HOME OF THE 1 BIG RED ONE

THE 1ST INFANTRY DIVISION POST

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 2016

Grigsby leads Total Army Conference

By Amanda Kim Stairrett 1ST INF. DTV. PUBLIC AFFAIRS

1st Infantry Division's commanding general told his guests Feb. 11 that Fort Riley was a big Astroturf field - a place where their troops could train as they would fight.

Maj. Gen. Wayne W. Grigsby Jr. and Command Sgt. Maj. Joseph C. Cornelison led the "Big Red One's" first Total Army Conference, a gathering of National Guard and Reserve leaders from six states throughout the Midwest. The goal is strengthening the partnership between active-duty, National Guard and Reserve forces, making them all more operationally effective.

"It's really up to me as the active component commander here at the 1st Infantry Division to communicate more on what our capabilities are here and what our schedule is here," Grigsby said, "so we can help integrate and be better teammates to our partners."

The conference included an extensive tour of Fort Riley training sites and facilities so adjutant generals from Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Iowa and Minnesota could get a look at just what was available to them in the Central Flint Hills of Kansas. Kansas National Guard and Reserve forces are no strangers to Fort Riley, and the state's adjutant, Maj. Gen. Lee Tafanelli, who Grigsby referred to as his "battle buddy" during the TAC, touted the post's training capabilities throughout Joining Tafanelli were leaders from Army National Guard's 35th Infantry Division from Leavenworth, Kansas, and the Army Reserve's 451st Expeditionary Sustainment command from Wichita, Kansas. Soldiers and leaders from the 35th Inf. Div. spent time at Fort Riley in January as the 1st Inf. Div. headquarters and units across the post conducted an extensive Command Post Exercise. The CPX was one of three training exercises to help prepare the division for this spring's Warfighter Exercise, a high-level training opportunity that will prepare the headquarters and subordinate units for upcoming missions. Participants from the 35th Inf. Div. served as observers and controllers, overseeing the scenarios presented to sections within the headquarters to test their readiness.

FORT RILEY, KAN.

See TOTAL ARMY, page 7

Meet the new garrison Command Sergeant Major

Command Sgt. Maj. James Collins assumed responsibility during a ceremony Feb. 3. For an introduction into his command, see page 6.

Document, guidelines for enlisted leaders released

By Master Sgt. Michael Lavigne 1ST INF. DIV. PUBLIC AFFAIRS

At the end of January, 1st Infantry Division leaders released the "Big Red One" noncommissioned officer Big 5 guidelines, a document that provides guidelines of conduct and expectations of performance by noncommissioned officers serving in the division. To read the "BRO NCO Big 5," see page 5.

The tenets of the "BRO NCO Big 5" are areas first-line leaders — sergeants and staff sergeants — need to zero in on, to prevent breaches of discipline and improve poor behavior by Soldiers, said Command Sgt. Maj. Joseph C. Cornelison, the division's senior noncommissioned officer and author of the document.

"The primary purpose of the "BRO NCO Big 5" is to set guidelines for professional development," Cornelison said. "Our biggest risk right now is where the rubber meets the road the first-line leader level. Sergeants and staff sergeants who are not performing the way their Soldiers need them to can place our readiness at risk. That's unacceptable." Cornelison came into his position as the division command sergeant major in late September, and since then has spent many hours moving through company, battery and troop areas, talking with and listening to Soldiers and taking what subordinate leaders are saying about leadership to heart.

Some of those conversations, along with some of his own observations, are where the "BRO NCO Big 5" began to

The "BRO NCO Big 5" contains five tenets: set the example, foster discipline by enforcing standards, be accountable for your actions and your Soldiers' actions, train Soldiers and maintain the welfare of Soldiers.

While the policy went out through official channels, mid-level NCOs throughout the division are also spreading it through word of mouth.

"We have so many leaders out there that are the 'do as I say, not as I do' leaders," said Sgt. 1st Class Adam Walsh, a platoon sergeant in Company B, 1st Engineer Battalion, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Inf. Div.

He said "Set the Example" was the most important tenet on the list.

"If you are a leader and every single Soldier in your element, regardless of size, does not want to be you or look up to you, then you are doing something wrong in my opinion," Walsh said.

Sgt. 1st Class Mark Krugh, a first sergeant in the 2nd Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Inf. Div., currently deployed to Southwest Asia, said tenet group of firefighters practice digging a line during a wildland certification course at Fort Riley Feb. 10. This is a technique firefighters use to designate where a prescribed burn will begin and end by scraping away the leaves and grass and exposing the dirt. It was one piece of the 6-day course offered.

See BIG 5, page 4

Fightin' Fire

Firefighters from eight installations certify for wildland skills at Fort Riley

Story and photos by Maria Childs 1ST INF. DIV. POST

"Deploy!" shouted a wildland fire instructor from Colorado State University as five firefighters raced toward him during a wildland fire course at Fort Riley Feb. 10.

The 25-second clock began at the start of the command for all five of them including Adam Peterson, a Fort Riley firefighter, who was now in the middle of the field practicing the use of his emergency shelter.

Peterson was one of about 25 firefighters and environmentalists from about eight installations who attended the 6-day course.

"It's a lot different than structural firefighting," Peterson said. "A lot of the time, when you respond to a structural fire, you don't know all the hazards until you get inside. With wildland fires, everything is in the open — it's right there. It's a different type of methodology behind fighting structural and wildland fires."

"The mission here is a lot different than other bases. We have ranges, so wildland fires are prevalent specifically at Fort Riley. This covers anything from prescribed burns to instances where it is not planned."

ADAM PETERSON | FORT RILEY FIRE DEPARTMENT

Firefighters across the nation are certifying in multiple types firefighting. Installation Management Command leaders decided to jump on board with this standardization and cross certify Department of Defense firefighters too.

Steve Gray, one of the instructors who visited Fort Riley, talks to a local representative from fire stations across the United States and makes plans to provide the course to that installation's firefighters. He said the standardization is for safety.

"I think the No. 1 reason is safety," Gray said. "It's a foundation that every wildland firefighter starts from ... fire still burns like fire burns."

Vicki Edge, another instructor and Georgia state firefighter, said firefighters get the chemistry of firefighting from their educational background and their structural world, but that doesn't mean they know how to fight any fire.

"They just need to know how to apply it to a wildland fire," Edge

Dan Grosboll, a fish and wildlife biologist from Joint Base Louis-McChord, Washington, visited Fort Riley to obtain the certification. At his installation,

See FIRE, page 7

Soldier named Air Traffic Controller of the Year

Story and photo by Sgt. Jarrett E. Allen 1ST CAB PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Chief Warrant Officer 2 Ruben Ray Gutierrez, air traffic and airspace management technician, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 1st Combat Aviation Brigade, 1st Infantry Division, received the Army Aviation Air Traffic Control Manager of the year award Feb. 2 at Fort Rucker, Alabama.

Gutierrez spent 16 years in the air traffic control community. He enlisted Sept. 2, 1999, as an air traffic controller and then transitioned to serve as an air traffic and airspace management technician. He became a warrant officer in the fall of 2012.

Gutierrez said he was surprised to hear he was nominated for the award, considering the nominees awarded in the past were typically deployed for the majority of the qualification period, which spans from Sept. 1 through Aug. 31 every year.

Sponsored by Raytheon, the award is presented annually to the Army Aviation ATC manager who has performed outstandingly in or contributed commendably to the air traffic control organization, according to the guidelines from the Army Aviation Association of America.

Gutierrez said being nominated for the award meant a lot and it felt good to be recognized for his hard work.

See AWARD, page 4

Chief Warrant Officer 2 Ruben Ray Gutierrez, air traffic and airspace management technician, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 1st Combat Aviation Brigade, 1st Infantry Division, received the Army Aviation Air Traffic Control Manager of the Year award at a Feb. 2 ceremony at Fort Rucker, Alabama.

The next USAG Resilience Day Off is

FEB.

SAFETY HOLIDAY

As of Wednesday, Feb. 17, days have passed since the last vehicular fatality at Fort Riley. Fifty-two more and the post will celebrate with a safety holiday to take place at each unit's discretion.

HIGHLIGHTS

DIRECTORATE OF FAMILY AND MORALE, WELFARE AND RECREATION STAFF HOSTS SPONSORSHIP AWARDS IN JUNCTION CITY, SEE PAGE 9.

ALSO IN THIS ISSUE

GRIGSBY WINS GAME AGAINST COLE DURING GARRISON BOWLING DAYS CELEBRITY MATCHUP, SEE PAGE 13.

'Diehard' Soldiers move earth in their first assault breacher vehicle training

Story and photo by Spc. Derrik Tribbey 1ST ABCT PUBLIC AFFAIRS

"Diehard" Soldiers with the 1st Engineer Battalion, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Infantry Division, Fort Riley.

This was the Diehard's first time training on the vehicles. With these vehicles, they hope to increase mission readiness by destroying obstacles and reduce time on the ground for Soldiers.

combat engineer vehicle tracked armored vehicles. designed to breach minefields and complex obstacles.

of equipment for us now," said Capt. Jason Minor, commander of Company A., 1st Eng. Bn. "Before, breaching a minefield with an M58 mine-clearing line charge was a matter of putting Soldiers on the ground. Now, we trained with M-1 Assault can do it without doing that. It knowledge of systems in Breacher Vehicles on Feb. 3 at offers that extra level of protection and that extra amount of speed can be critical."

