Navy Region Hawaii Public Affairs

June 2017 marks the 75th anniversary of the Navy's and the nation's most historically significant naval victory. The Battle of Midway took place from June 3 to 7, 1942 and changed the tide of the war in the Pacific and the course of world history.

The following events have been scheduled to promote the significance of the Battle of Midway.

- A Station Hypo commemoration will be held at 1 p.m. June 2 at Building 1. The commemoration will be hosted by U.S. Pacific Fleet to honor the personnel of Station Hypo and the breaking of the Japanese code, which played a pivotal role in the victory at the Battle of Midway. This event will be open to all Common Access Card holders.

- A Battle of Midway commemoration will be held at 7:30 a.m. June 5 at the World War II Valor in the Pacific National Monument Visitor Center. The event is hosted by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Guest speaker will be U.S. Navy retired Rear Adm. Andrew Singer, deputy director of intelligence, U.S. Pacific Command. The event will also feature a live feed of the national Battle of Midway ceremony from Midway Atoll. This event will be open to the public.

Information on the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Midway can be found at the Naval History and Heritage website: www.history.navy.mil/browse-by-topic/commemorations/toolkits/wwii-75/battle-of-midway.html

A run to remember

Airmen from the 735th Air Mobility Squadron came together to participate in the 4th Annual Port Dawg Memorial 5K run at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam, May 19.

The event took place during National Transportation Week, and honored air transportation "Port Dawgs" who lost their lives in the past year.

"The 2017 Aerial Port 'Port Dawg' memorial run is intended to honor fallen comrades within the aerial port community," said Master Sgt. Joaquin Chacon, 735th Air Mobility Squadron passenger service superintendent.

Although units around the world participate in the Port Dawg Memorial 5K locally, the units pool their efforts to raise donations for the Fisher House foundation through the sale of memorial shirts. So far, this year's run generated $5,790.

Before the run, Airmen participated in a moment of silence in remembrance of Master Sgt. William Davis, Master Sgt. Kelly Bartholomew, Staff Sgt. Jonathan Turner, and Airman 1st Class Russel DeLeon.

"This is a time for us to remember all those who came before us," said Chief Master Sgt. Michael Courtney, Pacific Air Command air transportation functional manager.

Aerial porters, commonly referred to as Port Dawgs, are responsible for military logistics related to aerial ports.

CPRW 2 disestablishes from Hawaii after 80 years

Lt. Emily Cordle

CPRW 2 Public Affairs

Commander Patrol and Reconnaissance Wing Two (CPRW 2) Disestablishment Ceremony took place at Hangar 105 on Marine Corps Base Hawaii, May 24.

CPRW 2 memorialized and celebrated more than 80 years of history and service on the Hawaiian Islands as they hauled down the colors for the last time during a sunset disestablishment ceremony. It is home to the last U.S. Navy P-3C squadron on Kaneohe Bay and the last squadron to detach from CPRW-2. There was a P-3C static display that discussed the history of the P-3C as well as a P-8 static display that discussed the future of Maritime, Patrol, and Reconnaissance and the transition to the new airplane.

The Chief of Naval Operations officially established Patrol Wing Two at Fleet Air Base Pearl Harbor, Hawaii on Oct. 1, 1937. On Dec. 7, 1941, the Wing was at the center of the Pearl Harbor attacks from Japanese raiders. On June 30, 1949, the Wing was relocated to the leeward side of Oahu at Naval Air Station Barber's Point, where it remained for 50 years and experienced many changes in aircraft, missions, and commands. In the 1970's Patrol Wing Two became known as the "Rainbow Fleet" and began to routinely deploy with the P-3 Orion, range anti-submarine warfare patrol aircraft.

Wing Two squadrons tracked Soviet submarines patrolling off the western coast of the United States and supported operations in the Vietnam War, the Gulf War, and the NATO air campaign over Kosovo. Post-Cold War, the Wing continued to meet the evolving needs of the Navy, proving the P-3C as a multi-mission platform over land and sea; supporting Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm, establishing an airborne reconnaissance capability during the Balkan wars; and supporting counter-drug detection by monitoring and interdiction operations in the Southern Hemisphere.

In June 1999, the Patrol Wing Hawaii forces moved from their Cold War home at Naval Air Station Barbers Point to the windward side of Oahu to Marine Corps Air Station Kaneohe Bay. After Sept. 11, 2001, Wing Two squadrons joined the Global War on Terrorism and engaged in Operations Enduring Freedom, Iraqi Freedom, Operation Enduring Freedom - Philippines, Operation Enduring Freedom - Afghanistan, and Operation Anaconda. Recently, Wing Two squadrons lead expeditionary Maritime Patrol and Reconnaissance Forces in support of Two, Fifth, and Seventh Fleet operations.

