Fund Campaigns Enter Third Week; Month-Long Drives To End Feb. 15

K-Bayites continue to answer the call for contributions as the 9th Annual National Health Agencies and Federal Services Joint Crusade Fund Drive enters the third week, according to Unit Chairmen and Keymen.

Campaign officials have not set a monetary goal, however 100 per cent participation is requested.

The drive, which began Jan. 15, is scheduled to continue through Feb. 15.

Individuals may designate which organization they desire their contributions to be given to. Contributions received without designations, will be divided equally among the agencies.

Agencies within the NHA include:

Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America which brings hope and comfort to millions of those afflicted by dystrophy and related neuromuscular diseases.

National Association for Mental Health is a voluntary citizens' organization which works to combat adult and childhood mental illness through research, community treatment centers and mental health education.

National Association for Retarded Children serves more than 5 million retarded children throughout the nation and overseas.

National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation advances care and research on cystic fibrosis, a life-threatening disease. Each year about 4,000 babies are born with this inherited disorder of body chemistry.

March of Dimes supports scientific research to combat birth defects.

National Multiple Sclerosis Society supports research seeking cause, cure and prevention of multiple sclerosis. MS and related diseases will strike an estimated 500,000 mostly between ages 20 and 40.

National Society for Crippled Children and Adults treated more than 262,000 patients last year. More than 1,400 affiliated units support clinics, rehabilitation centers and specialized camps.

National Society for the Prevention of Blindness warns that the vision of more than a million Americans is being threatened by glau-coma, a major cause of blindness.

United Cerebral Palsy Associations provides rehabilitation services for more than 600,000 children and adults. Cerebral palsy can impair the ability to walk, talk, see or hear.

American Cancer Society fights on three fronts; research, education and service. More than 90,000 people die each year of this disease.

American Heart Association spearheads a nation-wide program to combat heart and circulatory diseases, which are responsible for 55 per cent of all U.S. deaths.

Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation is the only national health agency devoted exclusively to arthritis, gives help and hope to the more than 12 million victims of this crippling disease.

Examples of how contributions to NHA are used are:

A $5 contribution pays for one week's transportation of a handicapped child to a day nursery and return to his home.

A $10 contribution pays for the support of an experienced investigator and his facilities for one hour of medical research.

Donating $15 will pay for one week of physical therapy treatments for a recuperating patient and $25 will pay for one week of work training for an afflicted adult.

The Federal Service Joint Crusade contributions support CARE, Radio Free Europe, Project HOPE (Health Opportunity for People Everywhere), and the American-Korean Foundation.

COMMANDERS' DONATIONS—BrigGen. M. E. Carl, Brigade CG (l), and Col. A. M. Moran, Station CO (r), present their contributions to K-Bay's 9th Annual Health Agencies and Federal Service Joint Crusade Fund drive. 1stLt. D. P. Usher, HqCo—Brigade drive chairman, accepted Gen. Carl's donation and Maj. F. J. Heath Jr., Station drive chairman, accepted Col. Moran's. The donations, which were made Monday, helped the Brigade and Station come closer to their 100 per cent participation goals.

Windward Marine

Vol. 14 — No. 5 Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii February 5, 1965

In Bldg. #221 for Dependents

Brigade Activates Assistance Office

A central office was established this week to provide family assistance to Brigade personnel and their dependents during Exercise Silver Lance.

The office, designated the Family Assistance Office, is located in Bldg. 221, telephone 72553.

LtCol. W.H. Macklin, Commanding Officer of the Brigade Rear Echelon, has been named to supervise the operations of the office.

The Family Assistance Office will be responsive to requests for aid on a 24-hour basis.

The need for such a facility became evident because of the nature of the Brigade's mission. All elements of the command are continually subject to rapid deployment away from the Air Station.

During such deployments numerous dependents will, of necessity, remain in the immediate vicinity of the Station.

Invariably, because of the Marines' absence, personal problems will arise which will require assistance.

To render this assistance is the purpose of the Family Assistance Office.

In the event the nature of the problem is beyond the capability of the office, that facility will be able to provide guidance or referral to the proper office where appropriate aid can be obtained.

Dependents whose sponsors are not present when problems arise, who need assistance of any kind, are encouraged to contact the Family Assistance Office.

Information on how to solve the difficulties concerning packing and moving, cleaning quarters, contacting the sponsor, transportation schedules, legal assistance, medical assistance, pay and allotment questions and financial assistance, are only a partial list of anticipated problems the office is prepared to handle.

A bulletin of the services available through the Family Assistance Office is contained in the supplement to this issue of the Windward Marine.

