New First Sergeant Simms assumes responsibility at HHC

By Julie Piron
USAG Benelux Public Affairs

First Sergeant Natalee C. Simms took responsibility as the First Sergeant of Headquarters and Headquarters Company at U.S. Army Garrison Benelux during a ceremony Feb. 5 at the Caserne Daumerie Chapel.

Capt. Curtis Radoff, company commander, highlighted the great work and dedication of Master Sgt. Shauna Richardson serving as the Brussels provost sergeant and the first sergeant for the last few months.

During the ceremony, Richardson passed the company guidon to Radoff who himself handed the guidon to Simms, demonstrating his confidence in her being the backbone of the company.

Simms recently arrived from the Pentagon where she was the supply NCO for the Joint Improvised-Threat Defense Agency. "HHC Benelux has a history of great leadership, and I will continue that history as the first sergeant," Simms said. ♦

Community hosts first Harry Potter movie night

By Jessica Ryan

USAG Benelux Public Affairs

Community members came to the SHAPE Cinema – Alliance Auditorium Tuesday night for a screening of the Harry Potter and the Sorcerer’s Stone on SHAPE, Belgium. The screening is a part of the Army Community Service’s “Eight Nights of Harry Potter,” a special outreach event where each movie of the Harry Potter series will be shown to families in the U.S. Army Garrison Benelux and NATO communities.

The event was more than an opportunity for Harry Potter fans to watch the film on the big screen. It was about bringing the geographically-dispersed and international community together while educating them about resources provided by Army Community Service, Army Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation, SHAPE’s Morale Welfare Branch and other community organizations at SHAPE and the Army garrison.

“We do our best work by promoting a healthy environment for families,” said Bill Gault, victim advocate at the ACS’s Victim Advocacy Program and one of the lead organizers for the event. “We hope to get a diverse population to attend these events. In addition to watching a great family film, they will be able to meet with organization representatives and put a name to a face.”

Fans can also enjoy Harry Potter themed activities at the cinema.

During the first night’s event, Dan O’Riley, library technician, set up an arts and crafts table and helped participants with coloring Hogwarts’ house crests and making sorting hats. He also played music from the movie, such as “Hedwig’s theme,” on the electric piano.

There are special giveaways at each screening, according to Gault. Fans can listen to Armed Forces Network Benelux’s radio shows in the morning and afternoon for a chance to answer trivia questions and enter a drawing.

Prior to each screening, one contestant from that week’s drawing will win a copy of the book corresponding to the movie. Fans are also encouraged to dress up in costumes, Gault added. Before the screening, fans can participate in a costume contest. One lucky winner from each screening will be in a drawing

Another parent Cat Harrington came to the screening with her five-year-old son. “We really like Harry Potter, and we haven’t seen it [together] on the big screen,” said Harrington. “I like the series’ message that children are being accepted for being different and can find comradery within their differences.”

The remaining screenings are scheduled Tuesdays at 6 p.m. at the SHAPE Cinema from Feb. 13 to Mar. 6 and Mar. 27 to April 10. Admission is €2 per person. For more information, call ACS at DSN 366-6824 or +32(0)6532-6824.

For a chance to enter AFN Benelux’s trivia contests, listeners can tune into 107.9 FM (Chièvres), 106.5 FM (SHAPE), 101.7 FM (Brussels), 99.7 FM and 96.9 FM (Tri-Border Area) or AFN360 Internet Radio at www.afneurope.net/Stations/Benelux from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. ♦

Among the crowd during the first event was Army Lt. Col. Amy Jackson, deputy commander for administration for the SHAPE Army Healthcare Clinic, and her daughter Kaitlyn, who is in fifth grade. A huge fan of the series, Kaitlyn began reading the books in second grade and just finished the series this school year.

It was a special night for the mother and daughter duo, since it was their first time seeing the “Sorcerer’s Stone” in a movie theater together.