The tents are up and open for business as the Hickam Space Available (Space-A) terminal enters phase II of its renovation schedule.

According to 2nd Lt. Justin Rees, 735th Air Mobility Squadron passenger services officer in charge, the remodeling here is set to take place in three stages, and is expected to be finished by June 2018.

“The renovations primarily focus on infrastructure improvements,” Rees said. “The primary focus is on updating the plumbing, HVAC, fire suppression system, and some cosmetic updates as well.”

Phase 1 began in April of this year, and included renovations to the Shoppette, food court, public restrooms, and the installation of a family center.

Phase 2 is expected to last from May to December 2017, and will involve upgrades to the passenger selection center.

Phase 3 is currently scheduled for January to June 2018, and will include upgrades to the security checkpoint and passenger terminal.

“The biggest change our customers will have to deal with is the location to the passenger selection location,” said Master Sgt. Joaquin Chacon, 735th Air Mobility Squadron passenger services superintendent. “Anyone who is planning on taking a Space-A flight will have to first report to passenger selection, which is now in the middle tent.”

Also located in the tents is a waiting area and the United Services Organizations (USO).

“The USO will continue to operate during the construction of the passenger terminal,” said Denise Solis, USO field program manager. “The USO is open to all military members and dependents on Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam and is open Monday-Sunday from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.”

For more information about Space-A travel please visit www.15wing.af.mil/UNITS/735th-Air-Mobility-Squadron/.

The 735th Air Mobility Squadron Space-A Passenger Terminal Phase I is completed and features a family center with an outdoor play area.

The USO is open and operating out of the temporary tents during Phase II renovations.

COMMENTARY

Culture of innovation apparent at Midway

Adm. Scott Swift
Commander, U.S. Pacific Fleet

This year marks 75 years since our U.S. Navy earned a crucial victory in World War II at the Battle of Midway.

When I take a look at the arc of history in the Pacific, in particular the history of the Pacific Fleet, one of the things I find most compelling is the immense shift that took place in our Navy 75 years ago.

For decades prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor, our Navy was centered around our battleships. By the time we fought at Midway just six months later, our entire paradigm had shifted. The aircraft carrier had ascended to its role for the remainder of the fight in the Pacific as the U.S. Navy’s primary offensive platform.

This shift was born out of necessity following the rest of the fleet being battered on Dec. 7. It was cemented, however, by the culture of innovation fostered by Adm. Chester Nimitz, and driven by the warfighters within the ranks who recognized the opportunities to find a new approach to the problem set they faced, and took that challenge and responsibility personally. Our Sailors, both uniformed and civilian, were empowered by leadership to pursue the most effective way to employ the fleet.

That culture of innovation was readily apparent at Station HYPO here in Pearl Harbor. The code-breaking team recognized that the limits of their charter and the way that business had always been done before wasn’t good enough. Those limits didn’t give the fleet enough insight to defeat the enemy. But the HYPO team, empowered by Nimitz’s broad guidance, had enough diversity of thought and initiative to venture beyond their limits. Rather than falling accepting a role that was reactive to the past, or being satisfied with being proactive toward the challenges faced in their present, they flipped the script and became predictive of the future. It was a high standard with an ambitious goal — but through ingenuity, relentless passion and determination, they produced results that enabled the fleet to fight with their limited resources — and to fight successfully.

Consider that on Dec. 31, 1941, when Nimitz took command of Pacific Fleet, the only weapon system he had full confidence in was the submarine force. You’ll remember he was first a submariner. He gave the force broad guidance: Go out and attack Japanese shipping. He left it to the innovators, the submarine Sailors themselves, to determine the best way to employ their weapon system in achieving his mission orders.

Nimitz did the same with the aircraft carriers. He gave his intent to the task force commanders and allowed them to develop and employ their force. At Coral Sea, Nimitz committed all available carriers, knowing full well what risk he carried in doing so, but also recognizing that the risk of anything less than going all in was even greater. The experience gained through his wise application of strategic, operational and tactical risk at Coral Sea would soon pay huge dividends.

Less than a month later, empowered with critical intelligence developed by Station HYPO, Nimitz again committed his entire carrier force at Midway, allowing his innovators to apply the lessons learned at Coral Sea and exploit their advantage to devastating effect.

At the Battle of Midway, it all came together: The adjustments made after Pearl Harbor, the experience of Coral Sea, the innovations in employing a carrier force, and the predictive intel that let Nimitz maximize the impact of his limited resources. And it was at Midway that Nimitz’ confidence in his Pacific Fleet Sailors, including the civilian Sailors from the Pearl Harbor shipyard, was rewarded.

