

New Pay System

Hawaii Marines Leap to JUMPS

By LCpl. Bob McManus

OAHU — Hawaii Marines have joined the leap to JUMPS, the Corps' new integrated personnel and pay system to become fully effective June 1.

JUMPS stands for Joint Uniform Military Pay System, a Manpower Management System designed to use unit diary personnel changes to adjust pay data automatically. In short, your pay system is becoming automated.

Guidelines for the new pay system were established in 1966 when the Department of Defense directed the services to achieve management and operating techniques which would provide:

1. Responsive pay service to Marine Corps personnel.
2. A practical uniformity among the military services.
3. Centralized pay account maintenance.
4. Accurate and timely accounting reports.
5. The reduction of errors in the pay system.

Part of this automated pay system, or JUMPS, is the monthly issuance of a Leave and Earnings Statement (LES) to each Marine by the Marine Corps Finance Center, Kansas City, Mo.

The LES will be produced from each Marine's Master Military Pay Account on file at the Finance Center and will show all factors of his account through the last day of the period for which printed.

The LES will contain, as a minimum, the following information:

a. Date of production, period covered, Social Security Number, unit identification, name, pay entry base date, and date of active duty which determines entitlement to specific allowances or special pay.

b. All continuing and one-time entitlements and all continuing and one-time deductions.

c. All field or centralized payments made. Field payments are made by the local disbursing officer. Centralized payments are made by the Finance Center.

d. Amounts due the Government or amounts due the individual.

e. Forthcoming possible entitlement to re-enlistment bonus (four months prior to expiration of enlistment), forthcoming variable re-enlistment bonus installment due (two months prior to due date), and if applicable, prior re-enlistment bonuses paid and recouped.

f. Federal income taxable wages earned, income tax withheld, Federal Insurance Contributions Act (FICA), taxable wages earned, and FICA (Social Security) withheld.

g. Leave earned, leave deductions due to leave taken, nonaccruals (leave lost as a result of unauthorized absence), excess leave computations, and leave balances.

h. Pre-computations to show the forecasted amount payable for each of the next two regular paydays, usually on the 15th and 30th of each month.

i. Adequate remarks to explain entries which cannot be easily understood with clarification.

j. Information to enable the Marine to understand the LES without having to make inquiries of the commanding officer or the disbursing officer. The reverse side of the LES contains pre-printed information, in legend forms, to amplify data on the front of the form.

Of interest to all Marines is the fact that the commanding officer and the disbursing officer will constantly perform various audits on the LES to insure accuracy of the information printed on it.

This new automated pay system will enable every Marine to become aware of his pay and allowances, all his deductions, allotments, and his leave status on a monthly basis.

LES?? WHAT'S THAT?! — This Marine has just received his first Leave and Earning Statement (LES), and like most of us, he can plainly see that it's all perfectly clear—clear as mud! The LES is part of the Corps' new integrated personnel and pay system, JUMPS (Joint Uniform Military Pay System). At first glance it does appear complicated, but don't despair—the article at right should answer your questions.

Vets Job Fair Slated

OAHU — The second annual Veterans Job Fair will be held at the Honolulu International Center (HIC) from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 18.

The Job Fair is designed to provide special employment assistance to veterans and servicemen seeking jobs on Oahu.

More than 3,000 Oahu employers have been contacted and the Job Fair Committee Chairman, Henry S. Kuniyuki reports that employer response has been encouraging.

Bus transportation to the Fair from K-Bay will depart from Pless Hall Dining Facility at 7:45 a.m. and from Anderson Hall at 8 a.m. The bus will leave the HIC to return at 4 p.m.

Employers and representatives will be on hand at the Fair to recruit veterans for job openings or provide job information. Even if jobs are not immediately available, vets can obtain information of future openings.

There are about 9,500 unemployed veterans in Hawaii, according to Kuniyuki, and the State Employment Service Office is receiving about 700 new job applications from veterans every month.

"So although the fighting in Vietnam is over for our forces, there is still an urgent need to offer our returning veterans jobs that will help them adjust to civilian life," Kuniyuki stated.