The ABV sits at 40.5 by 26.5 feet and weighs in at 67.6 tons. The front end can be replaced with either a full-width mine plow or a combat dozer blade. The plow allows the vehicle to Thom McCool, a training penetrate the ground to remove inexperienced drivers, to know and integration developer mines and munitions while the and master our equipment." with the Systems Training, blade provides earthmoving Integration and Devices Team, capabilities and obstacle clearing obstacles including said the ABV is a tracked, clearance to clear paths for marking systems, smoke grenade system and more, McCool said. While downrange, the vehicles included reactive armor tiles mounted to the turret.

linear

With this training, Soldiers will be provided the detailed the ABV, allowing them to integrate new capabilities into their units.

"Today was a good training,' said Sgt. Shane Gillam, an ABV commander with 1st Eng. Bn. "We got more hands-on experience, not just with the tank commanders but also with

The ABV is capable of minefields, wire obstacles, tank ditches, jersey barriers and Equipment includes two more, McCool said. It will also demolition allow commanders to provide

"These are a critical piece charge systems and two lane- multiple breach points to allow forces to move swiftly through the battlefield.

"This training is critically important to us," Minor said, "because we are getting our leaders experience with the equipment with a little bit of institutional training which hopefully we should be able to carry forward within our formation."

Soldiers will now be equipped with the skills, knowledge and ability to identify, clear and breach with the ABV, McCool said. This will allow the "Devil" brigade to clear suspected obstacles in order to protect friendly forces and assets.

"I am real excited; this is my first time ever using one," said Staff Sgt. Kevin Casey, an ABV commander with 1st Eng. Bn. "I'm interested to see how quick we can be on target."

"Diehard" Soldiers with the 1st Engineer Battalion, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Infantry Division, man the Assault Breacher Vehicle and sweep for landmines during a training exercise Feb. 3 at Fort Riley. This ABV utilizes a full width mine plow in order to remove mines from the ground. The blades have three positions for depth.

Frank thanks personnel Soldiers for hard work with awards

Story and photo by J. Parker Roberts 1ST INF. DIV. PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Personnel Soldiers from across the 1st Infantry Division met Feb. 4 at Fort Rilev's Mission Training Complex for a quarterly symposium. Brig. Gen. Patrick Frank, the division's deputy commanding general for support, spoke to the Soldiers and helped present awards for the best units and individuals of the quarter.

"What you do for the division each and every day down at the battalion and the brigade level — some of you at the division level — is exceptionally important for the readiness of this division," Frank said. "Think about the scope of how you touch Soldiers and units across the 1st Inf. Div. It's unbelievable how far you reach."

Personnel offices at every level within the "Big Red One" are instrumental in accountability, promotions and deployment ability, the general

"There's not a Solider in this division that's not looking for that next promotion, because the 1st Inf. Div. is a division of leaders and are "helping to support and provide the infrastructure with what you do each and every day to make that happen for our Soldiers and their families."

Frank thanked the gathered Soldiers for their hard work and daily contributions to the

At the symposium, the 1st Combat Aviation Brigade was named the best brigade personnel office for the first quarter of fiscal year 2016, while 1st Battalion, 5th Field Artillery, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, was named the best battalion personnel office for the same Individual awards went to Capt. Rebekah Jadrnak, personnel officer for 601st Aviation Support Battalion, 1st CAB; Sgt. Eladious Smith, human resources noncommissioned officer with 3rd Assault Helicopter Battalion, 1st Aviation Regiment, 1st CAB; and Paula McGuire, human resources assistant for the 1st Inf. Div. personnel office. The trio were recognized as best human resources officer, soldier and civilian of the quarter, respectively.

We know how hard you guys work, and you definitely deserve to be awarded and be future leaders," Frank said. Personnel Soldiers presented in front of as many of your peers as possible," said Lt. Col. Trina Rice, the division's senior personnel officer.

Gen. Patrick Frank, the division's deputy commanding general for support, speaks to personnel Soldiers from across the 1st Infantry Division Feb. 4 at Fort Riley's Mission Training Complex. The Soldiers gathered for their quarterly symposium, during which Frank helped present awards for the best units and individuals of the quarter. Personnel offices at every level within the "Big Red One" are instrumental in accountability, promotions and deployment ability, the general said.

J. Parker Roberts | 1ST INF. DIV.

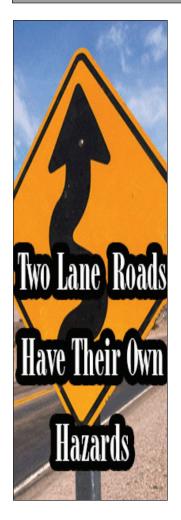

Sgt. 1st Class Leonard Pierre-Louis, 601st Aviation Support Battalion, 1st CAB, and dining facility manager for the Demon Diner, accepts The BRO Thanksgiving Award of Excellence Feb. 9 in the 1st Infantry Division Commander's Best Thanksgiving Dining Facility Competition in November 2015. On Nov. 25 and 26, Demon Diner and the Devil's Den served traditional Thanksgiving meals to Soldiers and their families. During the meals, members of the 1st Inf. Div. and Fort Riley command teams visited each dising facility to serve food and decide the winner of the Serier each dining facility to serve food and decide the winner of the Senior Commander's Best Culinary Dining Facility.

HARD WORK RECOGNIZED

Lt. Col. Alexander Murray, commander of the 97th Military Police Battalion, recognized Spc. Michael Jackson Jr. Feb. 5 for his performance during the MP's Soldier of the Quarter competition, which was hosted by the Soldiers of the battalion Jan. 13 at Fort Riley. Jackson won the brigade's Soldier of the Quarter competition.

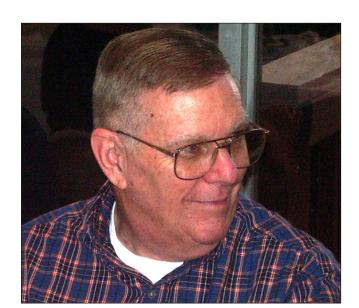

WWW.FACEBOOK.COM/FORTRILEY

John Seitz: A 'Big Red One' Soldier

THEN & NOW

By Phyllis Fitzgerald SPECIAL TO THE POST

John Seitz, whose military career spanned from 1959 to 1988, comes from a family of devoted Army Soldiers and honorable service.

John's Dad is the late Brig. Gen. John A. "Andy" Seitz, a Division Artillery commander with the 1st Infantry Division. Brig. Gen. Seitz was instrumental in familiarizing John with conducting artillery service practice and rifle marksmanship prior to attending ROTC summer camp. Once John was commissioned from ROTC at the University of Missouri, he entered the Army.

Brig. Gen. Andy Seitz's service at Fort Riley included tours as Division Artillery and post commander. John's uncle was Chief Warrant Officer 4 Ed Seitz, a maintenance warrant officer who was appointed the first Regular Army Chief Warrant Officer 4. Another of John's uncles was Lt. Gen. Dick Seitz, who was an Army airborne infantry officer and was the youngest Army combat battalion commander during WWII, serving as the commander of the 2nd Battalion, 517 Parachute Infantry Regiment, throughout the European campaigns.

Seitz Elementary School and the Seitz Regional Training Campus were both named in honor of Lt. Gen. Dick Seitz.

John's story with the Big Red One began July 10, 1966 when he arrived in Vietnam. John completed the Artillery Advanced Course at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, as an artillery captain and was sent to Vietnam as an unassigned individual replacement.

He was then assigned to the 1st Infantry Division in Di An, Vietnam under the command of Maj. Gen. Bill

He was further assigned to DIVARTY and from there to Headquarters and Headquarters Battalion, 8th Battalion, 6th Artillery in Phou Loi.

John was initially slotted as the battalion assistant S-3 operations fire direction officer. But he joined the battalion forward headquarters in An Loc. The battalion commander was Lt. Col. John McGiffert, who assigned John as the battalion S-3, operations and fire direction officer

He remained in that position long enough to receive an officer evaluation report, before being reassigned.

John Seitz participated in multiple major campaigns and operations while assigned to S-3 operations such as: Nui Bah Dinh, Iron Triangle and Michelin Plantation to name a few.

He worked for three battalion commanders: Lt. Cols John McGiffert, Mortimer Birdseye and Ben Safar. While serving with McGiffert and Safar, each commander told John it was essential he command a battery while in Vietnam — even though he had this duty two times in Europe.

With 63 days remaining in Vietnam, Safar assigned John Seitz to command "B" battery a unit he led through multiple combat operations until he left Vietnam July 10, 1967.

In total, John Seitz served two tours of duty in Vietnam. The first was with the 1st Infantry Division and the second was with XXIV Corps headquarters.

For two of the months with the XXIV Corps headquarters, John was the chief of current intelligence. Then, for the remaining ten months, he was Secretary, General Staff for XXIV Corps.

A special memory for John is the Battle of Nui Bah Dinh. He led centralized fire direction for ten batteries from multiple artillery units firing mixed calibers and cannons supporting the maneuver force.

"It proved that the 'school solution' really worked," Seitz said.

During a brief period, we fired more than ten thousand rounds of ammunition.

Throughout his career following his Vietnam tour with the 'Big Red One,' John remained active in the Society of the 1st Infantry Division. He attended reunions and the Combat Veteran Officers Annual Dinner, whenever he was able.

His next association with the 'Big Red One' came in June 1982 when he was assigned as chief of the readiness group, Fort Riley, Kansas.

Then in May 1984, he was requested by the 1st Infantry Division commander, Maj. Gen. Neal Creighton, to be deputy post commander.

Seitz went to school to learn installation management and, upon his return, served as deputy post commander under a new commanding general of the 1st Infantry Division, Maj. Gen. Ron Watts, a position he held until May 1985.