100 Units Near Completion

New Housing Will Shorten Waiting Time

By Sgt. W. C. Hough
With the construction of new quarters aboard the Station, the outlook for K-Bay personnel awaiting housing is much brighter.

"The first of 100 units of Fiscal Year '64 housing for K-Bay is scheduled to be ready for occupancy by mid-April," stated Lt. (jg) N.W. Day, Assistant Resident Officer-In-Charge of Construction, Public Works.

According to Mr. Day, all the units are slated to be completed by April 24, which is the contract completion date.

"When these units open up, the enlisted waiting list will drop three months off the present waiting list for K-Bayites needing three bedroom houses," said Mr. Thomas Branham, Housing Manager.

All units will have three bedrooms with a bath and a half, and when completed will house 100 families.

In addition to the present units under construction, the FY 1965 housing program calls for 230 more units to be built at K-Bay. These units will be located at the large curve on Mokapu Blvd., and will consist of two stories, split-level type.

Mr. Day stated that these units are a combination of single and two story construction. The center units are the two-story type with the bedrooms on the second floor.

FINISHING TOUCHES—Joe Sandobal, a mason with the Del E. Webb Corporation, puts the finishing touches on the rear entrance to one of the new homes being built aboard the Station. The first of the 100 units is scheduled to be ready for occupancy by mid-April.

To Support Brigade in California

MAG-13 'Ships-out' for Silver Lance

Advance elements of MAG-13 began moving to their Exercise Silver Lance objective areas yesterday aboard Navy ships of Vice Admiral John B. Colwell's Amphibious Task Force.

The Group will establish a tactical airfield on one of the off-shore islands of southern California and, from it, conduct air operations in support of the Brigade and other friendly ground forces in the Camp Pendleton area during Silver Lance.

Silver Lance is based on a scenario involving the mythical nations of Lancelot and Merlin. Lancelot, a small, weak nation has appealed to the U.S. for assistance in resisting subversion by its powerful neighbor Merlin and terrorism by guerrillas within Lancelot.

Col. R.H. Spanjer, MAG-13 CO, and his staff are scheduled to depart from Pearl Harbor aboard an APA Monday morning.

VMF(AW)-212 is already on the West Coast after completing a non-stop trans-Pacific flight last week.

All other elements of the Group, except HMM-161, will be enroute to California by Wednesday morning when the jet fighters and jet attack aircraft of the Group depart aboard a Military Sea Transportation Service aircraft ferry.

HMM-161 will leave later during the month aboard an LPH.

Newcomb's 'Iwo Jima' Tells Battle Heroics on Suribachi, Turkey Knob

By Maccine Titus
Chief Librarian

Book-of-the-Month for K-Bay's Station Library is "Iwo Jima" by Richard F. Newcomb.

On February 19, 1945, the largest Marine force ever to go into battle backed by the greatest armada ever established in the Pacific, began the assault on a tiny rock only 700 miles from Tokyo.

Here, for the first time, is the full story, that hellish landing... Japanese soldiers held fire, letting wave after wave of Marines hit the beaches and move close enough to be almost annihilated... and the epic five-week campaign that followed.

Iwo's Marine heroes at Suribachi, the Meat Grinder, Turkey Knob and Hill 382 such as General "Howlin' Mad" Smith, Secretary Forrestal at the foot of Suribachi as the flag goes up; fighting Marines like Private Jacklyn Lucas, Corporal Tony Stein and William Walsh, are all here in this book.

Here too is the fascinating close-up of the Japanese side; General Kuribayashi island commander, Baron Nishi and Admiral Ichimaru.

In the words of Admiral Nimitz, at Iwo Jima, "uncommon valor was a common virtue."

Chaplain's Corner

God Is A Mighty Bulwark In A World of Uncertainty

By Chaplain J.H. Lampe

One scene from William Sauroyan's "The Human Comedy" can be suggestive to us all.

The brilliantly done movie depicts a railroad car, full of soldiers, rolling across the country toward a nameless port of embarkation. One of the boys was playing haphazard melodies on an accordion.

"Son," said the tough top sergeant to the accordion player, "I don't want the boys laughing at me, but I sure wish you'd play that song I used to sing in the Methodist choir back home, something about leaning, or resting—what was it?—on the Everlasting Arms."

So the boy struck into the hymn—the tough sergeant hummed it first, and then began singing, as he recalled the words. A young corporal turned from the window to listen—then sauntered down the aisle. Four buck privates left a crap game and joined in—until the whole crowd was singing.

The men who sang, "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms" were not softies, but as they pushed on into an unknown tomorrow of war and agony, they took on a new courage, realizing that the Everlasting Arms are real.

In this day we press on into a world and future of uncertainty, and God is a mighty bulwark for our souls, an endless source of stability and courage.