This year's Fair is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of Hawaii, City and County of Honolulu, Hawaii Chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army, Hawaiian Educational Council, State Department of Labor and Industrial Relations, and the Governor's Jobs for Veterans Task Force. Many other government, veteran, employer, union and civic organizations are cooperating to make the event a success.

More than 3,000 job interviews were held at last year's Fair and, according to Kuniyuki, a conservative estimate of total veterans hired as the result of the Fair is 300.

For further information, contact the Veterans Job Fair Committee at 548-3834 or 548-3835.

Metz Named Reader of the Month

By Mrs. Nola Crawford

K-BAY — Sergeant Stephen R. Metz, an electronic technician at Station Operations and Maintenance Squadron, has been named "Reader of the Month" by the Station Library.

"Reader of the Month" is a new program established by the library staff to recognize notable library users.

When he first reported aboard the Station two years ago, Metz discovered the library was a convenient place to "get away from it all" and relax with a book or magazine.

Today, Metz fills his off-duty hours taking correspondence courses and studying accounting and economics at the University of Hawaii, which he hopes will lead to a degree in accounting. But that's not the end of it: "Then," said Metz, "I hope to begin work toward a law degree."

As a private pilot, Metz finds the library's collection on aeronautics useful. A native of Harrisburg, Pa., he likes to keep up with the news from home by reading the Sunday edition of mainland newspapers the library subscribes to.

During his five years in the Marine Corps, Metz has traveled widely throughout the United States and Asia, and feels that the Station Library compares favorably with other military libraries he's visited.

Metz is a familiar face at the library, studying and checking out material during his lunch hour and after work. Despite his busy schedule, he brings books and records back on time for others to use.

For Steve Metz, "Get Ahead,

Read" is more than a slogan it's a way of life.

Pro Pay Reductions Affect Shortage Specialty Pay July 1

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Proficiency pay for two categories — superior performance and special duties — will remain the same in the fiscal year beginning July 1, but there will be reductions in a third category — Shortage Specialty Pay (SSP).

Twenty-one MOSs will lose their eligibility for SSP and eleven others will drop from $100 to $75. There'll be no MOSs getting an increase.

Six MOSs within Occupational Field (OF) 59 — Electronic Maintenance — will be eligible for SSP at the P-3 level ($100-a-month). They are: 5931, 5932, 5933, 5934, 5935 and 5992. Effective July 1, eleven other MOSs within that OF will drop from $100-a-month to $75-a-month. They are: 5962, 5963, 5964, 5974, 5978, 5979, 5981, 5982, 5994, 5996, and 5997.

The 21 MOSs that will no longer be eligible for SSP are in OF 25 — Operational Communications — and OF 66 — Avionics.

Field commanders have also received instructions from Headquarters concerning Superior Performance Pay (SPP). They are to submit composite scores of their nominees by April 30. Headquarters will then determine cutting scores for each eligible grade and return them to the field. The nominees who equal or exceed the required cutting score will receive the $30 monthly SPP throughout the next fiscal year.

News Flash: More Money

K-BAY — At press time the following information was received from the Station disbursing officer: effective Wednesday, the Cost of Living Allowance (COLA) and off-station housing allowance will be increased for Hawaii Marines. COLA will increase approximately 200 percent and approximately 30 percent will be added to the off-station housing allowance. More details in next week's paper.

H&MS-24 CHANGE OF COMMAND — Lieutenant Colonel John B. Acey (center), new Headquarters and Maintenance Squadron-24 commanding officer, accepts the squadron's colors from Captain David W. Causey during ceremonies Friday. Lieutenant Colonel Francis M. Logan (left), former squadron commander, has been reassigned to Marine Air Reserve Training Command, Naval Air Station, Glenview, Ill. Acey, who has been serving as MAG-24's S-4 officer, is a native of Chicago. He graduated from the Naval Academy, earning a degree in electrical engineering, and was commissioned in 1955. Acey, his wife, Adele Joan, and their four children reside aboard the Station.

In My Opinion

Does the Physical Fitness Test (PFT) adequately measure the physical fitness of a Marine?

MEZA

CPL. ROBERTO MEZA,
A CO., 3rd ENGINEERS

"I guess it does measure fitness to some degree, but I believe the run should be increased - running three miles is no big thing. The tests - running, pull-ups and sit-ups are similar to things you would have to do in a combat situation; the same muscles are used. All-round, it's a fairly good test."