He then departed to become the deputy chief of staff for operations and plans at Fourth Army at Fort Sheridan, Illinois.

During his time as Fort Riley deputy post commander, John wore the Big Red One Patch, as did those assigned to the garrison staff.

He retired as a colonel in November 1988 in the Washington D.C. area.

"Although I served in four different divisions, I have always considered the Big Red One home," John said. "After 23 years of living in the Washington D. C. area and numerous requests from my late uncle, I moved to Junction City, Kansas, and it has become my home ever since."

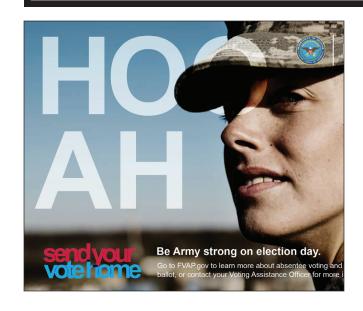

Today, John is director of military affairs for the Junction City area Chamber of Commerce. He remains active in the community and with Fort Riley, working basis to build relationships between the Junction City community and Fort Riley.

He is at Fort Riley almost every day visiting and interacting with Soldiers, units and commanders, as well as attending military functions.

John also records the military affairs council minute for broadcast on KJCK radio every Friday at 8:30 a.m.

He also serves on the board of the Central Kansas Military Community Foundation, Association of the United States Army, YMCA, Rotary Club, Historical and Archaeological Society of Fort Riley, and is a trustee for St. John Military School in Salina, Kansas.

Editor Note: To submit your 'Big Red One' story, email fitzmiss@yahoo.com.

4 | FEBRUARY 19, 2016 HOME OF THE BIG RED ONE

MILITARY SAVES WEEK

Maj. Gen. Wayne W. Grigsby Jr., 1st Infantry Division and Fort Riley commanding general, signs a proclamation declaring the week of Feb. 22 through Feb. 27 as Military Saves Week. Military Saves is a national marketing campaign to persuade, encourage and motivate service members and their families to take financial action in building wealth through saving money and reducing debt. Fort Riley is a partner in the Military Saves campaign and is committed to helping its Army family, including officers, Soldiers, family members, retirees and civil servants take immediate financial action to build wealth, not debt. See proclamation on page five of this edition of the paper.

TUESDAY TRIVIA CONTEST

The question for the week of Feb. 19 was "Where can the spouse of a new arrival to Fort Riley, Kansas, find consolidated information about the installation, to include Kid's Corner, employment readiness and education, recreation, deployment readiness, links to helpful websites and more?"

Answer: www.riley.army.mil/ NewArrivals/ SpouseInformation.aspx.

This week's winner is Meghan Iginoef. Megan's spouse is Spc. Ben Iginoef, 1st Combined Arms Battalion, 63rd Armor Regiment, 2nd Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Infantry Division. Meghan is pictured with Spc. Iginoef, son Ezekiel and dog Lucy.

CONGRATULATIONS MEGHAN!

BIG 5

Continued from page 1

number two — foster discipline by enforcing standards resonates the most with him.

"The Army's standards have not changed," Krugh said. "We are still required to follow and enforce the same standards."

Krugh said he believed NCOs were not making on-the-spot corrections anymore out of fear of being challenged, leading to a gradual decline of standards.

"Few NCOs will make the onthe-spot correction — most will let it walk by," Krugh said. "When we do make the correction, we also fail to teach the Soldier why right looks a certain way. We also fail to reinforce the standard of on-the-spot corrections with the leaders that did nothing about it."

Some junior leaders like Staff Sgt. Lee Sanders, a network management systems operator in the Division Headquarters and Headquarters Battalion, 1st Inf. Div., see fostering discipline as achieving another end — improving esprit de corps.

"Each unit is owned by the Soldiers in it and I don't see that realization from many Soldiers," Sanders said. "Encouraging them to be the best they can be and showing them the effect that has on the unit as a whole is the way to bring that pride back. Every Soldier should believe they're in the best unit in the Army. If they don't believe that, then their leadership needs to guide them and empower them to make it the best. That ownership is what breeds pride."

Each of the five tenets is a bedrock leadership principle, but leaders should not read too deeply into them, Cornelison said.

"This isn't rocket science," the command sergeant major said. "This is a simple restatement of the basics, and to develop our junior leaders, we have to be masters of the fundamentals. We can do better, and using the 'BRO NCO Big 5,' we will do better."

TRAFFIC REPORT

HENRY DRIVE-RAY ROAD ROUND-ABOUT CONSTRUCTION TO SLOW TRAFFIC

Traffic changes originally scheduled for Feb 19, have been rescheduled for Feb. 22, at which time, and lasting until approximately May 15, vehicles will be required to slow to 20 miles per hour on both Ray Road and Henry Drive to accommodate the continuing work.

ESTES ACCESS CONTROL POINT CLOSED TO COMMERCIAL VEHICLES BEGINNING MARCH 7.

Use of the Estes Access Control Point by commercial vehicles will be prohibited starting March 7. The closure is due to an upgrade project and will be in effect until the project is complete, a period of time that could be several months. During this time all commercial vehicles will need to enter the installation through 12th Street during duty hours and through Henry during non-duty hours.

CONSTRUCTION ON RIFLE RANGE ROAD CONTINUES

Construction on Rifle Range Road will affect traffic flow. The work started in September and has been contracted for 374 days. As a result, the work will affect travel to the schools in the area. School officials have been briefed and can offer guidance. There are detour and guidance signs posted, including detour routes along tank trail purple and through the Forsyth Housing area. Motorists are asked to exercise patience and follow all guidance posted on signs.

CONSTRUCTION ON CAMERON ROAD WALL

Work will be done on Cameron Road Wall starting approximately Feb. 25. The buildings and parking area that will be affected are 210, 211, 212 and 213. Personnel will need to make arrangements to park away from the wall.

ACCESS CONTROL POINT HOURS OF OPERATION

Until further notice, the Estes Access Control Point is closed every Saturday and Sunday, but will remain open Monday through Friday for privately owned vehicles only.

Also until further notice, 12th street ACP is closed to privately owned vehicles on Saturdays. The commercial side remains open Saturdays. 12th St. ACP is closed to all traffic Sundays. 12th street ACP is open to all traffic Monday through Friday. Effective Dec. 12, Grant Street ACP closes permanently every Saturday and Sunday but remains open Monday through Friday to all privately owned vehicle traffic. Motorists wanting access to Fort Riley on Saturday or Sunday should use Ogden, Henry or Trooper gates.

The access control point hours are now s follows:

Four Corners/Trooper/Ogden: Open

Henry: Open 24/7

12th Street: Effective Dec. 5, open from 5 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday to Friday; closed to non-commercial traffic Saturdays; closed Sundays and federal holidays.

Rifle Range: Closed to all traffic.

Grant: Until further notice, open from 5 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday to Friday; closed Saturdays, Sundays and federal holidays.

Estes: Until further notice, open from 5 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday to Friday; closed Saturdays, Sundays and federal holidays.

AWARD Continued from page 1

"It means that I'm doing the right thing," Gutierrez said. "It means executing the mission and ensuring our Soldiers get the opportunity to leverage any afforded training opportunities to become more proficient at their skill sets."

Warrant Officer Tory A. Kirk, air traffic and airspace management technician, Company F, 2nd General Support Aviation Battalion, 1st Aviation Regiment, 1st CAB, 1st Inf. Div., worked with Gutierrez for the past year and says he was a driven individual.

"To say that he is compassionate about what he does would be an understatement," Kirk said.

Kirk said he has always been able to count on Gutierrez when needing help with something.

"Since I've known him, even when I first got here, and being new to what was going on, he has always been the person I have ran toward for answers," Kirk said. "He has always known the answer to whatever question I had for him."

Members of the ATC community submit names for those they feel deserve the award, Kirk said, so Gutierrez's win "is a big deal."

WWW.1DIVPOST.COM

HOME OF THE BIG RED ONE

RILEY ROUNDTABLE

What is your best tip for saving money?

"Make a budget for your finances."

PVT. KRISTOFFER SUFF RADCLIFF, KENTUCKY

Division Headquarters and Headquarters Battalion, 1st Infantry Division

"Don't spend it."

PVT. CODY MCCARTNEY SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

2nd Battalion, 34th Armor Regiment, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Infantry Division

"Get a savings account with your bank and don't touch the money in it."

PVT. BRIAN NICKERSON FORT POLK, LOUISIANA

2nd Battalion, 34th Armor Regiment, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Infantry Division

"Don't go out. Instead, stay home."

PVT. NICK IANNUZZI EASTCHESTER, NEW YORK

1st Squadron, 4th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Infantry Division

"Know where your money is going and budget."

DAVID ROUDYBUSH WETMORE, KANSAS

Director of the Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation

THE 1ST INFANTRY DIVISION POST

This civilian enterprise newspaper is an authorized publication for members of the Department of Defense. Contents of The 1st Infantry Division Post are not necessarily the official views of, or endorsed by, the U.S. Government, or the Department of the Army. The editorial content of this publication is the responsibility of the 1st Infantry Division and Fort Riley PA Officer and printed by Montgomery Communications, Inc., a private firm in no way connected with the U.S. Government under exclusive written contract with Fort Riley.

The appearance of advertising in this publication, including inserts or supplements, does not constitute endorsement of the products or services advertised by the U.S. Army or Montgomery Communications, Inc.. Everything advertised in this publication shall be made available for purchase, use or patronage without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, marital status, physical handicap, political affiliation, or any other nonmerit factor of the purchaser, user or patron. If a violation or rejection of this equal opportunity policy by an advertiser is confirmed, the publisher will refuse to print advertising from that source until the violation is corrected.