We know now that the outcome of the Battle of Midway was the assured operational defeat of the Imperial Navy which in turn resulted in the defeat of Japan’s strategic goals, a lesson we are well served to recall and reflect on as it is as relevant today as it was then.

Today, we honor those Sailors whose dedication and commitment to the Navy and nation was complete. We remember the brave Sailors, Marines, and Airmen that fought so valiantly 75 years ago, ever grateful for their service and sacrifice. And we remember that today — like then — our Navy is strongest when our Sailors innovate to overcome the challenges we face as a Navy and a nation.

Pearl Harbor Naval Shipyard opens up for workers’ families

Christian Hodge

PHNSY & IMF Public Affairs

More than 3,200 Pearl Harbor Naval Shipyard and Intermediate Maintenance Facility (PHNSY & IMF) workers and their families took part in an Ohana Day event, May 13. This was a rare opportunity for families to join the Pacific Fleet’s maintenance professionals on shipyard property, both inside and outside the shipyard’s controlled industrial area.

“This is an event that requires an incredible amount of planning and effort from a dedicated team of shipyarders as well as other commands like Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam and USS Port Royal (CG 73) to pull off,” said Capt. Jamie Kalowsky, PHNSY & IMF commander. “This is probably the most fun you can have as a shipyard commander.”

Kalowsky sanctioned the day-long event to allow relatives of the shipyard workforce the opportunity to learn about and see where their family members work, which for many is inside an industrial area that is not open to the public.

“Today, I not only met the families of the professionals who work here at the yard, I was introduced to the future leaders of our shipyard,” Kalowsky said. “Many of these young women and men are still in grade school, but they told me they want to be the mechanics and engineers who will keep the fleet “Fit to Fight” — just like their moms and dads. Our future is bright!”

The event featured bus and walking tours inside select areas throughout the shipyard’s waterfront industrial area where submarines are repaired, visit aboard USS Port Royal (CG 73), Federal Fire Station exhibit, live music, food booths, bounce houses for the kids, and even a group of roaming Star Wars characters.

Overall planning for such a huge event was challenging for the Ohana

Day volunteer committee.

“Melissa Lamerson and the Learning Organization Steering Group, combined with the superintendents and managers associations that make up the Joint Leadership Venture, started planning the event months in advance,” said Capt. Timothy Halladay, Hawaiian Regional Maintenance Center director.

“They recruited volunteers from the shops and codes who wanted to show off their workplaces, and getting it all put together in sequence, lining up the buses and tour guides and setting the show in motion, was the final touch to a great plan.”

Ohana Day was really an opportunity to thank all members of Team Pearl, including their families, for their hard work, support, and dedication to the shipyard’s mission and their contributions to national security, according to the event coordinator Melissa Lamerson, PHNSY & IMF Organizational Learning division head.

“This event enables our command and our people to display and live our command core values of honor, courage, commitment and aloha through knowledge sharing opportunities with our family and co-workers. We strived to provide a venue in which our families not only learn about what we do daily to help defend our nation, but also to see the legacy and assets that we have as a shipyard.”

Lamerson thanked the volunteer committee whose time and energy was poured into the planning and execution of the event. At its core, “Ohana Day is about the shipyard’s people and their families,” she said.

NAVSUP FLC Pearl Harbor increases mail screening training

Naval Supply Systems Command (NAVSUP) Fleet Logistics Center (FLC) Pearl Harbor Regional Mail Center personnel received hands-on X-ray training from members of Mobile Diving and Salvage Unit (MDSU) 1, Detachment (Det.) Explosive Ordnance Disposal (EOD), May 12.

The training objective was to teach personnel how to identify and respond to suspicious letters and packages.

The training provided an in-depth look at hazardous packages using an X-ray machine.

Personnel studied the X-ray imagery of multiple packages with assorted threats to differentiate how they stand out compared to non-threat items.

“A wide range of potential threats can be introduced into an organization through the mail center,” said Chief Explosive Ordnance Disposal Technician Dustin Lawson, MDSU-1 Det. EOD. Today, fewer threats can be readily identified by examining the exterior of parcels. To mitigate this concern, NAVSUP FLC Pearl Harbor increases mail screening technologies and processes.

“The only way to become an efficient warfighter is through realistic training,” said James McCaffrey, director of postal operations.

