Demonstrations suspended

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Beginning Jan. 1, 1982, public flight demonstrations and static displays of the AV-8A Harrier aircraft will be suspended until 1985 when the next generation Harrier, the AV-8B, becomes operational. According to aviation officials here, the increased tempo of Marine Corps AV-8A operation commitments — on both land and sea — dictates that the total focus of our vertical/short takeoff and landing (V/STOL) resources be directed toward the defense mission.

The Harrier aircraft is the free world's first operational V/STOL aircraft and has been in operation with the Corps for 10 years. It has been employed in numerous exercises in the United States, the Western Pacific and in Europe, and has participated on shipboard deployments to the Mediterranean, the Indian Ocean and the Western Pacific.

Additional information on remaining demonstrations can be obtained by calling the Division of Public Affairs, Community Relations Branch, at (AUTOVON) 224-8029/1387 or (202) 694-8029/1387.

Corps adopts new chart

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In Marine Corps Order 6100.0, a new weight control order replaces the height/weight chart with one that formulates a body fat percentage. This new chart was devised to accommodate those male Marines who sport 50-inch chests, 30-inch waists and who stand 6 feet tall, while weighing 240 pounds. By using the height/weight chart alone, a man of this stature would be deemed overweight, even though he has a small amount of body fat.

The body fat percentage for male Marines is determined by taking the circumference of the neck and waist and using a chart provided in the order. Body fat percentage for female Marines is based on measurements taken from the neck, waist, biceps, forearm and thigh. These measurements are added together with a correction factor of 54.598 then subtracted from the total to determine the women's body fat percentage. The maximum body fat percentage allowed for male Marines is 18 percent and for women Marines, 26 percent.

The new order still gives Marines in the weight control program six months to lose their excess weight. If a Marine is making good progress at the end of the six months but has not lost the desired amount of weight, he or she may be granted a six-month extension. However, if a Marine fails to lose the total weight after the extension has expired, he or she will be processed for discharge.

Marines who lose the desired weight, and later gain it back, will be placed back in the program for 60 days only. The time limit for reassigning a Marine in a weight control program, with a 90-day limit, is three years.

Reservists represent states

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Under the Marine Corps Recruiting Program, any Marine may request up to 30 days temporary additional duty at the recruiting station or substation nearest his or her hometown, to assist local Marine recruiters.

Marines who want to participate in this program must submit permissive (no cost to the government) TAD requests to their commanding officers for approval. Before orders are issued, coordination between the Marine's commander and the commanding officer of the recruiting station requested must be accomplished.

Marines are allowed to take annual leave in connection with permissive TAD orders. If they are already on leave in their hometown, Marines may request permissive TAD from their parent units. However, they must have enough leave time remaining to allow time to receive a reply. Marines on permanent change-of-station orders cannot participate in the program.

For further information about the Marine Corps Command Recruiting Program read ALMAR 181/80.

Marines assist recruiters

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Five Marine Corps Reserve officers are representing the United States of America in the 1981 Interallied Confederation of Reserve Officers military competition at Eindhoven, Netherlands. The competition began Monday and ends Saturday.

Selected to join the 18-man contingent are Capts Fergus Briggs, Pocatello, Idaho; William Pospisil, Sea Girt, N.J.; Edward Schroeder, North Logan, Utah; and John Welch, San Antonio, Texas; and 1stLt Billy Nevas, Elmont, N.Y.

The CIOR is a semi-official reserve organization comprised of reserve officer organizations from the NATO member countries.

Teams representing 12 NATO countries will vie for honors as competitors test their skills in various events including: rifle, pistol and submachine gun marksmanship; a 500-meter land obstacle course with 20 obstacles; a 50-meter water obstacle course with four obstacles; and a 12-to-15 kilometer orienteering run, in which competitors are tested in distance estimation, map reading, and grenade throwing.

Delegations are organized into three-man teams, with each team competing independently. Each delegation enters several teams, enabling a country to place more than one team in the top three places. In its best performance, the U.S. delegation swept the 1975 competition in Athens, Greece, taking the first three places.

This year, the U.S. delegation will attempt to improve on last year's performance at Montreal, Canada, when they finished second behind a team from France. The last time a U.S. team finished first was in 1977, at London, England, when they placed ahead of two teams from Norway.

New facility centralizes unit

It took seven years to plan, one year to build and cost more than $6 million but, Maintenance Company, Brigade Service Support Group's new home is finally complete.

THE NEW FACILITY, which is shared with the Motor Transport Company of BSSG, was officially christened during a ribbon-cutting ceremony July 29 with Col. Edward Mockler, BSSG Commanding Officer, performing the honors.

Situated on approximately 14 acres of land across from the Main Exchange, the seven-building complex enhances BSSG's mission of providing intermediate maintenance to the Brigade.

With the extra space, the unit can now easily accommodate a headquarters platoon and four commodity areas that include, engineers, motor transport, ordnance maintenance and general supply maintenance.

ACCORDING TO 1stLt Brian Green, Maintenance Company Executive Officer, "This facility is an ideal place to work because with everything centralized, we can boost our work percentage."

In the past, Maintenance Company was spread out in different areas around the air station. Now that they're consolidated Maj J.W. Wilson, Maintenance Company commanding officer comments, "We can better supervise and analyze our work functions now. We can also standardize our procedures and provide cross training."