Circulation 8,800 copies each week

A licensed newspaper member of the Junction City and Manhattan chambers of commerce.

COMMANDING OFFICER AND PUBLISHER Maj. Gen. Wayne W. Grigsby Jr.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS OFFICER

PRINTER John G. Montgomery

FORT RILEY EDITORIAL STAFF

EDITOR Patti Geistfeld

ASSISTANT EDITOR Andy Massanet

STAFF WRITERS

Hannah Kleopfer

MEDIA SALES MANAGER Melissa Tyson

MEDIA SALES REPRESENTATIVES

ica Wineinger, Julie Morgan, Kim Maguire and Shannon Fritz

CONTACT US For business or advertising matters, call The Daily Union in Junction City at 785-762-5000 or news offerings, call the Fort Riley Public Affairs Office at 785-239-8854 or DSN 856-8854, or email usarmy.riley.

imcom.mbx.post-newspaper@mail.mil LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

editor. Letters should not contain any libelous statements or personal accusations. Letters accepted for publication must include the writer's full name and phone number. Letters may be edited for space, but never for content. Send a fax 785-239-2592 or e-mail usarmy.riley.imcom.mbx.postnewspaper@mail.mil

SUICIDE PREVENTION

THE POWER OF

FROM DANGER 7

Big 5 duties key to improved discipline, performance

During my first 90 days serving as Danger 7, I have observed several breaches of discipline that could and should have been prevented by professional and engaged first-line noncommissioned officer leadership.

As the senior enlisted leader in the "Big Red One" NCO support channel, it is my duty to establish standards of conduct for our NCO Corps and set guidelines for its training and development. I have determined that there is a shortcoming in our junior NCO professional development and it is placing us at risk.

This lack of development leads to poor first-line leadership and has the potential to impact the readiness of the 1st Infantry Division. The end state of our collective NCO leader development effort is to deliver knowledge in order to increase the skills and abilities of our junior NCOs.

The Big Red One NCO support channel will approach all subordinate NCO leader development by focusing two levels down. The guidelines for that development will be derived from the five basic duties that all NCOs are res- our formation will be ponsible to expertly perform, accountable. We seek regardless of rank or duty position. These duties are known as "Big Red One NCO Big 5."

• The first tenet is to set the example. Division NCOs must be physically fit and lead from the front, be a master of their military occupational skills and be positive in their approach. Most of all, our leaders must possess integrity and character, demonstrating courage, candor, competence, commitment and compassion. We use the eight troop leading procedures for tasks and place a priority on selfimprovement both personally and professionally.

• All Big Red One NCOs foster discipline by enforcing standards. We make our units better by knowing and enforcing the standard. Fraternizing and hazing are two things we neither do nor tolerate. Big Red One NCOs perform proper corrective training and work continuously to develop esprit de corps within their units.

• All NCOs in responsibility and take responsibility for our actions, as well as those of our Soldiers. We realize and understand what we say and do reflects on the entire NCO Corps. We relish taking the initiative — when in charge, be in charge.

Command Sgt. Maj. Joseph Cornelison

1ST INF. DIV. SENIOR NONCOMMISSIONED OFFICER

• The most basic fundamental task for the NCO is to train Soldiers, focusing on individuals, crews and teams. We begin each day by planning and leading physical training and communicate by using tasks, conditions and standards.

We use the eight-step training model — plan the training, train and certify leaders, conduct reconnaissance, issue the plan, rehearse, execute the training, conduct after action reports and retrain to standard as a guide and to enforce safety in all we do. We plan and lead BRO training time and ensure our Soldiers and teams are proficient in their warrior tasks and battle drills. We track that training and proficiency using a leader's book, whether it be analog or

• Hand-in-hand with training is our duty to maintain the welfare of our Soldiers. We do this by knowing our Soldiers — knowing what they're doing and who they're doing it with — and maintaining a constant presence in the barracks by conducting inspections and frequent walk-throughs. Leaders develop our Soldiers personally and professionally by regular counseling and keeping them informed. Resolve administrative matters in a timely manner and reward excellence on the spot. Enlisted leaders condition our Soldiers to be tough and resilient and always care for their families. Finally, make "not in my squad" the rallying cry to prevent sexual harassment and assault.

Make no mistake, BRO NCOs are the best in the Army and by using the "BRO NCO Big 5," we will continue to grow outstanding NCO leaders in this division who are ready for increased responsibility while contributing to the overall professionalism of our NCO Corps.

No Mission Too Difficult, No Sacrifice Too Great! Duty First!

Joseph Cornelison Command Sgt. Maj., USA 1st Inf. Div. senior noncommissioned officer

1st Infantry Division and Fort Riley January results of trial

Staff Judge Advocate General

Fort Riley Soldiers and civilians who violate the law potentially face discipline in a court of law. Two types of court are held on Fort Riley: military courts-martial and federal district court.

While commanders normally handle Soldiers' minor misconduct offenses occurring on Fort Riley are Staff Judge Advocate on Custer public. Following is a list of recent agreement had no effect on trial results.

JANUARY 2016 COURTS-MARTIAL RESULTS

Jan. 21 at a general courtmartial, Pfc. Tyre L. Taylor, Operations Company, Division Headquarters and Headquarters Battalion, 1st Infantry Division, pled guilty to two specifications of absence without leave through nonjudicial punishment and one specification of under Article 15 of the Uniform obstruction of justice, in wrongful court. Both types of court are held days; to be confined for 10 in court rooms at the Office of the days; and to be discharged from the service with a bad-Avenue. Trials are open to the conduct discharge. A pretrial the sentence.

Conkey, 2nd Battalion, absence Team, 1st Inf. Div., pleaded guilty to two specifications of false official statements, one specification of wrongfully possessing child pornography and one specification of distribution of Code of Military Justice, serious violation of Articles 86 and child pornography. A military $1,556 pay for one month. Soldier misconduct is generally 134 of the Uniform Code of judge sentenced the accused As part of an offer to plead handled at a trial by court-martial. Military Justice. A military to be reduced to E-1, to be guilty, a pre-trial agreement On the other hand, all civilian judge sentenced Pfc. Taylor confined for 66 months and limited confinement to 20 misconduct and Soldier traffic to be reduced to the grade of to be dishonorably discharged months. E-1; to perform hard labor from the service. As part of an to 40 months.

Jan. 11 at a general court-martial, Pvt. Wayne T. Sookram, 2nd Bn., 34th Armor Regt., 1st ABCT, Jan. 13 at a general court 1st Inf. Div., pleaded guilty martial, Sgt. Nicholas S. to abusive sexual contact, without 34th Armor Regiment, 1st and three specifications Armored Brigade Combat of larceny, in violation of Articles 120, 86 and 121 of the UCMJ. The military judge sentenced Sookram to be dishonorably discharged service; to be confined for 34 months; and to forfeit handled by the federal U.S. District without confinement for 75 offer to plead guilty, a pretrial U.S. DISTRICT COURT, agreement limited confinement FORT RILEY, KANSAS JANUARY RESULTS

Jan. 7

Zeneida Rodriguez of Fort Riley pled to disorderly conduct. District Court sentence: $100 fine, $5 special assessment.

Xiomara Navarro, Fort Riley pled to interference with law enforcement. District Court sentence: $100 fine, $25 special assessment. Jan. 21

Luis A. Ruiz of Fort Riley pled to criminal damage to property. District Court sentence: $100 fine, $10 special assessment.

D'Andre M. Bacon of Fort Riley, pled to theft of government property. District Court sentence: $200 fine, $25 special assessment.

Jeroselle T. Hull of Fort Riley pled to disorderly conduct. District Court sentence: $100 fine. $5 special assessment.

Angel Savage of Fort Riley pled to disorderly conduct. District Court sentence: $100 fine. $5 special assessment.

Malike J. Newsam of Junction City, Kansas, pleaded to disorderly conduct. District Court sentence: $100 fine. $5 special assessment.

6 | FEBRUARY 19, 2016 HOME OF THE BIG RED ONE

Fort Riley garrison welcomes Collins

By Andy Massanet 1ST INF. DIV. POST

In the late summer of 1990, Saddam Hussein directed his forces to invade his small, oil-rich neighbor, Kuwait. At that time, James Collins was a young man, a civilian, driving a truck in his home state, Connecticut.

In the winter of 1991, Collins enlisted in the Army and left for basic military training. He did not see action in either Operation Desert Shield or Operation Desert Storm.

"It was over before I got there," he said.

Twenty-five years later James Collins is now Command Sgt. Maj. James L. Collins, the new senior enlisted leader of the Fort Riley Garrison. Over that time, he served around the world and became a highly trained, decorated combat Soldier.

Collins has — as have the garrison's senior enlisted leaders before him — served as team leader, squad leader and platoon sergeant. He spent time as assistant operations sergeant. He's been an observer, coach and trainer, spending time as trainermentor for the Joint Readiness Training Center at Fort Polk, Louisiana. He served as an infantry first sergeant and as an embedded trainer with the Afghan Border Patrol in eastern Af-

And with all that experience is the regard for, and loyalty to, the Soldiers he leads, his peers and the officers with which he serves. Collins also credits the mentoring provided from, and examples set by the squad leaders and platoon sergeants who he promptly into our Garrison Leadership Team."

served with as a young noncommissioned officer learning his profession.

From them, he said, he learned his leadership philosophy: set the example and show the way.

The ensuing months will be busy ones for him. But he understands what most concerns Soldiers and their families.

