Getting to know you 1/3 dependents build team spirit

by Cpl Christopher L. Wood

It's a great way for wives to get to know each other," said Genny Templeton, ombudaman for dependents of Battalion Landing Team,1st Battalion, 3d Marines. She was referring to a field meet for wives and children of Marines deployed with BLT 1/3, held at Coleman Field, Feb. 21.

"It also lets the children say, Hey, my daddy's not the only one away from home," said Templeton, wife of First Sergeant Raymond Templeton, Weapons Company, 1/3. "The kids don't feel like they're alone."

Kathy Campbell, wife of Lieutenant Colonel Larry E Campbell, commanding officer of BLT 1/3, agrees that get-togethers among dependents are useful. "I think it really helps bond the unit," she said. "It enhances the team spirit of the BLT. And we are extremely proud of our BLT.

The field meet was organized by Templeton, Shirley Trader (assistant ombudsman), and the contact people for the dependents.

"It was really a team effort," Templeton said. "The women worked hard and put quite a bit into it as a team.

Dependent children participated in a number of lively activities. They played catch with water halloons and got wrapped up in a centipede-like game, where the person at the head of the line tries. to grab a "tail" off the person at biking, jogging, and softball the end. But the most exciting time for the kids was when their moms battled it out in a tug-of-war. Youngsters screamed with delight as their moms struggled on either side of a make-shift mud puddle. When a mom got muddy, the giggles followed.

The entire interior of the Main Store is being redesigned, including entire departments being moved to different areas of the store. The most significant change being the move of the Self-Service Department from its original area to the area occupied by the Home Improvement Center (HIC). The Islands' first chapter of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, USA, was instituted during ceremonies at the Punchbowl Feb. 21, Presidents' Day, During the same ceremonies, officers for the new Rainbow Chapter 483 were installed

"We are a very important and significant veterans organiza-tion," said Alfred Los Banos, the new chapter's commander, "and should be added to the list of veterans organizations."

Three active duty Marines were appointed to officer positions within the chapter during the early morning ceremonies. The 1st Marine Brigade's Chief of Staff, Colonel Richard Esau, was named Judge Advocate. Lieutenant Colonel James Barta G-3 plans officer, is the new Americanism Officer and Chief Warrant Officer 4 William Thomas, Jr. command club management system officer. is the Welfare Officer.

The Purple Heart is awarded to military personnel wounded in combat. Originally known as the Badge of Merit, the medal was instituted by George Washington during the Revolutionary War. Presidenta' Day was chosen for the ceremony because of its historical significance; Washington was known as the Father of the badge of Merit.

We like to work as closely as possible with the active duty military," said Los Banos, a retired Army master sergeant. Other chapter officers include Charles Gerlach, Jr. as the new Senior Vice Commander and Albert Reed as the Junior Vice Commander.

Los Banos has pledged support for the other veterans organizations in obtaining legislation for American veterans, one of the organization's primary goals. 'We need to strengthen all veterans organizations," said Los Banos. "We have also dedicated ourselves to perpetuating all American holidays," he added, an important task that, according to Los Banos, no other organizationa seem to have undertaken.

Organizations represented at the ceremonies include the Disabled American Veterans; American Legion; Veterans of Foreign Wars; Military Intelligence Service; Military Order of World Wars; World War I Veterane; and American Veterans.

CASTLE HIGH SCHOOL, KANEOHE, Hawaii – Keeping with tradition, several Marines from Marine Corps Air Station U meohe Bay, answered a special rall for belp recently.

The Windward District Special Olympics Track and Field Meet was held here Feb. 18, and those leathernecks volunteered their time to assist with the 150 handicapped children from nine schools.

Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-165 fielded the largest number of volunteers. Upon hearing of the request for assistance, First Lioutenant Joseph Brown, squadron maintenance control officer, enlisted the services of 10 '165 Marines whom, he said, were enthusiastic about the idea. Supply Company, Brigade Group. Service Support Ist Marine Brigade, furnished squad of Marines to set up shade awnings, and a few other air station Marines also showed 10 (1)

The overwhelming response came from the recruiting efforts of Master Sergeant Earl Mcgeohegan, Naval Aviation Engineering Service Unit detachment. Mcgeohegan is a member of the Kiwanis Club of Kaneohe that donated bus transportation for the schools.

Once underway, the meet moved continually from one event to another. The athletes, afflicted with defects ranging from cerebral palsy to being confined to wheelchairs, ran, threw, jumped, and rolled their way through activities designed especially for them. It was heartwarming to see the special olympians attempt, and complete, events some spectators thought to be impossible.

