Oceanic Cable stops free installation

Oceanic Cable has announced that it will no longer provide free cable television installation and transfers to military families, effective immediately. To request Oceanic Cable services, military families should call Oceanic Customer Service at 625-8100.

Tips for skin care

With summer here and everyone enjoying the sun, here are a few tips to skin protection on those hot Hawaiian days:

- Children and fair-skinned people should use a product with a sun protection factor of at least 15.
- Apply sunscreen liberally (a large handful) about 30 minutes before going outside. Reapply sunscreen after swimming or perspiring heavily.
- Limit exposure between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., when the sun is strongest.
- Sun glasses help protect eyes and may prevent cataracts.
- Avoid exposing babies under 6 months old to direct sunlight. Sunscreens irritate their skin, and their developing eyes are more sensitive to sun damage.

Base cleaners to change

A&P Cleaners has requested to terminate its services aboard Marine Corps Base Hawaii, possibly as early as June 19. MWR is currently in the process of selecting a new vendor in order to provide uninterrupted service, if possible. However, quality of service to MCB Hawaii laundry customers remains the primary consideration.

Aloha — LtGen. Charles C. Krulak, Commander, Marine Forces Pacific bid farewell to the Marines, Sailors and civilians of Hawaii as he heads to Washington, D.C.

Leaders meet — LtGen. Charles C. Krulak greets Gen. Richard D. Hearney, Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps, prior to the evening parade in honor of the Assistant Commandant.

Evening parade honors Assistant Commandant bids Aloha to Commander Marine Forces Pacific

MarForPac PAO

General Richard D. Hearney, Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps, was honored during an evening parade at Marine Corps Base Hawaii, Kaneohe Bay, on June 8. The parade was hosted by LtGen. Charles C. Krulak, the outgoing Commander, Marine Forces Pacific.

The still evening on the Mokapu Peninsula provided a picturesque setting as the sun set behind the emerald backdrop of the Koolau mountains.

The evening parade featured more than 800 Marines from III MEF Forces, Hawaii, Marine Corps Base, Hawaii and 1st Radio Battalion. The MarForPac Band provided musical support. There were also static displays of various Marine Corps fighting equipment and aircraft.

During his remarks to the parade formation and the guests of the evening parade, LtGen. Krulak gave a farewell to the Marines of his command. "You're magnificent and it's been my honor to command you. I'm on my way to Washington, D. C. to assume the stewardship of the Corps as the 31st Commandant. I will not forget you. I will not forget your sacrifice and I thank you for what you have done."

LtGen. Krulak's duty in Hawaii includes a tour as the commanding officer of 3d Battalion, 3d Marines from 1983-1985, along with his recent post as Commander, Marine Forces Pacific. MGen. Jefferson Davis Howell Jr. will serve as the acting commander of MarForPac until the confirmation of LtGen. Krulak's replacement is completed by the Senate.

LtGen. Krulak will assume duties as the 31st Commandant of the Marine Corps from General Carl E. Mundy Jr., during a change of command ceremony in Washington, D.C., June 30.

Guidance and supervision is important for a safe summer

Sgt. Jesse Faleris Staff writer

Longer and hotter days serve as an alert to children that days of sun-filled fun have arrived, and a warning to parents that they will soon be met with the challenge of providing necessary guidance and supervision for their children during summer vacation.

With the sudden lack of school time supervision, working parents may find themselves unsure of what their children are allowed to do. Base regulations provide parents with some guidelines to follow.

A child 10 years old or older is authorized to remain in government quarters unattended, and may also supervise a sibling who is at least six years old. Emergency phone numbers must be provided to the attending child. Toddlers five years old or younger, however, must be cared for by a responsible adult.

One of the coolest places to spend Hawaii's hot summer afternoons is at one of the beaches on base. These areas provide families with hours of entertainment, but there are some rules and safety procedures that should be considered.

For starters, access to the beaches aboard the base is restricted to authorized routes. Those who are anxious to hit the surf must use designated routes to get to the beaches. Access through base housing yards or along the flight line and across the golf course is not permitted. According to the regulations, those using the beach facilities are required to carry an identification card. Active duty personnel and spouses are the only persons authorized to sponsor guests on the beaches. Two guests can be sponsored per day. Sponsors must accompany their guests at all times while on MCB Hawaii beaches. In addition,

Summer days — With summer here, many youth will be spending time on the beach. It is important parents explain safety and sponsorship rules to their children.

tion, those who plan to snorkel or dive are required to float a buoy with a flag at their site.