PFC ROBERTO RUGGIERO,
A Co., 3rd MOTORS

"I feel the PFT is adequate. The new policy that requires you to get an hour of PFT three times a week is asking a little bit too much - once a week would be plenty. I don't think the PFT should be broken down into first, second and third classes. It should be one class - pass or fail."

RUGGIERO

LCPL. STEPHEN ZANOTTI, 2/3

"I don't think the PFT really gets it. For one thing, the test isn't supervised close enough. It's easy to cheat on the sit-ups and three-mile run. I also think the run should be longer and more events - like the rope climb - should be added to build up endurance."

SSGT. PETER BANKS,
H&MS-24

"A man doesn't even have to work-out to pass this PFT. I think the present program should be increased as far as the running goes - add a few more miles. When a man fails the test, it's usually because of the run and there's more emphasis put on running. If conducted correctly, I definitely feel that working out three times a week will keep the unit in shape."

What Makes You Tick?

By GySgt. Phil Hartranft

K-BAY—Corporal Barry Smith is a 22-year-old Marine who directs a lot of weight on his job. . . 40,000 pounds!

What makes him tick? Smith is a crew chief on the new LVTP-7 AMTRAC. He goes through his military duties and liberty hours ticking with a zest to live his life to the fullest.

Now in the middle of his four-year enlistment, he recently reflected on his past and his plans for the future.

"I don't really have any definite plans right now. I've been here at K-Bay for 21-months and should soon be getting orders to another station. I like working with the amphibian vehicles but I have a hankering to move on to something else."

A native Texan, he is married to another resident of the "Lone Star" state. Her name is Donita. She is waiting along with their three children in Arlington, Texas, for his return.

I asked him why he selected AMTRACS for his MOS and this drew a quick response: "Simple. At ITR I was told I would be going to Cook school and I just knew I wasn't cut out for that type work. I requested AMTRAC school because some of my friends had told me about it. The next thing I knew, I ended up at Camp Pendleton going to the AMTRAC school at Delmar."

After attending the month-long school he was assigned here to "D" Company, 3rd AMTRACS. He has driven both the old LVTP-5 and the new LVTP-7 and has his own opinions about each vehicle.

"If I was in combat I think I would prefer the LVTP-5 because it is heavier than the new model and I feel it could take more punishment. However, some important features about the new LVTP-7 in combat would be its increased firepower and the faster speeds it can reach." With a grin he added: "This would help ease your mind anytime."

The new vehicle can more than double the speed of the old LVTP-5 and the .50 caliber gun does a lot more damage than the .30 caliber previously employed on the old AMTRAC.

The former Mansfield, Tex., high school football player enjoys Oahu beaches to the fullest extent possible.

"I just plain like the water. I do a lot of snorkeling, swimming and water skiing on my liberty time. I think Special Services has a great program when it comes to water sports and making the necessary equipment available to interested Marines."

SMITH

A carpenter for four years prior to joining the Corps, he is now responsible for the proper care and maintenance of a $128,860 vehicle and the welfare and safety of his crew, which consists of a gunner and driver.

"I like the responsibility and I feel the morale on our 'track' is high. The guys (his crew) enjoy training the most when we are actually in the field with the vehicles. We don't have much area for land training but as you can see we don't have any problem when it comes to water exercises."

The question of enlisted living areas came up and he voiced his opinion on this subject. "I personally feel the barracks are suitable. However, the new barracks being built (near Mini-gym) and as I understand it there are more to come, will definitely help improve morale of the Marines living in barracks."

This Marine, who likes AMTRACS because "they can take you almost anywhere you want to go", eventually feels he would like to try something new if he stayed in the Marine Corps.

"I think AMTRACS are great and are definitely needed in the Corps today but I have a natural curiosity for life and I want to learn all I can about everything I can."

Like most Marines away from their families he doesn't like the loneliness of being separated from his family. However he feels he is taking something from his tour here with Brigade.

"It's been a long two years being away from Donita and the children but I feel I will take some good personal experiences back to the mainland with me. I don't feel I could have gotten them anywhere else."