Take care of your car during winter months

By Jessica Ryan

USAG Benelux Public Affairs

Experiencing car problems is never easy. Whether it is a dead battery, flat tire, worn-out brakes, bad engine or another part failure, these unexpected issues are hard to deal with especially during the winter months.

However, simple car maintenance can prevent some of those problems.

“The best way to avoid finding yourself stranded, because you need a jump-start, or worse, stranded and facing massive repair bills due to a cracked engine block, is by completing a thorough maintenance check on a regular basis,” said Tom Corbitt, the program manager at Family and Morale, Welfare and Recreation’s Auto Skills Center on Chièvres Air Base, Belgium.

Here are some tips on how to take care of your vehicle during the winter months:

CHECK YOUR TIRES

The dreaded tire pressure monitoring system, or TPMS, light can turn on when the system senses low tire pressure. Some systems may be sensitive during sudden temperature changes. When the light comes on, drivers should immediately check the pressure and then add air as needed to meet the manufacturer’s recommended tire pressure. Many gas stations have machines where people can add air to tires for a nominal fee. However, please keep in mind that tire pressure is measured differently in Europe than in the U.S. While Americans are used to filling tires based on the pounds per square inch, or PSI, Europeans use kilopascals, or kPa, instead. Check your car’s owner manual to ensure that you use the right measurements for proper inflation.

It is also important that your car has the right tires for driving in Europe. According to Corbitt, all season radial either by months or mileage, for when to replace the fluids.

For coolants, Corbitt recommends to use a proper antifreeze mix of half water and half antifreeze. The ratio optimizes the freezing and boiling points of the radiator fluid. Don’t put excessive amounts of fluid in the radiator as it won’t help with warming the engine quickly.

WARM THE CAR CORRECTLY

During cold days, it may be tempting to start your car and wait for it to warm up as you stay indoors. However, according to Corbitt, this method does not warm the engine efficiently and is frowned upon. Since 2014, leaving the engine running when your car is parked is forbidden in Belgium and violators can receive fines. “The most effective way to warm the engine, and thereby get warm air blowing through the cabin, is to drive the car,” said Corbitt.

Another bad habit to avoid is pouring hot water on the car to defrost the windows and windshields. This can result in shattered glass, especially if the window already has a nick or crack in it. Instead, Corbitt recommends covering the windshield with a piece of cardboard, sun shade or an old sheet to provide frost, ice or snow build-up on the car.

“Keep in mind, it is always best to clear all of your windows completely before driving the vehicle for line-of-sight and safety reasons,” said Corbitt.

DON’T WAIT UNTIL THE LAST MINUTE

It is never a good idea to wait until the last minute to get repair work done, especially if someone else is performing the job or if parts need to be ordered in. “The most common issue we see in the Auto Skills Center from a maintenance failure perspective is brakes that have been ignored for far too long,” he said. “Generally, these are the same customers requesting brake inspections one or two days prior to leaving on an epic European road trip.” As stated above, performing tires, which typically display the “M+S” symbol, which stands for mud and snow, on the sidewall are acceptable in all European countries that currently mandate winter tires. Belgium and The Netherlands do not have this rule. However, nearby countries such as Germany and Luxembourg do in addition to other countries in Europe. Specific regions, such as in the mountains, may require actual winter tires or snow chains. As a general rule, this winter-tire requirement lasts from Nov. 1 to the middle of April.

FILL VEHICLE FLUIDS AS NEEDED

Preventative vehicle maintenance, such as checking the fluids, can help you avoid being stranded or having expensive repair bills. The main fluids to check are engine oil, coolant, power steering fluid, brake fluid, transmission fluid and windshield washer fluid. Your car’s owner manual should provide timelines, preventative maintenance is key, and parts, such as brakes, should not be neglected.

If you have questions or concerns about your car, the Auto Skills Center staff is there to help. "The staff is always ready to listen, look, evaluate and recommend," said Corbitt. The staff can perform repairs and preventative maintenance work. In addition, people work on their cars by renting work bays, tools, machinery and diagnostic equipment for a nominal fee.