"The lifeguards man the beaches from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily," explained Seamus Kelly, assistant water safety manager, MCB Hawaii, Kaneohe Bay. "Patrons are encouraged to use the beach facilities during those hours."

Often the ocean surrounding Hawaii can be deceptive. What may seem to be relatively calm conditions, may

Outgoing CG discusses accomplishments, future goals for MCB Hawaii

GySgt. Stephane Castanguay Public Affairs Chief

On June 19, 1995 BGen. Richard F. Vercauteren will pass the colors of Marine Corps Base Hawaii to BGen. David F. Bice. The change of command ceremony comes on the heels of a whirlwind of changes that have occurred during BGen. Vercauteren's 10-month tour as commanding general. During a recent interview, BGen. Vercauteren discussed some of these changes and other issues which concern those who work and live aboard Marine Corps Base Hawaii.

Q: Upon taking command, what were your first priorities?

A: Having been here for a year-plus as the MEB commander, I was concerned with the quality of life of our Marines and the technological capability of this base to move into the 21st Century. As a result, within hours of taking command, I met with my managers and laid out my intent. I wanted the executive steering committee to identify their requirements. Ultimately, we came up with a strategic plan. That strategic plan is the foundation for everything we do here at Marine Corps Base Hawaii. That became tied to insuring that our technological upgrades, both hardware and software, would bring us into the 21st Century and beyond. It also addressed the quality of life concerns of the Marines, Sailors, civilians and family members on this base.

Q: Have those goals been accomplished?

A: There have been some significant changes. A lot of this involves military construction money, technology acquisition and maintenance and repair dollars. It's an ongoing effort. There are a lot of things that need to be done on this base. You just have to stick with your plan and keep moving.

Q: During your tour as commanding general, what has given you the most satisfaction?

A: As the CG, I was in a position to directly impact the quality of life of the Marines, Sailors and their families. For example, a Gunny had a house that was flooded by a sewer system backing up. The Sergeant Major came to me and said that the Gunny had been trying to get moved into another house. That was a situation that I felt was unhealthy. I picked up the phone and told housing to move him. Many of those things were done on a day to day basis because the managers realized I would support them, especially when it concerned quality of life issues.

Q: What effect have these changes had on the readiness of the Marines aboard the base?

A: Readiness has probably gone up. In fact, we are constantly looking at ways to improve that. Now that this billet has been designated as the deputy commander, III MEF and commanding general, Marine Corps Base Hawaii, there will be one individual responsible for it all. That will streamline the decision-making process and probably increase the readiness.

Q: Recently, you were a strong influence in getting approval for the new Superblock. (Consolidation of a new exchange, retail outlets and child care facility near the commissary) Why was it so important to get it approved?

Before signing a lease agreement, read it

Mary Lynne Wolfe
K-Boy Housing Office

You've decided to take the plunge and find a place to live off base. After a long search for something that's both attractive and affordable you find the home of your dreams. The landlord approves your rental application and you're eagerly awaiting the moment you can move in. All you must do before you can officially call the place "home" is to sign a rental agreement.

The landlord shoves a paper at you and says, "Just sign your name on the bottom line and the place is yours." You glance over the lease and notice that it's filled with a lot of legal mumble-jumble. "What the heck," you think, "these things are all the same." You press your pen to the paper and—

Wait a minute! Not so fast! Not only should you thoroughly read and understand that lease before you sign it, but if there's any clause with which you disagree you can request the landlord to delete or change it before you sign.

For example, what if the lease prohibits overnight guests, but you know your parents will soon visit and had planned for them stay with you? What will you do with your pet guinea pig if the lease prohibits animals? What if the lease won't allow you to play music during the day because the landlord is a shift worker who sleeps at that time? These are all issues you should discuss with the landlord. If a lease fails to meet your needs then the property might not be the "home of your dreams" after all.

Besides asking for changes or deletions to a lease, you can request that items be added. For military members, perhaps the most important clause in a lease is that which is commonly referred to as a "military clause." A military clause should provide for your release from the rental agreement, without penalty, if you receive transfer orders. You may also want to request a clause that allows you to sublet the property while you're on deployment or away for training.

Most landlords will require a security deposit. According to the Hawaii Residential Landlord-Tenant Code the security deposit, including deposits for pets or keys, may not be more than one month's rent. When you move out the landlord has the right to use your deposit to return the unit to the level of cleanliness provided when you moved in, to pay for damages (excluding normal wear and tear) and to collect unpaid rent or pay for unreturned keys.