The heat of the day could not compare with the warmth generated from the interaction between the Marines and their new friends. Mcgeohegan commented that not only did the Marine participation make the event possible, but, "They made some relationships that will continue into the future," he said.

Packing M-16 rifles, men and women from Headquarters Company, 1st Marine Brigade, flew by halicopter to Bellows Beach on Feb. 16 to train in the construction and usage of rope bridges.

A class on building one and two-rope bridges was given by Sergeant Shannon Barnhill and Sergeant Stephen Dunker, both from 3d Reconnaissance Battalion.

After the class, all Marines were required to cross the bridges using the techniques shown by the instructors. A few Marines got wet, but everyone made a successful crossing.

When asked how they liked training in the field, Corporal Debbie Stone and Corporal Sahrina H. Hayes, both from Headquarters Company, replied,

Marine teaches aerobics

by Cpl Peggy Bolling

Physical fitness seems to be the craze of the 80s. But, with the high cost of health clubs and fancy workout clothes, some people may feel like feeding their tennis shoes to the dog and climbing back into bed with a box of Twinkins.

However, Corporal Joele Montex wants to lead those people away from the sinful path of doughnuts and Sara Lee Cheesecake onto the shapely path of fitness.

"I would like to invite all personnel on station, military or civilian, to participate in my aerobic exercise class on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings in the Mini Gym from 8 to 9:15 p.m." said Montez. "It's free and it's a lot of fun

Montez, born in Haiti, moved to New York when she was 13. There, she attended the High School of Music and Art, the school made famous by the television series, "Fame", and graduated with a major in music.

"After high school I went to college to study psychology," she said. "But, I ran out of money, so I decided to join the Marine Corps. The Corps has given me a chance to travel and a steady income has allowed me to continue with my schooling.

"I never really worked out that much until I was stationed here," said Montes. "I became involved in the aerobics class, and I started jogging.

"I had never really thought about teaching the aerobics class myself. But, one night the regular instructor was sick, so the rest of the class nominated me to take her place for the evening. I'm glad I decided to do it.

When the instructor went on leave I took over the class permanently," she continued. Two been teaching the class for nine months now.

The job of instructor is nothing new to Montez. In high school she taught African Dance to children. "I really love to teach, Teaching this aerobics class is my favorite hobby," asserted Montez.

"Teaching this class is voluntary, and I don't get paid for it. But, the satisfaction of knowing that I'm helping people to achieve something is payment enough for me," she said.

"I see people improving every day, especially the ones who exercise with me on a regular basis. I hope that more people will become involved, because I love having a big class.

The evening classes I teach are for women only," anid Montez. I also give classes for men and women on Tuesday and Thursday mornings in Building 455 from 6:30 to 7:15 a.m.

"Have you ever watched men doing aerobic exercise?" she asked with a smile. "They really have a good time. I wish more men would get involved.

"Right now I have about 10 men in my morning class and I have about 30 or 40 women in the evening classes. I would love to see the men equal the women in attendance.

"Men seem to think that aerobic means dancing. Aerobic exercise is a great workout for men or women. If they would try it just once, their muscles would let them know what a great workout it really is," she said.

Montez is not only helping people exercise bodies, she also plans on helping them exercise their minds as well. "I would like to start teaching diet and nutrition in my classes," she said. You can exercise all you want, but if you continue to pig out on junk food, or simply continue to over-cat, exercise is not going to do you any good.

"I'm not going to get into anything complicated, or tell people what they can and can't eat. I just want to teach some basic guidelines for healthy eating."

Montez plans on teaching her class for the next two years.

"When I leave," she said, "the class will probably nominate someone to replace me. But until then, I'm going to workout and shape up everyone I can."

So, feed the rest of those Twinkies to the dog, buy some new tennis shoes and join Montez at the mini-gym. Help make fat an endangered species.

Instructors build confidence in non-swimmers

by Cpl Christopher L. Wood.

To some it comes easy. Swimming with the grace of a dolphin is consideral natural coordination. But for others, the four of water is synonymous with the fear of death.

Fear reaches an almost tangible. state as a Marine stands at the side of the pool, waiting for the ewimming instructor's insvitable command to enter the dreaded deep.

During this brief period, his body a combined effect of nerves and the chill of the pool air. A thousand desperate thoughts course through his mind.

