

MOH Recipient Serving At K-Bay

A Marine Medal of Honor recipient is currently serving here. Major Robert J. Modrzejewski, a 1st MarBde. operations officer, was presented the medal by President Lyndon B. Johnson at White House ceremonies March 12, 1968.

Major Modrzejewski was the commanding officer of K Company, 3/4, 3rdMarDiv, Vietnam.

On July 15, 1966, he landed with the company in an enemy infested jungle to "establish a blocking position at a major enemy trail network." Shortly after the landing, K Company encountered a well positioned defensive enemy platoon. Major Modrzejewski led his men to the successful capturing of the enemy bunker complex, which contained large amounts of ammunition and supplies.

Because of the area's strategic importance, the enemy made several counter attacks in the 2 1/2 days of intensive fighting that followed.

His unit was outnumbered and he was painfully injured during one of the attacks. The enemy attacked again in regimental size, but the major called in more artillery fire to push them back. Still they were pinned down. Slowly and painfully he crawled, inch by inch, some 200 meters, supplying his men with the ammunition to stop the vicious enemy onslaught, according to his citation.

Major Modrzejewski was born July 3, 1934, in Milwaukee, Wis., and was graduated from Pulaski High School there in 1953. He attended Wisconsin State Teachers College prior to entering the University of Wisconsin, where he earned a bachelor of science degree in education in 1957.

He was commissioned a Marine Corps second lieutenant upon graduation in June, 1957.

Major Modrzejewski and his wife, Diane, and their one son, Michael Robert, reside in Kaneohe.

PASS IN REVIEW - Cols. Wahlfeld (l.) and Hunter observe the troops of 1/3 during change of command ceremonies last week.

Ceremonies Highlight 1/3 C of C

In the warm Hawaiian afternoon sun, backdropped by the historic Ulupau Crater, LtCol Howard W. Wahlfeld was honored here as the newly instated commanding officer of 1/3 by a pass-in-review of the battalion's personnel.

Lieutenant Colonel Wahlfeld assumed command from LtCol David J. Hunter who has been selected for the rank of colonel and is being reassigned to Okinawa.

The ceremony was a grandeur spectacular of sights and sounds with the music of the Marine Barracks Band from Pearl Harbor, and the explicit facing movements of the officers and men of the battalion.

MABS Marine Saves A Life

A Honolulu Marine was awarded the Navy and Marine Corps Medal for rescuing a man thrown overboard from a chartered fishing boat operating several miles off the island of Oahu.

The Leatherneck, Sgt. Francis W. McKinney, 22, of MABS-24, was presented the Nation's seventh highest decoration by LtCol. A.B. Colbert, squadron commander.

On May 2, Sgt. McKinney was fishing aboard a chartered vessel when the boat lurched, causing another passenger to strike his head and fall overboard.

Disregarding the knowledge of sharks in the area, he dived in to rescue the man.

"During the considerable length of time required for the boat's pilot to bring the vessel about and locate the two men in the high, turbulent sea, Sgt. McKinney encouraged and calmed his companion and kept the man's head above water until a rescue was effected," stated his citation.

Emergency Travel Expanded By DOD

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — Military personnel on emergency leave will now be able to fly at government expense from the United States to overseas areas and between overseas areas.

The change, announced by the Department of Defense, applies to emergency leave travel aboard Military Airlift Command (MAC) aircraft. Previously, space-required emergency leave transportation was provided only for trips from overseas areas to the United States — or from the continental U.S. to Hawaii, Alaska and U.S. possessions and territories.

Services Get Abortion Okay From Defense

WASHINGTON — In a one-sentence memo, Defense's health chief Dr. Louis M. Rousselot, has given permission to all military medical facilities to perform abortions on patients.

"Pregnancies may be terminated in military medical facilities when medically indicated or for reasons involving mental health and subject to the availability of space and facilities and the capabilities of the medical staff."

GOVERNMENT HELPS

Recently, Brig. Gen. Louis J. Hackett, former director of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services announced that Champus beneficiaries may get government help in paying for abortions "where the procedure is legal and where it is medically indicated."

Now, round trip space-required authorization applies to MAC travel from overseas to the United States, from the U.S. to overseas areas and from one overseas location to another.

Defense officials said the change makes transportation policies more equitable for personnel with next-of-kin living outside the United States. They pointed out, however, that the routes of travel will be limited to existing MAC routes.