HOW TO PREPARE FOR HURRICANE SEASON

Know your ‘safe havens,’ shelters and EFACs before the storm hits

Hurricane season runs from June 1 to Nov. 30 and families on the island of Oahu are encouraged to plan, prepare, and practice in advance before a natural disaster hits their communities and they are forced to evacuate. Military families living on base should be aware of the locations of base-designated “safe havens” and emergency family assistance centers (EFAC) as well as outside public emergency shelters if they are living off base.

Be ready for HURRICANE SEASON

As hurricane season is upon us, it's important to take the time to prepare and protect your valuable property and loved ones. Preparation begins now. Residents should ensure that they don't wait until the last moment to purchase items or prepare their property. You can keep this pullout as a ready reference throughout the storm season. Here are some tips to help you prepare for, get through, and recover from a storm:

Before the storm

- ▶ Build disaster and pet emergency kits.
- ▶ Determine if you live in a flood-prone area.
- ▶ Know your surroundings and be aware of where higher ground might be.
- ▶ Make plans to secure your property.
- ▶ Install straps or additional clips to ensure your roof is securely fastened.
- ▶ Trim trees and shrubs around your home to become more wind resistant.
- ▶ Clear loose and clogged rain gutters and downspouts.
- ▶ Reinforce garage doors.
- ▶ Make a plan to bring in all outdoor furniture, decorations, garbage cans and anything else not tied down.
- ▶ Determine how and where to secure boats, kayaks, etc.
- ▶ Consider purchasing a generator in case of emergencies.

- ▶ If the storm becomes intense, retreat to a designated interior safe room. Lie on the floor under a table or another sturdy object.

After the storm

- ▶ Don't leave your home or shelter until emergency officials tell you it's safe.
- ▶ Don't go out on the roads until you get the all-clear.
- ▶ Watch and listen for reports on flooding or other storm-related activities.
- ▶ Don't call the police or other officials unless there is a life-threatening situation or emergency. Stay off the phone unless it's an emergency.
- ▶ Watch for and don't touch downed power lines.
- ▶ Watch your step. There may be broken glass and other debris lying about.
- ▶ Report dangling or downed power lines, broken water or sewer lines, or broken or downed telephone lines to the proper authorities.
- ▶ Inspect your home for damage; take pictures of damage for insurance purposes.

The day after the storm

- ▶ Don't sightsee. Authorities may be out repairing downed power poles, lines, sewer lines, etc.
- ▶ Use batteries and cell phones sparingly. You may not be able to replace them so easily.

Base safe haven locations

Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam (JBPHH) “safe havens” or facilities located on base that provide protection from natural disasters, provide an option for displaced personnel to take refuge inside the installation. Two JBPHH safe haven locations have been identified at Joint Base Fitness Center and Hickam Gym.

When going to a safe haven, families should bring their sleeping bags, emergency kits and a three-day supply of non-perishable food and water. Due to the limited availability of safe havens, a priority for occupancy can be ordered. Personnel with priority include category one and five personnel and their family members and residents in housing areas most vulnerable to a hurricane.

Emergency assistance centers (EFACs)

According to Military One Source, emergency family assistance centers (EFACs) promote both short and long-term recovery and the return to a stable environment and mission ready status for Department of Defense (DoD) personnel and their families following an all-hazards incident. Residents living on base, forced to evacuate, must first register at their designated EFAC. The designated EFAC for JBPHH will be at Makai Recreation Center, located at 1859 McChord Street, Building 1859 (on Hickam). From there, residents will receive their assigned “safe haven” location.

State shelters off-base

Military families living off-base should seek shelter at the closest City and County of Honolulu shelter. Do not bypass an open state shelter in an effort to reach the base. If required, state-run emergency shelters will open selectively, depending on the severity and type of incident or disaster. A complete list of Hurricane Evacuation Shelters on Oahu, can be found at <http://ow.ly/eiOs300ASof>.

Military families living off base, particularly in coastal evacuation zones or in areas prone to flooding, should be aware of the locations of the two City and County of Honolulu shelters near their home. Do not attempt to seek refuge in a shelter unless notified that shelters have been officially opened. For information on City and County of Honolulu shelters, visit www.honolulu.gov/demevacuate.html.

WHAT TO BRING if ordered to safe haven or shelter

Build a disaster kit for your family. Bring it with you if you have to evacuate to a shelter or a safe haven.