Once you sign a rental agreement you are legally bound to adhere to its conditions. Before signing, you should visit the the Family Housing Department to pick up a copy of the Hawaii Residential Landlord-Tenant Code. A customer service representative can review the lease and answer your questions. For more information, call 257-1257.

From A-1

A: As part of the strategic plan to get us into the 21st Century, you have to get rid of old facilities. At the end of the strategic plan is a demolition plan, and that's what is occurring right now. It was important because when there were discussions at headquarters (Marine Corps) that the base would go away, a lot of military construction dollars were redirected elsewhere. Now that K-Bay is a viable organization, it's important for us to move on and get the things that Marines, Sailors and their families deserve. One of my first efforts was to get on the MWR policy board at Washington. I wanted to be able to participate in the discussion dealing with the decisions that would allow us to get some of those things. The PX issue was decided before I came aboard. However, that was for 14.7 million dollars. The retail outlets (beauty shop, book store, etc.) were going to be a half a mile away. That made no sense, so I went forward with a proposal to get those built in with the new PX and commissary. In a recent decision, the MWR policy board increased our project by six million dollars to build those retail outlets. We also received three million dollars to build a fitness center.

Q: How has MWR changed under your command?

A: One of the biggest changes was designating the deputy commander of MCB Hawaii as the director of MWR. Also, all managers now have a budget that they are accountable for. The MWR advisory board, comprised of members from all organizations on base, must pass all decisions made by MWR.

Q: Which quality of life issue has been most important to you?

A: The barracks situation is an ongoing effort due to their age. We have put together numerous tiger teams in the 1000 series barracks to try to make them habitable. That's our fundamental priority. In the area of family housing, we've put a lot of money into the Cochran housing area. This housing area is thirty years old and requires a lot of maintenance. They'll be replaced in the near future.

Q: During your tenure as commanding general you've improved and brought back many athletic events, why was this important?

A: If you were to look at the DUI rates from two years ago to the present time, you would see that we only have 18 DUIs this year. Compare that to a couple of years ago when we had 150. Look at what Marines have to do around here on weekends. If we have sporting events that not only have participants but spectators, then you give people an alternative for the weekend. In addition, under the direction of Lou LeGarie, we instituted the SMART (Single Marines Are Tops) program (a program designed to provide activities for single Marines and Sailors). He told me that last weekend we had Marines at Waimea Falls Park, assisting at Aloha Games and visiting the Polynesian Cultural Center. You can dive, go boating and get involved in a lot of activities on base. It's an effort to get people whatever they want to do on weekends, whether it's the CG's fitness series, varsity sports, tackle football, karate, or horseback riding. It allows people to do something other than sit around the barracks.

Q: What has been your most memorable event of the past year?

A: There were many memorable events. The one that gave me the most satisfaction, because so many people on base helped, was getting the money for the new fitness center, retail outlets, child care center and to be able to upgrade some of the barracks.

Q: What are your feelings about leaving?

A: Gail and I were married at the Base Chapel here in 1972, and we returned 20 years later to the day. We love Hawaii and the aloha spirit. It's a great place to be. We've truly been welcomed with open arms by the people of Hawaii.

Safety

actually be quite dangerous. For this reason, the lifeguards utilize a flag system to alert swimmers of the current water conditions. A red flag indicates that ocean entry is prohibited, and a red and a yellow flag together means that activities are restricted to individuals who are equipped with fins or a surf board. A yellow flag means that individuals should take caution while swimming.

Families can invite their friends to enjoy these activities, but there are certain procedures that must be followed.

Children enjoying the sunny afternoons of summer vacation on playgrounds or at activity centers may want to share the fun with their friends who don't live on base. All visitors who are not military personnel, or a family member, are required to have a sponsor.

Although there are no requirements for the age of a sponsor, if the guest is younger than 17 the sponsor must meet the friend at the Pass House, H-3 gate, Kaneohe Bay, or building 601, MCB Hawaii, Camp H. M. Smith. As long as the visitor is 17 years old or older, the sponsor may call the Pass House and give advance notice of the visit to the military police.

Sponsors are required to provide their name and telephone number, their guest's name, expected time of arrival and destination. When the guest arrives, the military police will verify the visit with the sponsor by telephone and allow the guest to proceed. The MPD requires that visitors provide a drivers license or other means of positive identification.

Base regulations also state that once guests are admitted to the base, the sponsor is responsible for the visitors actions and are required to ensure base regulations are enforced. One step that is being taken to augment safety is the increase of presence by the military police, and the crackdown on speed violators.