His enlistment will be up in January 1975 and only one thing is now certain. He keeps ticking right on with a new zest to seek out all the facets of life and try to master them.

That's what makes Cpl. Barry Smith tick. What makes you tick?

Article 15 Myths

Eavesdrop on a bunch of "barracks lawyers" rapping about Article 15 sometime. You'll probably come up with about the same amount of factual information that would emerge from a similar discussion on what causes wars.

Article 15 is a legitimate part of the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ). But it is not a club which can be used by a commander to discipline anyone he doesn't happen to like, disregarding clearly spelled-out military legal rights. Your basic legal rights don't just disappear in a puff of smoke when you enter the service.

First, not just anyone can impose an Article 15—only the commanding officer of a unit, or (on rare occasions) someone to whom the authority has been legally delegated. And it can only be given for some clearly stated act or omission which has breached the UCMJ.

An NCO can't give an Article 15 on his own. He has to convince the commander that it is merited, so had better be sure of his facts. And—contrary to widespread misunderstanding—neither can a Judge Advocate. His job is to make sure that everything is done by the book.

How many Service members know that they don't have to accept an Article 15? They can say "no," and will then probably be given an opportunity to present their cases at a court-martial, more like a civilian trial.

Before requesting a court-martial remember this: although an Article 15 does go onto a military record affecting promotions, assignments or security clearances, it doesn't return with you to civilian life as a court-martial conviction would. There is no need to even mention an Article 15 to a prospective employer.

If you're about to have an Article 15 laid on you, make sure that the commander (who is just as interested as you are in getting at the truth), knows all about your side of the story.

How? It's quite simple. Talk to a legal officer immediately—before you sign anything. That's why he's there. That's what the government pays him for—to advise you. (You can't beat the price, either. It's free.) He will see that your specifically stated right to have written statements or other pertinent documentary evidence attached to the file is observed.

Now wait just a minute before you run out and nail up a shingle as a gilt-edged barracks lawyer! These are just a few sketchy highlights of a very complex subject. Go to an expert, the one best qualified to lead you through legal bramble patches—your legal officer. It's your right.

Anchor the Soul in Love

By Chaplain P.J. FERRERI

The importance of an anchor to a ship is generally taken for granted by sea-going personnel. An anchor is used to moor a ship to the ground beneath the surface of the water. A ship may drift around its grounded anchor depending upon the wind and current conditions. But when the drift is too far, then the ship is dragging its anchor and emergency steps must be taken.

The environment of our everyday life is such that we need to have spiritual anchors to keep us from aimlessly drifting too far. In Paul's letter to the Galatians, he speaks of certain "fruits of the spirit" that include love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control. In his 1st Corinthian letter, he makes reference to faith, hope and love. I believe we can consider these elements to be "anchors for the soul."