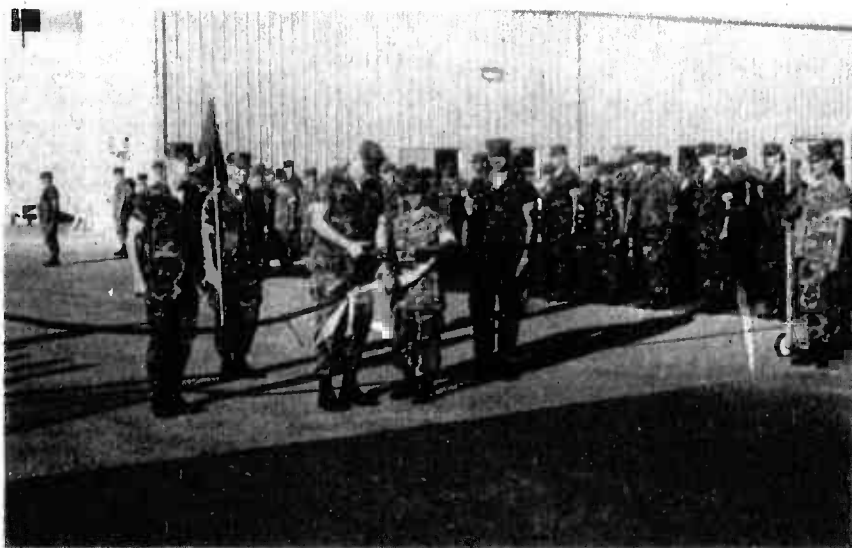

Inside the maintenance facility the offices are sparsely equipped since new furniture is due to arrive soon.

ADMINISTRATION duties are performed from field desks and in some cases, stools are used for seating.

The smell of fresh paint permeates throughout the building and echoes can often be heard resounding off the bare walls. However, in spite of that, there's a flurry of activity as the work goes on as usual, with the help of keen improvisation.

"OF COURSE WE HAVE more preparations to make before everything is just right," said 1stLt Green. He added, "But the attitude here is so great, I'm sure we can handle it. It's like a shot of adrenalin."

Independent duty Marines qualify

Government quarters opportunities open

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Marines on independent duty now have the same opportunity for government quarters aboard Marine installations as Marines assigned to those bases.

THIS CHANGE WAS announced in ALMAR 065/81. Family leased housing had previously provided limited assistance for married Marines on independent duty. However, recent Congressional budget cuts to the Domestic Leasing Program have nearly eliminated leasing as an alternative for housing married Marines.

The creation of the variable housing allowance has provided many Marines (not occupying government housing) some financial relief, but even with the additional money, affordable housing in high cost areas still poses a problem.

According to the ALMAR, all Marines on independent duty at locations within 60 minutes traveling time (one-way during rush hour traffic) of a Marine Corps installation will be given the same opportunity for quarters as Marines assigned at the installation.

IF OPERATIONAL commitments and missions are hampered by the 60-minute guide, activity commanders such as inspector-in-charge can elect to use a 30-minute guide instead.

According to officials here, Marines applying for housing are placed into different categories

(priorities). Now, Marines on independent duty meeting the 60-minute guide criterion will be placed in a priority two status while previously they had been given priority three status. Priority one status is reserved for key and essential military/civilian personnel assigned to or attached for duty at the Marine installation.

MARINES ON independent duty may receive a new control date for quarters depending on their eligibility date and/or application date. The control date will be determined by the installation's family housing officials.

Reenlistment

Marine individual ready reserve doubles bonus offer

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Marines reenlisting or extending in the Individual Ready Reserve now have immediate access to a bonus of $600 instead of $300.

This change was announced to all services in a news release from the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower, Reserve Affairs and Logistics) June 17.

PREVIOUSLY, THE initial payment was $300 with $100 payments at the end of each year of satisfactory service. Now, accelerated payments of $600 at the time of reenlistment/extension will be made to the participants in the program.

The use of extensions will be utilized where possible to reduce administrative workload and eliminate the need to readminister the enlistment oath.

Bonus payments are authorized by Congress to eligible active reserve and prior service enlisted service members who have completed their military service obligation, and who agree to serve an additional three years in the IRR or the Inactive National Guard.

Marines must agree to maintain articles of clothing, as specified by the Commandant of the Marine Corps, in serviceable condition for the entire reenlistment or extension period. Marines must also remain an enlisted member during the entire period of the reenlistment or extension.

MARINES MUST HAVE less than 10 years total service and have a skill which has been designated for bonus payment. The program is designed to increase the number of personnel available upon mobilization.

Additional information is available by calling toll-free (800) 821-3076, or by contacting your nearest Marine Corps reserve activity.

MARINE CREW — The Windward Kai junior men lose control after finishing first in their two mile event. Later during Saturday's regatta the crew, consisting of five Marines from Battery K, 1st Battalion, 12th Marines and veteran Hawaiian steersman Henry Palakiko, entered and finished third in the senior men's two and one half-mile race. Members of the crew (front to rear) are: 1stLt Mike Stephens, LCpl Siasosi Atola, 1stLt Pat Bristol, Capt Al Helm, Cpl Mark McConnell, and Palakiko. For a story and more photos turn to Page A-8.

Day Camp enlightens children

by Cpl Inez Stoner

CAMP H.M. SMITH, Hawaii — One hundred twenty dependent children, 19 teens and 22 adults from the Camp H.M. Smith area spent five days communing with God and nature at the first Ecumenical Christian Day Camp. The day camp, located at Camp Hawkins July 13 through 17, was sponsored by the Camp Smith Chapel and directed by Princess Joslyn.

THE DAY CAMP followed a program which was originally established by Navy Chaplain (Commander) James Goode at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C. in 1972. "The purpose of the day camp," explained Chaplain Goode, "is to enable the children, youths and adults to discover how God is related to the total process of nature and how his presence is expressed in a 'family unit.' "

The day camp was broken down into 10 family units, each comprised of 10 to 14 children supervised by one adult and two teens volunteering their spare time. The children ranged in age from 6 to 12 years and were identified by nature names which they picked themselves.