"As far as Soldiers and families go, it is access to medical care and "It (the invasion) was the catalyst of my joining the Army at quality of medical care for their families," Collins said. "Secondary to that is recreational and family entertainment in the surrounding community and on the installation."

> He also understands that off-duty recreation and entertainment opportunities are a concern for single Soldiers.

> "Professionally, Soldiers are concerned with gaining job skills," he said. "Are military schools and training being equitably distributed amongst the Soldiers? Also, with the drawdown, are they going to be able to reenlist? Not everyone will be able to be retained."

> Collins will be following in the footsteps of top-flight senior NCOs who have served with the Fort Riley garrison in the past, but Fort Riley Garrison Commander Col. Andrew Cole Jr. said what qualifies him to assume his duties is his experience as a leader of Soldiers.

> "Command Sgt. Maj. Collins has a vast broad background in light infantry units, to include the 10th Mountain, 101st and 75th Ranger Regiment; as well as some 1st Division time when attached to our 3rd Brigade in Afghanistan," Cole said. "As a former observer controller at Fort Polk, Louisiana, we know he knows what right looks like, and I fully expect him to transition

Maria Childs | POST

Garrison Command Sgt. Maj. James Collins brings extensive experience as a professional Soldier to his new position as the garrison's senior enlisted leader.

LEFT: Pfc. Clarissa Nazario of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, United States Army Garrison, presents a bouquet of yellow roses to. Kindra Collins, the spouse of the new Fort Riley Garrison Command Sgt. Maj James L. Collins, during a change of responsibility Feb. 3. Collins' daughter, Alexsis, to the right of Kindra, received a single yellow rose. The roses are in anticipation of her dedication during her husband's hours of duty to the officers, noncommissioned officers, Soldiers, families and civilians. RIGHT: Command Sgt. Maj. Melissa Judkins, left, the senior noncommissioned officer of the Installation Management Command's Central Region, greets Fort Riley Garrison Command Sgt. Maj. James L. Collins.

HOME OF THE BIG RED ONE FEBRUARY 19, 2016 | 7

TOTAL ARMY Continued from page 1

"We are one Army," Grigsby said. "We have to train the way we fight and fight the way we train."

He echoed the message sent down from the Army's top leaders. U.S. Forces Command is, by design, a Total Force command — Army National Guard, U.S. Army Reserve and the active component, Gen. Robert B. Abrams, U.S. Army Forces commander has said in past reports.

"We are one Army," Abrams said. "We are one Army working together, shoulder to shoulder, to build and sustain highly trained and disciplined Soldiers and formations in accordance with Army standards. We are experts in our war fighting skills, ready to deploy and win in ground combat against any enemy."

According to the 1st Inf. Div.'s Campaign Plan 2020, a roadmap for the division and post's future, the Big Red One is a leader within III Corps in executing the Army Total Force policy. About 22,000 joint, interorganizational and multi-national partners from 30 states train at Fort Riley each year. Grigsby said he hoped the conversations started at the TAC would increase that number.

"I hope we get more," Grigsby said,
"because this whole thing about being an observer, coach and trainer — as we go through things, that's a win-win for everybody."

Events like the TAC are important, said the Nebraska Air National Guard's Maj. Gen. Daryl L. Bohac, who serves as the state's adjutant general. Bohac said Grigsby set the tone when their teams met last fall. The Total Army environment had issues in the past, but the renewed emphasis on partnership "are the difference makers in terms of enduring relationships and goodness for the nation," he said.

"We are excited by this," Bohac said. "The Army has been making significant inroads into making sure we are acting as one team. That's good for the citizens of this nation and what we are supposed to be about, which is the defense of this nation."

The visiting senior leaders, along with members of Grigsby's staff and Fort Riley garrison officials, sat down at the end of the day to talk about upcoming training and ways to collaborate.

Amanda Kim Stairrett | 1ST INF. DIV.

Maj. Gen. Wayne W. Grigsby Jr., 1st Infantry Division and Fort Riley commanding general, talks Feb. 11 at Riley's Conference Center to participants of the Total Army Conference about the benefits of training at Fort Riley. The 1st Inf. Div. and Fort Riley hosted the TAC so National Guard and Reserve leaders throughout the Midwest could discuss upcoming training opportunities.

Grigsby stressed a favored theme spoken often by senior Army leaders: it's all about building readiness.

"It's the No. 1," Grigsby said. "There is no No. 2. We are all about building readiness — all of us, working together as one."

For Bohac's Army forces in Nebraska, relationships established at Fort Riley mean access to training — both physical ranges and the virtual environment he and others got a firsthand look at Feb. 11.

"It just means better realistic training for them," Bohac said. "One of my expectations leveled to all my commanders is, 'You will deliver demanding, rigorous training every opportunity we can.' So being a partner here at Fort Riley and with the 1st ID is going to help us do that."

Grigsby had one message for his National Guard and Reserve partners: "Fort Riley is the best place to train, live, deploy from and come home to. And they want some of it, to be back here with us. It's their post. It's not mine. It's the taxpayers'. It's all about all this together, so, come on, we'll make it happen."

FIRE Continued from page 1

he is responsible for executing prescribed burns for habitat management. Each year, he reviews the standards of wildland fires including using his emergency shelter, but he said it was great to be reminded in an atmosphere with firefighters who brought a new perspective for him.

"It is a great refresher in all the basic wildland fire techniques," Grosboll said. "Most of it was a review for me."

Being new to Fort Riley, Peterson said this training is very useful because the fire department executes many prescribed burns and knowing how to manage the fire is very important because of the grassland. "The mission here is a lot different than some other bases," Peterson said. "We have ranges so wildland fires are prevalent specifically at Fort Riley. This covers anything from prescribed burns to instances where it is not planned."

Peterson has all of his certifications except wildland firefighting. He said it was nice to have the class at Fort Riley because he was familiar with the land.

"The people that have the knowledge of the wildland mission are here," Peterson said. "Even though it was put on by someone outside of Fort Riley, all the people who are familiar with the mission at Fort Riley are here, so I get to learn on two fronts."

Adam Peterson, a Fort Riley firefighter, deploys his emergency shelter during a wildland certification course at Fort Riley Feb. 10. During this exercise, firefighters had 25 seconds to deploy their and take shelter.

8 | FEBRUARY 19, 2016

HOME OF THE BIG RED ONE

Community Life

FEBRUARY 19, 2016

TRAFFIC UPDATES

For traffic updates, see the Traffic Report on page 4 or visit www.riley. army.mil and click on "Advisories."

SOLDIER FOR LIFE TRANSITION ASSISTANCE PROGRAM EVENTS

Feb. 23 at 6:00 p.m. Bradley Morris live webinar. To register, contact Donna Zielke 678-819-4138 or Dzielke@Bradley-morris.com.

Feb. 24 from 1 to 6 p.m., Spring Into Your Career Fair, Holiday Inn "At the Campus" 1641 Anderson Ave, Manhattan, Kansas.

March 1 from 9 a.m. to noon, Youth Hiring & Education Fair, 5800 Thomas Drive, Fort Riley.

March 5 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Soldier For Life Transition Forum, 1st Infantry Division headquarters, building 580, room 110, 1st Division Road, Fort Riley. Military and spouses invited.

March 5 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Youth Hiring and Education Fair, 1st Infantry Division headquarters, building 580, room 110, 1st Division Road, Fort Riley. Military and spouses invited.

March 7 from 1 to 2:30 p.m., Employer Showcase, Transition Center, building 212, room 201, Fort March 24 from 10 to 11:30 a.m., Salina Police Employer Day, Testing and Interviews, building 210, room 118D, Fort Riley. Information session to follow 1-4 p.m.

March 29 from 10 to 11:30 a.m., Annual KC Industry Day sponsored by Society for American Military Engineers, University of Missouri at Kansas City Student Union, Kansas City. Transportation and lunch provided. Interested persons should RSVP by March 18th to hans.j.Lokodi.mil@mail.mil.

March 31 from 10 a.m. to noon, Industry Workshop Trade and Vocational with Westar Energy personnel, at Education Center in building 217, room 202, Fort Riley.

THREAT AWARENESS AND REPORTING PROGRAM TRAINING

At Barlow Theater, March 2, April 13, May 11, June 1, from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m., training will be offered for Soldiers, Department of the Army civilians and contractors.

For information or to schedule training, contact 785-240-3097.

SLINGIN' INK TATTOO COMPETITION

Celebrate tattoos as an art form and an expression of individuality during the Warrior Zone's annual tattoo and art competition: It's time for Slingin' Ink. Slingin' Ink is set for 6 to 9 p.m. Monday, Feb. 29 at the Warrior Zone. There will be six tattoo competition categories; entry cost $5 per tattoo, per category and is open to all contestants ages 18 and older. Entry is free for spectators. The Warrior Zone is open to guests 18 and older and is located at 7867 Normandy Drive.

For more information, visit riley. armymwr.com or call 785-240-6618.

RALLY POINT BINGO

Bingo at Rally Point has changed - and you're going to love it. We now offer up to $15,000 in payouts three nights per week — Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Each session will feature 10 regular games that pay out at least $150 each, plus five specials and a 50/50 fundraiser. The big prize? A $7,500 progressive coverall that starts at 48 numbers, with a $200 consolation. We'll end the night with a big game, too: a coverall that pays out $1,199 ... every night. Buy-ins start at just $12, not including specials. Rally Point is located at 2600 Trooper Drive.

For more information, call 785-375-3260 or visit riley.armymwr.

