

1stMarBde squad is Corps' best

K-BAY — A 1st Marine Brigade rifle squad has taken top honors in the Marine Corps version of the Olympics held last week at Quantico, Va.

Besting eight other rifle squads in the Annual Rifle Squad Combat Competition were the Marines of 3rd Squad, 1st Platoon, Bravo Company, 1st Battalion, 3rd Marines.

The competition, which tests a squad's abilities to function as a team in combat as well as garrison situations, pitted squads from each of the Corps' nine rifle regiments against each other in a series of tests, with the final goal being the title of "Outstanding Marine Corps Rifle Squad" going to the team that handles themselves the best.

From the time the Marines arrived at Quantico in the first week of September, to the time the competition was all wrapped up, judges kept a constant eye on every squad.

This meant points could be gained and lost not only in the field but also back in the garrison situations.

First Lieutenant Stephan

Foster, the "top squad's" officer in charge, commented after the competition, "Our squad excelled above all others in garrison life as well as in tactics. They kept their areas neat and the overall neatness was immaculate."

The 15-man squad (13 regulars and two alternates), headed by Sgt. Gary L. Buenger, had been training for months for the two-week test of their skills.

"They sacrificed liberties and were at times putting in 18-hour workdays," recalls 1st Sgt. T.C. White, the squad's NCOIC. "And they were doing it voluntarily. They got to the point where each man knew exactly what he had to do. Sgt. Buenger wouldn't have to waste time telling them. The overall teamwork was so good that if Sgt. Buenger had been declared a casualty, they'd have held together easily."

Included in the testing of each squad were the basics of modern Marine infantry tactics, such as airborne operations, combat maneuvers under live fire conditions, defensive as well as offensive movement, patrolling, the handling of anything from mines to ambushes to casualties, and Nuclear, biological and chemical defense.

To prepare for these subjects, the top squad trained throughout Hawaii's best infantry training areas such as the live fire and movement ranges at Schofield Barracks and the Bellows Air Force Station training area. They also trained during maneuvers in Molokai.

For two of the squad's Marines the training was almost routine by now, after their experiences in the 1971 Brigade Squad.

The two, Sgt. Buenger and Cpl. John S. Furimsky, were the only two '71 vets in this year's team. At press time the top squad members were still on leave after their grueling 10-day testing period.

This capture of the top title marks the fourth time a K-Bay squad has taken it home to Hawaii. Back in 1961, 62, and 63, the Aloha state resident 4th Marines captured the prize three consecutive times.

The competition had been an annual event since the mid-fifties but was put to a halt in 1964 when the Vietnam commitment made it take second seat to some "stiffer" competing.

Last year's competitions, which were won by a squad from the 1st Marine Division, was the first to be held since the Vietnam cancellation.

The top squad members are now eligible for meritorious promotions as a result of their efforts and success.

The other members include LCpl Roger L. Barlow, LCpl Harry C. Brown, PFC Jack Drayton, Jr., LCpl Kim J. Lump, Cpl Daniel A. Pennington, Cpl Billy W. Plumb, Cpl Larry R. Powers, Cpl Curtis A. Pyatt, LCpl Terry R. Reed, Cpl Johnny L. Rowe, PFC David J. Tilley, and Cpl John S. Winslow.

General Robert E. Cushman, Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, presented each member of the top squad with a special proficiency badge, which each man will be entitled to wear with his ribbons and badges, during special ceremonies held at Marine Barracks, Washington D.C.

GENERAL INTEREST
SPACE AVAILABLE
CHANGES—Two major changes in "space available" regulations have gone into effect recently. Active duty military personnel have been given a higher precedence for air travel. Active duty personnel and their dependents are now in Category 2 for travel on international flights, while students have been dropped down to Category 3. Retired personnel are in Category 4.

TAX RELOCATION—The Internal Revenue Service will allow military personnel to deduct up to $1,000 from your total income that is subject to taxation, for traveling expenses while you are seeking a new job in the civilian market. This includes travel, meals, and lodging for house-hunting trips to a location where employment has been found. The deduction can only be applied to expenses incurred in travel to that location where actual employment was secured. Expenses are determined from the place of former residence to the general location of the new principal place of work and return to former residence. Accurate records must be maintained. For more information and complete details refer to the latest edition of the pamphlet "Armed Forces Federal Income Tax, NAVSO P-1983."