Scout Sunday Celebrates 108 years of scouting in America

By Cub Scout Pack and Boy Scout Troop 457
Special to the Gazette

Feb. 4 marked the 2018 Boy Scouts of America Scout Sunday, a kickoff event to celebrate 108 years of Scouting in America. Traditionally, this observance is held on the first Sunday prior to Feb. 8, a day that is meant to mark the founding of the scouting movement in the United States.

Services like this were conducted by the Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts located around the globe. They offered an opportunity for their congregations to honor scouts and their leaders. In addition, the event highlighted the scouting movement and the value of scouting as a youth program.

Dozens of local scouts and their families from Cub Scout Pack and Boy Scout Troop 457 gathered at the Community Chapel on U.S. Army Garrison Benelux in Brussels to observe the milestone event and Communion Sunday service under the guidance of former Boy Scout, Chaplain Rickey Brunson, and leadership of Elijah Morris, the troop chaplain's aide and first class scout.

Brunson's message of selfless service and sacrifice was purposefully tied to the spirit of the Scout Oath and the 12 tenants of the Scout Law. His powerful message was conveyed through the heroic story of the four chaplains who gave their lives to save fellow service members when their transport ship was torpedoed by a German U-Boat. The story spoke about the importance of helping other people at all times by putting others' needs before self.

In his sermon, Brunson acknowledged that as a Boy Scout, the Scout Oath was instrumental in his personal decision to become a chaplain and in his commitment to God and service to others.

"Events like this are meant to cause our Scouts and Scouters to reaffirm their commitment to the Scout Oath" said Jerry Beck, the Cub Scout Pack 457 committee chairperson. "I am so thankful for our local community and their continued efforts to support scouting at events like this."

The crowning event marking the 108th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will be the annual Blue and Gold Banquet on Feb. 21 at 6:30 p.m. at the 3 Star Recreation Center in Brussels. For more information about the local scouting program or attending this event, please email event organizers at cubscoutpack457brussels@gmail.com. ♦

African-American WWI 'Harlem Hell Fighters' proved their mettle, patriotism in combat

By Col. Richard Goldenberg
New York National Guard

When the African American National Guard Soldiers of New York's 15th Infantry Regiment arrived in France in December 1917, they expected to conduct combat training and enter the trenches of the Western Front right away. They could not have been more wrong.

The black troops were ordered to unload supply ships at the docks for their first months in France, joining the mass of supply troops known as stevedores, working long hours in the port at St. Nazaire.

More than 380,000 African Americans served in the Army during World War I, according to the National Archives. Approximately 200,000 of these were sent to Europe.

But more than half of those who deployed were assigned to labor and stevedore battalions, assigned to tasks that many Army leaders saw as most appropriate.

These troops performed essential duties for the American Expeditionary Force, building roads, bridges, and trenches in support of the front-line battles.

In St. Nazaire, the New York National Guard Soldiers learned they would work to prepare the docks and rail lines to be a major port of entry for the hundreds of thousands of forces yet to arrive in France.

The African American regiment was a quick and easy source of labor, according to author Stephen Harris in his 2003 book, "Harlem's Hell Fighters."

"First, Pershing would have a source of cheap labor," Harris wrote. "Second, he wouldn't have to worry about what to do with black Soldiers, particularly when he might have to mix them in with white troops."

But officers, leaders and the combat Soldiers had not signed up for labor. They were committed to fighting the Germans and winning the war.

"They had no place to put the regiment," said infantry Capt. Hamilton Fish, according to the Harris book. "They weren't going to put us in a white division, not in 1917, anyway; so our troops were sent in to the supply and services as laborers to lay railroad tracks. This naturally upset our men tremendously."

The regiment's best advocate was their commander, Col. William Hayward.

"It was time for us to try to do something towards extricating ourselves from the dirty mess of pick-swinging and wheel barrel trundling that we were in," Hayward had said to Capt. Arthur Little, commander of the regimental band, according to Jeffrey Sammons in his 2014 book "Harlem's Rattlers and the Great War."

