BGen. Kuhn takes Brigade's colors Plans to focus on quality of life issues

Joint Public Affairs Office

BGen. Coleman D. Kuhn Jr. took command of the 1st Marine Expeditionary Brigade from MGen. James Livingston Monday during a ceremony held at the Station flagpole following morning colors.

Shortly after, LtGen. R.F. Milligan, FMFPac commanding general, frocked the former Brigade commander to his current rank and wished him the best in his new assignment as the commander of the 4th Marine Division in New Orleans, BGen. Kuhn wasted no time in telling members of his brigade that he had some ideas for the future. At top billing on a list of things he said he'll be concentrating on in the months to come were "quality of life" issues.

The general also said the MEB will increase its emphasis on amphibious operations and continue to train vigorously to maintain its combat readiness.

The combat readiness it currently enjoys is the result of MGen. Livingston's leadership, according to a letter from LtGen. Milligan, which was read during the ceremony.

position of command in the letter. "As you assume command of the 1st MEB, you do so with my utmost confidence. I know that the dynamic training engendered by the Marines and sailors of 1st MEB will continue to flourish under your leadership.'

BGen. Kuhn comes to Hawaii after 24 years as a Marine officer. He served a combat tour in Vietnam with Marine Aircraft Group-39 between 1968 and '69. He is a graduate of the Naval Air Training Center at Pensacola, Fla., the Amphibi-ous Warfare School at Quan-tico, Va., the Naval Postgraduate School, the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Va., and the National War College in Washington, D.C.

He has commanded MAG-39 and MAG-50. His most recent assignment before reporting to Hawaii was as special assistant to the assistant secretary of defense for Resource and Plans. While serving in that capacity, he was selected for promotion to brigadier general March 13 and advanced June 14.

His decorations include the Defense Meritorious Service Medal, Meritorious Service Medal, Air Medal with bronze star and Numeral 38, Navy Commendation Medal and the Combat Action Ribbon.

He is married to the former Sarah Adair of Cincinnati, Ohio, and has two daughters: Alicia and Lauren.

Marine Corps, turned over leadership of the Marine Corps to Gen. Carl E. Mundy during a change of command ceremony here June 28, ending his 41-year active duty career.

Vice President Dan Quayle, reviewing official for the parade, looked on as the Battle Color of the Marine Corps changed hands in front of two companies of Barracks Marines and nearly 3,000 guests.

"I've just received the Battle Color of the Marine Corps from one of the most distinguished officers ever to wear the uni-form of a Marine," Gen. Mundy said during his remarks.

Ties between the two generals go back as far as Vietnam, where they first met, according to a speech by Gen. Gray.

"For probably half of my adult life and nearly three quarters of his adult life, I've served with General Mundy, and I have been around when he has served in a variety of leadership and staff leadership responsibilities," said Gen. Gray. "I have the utmost confidence and unbounded enthusiasm for your new Commandant and, more importantly, for the future of the Corps

"Some people asked me if this was a sad occasion. How can it be sad when you have such magnificent young warriors in your Corps? I am as excited about the future of the Corps as I was nearly 41 years ago when I enlisted.

Said Gen. Mundy: "It is my continued privilege to serve with you and it will be the greatest honor of my lifetime to be your Commandant."

"Your assessment of priorities concerning personnel matters, equipment recovery and maintenance, and training has resulted in the smoothest possible transition for everyone in-volved," the letter said. "...you have set the course for restoring the MEB to a highly mobile, combat-ready force."

A letter from the Corps' new Commandant, Gen. Carl E. Mundy Jr., also had praise for MGen. Livingston. "Your aggressive leadership, astute judgement and vision caused your training plans to realistically integrate every MAGTF element. Your guidance and insight have had a profound impact and will have a lasting effect on the readiness, sustainability and operational effectiveness of the 1st MEB in the future."

The Commandant also welcomed BGen. Kuhn to his new

News In Brief

Get ready for clean - up

The Air Station will get a cleaning Friday and Saturday when an old cleanup program is revived. The letter of instruction for the Station Cleanup program states that the event will be held semi-annually, and will involve all Station organizations. It also solicits the support of all tenant commands. Each unit and organization will have designated areas of responsibility.