IMPRESSIVE SAFETY
RECORD—Chief of Naval Operations has honored Navy and Marine Corps fliers for breaking all existing aviation safety records during Fiscal 1972. Letters of Commendation and plaques have been awarded to those squadrons which showed significant improvements in their safe-flying records. Fiscal 1972 saw the accident rate for flight hours drop to .88 per 10,000 hours. This is the lowest in the history on Naval Aviation. A total of 40 squadrons have been honored, including 23 Navy squadrons, 11 Marine and 6 Naval Air Reserve. In addition, CNO paid special recognition to Commander, Naval Air Reserve and Commanding General, Marine Air Reserve Training Center. Their pilots scored the best safety record among all active duty and reserve flying squadrons.

REFERRAL COUNSELING
PROGRAM—Project Referral, a DOD Program, provides employment counseling, guidance and man/job matching services to prospective retirees. On Oct. 3-6, Referral counselors from San Diego will be at Bldg. 150, Room 218, NAVSTA Pearl, to orientate, counsel and register candidates for the Referral Program. The Referral seminar will be held from 8:30 to 11 a.m. on Oct. 3. It will include orientation, career selection and job searching techniques. Personnel who are within two years from their anticipated date of retirement are encouraged to attend. Reservations for individual professional counseling appointments may be made at this time. For more information, call 25204 or 21169.

MCAA CONVENTION—The first annual Marine Corps Aviation Association National Convention will be held in Chicago Oct. 5-7 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel. Members, or prospective members, who have not received their hotel registration card may register by writing to the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Michigan Boulevard, Chicago, Ill., 60605. Specify that you are attending the MCAA Convention to receive a reduced rate.

AUTO INSURANCE—All automobiles in the State of Hawaii must have the following minimum liability insurance coverage: Bodily Injury or death in the amount of $10,000 for each person and $20,000 total for two or more persons for each accident and property damage in the amount of $5,000.

SEX DISCRIMINATION—A meeting for Honolulu women to hear and discuss: Sex Discrimination: It is NOT Funny... It is Illegal will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the ORVIS Auditorium, University Campus. Among the points to be covered are: equal opportunity in employment; equal pay for equal work; job security, even during pregnancy and equal opportunity for training.

K-BAY CLOSED FOR
INVENTORY—The Household Store and Hardware-Garden Shop will be closed for inventory on Monday.

OVERSEAS EMPLOYMENT
PROGRAM—Registration for overseas employment are being accepted on a continuous basis by the Civilian Personnel Office at K-Bay from Station Civil Service employees, reinstatement eligibles, and employees of the other Federal agencies outside Department of Defense. Positions which are vacant range from a variety of skilled trade workers to high-level engineers and administrators. Areas where position must be filled are located in countries around the world, but the majority of positions are in the Pacific area. Many of the positions have extra benefits and privileges including 5 to 25 percent pay differentials in selected areas. To register in the Overseas Employment Program call or visit the Civilian Personnel Office, Bldg. 267. Registrations will be accepted for only those geographical areas and position categories listed on the DoD Acceptance List and Positive Recruiting List. These lists are posted on the bulletin boards in the Civilian Personnel Office and the Public Works Department.

SCHOOL PHYSICALS—The last opportunity for military school children to receive school and athletic physicals at the dispensary will be on Tuesday. The physicals are needed by children entering the Hawaii School system for the first time. Children attending Pre-school do. Physicals will be given on a first-come, first-serve basis from 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. Children should bring identification cards, sponsor's social security number, immunization record, a urine sample and eye glasses if worn.

CAMP SMITH
CAREER CORNER—All first-term Marines seeking to re-enlist before Jan. 1 must send their request to HQMC during the month of September so that there is a reasonable time for consideration.

A new revision to the Career Planning Program has been developed by the Career Planning Branch, HQMC, putting stiffer requirements on second and subsequent enlistments. Although it is stiffer, it is advantageous to the first termers. For more information, call SSgt Irvin Jamison, Camp/Battalion career planning NCO, at 39-865.