WITHIN family units, the children rotated responsibilities each day. They also set up their camps and planned and executed a variety of activities.

In addition to one and a half, three- and five-mile hikes conducted by Marines volunteering their off-duty time, the children enjoyed a number of other activities all designed to show them that God's spirit is always among them.

During the week the children made ice cream and sand candles, tie-dyed T-shirts, studied arts and crafts with several local artists, participated in outdoor drama and even rappelled off a small cliff. Outdoor and campfire safety was emphasized as each child brought his own lunch each day but also had the opportunity to cook a meal and dessert over a campfire.

THREE traveling minstrels' wandered from group to group during the five days, teaching the children new songs. Also, a group of Hawaiian senior citizens visited the day camp, explaining the local culture through folk songs, dances, legends and chants and discussing religion in Hawaii.

One of the Marines who volunteered his off-duty time to work with the children as a group leader was LCpl James Turner. LCpl Turner is with motor transportation and has worked in the past with handicapped children. "I really thought that I would be teaching these kids things," related LCpl Turner, "but they're teaching me! It works both ways, you know."

THE DAY CAMP lasted from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. each day and ended Friday with the children making a huge banner. The banner was personalized by each child's handprint and presented to Chaplain Goode.

ARTS AND CRAFTS AND GOD — Several children from one of the 'family units' make crucifixes from clothes pins at the Ecumenical Christian Day Camp at Camp H.M. Smith, July 13 through 17. The children spent five days at the day camp enjoying such activities as ice cream and sand candles making, singing and outdoor drama.

A WALK THROUGH NATURE — Sporting the T-shirts they tie-dyed the day before, these children return to the main camp area after a hike through the woods surrounding Camp H.M. Smith. The children spent five days at the First Ecumenical Christian Day Camp, July 13 through 17, discovering how God is related to the total process of nature.

Marine joins comrades in Arlington Cemetery

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The remains of former Marine Cpl Rene A. Gagnon, who participated in the flag raising on Mount Suribachi, Iwo Jima, during World War II, were reinterred in Arlington National Cemetery, July 7.

Gagnon's remains joined those of two fellow Marines who participated in the raising of the American flag, former Sgt Michael Strank and former Cpl Ira H. Hayes.

TOGETHER, THEY SHARE a resting place near the statue created by the sculptor Felix de Weldon of the Pulitzer Prize winning photograph of the flag raising taken by photographer Joe Rosenthal.

Gagnon died Oct. 12, 1979, of a heart attack at the age of 54, and was previously buried at Mount Calvary Mausoleum in Manchester, N.H. Following his sudden death, Gagnon's widow requested information on the possibility of her husband's remains being interred at Arlington National Cemetery. Mrs. Gagnon was informed that it was not possible because her husband did not meet the requirements for burial there.

THE REQUIREMENTS limit interment at Arlington National Cemetery "in part, to persons dying while on active duty in the Armed Forces, retired personnel receiving retired pay, those who are recipients of the Medal of Honor, Navy Cross, Silver Star, Purple Heart, or veterans who have incurred a 30 percent or greater disability resultant of their military service.

In January of this year, Mrs. Gagnon requested the assistance of Gen. Robert H. Barrow, Commandant of the Marine Corps, in having her late husband's remains reinterred in Arlington National Cemetery.

In response to Mrs. Gagnon's request, the Commandant requested a waiver of policy to allow for her husband's interment from the Secretary of the Army, who has responsibility for Arlington National Cemetery. April 16, 1981, the request for the waiver was approved.

Former Cpl Gagnon served on active duty in the Marine Corps from May 6, 1943 until honorably discharged on April 27, 1946.

Library offers new film service

Audio-visual units aid leathernecks

The Station Library has a new film service available for Marines and sailors.

THE FILM service is set up in the air-conditioned tape room of the library. More than 200 films are on hand with subjects ranging from infantry and aviation to communications.

The film service is used in conjunction with Training Extension Courses, a self-paced, multimedia instruction especially designed to assist in acquiring and maintaining skills critical in the on-the-job performance of the individual Marine or sailor.

ALTHOUGH the Training Extension

Course lesson packages were developed by the Army, they have been incorporated for Marine Corps use. The TEC was specifically designed to aid unit commanding officers in fulfilling individual training responsibilities. Courses are designed so that the Marine or sailor can complete the lessons on his own, at his own speed.

Interested Marines and sailors may check in at the main desk of the library and ask to use the tape room, according to Ginny Yeager, a library technician.

"ONCE THE patron is signed in," Yeager says, the tape room is unlocked and he or she is given instructions for using the equipment. The tape room can presently handle two patrons at a time by each utilizing headphones.

If a waiting list for the tape room begins, a one-hour time limit will be imposed.

Tested in Marine

Corps installations in 1977, the audiovisual units were incorporated by the Marine Corps the same year, according to Capt Edwin Davis, officer-in-charge of the station's Training and Audio-visual Support Center.

"TAVSC loaned the audio-visual units to the Station Library on a permanent basis," states Capt Davis. "We will make a classroom available in the Station Training building sometime in the future."

ACCORDING TO Capt Davis, plans include using the training units for Marine Corps Institute courses and essential subjects training.

If you're looking for a cool, quiet place to brush up on a wide variety of subjects, just visit the Station Library and inquire about using the tape room.