Backpacks not authorized for wear with uniform

Civilian backpacks are not authorized for wear with any service or utility uniform. The Station inspector is reminding officers, staff noncommissioned officers and NCOs to continue enforcing Air Station Order 1020.4D, which further states that wearing or carrying the backpack with only one strap over the shoulder is still considered wearing it and is not authorized. Backpacks may be carried over the back when riding a bicycle, moped or motorcycle, according to the order.

Marine Corps League seeks new members

Provides lobbying, benefits

By Cpl. Jason Erickson Hawali Marine Staff Write

The local Marine Corps League has seen brighter days. But its seven active members, all Marines of yesteryear, would like to pull the association out of the dust, brush it off and see it shine once more.

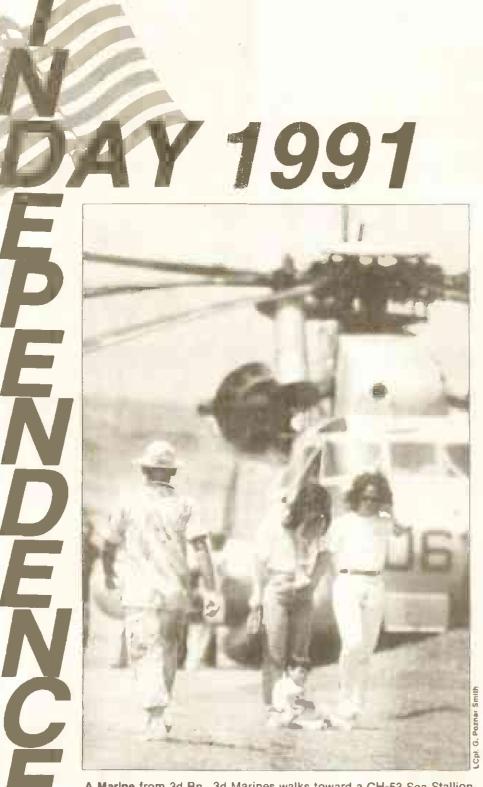

The league may accomplish that if it gets what it needs: new members. They say it's manpower and interest they need most, not money.

"We do a lot of good things for the Marine community and for the children of the state," explained Detachment Commandant Dan Sullivan. "But we can't do all the things we want to with just seven old men. We need new blood."

That is the case he and his fellow members presented to approximately 50 curious Marines who showed up for the league's monthly meeting July 2 at the Enlisted Club here. Among the faces in the crowd were those of LtGen. R.F. Milligan, FMFPac commanding general, and MGen. James Livingston, former commanding general of the 1st Marine Expeditionary Brigade.

The generals were joined by their sergeants major, and a mix of junior and senior enlisted Marines and officers from Marine Barracks Pearl Harbor, Camp Smith and the Air Station. See LEAGUE/A-3

Marines of Kaneohe Bay were out in full force July 4 to participate in festivities as close as Kailua and as far away as the Big Island.

Approximately 20 Marines of 3d Battalion, 3d Marines, ventured to Parker Ranch on Hawaii aboard a CH-53 from Marine Heavy Helicopter Squadron-463 to provide a static display for an Independence Day Rodeo there.

Meanwhile, approximately 900 Marines from a variety of 1st MEB units and 60 from 1st Radio Battalion were winding through Kailua as part of the annual 4th of July parade, which focused on welcoming home the Desert Storm warriors. Several other elements — from high school marching bands and local business establishments, to politicians and various clubs — also participated in the event as thousands of spectators lined the streets to watch.

Following the parade, the Marines set up static displays of various Brigade gear, including HMMWVs with TOWs, MK19s and .50 cal. machine-guns mounted, M1908 155mm and 105mm howitzers, five- and 10-ton trucks, and CH-46 and CH-53 helicopters.

North to Alaska Death Angels train in new terrain

By Cpl. Jason Erickson Hawall Marine Staff Writer

The Death Angels of Marine Fighter Attack Squadron-235 spent most of June over Alaska, participating in exercise Cope Thunder North.

Using half of their 12 F/A-18 Hornets, the pilots and 60 other Marines deployed to Elmendorf Air Force Base in Anchorage June 11, and returned to Hawaii June 30.

In a mix of simulated offensive and defensive air combat missions, '235 conducted both air-to-air and air-to-ground scenarios during the exercise, and combined efforts with various other Marine Corps and Air Force aircraft units, as well as a mix of Canadian fighter squadrons.

LtCol. Lynn Champagne,

Overstreet takes over

SGTMAJ/from A-1 government of the United States in a duty of great responsibility as Sergeant Major of the Marine Corps," according to the citation.