NEW TIMES FOR JUMPS—To ensure that audit requirements for leave and earnings statements during the pre-implementation and parallel phases of the Joint Uniform Military Pay System are fulfilled accurately and within the prescribed time, it is necessary to limit the hours of routine service in the Military Pay section. Operating hours will be from 8 to 11 a.m. starting Oct. 2 until further notice. The only exceptions during this period will be emergencies, transient payments and regularly scheduled pay days.

EDITORS NOTE: The following letter was addressed to Col W.J. White, CO, KMCAS.

As previously stated, I am writing a thank you note on behalf of Mr. Tullbane to you, his superior officer. As I am certain you know, Mr. Tullbane is not only head of the Red Cross office, but also all Red Cross certified programs. It is in this latter capacity that I am writing about him.

Mr. Tullbane proved himself a forward looking, easy going, friendly man. Nothing was ever too little or too big for his consideration. It was his constant availability and gentle guidance that gave us the pride to keep at it for eight weeks.

To begin with, when there was a problem with a lack of Water Safety Instructors available, Mr. Tullbane gave us a list of his better instructors. From this list came Capt Don Hargrave, our well-liked and hard working WSI and Capt Mike Yarbro.

our fine instructor for beginners and advance swimmers.

Next, when I arrived as head two days before summer fun began, Mr. Tullbane encouraged me and helped me remember the "ropes." Due to his efforts and much correspondence, I was able to obtain a renewal of my WSI badge.

When I decided to stagger the giving of patches over each 4-week period instead of all at the end of each session only, Mr. Tullbane assured me this was feasible. His co-operation and that of his secretary and assistant, Mr. Means, was one more asset to our fine program this summer.

When we ran into problems with the pool not functioning properly, Mr. Tullbane went to you for help. This move may have made us only lose three days the first month instead of seven like the first month.

No matter when I showed up at his office, Mr. Tullbane was always there. He made certain I got whatever I came for and that any problems were ironed out. I cannot tell you how highly I regard this man, both as a friend and as a fine administrator. You are very fortunate to have him at K-Bay.

It's your right to ask 'why'

A sergeant major was reminiscing about the "Old Corps" in a letter that appeared in the "Open Line" column of a recent issue of the Camp Lejeune Globe.

The sergeant major's letter resurrected some pleasant memories about some things that were SOP in the old days in the Corps—things like an absence of barracks thieves, small brig populations, shined brass and close clipped hair.

In closing his letter, the sergeant major glorified the "Old Corps" Marine who didn't ask "Why?". He didn't explain exactly what he meant by his closing comment that an "Old Corps" Marine "didn't ask why," and perhaps it could be misleading without some amplification.

We're sure the sergeant major wasn't implying that "Old Corps" Marines never asked "Why?". Or, that today's Marines shouldn't ask "Why?" when confronted with an order or policy that doesn't seem to square with reality.

Putting this question of questioning orders into historical perspective—Since the Year One, soldiers, and since 1775, U. S. Sea Soldiers who were worth their salt have asked "Why?". When confronted with an order that seemed illogical and unreasonable, maybe the "Old Corps" Marine didn't say it out loud, but the question came to mind, nevertheless.

Our Corps isn't a place for people who don't have enough sense to question orders that seem out of line. When the Corps runs out of Marines who don't do some deep thinking about what is going on around them, and take proper steps to correct illogical, unreasonable orders and policies, we Marines might as well pack it in.

The troops' right to ask "Why?" ought to have first place in any troop leader's SOP. At the same time, there ought to be some reasonable ground rules identifying the proper time, place, and procedure for posing the question. Obviously, the middle of an attack is the wrong time to question an order to attack. And, a barracks bull session is not the best forum for questioning the wisdom of an unscheduled field day.

When questioning an order of policy, timing and procedure are all-important. The chain of command is the right channel to communicate these questions—those who want some privacy can use the request mail route. The best time is before the action directed is fully underway.

Common sense, tact, and diplomacy are some fundamental qualities that should be applied to the process of questioning the seemingly unreasonable order. These qualities are useful in any human endeavor.