- ❑ Water – one gallon/person/day for at least seven days.
- ❑ Non-perishable food for at least seven days.
- ❑ Sleeping bags, change of clothing (if you evacuate).
- ❑ Manual can opener.
- ❑ First aid kit and include any prescription medications, at least a 14-to-30 day supply.
- ❑ Personal sanitation supplies such as moist towelettes, garbage bags and plastic ties.
- ❑ Flashlight and extra batteries.
- ❑ Pet supplies: Crate, leash, food and water.
- ❑ Specialty items for children (toys, coloring books) or elderly.
- ❑ Extra glasses.
- ❑ Candles and waterproof matches.
- ❑ Money – at least $250 in cash (in small denominations: 1, 5, 10, 20s), and travelers checks, extra car keys.
- ❑ Local maps and your evacuation plan.
- ❑ Family communication plan.
- ❑ Battery-powered or hand-cranked radio with NOAA weather channel (many models can also charge your cell phone).
- ❑ Important family documents (passports, IDs, deeds, wills, etc.)
- ❑ Dust masks and gloves.
- ❑ Wrench or pliers to turn off utilities.
- ❑ Lanterns.

PET EMERGENCY KIT

Your pet will need supplies during an emergency. The best way to ensure you are prepared is to create a pet emergency supply kit, which should be stored alongside your family emergency supply kit in a waterproof container. If an evacuation is necessary, it is best to already know which shelters do and do not allow pets and to have the necessities on hand to continue to care for them. When evacuating, many shelters often ask for health paperwork before accepting you and your pets. This is what you will need for your pet:

- ❑ Carrier/kennel.
- ❑ Pet foot (7-day supply).
- ❑ Water.
- ❑ Bowls for food and water.
- ❑ Cat litter and box or doggie waste bags.
- ❑ Muzzle.
- ❑ Paper towels.
- ❑ Disinfectant.
- ❑ Flashlight.
- ❑ Extra collar with identification tags.
- ❑ Extra leash.
- ❑ Vaccine and other important medical documentation.
- ❑ Any medications your pet is on (2-week supply).
- ❑ Microchip information and number (if applicable)
- ❑ Recent photograph of pet
- ❑ Bedding.
- ❑ Toys.
- ❑ Picture and owner contact information on side of pet's kennel.
- ❑ A list of emergency telephone numbers including your veterinarian, local animal control, local animal shelters, the Red Cross, and any other individual or group you might need to contact during the disaster.

Cooks dish up 'sizzle' at BEACHFEST

Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Public Affairs

Photos by Staff Sgt. Christopher Stoltz

Service members at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam (JBPHH) were treated to Beachfest, held May 29 at Hickam Beach.

The waterfront event featured many activities, ranging from dunk tanks to hula lessons. Some patrons even won a free luxury car rental. The event was held through a partnership with JBPHH Morale, Welfare and Recreation, the Armed Services YMCA of Hawaii, Cooks from the Valley and other organizations.

Adm. Harry B. Harris, commander, U.S. Pacific Command, attended the event and spoke with the Cooks from the Valley.

In addition to cardboard boat races and craft stations, the event included music from the U.S. Pacific Fleet Band and Air Force Band of the Pacific-Hawaii.

The event also tickled the taste buds with free steaks. Beachfest was host to Cooks from the Valley, a group of volunteers who provided and cooked more than 13,000 steaks during their trip to JBPHH and their trip to Sasebo, Japan, which took place May 26.

"We are doing this because it is our way in which we can give back," said Tom Anton, founder of the Cooks from the Valley. "We are doing this because you guys are here. Yes, you all may be here in Hawaii, but you, the all-volunteer force, still put your lives on the line to keep our country as great as it is."

Anton, who also works as a lawyer when he is not cooking, has grilled and served steaks to service members for more than 20 years, beginning with the USS Chandler (DDG 996) in 1983.

1st Lt. Nicole Augins, 647 Air Base Group Logistics readiness officer, was one of the main points of contact for the Cooks portion of the event, and said she thought it was one of the best parts of Beachfest.

"It was a honor to host the Cooks from the Valley here at Joint Base Pearl Harbor Hickam," Augins said. "I found the amount of military installations they have touched especially amazing."

Augins said she hopes to see the Cooks From the Valley again before she leaves the base.

"It was remarkable to hear how they morphed from a one-man organization to a diverse group," she said. "They have provided a free, delicious steak to military members all over the world. I would be glad to work with them again."

PACOM/JIOC edges PHNSY to stay undefeated

Randy Dela Cruz

Sports Editor, Ho'okele

Army Staff Sgt. Schaune Collins smashed a grand slam in the bottom of the fifth inning to lead Pacific Command/Joint Intelligence Operation Center (PACOM/JIOC) over Pearl Harbor Naval Shipyard (PHNSY) by a score of 9-8 on May 30 in a battle of unbeaten Red Division intramural softball teams at Millican Field, Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam.

PHNSY entered the showdown a half game ahead of PACOM/JIOC after trouncing Naval Submarine Training Center Pacific (NASTY PAC), 15-3, in their first game of a double header, which was held just prior to the marquee game of the evening.