STAYCATIONS AND DESTINATIONS

The Fort Riley Directorate of Morale, Family Welfare and Recreation staff is scheduled to host a tourism and travel expo Feb. 27. There will be vendors from tourism and visitors' bureaus from Kansas and other areas. Vendors and representatives from on-post will also be available. Admission is free and open to the public.

The event will be held at Riley's Conference Center. Times will be announced when it plans are finalized. Visit facebook.com/ rileymwr for more details, or call 785-239-2807.

Romantic evening at Rally Point to movie, dinner

Story and photo by Hannah Kleopfer 1ST INF. DIV. POST

The tables of Rally Point were covered with red roses and chocolate covered strawberries, set out by in Love" Feb. 12. The event was an option for couples to celebrate

"I think this is a fun event for ev-or something. This is our first time doing this."

'We come here all the time

Sqt. 1st Class Sue Messersmith and husband Mike Messersmith begin their painting session at the Cocktails and Canvas event "Artists in Love." The event took place at Rally Point Feb. 12.

"I haven't talked about my past relationships before. Being able to acknowledge it is letting go as well."

PFC. ALEX BAUMGARDNER 1ST INFANTRY DIVISION

Party gives heartbroken opportunity to 'let go'

Warrior Zone's annual Love Sucks Valentine's Day event a hit with singles

By Maria Childs 1ST INF. DIV. POST

Pfc. Alex Baumgardner, 101st Brigade Support Battalion, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Infantry Division, watched as the voodoo doll he made burned in the flames of the fire set by the staff of the Warrior Zone. After the fire was extinguished, he joined the continuing Love Sucks Valentine's Day party inside the building with the judging of the poetry competitions as well as sharing breakup stories.

"It was satisfying," Baumgardner said about seeing the fire burn. "It's being able to finally let go. I haven't talked about my past relationships before. Being able to acknowledge it is letting go as well."

The annual event at the Warrior Zone was designed for single Soldiers who are stationed at Fort Riley to have somewhere to go on Valentine's Day and not feel left out on the romantic

Christina Boyles, supervisory recreation assistant, planned the event

"I enjoy the Soldiers participating, the activities we came up with for them and the joy they had," Boyles

The activities included a chocolate heart poem contest, where participants had to put as many chocolate hearts in their mouth as they could and read a poem, the "Burn your Past" bonfire and several other poetry competitions.

Boyles said her favorite part was the chocolate heart poem because the Soldiers were animated and seemed

See SUCKS, page 10

Cocktails and Canvas event "Artists 'Artists in Love' event offers couples alternative employees who were hosting the Valentine's Day in a different way.

eryone who is involved here in Fort Riley," said Capt. Neil Huenefeld, 1st Squadron, 4th Cavalry Regiment, 1st Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Infantry Division, who was there with his wife, Clarissa. "You can kind of do something different from the dinner and a movie

The donors gathered here today are the epitomes of good people."

MAJ. GEN. WAYNE GRIGSBY JR. I COMMANDING GENERAL, 1ST INF. DIV. AND FORT RILEY

Some of the women in attendance were regulars of the Cocktails and Canvas events at Rally Point, but according to manager Diana McGee, having this many men in the room without the husbands," said Ashley Mead, wife of Staff Sgt. Michael

See ARTISTS, page 10

The 1st Infantry Division Band plays during the reception of the Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation Sponsor Awards night. The event was held at the C.L. Hoover Opera House in Junction City, Kansas, Feb. 9.

Tossin' out praise

Fort Riley community sponsors honored

Story and photos by Hannah Kleopfer 1ST INF. DIV. POST

he golden chandeliers of the C.L. Hoover Opera House glowed, shining off the purple and green Mardi Gras decorations strung throughout the front lobby. Fort Riley command teams and community members of the area chatted at tables set up with Mardi Gras beads draped across them.

> Staff of Directorate

Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation held a night of recognition in Junction City, Kansas, Feb. 9 to show appreciation to the business people who sponsor the Fort Riley community.

"We wouldn't be able to provide our Soldiers and families with the quality service that we do without your support," said

See SPONSORS, page 10

Staff of the Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation recognized 25 sponsors at C.L. Opera House in Junction City, Kansas, Feb. 9. The various sponsors helped fund more than $350,000 this past year for programs and events for the Fort Riley community

DID YOU KNOW?

• In 2015, the staff of the Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation hosted more than 150 events including the Kellie Pickler concert, Soldier Show and Fort Riley Apple Day, due to the sponsors they were recognizing.

Couples celebrate Valentine's Day

Duos cut the rug, enjoy four-course meal during holiday event held at RCC

Story and photo by Maria Childs 1ST INF. DIV. POST

Love was in the air at Riley's Conference Center Feb. 13 as 1st Lt. Sherman Pruitt, 977th Military Police Company, 97th MP Battalion, and his wife, Paula, shared a romantic dance while waiting for their dinner. The event was a couple's date night complete with a four-course meal and disc jockey.

"I love dancing," Sherman said. "I figured I would take my wife ... we don't really go out much anymore. It's better than I expected — it's very romantic."

Paula admitted she was unsure of the event at first, but decided to join her husband for a night out of the house.

"I was very reluctant at first because I didn't know what to expect," Paula said. "It's a win-win. There's a lot going on for the price." The couple said they enjoyed being able to spend time together while also enjoying Valentine's Day, food and Chris Downs, manager of Riley's Conference Center, said about 60 tickets were sold for the event. "It's an opportunity for the Fort Riley community to experience a nice dinner in a relaxed atmosphere without heading out to a restaurant," Downs said. "It's something we don't get to do very often. It's nice for us as management and staff to put on an event like this."

Downs said this event is different than most because the audience is different. This event allows staff at Riley's to explore different menu options.

We don't usually host more intimate evenings like this and we get to make some food we don't normally get to serve," Downs said.

Michael Sgt. Varnadore, Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 1st Attack Reconnaissance Battalion, 1st Aviation Regiment, 1st Combat Aviation Brigade, 1st Infantry Division, and his wife, Laura, were given tickets by some friends who could not attend. They have been married for six years. They said they usually celebrate Valentine's Day by going to dinner opportunity was presented, they decided "Dancing was fun, and I got (my husband) up there, which doesn't happen very much," Laura said. "It's decorated so nice and it's very romantic."

First Lt. Sherman Pruitt, 977th Military Police Company, 97th MP Battalion, and his wife, Paula, shared a romantic or something simple, but since the dance while waiting for their dinner at the Valentine's Day Dinner and Dance at Riley's Conference Center Feb. 13. The event was a couple's date night complete with a fourcourse meal and disc jockey.

COMMUNITY CORNER

Reducing cabin fever through exercises building and fostering resiliency

By Col. Andrew Cole Jr. FORT RILEY GARRISON COMMANDER

* abin fever is starting to set in for many families reset and — mine included. The days get warm — then cold then the pattern repeats. It's like we are being teased and tested before the real onset of spring.

We normally have to wait for spring to bring warmer weather and outdoor activities — times to play and expend some pentup winter energy. But we are getting a little preview of spring weather lately. Take a look at the opportunities to get out and play with your family during this unseasonably warm period. Play makes happy memories for them and helps us mentally remember why and for who we serve. Those memories and that activity them. And, it is a resiliency you have total control over. Not all your play has to be outdoors. Hit a parent child arts and crafts class, take your friends to the Warrior Zone for some gaming time or hold a picnic in your living room with the kids have resiliency written all over

Soldiers, civilians, family members and — well, all of us — are busy at Fort Riley. That is our reality. It is also our reality to spend a lot of time separated from those we love because of our business. Not only are we busy now, but we will only get busier as the Army mission evolves with the threats and shrinking resources.

or friends. DO things you normally wouldn't get the chance to do until later in so that you and your family are resilient when those moments are scarce in the the year. The point is to set yourself up with shared time

It makes sense to take care of ourselves and our families by building some time for play; thereby, increasing the resiliency through shared positive experiences — for ourselves and our family members.

Since we are having some great weather moments - take advantage of them. Try new things. Moon Lake is full of rainbow trout — go fish. Google a new healthy eating recipe and cook your catch together. There are hiking trails and great walks to be had along the river at the park just outside the Grant gate and several recreation areas on post. We have playgrounds and parks all over the installation that are perfect for playing and building memories with younger children. If looking for more wide-open area or some hills — check out the Flint Hills and the Konza Prairie. Go on foot or by bicycle and enjoy a picnic along the way.

If your family structure doesn't include kids — then build memories with your spouse, significant other, a group of good friends or for yourself. Try a cocktails and canvas event put on by the staff at the Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation. Find a 5K in the area and run for a cause. Do something that will cause you to smile whenever you remember it. At some point, we are going to need to look back at that moment and remember it — and we are going to need

At the same time as you get outside and build those memories — you alleviate that cabin fever. I'll claim that as a win also.

— To comment on this article or to suggest a topic for Community Corner, email usarmy.riley.imcom.mbx.postnewspaper@mail.mil or visit my Facebook page at www.facebook. com/fortrileygc.

ARTISTS Continued from page 9

Mead, 1st Battalion, 16th Infantry Regiment, Brigade Combat Armored Team, 1st Inf. Div., of her and her friends. "But this is so cute. I want to keep doing it. I want it every week.'

Melissa Lesondak, wife of Chief Warrant Officer 2 Ben Lesondak, 2nd General Support Aviation Battalion, 1st Aviation Regiment, 1st Combat Aviation Brigade, 1st Infantry Division, led the class. She went through the steps and then went around giving the painters pointers on blending or painting the different tree branches that were part of the picture.