"The number of foot and bicycle patrols will be increasing soon," said Sgt. Woodrow Owens, Crime Prevention, Military Police Department, MCB Hawaii, Kaneohe Bay. "We want to get out into the community so that the residents can become familiar with us."

The Military Police Department will soon have new equipment to handle the increasing problem of speeding traffic violations. With children starting their summer vacations, there is an increased concern for safety on and near streets.

"We're conducting speeding surveys to determine where the trouble areas are," said SSgt. Theodore Marling, traffic chief, Military Police Department, MCB Hawaii, Kaneohe Bay.

Marling explained that the speeding problem seems to be prevalent in the housing areas where there is a large concentration of pedestrians. A lot of emphasis will be on enforcing the speed limit. Military police will also be enforcing regulations focused on ensuring the safety of the youth after daylight hours.

As the sun begins to settle, there is another regulation that parents should consider. MCB Hawaii adheres to the Hawaii curfew law. This states that children under the age of 16, who are not accompanied by an adult, will be clear of public places and streets between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. The curfew has a 30 minute tolerance if a child is proceeding directly to or from a scheduled event. Violators of this curfew will be issued a minor offense report or an incident complaint report, and their parents will be notified.

Front and Center

LCpl. Robert E. Hawkins

Sgt. Lou Genzer

Marine uses skills on accident victims

Sgt. Lou Genzer
Staff writer

It's natural to expect an adrenaline rush from a roller-coaster ride or a bungi jump, but LCpl. Robert E. Hawkins recently experienced an adrenaline rush of a different sort, while saving the life of another human being.

On their way home from Waikiki, Hawkins and LCpl. Richard Freeman, saw a car impacted into a stone wall just before entering the Pali Highway.

"The car was smoking, so we stopped about 100 feet away from it," said Freeman. "We could see the passengers had injuries so we didn't want to move them."

But when they saw the flames coming out of the car and rapidly engulfing its front end, Hawkins and Freeman knew they were going to have to move quickly. By this time, onlookers had started gathering around the flaming vehicle.

"We were surprised at the lack of help we received," Hawkins said.

The two young Marines from Golf Company, 2nd Battalion, 3d Marines, continued to remain calm and keep the situation under control.

While Freeman pulled the driver out the door and got him to safety, Hawkins was having a difficult time getting the passenger out of the vehicle. The passenger door was jammed shut. Hawkins went in through the window and was able to undo the seat belt. Slowly, Hawkins and a bystander removed the victim through the window.

"We had to do a type of chair carry, because his leg was injured," Hawkins said.

Once the injured sixteen year-old was safely out of the car, Hawkins and Freeman began performing first aid.

According to Freeman, the passenger apparently had a fractured ankle and was also complaining of chest pains.

Hawkins treated him for shock and attempted to keep his mind off the injury while Freeman kept the ankle off the ground.

"We waited there until the fire and police departments arrived," Hawkins said. "The next day we tried to find out how the two kids were doing but were unable to get any information through the police or hospitals."

Hawkins said on their way home they still could not believe what had just happened.

"We used a lot of the training we had learned in the Marine Corps, especially first aid. Everything seemed routine," Hawkins said.

Hawkins explained much of the knowledge he used to save the two victims was attained in his field as an infantry man. Upon enlisting in the Marine Corps in June 1993, Hawkins knew being in the infantry field was exactly what he wanted to do.

"I couldn't see myself behind a desk. I have always liked the outdoors, so I requested to be a grunt," said the Martinez, Calif., native.

Hawkins is highly enthusiastic about being a Marine. It was his enthusiasm which made him excel in bootcamp and get promoted to the rank of private first class.

He continued to show his motivation throughout the school of infantry at Camp Pendleton, Calif., and was given the position of fire team leader. Upon completion of the school, he was promoted to lance corporal.

"When you are put into leadership positions you want to excel. You want to push harder when you know there are people looking up at you," said the 19 year-old.

Shortly after arriving at G Co., 2/3 in January 1994, Hawkins departed to Okinawa on the Unit Deployment Program, where he deployed throughout the Pacific.

Although only in the Marine Corps two years, Hawkins said he has learned to be more responsible.

Marine seamsters at Canvas Repair Platoon keep Corps readiness covered

Sgt. Jesse Faleris
Staff writer

Olive drab, khaki brown and green, cloak all but the white that surrounds the dark pupils of a calm alert face. The eyes dart from left to right and back again, before the body lunges from its cover of vegetation and darts across a dirt trail. A short deliberate hand signal sends three additional camouflage Marines racing across the danger area. The rumble of mortar fire and the poignant odor of phosphorus become stronger, as the Marines continue their advance. Several miles fall beneath the boots of the troops, who press on toward their objective. Finally, the call, "halt who goes there!" is belted from the listening/ observation post. With a pistol in his right hand and a sewing kit in his left, the camouflaged Marine replies, "Canvass Repair Platoon."