Photo to Play Role in Future Of Staff NCOs

Staff NCOs asking for active duty beyond 20 years are going to have to send Headquarters photographs of themselves. Furthermore, those who have such requests at HQMC already will have to supply pictures before they can expect answers.

Evidently a quality control move, the requirement calls for four-by-five prints, front and side views, full length, in uniform and uncovered.

A Headquarters spokesman said that Polaroid prints, from cameras available at most battalion offices, are okay. He added that subsequent applications — two years from now, for instance — would require new photos.

A HQMC directive said, "All SNCOs who have not received a reply to requests previously submitted must-repeat, must-submit photo to this Headquarters before the request will be considered."

ALAS, OLD MOBY DICK, WE KNEW HIM WHALE— Two years ago a dead whale washed up on the beach at Fort Hase. The Windy of May 1968 ran a picture of the 40 foot hump-back whale, and a short story on its obnoxious odor. Under the stimulation of two veterinarians, Dr. John Allen and Capt. Jerry Davis, the whale was dug up in hopes of salvaging the skeleton. In the above photo Dr. Allen (white hat) appears enthused over the first part of the skeleton to appear, while Capt. Davis (far right) seems a little dubious. Others in the photo are Pvt. Doug Grimm, SSgt Jackie Sajw, and Earl Murchison. The odor still proved obnoxious, and the bones too soft to mount, hence the whale was reburied. A note of interest; the hump-back whale reported in the Windy of '68 turned out to be a sperm whale.

Uniform Appearance

Neatness counts! Probably the last time you heard that phrase was back in grade school. But, today, when you are in uniform, the remark is still valid.

It is especially true in the summertime, because summertime means exposure. The exposure we are talking about has nothing to do with sun tans or beaches. In our summer uniforms—light-weight, easier to wrinkle and get dirty—we are exposed to the public.

A sloppy-looking soldier, a sailor in stained, ragged whites, an airman with dirty brass or a Marine with unshined shoes do more than discredit themselves as individuals. The Army, the Navy, the Air Force and the Marine Corps all get a black eye.

Neatness and proper maintenance and wear of the uniform are really no more than habits—habits of sensible men and women.

Most military men and women are as careful of their personal appearance on-base as when they go into town. They familiarize themselves with local uniform regulations and dress accordingly. They replace items of issue before they are fit only for the trash can.

Take a look in the mirror. Would you pass muster? (AFPS)

Students will be required to buy books and should have money for the books with them when they go to the first class. Class schedules will be available at the Station Education Office Bldg. 267.

If you're planning to enroll in University of Hawaii courses on Aug. 31, your completed tuition assistance forms should already be in the Education Office. If they aren't, better get them in next week, or you may find yourself spending the day of enrollment going all over base trying to get the right signatures on the forms. It isn't too early to start tuition assistance forms for Chaminade. Avoid the last minute rush.

If you want to take the College Comprehensive Tests which can be worth up to 30 college credits in English, Social Studies, Science, Humanities and Math, contact your Education NCO. CCF Tests are given every Tuesday and Thursday at the Education Office. If you already have college credit in some of the areas listed above, you can request to take only the tests you need for credit.

Each Marine who completes School is issued dress uniforms, civilian clothes and additional allowances for most detachments. Marines assigned to an embassy receive important and more durable and intangible benefits such as the broadened outlook resulting from world travel, the personal awareness extracted from living in a foreign country, and the poise and self-confidence achieved from close association with diplomatic surroundings. These advantages should only be offered to the deserving and qualified Marine.

For more information concerning assignment to the Marine Security Guard School you should contact your Career Planning NCO.

Take Time In Buying Merchandise

by
D.L. Hamilton,
Investigator
United States Federal Trade Commission

Many of you have only recently returned from overseas assignment and understandably are looking forward to buying a goodie or so which you were previously unable to buy or even use if you could buy. Maybe your aim is a car, or a motorcycle or a boat or whatever! More power to you... you are certainly entitled to buy anything you darn well please and can afford.

Any of the above mentioned items, or a TV set, or a deep freeze, or anything involving a heavy cash outlay or lengthy installment program is what we call, in my business, a "big ticket item". That is Federal jargon for "a pretty good chunk of dough". We are not concerned here with small inexpensive items since almost any of us can get gypped for a buck or so without suffering too much, so we will stick for now to the larger stuff.