EDITORIAL / OPINION

Street Scoop

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Hawaii Marine asked Marines if they knew what a liberty card was and whether or not they thought the Corps should reinstate the practice of issuing them to junior enlisted. If they didn't know, we explained what liberty cards were and then asked their opinion. The Marine Corps began phasing out liberty cards in 1970. What are liberty cards and do you think the Marine Corps should begin issuing them again to junior enlisted Marines?

1stLt Val Richards, VMFA-235 (joined the Corps in 1977): "Yes, we had them at Quantico during the summer of '77. We had to check in and out with our company to go on liberty. I accept that the use of liberty cards could be effective as a form of punishment and reward."

SSgt Paul Bennington, Hq. Co., 1st MarBde (joined the Corps in 1973): "I've never seen one. When I came in, they had apparently already done away with them. It's a great idea as long as they keep it below E-5. Once in the staff ranks, you're supposed to be mature enough to handle yourself."

SSgt Ray Smith, H&HS: "I honestly don't know what they are, but it sounds like an excellent idea. It would be a better way to control the troops. Being a Marine shouldn't stop at 4:30 p.m."

LCpl Roger Murphy, HMH-463, (joined the Corps in 1979): "It sounds like a card you've got to have to go on liberty. I think if you work your hours you should get your liberty. The average Marine should be responsible enough to take care of himself."

Cards monitor liberty time

by Sgt Shane Phelps

Since the Navy has recently re-established the practice of issuing liberty cards to its junior enlisted sailors, can the Marine Corps be far behind? I hope not.

BEFORE GOING ANY further, an explanation of what liberty cards are is

Cyclists Respect is a two-way road

by Sgt Nora Parrish

On the way to work one morning, I turned down Fifth Street and was greeted by a bicyclist heading in the same direction I was.

Bicyclists are a common sight around the air station and usually don't cause any problems for motorists. But this was a case where I really wondered what to expect, since the cyclist was riding in the middle of the lane with his arms casually hanging down by his sides.

CAUTIOUSLY APPROACHING him from behind, I checked oncoming traffic and thought about passing him (as I would any other vehicle on the road). Suddenly he glanced over his shoulder at me, changed into the oncoming lane and rode along as if he owned the road.

I didn't really think much about it at the time because he seemed to know what he was doing. But once I arrived at my office and thought about the possibilities of what could have happened to the cyclist, myself and maybe another driver, it began to bother me.

The accidents that could have happened are numerous but the three that haunt me most could've caused bodily harm to one or more persons or damage to a vehicle.

in order since this week's Street Scoop reveals that a substantial number of Kaneohe Bay Marines don't know.

Until 1970, when the use of liberty cards was abolished, all enlisted Marines, sergeants and below, were required to carry a liberty card while on liberty. A Marine had to check in to the duty NCO before going on leave to pick up his card. It was the duty NCO's responsibility to determine whether or not a Marine was properly attired and properly groomed, including a regulation haircut. If not, no liberty card. No liberty card, no liberty.

Moreover, it was within the authority of a senior Marine, particularly those with whom you worked, to secure your liberty privileges by simply withholding your liberty card.

IT MUST BE STATED that the liberty card procedure varied from command to command but, essentially, you get the idea.

As one might expect, Marines ranking sergeant and below are not wild about the idea of reinstating liberty cards and those ranking staff sergeant and above are much in favor of it.

Invariably, most senior Marines, those who would not be subject to suspension of liberty privileges, argue that being able to hold a junior Marine's liberty privileges over his head would be an effective way of gaining a Marine's cooperation.

It occurs to me, however, that if a staff NCO or an officer has to rely on practices such as liberty cards to secure the obedience of a subordinate, he or she is probably doing something wrong in the first place. And besides, the Corps seems to have done fine the last 11 years without liberty cards.

A SENIOR MARINE should gain the obedience of troops by first gaining their respect and instilling confidence in his judgement. It has been my experience that one does not gain the respect of one's troops through extortory means. They gain only their contempt.

My father, who spent 27 years as an infantry Marine, always told me that the four most important things in building morale are pay, food, mail and liberty. When the regularity of any of these is interrupted, morale declines and resentment builds.

The most obvious question that comes to my mind about re-establishing the use of liberty cards is simply: why?

Do we presently have a problem with Marines on liberty, and if so, is it a problem that would be solved by regulating the liberty of junior Marines?

IF NO PROBLEM EXISTS, there seems no reason why the Corps should attempt to institute a solution. If a problem exists, the Corps already has several methods which it may use to correct the situation.

Being a reservist on two weeks active duty, I am often called upon in civilian life to defend the Marine Corps and the armed services against derogatory comments born of ignorance of the military. It is a comfort to be able to inform those who believe that Marines are chained to their racks at night that this is not the case.

If the Marine Corps is to be a step toward adulthood, or a maturation process, then the Corps must allow Marines the room to grow and mature. If a Marine abuses his liberty privileges, then he should be taken to task, but we should not presume this abuse before it happens, nor should others be penalized for the actions of a few.

MARINES ARE GROWN MEN and women and must be given the benefit of the doubt.

The beginning of responsibility is to be responsible for one's own conduct. Rather than force a Marine to conform his conduct to Marine Corps standards by hanging the possibility of secured liberty over his head, the Corps should encourage the development of responsibility within young Marines by affording them the opportunity to prove that they are capable of taking care of themselves.

My Turn

Lack of transportation

We Marines of Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay have a vitally important problem that has been ignored these past few years and must be discussed with sincere effort toward correction — the issue of transportation.

Many Marines, (especially deployable Marines) don't own vehicles. During the week, these men put in long, hard hours of work and guard details. Frequently they have to work around the clock. I feel that if a man puts in a good amount of work around the clock, then when he does get off for liberty, there should be adequate transportation around the clock to get him to his destination and return him safely home.

