"What did the old man say about you being late again?"

Haircuts are free???

Dear Editor,

In response to your article in the July 15 edition of the "Hawaii Marine", your intentions were honorable but a little off base; no, way off base.

Your computations seem to be based on an eight-hour work day, whereas we are continually told that we are Marines 24 hours a day. If this is so, the average Private would make about $.50 an hour.

This makes it necessary tor a Private to spend about four hours enroute to, waiting for, and receiving a haircut and returning to his unit, in order for that the haircut to be classified as free. Correct?

Editor, " 'Nuff said!"

By the same virtue, a sergeant major would get a free haircut in one hour and three minutes, a second lieutenant for one hour and forty minutes, a lieutenant colonel for fifty minutes and the Commandant of the Marine Corps would get a free haircut for 20 minutes in the barber's chair with a $.10 bonus for each additional minute he remained in the chair. So, if our commanding officer is willing to give us three or four hours off to get a haircut every week, we might come out ahead as you mentioned in your article. LCpls. Special Thanks

For CG 1st Marine Brigade: Your change of command and retirement parade was unsur-passable and served as favorable reassurance to all that the Brigade Marines and sailors are real professionals. It was a flawless performance. It will also be the source of a lasting memory for a Marine who served his Corps and country with rare distinction and courage, and it was an entirely fitting ceremony for the retirement of Lieutenant General John N. McLaughlin. Please see to it that everyone who participated is aware of my personal appreciation.

For CO MCAS Kaneohe Bay: Your Air Station provided the ideal setting for the ceremony and the efforts of your Air Station Marines were instrumental in the smooth and flawless conduct of the entire operation. Especially, I wish to commend those who planned and assisted in the reception at the Officers Club. Their performance and meticulous attention to detail left absolutely nothing to be desired. Lieutenant General L.E. Brown CG, Fleet Marine Force, Pacific

The Fleet Marine Force, Pacific change of command parade held on June 30 ranks as one of the most outstanding professional displays of military ceremony in the history of Hawaii and served as a fitting retirement for Lieutenant General John N. McLaughlin. The precision, uniformity, and attention to detail exhibited by every Marine was a superb illustration of what pride and teamwork can accomplish. I add my personal thanks and congratulations.

The enthusiasm and unstinting cooperation exhibited by military and civilian personnel alike created an atmosphere conducive to successful planning and implementation. The manicured facilities, excellent traffic control, and superb reception added immeasurably to the overall success of the ceremony. My congratulations for a job well done and personal thanks for the exceptional cooperation by all concerned.

'235' trains in Yuma

By Sgt. Cathy Sodek

MCAS, YUMA, ARIZ., July 7 -Aloha, to our comrades in arms. The men of Marine Fighter Attack Squadron (VMFA)-235 have crossed the waters to visit in our 'not quite so tropical area'' for six weeks of intensive training.

Commanded by LtCol. Dick Hoffman, the "Death Angels" have been flying from sun up to late in the night and working around the clock, averaging 20 to 22 flights a day. "We are taking full advantage of, the Air Combat Maneuvering Range (ACMR) while we are here," stated Lt. Paul Andres, squadron public affairs officer, and the difference in the pilots performance has been continually improving.

Because we are based at Hawaii and are surrounded by nothing but miles of water and a few scattered islands, we do not always have the opportunity to perform in certain tactical flight operations.

"Our de-briefings are some-what limited there," stated LtCol. Hoffman. "We have to usually go by memory when we're trying to recreate the flight and discuss what was good and what was not so good (and of course you'll come out with several disputing views) and work from there.

'But here; with the use of the ACMR, our pilots can see their performance in real time situations ... learn to capitalize on their strong points and to correct their mistakes. Their proficiency has hit a remarkable improvement as it will with any squadron. 'We enjoy deploying to Yuma and have been doing so for the past several years. The support we have received from the various shops and units has been outstanding - they have really gone all out to make us feel welcome.

'By the time we leave here," said LtCol. Hoffman, "we will have accomplished just about everything there is for a fighter squadron to do. We have been working in air-to-air, air-to-ground, low level navigation, ECM training and other tactical exercises.

These F-4 fighter pilots have acquired the concept of true team spirit that carries on even into the lower ranks. Their motivation excels — one reason being that they work with the "crew concept" ... assigning the same pilots to fly with the same radar intercept officers (RIO). They are then able to become accustomed to each other, and consequently, become more proficient in the air.

The enlisted men are happy to have returned to the mainland, but because of the climate differences, many are quite ready to go home.