In the business world, the merchant knows one fact, that when a customer comes to his store and looks at a TV, for example, that customer is already HALF WAY ready to buy, or you wouldn't be in the place to begin with! He knows you are PROGRAMMED TO BUY that TV set (or at least a similar set) and so naturally he doesn't want to see you leave that store until he has you signed up on the dotted line.

One of the things you should NEVER do is to ever allow yourselves to be hustled or pushed into buying a large item. Lets say that the TV he has is ticketed at "was $495, now only $395". Disregard the so-called former price at once being a gimmick and ask yourselves if the actual selling price is in line with the price of the same item elsewhere in this immediate area.

If you cannot, through your own personal knowledge answer "yes" to the question, then DO NOT BE IN A HURRY TO BUY! There is no substitute for taking a day or so, or even a week, to look around and compare prices. You may well be surprised. It is entirely possible that you might save as much as fifty bucks on, say a $400 item. Are you in THAT much of a hurry to get a TV set that you can't at least look around a bit?

To make a parallel point... I can today show you within an 8 block radius in Honolulu, the same camera selling for from $29.95 down to $21.95... So take a walk for yourselves and maybe save a few bucks as well as get a little exercise.

Water Conservation Urged For Air Station Residents

By Capt. R. E. Carver

Do you have bill problems? How would you like to pay this bill? The station waterbill for April, May and June was $46,132! This bill should have been $36,540. In other words water was wasted to the tune of $3,197 per month for the last quarter. Although you may look upon this as being paid for by the government, it is you as the taxpayer that gives Uncle Sam the money to pay for it.

If you live in quarters aboard station, think it over. Housing used roughly 100 million gallons of water last quarter. Allowing 160 gallons per person per day the maximum used should have been 70 million gallons. This is a waste of $2,171 per month. I can hear most of you saying "well I pay my quarters allotment for it." This is true but, don't forget we have not figured your electric, sewage, or maintenance costs yet. Take this $2,171 waste per month and in one year it adds up to $26,052 for housing water waste alone. Does your quarters need painting, or repairs, do you have overdue trouble calls in to Public Works? The wasted money could go a long way towards correcting many of these needs. The only one hurt by this waste is yourself, because no matter how you try to excuse it the money wasted is yours.

Station is requesting your help and cooperation in overcoming this flagrant waste so as to put this money to work for us instead of down the drain.

How can we bring this about? Common sense primarily but here are just a few guide lines to follow: Adhere to published watering hours; water only areas that need watering and think when using water.

These may seem minor but when multiplied by all the people aboard station it becomes a large figure either for savings or waste.

Station barracks work areas have increased their water usage from 105 million gallons for April, May, June of 1969 to 133 million gallons during the same period in 1970, an increase of $5,676. Actual use should not have exceeded 100 million gallons. Therefore all commanders are encouraged to develop and actively pursue an active utilities conservation program within their units.

Through your willing cooperation a utilities conservation program aboard this station can be a complete success.

If watering hours and regulations continue to be flagrantly violated it will result in the issue of citations and possible disciplinary action.

The watering hours for various areas on base are as follows: 6 - 10 a.m. and 6 - 10 p.m. daily, with the exception of Capehart housing on Sunday and FY 63-64 Housing on Saturday. Activities which purchase their water daily may water from 6 a.m. until noon, and 6 - 10 p.m. The Golf course will water as directed by the Services Officer. All barracks and work areas will water Monday through Friday from 6 a.m. until noon, unless otherwise directed by the Public Works Officer.

K-Bay Marine Does His Own Thing

By Sgt. Bill Geff

Staff Sergeant James W. Buffalo, Jr., 1/3 S&C files, has a hobby that is slowly appearing throughout the entire battalion. He makes plaques, signs and name plates.

The 34-year-old Leatherneck has been doing this type of work since 1950 when he entered the School Of Industrial Arts, New York, N.Y., He quit in 1954 to take a job in New York with NBC-TV as a designer. When he entered the Marine Corps on May 5, 1955, he had cleared over $7,000.

He found a home in the Marine Corps, but he didn't forget his industrial arts training. "Everywhere I go," he announced, "I've used my training. Making these plaques and things gives me a hobby for my free time, plus I just enjoy carving and painting and designing."