Why no vehicles?

Saving up the money for a car can take several months as we all know. Occasionally, if a car is bought by a Marine it can be used only a couple of months before it has to be sold or given to someone to hold before that Marine goes on deployment. Many leathernecks find this a waste of time and effort thus (keeping these difficulties in mind) their decision not to buy a car is quickly obtained.

Why not use the city bus?

To start with, getting to the city bus could mean a long three-fourths of a mile walk out the front gate or a two-mile hike out the back in Hawaii's dry or liquid sunshine. Then, there's the 30-minute wait once you reach the bus stop.

City buses enroute to Kaneohe stop running at 10 p.m. and many times inaccurate bus scheduling leaves our Marines stranded in town.

Why not hitchhike?

"Share a ride" signs are posted on both roads heading off the base, yet on the average, one out of every 75 cars passing will stop and take Marines partly to their destinations. (With the Band of Brothers and esprit de corps constantly being stressed throughout this base, I feel we can do a bit better than that!)

And last but not least . . . the Liberty Bus.

Our liberty bus doesn't start running until 6 p.m., leaving many of us to wonder what it would be like to get up bright and early one Saturday morning and catch a bus to the other side of the island near Sunset Beach and Waimea to spend the day. Still wondering.

Hundreds of guys gather in front of our exchange and club to catch the varying four to six buses that haul them to Waikiki. Many times the buses fill quickly, leaving Marines standing in place to wait for the next bus which comes two hours later. Since each bus run is two or more hours apart, nearly every trip is an uncomfortable

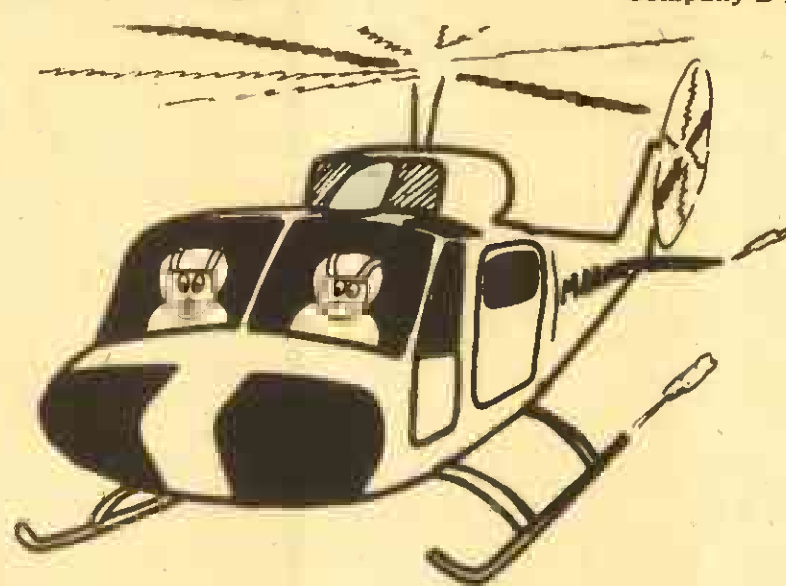

The last liberty bus leaves the military personnel parking lot in Waikiki for Kaneohe at 2 a.m. every morning; which leaves us with our most pitiful fact — practically every weekend night, 30 to 60 Marines are left sleeping on the ground.

Many of these leathernecks are highly intoxicated and because of the frustration of missing the bus and knowing the first city bus doesn't run until 8 a.m., they head back into Waikiki and many times end up in trouble.

This certainly is a poor example of esprit de corps and taking care of our own. But we let the problem persist.

With hard work these men make life easier for us in garrison, so with sincere concern and idealism let's make life easier for them when they're on liberty.

True friends last forever

by Sgt Cheryl Martin

People do come and go in our lives, especially in those of us in the military, or those who have grown up in military families.

My father was in the Navy. We moved every two or three years. I grew up around the world. I have met, known and loved many people and have no regrets about having had to leave them.

I BELIEVE THAT FRIENDSHIP is the most valuable of possessions. Others can take away your job, your money and your faith but never can they take away your true friends.

Sometimes you question who your "true" friends are. They are the people who know and love all sides of you. They care about you when you wake up in the morning and you're grumpy. They stand by you when you are angry, hurt and disillusioned. They accept you because you are you.

True friends are people in the span of a lifetime who actually touch your life. Not physical touching, but the kind of contact that moves you and changes your life from that moment forward.

FRIENDS GIVE MUCH AND take much without worrying whether or not they've given more than they've gotten, or gotten more than they've given. There is a silent understanding among friends, and inexplicable balance.

True friends never say goodbye, for they know that someday, somewhere they will meet again. And though the years may have passed, it will seem as though they've been separated only for moments.

Since I've been in the Corps, I have met many people in many places. I've lost contact with some of my true friends. But, someday I will find them, or they me, whichever.

THE MILITARY IS A GREAT place to make friends but it is up to us to maintain those friendships. They need nourishment and love to survive.

Keep in touch with those you care about. Even a Christmas card is important to a friend.

People will constantly come and go throughout our lives. If you find a friend, hold on to him for friendships are like gold, they'll not tarnish with age.

Happiness is...a smile

by Sgt Nora Parrish

Smiling is happy and fun, feels good, looks nice and doesn't cost anything!

Anonymous

National Smile Week is Aug. 3 through 8. Why do people smile?

THERE ARE MANY cliches about smiling. A few are:

It takes fewer muscles to smile than it does to frown.

It makes people wonder what you've been up to; and

Your day will seem a little brighter if you smile.

Even when the chips are down a reason can be found to smile. Children are enough to part their parents lips in an ear-to-ear grin. For single people, it may be the thought of a loved one.