The team could have expended their lead at the top of the division by a full game, but instead PACOM/JIOC got the win to become the last team in the division with an undefeated record at 7-0.

"We have a loaded lineup," Collins said. "Everybody can hit. We're a dangerous team."

While the game had every appearance of a high-scoring affair, in fact, most of the damage by both squads was condensed into a couple of innings.

In the top of the first inning, PHNSY took the early lead by Army Staff Sgt. Christopher Arroyo hits a double in the bottom of the third inning.

scoring two runs on a run scoring double and sacrifice fly.

The lead lasted until the bottom of the third inning, when PACOM/JIOC finally put some hits together to start a rally.

Lt. j.g. Brian Caplan got things started with a leadoff single. Then, after a ground out, Army Staff Sgt. Christopher Arroyo hit a line drive for a double to put two men in scoring position.

Tech. Sgt Drew Duguay followed up with the team's third hit of the inning to drive in Caplan and cut the lead down to one.

Another hit tied the score at 2-2, and then with one out and the bases loaded, Intelligence Specialist 2nd Class Christian Hetzel pounded a deep ball to the fence for a sacrifice fly that drove in two more runs to give PACOM/JIOC a 4-2 lead.

Collins said that the great thing about this year's squad is that you never know when the bats will start raking.

"It takes a lot of pressure off," Collins said. "I'll pop one out, but you know the next batter is going to get a base hit."

The team's bats went quiet for the next inning, but back in the bottom of the fifth, PACOM/JIOC would ultimately score just the amount of runs they would need to earn the win.

Chief Cryptologic Technician (Maintenance) Darrell Her-shell singled with the bases loaded to drive in the first run of the inning.

Then, with the bases still loaded, Collins walked into the batter's box and basically announced that he was going to go deep, before he crushed a shot over the left-field fence.

"I even told the umpire that I was going to hit it a long way," Collins said.

The blast made it 9-2, which lasted all the way until the final inning, when PHNSY awoke from their slumber in the box to nearly catch PACOM/JIOC.

It all started with a shot over the left-field fence by PHNSY pitcher Senior Chief Machinist's Mate Charles Phelps.

The homer ignited PHNSY and almost rallied the team to a complete comeback, but instead, an infield ground out with a man in scoring position ended the game.

"I know, obviously coming in as the defending champs that we have a target on our back, but we have a good-looking ball club," Collins said. "I think this team is better than last year's."

Team captain Mike Todd, a Department of Defense civilian, agreed with Collins and added that a repeat is definitely in the cards if everyone stays healthy.

"There is no reason why we shouldn't be the top team at the end of the season," Todd said. "We've just got to make sure all of our players are here."

Pound Town distances themselves from 735th AMS

Story and photos by
Randy Dela Cruz

Sports Editor, Ho'okele

For the second night in a row, two undefeated teams squared off to battle for the dominance of a division. Unlike the first night, where the winning team won by slimmest of margins, the second showdown quickly turned into a blowout.

The 647th Security Forces Squadron (647 SFS) Pound Town and the 735th Air Mobility Squadron (735 AMS) entered their matchup on May 31 with identical 5-0 records. However, it took only five innings for Pound Town to send the 735 AMS to their first loss after closing out a 15-4 mercy-rule victory at Millican Field, Joint Base

Pearl Harbor-Hickam.

The win put Pound Town in the driver's seat of the White Division, which just happens to be familiar territory for the perennial pennant challengers.

"They (the 735 AMS) are a good team," Airman 1st Class Dustin Lewis said. "I watched them a couple of weeks ago and they were hitting the ball. I said we've got to be prepared tonight. We all came out and did business as usual."

Hitting the ball is something that both teams are well versed at doing, and in the first inning, Pound Town and the 735 AMS demonstrated how it's done.

Staff Sgt. Dustin Barnes batted in the first run with a single, and later, in the top of the first, Master Sgt. William Washer drove in runners on second and third with another single to give Pound Town a quick 3-0 start.

However, the 735 AMS responded in the bottom of the frame with three runs of their own to deadlock the game at 3-3.

In their turn at-bat, Staff Sgt. Kyle Ingram led off with single and later came home on an RBI base hit by Staff Sgt. Luis Gonzalez.

Then, with two men in scoring position, Department of Defense civilian Chad Baldini tied the score with a single.

Pound Town picked up a single run in the top of the third to take a 4-3 lead, but that was just the calm before the storm.

In the top of the fourth, Pound Town distanced themselves from the 735 AMS by exploding for five runs and a 9-3 lead.