One of his most recent jobs was to design and build the battalion's "boot, bayonet and combat ribbons," a monument to the fighting men of the 3rd Marines. "This plaque has briefly the story of the 3rd Marines," said SSgt Buffalo.

Most recently he was called on to design and build the 1st Battalion insignia. For three weeks, he combed the unit asking what individual Marines thought signified the battalion. He started with M-14 rifles with fixed bayonets and a helmet. He added the words "ready, willing and able." The final touches was the scroll bearing the unit name. Now, he is making battalion plaques daily, trying to give the insignia to those who want it.

Industrial arts isn't his only form of art expression. In his spare time, he busies himself drawing cartoons.

"This started as a pastime some years ago," he reminisced. "When we would reach a lull in our working day, someone would give me a number or letter and I would make a face with the figure," the sergeant added.

Due to lack of space, the continuing series on the history of Mokapu could not be published this week. The series will continue in next week's issue.

K-BAY ROD & GUN CLUB

The K-Bay Rod & Gun Club discussed the feasibility and possibility of a Skeet and Trap Range here at their meeting Tuesday evening. They accepted the fact that along with the pleasure of a trap shooting area comes a lot of hard work and responsibility that must be shouldered by some individuals or organizations. Trap machines and grounds must be properly maintained and supervised, by-laws and rules must be adopted to guide those who use it and there must be found a group of individuals who are willing to donate a lot of extra time and effort to insure that the range is run properly.

BLACKTAIL DEER HUNT ON KAUAI

There'll be a limited hunting season for Blacktail Deer on the Island of Kauai on four consecutive weekends between the 3rd and 25th of October. The limit is one deer per hunter. A public drawing will be held 5 p.m. September 9 on Kauai to determine which applicants will be assigned to which dates. Only 120 hunters will receive permits (30 per weekend). Applications, which are available at the Division of Fish and Game Offices and all licensing agents on the Island, must be submitted no later than 4 p.m., Sept. 4.

TROUT FISHING TRIP REPORT

Harvey Chaffin reports that seven members of the K-Bay Rod & Gun Club caught 5 trout on their recent fishing trip to Kauai. Bill Adams caught the largest fish, measuring a shade more than 13 inches. Chaffin explained that "the water wasn't moving too good because of a lack of rainfall. The country was sure beautiful, though."

The group left K-Bay Friday and fished all Saturday and Sunday morning. Other members in the group were Bob Davis, Fred Soderstrom, Skip Hass Marv Trobridge and Larry Sprague.

SPORTING GOODS STORE A SURE BET

Sportsmen—when you get the time and have a few extra "shingles" in your pocket, it might be worth your while to do a little browsing in the Sporting Goods Store. That little shop contains mountains of gear for just about any sport you can think of, most of which is of good quality and name-brand manufacture. If the particular item you want isn't in stock, chances are it can be ordered and made available in a few days. Layaway items (must total $25 or more) require only a payment of 1/3 down with four months to pay. Take the advice, be a familiar face at the sporting goods store and you'll probably find it more than worthwhile.

K-Bay Sweeps Softball Crown From Favored Host Camp Smith

K-Bay's All-Stars defeated Camp Smith's All-Stars twice, 15-3 and 10-8, in a "do-or-die" double-header battle for the Marine Intramural Softball League All-Star title Friday night at Camp Smith's Bordelon Field.

K-Bay came through the loser's bracket to lay hold on the crown after having lost an earlier game to Camp Smith Wednesday, 9-8.

The locals won a "must" game Thursday against Pearl Harbor, 10-0 to remain alive in the tournament and set up Friday's championship clash with Camp Smith.

Al Barefield spearheaded the drive against Pearl Harbor's All-Stars by blasting two doubles good for three RBI's in the abbreviated five-inning contest. Joe Lewand stroked out two hits in three trips to the plate in adding to Barefield's thrust. Craig Corley struck out six and walked none to pick up his first win of the tourney.