K-Bay Marine Is Citizen After Seven-Year Struggle

Cpl. Hans J. Richter, German-born avionics technician from HMM-161 was congratulated by Maj. B.R. Wilkinson, Squadron CO, last Friday, on ending a seven-year quest for United States citizenship.

During a brief ceremony in the Major's office, Cpl. Richter showed Maj. Wilkinson his citizenship papers and was commended for his efforts in attaining them.

On Jan. 8, following a lecture on American Heritage and the values of United States citizenship, Cpl. Richter took the pledge of allegiance and received his citizenship papers.

"It was quite a thrill for me," said Cpl. Richter. "I've had my problems getting the papers, but now I have them and I'm proud to be a United States citizen."

Since coming to the United States from Hamburg, Germany, in 1957, Cpl. Richter has been hoping to obtain his citizenship. Until recently, though, his activities have prevented him from doing it.

Cpl. Richter entered the Marine Corps upon graduation from West High School in Denver, Colo., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rolf H. Richter, have made their home since they arrived in America.

It was after he became a Marine that he and his parents made their first application for citizenship in July 1963.

That same month, the Corporal received orders to report for further schooling at MAD, NATTC, Memphis, Tenn. His parents received their citizenship papers, but Cpl. Richter did not have time to complete his application.

Cpl. Richter's parents continued to urge him to keep trying for his papers. He decided to wait until he finished training at Memphis. Upon doing so, he received his orders to Hawaii.

Soon after he reported to K-Bay in April 1964, the 23-year-old Corporal filed an application at the United States Immigration Bureau in Honolulu.

After the bureau checked his background, gave him tests dealing with basic American principles, and tested his ability to speak English, Cpl. Richter took the pledge of allegiance to the United States and was granted his citizenship papers.

During Traditional Navy Ceremonies

Cdr. C. F. Staffel, PMR Executive Officer To Retire Feb. 12 after 23 Years Service

Cdr. Clayton F. Staffel, PMR ExO, is slated to retire Feb. 12 after completing more than 23 years service as a naval officer.

He will be 'piped over the side' in traditional Navy retirement ceremonies scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m. at the Facility headquarters.

Cdr. Staffel entered the Navy in December 1941 while attending St. John's University in Brooklyn, N.Y. He graduated with a bachelor of business administration degree in 1942, and attended aviation school at NAS Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, N.Y. and NAS, Jacksonville, Fla.

He was appointed an Ensign and a Naval Aviator in December 1942.

During his career, Cdr. Staffel has served tours of duty at NATTU, Glenview, Ill., and aboard the USS Yorktown (CVA-10), and USS Independence (CVA-62).

He reported to Hawaii and assumed duties as PMR ExO in June 1962.

Cdr. Staffel and his wife Norma, a former American Airlines stewardess, have two children; Claudia 10, and Timothy, 8.

Cdr. C. F. Staffel

Cdr. Staffel will be succeeded by LCdr. W.E. Shockley who is currently serving as Operations Officer.

LCdr. Shockley arrived aboard K-Bay in March 1962.

One of Three Choices

Treasury Department Grants Option For Taking Tax Refunds in Bonds

1stLt. J.W. Bower, Station Savings Bond Chairman, reminds K-Bay taxpayers that they have an opportunity of taking income tax refunds in U.S. Savings Bonds.

According to Carl E. Hanson, Savings Bond Chairman for the State of Hawaii, the savings option, introduced in 1963, is in addition to the two standard options of taking refunds in cash or applying them to next year's tax.

"When a taxpayer elects to take his refund in Series E Bonds, his money goes to work immediately on two jobs. It begins to build his financial security. At the same time, it contributes to our country's economic strength," Mr. Hanson said.

Mr. Hanson commented that taxpayers taking their 1963 refunds in Savings Bonds accounted for more than $19 million in bond sales and acquired more than 240,000 individual bonds.

"When you check the Savings Bond line on your 1964 tax form," Mr. Hanson pointed out, "you automatically assure yourself of two advantages: You provide yourself with an easy method of holding on to your tax refund dollars and a sure way of making it grow 33-1/3 per cent larger at maturity."

"All it takes is a check mark on Line 21, Page 1, of Form 1040, or Item 11 of Form 1040A. When your mark is made, the rest is automatic."

"This is a sure way for K-Bayites to make their tax refunds really mean something to them," Lieutenant Bower added.

During that period Colonel Fuller served as Head, Southeast Asia Plans and Policy Section, Plans and Policy Branch, Plans Division.

Colonel Fuller's citation, which was signed by Adm. Harry D. Felt USN (now retired), was presented to the Colonel upon his detachment from CinCPac last August.