Letters from home, pay day, time off and promotions are sure-fire things to bring a smile to most anyone's face.

Often the things people take for granted are the best sources of a smile, like the everyday joys that make people smile inside and out. A grassy green field, a flower in bloom, a favorite song played on the radio, friends calling just to say hello, a gentle breeze on a hot summer day or a walk along the beach are all smile makers.

BUT THERE'S MORE to a smile than a person's lips curling upward. There are different types of smiles. A well known smile of perfect white teeth glistening in the sunshine could be easily recognized by many people as former President Jimmy Carter's even without his twinkling eyes.

People's eyes are a very important part of a smile. Many people look at a person's eyes when talking and just like smiles, eyes can be happy, pleasant, approving, sarcastic or sad. A smile can come in all sizes from extra small to extra large and smiling is contagious.

As the song goes, "Smile and the world smiles with you, cry and you cry alone."

So smile, and have a happy day.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A new records management system has been adopted here that changes the official photograph requirements and submission schedule.

ACCORDING TO THE Administrative Management Section, the system was adopted to improve the quality of the official photographs which have been traditionally used by selection boards, career management activities and other special selection and assignment programs.

Effective immediately, one four-inch by five-inch photograph, three-quarter view, displaying the individual Marine standing with left shoulder forward, will be submitted. Front and side view photographs are no longer required. The uniform for official photographs will be summer service "C" with ribbons, uncovered. (This uniform will be used, regardless of season.)

A HAND-LETTERED title board (two-inch high letters), listing the individual's last name, first name and middle initial, rank, primary MOS, complete social security number, height (inches), weight and date photograph was taken, will be placed at or near the Marine's feet so that it will be legible in the photograph.

Marines will now submit one photo per rank held, within 60 days after first becoming eligible for consideration for promotion as prescribed in 1400 series Marine Corps bulletins. Second lieutenants and warrant officers (WO-1) will submit photos while in a student status at The Basic School or Warrant Officer Basic Course.

THE NEW POLICY WILL provide for a better quality photograph, reduce submission occasions to a minimum and reduce or eliminate the administrative burden of typing and verifying personal data on the photo.

Complete information and details can be found in Marine Corps Bulletin 1070 of June 8, 1981.

Marines kick off tournament

by Sgt Cheryl Martin

KONA, Hawaii — The 23rd Hawaiian International Billfish Tournament got off to an impressive start with the Fleet Marine Force Pacific Band leading the opening day parade, July 26.

The tournament is an internationally acclaimed event with 75 teams entered from 35 countries. Called the "Olympics of Big Game Fishing" the tourney pits fishermen against fishermen, and anglers against the billfish themselves and the Kona waters.

IN 1958, Peter Fithian was struck with the idea of staging a major marlin fishing tournament every year to focus attention on the excellent big game fishing the Kona waters offered. In view of the many kinds of billed fishes waiting to be caught, the emphasis of the tournament would be placed on them instead of limiting it to marlin fishing.

Less than a year later, the first running of the event took place in 1959 with a field of 24 fishing teams, including ones from Australia and New Zealand.

WORD QUICKLY spread about the tournament and it has continued to grow over the last two decades. For nearly a quarter of a century, the men and boats of the Hawaiian International Billfish Tournament have been going to sea every summer in the continuing effort to prove who is the best in meeting the challenges of the great billfish of the Pacific.

The actual fishing lasted from 5 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily for a week. The winners were determined by the size and weight of the greatest billfish caught. Last year's champions, from the Beverly Hills Yacht Club of California were on hand again this year to try and retain the title.

OPENING ceremonies lasted several hours with the FMF-

Pac Band playing the national anthem's from each represented country and the FMFPac saluting Battery, Service Company, Camp H.M. Smith saluted each with cannonfire out to sea.

MGySgt Dwight Treat, director of the band and Capt Duane Hegna, FMFPac, saluting Battery commanders each received plaques of appreciation from the board of governors of the Hawaiian International Association, for their participation.

CLOWNING AROUND — LCpl Charles Byrd of the Fleet Marine Force Pacific Band "cuts the fool" with a roving funnyman before the opening day parade of the 23rd Annual Hawaiian International Billfish Tournament. The band provided musical support for the worldwide event which started July 26.

FIRE IN THE HOLE!! — The Fleet Marine Force Pacific Saluting Battery stands at attention as their 75mm howitzer goes off, paying tribute to each of the countries participating in the 23rd Annual Hawaiian Billfish Tournament. The tournament kicked off July 26 with a parade down the streets of Kona, Hawaii, followed by ceremonies at the launch site.

DEEP APPRECIATION — Kani Evans of the Board of Governors of the Hawaiian International Billfish Association presents MGySgt Dwight Treat and Capt Duane Hegna plaques of appreciation. MGySgt Treat is the Fleet Marine Force Pacific Band director and Capt Hegna is the commander of the FMFPac Saluting Battery. Both units took part in the opening ceremonies, July 26, of the 23rd Annual Hawaiian International Billfish Tournament held in Kona, Hawaii.