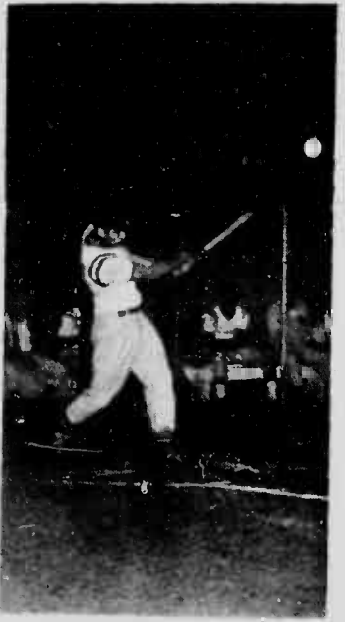

Dana Yetten, and Barefield homered in the first inning and Ed Reynolds hit a solo-blast in the fourth to pace K-Bay in the first game Friday against Camp Smith. K-Bay scored three runs in the first, three in the fourth and nine in the fifth for a 15-3 victory which sent the tourney into a fifth and final game for the championship. Ray Hamil notched the win for K-Bay, his second without a defeat.

Larry Allen took matters into his own hands and pounded Camp Smith's Andy Casey for three homers and five RBI's as K-Bay clinched the title in the nightcap, 10-8. Joe Reeser slammed two doubles good for two more runs to spark K-Bay into the comeback victory. Hamil had started the game but fell before a six-run first-inning Camp Smith onslaught and retired after two-thirds of an inning to Corley who went on to pick up his second win against one loss.

K-Bay's coach, Al Alcaraz, maintained that the championship was "strictly a team effort. We had such a short time to get ready for this tournament. The team made some errors and I made some mistakes coaching, but when you all play to-gether and want to win, you can do it. It seems that our success came on that we always had a certain man who came through at the right time for us. Look at what Yetten and Barefield did. And Allen, he hit three-home runs in the last game. Corley and Hamil pitched great ball I feel that this was the strongest hitting clubs I've ever coached and overall one of the finest. I'm very proud of the way they performed."

TOURNEY NOTES: Al Mattie, Al Barefield and Larry Allen all hit at a .500+ clip for K-Bay during the tournament. Mattie was 10 for 15, Barefield 7 for 13 and Allen 8 for 12. Barefield hit four homeruns, while Allen had three, Dana Yetten two and Reynolds one. As a team, K-Bay hit .473 as compared with a combined average of .235 compiled by Pearl Harbor and Camp Smith. K-Bay had 56 hits which sent in an almost unbelievable total of 56 runs.

All Tracks Lead To Bellows Beach

Several well-tanned girls were sunbathing on the sands of Bellows Beach when suddenly they were startled and aroused by the sounds of several mechanical monsters.

However, as the noise increased in volume it was easy for them to see there was no need for fear. The sounds were attributed to the rumbling of 10 mammoth machines known as amphibious tractors. More commonly known as AMTRACS, the machines belong to the 1st AMTRAC unit of 1/3.

Along with the assistance from various other brigade units the AMTRAC personnel held a week-long exercise period at the beach. On a day typical of the entire week the agenda included a practical application of surf survival, dead engine recovery and both day and night landing exercises.

Awakening to the noise of a pounding surf the troops wasted no time as they grabbed a quick breakfast and prepared for their surf survival class. The class was soon over and it was time for a test of practical application.

Approximately 40 men from "A" Co., 1/3, boarded three of the AMTRACS and headed out to sea. Five-hundred meters from shore the huge tractors turned about, and it was time for the practical application test.

For 12 of the individuals involved it was a test indeed. None could swim. The non-swimmers wore white shirts for identification and were kept under careful watch. They paired off in two man teams and by alternately floating and helping one another they all made it to shore.

One would never have guessed that some of these Marines had never been in a swimming pool, let alone the Pacific Ocean. The entire exercise was performed in a confident and professional manner.

During the dead engine class the men were instructed on the proper procedures for rescuing a stalled AMTRAC and personnel aboard, while operating in choppy waters. It was stressed that rescue procedures are seldom the same in any two incidents, but that there are several facts to take into consideration in every instance. A few being the number of troops aboard each vehicle, weight, ocean currents and weather conditions.

The finale of the afternoon was the actual landing exercises in which all of the 82,500 pound machines hit the water at the same moment and headed for open sea. After crashing head on into four and five foot waves for more than 1000 meters the vehicles turned right, then proceeded another 500 meters before simultaneously turning once more to head for shore.

Many of the Marines inside the AMTRACS were listening to the waves crashing overhead and their eyes were filled with eager anticipation. Suddenly everyone felt the jarring effect of hitting the beach. An instant later the hatch was open and the Marines charged from the vehicle to secure a beach head.