The Corps needs Marines who ask "Why?". But, they ought to do it at the right time and place, and in the right manner. We think this is what the sergeant major actually meant. If it's not his intended meaning, we still respect his right to ask why Marines ask "Why?". And, we think he used the right forum to raise this impersonal question of general interest to Marines, the "open line" column of his base newspaper.

Chaplain's Column

How do you look at life?

by Chaplain Sweeney

How should one look at life?

One way is to think of it as a joke. If things seem to go wrong and are more difficult than one expected, he can whine and say that life is not fair. It plays a joke on him. If one has what he considers a poor assignment or a hard first sergeant, then comes the rebel viewpoint until bitterness burns away right thinking.

Another way is to say that all is temporary and everything that happens is of relative value. There are no standards in this view so one can argue that life is first and last designed for pleasure. Why bother about your conscience? Why be concerned about high standards? Get it - whatever you want - and get it in a hurry.

A third way to look at life is to believe that each one of us is God's representative. God is depending upon me to show to others what He is really like. When I start with this belief, I think that every person is a Divine advertisement. In this way of living one's life consists of looking at life through the eyes of Christ.

Is this third way too much to ask of anyone? Experience and history prove it is the only way that gives lasting happiness.

MB, Pearl - the same today as in 1913

MARINE BARRACKS, PEARL HARBOR - On March 3rd, 1909, the United States Congress appropriated $135,000 dollars for the construction of a Marine Barracks to be located at the Pearl Harbor Naval Base. In June 1913, the project was completed and a detachment of Marines moved from the old Naval Station into what is now known as Marine Barracks, Pearl Harbor. These structures are still in use today.

During the span of Marine Barracks existence, it has had three Barracks Commanding Officers that have gone on to be Commandant of the Marine Corps: Major Wendell C. Neville, Major John H. Russel, and Major Ben H. Fuller. Also, from 1948 to 1950, the late LtGen Lewis B. "Chesty" Puller commanded Marine Barracks.

The Mission of Marine Barracks is primarily Security of the Naval Base. In addition, the Barracks perform support tasks that normally would be found only at Marine Corps Base-type facilities. Some of the eleven different commands that have Marine personnel under their control and receive administrative and personnel accounting support are: Commander in Chief, Pacific (CINCPAC), Commander in Chief, Pacific Fleet, (CINCPACFLT), and Commander, Anti-Submarine Warfare Force, Pacific, (COMASWFORPAC).

Colonel Alfred I. Thomas, Commanding Officer, Marine Barracks, and Lieutenant Colonel Charles A. King, Executive Officer, have over 55 years combined service between them and each commenced their careers as Marines during World War II as enlisted men.

The major units of Marine Barracks and their missions are: Security Company, commanded by Capt. Charles R. Campe, provides security guards for perimeter gates and various offices and buildings throughout the Naval Base; security guards for CINCPACFLT Headquarters; furnishes honor guards for visiting flag officers and civilian dignitaries; and provides Marines to serve as Military Policemen on the Hawaiian Armed Forces Police, (HASP), located in downtown Honolulu.

Barracks Company, commanded by Capt. Michael W. Shepard, provides administrative support for all Marines working in the various headquarters sections at Marine Barracks and Marines hospitalized in Tripler Army Hospital. In addition, Special Services support is provided, which includes a Swimming Pool, Tennis, Handball, Basketball Court, Baseball Diamond, Theater, and Library.

The Correctional Center, commanded by 2ndLt. Chester C. Mattox, is the confinement facility for all Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard units in leeward Oahu. The small, elite selected group of Marines assigned to this unit have the difficult and complex responsibility to care for and administer to the needs of all prisoners confined therein.

The Wahiawa/Kunia Guard Detachment, commanded by Capt. Carlton F. Wall, provides security guards for the Naval Communication Station, located at Wahiawa, and security guards for the U.S. Pacific Fleet Operations Control Center, Kunia facility.

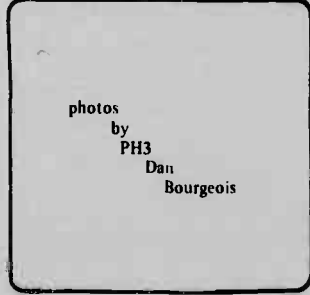

Additional support provided by Marine Barracks includes Funeral details for deceased Marine Corps personnel and Sunset Parades which commenced in the fall of 1971.