The citation read in part: "... In this capacity, Colonel Fuller played an active role in the development and formulation of concepts, policies and plans of the United States Government.

"He was the CinCPac staff officer assigned primary responsibility for United States unilateral and combined plans for the over-all defense of Southeast Asia.

"Through his careful supervision of the development, review and updating of these plans, he contributed greatly to their constant improvement.

"Colonel Fuller maintained, to an exceptional degree, a close working relationship with numerous representatives of the staffs of Component and Subordinate Unified Commanders, as well as the members of the CinCPac staff.

"His keen perceptive mind, his unique ability to translate rapidly and eloquently, and his ability to write in an objective manner made him an invaluable assistant to his superiors in reaching decisions on matters of grave importance to the United States.

"Colonel Fuller's distinguished performance of duty sends outstanding achievement and reflects the utmost credit upon himself and the military service."

The Colonel's personal decorations also include the Bronze Star Medal with Combat "V", and the Navy Commendation Ribbon with Combat "V" and gold star in lieu of a second award.

'Blacksheep' Staff Sergeant Begins Initial Building of Racing Airplane

By PFC. S. J. Preisler

An ordinary carport and shed has been turned into an airplane hangar to accommodate the hobby of a Marine Staff Sergeant who is building his own airplane.

SSgt. Thomas S. Watkins first became interested in flying at the age of 12 when an hour of flight training was included with his $5 per week wage. He decided to build his own airplane in 1962.

The Sergeant, whose love for aircraft finds him right at home at the Air Station, has piloted aircraft since his youth and has owned two planes.

When not fulfilling his duties in VMA-214, Sgt. Watkins' hobby has him spending whatever spare time he can find working on a modified midget racing airplane which he intends to use for sport aviation.

The plane is designed after a home-made aircraft built by racing enthusiast Tom Cassutt, which has been raced successfully for several years in the eastern United States.

"I'm modifying it in some ways," said Sgt. Watkins, "But I'm following his basic design and recommendations."

In comparison to the Cassutt design, the wingspan on the Sergeant's plane will be increased by 40 inches and the tail surfaces will be expanded proportionately.

The increase in wingspan will give it more stability and make it easier to handle, according to Sgt. Watkins.

A 125 horse-power Lycoming engine will be used in his plane as compared to the modified 85 horsepower engine which was used in the Cassutt-built craft in order for it to race in the midget class. However, he doesn't anticipate any more speed.

"Tom Cassutt hit 200 miles per hour in his racer, but my plane will be quite a bit heavier and with the added wing, I'm hoping for 190 miles per hour," explained Sgt. Watkins.

Sgt. Watkins calls his aircraft a "flying compromise." "I don't intend to race it," he said, "But, I want it to clip along at a good pace."

"I also hope to be able to do aerobatics with my plane, which I know the original plane wasn't designed to do," he continued. "So you can see that I'll have speed when I want it and will still be able to just fly for the sport of it, including aerobatics."

At present, Sgt. Watkins has finished tack-welding the tubed-steel fuselage and tail section of the plane. He is doing most of the work in an 8 x 20-foot shed in the back of his carport. As the plane begins to take shape, he is starting to work his way out of room.

"It's getting big enough now that if I put it outside, I won't have to worry about anybody putting it on his back and running away with it," he joked.

The idea to take up the home-built aircraft hobby started about three years ago while he was stationed at Marine Corps Base, Twenty Palms, Calif.

As an aid to his planning, in California he joined the Riverside Chapter of the Experimental Aircraft Association (EAA), which encourages the building of aircraft at home and gives education in aviation.

Upon reporting for duty in Hawaii, the Sergeant continued his association with EAA by joining the Hawaii Chapter. He is now serving as chapter secretary.

"I consider my association with EAA as invaluable," said Sgt. Watkins. "Whenever I have a problem, I just take it to the meetings. We have several men in the Chapter who are qualified aircraft mechanics."

Since July of last year, when his parts arrived from California, the Sergeant has put in close to 200 hours on the plane, which he initially hoped to finish in a year.

Katy Watkins, the Sergeant's wife, takes a sentimental viewpoint of her husband's time-consuming hobby. "I think it's a good hobby," she said. "After all, I met him when I was learning to fly."

Mrs. Watkins was taking flying lessons at Hawthorne Airport in Los Angeles, Calif., when Sgt. Watkins, who was then stationed at MCAS, El Toro, Calif., met her in June of 1958. They were married five months later. The Watkins have one daughter, three month-old Tina.

"I look at it this way," said Mrs. Watkins. "When I need him, he's not gone. He's in the back yard working."

Oregon was the first state honored last week.

All former Coloradans are invited to the coffee hours from 10 a.m. to noon Feb. 12.