African American stevedores in an undated photo during WWI. African American supply and services units provided a great amount of labor for the arriving American Expeditionary Forces in France in 1917-18. They would be joined by the African American 369th Infantry Regiment, formerly the National Guard's 15th New York Infantry. The 369th arrived in France in December 1917 and initially served as a labor force to improve the port of St. Nazaire, France for follow on forces. The infantry regiment would not move on to prepare for combat operations until March 1918. (Courtesy photo)

"We had come to France as combat troops, and, apparently, we were in danger of becoming labor troops," Hayward said.

Hayward argued his case in a letter to General Pershing, outlining the regiments' mobilization and training, and followed up immediately with a personal visit to Pershing's headquarters.

He would bring with him the regiment's most formidable weapon in swaying opinion: the regimental band, lauded as one of the finest in the entire Expeditionary Force.

While the regiment literally laid the tracks for the arrival of the two million troops deploying to France, the regimental band toured the region, performing for French and American audiences at rest centers and hospitals. The 369th Band was unlike any other performance audiences had seen or heard before, noted Harris. The regimental band is credited with introducing jazz music to France during the war.

The military band would frequently perform a French march, followed by traditional band scores such as John Philip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever."

"And then came the fireworks," said Sgt. Noble Sissle, weeks of combat training.

They also learned they had a new regimental number as the now-renamed 369th Infantry Regiment. Not that it mattered much to the Soldiers; they still carried their nickname from New York, the Black Rattlers, and carried their regimental flag of the 15th New York Infantry everywhere they went in France.

While the 369th Infantry would become part of the U.S. Army's 92nd Infantry Division, it would be assigned to fight with French forces. This solved the dilemma for Pershing and the American Expeditionary Forces of what to do with the African-American troops.

The black troops would see combat, but alongside French forces, who were already accustomed to the many races and ethnicities already serving in the ranks of their colonial troops.

"The French army instructors literally welcomed their African American trainees as comrades in arms," Sammons wrote. "To the pragmatic French army instructors, the Soldiers were Americans, black Americans, to be trained for combat within their ranks. The trainees clearly excelled at their tasks."

After learning valuable lessons in trench warfare from their French partners, the Soldiers of the 369th finally had their chance to prove their worth as combat troops when they entered the front lines, holding their line against the last German spring offensive near Chateau-Thierry.

Their value was not lost on the French, and the regiment continued to fight alongside French forces, participating in the Aisne-Marne counter offensive in the summer of 1918 alongside the French 162nd Infantry Division.

The Hell Fighters from Harlem had come into their own, in spite of their difficult start.

The regiment would go on to prove itself in combat operations throughout the rest of the war, receiving the French highest honor, the Croix de Guerre, for its unit actions, alongside some 171 individual decorations for heroism.

February is African American History Month. U.S. Army Garrison Benelux leaders and community members are joining the Army and nation in celebrating the tremendous contributions of African-American Soldiers, civilians and family members. On Feb. 15, a special event will held at the SHAPE Cinema from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. To learn more about this event, call DSN 423-8369 or DSN 361-5235. ♦

Proper Dietary Habits Vital for Children's Oral Health

By Capt. Nathan Persell
SHAPE Dental Clinic

Children's Dental Health Month is observed throughout February. The American Dental Association's slogan for the 2018 national health campaign is "Brush Your Teeth with Fluoride Toothpaste and Clean Between Your Teeth for a Healthy Smile." The purpose is to highlight the importance of proper dental care and teaching children good oral health habits.

Children have wide array of food choices. Walking down a super market aisle can be intimidating due to the wide variety of available foods. From fresh fruits and vegetables to processed and packaged foods and soft drinks, each of these products can significantly affect oral health.