With their mission accomplished by means of a well-planned and coordinated effort the Leathernecks "took five" before having an evening meal and setting out once again.

Spend a Day or Two in Japan Here

Although Hawaii's most vivid link with Japan was cast in the Pearl Harbor attack, Japanese culture has made a more enduring and charming impact on Oahu. Twenty-nine per cent of Hawaii's culture is Japanese. Not only that, but Oahu receives nearly 90% of the U.S. traveling Japanese tourists. All this is more than enough to merit a Japanese Chamber of Commerce, a few widely-celebrated calendar events on the island and a $2.6 million replica of a famed Buddhist temple.

In the Valley of the Temples Memorial Park, located on Kahekili Highway near Kaneohe town, is an eloquent Buddhist temple complex and oriental garden. This explicit replica of the 900-year-old Byodo-in at Uji, Japan, was dedicated in 1968 to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the arrival of Hawaii's first Japanese immigrants.

The seven-acre complex of temple, gardens, bell house, ceremonial tea house, waterfalls, paths, bridges and reflecting lake successfully recreates the serenity and aesthetic beauty that is so revered by the Japanese people.

An 18-foot-tall gold-leaf Buddha--Amida, Buddha of the Western Paradise--sits complacently in the temple room. A seven-ton brass bell awaits those who wish to sound it three times for luck. Very popular with tourists is the two-acre reflecting lake stocked with 10,000 carp that shatter the calm surface to feed on crumbs tossed in by visitors.

The Byodo-in Temple of Hawaii is open seven days a week from nine to five ($1 for adults, .50 for children).

Early recognition is given each year to Japanese culture in the annual Cherry Blossom Festival, beginning in January and continuing into April. It follows closely on the heels of the Chinese New Year celebration. Sponsored by the Japanese Chamber of Commerce, it is an extravaganza traditional culture, modern produce, top Japanese entertainment and beauty contestants.

Just as festive but much more deeply entrenched in cultural religion are the annual Bon Odori ceremonies honoring the departed ancestors of Japanese Buddhists. In Hawaii, these Bon dances take place in July and August.

Also sponsored by the Japanese Chamber of Commerce is "A Day in Japan," presented each Sunday in July and August. The five-part program takes place at 2454 Beretania St., from 2 to 3:30 p.m. for $1.50 admission (children under 12 free).

Their 500-year-old, rigidly formalized tea ceremony reveals one aspect of Japanese culture, while ikebana, Japan's art of flower arranging, expresses the essence of Japanese thought and feeling. Japanese music has simplified and harmonized in koto (a sort of zither) and shakuhachi (flute) delicately shaded concerts, in contrast with the traditional bridal gown robing, one of the world's most elaborate examples of wedding finery.

Truly, aestheticism is the keynote of the Japanese culture.

MADE IN HAWAII--Nestled in a cool green valley at the foot of the misty headed Koolau Mountains awaits the serene Byodo-in Temple and garden.

The Japanese Dance to Wake the Dead

Bon Odori is a traditional Japanese Buddhist ceremony honoring their dead in a colorful and festive dance. The 2,500-year-old tradition has been celebrated annually in Hawaii since the coming of the Japanese to the islands.

Clad in bright kimonos, O Bon dancers of all ages form a circle around a tower holding the music makers. They dance in a steady shuffling pace stylized and set to the rhythm of beating drums, wailing flutes and chanting.

The Bon dance is said to have been originated by a Buddhist monk who received a vision that his prayers and alms had rescued his mother and her companions from the miseries of purgatory. So great was his happiness that he literally danced for joy, inspiring all those around him to join in.

You're welcome to attend these dances and are invited to participate if you happen to be wearing a kimono or a hapi coat. Otherwise just go to, take pictures and meet the people.

Today and tomorrow there will be dances at the Higashi Hongwanji Mission of Hawaii, 1128 Banyan St., and Jikoen Temple, 1534 Kalihi St., Honolulu, from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m.

The final weekend of dances will be Friday and Saturday, Aug. 28 and 29, at Soto Mission, 1708 Nuuanu Ave.

But even in the celebration of an ancient Oriental culture, an American influence manages to emerge. Along with Japanese barbecued meat sticks and sushi (rice cake), they're serving hot dogs, soda pop, potato chips, hamburgers--.