"(Sergeant Major Sommers) was instrumental in expanding participation of enlisted Marines on staff noncommissioned officer boards, establishing a professional reading program for staff NCOs and instituting the Basic Warrior Course. These changes provided for both better methodologies and avenues for the professional growth of the enlisted corps.'

During his remarks, the commanding officer, said the deployment provided valuable training in a new environment.

During 145 sorties, 14 pilots put 360 flight hours on the six aircraft. He said the exercise helped sharpen combat readiness and increased joint operations experience.

"We've got to be experienced working with other services. because almost any real-world contingency is going to be handled by a composite of defense assets," Champagne said.

He added that the squadron's experiences with joint and combined operations coordination during the war made it relatively easy to combine efforts with the Air Force during Cope Thunder, but stressed that expanses of open land and mountainous terrain provided new challenges for the Death

Angel pilots and greatly improved their flying capabilities. In fact, Sobyra said the combat readiness proficiency of each pilot was increased an average of 5 to 7 percent by the difficulty level of the sorties they performed. These types of sorties would be difficult, if not impossible, to conduct in Hawaii due to limited training ranges, he said.

it is important to continually

"Our pilots usually do overwater flight missions, so negotiating over mountainous areas was a nice change for them," he added. "Also, safety briefings for survival in the cold weather climate were given as a precautionary measure and also increased their experience base.

The exercise is usually con-ducted in the Philippines, but Champagne explained that because of the Mt. Pinatubo volcanic eruptions, an alternate location had to be used.

"With the uncertainties that exist in the Philippines, we have to look at alternate training sites in the future, and Alaska has several things to offer," Champagne said.

He pointed out that one of the most significant advantages with Alaska is the availability of extensive bombing ranges and difficult terrain. One drawback, however, is that much of the year is spent in darkness that far north. But during summer months, daylight lasts approximately 22 hours a day, which increases training opportunities.

Marine Corps League seeks 'new blood'

LEAGUE/from A-1

It was no coincidence these Marines all showed up that night to check out the league. They were following the leadership of LtGen. Milligan, who recently decided there was a need to generate new interest.

Sullivan explained that the general had called him up not long ago to see what he could do to help fortify the league's ranks.

"We're in for tough times in the years to come, gents," LtGen.

Milligan said at the meeting. "We need all the friends we can get, and this league can be one of our closest allies."

"The Marine Corps League does a lot for us in Washington (D.C.) in terms of lobbying for our needs," he added. "We need to take care of them so they can only part of the story.

There are a number of other benefits and services provided by the league's national body. Some of these include legal services, scholarship funds, an extended auto warranty program and career assistance; plans for insurance, CHAMPUS, Medicare and investments; and discounts on prescription drugs, microcomputer supplies, home-shopping and travel. Additionally, there is an annual national convention.

At the local level, the chapter's current focus is on a statewide youth fitness program. However, explained Sullivan, there are any number of directions in which it could go, depending on the desires of its members.

Annual dues are $15, with an extra $5 fee for new members. Those interested in joining the league can call Sullivan at 396-2559, or attend the next meeting at the Windward Enlisted Club Aug. 6 at 7 p.m.

White Knights 'drop-in' on special campers

A counselor for the Muscular Dystrophy Association's annual summer camp checks out an M-16A2 rifle.

Story and photos by LCpl. G. Poznar Smith Hawali Marine Statt Writer

Dillingham Airfield Marines from the 1st Marine Expeditionary Brigade paid a visit to some special campers here June 24 during the Muscular Dystrophy Association's annual summer camp.

The visiting Marine detachment consisted of two CH-46E Sea Knight helicopters and crews from Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-165, and a composite squad of infantrymen from Company C and Weapons Co., 1st Bn., 3d Marines. The Marines displayed their equipment and talked with the campers about their Marine Corps jobs.

After landing on the civilian airfield, the Marines formed up for introductions followed by a questionanswering session. The campers also toured the helicopters, and viewed an information board and a picture collage featuring desert photographs from HMM-165. "The campers seemed very receptive," said Capt. Mike Bruen, CH-46 pilot. "I was surprised at the support they showed. They all seemed interested in what we did in Southwest Asia."

After the visit, the crews fired-up the helicopters and the grunts charged on board. Once airborne, both helos made three passes over the campers, who waved and yelled wildly.