More often than not, it's the non-nutritional foods that are conveniently packed, cheaper and quick-and-easy meals. Plus, the marketing firms have figured out ways to attract consumers. Dress up the food packaging with bright colors or have a child's favorite television star be a spokesperson for the product. The pressure for a parent to buy grows exponentially.

Besides, kids know what tastes good. Generally, the first two ingredients in anything a child picks out for themselves is corn syrup and High Fructose corn syrup, code words for sugar. Parents need to remember that they are the ultimate say in what their children are eating.

When it comes to avoiding cavities, there may be something even more important to avoid than those sugar-laden convenience foods: the sugar-laden beverages. The average teenage boy in the U.S. consumes 81 gallons of soft drinks each year. That's almost three 2-liter bottles each week! Sugar alone cannot cause cavities. It's only when bacteria break down the sugar into acid that the teeth start to corrode or demineralize. Typical soft drinks are high in both acidity and sugar content and therefore become a double-edge sword. Even the parents who minimize their children's soft-drink intake are not off the hook. Many sports drinks and juices contain just as much sugar and acid as those soft drinks and can be disguised as good sources of nourishment.

While the type and quantity of sugar our children consume makes up a big piece of the puzzle, the last variable is how often these "sugar exposures" occur. Even if the overall consumption is low in volume, a child who frequently sips on sugary drinks or eats starchy snacks has greater risk of cavities. This "grazing" habit can have a real adverse effect on oral health.

The American Dental Association recommends the following hints to reduce your children's risk of tooth decay:

- Sugary foods and drinks should be consumed with meals. Saliva production increases during meals and helps neutralize acid production and rinse food particles from the mouth.
- Limit between-meal snacks. If kids crave a snack, offer them nutritious foods.
- If your kids chew gum, make it sugarless. Chewing sugarless gum after eating can increase saliva flow and help wash out food and decay-producing acid.
- Monitor beverage consumption. Instead of soft drinks, sports drinks and juice all day, children should also choose water and low-fat milk.

- Help your children develop good brushing and flossing habits.
- Schedule regular dental visits.

Let's face the fact that children are going to eat and drink sugar. The questions remain how much sugar, what types of sugar and how often the sugar exposures occur. Are our children getting the nutritious foods that they need? Parents, it's up to you to lay the foundation now for a lifetime of healthy eating

Discover Belgium: the Carnival of Binche

By Stéphanie Borrell-Verdu

USAG Benelux Public Affairs

You have probably already heard about the Carnival of Binche, one of the most famous Belgian celebrations. Each year, it draws thousands of tourists from all over the world to the Walloon city of Binche. The festival happens three days before Ash Wednesday. This year, it will occur from Feb. 11 to 13.

This unique carnival, which includes stunning costumes and folkloric traditions such as the throwing of oranges, is more than a festival and party to the people of Binche. It was recognized by the UNESCO as a Masterpiece of the Oral and Intangible Heritage of Humanity in 2003.

Even though Carnival of Binche's exact origins are uncertain, the first written record of the celebration dates back to the 14th century. Things changed very little since that time, proving that one of the main aspects of this Carnival is the tradition.

More than a thousand inhabitants of Binche dress up as one of the four characters involved in the festival: The Peasants, the Harlequins, the Pierrots and the Gilles. The central figures are the Gilles, who wear a spectacular costume decorated with red, black and yellow symbols of lions, crowns and stars. They also don a white-filly collar, a white head covering, and have yellow bells attached to their costumes. They wear wooden clogs and will, during different stages of the street party, wear a mask and a magnificent feathered hat. Every male from Binche can become a Gille regardless of his age but needs to keep in mind that it is a lifelong commitment. As for females, they can become one of the three other characters involved in the process, and the Gilles' wives also play a major role in the Carnival.

On Sunday, the 13 societies take part in the Carnival parade in the streets of Binche at 3 p.m. They are accompanied by drums and brass instruments as they show off their impressive costumes that they have secretly been working on for months, if not years. This explosion of colors and sounds will amaze you, and it is just the beginning.