Ancient Hawaiian monarch's reign ended abruptly

by SSgt Dennis Litalien

Upon the death of the shrewd, he lacked the strength of character Kamehameha the Great in 1819, his 23-year-old son, Liholiho, became monarch of the Hawaiian kingdom. Liholiho took the name Kamehameha II when he became king. Although amiable and

IT WAS TO be a short five-year reign for Liholiho, but during that time Hawaii found itself in the midst of profound changes. Liholiho added to the drama of the times by doing away with the ancient kapu system. The young king literally took the matter of abolishing kapu into his own hands by breaking one of its strictest laws. It was traditionally forbidden that men and women eat together. Liholiho boldly ignored the law and sat down to eat with women at a public feast. When the meal ended he commanded that all heiaus and idols be destroyed. Many of Liholiho's subjects were happy to see the demise of the kapu system. They had become exposed to the ways of foreigners and had begun to fall away from traditional practices. For others however, Liholiho's edict was the focal point of anger. EVEN WITH the lifting of kapu, Hawaiians remained a religious-minded people. This characteristic created a void soon filled by the arrival of Christian missionaries from New England in 1820. In short order many of the ali'i were baptized and various schools and missions established. It is interesting to note that despite a rapid changes in religious beliefs some continued to follow the ancient ways. In the midst of these developments Liholiho and many of his chiefs were busy conducting a prosperous trade in sandalwood with the British, French and Americans. Sandalwood soon established itself as a major Hawaiian export. By 1830 the greedy exploitation of this fragrant wood diminished the supply and trade collapsed. This source of revenue was replaced by the selling of merchandise and services to the whaling ships. IN 1824 Liholiho decided to visit England. His voyage stemmed from his own love of travel and desire to increase his power and become the world.

knowledgeable of the world beyond Hawaii. He and his entourage arrived at Portsmouth, England May 18, 1824. Before an audience with King George VI could be conducted Liholiho, his wife Kamamalu and several members of his party contracted the measles. Lacking the immunity of the Europeans, Liholiho died of the disease July 14, 1824, a victim of his own love of travel and desire to learn about the world.

A meeting to organize Intramural 8-man Flag Football teams will be held tomorrow at 11 a.m. in the Family Theater Lobby. The season will start Sept. 8. Command authorization forms for entering unit teams are available at the Athletics Office.

The AKU Marines' Dive Club meets the third Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in Building 566 behind the Disbursing Office. For more information, contact SSGT Tony Davis at 267-3280 or 254-1141.

MCAS Kaneohe Bay Marina will be the site of an unusual contest Aug. 30, when the bay will be taken over by UFO's (unidentified floating objects). A UFO is anything but a boat, and it's powered by man. The tricky part is that it must be able to race a one-mile course starting and finishing at the Marina. There can be no more than four members on the float (one time and teams will not have more than 20 members). Each team of four-man crews must also race at least one-fifth of the course. The entry fee is $20 per float and the deadline is Aug. 28 at the Marina. All UFO's must be at the Marina by 10 a.m. Aug. 29 for inspection and judging. The race will start at noon Aug. 30.

An organizational meeting concerning Intramural Volleyball will be held Friday at 11 a.m. in the Family Theater Lobby. Command authorization forms for entering unit teams are available at the Athletics Office.

MCAS Kaneohe Bay will sponsor the 1981 Hawaii Marine Athletic Council Cross Country 10-Race Aug. 23. The event will be held in conjunction with the Road Runners Club of America Championship 10-k run on the same day. Starting time is 7 a.m. at Dewey Square. The HMAC is open to all Marine runners attached to Marine Barracks, Hawaii, Camp Smith, and MCAS Kaneohe Bay/1st Marine Brigade. For additional information contact Dana Slack in the Athletics Office at 267-3108, 3258, or 3520.

The Tropic Lightning Motorcycle Club has been reactivated at Schofield Barracks and is looking for new members. The club is open to all military personnel and their dependents, both active and retired. The club is planning activities for all types of motorcycles, street and dirt riders. Plans also call for moto-cross races.

Stay Marine.

Almost to the nth degree.

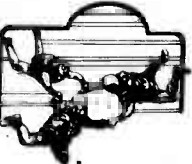

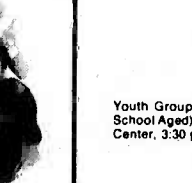

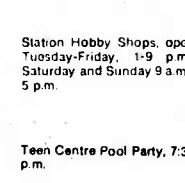

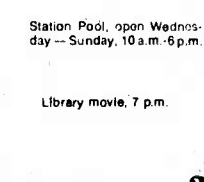

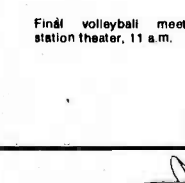

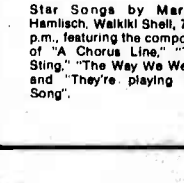

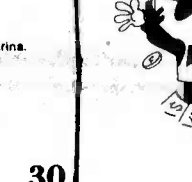

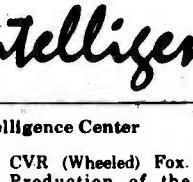

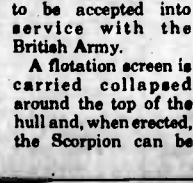

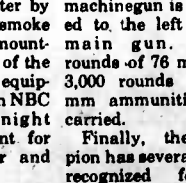

For a college degree, special courses or a little brushing up, the Corps has tuition programs you could qualify for. In some cases, 100% of the bill is paid for by the Corps. Try and find that support in a civilian job.

In fact, what civilian job matches the Corps with job security... medical and retirement benefits... educational programs... and the pride you have of being a Marine? Think it over and...

Stay Marine.

Intelligence Brief

by Combat Intelligence Center

The FV101 Scorpion Reconnaissance Vehicle is one of the most versatile vehicles used by the British Army and has attracted large orders from Europe and the Middle East.

IN THE EARLY 1960s a requirement was issued by the British for a new reconnaissance vehicle. These became the CVR (Combat Vehicle Reconnaissance) (Track-ed) Scorpion and the CVR (Wheeled) Fox. Production of the Scorpion started in late 1971 and entered service in the British Army in 1973.