MAG-24 changes hands

The Colonel's first tour in Vietnam was divided between the First Light Anti Aircraft Missile Battalion as S-3 officer and Marine Fighter Attack Squadron-323 where he was the XO. He took advantage of his return to MARID Andrews, and obtained a Masters Degree in management from American University.

Next came transition training to helicopters followed by another tour in Vietnam as Commanding Officer of VMO-2 at Marble Mountain where he flew OV-10's and AH-1G "Cobras". Four years at Headquarters Marine Corps then followed where he was head of the Budget/Programs Section in the Manpower Department.

After a year as G-1, Second Marine Aircraft Wing at Cherry Point, he attended the National War College. He then served as Logistics Officer of the First Marine Aircraft Wing for a year before coming to K-Bay.

Col. Challgren's decorations include the Legion of Merit with Combat "V", the Meritorious Ser-vice Medal, Air Medal with the numeral "18" and the Single Mission Air Medal.

Maj. Turck

Military career commences and closes with MACS-2

Marine Air Control Squadron-2, the aerial eyes of the 1st Marine Brigade, got a new commander Wednesday when Major K.W. Turck took over from retiring Lieutenant Colonel Ken Scarborough at Dewey Square. Lieutenant Colonel Scarborough will be ending his 22year career in the same outfit he started with in 1955 - the 1st Marine Brigade. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1955 and a Naval Aviator later that same year.

He and his wife, Tazuko, have two daughters, Patricia and Linda and a son, Steve.

Major Turck, who hails from Port Washington, Wis., will be stepping up to commanding officer from his position as executive officer of the squadron.

The new commander was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1964 and after graduation from the Basic School was ordered to El Toro, Calif. He deployed from there to Vietnam where he served at the Chu Lai Direct Air Support Center and later was in charge of a radar team.

Since his return from Vietnam, he has served at Cherry Point, N.C., Iwakuni, Japan, and Twenty-nine Palms, Calif. He has attended formal schooling at Ft. Bliss, Tex., Glynco, Ga., and at MCB, 29 Palms. He is also a graduate of the Amphibious Warfare School.

Major Turck reported here in 1974 and has been with MACS-2 since then as operations officer and most recently, executive officer.

FMFPac says "Aloha" to old and new bosses

The Corps' largest field command, the 60,000-man strong Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, felt a new hand at the helm July 1, when LtGen. Leslie E. Brown replaced the retiring LtGen. John N. McLaughlin.

General McLaughlin, a 37-year veteran, had been the CG of FMFPac since assuming the post after the departure of General Louis H. Wilson, who became Commandant of the Marine Corps July 1, 1975. Besides service in three wars, which included a three-year stay in a Chinese prison camp, the outgoing Pac boss has been the commanding general of the San Diego Recruit Depot and the 4th Marine Division and the Chief of Staff of the Marine Corps.

The incoming FMFPac commander is a 57-year-old native of Washington state. He joined the Corps in 1940 and earned a battlefield commission while on duty with the 2d Division in the Pacific. The new CG completed flight training in 1946 and is qualified today in most of the Corps' helicopters and fixed wing aircraft. During the Korean War, he was the first Marine to fly a jet in combat.

His assignments have included duty as 1st MAW operations officer and as an attack group commander in Vietnam, Secretary to the General Staff, a Joint Chiefs of Staff Project Officer, Operations Officer for FMFPac, Duty J-3 for the U.S. Command in Europe and, most recently, Chief of Staff at Headquarters Marine Corps.

General Brown's personal decorations include two Silver Stars, three Legions of Merit with Combat "V", the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Bronze Star with Combat "V", nine Air Medals, the Navy Commendation Medal and two Purple Hearts.

The General has three grown children, Robert, Nona and Tina.

Hawaii Platoon takes to Marine way of life

During the next 12 weeks 45 young Marine recruits from the state of Hawaii will be experiencing things they never thought were possible.

These young men are members of the first "Hawaii Platoon" recruited through the First Marine Brigade's "Come Home to Hawaii" program. They left for San Diego and boot camp following swearing-in ceremonies here on June 18.

The laughter and excitement of the long plane ride became a thing of the past as the big aircraft approached its final landing.

The 15-minute bus ride from Lindbergh Field to the Marine Corps Recruit Depot seemed eternal for some, but for others it just brought them closer to their goal of being a Marine. When the bus stopped in front

When the bus stopped in front of Receiving Barracks, they were told in a clear and precise manner, "WHEN I TELL YOU TO GET OFF THE BUS YOU WILL GO THROUGH THAT DOOR, PICK UP ONE BASKET, THEN GET BACK OUTSIDE AND LINE UP ON THOSE YELLOW FOOTPRINTS PAINTED ON THE SIDEWALK." The "Hawaii Platoon" knew the owner of the voice meant business, and when the word "GET" was added, they wasted no time in following his instructions. For the first time since their arrival they were standing at the position of attention.