In the midst of war, the last thing that a Marine wants to deal with is a leaky tent, or a torn flak jacket. The mission of CSSG-3's Canvass Repair Platoon is the repair of these, and many other types of equipment. They frequently repair items such as troop covers and doors for HMMWV's, gortex gear, and sleeping bags.

Although six weeks at the Fabric Repair Specialist school, Fort Lee Va., prepares a Marine for a variety of seamster repair work, the real training comes with experience.

"I try to teach new Marines to sew a straight line, but some of them can't for a long time," said SSgt. Austin Sampson, staff non-commissioned officer in charge, Canvass Repair Platoon, Maintenance Company, Combat Service Support Group-3, as his large fingers manipulated a piece of gear under a sewing machine. "A lot of people think this isn't a very manly job, let them try to pull one of those huge tents onto a sewing machine, fighting with it while they try to sew a straight line."

Although a majority of the platoon's work comes from the motor pool and supply units, other MCB Hawaii units can request repairs. The procedures for having a piece of equipment repaired are simple. After giving the Canvass Repair Platoon a call, they will schedule a time to bring the equipment down, and fill out an equipment repair order.

"We want to control the flow of work, so that the repairs don't become backlogged," said Sampson. It generally takes three to five working days for the equipment to be repaired, unless it is a busy time of year for the fabric specialists.

"Before and after a unit goes to PTA [Pohakuloa Training Area] there is a heavy flow of work for us," explained Cpl. Michael Kremlacha, quality control non-commissioned officer, Canvass Repair Platoon.

The Canvass Repair Platoon won't be making a camouflaged house call to make repairs for units, but through the right channels, they will provide timely repairs of combat necessary equipment. The efforts of the fabric repair specialists further bolster the Marine Corps' ability to remain a self-sufficient and cost effective combat ready force for our country.

A stitch in time — Cpl. Michael Kremlacha, quality control non-commissioned officer, repairs fabric, which is a vital part of Marine field operations.

Ballroom dancing?

From the Cheap Seats

John Magnus
Outdoor Recreation Supervisor

Rafer Johnson, Jesse Owens, Wilma Rudolph, Mark Spitz, Arthur Murray. All of those names probably ring a bell with you all as U.S. Olympic heroes. Whoa, Whoa, Whoa. Arthur Murray? What's that all about? Well, as some of you may already know, ballroom dancing is going to be a demonstration sport at the 1996 Olympics in Atlanta. No, you didn't misunderstand this, ballroom dancing is going to be in the Olympics.

Where do I begin? This is simply hysterical. I've tried to justify this decision over and over in my head, but I just don't get it. Ballroom dancing? Ballroom dancing? Ballroom dancing?! Who the...? What the...? How the...? I'm flabbergasted. This is about as brilliant of a decision as any human being beyond the age of 10 minutes old can make. And if a nine minute old made the decision, at least you could shrug it off because hey, the kid's young, what do they know about sports and the Olympics anyway.

Back in ancient Greece when the Olympics were first started, I'm sure this wasn't what they had in mind. The concept was to find the strongest, the most courageous, and most disciplined person on earth. Tests of strength and endurance were the rule. Running, jumping, fighting and all that kind of stuff were, and still are, the basis for the Olympics.

Let's say that 40 years from now I'm watching the Olympics with my grandkids and the ballroom dancing comes on and they ask me about who the great ballroom dancers were when I was their age. What do I tell them? Do I make up names of ballroom dancing Olympians? Or do I tell them the truth? Do I tell them that when I was a kid we didn't have ballroom dancing because ballroom dancing was for wimps? Do I tell them that any guy who was a ballroom dancer was usually the guy getting the stuffing kicked out of him in the gym locker room? Do I tell them that in my day a real Olympian was someone like Jackie Joyner-Kersey, or Matt Biondi, not someone who skipped across a hardwood floor in a tuxedo spinning his female partner around?

As you can tell, I don't think that ballroom dancing is a sport. I'm not going to go through any long explanation, I just, plain and simple, don't think it's a sport. A friend asked me to explain the difference between ballroom dancing and pairs figure skating. Well, one is performed on wood, and the other on ice. Duh! And neither belong in the Olympics!