The Scorpion has a hull of all-welded construction and is the first vehicle of all aluminum constructed to be accepted into service with the British Army.

A flotation screen is carried collapsed around the top of the hull and, when erected, the Scorpion can be propelled in water by its tracks. Three smoke dischargers are mounted on each side of the turret. Standard equipment includes an NBC system and night vision equipment for both the driver and gunner.

THE SCORPION carries two guns. Its main armament is the 76 mm gun with an elevation of +35° and a depression of -10°, and a traverse of 360°. Both the elevation and traverse are operated manually. A 7.62 mm machinegun is mounted to the left of the main gun. Forty rounds of 76 mm and 3,000 rounds of 7.62 mm ammunition are carried.

Finally, the Scorpion has several easily recognized features. The turret is angular with the widest area located nearly halfway up and positioned towards the rear of the hull. The commander is positioned on the left and the gunner on the right. The driver sits at the front left of the vehicle.

Consumer's Choice

EDITOR'S NOTE: not be limited just to areas like how promptly you pay your bills. It can include the opinions of your friends and neighbors on your character, general reputation, and manner of living.

WHAT IF THE information is in error? And what if it hurts your chance to get a loan or a job?

A Booklet by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation tells how to set matters straight. The booklet's title is the same as the law it explains — The Fair Credit Reporting Act. For a free copy, write the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 608J, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

How do you know if unfavorable information is in your file? Under the law, anyone who denied you credit or employment or raises your insurance rates on the basis of an unfavorable credit report is required to tell you that this was the reason for the decision, and to provide you with the name and address of the credit agency that prepared the report.

THE MOST used credit agency on Oahu is Credit Bureau Services in Honolulu.

You should contact them as soon as possible and tell them you want to review your file. Your request must be in writing since CBS won't disclose the information over the telephone.

Your written request should include your full name, present address, date of birth, social security number, telephone number, your spouse's full name, and your employer's name and address.

The information should be mailed to Credit Bureau Services, 1164 Bishop Street, Suite 500, Consumer Relations Department, Honolulu, HI. 96813.

IF BOTH YOU and your spouse are requesting a file, enclose identifying information and signatures for both.

If you have not been declined credit in the past 45 days, there is a $5.20 charge for the service (both you and your spouse, $7.80) payable in advance.

If you have been refused credit based on a report from CBS in the past 45 days, there is no charge for the service as long as you send the letter you received from the firm declining the credit or furnish the name of the firm and the date of refusal.

If you find inaccurate or incomplete information in your file, point it out to the credit agency. Unless your objections are obviously frivolous or irrelevant, they're required to reinvestigate. And if this second check fails to verify the information, they're legally bound to remove it from your file. They must also notify people who have received erroneous reports that this correction has been made.

EVEN IF THE re-investigation doesn't result in the removal or correction of the objectionable information, you have the right to include your own version of the dispute, where it will be part of all future reports.

In dealing with the credit reporting agency, it's also important to know what rights you don't have under the law.

You can't, for instance, demand for free the kind of report on yourself that a business gets when it pays for the reporting company's services. Nor are you legally entitled to a copy of your file, although some credit agencies (such as CBS) will give you one voluntarily. And regardless of what you resolve with the credit reporting agency, the law does not compel anyone to do business with you.

HAWAII MARINE

STILL LOOKS GOOD — George Barlage, a retired Marine master sergeant, scans through an issue of the "Hawaii Marine" during his recent visit to Oahu. Barlage was once the editor of the newspaper from 1958 through 1959 when it was called the "Windward Marine." As for the present Marine weekly he commented, "It still looks good. I really like the ads because they help keep the military families informed." Barlage was a prisoner of war for 40 months during World War II. He retired from the Corps in August 1959 and is now the public affairs officer for the Federal Aviation Administration, Southwest Region in Fort Worth, Texas.

Daily Bread

The daily breakfast and weekend/holiday breakfast/brunch menus consist of fresh fruit, assorted hot and dry cereals, eggs to order, omelettes, creamed or chipped beef, assorted meats, hash browns and hot cakes or French toast.

All lunch and dinner menus include assorted salads, beverages, breads and desserts.

The menus for today through Tuesday are:

TODAY — Lunch: soup, tuna casserole, veal loaf, french fried potatoes, mushroom gravy, mustard greens and stewed tomatoes. Dinner: soup, corned beef with apple glaze, braised pork slices, parsley buttered potatoes, cabbage and fried okra.

THURSDAY — Lunch: Swedish meatballs, liver & onions, buttered noodles, peas, vegetable combination and brown gravy. Dinner: roast turkey, natural turkey gravy, parsley rice, apple dressing, Lyonnaise green beans, corn on the cob, cranberry sauce and hot dinner rolls.

FRIDAY — Lunch: soup, lasagna, assorted pizza, succotash, fried summer squash and garlic bread. Dinner: New England clam chowder, steamship round, baked potato with sour cream, buttered green beans and broccoli polonaise.

SATURDAY — Brunch/Dinner: soup, ham steak, mashed potatoes, brown gravy, buttered peas and carrots and cauliflower au gratin.

SUNDAY — Brunch/Dinner: tomato soup, chicken cacciatore, spaghetti with meat sauce, broccoli polonaise, buttered peas and garlic bread.

MONDAY — Lunch: soup, beef balls stroganoff, buttered noodles, green beans and mushrooms and fried summer squash.

Dinner: soup, fried fish portion, grilled salmon steak, macaroni and cheese, corn on the cob, and buttered asparagus.

TUESDAY — Lunch: soup, baked stuffed pork chops, scalloped sweet potatoes with apples, brown gravy, cauliflower au gratin and buttered peas.