It was an unforgettable experience for some. Private Andres Manalo, 18, of Waialua, said his arrival at Receiving Barracks was a strange experience.

"I didn't know what to expect," he said. "We had to listen sharp and move fast. We had to keep on our toes," he said. The first transition from civilian

The first transition from civilian life to the Marine Corps life begins with the recruits' first haircuts. Their long hair was quickly abolished with a 30-second shave job.

Rubbing his hand on his head, Private Miguel Prospero, 17, of Oahu, stated, "I've never had my hair this short, but I think that I am going to like it and it will always grow back."

Corpsmen awarded for accomplishments

Two Navy Hospital Corpsmen assigned to the Third Marine Regiment have been awarded the Navy Achievement Medal.

In ceremonies July 15 at West Field, Senior Chief Hospital Corpsman Raymond Adamson and Hospital Corpsman First Class Anthony Ciaramitaro were presented the awards by Brigadier General David Twomey, commanding general of the First Marine Brigade.

Chief Adamson, who is the Administrative Chief of the Kaneohe Branch Medical Clinic, was praised for his "professional achievement in the superior performance of his duties while serving as Regimental Medical Chief, Third Marine Regiment." While working in this capacity the chief was responsible for organizing a centralized immunization clinic for the regiment which helped save money and also allowed for better control of the program. He also established an on-site hearing conservation program and an in-service training course for junior hospital corpsmen here.

Petty Officer Ciaramitaro received the medal in honor of his service as Medical Department Representative aboard the USNS Bowditch last year. While serving with Oceanographic Unit One aboard ship, Petty Officer Ciaramitaro demonstrated "exemplary leadership and an outstanding degree of pro-fessional competence in providing total medical and public health support both to the military and civilian crew" of the vessel. He worked in the development of a comprehensive sanitation and occupational safety program on the Bowditch in addition to developing training programs designed to teach the rest of the crew how to deal with major medical emergencies.

Both men were lauded for their dedication to duty and exceptional performance of duty.

THE WINNING CLUB - Members of the K-Bay Aulea Swim Club gather around the trophy that was presented to them for capturing the State Long Course Championship at the Kaimuki High School pool last weekend. Out of 120 events, Aulea took first place in 48 of them and set 11 state records. The club scored 1,690.5 points, followed by Punahou with 960.5 and Pearl Harbor with 617.

Aulea swims away with championship

For four days the Kaimuki High School pool saw plenty of action as it became the centerstage for the State Long Course Championship. 23 teams had come to participate in 120 events for the state title. When the meet had ended on Sunday it was no surprise when the Kaneohe Bay/Aulea Swim Club totaled a convincing victory, scoring 1,690.5 points and setting 11 state swimming records.

In the past ten years the club has lost the long and short course championship (held in April) only once. Sunday's victory wasn't much of a problem for K-Bay/Aulea, who had beaten second place Punahou by 730 points

Out of the 120 events the club had captured first place in 48 of them.

But winning is a household word with K-Bay/Aulea, who has an enormous number of victories in their 20 years of existence.

Although the club has been around for sometime, military personnel didn't join the club until about seven years ago.

Al Minn, the club's coach and a principal at Kailua High School, was responsible for the birth of the team and has remained with the club since its beginning. But now he isn't alone in his coaching job. While Minn takes care of coaching the AAA and national swimmers that are on the team the remainder of the club's 100 swimmers are trained by Harry Mumazuki, Brian Lee, Steve Ford, Donna Meyer and Fred Tester.

The club's training schedule is broken down into two sessions a day. Whether it be sprints or long distance swimming the team averages about six miles of swimming a day and for the AAA and national swimmers it's much more.

The club has two national swimmers in Diane Kutsunai and Kaili Chun. During the championship both swimmers set state records. Diane, age 16, set individual records in the 400 meter individual medley and the 200 meter butterfly, and a team record along with Kristin Collins, Jodi Davis and Kaili Chun in the 400 meter freestyle relay. Fifteen year old Kaili made her state record in the 100 meter backstroke.

With another championship tucked under their belt, the club has their sights set on Japan. The younger swimmers will be participating in an a, b, c meet on the islands of Maui and Kauai. But the AAA and national swimmers are training themselves for an invitational meet in northern Japan in the middle of August.