Many persons consider knowledge of awimming unnecessary for everyday life, "But most nonswimmers that we get at the pool want to know how to swim," Jenkins said. "Though they are a little skeptical and apprehensive about learning.

For those who deem swimming meaningless, Jonkins has a couple of arguments. "In this island state, you can't help but go near the water." he mand. "Circumstances could aris when you would have to go in the water for one reason or another.

To attain the rating of Swimmer, 1st class, the person must swim 25 meters underwater, breaking the water twice, swim 220 meters, utilizing a combination of the three basic underwater recovery strokes, demonstrate lifesaving techniques as well as the flotation technique, utilizing the camoflauge uniform as a flotation device.

The highest swimming rate that a Marine can attain is Water Survival Qualified (WSQ). "It's the ultimate awim goal," Jenkins said.

Some make the sign of the cross in prayers for deliverance; others mouth the Lord's Prayer under chilling breaths. Each looks for a mirneulous interruption in the proceedings hoping to delay his fateful plunge.

Then it happens: the word is given. Several make the jump. Again, the instructur speaks, loader this time. More enter the pool. The third time, the manusche virtually shouts his order. The last straggler comebow summons the commun to overlame his fear, at least temporarily, praying with all his heart and soul that this breath won't The true Loose.

The instructor mow stands alone mutante the pool; a dozen bodies cling feverishly to the aide.

Quickly, the instructor starts the clock. The command to push off is munded. A dozen trembling bodies nesiuntly ober

During the next few moments, some triumph. Others fail, giving fear unother victory.

Teaching the non-ewimmer to overcome fear of water is our most difficult problem," said Staff Sergeant Ronald E. Jenkins, noncommissioned-officer-in-charge of

For instance, if you're married and can't swim, how are you going to save your kids if they're drowning?

"If you're single and your girlfriend. was drowning, what would you do? Wait for the 6-foot lifeguard to carry her off?'

According to Jenkins, knowledge of awimming is especially important for Marines. "In World War II, they didn't. stress the importance of swimming. he said "That cost us casualties during the war.

Marines not qualified as swimmers are given learning apportunities during their entire tenure in the Corps. We have swimming instruction twice a month," Jenkins said. "Quotas go out from G-3 to the different units. The units provide some of their own instructors for the non-swimmers.

"Approximately 75 percent of each non-swimmers' class will attain the classification of Swimmer, 3d class (S-3)," Jenkins said:

To reach the S-3 classification, the individual must swim at least 50 meters, using any stroke, and stay in the water for a period of five minutes.

For 2d class, a person must swim 150 meters, utilizing the three hasic underwater recovery strokes:

'To become a WSQ, the Marine must swim 75 meters with a rifle and float for one hour, utilizing a water survival stroke taught by the instructor," he anid.

"If a Marine wants to upgrade his classification, he is welcome to try," Jenkins said, "Anytime he wants to, the Marine can come in here and upgrade it. We welcome anybody to come in and schedule a test."

Qualification of the lifeguards is nothing to worry about. "All lifeguards are certified by the American Red Cross and are designated Water Safety Survival Instructors," Jenkins said. "That's their Military Occupational Specialty. They have a thorough knowledge of swimming instruction

This puts them into a dual role. Not only do they save lives, they also teach people how to swim."

Saving lives is what they do best. Based on our rescue reports, we save about six lives a month," Jenkins said. "During the summer, the figure is about double that '

ZAMBALES, Republic of the Philippines - It was 2d Battalion. 9th Marines last walts in the Far East for the year. Capping a sixmonth deployment on Okinawa, Lieutenant Colonel Jospeh Arroyo, 2/9's commanding officer, sent his troops to the Zambales Amphybious Training Area for a week of incremental training.

The deployment commenced recently with Fox Company and Weapons (Dragon) Platoon hitting the beach at Cubi Point. Over the next few days, Gulf Company, Weapons (S1-mm mortars) Platoon, Echo Company, Headquarters and Service Company and the engineers arrived.

The exercises consisted of battalion FEX (night attack); M16, M203 and M60 live firing; platoon maneuver and grenade practice:

platoon day and night patroling. company offensive and defensive tactics; 81-mm mortar firing; helicopter operations and combat field engineering training.

Philippine Marines were integrated with 2/9's Echo and Fox Companies for patrolling and remote target systems training.

"They're a pretty good bunch," Major James Gillis, 2/9's operations officer, said. "Training with them was a valuable experience. I wish we could have done more. Their tactics seem more involved than some of the other units we've trained with."