Bruen said events such as the Dillingham visit are important. "A lot of civilians aren't familiar with us or our equipment," he said. By coming to see them, we're educating them about our mission."

While heading back to Kaneohe Bay, the Marine detachment also performed a fast-rope sequence in the Kahuku Training Area nearby, taking advantage of the opportunity to get in extra training along with some positive community relations.

DEVELOPER OF GAS SAVER AWARDED $22,000

BOSTON -- With the oil glut worse than ever and OPEC wringing its hands, the Federal Courts have awarded a fee of $22,747 to National Fuelsaver Corporation of Boston, developers of the Platinum Gasaver.

The Gasaver, which takes only 10 minutes to install, releases microscopic quantities of platinum into the air-fuel mixture entering the engine.

Platinum has the unique ability of making unburnt fuel burn. With platinum in the flame zone, you increase the percentage of fuel burning in the engine from 68% to 90%.

Normally, that 22% of the fuel would only burn if it came in contact with the platinum coated surfaces of a catalytic converter. Unfortunately, this converter process takes place outside of the engine, where the energy produced is lost.

With the Gasaver dispensing platinum into the combustion chambers, 22% more of each gallon burns inside the engine so that 22% fewer gallons are required to drive the same distance.

The process works on both leaded and unleaded gasoline, and meets the emission standards of all states.

In concluding the government's fiveyear administrative procedure studying the Gasaver, the Federal Court stated: "National Fuelsaver Corp. and various independent parties have used a variety of methodologies to test the value of Gasaver. These independent parties often make stronger claims for the Gasaver than does its developer, National Füelsaver Corp."

The government had already confirmed in 1984 that the Gasaver raises the octane of gasoline, eliminating the need for premium fuel.

Joel Robinson, the developer, commented: "We've already sold over 150,000 Gasavers. Ironically, we find more people buy the Gasaver for its third benefit of cleaning out carbon to extend engine life than buy it for its fuel savings or octane boosting."

For further information call the factory Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. E.S.T. at 1-800-LESS-GAS (1-800-537-7427) or 508-368-1815.

WASHINGTON -- A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutri-tionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Researchers in Europe found that an ingredient in the aptly named product Food Source One actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the development of Food Source One, a project of National Dietary Research, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the discovery has been a windfall for overweight people. A Daytona Beach, Florida woman fighting a weight battle for 12 years used the product on the recommendation of her physician and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "Not only have I lost 30 pounds but my choles-terol has dropped from 232 to 143, 1 have two closets full of clothes which have not fit me in two years that I can now wear." In a separate report, a telephone interview revealed that a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist lost 14 pounds in 15 days on the product and was never hungry.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's com-prehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for the treatment of obesity.

Marines and sailors who served in Operations Desert Shield/Storm are eligible for a number of federal tax relief provisions that will affect their 1991 returns, and filing extensions for their 1990 returns.

The designation of the Persian Gulf as a combat zone triggered a number of federal tax relief provisions for Marines and sailors who served in Operation Desert Storm.

While this designation was effective Jan. 17, 1991, military pay earned in 1990 is not affected by the following exemptions.

Military pay for enlisted personnel and warrant officers who served in the combat zone is exempt from federal income tax. Deployed commissioned officers can exclude up to $500 per month of their military pay

These exclusions generally extend to periods of hospitalization resulting from injury or sickness suffered while serving in the combat zone.

Members of the armed forces and support personnel who served in Operation Desert Storm have at least 180 days and in most cases up to 285 days from the date they leave the combat zone to file their 1990 federal income tax returns.

However, the IRS has determined that the 180-day postponement period is intended to run consecutively, not concurrently with the tax filing season. This means military and support personnel who were in the designated Desert Storm area at any time from Aug. 2, 1990-Jan. 1, 1991 will not be required to file until 285 days after they leave the combat zone. The postponement period in these situations is made-up of the 180 days provided by law and the 105 days of the tax filing season, Jan. 1 - April 15.

For example, a taxpayer who served in the combat zone from Jan. 20 - March 15 will have until Dec. 6 to file, which is 266 days after they left the combat zone. This filing postponement period equals the 180 days plus the 96 days from Jan. 20-April 15.