During the summer months Marine Barracks also hosts several local high school athletic teams for 2-3 weeks.

Marine Barracks also has a dining facility that has just recently won the Major General W.P.T. Hill Small Messhall Award for having the "Number One" Small Messhall in the Pacific area.

With pride and tradition behind them, the Marines of Security Company stand duty at Nimitz Gate, where over 40,000 automobiles pass through each day.

Three Musketeers
By Ed Beasley

Napoleon had a black general who was the son of a French nobleman and a black woman from Santo Domingo. Known as the Mulatto General, he was strong as a bull and well-known for his ability as a soldier. But he was also known for his political views which got him thrown out of Napoleon's army.

This famous black General was Alexandre Dumas, the father of one of the greatest French writers of all time, Alexandre Dumas, the Elder. He wrote more than a thousand books, including "The Count of Monte Cristo," and "The Three Musketeers."

This black man, in turn, was the father of Alexandre Dumas, the Younger, who was considered by many of the critics of his time to be a greater writer than his father.

PMO caught with 'flags down'

CAMP SMITH - Intramural Football action last week, found the Thunderbolts and the Chiefs winning to tie for first place in the league.

In the first game the Thunderbolts completely overran the PMO team, 22 to 0. The win gave the 'bolts their second victory in as many games.

PMO's defense gave up only one TD in the first half, a six yard pass from 'bolt quarterback Ron Smock to Randy Reineinger. Reid Carlock ran in the two point conversion. The half time score was 8-0.

The PMO's defense fell apart in the second half however, and their offense was again held back as the 'bolts rolled on to score two more TDs.

Fuji Fejeran caught a Smock 35 yarder and ran it in for the score. Moments later, Jim Mathis scored the conversion on a short pass in the end zone.

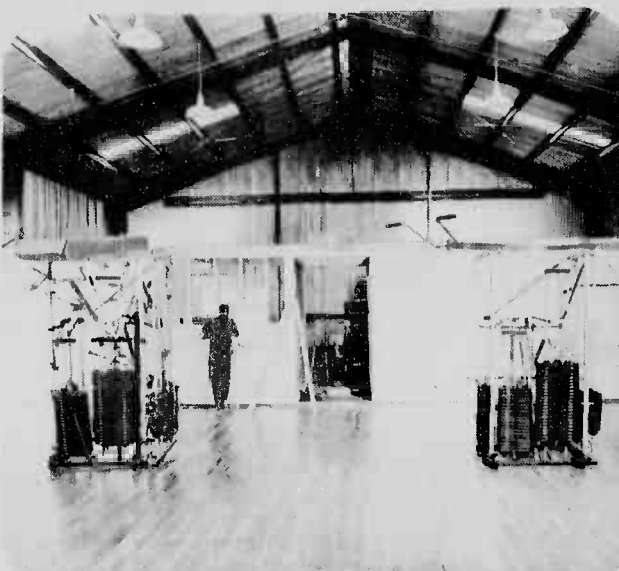

The 'bolts last touchdown came when Reid Carlock nabbed a 25 yard pass and ran it in. The final score was Thunderbolts 22, PMO 0.

In the nightcap the Brother Chiefs remained undefeated by out scoring COM. (Commission Officers Mess) 32 to 8. A 70 yard punt return by Skip Doll, two TDs by Jim Gram and Bob Walker highlighted the scoring for the Chiefs. Quarterback Dan Franks also scored a touchdown and threw four touchdown passes. Larry Bond, the Chief's coach, called many of the winning plays from the sidelines.

Len Romero scored the only TD for COM.

Next week PMO meet COM at 6 p.m. Monday night. In the second game the Chiefs and Thunderbolts will battle it out for first place in the league. Game time should be around 7:30 p.m.

"Sweat in peace, so you don't bleed in war," will be the motto for the Mini-Gym. It's a homerun! Well, actually it's a little dribble to the side, but whatever Nancy Hakala lacks in hitting she definitely makes up for in pitching. Nancy's 7-1 record during the season clinched the Women's Softball Championship for her team, the Fillies. Last Sunday saw Nancy help win that title as the Fillies rolled over the Warriors 13 to 2.