Major Danny Cross, 2/9's executive officer and acting battalion comander at Zambales, said he also enjoyed the Philippine Marines' participation in the training

"The Philippine Marines were not aggressive toward us," he said "I feel we built more confidence in one another through the training."

Training side by side with the Filipinos, Cross believes 2/9 fearned more about its ally and his military capabilities.

"I wouldn't mind having them on my right and left," Cross added.

It was not all work and no play for 2/9. After a few days in the bush, a company returned for liberty in Olongapo City.

"Speaking for the troops," Gunnery Sergeant Ed Brundage, 2/9's operations chief, said, "liberty in the Philippines is the best in the world. Motivation was raised to an all-time high! It was a great way to cap our six months from Okinawa

Although the deployment created some problems for 2/9 regarding retation preparations, Cross explained, it was worth the offort for the morale of the men.

The weekend preceding President's Day brought perfect weather as almost 100 students from Oahu schools journeyed to Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay to participate in an Ecology Camp.

The students, members of the Sierra High School Hikers' Program, along with boy scouts and girl scouts from the air station gathered to take part in improving nesting sites and enlarging feeding areas for wetland birds.

As the students began arriving Saturday morning, they were greeted by Mandy Bowers, in charge of the camp, and host Marines. After introductions, the students traveled by cars, trucks, vans and buses to the sir station's Hale Koa beach area. After setting up most of the campsite, the students were divided into different groups to begin studying various aspects of the air station. Archeological, geological and oceanographic observations and tours were conducted in a three hour span. "That area is more than 120 thousand years old," explained Dr. Al Ziegler from the Bishop Museum as he pointed up toward a layer of strata near the Ulupau Crater. "Which means that what we're looking at down here is older than that. So the bird bones found in this section are older than 120,000 years.

"We've found bones here of flightless geese and other Hawaiian birds that have become extinct," Ziegler added.

After a brief class on how to look for bird bones, the students began their own exploration. As some scurried up to the wall of the crater, others looked in the strata along the shoreline. Moments later, excited sounds could be heard from some of the students as bird bones were discovered. With a pen knife, Zeigler showed the students how to pick the bones out of the earth.

At other sites, instructors showed students additional aspects of field study. After the classes, the students went back to the campsite to complete the chore of making their tents habitable and begin their evening meal. Since the campaite was close to the beach, some took the opportunity to have an afternoon swim in the shallow waters of Kaneohe Bay.

Sunday morning began early as the smoll of breakfast filled the campaite area.

At 9 a.m. the students began loading in vehicles to go to the different work sites. By 9:30 they were either pulling mangrove or moving rubher tires to areas where nesting sites would be built.

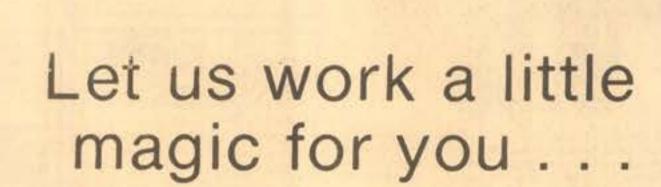

After the students were shown how to accomplish the different assignments, they began work. At first, work at the mangrove site was tentative. Then as the students began getting muddler and dirtier, they began laughing and the pulling of mangrove became a game.

Coleen Phelan, a 12-year-old girl scout from Troop 151 on the air station expressed her feelings saying, "It was fun. We helped the birds by building their nests and taking out mangrove. I thought I'd never get through pulling the mangrove, there were so many."

"I liked being a part of this group," remarked Nani Parker, an 11th grader from Leilehua High School. "I felt good knowing that I was doing scenthing useful for the birds. I didn't mind all the mud and stuff. Last year, I wouldn't have wanted to do something like this. I don't like getting dirty. There I was pulling up one of the (mangrove) trees and it wouldn't move, but I sunk right in. I'm glad we were working in three-personteams."

At another site of the Nuupia ponds, students were packing mud onto tires in the pond. This was done so that the Hawaiian stilt bird (an endangered species) could nest in an area where they would not be as accessible to predators.

"I think this was a tremendous success," said Bowers, the coordinator. "We had so much cooperation. Dr. Diane Drigot (MCAS Environmental specialist) worked with us last year and she could see that we could provide a service. And, this is an ideal location. The kids have had fun together. I was very pleased with their attitude. They worked hard, but there was also time for the kids to have a mud-sling. If you can have fun while you work, you can come away feeling happy."