Man, what a joke! Ballroom dancing? Imagine what all those other athletes must feel like. Consistently weight training and dieting. Using technology to get the cutting edge equipment, eat the right foods, and develop hard core training regimens.

What do these ballroomers do? Spin each other around and slide across the hardwood. Big deal, throw some sawdust down and they can spin themselves for days at a time. Heck maybe they'll spin so much that they'll drill a hole in the ground and spin oil.

I guess I just feel that a leisure time activity like ballroom dancing will detract from the importance of the Olympics and the feats that are accomplished by Olympians. If these types of activities continue to be put into the Olympics, the other events will seem less important. Maybe I haven't given any concrete reasons why ballroom dancing should not be in the Olympics, but for some strange reason I think many of you get my point anyway.

Dive into Waimea Falls Park

Sgt. William Ray
Staff writer

For outdoor enthusiasts Hawaii offers virtually unlimited opportunities for surfing, body boarding, sailing, diving and hiking. For those who lack an adventurous streak, Hawaii is also a mecca of places to dine, dance, tour and shop.

However, many people may wonder where to find a way to experience a slower more natural Hawaii.

On the northern shore of Oahu, lies a lush tropical valley called Waimea. In this 1800-acre park there are 36 different gardens featuring more than 6000 species of rare and beautiful plant life.

Waimea Falls Park features a variety of attractions that can be experienced both day and night.

In the day, visitors might want to explore a Kauhale kahiko (ancient Hawaiian living site) where it's possible to interact with native Hawaiians as they recreate the daily activities that took place in the valley during the early 1700s.

Next, the Waimea Valley Dancers will teach and perform hula dancing as well as include spectators in some ancient Hawaiian games. Another featured attraction is the acrobatic diving which is performed by professional divers at the park's 45-foot waterfall.

This garden can be experienced by walking or riding on one of the tram cars that systematically run through the park.

For the more adventurous, there are some newer attractions at the park. Guests can explore never before seen areas of Waimea Valley on a ten-mile, all-terrain vehicle ride or on the ATV mini-challenge which includes a downhill obstacle course. There are also downhill mountain bike tours through the northern valley and kayak rides along Waimea River.

Waimea Falls Park offers the Proud Peacock restaurant for dining in addition to several snack bars located throughout the park.

Along with the Makahiki Festival, a two-day cultural celebration in October every year, Waimea Falls Park offers several beautiful locations for weddings and receptions. They also provide wedding coordinators who will help with all the planning.