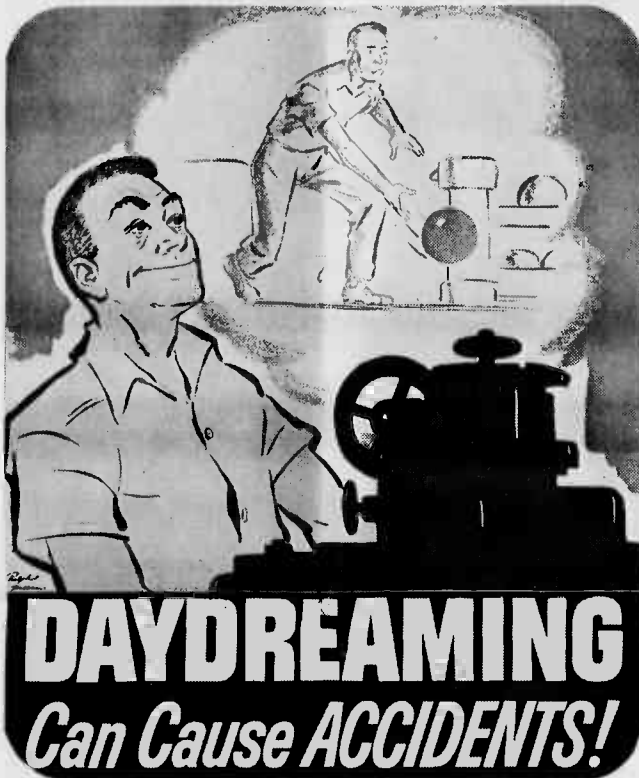

A characteristic of every shipboard anchor is that it must have good holding power. It must be able to dig in to the floor of the body of water and stay there. Our spiritual anchors potentially have good holding power when they are put to their intended use. The storms of life, however, do put these anchors to the test, and it is up to us to improve their holding power. We do this by growing closer to God through prayer, Bible reading and studying, and through quiet period of devotion with God. It is His divine power working through our own will-power that will strengthen the holding power of our anchors.

The holding power of an anchor also depends upon the kind of bottom on which the anchor rests. Rocky bottoms, sandy bottoms, muddy bottoms, all have different properties for holding the anchor. But the bottom upon which our spiritual anchors should be grounded is solid and firm - ground that will accept our anchors and hold them fast. For the ground is the Word of God which includes the gospel message of Jesus Christ.

There is a hymn we frequently sing - "On Christ the Solid Rock I Stand, all other ground is sinking sand." This is to say that there is no variance in the holding quality of the spiritual ground - the only variance is in the condition of our anchors. In what condition are yours?

An anchor needs a long scope of connecting chain to the ship in order to achieve its maximum holding power. I like to believe that the chain we attach as individuals to our spiritual relationship with Almighty God. The stronger it is, the less likely it will be of coming apart. The longer it is, the less the danger of the anchor dragging.

If your relationship with God is strong and deep, life can give you pretty much of a beating without any adverse effects. And remember that a chain is as strong as its weakest link! So take stock of your spiritual anchors and anchor chain. There is room for improvement for all of us.

DAYDREAMING Can Cause ACCIDENTS!

Noise Affects Your Health

OAHU - You know what noise really is, you hear it every day. The cars, the planes, radio, television, all these and many more, make up your noisy environment, both on the job and in your home.

What effects, if any, does all this noise have on you?

Noise is a technical term, which is not easy to define. Generally, "noise" refers to any acoustic sound which is judged by a listener as "undesirable." It can be loud or soft. It all depends on what effects certain sounds have on you, which will classify them as noise. What may be music to one person, may just be a "bundle of noise" to another individual. While certain soft noises may be irritating, it is the loud, high intensity sounds, that we are concerned with. Constant exposure to loud noises, without proper ear protection will eventually result in a hearing loss. Also, loud noises interfere with one's sleep and rest, (if that person is in a noisy location such as next to an airport), thus creating another physical problem to the person's health.

Loud noises at home, a loud

OVERSEAS ASSIGNMENT

See your Career Planner about Marine duty that can take you overseas.

record player, radio, or television, will also cause some hearing problems over a period of time, especially if one listens to them very often.

Obviously the danger at home isn't as great as the danger on the job, but the potential hazard is there nevertheless.

Unfortunately, most music today, especially the teenage "Rock," is usually played at "ear-splitting" levels in most clubs and in the homes. This makes it very hard to impress upon the public the danger that everyone is exposed to. It's not the music, but the volume and intensity that it is played at, which does the damage. People can enjoy the music just as much at a reasonable volume, as they can at a very loud one.

On the job, where there is hazardous noise, ear protection is a must. It is a fact that if the workers wear ear protection they will be able to communicate much better with each other, because ear protection blocks out the interfering noise but lets the speech come through more clearly. Ear protection does not hamper speech, it aids it!

Noise reduction at the source, is always the most desirable method of eliminating the hazard. When this is not practical however, steps may be taken to reduce noise intensities, by modification of a process or design or by changing the direction of the sound radiation. Modifications may take various forms. If friction is the source of a noise, simple lubrication may eliminate or reduce the noise level.

If it is the noise from a jet engine, simple rotation of an operating engine may direct the path of noise to an uninhabited area, thus reducing or eliminating a hazard or nuisance problem.

The principle of absorption is used in many cases. Materials that absorb sound may be installed at any point between the noise source and the listener.

In most cases however, such as on the flightline, it is up to each individual to use his personal protective devices to preserve his hearing and make him a more proficient worker.