You can't help looking up to him

QUANTICO, VA. - To say that Lance Corporal Robert Jonischkies will play a "large" part in Coach Ron Eckert's plans for this year's Marine Corps football season may be understating the case a bit.

Jonischkies is 6'7" and weighs in the neighborhood of 260. And he'll be bringing to the Marine team some impressive credentials to go along with his impressive size.

The Yorktown, Texas, native played four years of football at end and running back at his high school. He was three times selected to the All-District team and was an All-State selectee in his senior year. His sports activities were not confined to football—he was named to the All-State basketball squad, and found time to throw the discus well enough to win District honors.

As might be expected, Jonischkies' abilities did not go unnoticed. No fewer than 40 colleges and universities bid for the services of this outstanding athlete. He chose Rice University because, as he put it, "I wanted to play in the Southwest Conference and I felt I would have a better chance at a relatively smaller school. I also had relatives living in the Houston area."

He received a four-year football scholarship to Rice and played on the freshman team. His grades, however, were "not quite up to par" and he was not permitted to compete in his sophomore year.

In 1971, things were looking up. His grades had improved and the Rice coaches told him that he was definitely in their plans for the fall. But Jonischkies had other plans.

"I was a little 'tired' of school at that point," he said, "and there was a chance that my number was coming up in the draft. So I decided that as long as I might have to go in the service, I might as well pick the one I wanted."

After talking to a number of recruiters, Jonischkies joined the Marine Corps in September, 1971.

"There was no question that it was the best service. And of course the fact that the Marines had a college-level football team had a little something to do with it. The Marine recruiter didn't promise me anything, but he did say that he would write the coach and tell him I was joining."

After completing boot camp at San Diego, Calif. and Advanced Infantry Training at Camp Pendleton, the 21-year-old Marine was assigned to the Personnel Administration School at Pendleton. Following his graduation, he worked in the school's office and as a Troop Handler. He was ordered to Quantico in May, 1972, and is currently working in the Base Adjutant's section.

Jonischkies is looking forward to the football season, and the Marine coaching staff is looking forward to the day when he puts on the pads and begins showing what he can do. Captain Eckert believes that the young Marine can help the team.

"He's big enough, of course," the coach said, "and he comes to us highly recommended by the people at Rice. The Athletic Director there said that there is no question that he can fit into our program and play the brand of ball that we do."

If he lives up to expectations, Jonischkies could be a valuable asset in filling the gap left in the offensive line by the loss of last year's two starting tackles, Dave Freeman and Mike Coffron.

"If we can get our offense 'jelling' early," Coach Eckert said, "we should have a good season, even though we are playing a tough schedule. And perhaps Jonischkies is just the man we need to provide that little extra 'punch'."

Jonischkies hopes so, too. And if he isn't, he says it won't be because he wasn't trying.

Every once in a while 1/Cpl Robert Jonischkies has to look up to someone, but 1/Cpl John Woods, sports editor for the Quantico Sentry has to depend on props to make it happen. Jonischkies is 6'7" and 260 pounds.

NAD and MAG Support keep rolling on

For the second week in a row, the Navy team has fallen to their rivals by the score of 60 to 0, with NAD, Oahu, having the honors last Sunday. If the season continues to go as bad, I would imagine some of the Navy players will be turning in their uniforms for their medical smocks in order to administer first aid to the rest of the team.

From the very beginning, Navy never stood a chance, as NAD marched 57 yards from the opening kickoff for the first score of the game. Luis Alaniz then added the salt to the wound with the two-point conversion. NAD scored again in the first quarter with a 62-yard drive, followed by another conversion by Alaniz.

At the very start of the second quarter, James Smith swept the Navy's end and raced 75 yards for the score. This time, substitute tailback Steven Brown took the honors with the extra points. The very next time, NAD had the ball. Paul Brain raced 60 yards for yet another TD. The halftime score was 30-0.

In the 3rd quarter, Brain scored again on a 72-yard punt return. The extra point try was made good by a pass to Bob Davis. Alaniz scored his first TD of the game on a run from six yards out. He also made the extra points.