Taxpayers still in the combat zone can postpone filing their tax returns for as long as they are in the combat zone. Their additional time to file starts when they leave the combat zone. For example, a taxpayer who was in the combat zone Jan. 1 and leaves April 20 will have 285 days from April 20 to file the tax return. If this taxpayer had entered the combat zone Jan. 20, the filing date would be 266 days from April

> If the combat zone designation is cancelled by executive order before a taxpayer leaves the combat zone, the additional postponement period starts when the designation is cancelled.

> The filing postponement period also applies to the spouses of servicemembers who deployed to Operation Desert Storm. A tax refund issued by IRS after April 15 will include interest from April 15 if the return is filed by the postponed deadline.

Taxpayers who owe additional payment with their tax returns will not be charged interest or a late payment penalty if they file by the postponed deadline.

Because the filing date for taxpayers who served in Desert Storm is postponed, IRA contributions for 1990 may be madeup until the taxpayer is required to file. There is no exclusion of military pay received before January.

All taxpayers who served in Operation Desert Storm or those filing for them should write "DESERT STORM" at the top of their 1990 federal tax forms and envelopes.

Taxpayers who served in Operation Desert Storm or their family members may call the IRS at 541-1040 for tax information. For more complex tax problems, help is available at the Legal Services Center. Call 257-2160/2168/2169 for more information.

New overseas zip codes to start

Navy News Service

July 11, 1991

To help prevent military address mistakes from sending military mail wandering through post offices around the world, a new system of military zip codes and addresses is being introduced Monday.

The changes in military addresses and zip codes will affect nearly half of the U.S. post offices overseas. Marines, sailors, airmen and soldiers should receive their mail faster once the new zip-address is fully implemented.

Under the new system, the first three numbers of the fivedigit military zip code will designate a country or region. The two digits that follow will direct the letter to smaller areas within the country or region.

The new system also replaces city names with a two-letter code in the last line of the address. Mail bound for the Pacific region will be designated by an "AP" instead of the city name; Europebound mail will be marked with an "AE," and mail headed for Central or South America should be marked with an "AA."

The two-letter codes also apply to FPO mail headed to deployed ships, regardless of the geographic region in which they are operating. Ships with FPOs of New York will now be FPO AE; FPO Miami will now be FPO AA; and FPO San Francisco and Seattle will now use FPO AP. The majority of ship zip codes will be unaffected, except those using FPO Seattle and the zip code sequence 9834x.

To use the new code effectively, mail bound for APOs and FPOs should be addressed as follows: sailor or Marine's name; unit or postal service center number; box number (if applicable); FPO AP, AE or AA; and zip code.

Even though the Military Postal Service Agency will begin the new system July 15, it will continue to deliver mail addressed the current way for another year. More than 80 overseas FPO zip codes for Navy and Marine Corps facilities will be revised under the new system.

HAWAII MARINE

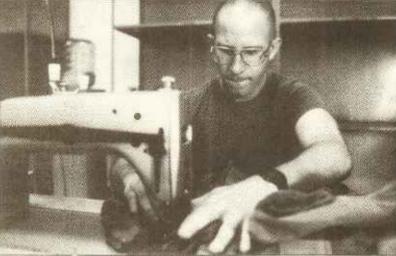

Story and photos by LCpl. G. Poznar Smith awali Marina Staff Write

Marines train and fight hard to be ready, and their equipment has to be ready, too. Keeping the equipment up to speed requires servicing. That's when maintenance takes point.

For the 1st Marine Expeditionary Brigade, much of the maintaining and repairing of thousands of pieces of gear goes to Maintenance Company, Brigade Service Support Group-1. Virtually everything the Brigade uses, from five-ton trucks to general-purpose tents to howitzers, are repaired by the men and women of Maintenance Co.

The process of maintaining and repairing equipment is set forth in the Intermediate Maintenance Activity, or IMA. In the Marine Corps, there are five echelons (levels) of maintenance and service. Chief Warrant Company, sews up a field pack.

Officer-2 Dale Foreid, operations officer for Maintenance Co., explained the echelon system, comparing it to car maintenance.

"The first echelon would be like putting air in your tires," Foreid said. "If you change the oil, that's more involved and preventive, so it falls under second echelon. For more involved maintenance or repair, most people would take their car to an auto shop. For the Brigade, Maintenance Co. is that auto shop."

Maintenance Co. performs third and fourth echelon repairs and servicing. The last echelon, the fifth, in-volves total overhaul and rebuilding, said Foreid. This requires sending the piece of equipment to "depot" - either Marine Corps Logistic Base Barstow, Calif., or Albany. Ga. Some types of equipment are sent to the manufacturer for fifth echelon repair.

