both before and after the review.

The Review began with the rendering of honors to Gen. Smith. The honors included the playing of Ruffles and Flourishes by the Brigade Band, a 17-gun salute fired by the howitzers of I—3/12, and salutes from the combat-clad Marines on the field.

Gen. Smith then trooped the line in a Mitey Mite, accompanied by LtGen.

Krulak and BrigGen. M.E. Carl, Brigade CG.

Ccl. R. H. Spanjer, MAG-13 CO, led the flyover of some 60 aircraft. He flew an F8B in the lead section of four air-

The Review ended with the pass in review by troops of the 4th Marine Regiment including a Separate Com-panies Battalion, and the Provisional Regiment made up of Service Battalion, 3/12, and elements of MAG-13 and 1st RadBn.

Tuesday Gen. Smith was slated to cut the traditional birthday cake at Camp Smith during a pageant depicting the history of the Corps. He was also scheduled to attend the Birthday Ball for officers of the Leeward side at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel Tuesday night.

Gen. Smith planned to visit friends on Maui Wednesday before returning to his home in La Jolla, Calif., yesterday.

The recreation area is open to all organizations and reservations can be made by calling Station Special Services at 72548, 73135, or 73258.

MOS Structure To Change

Same Jobs-New Titles Due Many Marines in January

The Marine Corps' MOS structure will under-go changes effective in January

According to Navy Times, four occupational fields will be dropped and their skills consolidated into two new

The MOSs due for consolidation are the 22, 26, 27 and 69 MOSs, all relating to electronic communica-tions. These fields will be consolidated in the newly created fields of 28 and 59.

The fields will be named Telecommunication Maintenance and Electronic Maintenance, respectively.

Aviation Electronics (OF66) will also be revised with some of its skills ransferred to OF28 and OF59. The revised OF66 will absorb the 69 field (Aviation Training Devices).

Other changes include the assignment of new MOSs for master sergeants and master gunnery sergeants in arma-ment Repair (OF21); Supply (OF30); Aviation Electronic (OF66), and in the two new fields, 28 and 59.

Until now these top NCOs have been assigned the MOSs which they held as gunnery sergeants

According to a Navy Times source, HQMC will also revise other fields including personnel, stewards, aircraft maintenance, and aviation operations, however, no effective date is available for these changes.

Chaplain's Corner

Marines, Chaplains Corps Work Hand in Hand for God, Country

Although there have been a number of humorous remarks made about the fact, as soon as the Marine Corps had been established, the Chaplain Corps had to be established to make sure that everything was done in the right fashion, history shows that the Marines and Chapiains have worked together in a rather tight-knit companionship throughout the years.

A check on the number of chaplains who have been decorated since the beginning of World War II and through the Korean campaigns shows that a large percentage were decorated while on duty with the Marine Corps.

During World War II, chaplains were decorated with one Medal of Honor, one Navy Cross, eight Silver Stars (4 with Marines), nine Legions of Merit (6 with Marines);

six Marine Corps Medals (1 with Marines), 28 Bronze Stars (15 with Marines) and 40 Letters of Commendation (no check on how many with Marines)

During Korea, the chaplains were decorated with 4 Silver Stars, 5 Legions of Merit, 44 Bronze Stars, 2 Air Medals, 65 Letters of Commendation and 15 Purple Hearts (all for service with Marines).

During World War II, 24 chaplains died in action (none while on duty with Marines), while 37 were wounded, of whom 13 were serving with the Marines.

It has always been, and will continue to be, the aim of the chaplains to "bring God to men, and men to God."

In whatever situation we find ourselves, as we approach this 189th Birthday of the Chaplain Corps, we pray for continued strength to carry out our primary duties to our fellow man, and the con-tinued support of those among whom we carry on these du-

Hospitality Sought for Bachelor Marines for Thanksgiving-St. Michael's is seeking to bring Marine families and bachelor Marines and Navymen together for Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26. according to Father K. M. Leughman, 3/4 Chaplain.

Marines and Navymen on unaccompanied tours and single men who wish to avail themselves of a "home away from home" for Thanksgiving are asked to fill out one of the forms in the rear of St. Michael's Chapel.

K-Bay families who would like to share their Thanksgiving meal with a fellow K-Bayite are asked to fill out one of the applicable forms.

Father Loughman pointed out that the deadline for submission of the forms is Nov. 25, Thanksgiving Eve and urged parishioners to participate in this special Thanksgiving observance.

Parking Problem-Members of the Aikahi Community Association have a "parking" problem and they are asking for cooperation from K-Bayites in solving it.

The problem is that automobiles are being parked for extended lengths of time or abandoned on the streets of Aikahi Park. The automobiles not only detract from the appearance of the community but also become traffic hazards and templing but dangerous "playgrounds" for children.

The Association has requested that K-Bay personnel refrain from "long term storage" or abandonment of automobiles in

K-Bayites a chance to call home for half the price it normally costs. Through the system, a radio contact is made between

O-Wives Get Do-It-Yourself Decorating Hints at Coffee

There are unconfirmed reports circulating that several rather rambunctious O-Wives have been wildly climbing coconut trees, snatching fronds, then stealthily chomp-ing through the brush gather-ing all sorts of pods and leaves!

Anyone you know? Apparently our clever fee ignited a do-it-yourself spark in some gals that just won't quit!

Results of these secret safaris will undoubtedly become evident around Christmas. Check front doors!

If the yuletide season seemed a long way off, the wives of 1/4 and MACS-2, with their colorful Christmas decor, made it very clear that St. Nick has probbly alerted Rudolph and his boys to be ready to move at a moment's notice!

In addition to trimming the tree and setting up a log-burning fireplace, (a scene that would bring a lump to the throat of any Mainlander) these great gals gave the stage area a fresh coat of paint! Mahalo!

A special word of appreciation for the calorie-laden goodies that were ravenous-ly inhaled by one and all! Never have so many eaten so much in so short a time with such obvious delight!