Airman 1st Class Adrian Navarro and Master-at-Arms 2nd Class Justin Sosa drove in the first two runs with a double and a single, and Senior Airman Brandon Green added another run on a sacrifice, before Lewis really put a dent in the 735's hopes by scorching a deep drive over the left-field fence for a two-run homer.

"I saw them playing a five-three and here you really can't do that," Lewis said. "It felt good. It hit the sweet spot 100 percent."

The 735 picked up one run in the bottom of the inning on a double by Department of Defense civilian Jimmie Miller, but in the top of the fifth Pound Town loaded up another five runs to really put the game away.

The big hit in the fifth inning was a three-run dinger by Master-at-Arms 1st Class Matt Walker.

While most teams struggle for consistency, Lewis said that it's no mistake about why Pound Town puts together a softball juggernaut each season.

"We always have a lot of strong young arms that come out," Lewis said. "We can always count on new guys coming in and taking the place of veterans who are about to leave."

One thing for sure, by mercy-ruling one of the top teams on base, Lewis said that adding another league crown to their trophy case is a real possibility again this year.

"It is what it is," he said. "I feel like we have the potential to go all the way and hopefully that would be the outcome."

Airman 1st Class Dustin Lewis (left) is about to connect on a two-run homer, while a 735 AMS outfielder (right) watches helplessly as the ball clears the left-field fence.

Gas Turbine Systems Technician (Mechanical) Fireman Jonathan Bendarsky launches a kick to score NHCH's second goal of the game.

NHCH shuts out HIANG to win soccer crown

Randy Dela Cruz

Sports Editor, Ho'okele

As the third seed in the 2017 Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam intramural soccer playoffs, Naval Health Clinic Hawaii (NHCH) knew that they had their work cut out for them if they wanted to capture their first title since 2014.

Not only did NHCH succeed in their mission, but they also did it by finishing off the No. 1 seed Hawaii Air National Guard (HIANG), 2-0, to win the title in a defensive battle played at Earhart Field, May 28.

After a scoreless first half, NHCH got second half goals from Lt. Dustin Bond and Gas Turbine Systems Technician (Mechanical) Fireman Jonathan Bendarsky to gain the win and 2017 championship.

"It was a long year and we took a long time to get cohesion," Bond said. "But we had a game plan coming in that we were going to keep the pressure on them. As long as we had them scoreless, we had a chance."

While it took NHCH until the second half to score, their strategy to pressure was working from the get go, as the team played most of the early minutes on the HIANG side of the field.

NHCH continued to attack in the second half and with about four minutes off the clock, Bond brought the ball in from the left wing and booted in a cross kick that got past the goalkeeper and into the goal.

"I knew that he (the goalkeeper) was going to pull out and guard that front post, so I thought that if I'd pull wide and go for the far post and kick it toward the back, it would, hopefully, go in," Bond said.

"I play way in the sweeper back, so rarely do I come up for offense, but it was good to get that goal."

The goal gave NHCH a huge boost and seemed to cement the team's resolve to take it all the way.

During halftime, Bond said the players discussed that if there was one thing they didn't want to do is play into overtime.

"We decided we're going to get a goal because we didn't want to have to worry about penalties," he said.

"Penalty kicks can be a toss-up."

Although HIANG had their opportunities to tie the score, the NHCH defense continued to hold fast as the minutes ticked away.

Then, a little past midway in the second half, Bond picked up an assist on a pass back to Bendarsky, who shot it passed an onrushing goalkeeper for the team's second goal of the game.

"Lt. Bond had been giving me long balls ahead all game long," Bendarsky said.

"We were actually struggling with that, but we finally got it to go in the last minutes of the game."

Once the goalkeeper committed to put pressure on Bendarsky, he said he had no choice but to loft the kick over the keeper to prevent the kick from being blocked.

"I saw him approaching and I said I have to chip it over him."

Bond, who arrived in August, said that he knew that it has been awhile since NHCH had won a base championship, so he was extremely glad that he could contribute in bringing back the title to their command.

"It's good to hear that we hadn't won in awhile," he said.

"I knew that there was a lot of teams going for the trophy and there's a lot of passionate games going on out here. A lot of teams wanted to win this, so to take this trophy back to our clinic and put it on display for our patients is going to be nice."