Marine units performing "IMAs" also provide Headquarters Marine Corps with information on how the equipment has performed, so researchers, evaluators and developers can add the input to compiled data. This helps HQMC compile statistics and rate different types of equipment from different makers.

The Marines that actually get their calloused, bruised and cut hands dirty only know that the gear must get fixed - as soon as possible. During Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm, Maintenance Co. performed IMAs in a combat environment. Foreid said the company was up to it because of the way the company operates in the rear.

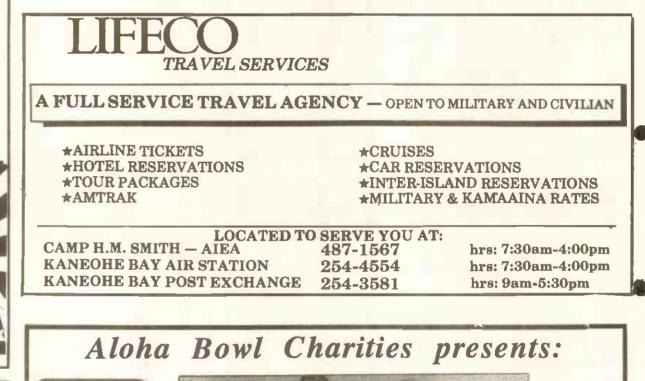

"We practice the same procedures in garrison that we intend to use in combat," he said. He added that IMAs can be molded to fit any size or type of support unit the commander wants. "Our Marines are flexible and can work all hours to meet the demand. In the desert, we did just that.'

Now back at Kaneohe Bay, Maintenance Co. is busy performing IMAs on much of the Brigade gear that saw service in the war.

And while the desert differed greatly from the normal theater of operations for the Brigade's equipment, the care it's receiving is identical. For Maintenance Co., the job remains the same.

Rep. Pat Schroeder (D-Colo.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee on Children, Youth and Families, smiles after receiving a lei from a child at the Child Development Center here. Schroeder and other members of the committee were at the Station July 1 receiving a tour of various "quality of life" facilities and programs during a trip to areas throughout the Pacific theater focusing on military issues. After its stay in Hawaii July 1 to 3, the group traveled to Guam, Kwajalein and Alaska.

Birth, death or critical illness when they need to know, we reach them.

No matter where our Armed Forces are—the Persian Gulf or anywhere else—if it's an emergency, the American Red Cross delivers the message. Whatever it takes, more than 4,000 times a day, emergency messages are delivered—whether it's the birth of a child or the death of a parent. Twenty-four hours a day, 365 days a year, we never stop working hard to bring home closer to these men and women. We also provide other critical services for their families.

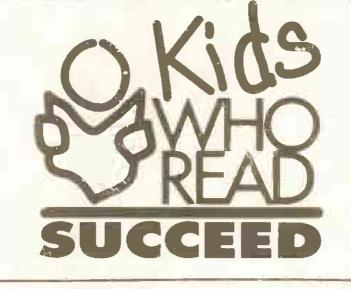

Isn't it good to know that when it's an emergency, the American Red Cross will be there.

There are a Million

America's young military and their families desperately need our support-and yours! For 130 years the Armed Services Y has served those who serve America, but the need has never been greater than now. Today's military child, on average, is 7 years old-or younger-has moved four times, and frequently is missing a parent, especially now. Lots of times Mom and Dad aren't much more than kids themselves. Over 50% of America's enlisted men and women are 25 years of age or younger! Please help the Armed Services Y provide the crisis support and emergency assistance these brave and deserving young people need during this crisis. Mail your donation today to: The Armed Services YMCA. #215. 6225 Brandon Avenue, Springfield. Virginia 22150-2510.

If you'd like to do more, call Dick Stotz, National Executive Director, at 703-866-1260.

LCpl. Richard Rockwell orchestrates a formation of Big Island youngsters at the Boys and Girls Club of Hilo. Rockwell and 30 other Marines from the Air Station were on their monthly trip to Hawaii, June 25, to promote drug-free awareness among Hawaii's youths. During the trips, the Marines combine orientation to military skills such as drill, as Rockwell is doing, with one-onone and group conversations about whatever the youngsters wish to discuss. Warriors from Marine Barracks Pearl Harbor and Camp Smith are also serving as drug-free role models for other youths around the state.