In the fourth quarter, Alaniz scored again from seven yards out. This time, however, his conversion try was not successful. The final score of the game was a 15-yard pass from Smith to James Gathiers. Smith added the extra points on a quarterback sneak.

In other action Saturday, MAG Support defeated MCAS 26 to 12. MCAS made a lot of mistakes, allowing MAG to capitalize on them and score. Basically, though, it was a pretty even match with MAG coming out on top. The win enabled MAG Support to keep a tie with NAD for first place.

In the final game Saturday, 3rd Marines shut out MAG TAC 47 to 0.

Watch it huddle, big brother's watching! No penalties occurred on this play as a 3rd Marine defender is about to pull the strings on a gallant end around sweep. 3rd Marines defeated MAG TAC 47 to 0.

photos by Sgt Paul Reynolds

MAG Support's quarterback Hernandez lets her fly as the MACS's defensive line moves in. I bet I want to know is, if the whole team is in the picture, who is he throwing the ball to?

This 3rd Marine receiver gets that all important step ahead of his opponent and gets set to run the ball in for the TD. As soon as his feet touch the ground that is.

THIS WEEKS' GAMES

- 23 Sept. MAG TAC vs Navy at K-Bay at 9 a.m.
HqCo 3rd Mar vs 1/3 at K-Bay at 12 p.m.
MAG Support vs Brigade Support at K-Bay at 3 p.m.

Touchdown!! MAG Support completely out classed MCAS last Sunday as this runner demonstrates. The carry was good for the score, and eventually the win.

Ready! Set! ...! MAG Support's offensive line proved quite successful against MCAS last Sunday as they defeated them 26-12 in a hard fought contest.

Selling or buying a car-take note

If you're about to purchase a car or motorcycle, or about to sell one, listen up - this article can save you time and trouble.

As you may already have discovered, the State of Hawaii has some regulations concerning motor vehicles that are somewhat different from other states. To comply with the requirements of Hawaiian law you must do the following:

- (1) The seller must give the buyer a Notarized Bill of Sale for the motor vehicle. The bill of sale can be obtained from the Legal Assistance Office. The notarization can be performed by any notary public for the State of Hawaii. Usually, banks, savings and loan associations, real estate agencies and other such businesses have notaries public.
- (2) Both the seller

(transferor) and the buyer (transferee) must sign the Certificate of Ownership in ink, listing the address of the buyer.

(3) The buyer must, within 20 days, take both the certificate of ownership and the certificate of registration to the Division of Licenses, 1455 South Beretania St., where he will receive a new certificate in his name. (A nominal fee of $1 is charged.)

(4) The seller must, within 10 days, give notice of the transfer on a form provided by the Division of Licenses. (Failure on the part of the seller to do this may result in a fine of $100.)

Why must you do these things? From the viewpoint of the seller, he is relieved of all civil and criminal responsibility arising from the operation of the vehicle once the seller has delivered the signed certificate of ownership to the buyer and once he has given notice to the Division of Licenses of the transfer.

From the standpoint of the buyer, once the vehicle has been transferred into the buyer's name, he can then, and only then, transfer the vehicle to another person. Failure on the buyer's or the seller's part to perform these necessary requirements may result in inability to transfer the vehicle or unnecessary delay.

So take this advice. You won't regret it from the legal standpoint at a later date.

The Hawaii Council for Housing Action discusses what the alternatives are and provides referral services. Further, HCHA is now managing some 1,000 units of government subsidized housing on Oahu. As far as longer term housing construction projects are concerned, no more than 20% are from military personnel since these projects run for two to three years and many of the families are transferred within that time period. However, occupancy by military personnel once the building is completed will run about 15% - 25%.

Special Services Tips

Book of the Week at the Library is "Flat Top and Fleddings" by Gareth L. Pawlowski. From the early days of experiment and theory during the twenties through the experiences of World War II, this book traces the history of the American aircraft carrier. It wasn't easy to convince the top brass that the battleship would soon be a thing of the past, but the series of events leading to the aircraft's role as the Navy's number one line of defense are revealed. The aircraft carrier's part in Korea, the cold war period and the Vietnam conflict is described in length. A separate section of the book includes details about the carriers, including awards earned and eligibility dates of each ship. Protuse illustrations add to this unique and highly informative book.