Read this summer to win prizes

Justin Hirai

Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Morale, Welfare and Recreation

The Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam (JBPHH) Morale, Welfare and Recreation Library has been participating in the Department of Defense IREAD (Illinois Library Association) program since 2010. This year they will continue the tradition with their Summer Reading Program, “Reading by Design.” Participants who participate in the program log their daily reading minutes and become eligible to win prizes. “The main purpose of the Summer Reading Program is to prevent learning loss, which is referred to as ‘summer slide.’ Also, kids who read at least six books over the summer score higher in reading and math upon returning to school. Reading helps us learn new things and promotes imagination and creativity,” said Phyllis Frenzel, library director. This year the program will run from June 3 through July 15. There will be a kickoff on June 3 from 10 a.m. to noon at the library. Patrons can receive registration help, win prizes through drawings, fish for prizes, take selfies with a mad scientist, and enjoy refreshments provided by the Hickam Library Friends. Each week there will be a different event at the library for participants to enjoy and win prizes. A final party will wrap up the program on July 22 with a performance by magician

Glen Bailey, prize drawings and more. There are four different ages groups: Group one is for birth to age 7; group two is for ages 8-12; group three is for ages 13-18; and group four is for ages 19 and up, so everyone is encouraged to participate. “This year we really want to encourage participants to remain fully engaged from the kick-off through the final party. In addition to earning rewards for reading every two weeks, and exciting bonus prizes for exceeding the reading goals, we’re offering some very cool incentives for attending weekly programs,” Frenzel said. If you can’t attend the kickoff, you can still participate in the program. The registration link, weekly events list, read-

Commissaries focus on emergency supplies

Kevin L. Robinson

DeCA public affairs specialist

To prepare for nature’s unexpected fury during hurricane season, the Defense Commissary Agency (DeCA) encourages its patrons to use their benefit for emergency supplies. “Each year, our industry partners help us offer tremendous savings on many of the items our patrons need to be ready for an emergency — natural or manmade,” said Tracie Russ, DeCA director of sales. DeCA’s severe weather promotional package includes discounts on the following items: beef jerky and other assorted meat snacks, soup and chili mixes, canned goods, powdered milk, cereals, batteries, airtight bags, weather-ready flashlights, tape (all-weather, heavy-duty shipping and duct), first aid kits, lighters, matches, lanterns, candles, hand sanitizer and anti-bacterial wipes. Specific items may vary from store to store. Be it hurricane, tornado or a man-made event, emergency preparedness officials suggest having a disaster supply kit that includes the following items:

- Water, at least one gallon daily, per person (three-day supply for evacuation, two-week

- supply for home).
 - Non-perishable foods and foods for infants and the elderly (three-day supply for evacuation, two-week supply for home).
 - Paper goods such writing paper, paper plates, paper towels and toilet paper.
 - Cooking items such pots, pans, baking sheets, cooking utensils, charcoal, a grill and a manual can opener.
 - First-aid kit, including bandages, medicines and prescription medications.
 - Cleaning materials, such as bleach, sanitizing spray, and hand and laundry soap.
 - Specialty foods, such as diet and low-calorie foods and drinks.
 - Toiletries, such as personal hygiene items and moisture wipes.
 - Pet care items, such as food, water, muzzle, leash, carrier, medications, medical records, and identification and immunization tags.
 - Lighting accessories, such as flashlight, batteries, candles and matches.
 - Battery-powered or hand-crank radio (NOAA Weather Radio, if possible).
 - Duct tape, scissors.
 - Multipurpose tool.
 - Copies of personal documents (medication list and pertinent medical information, proof of address, deed/lease to home, passports, birth certificates and insurance policies).
 - Cell phone with chargers.
 - Family and emergency contact information.
 - Extra cash.
 - Emergency blanket.
 - Maps of the area.
 - Blankets or sleeping bags.
- For more information about disaster preparedness, go to www.commissaries.com/disaster_prep.cfm for lists of resources.

Hypnotist entertainer to return

Reid Tokeshi

Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam Morale, Welfare and Recreation

In what has been almost an annual event, popular hypnotist Chuck Milligan is bringing his comedy hypnosis show this weekend to Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam (JBPHH). Milligan will perform shows at Sharkey Theater on June 3 and 4. The June 3 show is an adult-themed show, with admittance limited to 18 years and older only. Milligan’s show on June 4 has material that is appropriate for all ages. Parents are welcome to bring their kids, although, on-stage participation will be limited to ages 14 years and older. While Milligan has come to the base several times over the years, it’s the participants from the audience that help make the show unique each time. As he guides them, the volunteers and their reactions become the stars of the show. Milligan entertains the crowd while still maintaining the dignity of the volunteers. Both shows are free to attend and no tickets are required. The June 3 show begins at 7 p.m. while the all ages show on June 4 starts at 12:30 p.m. Doors will open an hour prior to the show along with the snack bar. With seating at Sharkey Theater maxing out at about 400, organizers encourage everyone to come early for the best seats. Each show will last between 60 to 90 minutes.