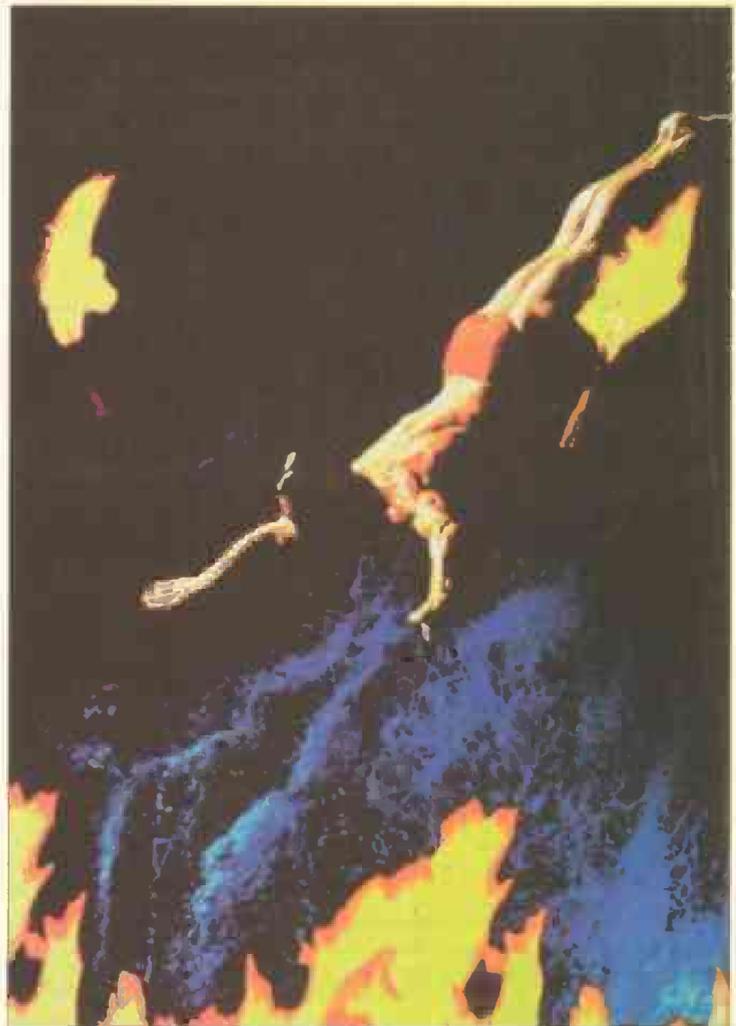

The newest attraction to the park is titled Waimea Valley by Night. This attraction allows guests to travel back in time by experiencing the life of a young Hawaiian woman around the turn of the century, as told by Auntie Kanani Awai a Kupuna, a storyteller and artisan who works at Waimea Falls Park. During the 90-minute tour through the park, listeners will see various scenes from the young woman's life acted out in a very real setting of ancient Hawaiian lifestyle.

Waimea Valley by Night is offered only on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings. There is an evening package that includes dinner and the show, or a package that only includes the show.

Waimea Falls Park offers special military prices for all tours, activities and admissions. For rates and pricing information, contact the entertainment hotline at ITT at 254-3304.

Touring on an ATV — Traversing through the beautiful park is one of the highlights of a visit to the Falls. Contact ITT for more information at 254-3304.

Awesome — Spectacular night dives are just one of the many shows and forms of entertainment available to visitors at Waimea Falls Park.

Proud as a peacock — Beautiful animals and birds inhabit the park area which is a real setting for the ancient Hawaiian lifestyle.

Visiting USS Bowfin museum is exploring more than 50 years of submarine history

Sgt. Jesse Faleris
Staff writer

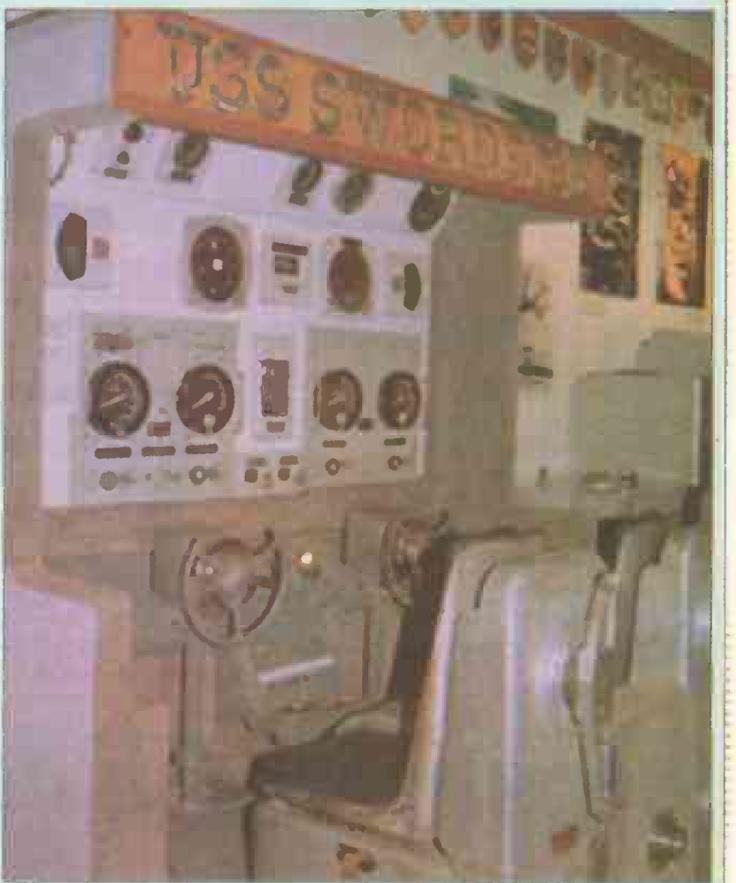

The darkness weighs heavily upon your eyes, straining to focus on their surroundings. The engines stopped and voices muted by a command, your ears ring in silence. All that exists are the blips of sonar; a Japanese battleship searching for its submerged enemy. The captain, peering through his periscope, patiently waits for the ship to cross his torpedo trajectory. Fire!!! The first of a barrage of torpedos is released, steaming toward the battleship's certain destruction. The craft would soon join 43 of its comrades at the bottom of the ocean during WWII, sent to their demise by an American submarine commissioned as the USS Bowfin and nicknamed the "Pearl Harbor Avenger".