Security Tightens

OAHU - If you are about to become a passenger on a military aircraft be prepared to be exposed to strict hijack security procedures. Signs have been posted at all military air terminals.

All hand-carried luggage and parcels, including ladies' handbags, will be inspected and all travel orders will be authenticated. Also, all passengers will be subjected to a personal screening, before boarding the aircraft.

Air travel officials point out that the air terminal is not the place for a hijack joke or so-called humorous remarks about bombs. Hijacking or air piracy is a serious offense. Fines up to $5,000 and imprisonment up to five years can be levied for willful or malicious false reports regarding the damaging or destruction of civil aircraft.

Security forces are alert for anyone making any comment pertaining to bombs, explosive devices, weapons, or piracy. Joking or not, that person is subject to immediate arrest.

SHOOTERS aim in on their targets during the two-day Hawaii National Regional Hi-Powered Rifle Matches that were held over the weekend at K-Bay.

K-BAY — Last weekend the Air Station hosted the Hawaii National Regional Hi-Powered Rifle Matches. Ten service teams took part in the two day match.

The individual match winner was Army Staff Sergeant T. Daugherty with a score of 967 out of a possible 1,000. Sergeant First Class J. MacNeal and Staff Sergeant W. Bartholome, both members of the Army team, were first and second respectively in the Masters Match with scores of 959 and 950.

Taking first place in the expert class was Army Second Lieutenant Carter, firing a 933 with 22 hits in the x-ring.

Gunnery Sergeant A. Waters of K-BAY won the sharpshooter class with a 933 and 12 hits in the x-ring. First place in the marksman class was Sergeant Blevins, also based here with a 929 score and 17 hits in the x-ring.

The Army "Gold" team was the overall team match winner with a total score of 1,919. The Army's "Silver" team won first place in the combination of master and expert class with a overall score of 1,865.

The Station shooters won first place in the combination sharpshooter and marksman class with a total score of 1,838.

The Palma Medal was awarded to Waters for high score in the sharpshooter class of the Palma Match. Blevins also won the Palma Medal for first place in the marksman class of the same match.

The Station and Brigade teams are leaving this week to fire in the Western Division Matches at MCB, Camp Pendleton. Last year the shooters took the Wharton Trophy for the Post and Station Hi-Team Matches.

FIRST PLACE STRENGTH — Aaron Lewis curls 140 pounds during the AAU competition that took place Saturday at the Main Gym in Honolulu. He took this event in the 148 pound weight class.

Corpsman Places First In AAU Competition

K-BAY — Hospitalman Second Class Aaron Lewis, physicians assistant at the main dispensary here, took first place in the 148 pound weight class of the 1973 AAU Odd Lifting Contest Saturday at the Main Gym in Honolulu.

The odd lifting consisted of bench pressing and curling. Lewis benched 290 pounds and curled 140 pounds for a total of 430 pounds.

Lewis has participated in one other contest since he has been stationed here which took place March 17. This was the AAU Power Lifting Contest and again captured first place in his weight division. In this event he squatted and benched 275 pounds and dead lifted 400 pounds totaling 950.

"The mini-gym here has helped me out a great deal", says Lewis. "It's one of the best equipped gyms I have seen in the military."

Lewis usually works out four days a week between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. and would be glad to give anyone tips and help if they are interested in weight lifting.

THE HAWAII MARINE SOCCER TEAM won the first game of the 1973 Spring League Season, Saturday at Kapiolani Park by running over the Korea Soccer Club 4-2. John Neubarth scored the first goal of the game for the Marines in the opening minutes of play and Earl Martell scored the second point late in the first half. The Marines out-kicked their opponents in the second half and gained two goals by Houng Sin and Steve Spanbauer. The Marine team will play the Army Redlander "B" Team, Sunday, 2 p.m., at Schofield Barracks. IN THE LADIES ACE DAY GOLF TOURNAMENT held Thursday, Louise Frye won top honors with a net of 75. Jean Wallace took low gross with 86 and Sally Clefford and Polly Carstead tied for low putt, each with 31. An "OVER 30" VOLLEYBALL LEAGUE will be formed if there is enough interest generated aboard the Station. Interested personnel should contact 1st Lt. G. Lemmer at 73632. League play is scheduled to start May 1. THE MIDGETS will be the star attraction at the all star wrestling match at Conroy Bowl, Schofield Barracks, Saturday, 7:30 p.m. Admission will be $1 for military and dependents, $2 for civilians and 50 cents for children under 12 years of age. THE MINOR LEAGUE BASEBALL SEASON began Tuesday night with the Cardinals crushing the Giants 9-3. SCUBA CLASSES will begin again at the Station Pool, Tuesday, 6:30 p.m. Mask, snorkel and fins are required but all other equipment is furnished. Price of the course is $25. For more information call Dennis Kirwan at 261-5652.