Seabees renovate beach cottage 1601

by Sgt Inez J. Stoner

Beach cottage 1601 is receiving a major facelift thanks to the almost surgeon-like skills of active duty Seabces from Detachment-Midway, Naval Mobile Construction Battalion-62. The eight Seabces, from the Guifport, Miss. area, arrived here Jan. 14 and are scheduled to leave March 3 for Midway Island.

Major renovations to the beach cottage include bedroom and bathroom extensions, the installation of a ceramic bathtub and new floors, doors and windows. Outside the cottage, new decking and railing are being installed in addition to outdoor showers. Plumbing and wiring for the cottage is also being redone.

"This is a really nice place to work," said Builder First Class William Miner, noncommissioned officer in charge, as he glanced out toward the idyllic tropical setting surrounding the cottage. "Everybody has really enjoyed it here."

In addition to the eight Seabens working here, 17 men from the same detachment have been working at Wahiawa, removing an antenna field.

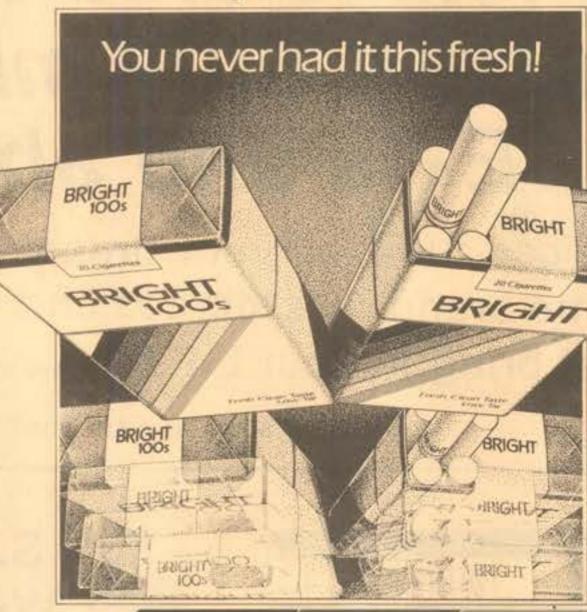

The active duty Scabees spend eight months of the year away from their homes in Mississippi working on construction projects around the world. Their last deployment took them to Diego Garcia in the Indian Ocean.

After completing work on the beach cottage here, the Seabees will leave for Midway Island where they will construct a fivemile-long sea wall. The Seabees, whose main battalion is stationed in Guam, are scheduled to return to Mississippi in September.

California property owners eligible to file rebate claim

Marines who paid California property taxes in 1978 or 1979 are eligible to file a claim for a refund, due to a recent California Court decision. The case of Armatrong vs. San Mateo County interpreted the Proposition 13 increases in California property taxes to have taken effect in 1979 rather than 1975 as ruled by the State Board of Equalization.

Claims must be filed with the County Board of Supervisors within four years of the date the propety was paid or by April 10 for taxes paid April The possible refund is 6.12 percent of the total amount of property tax paid. Legal assistance attorneys are prepared to assist Marines with their claims and can be contacted to answer questions concerning the field.

HAWAII MARINE

7-under-par takes tourney

by Cpl Charlie Marshall

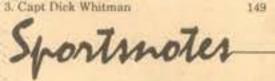

Captain Tom Bruner, Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-165, made nine birdies and carded a 65 Sunday to win the Men's Golf Association's quarterly tournament held this weekend at the Kancohe Klipper.

After a 78-stroke round Saturday, Bruner returned with the seven-under-par to slip past Larry Stubblefield by one stroke and win the championship flight.

"The first day I got off to a bad start," said the captain. "After four holes I was six over par. Then I lost a ball. Finally on the sixth hole I made par.

"I was pleased with Sunday's performance," Bruner continued. "I started with a birdie." Eight more birdies later. "That was the best round I've ever played out there (at the Klipper). Retired Master Gunnery Sergeant Bob Job won the "A" flight with a 76.75 - 151 and C. Johnson took the "B" flight with 81.81 - 162. "C" flight was won by John Koflanovich, 89-88 - 177.

Master Gunnery Sergeant Al Hunly and retired Colonel Les Ihura spent the month of February proving why they are the top seeded doubles partners in Hawaii for the 50 year age group.

In the first seniors tournament of the year held at Submarine Base, Pearl Harbor, Feb. 5 and 6, Hanly and Ihara entered both the 50 and 55 age group. They won the 50 age group defeating Captain Brad Bassett and Col Bob Yoder, USAF, 6-2, 6-4. The Hanly-Ihara duo lost to Don Andrews and Dooley Kam in the 55 age group and placed second. The score was 7-5, 6-3.