An educational and entertaining afternoon can be experienced at the USS Bowfin Submarine Museum & Park. From Japanese one-man Kamikazi submarines and hydrogen peroxide driven torpedos to The USS Bowfin itself, the park is alive with pieces from history. Visitors can climb aboard anti-aircraft guns, peek through periscopes that look upon Pearl Harbor, or walk through the hulls of the USS Bowfin. A moment of silence can be recognized as you gaze upon the Waterfront Memorial; a collection of monuments commemorating the 52 American submarines and more than 3,500 submariners that were lost in World War II.

A walk through the museum unfolds the pages of history to the curious patron. The fact that a submarine is a naval vessel capable of remaining submerged and traveling beneath the water is conveyed in a graphic and enjoyable manner. A person can obtain knowledge of the first attempt in 1776 or the first true submarines in France and the United States in the 19th century, to the USS Nautilus, the first nuclear-powered submarine, and much more.

The USS Bowfin Submarine Museum & Park is open daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., with the last tour of the submarine starting at 4:30 p.m. The museum is located at 11 Arizona Memorial Drive in Honolulu, Hawaii 96818, and can be contacted at (808) 423-1341.

In the driver's seat — The USS Bowfin Museum allows visitors to view the history of submarines which are regarded as one of our nations vital security assets.

Individuals may compete in one of three divisions: elite, open and modified. Teams will compete in the open division. Register by June 20 and receive a t-shirt. Entry fees are $12 for individuals and $20 for teams. Late entries will be available on the day of the event but a t-shirt cannot be guaranteed. Late entry fees are $15 for individuals and $25 for teams. For more information, call the MWR Athletic Department at 254-0192.

Family Service Center

Relocation Assistance offers many different programs to help families during transition

Brian Goodson
Relocation Assistance Program manager

The Family Service Center's (FSC) Relocation Assistance Program (RAP) can assist all Marines who are in the process of relocating themselves and/or their family members. Whether you are transferring to a new duty station or have recently arrived from another, the RAP can help. We have several specialized services that one can take advantage of.

SITES (Standard Information Topic Exchange Service) provides comprehensive relocation information on over 330 DoD military installations worldwide. The information in SITES is updated every 90 days so one never receives outdated information. So whether your next duty station is at Camp Pendleton or MARFOREUR in Stuttgart, Germany we have got a SITES printout for you.

To supplement SITES we also have on file at the FSC, "Welcome Aboard Packages" from other DoD installations worldwide. These packages are available to checkout for 7 days. However, if one would like a package to be sent to them covering the next installation, they can request one from the gaining command's FSC. It can be sent to either the servicemember's home or work address.

To request a sponsor, Marines should first fill out a Sponsorship Request Form which is enclosure (1) of MCO 1320.11D and send it to the gaining command's G-1/S-1. We can also assist in requesting a sponsor for a servicemember and his family. This is accomplished by coordinating a request for a sponsor with the gaining command's FSC.

Base Lending Locker Has Moved! The Base Lending Locker has recently moved from Building 460 to Building 216, Room 45. Hours of operation are from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., Monday thru Friday. The Lending Locker is designed to help if you are newly arrived and are awaiting delivery of your household goods. It also assists those who are leaving and have shipped their household goods but are still waiting to vacate housing. We can provide basic household items such as loaner kitchen packs with pots, pans, and dishes for four, appliance packs, linens, car seats, irons and ironing boards. These items are issued on a first come-first served basis and are available for a 30-day lending period.

To educate all service members regarding their PCS move, the Relocation Assistance Program has a PCS Move Workshop which is designed to give in one 3-hour class all the information you may need to properly plan your PCS move. Several base offices will conduct the brief which includes Housing, TLA, Disbursing, and the Transportation Management Office. Many Marines will see these offices individually after they have received their orders without considering how they want to execute their move. Transferring PCS from Hawaii gives a Marine and his family options they don't have when transferring from a CONUS based command. It really helps to attend the class, receive information regarding your PCS options and entitlements, and then develop a plan on your own.

For new joins, we have the New Arrivals Orientation held on the first Tuesday of every month. In this half-day orientation we will brief all base programs and services. It will give all new arrivals complete information about the base. Spouses are always welcome.

To supplement the New Arrivals Orientation the monthly Base and Island Tour will give those who sign up a day's excursion around the island of Oahu. All those personnel and family members who have recently arrived should consider going on this tour. It helps orient one to what the island can offer regarding recreation and cultural activities. Conducted by experienced volunteers, one can come away from the Base and Island Tour with a better understanding and appreciation of the island.

To summarize, the Relocation Assistance Program can help those who are leaving and arriving with information and services designed to ease the stress of relocating from one duty station to another. For further information or to register for a class or tour call 257-3135.