Winos Lose Three Games, Still Leading

CAMP SMITH — This week intramural bowling found the first place Wino's dropping three games to the third place J-5 Team when Ed Mollanen rolled a 185-190-161/536 series. Ed was far from the high game of the night but, his effort was sufficient for the three game win.

The second place Bar Bums also had a bad night losing three games to the PMO Tickets. Rick Logan was high kegler for the Tickets with an outstanding 193-181-182/556 series and Michael York hit a 160-161-157/478 series for the loser. Tom Heacox of the tickets picked-up th 5-7 and 37-10 splits for a 448 series.

The Keystone Five took three games from the Abends when Curley Rifle. Bill Nickerson and Robert Wehrle bowled 528, 517 and 505 series respectively. None of the losers broke the 500 mark, however, J. Obermeier rolled a 479 series for their ceiling.

Roy Dekett was high man for the Funny Bunnies with a blazing 417 series when his team split with the J-8 Ballers inspite of a 530 series by Hap Albers which included a beautiful 239 third game.

The eighth place Money Makers shut-out the Misfits inspite of a 182 third game, 456 series bowled by Donna Gaudet. High kegler for the Money Makers was Jim Quarles who rolled a 454 series, with Bonnie Lewis adding 419 for the team.

The Nads and the Bums split in their efforts to come from the cellar with George Luke of the Nads rolling a 532 series as the only kegler on either team to cross the 500 mark for the night. Jake Correll was high man for the Bums with a 171-198-125/494 series.

Pearl Harbor Golf Classic Brings Rain, Wind, UFOs?

By Capt. Jack Hudson

MARINE BARRACKS, PEARL HARBOR — The rumor that Martians are attacking is pure fabrication. Although, it is true that on March 20, hundreds of UFOs, i.e., divots, clubs, bags and a few golf balls were sighted in the vicinity of the Navy-Marine Golf Course, as members and guests of Marine Barracks, Pearl Harbor participated in the 1973 Spring Golf Classic.

First place in "A" Flight went to Bob Queen of the FMFPac Staff, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin F. Simerly, with first place in "B" Flight going to Larry Mond's of the FMFPac Band.

The "A" Flight runner-up, Jack N. Hudson, during one of his infrequent press interviews, proclaimed that had it not been for the strong wind, rain and some poor luck on the front nine holes, a day in which he salvaged only two "birdies," he surely would have matched his bowling average and won the tournament.

The consolation prizes (the most prestigious awards) went to Larry Ross of the I & I Staff, 4th Force Recon, and Donald K. Hulse of Security Company, as they captured the "A" and "B" Flight "Hacker" trophies.

Gavilan College Offers Courses In Drafting and Auto Mechanics

K-BAY - Gavilan College will offer two introductory courses here starting this month.

Drafting Technology begins April 16. This course is an introduction to mechanical drafting; drafting equipment, material and instruments; techniques of drafting, line work, and lettering; and basic geometric and multiview projections.

On April 18, Introduction to Auto Mechanics begins. In this course, familiarization with the automobile industry, basic safety and use of hand tools, the assembly of an engine and cleaning and identification of parts is stressed. Also taught will be standard operating procedures for service stations.

Both courses last six weeks and are held on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6 to 10 p.m. Tuition is $110 and can be funded entirely through Veterans Administration benefits or Tuition Assistance, which will pay 75 per cent of tuition costs.

These are introduction courses and are limited to an enrollment of 20 students. The courses are not offered on a regular basis and lead to additional courses in the program.

Now is the time to enroll - stop by the Joint Education Center now.