The duo later entered the two divisions in the Annual Seniors Ala Moana Tournament held at Diamond Head Tennis Club Feb. 19 and 20. Ed Kim and Harold Kwan controlled the 50 age group defeating the duo 8-2, 6-0, But, they distinguished themselves by winning over Elston Wyatt and Jim Bartlett 6-3, in the 55 age group

• Proper care prevents tooth decay

Prevention of tooth decay - removing bacterial plaque: The following article is one of a series being presented by the Hawaii Marine in cooperation with the MCAS Dental Department.

An earlier article described how tooth decay may develop when bacteria are trapped against the teeth in a sticky deposit called bacterial plaque. Some of the bacteria produce acid when they feed on sugar from the food people eat, and the acid attacks the tooth enamel and dentin. If the plaque is removed, decay will not develop (except in pits and fissures on the chewing surfaces, where bacteria may also become trapped).

Since bacterial plaque is sticky, it cannot simply be rinsed off with water or a mouthwash. It must be scrubbed and rubbed off.

Thorough toothbrushing will get rid of much of the plaque. Unfortunately, though, brushing alone will never remove all bacterial deposits. no matter how well you brush or how often you brush. Most dental decay occurs between the teeth, where the toothbrush will never reach. The plaque causing this decay must be removed by proper use of dental floss. It may take some time to adequately cleanse the mouth - as much as 10 minutes - but it is time well spent. Since it takes the plaque 24 hours to reform after its removal, this needs to be done only once a day. If you want to brush your teeth after each meal to remove food debris, fine, but be sure you have one session each day when you use floss as well

Usually, bacterial plaque is invisible, to find out whether you have removed it, you can use a dye that will stain the plaque but not the teeth. A disclosing tablet of harmless dye is dissolved in the mouth, and the mouth is rinsed with water. The stained areas on the teeth are deposits of plaque.

When choosing a toothbrush for your cleaning program, keep three things in mind. (1) It should have soft bristles. They remove plaque as well as stiff ones without the danger of injuring your gums in the process. (2) The bristles should have rounded tips. This also avoids injury to the gums. (3) The head of the toothbrush should be small enough to allow you to reach all parts of your mouth easily.

Any toothpaste will help remove plaque, but the fluoride toothpastes help strengthen the teeth as well. Beware of the toothpaste that "whitens" your teetb. It is probably removing a lot of your tooth right along with the plaque.

Your dentist will show you the best way to use your toothbrush and dental floss. Remember, a bacteria-free tooth will never decay.

Prevention of Tooth Decay -Controlling Your Diet

The preceding article told how certain bacteria in the mouth use sugar from the food we eat to produce a sticky substance that forms a film on the teeth. This film is the basis of the bacterial plaque that traps bacterin against the teeth. Some of these bacteria break down sugars and other carbohydrates, producing the acid that causes tooth decay.

Since it is easy to see that eating sugar and other carbohydrates can lead to tooth decay, it would seem logical not to eat them. This is easier said than done. All of us, especially children, like aweet foods. We need carbohydrates for energy as part of a balanced diet. How, then, can we cat a balanced diet of foods we enjoy while doing the least possible damage to our teeth? It's not how much sugar we eat that causes the greatest problems, it's how often we eat it.

Each time sugar is eaten, acid is formed and some of the tooth is dissolved. It doesn't really matter whether it's a small or large amount of sugar that is eaten; about the same amount of acid is formed in the bacterial plaque. So, when we eat sweets, we might as well enjoy ourselves - if the waistline can stand it - and eat all we want. This feast should be limited to mealtime however - for deasert. The fewer times we eat sweets during the day, the fewer times our teeth are attacked by acid. So, if a snack between meals is necessary, have some potato chips or fruit, but no candy, cake, cookies, or sugared soft drinks. Do your neighbors a favor too. If their children are at your house, don't feed them a lot of sweet goodies. In fact, they would be better off with no snacks at all. Then they will be hungry at mealtime and will eat the foods they need for good growth and health.

Unfortunately, there are no foods we can eat that will strengthen our teeth - only those that will weaken them. It has been said that eating coarse and crunchy foods, chewing gum, or rinsing with water will clean the plaque off our teeth. This is just not so. The only way to adequately remove this plaque is by proper use of our toothbrush and dental floss. There is no subatitute