Some couples took their own spin on the painting. Helen Kim and Chaplain (Capt.) Timothy Kim, 2nd Battalion, 34th Armor Regiment, 1st ABCT, 1st Inf. Div., decided to make their double canvas painting their own by adding a moon aspect to the painting.

"We wanted to see each other's personality this way in the pictures," Timothy said. "My wife likes drawing and we wanted to do something

MORE ONLINE

• Go to rileymwr.com to find more dates for Cocktails and Canvas events as well as other things happening at Rally Point.

The couple version is really good since we get to spend some time together doing the same activity," said David Roudybush, the director of Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation. "It's also one of my activities so I wanted to see what it was."

While the couples painted, McGee stayed on her toes offering everyone champagne, cider and coffee as the night went on. She then raffled off the balloon bouquets that were decorating the room as a surprise to the couples.

We want to show them that we care," McGee said. "We're thinking about doing this for couples once a month.

Go to rileymwr.com to find more dates for Cocktails and Canvas events as well as other things happening at Rally Point.

Maria Childs | POST

Participants of the Love Sucks Valentine's Day party at the Warrior Zone burned their past in a bonfire Feb. 14. The event included a chocolate heart poem contest, where participants had to put as many chocolate hearts in their mouth as they could and read a poem, and other themed competitions.

SUCKS Continued from page 9

to enjoy doing it. This event shows another side of Valentine's Day that may often be overlooked.

"It shows that Valentine's Day is not just for couples," Boyles said. "It is for singles

Baumgardner said he was appreciative of the event.

"There's a bright side and there's a dark side — you can't have one without the other," Baumgardner said. "It's great to have somebody acknowledge the dark side of Valentine's Day or love for that matter. With love, there are relationships where it is not perfect and it ends and it's horrible — to remember that is a wonderful thing." He regularly visits the

"It shows that Valentine's Day is not just for the couples."

CHRISTINA BOYLES SUPERVISORY RECREATION ASSISTANT

He said this event provided an outlet for people who would otherwise be alone on Valentine's Day and allowed them to be social with people who shared the same beliefs.

"That's why this is great," Baumgardner said. "A lot of us that are here — we would be the guys who would be alone. Instead, we can be here where Warrior Zone at Fort Riley. we see other people like us."

WWW.1DIVPOST.COM

For movie titles and showtimes, call 785_239_9*574*

SPONSORS Continued from page 9

and advertising director for DFMWR.

150 events including the Kellie Pickler concert, Soldier Show and Fort Riley Apple Day, due to the sponsors they were recognizing.

"The donors gathered here today are the epitomes of good people," said Maj. Gen. Wayne W. Grigsby Jr., commanding general of the 1st Infantry Division and Fort Riley. "I always say that in order to be a great leader in the United States Army you must be a good person first. Well, I can tell you that all the donors out there who helped us, you are good people. And we want to thank you from the bottom of our hearts for our Soldiers and our family members."

During the ceremony, the staff recognized 25 sponsors who helped fund more than $350,000 this past year toward the programs and events for the Fort Riley community.

Being a sponsor has significant meaning for some of the attendees as they represent their company, but are also retired military.

"It's important on two levels," said Command Sgt. Maj. (ret.) Joe Romans, United Services Automobile Association. "First of all, I'm a retired Soldier of 30 years in the Army. So having Meredith Storm, marketing spent most of my adult life in uniform, it means a lot to me to be around the community. In 2015, the staff of I have three kids serving, and DFMWR hosted more than every time I come out here it reminds me of them. I feel like I'm giving something back. Secondly, representing USAA, it's the kind of organization that is absolutely dedicated to supporting and serving our military community. To be able to be the tip of that spear and be out here and do something tangible for Soldiers and families, it means a great deal to USAA as well."

Sponsors smiled as they went up and accepted their award from Grigsby and Col. Andrew Cole Jr., garrison commander of Fort Riley.

"I felt like when we were up there, they were thanking us, but we should be thanking them," said Pam Rodriguez, creative manager of Grantham University.

After the ceremony, sponsors and members of the Fort Riley community gathered back in the lobby and continued their conversation and jovial spirits to end the evening's recognition.

Sports & Recreation

FEBRUARY 19, 2016

HOME OF THE BIG RED ONE

CUSTER BOWLING SPECIALS

Wednesday through Friday: From 1 to 6 p.m., $2.50 games and $2 shoes.

Wednesday: From 6 to 9 p.m., $1 games and $1 shoes.

Thursday: From 6 to 9 p.m., $5 cover, which includes shoes and Friday: From 6 to 9 p.m., $15 for unlimited bowling for up to six people, shoes not included.

Saturday: Extreme bowling from 6 p.m. to midnight, $9 for shoes and up to three hours of

Sundays: From noon to 6 p.m., family fun, $35 per lane, which includes two hours of bowling, one large two-topping pizza, two pitchers of soda and shoes for up to six people.

OFFERINGS FOR FITNESS-MINDED INDIVIDUALS

The Directorate of Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation has a comprehensive offering of options for health- and fitnessminded individuals on post.

Contact one of the following MWR fitness department professionals to get started:

Vincent Spencer, fitness coordinator, vincent.j.spencer2. naf@mail.mil, 785-239-3146.

Jocelyn Heminitz, fitness specialist, jocelyn.n.heminitz.naf@ mail.mil, 785-239-2616.

Choose between the following

- One person, one-hour training session — $25.
- Two people, one-hour training session — $40.
- Three people, one-hour training session — $48.

Personal training sessions can be purchased at Whitside Fitness Center Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., and Saturday, 9 to 11 a.m.

You can also purchase a session of massage therapy:

- 30-minute session $30.
- 60-minute session $60. • 90-minute session — $90.
- For more information call 785-239-2573.

EYSTER POOL WILL REMAIN CLOSED UNTIL FURTHER

Eyster Pool is closed. No reopening date has been determined.

During this time, all programs including physical therapy supported by both Irwin Army Community Hospital and Warrior Transition Battalion, pregnancy Physical Therapy, lap swim and recreational swim — will be held at Long Pool, inside Long Fitness Center. Because this pool is not equipped with a computer pointof-sale system, all daily entry fees and pool passes will need to be paid using cash or check.

Unit Physical Training requests for Thursdays only will be accepted during this time; this is to decrease maximum occupancy with the early-morning lap swim program. The Aquatics Office at Eyster Pool will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday. For more information, call the aquatics program manager at 785-239-

YOUTH SPORTS OFFICIALS

Child, Youth and School Services staff are looking for officials for youth outdoor and indoor soccer, flag football, basketball, baseball and softball.

Volunteer and paid positions are available. Training is provided and experience is not necessary. A background check is required.

For more information, call CYSS Sports at 785-239-9223 or 785-240-5207.

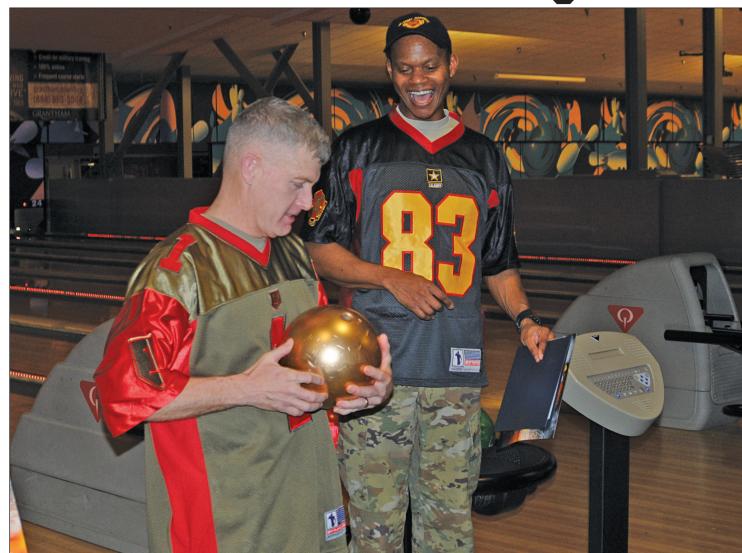

ISPORTSMAN SYSTEM

Fort Riley has an automated check-in and check-out system called iSportsman. Individuals can register at www.fortriley. isportsman.net.

To access Fort Riley training area, use the iSportsman website. Check-in and check-out may be done with any personal device with Internet access, visit the iSportsman kiosk at 1st Division and Vinton School roads or the Environmental Division Office, building 407, during normal business hours.

For more information, contact the Environmental Division at 785-239-6211.

A battle for the ages

bowling portion of Garrison Bowling Day at Custer Hill Bowling Center Feb. 11. Joining Grigsby is his opponent for the evening, Col. Andrew Cole Jr., Fort Riley garrison commander. LEFT: Cole, left, Grigsby, right, draw pieces of paper with handicaps written on them for the celebrity portion of Garrison Bowling Day. Holding the jar, center, is Ashaleen Noriega, member of the staff at Custer Hill Bowling Center. BELOW: .Grigsby tries his luck bowling from a seated position after drawing that handicap challenge.

ABOVE: Maj. Gen. Wayne W. Grigsby Jr., commanding general

of the 1st Infantry Division and Fort Riley, takes possession of the coveted Gold Bowling Ball after winning the celebrity

'Bushmaster' takes the trophy at Garrison Bowling Day

Story and photos by Andy Massanet

1ST INF. DIV. POST

The titanic struggle that was the celebrity bowling portion of the Garrison Bowling Day pitted Maj. Gen. Wayne W. "Bushmaster" Grigsby Jr., commanding general of the 1st Infantry Division and Fort Riley, against Fort Riley Garrison Commander Col. Andrew Cole Jr., otherwise known as "Old Man Cole."

It was division versus garrison ... mano a mano . . . well, it wasn't quite that dramatic, but it was all in jest and good fun.

Let the record show that Grigsby edged Cole, 121-117.

considering each contestant had to bowl according to certain handicaps on selected rolling strikes in frames six and seven and frames. Grigsby and Cole drew paper from picking up a spare in frame nine. a bowl held by Ashaleen Noriega of the Custer Hill Bowling Center Staff. On each piece of paper was written a handicap, for example "bowl while sitting;" "bowl backwards;" "bowl from a prone position;" bowl with a balloon between your knees (and don't break the balloon);" and so Bushmaster, fairing a little better than Cole on things like bowling while sitting and Div. Soldiers. bowling backwards, opened up a lead in the early frames he never relinquished. However, participation as well.

It was not a bad contest either, during the frames in which regular bowling ensued, Old Man Cole made it interesting,

But a seven-ten split on the eighth frame, combined with consecutive strikes by Grigsby on the tenth and final frame, while he held a balloon with his knees conspired to put Cole in an insurmountable

After the match, Grigsby thanked the garrison for the invitation and for all the work the garrison employees do for 1st Inf.

And the crowd applauded his

The scoreboard tells the tale. Maj. Gen. Wayne W. Grigsby Jr.'s double strike in the tenth frame was just enough to overcome Col. Andrew Cole Jr's consecutive strikes in the sixth and seventh frames. On the scoreboard, the "B" stands for "Bushmaster," Maj. Gen. Grigsby's appellation for the evening. "OMC" stands for "Old Man Cole," Col. Cole's nom de bowling.

O

12 | FEBRUARY 19, 2016 HOME OF THE BIG RED ONE

Blue Jays best Troopers in middle school basketball action

Infantry Division Sustainment Brigade drives the ball down the court during the game against Junction City Middle School Feb. 11. The game took place at Fort Riley Middle School. RIGHT: Massey, sets for a jump shot during the last quarter of the game. BELOW: Players of the Fort Riley Middle School 7th Grade A-Team play hard defense attempting to rebound the ball.

Story and photos by Hannah Kleopfer 1ST INF. DIV. POST

Fort Riley Middle School Troopers seventh and eighth boys' basketball teams tipped off against Junction City Middle School Feb. 11 at the FRMS north and south gymnasiums. And, while the Fort Riley boys seventh graders played hard, they came up short. They fell, 32-26, while the eighth-grade A and B teams lost by scores of 52-37 and 32–13, respectively.

The seventh-grade A-team basketball game was a roller coaster as the Troopers got off to a rocky start. The Blue Jays got the tip and headed toward their basket, scoring the first two points of the game. After that, the Troopers stayed behind in scoring for most of the first quarter. The first quarter ended with JCMS in the lead with a score of 7-3.

The stands started to fill up more just before the second quarter of the game started, with more parents and students coming in to cheer on the boys. The Troopers got a little more intense in the second quarter and came in tying up the score after scoring two field goals. The teams then went back and forth getting ahead by a shot. As the intensity of the players became stronger, the cheers from the stands did as well. Parents cheered on their sons, shouting whenever they made a good play.

At halftime, the Troopers led the Blue Jays 14–12.

The boys came back into the third quarter ready to keep their lead. Unfortunately, the boys were having more trouble getting their shots, losing their momentum with the score. The third quarter ended with the Troopers behind 17–26.

The Troopers figured out a new rhythm in last quarter and were down by two points in the final minute of the game, but in the last 36 second of the game, they boys fouled the JCMS players four times, with the intent to grab control of the ball on the rebounds.

However, the free throws gave the Blue Jays the chance to get further ahead, ending the game with a Blue Jay win 32–26.

In the end, Coach John Keating was proud of the way the 7th grade boys played throughout the game.

'Their intensity was much better than before," Keating said. "I told the boys after the game that I'm not faulting their efforts. We just couldn't get shots when we needed them." The eighth grade boys did not fair well against JCMS either, with A-team losing 52-37, and B-team losing 32–13. Even though the teams had losses, athletic secretary Stephanie Lind believes that it is still good experience for the

"I believe that being part of this is good for them because it helps them build teamwork," Lind said. "Even if they don't win they're getting to do something they love. Regardless whether they win or lose, the confidence it gives them to be on a team is good practice for them and it will help them in the future."

makes them tick."

Regarding the physical component, Browne said

his runners have had high-altitude training as part of their regimen to better increase lung capacity for endurance. After high-altitude training, athletes have more red blood cells so there's more oxygen-carrying capacity and also the perceived effort is much less. That's why athletes to speak."

Marathon prep on elite level like training for war, says Olympian

By David Vergun ARNEWS

LOS ANGELES — "A marathon is like a war," said Maj. Dan Browne, a 2004 U.S. Olympic runner and member of the Oregon Army National

There is a lot of planning, preparation and training, as well as qualifying races to compete in before the marathon. The amount of training is comparable to readying Soldiers for combat, Browne said.

Browne is head coach of the Army's World Class Athlete Program and spoke just minutes before the Olympic Marathon Trials Feb. 13, on the streets of downtown Los Angeles.

The obvious comparison of a Soldier to an elite athlete, he said, is the high level of physical fitness required to win. But that alone is not enough.

Adequate sleep and good nutrition are also important to an athlete, as well as a Soldier. The Army's Performance Triad demonstrates the importance and interconnectedness of all three: sleep, activity and nutrition, he said.

"Performance Triad is truly right on the mark," Browne said."

This mental or psychological aspect is key to success, he said. There will be disappointments such as losing a race or getting injured. It comes with the territory. The important thing is "understanding that disappointments are just an opportunity to readjust and refocus your efforts. If you look at it in that sense, it takes away the negative stigma from it."

Army resiliency training is very similar to methods coaches use to get the best out of their athletes and help them "bounce back from setbacks," he said.

As a former Olympic athlete, "I know myself very well," Browne said. "But, to often undergo high-altitude really help develop that peak training before big events. Browne's Soldiers have good performance mindset in each individual Soldier, I've got to training venues. They train know them and work with among Jerry Schumacher's them and understand what Bowerman Track Club in Portland, Oregon, and Alberto When coaching his distance Salazar's Nike Oregon Project runners, Browne said "I'm very in Beaverton, Oregon. "These attuned each and every day are powerhouse programs," to how they're feeling. This is Browne said. kind of the art of coaching, so Great coaches are said to beget great coaches. Browne said his coaches and mentors were Salazar, who won the 1982 Boston Marathon, and Bob Larsen, a Hall of Fame track and field coach.

Under Salazar's tutelage, Browne made the Olympic team in 2004 and competed in Athens, placing 12th in the 10,000-meter race as the top American finisher and 65th in the marathon.

Oregon Army National Guard Capt. Dan Browne - Team USA No. 3235 dashes to the front of the pack in the 10,000 meter final on Aug. 20 of the 2004 Summer Olympic Games at Athens, Greece. Browne finished 12th with a time of 28 minutes, 14.53 seconds.

Travel & Fun in Kansas

FEBRUARY 19, 2016 HOME OF THE BIG RED ONE PAGE 14

Story and photos by Andy Massanet 1ST INF. DIV. POST

A visit to Paxico, Kansas, might delight antique enthusiasts and history buffs today, but it was the coming of the railroads that led to the establishment of the Newbury township and the subsequent establishment of the Paxico community.

In the years following the Civil War the American frontier pushed across Kansas and, with it, came the railroads. Land that was part of the Pottawatomie Native American reservation was purchased by railroad interests and Newbury and Paxico — both of which would in time become two friendly communities rather than two centers of varying interests — were established.

But establishment is one thing; longevity is another. Many so-called "railroad towns" vanished as the rail line pushed further west.

But not Paxico, and the credit for the community's endurance can be given to both the plentiful tallgrass prairie that supports cattle and the German people who settled there. Newspapers, whose readership were mostly German, extolled the virtues of the area and a steady migration of German families ensued.

Today, evidence of Paxico's marriage with the railroads is still apparent. In downtown Paxico, many historic Victorian-era buildings still stand and the familiar whistle of the iron horses can still be

In quiet Newbury township you'll find the historic Sacred Heart Catholic Church, known as the "Cathedral of the Flint Hills" nestled among country homes and farmsteads.

The stately twin spires can be seen for miles around.

The community is also known today for its authentic architecture and stores featuring a vast selection of antiques.

Be aware: these are not thrift stores, though many a bargain can be had. Rather, they feature items that possess historical provenance from across the past century and a half, from areas that range far and wide from Kansas. Many can be traced to the Civil War or the settling of the mythical "Wild West."

Within Paxico is also a recreation vehicle park and campground, a bar and grill, two wineries, services such as furniture upholstery, antique restoration, art classes and galleries, and festivals, including the Annual Paxico Blues Festival, held on the third Saturday in September.

The admission to the Annual Paxico Blues Festival is free and patrons are encouraged to bring a folding chair with which to relax and enjoy the music, once their dancing feet get tired.

To reach Paxico, travel east on I-70 for approximately 43 miles then look for the Paxico exit.

Myriad objects are for sale and available for perusal by antique shoppers in Paxico, Kansas. LEFT: An officer's desk from the Civil War is on display. ABOVE RIGHT: A bar back and front, originally from the Dakota territories, harkens back to the days of the Wild West. BELOW RIGHT: This map, titled "The Roots of Paxico," shows the various German provinces, towns and cities from whence the families of the settlers of the Paxico community came. German folks were attracted to the area by railroads and the plentiful tallgrass on which cattle thrive.