On Monday, a confetti battle between local children in the town square starts at 10 a.m. After that battle, the colorfully costumed children perform a dance at 4 p.m. and fireworks close out the joyful day at 7 p.m.

The three-day festival reaches its climax on Shrove Tuesday. The day starts at dawn, with one of the most important parts of the festival: the dressing of the Gilles, during which each Gille puts on his straw-stuffed costume with the help of family members. In the meantime, the leader of each "society" goes from one house to another to collect members of his groups. According to the tradition, Gilles have to drink a glass of champagne at each stop. A drummer accompanies each society during the whole process, and all the characters shuffle-dance through the streets to the drumbeat.

Once every society finishes, the Gilles parade on the streets with a bunch of willow twigs that they shake to ward off evil spirits. During this process, they wear sinister-looking porcelain masks with a Napoleon III-like moustache and green glasses. Then, each society enters the town hall and is honored as the mayor gives them medals. At 3 p.m., the famous procession of the oranges starts, during which the Gilles remove their masks and put on their ostrich-feathered hats that can be up to 35.4 inches (90 centimeters) and 6.6 pounds (3 kilograms).

During the procession of the oranges, all four characters parade one more time on the street, but this time they are throwing or passing oranges. Stay alert if you do not want to be hit by one. Nevertheless, it is important to know that catching or being hit by an orange brings good luck, and that refusing one, or sending it back, is considered as a grave insult. At 8 p.m., the last "rondeau," in which the Gilles dance in a huge circle, is performed on the Grand Place. The day and the festival officially end with fireworks starting around 9 p.m., but not entirely, as they are followed by a huge party in the town square late into the night.

It is better to arrive early to find a place to park your car, but extra trains will run to and from Binche during the Carnival. It is also important to know that hotels in and around Binche are usually full during the festivities, so it is better to book far in advance. Finally, keep in mind that there could be some changes to the schedule due to weather conditions, because the Gilles feathered hats are too precious to be ruined by Belgian weather!

The Carnival of Binche is a must-see for anyone who loves colorful and culturally rich events. It is an explosion of colors and sounds that adults and children will enjoy. For more information about the event, visit www.carnavaldebinche.be/accueil.html. ♦

From fries, waffles and beer to costumes, parades and beer!

By Stéphanie Borrell-Verdu
USAG Benelux Public Affairs

Carnival is deeply rooted in the Belgian culture. Even though the most famous is the one in Binche, Belgium is also home to numerous other worth-visiting carnivals. Carnival is not only the perfect time to have fun, but it is also the perfect time to try some delicious regional specialties, such as the Baiser de Malmedy and the Pets-de-nonne. Just like every other Belgian celebration, Carnival is also a great time to have some of the best Belgian beers! Here is a list of the most famous Belgian Carnivals:

Malmedy

When: Feb. 10 to 13

Where: Place Albert I, 4960 Malmedy

The Carnival of Malmedy, also known as the “Cwarmê,” has been recognized as Immaterial Heritage of the Wallonia-Brussels community and is spread into four days of fun. This year, Malmedy will celebrate its 560th edition! The celebrations start at 9 a.m. on Shrove Saturday with a parade of the “Grosse police” (fat police), but the Cwarmê reaches the main event at 2 p.m. on Shrove Sunday with all of the characters parading and dancing through the streets. The parade will start from Malmedy’s “Place de Rome.” The Huguètes, which are the principle characters of the Carnival, play a major role in the parade. They are then burned at 7 p.m. on Tuesday at the “Place Abert 1er,” marking the end of the Carnival.

Don’t worry if you don’t understand everything said during the Cwarmê as people will speak in a local Walloon dialect. It won’t prevent you from enjoying the festival! For more information, visit www.malmedy.be/fr/Tourisme/folklore-et-carnaval/le-carnaval/programme-2018.html.

Dinant

When: Feb. 15

Where: Esplanade du centre culturel, Rue Grande 37 5500, Dinant

The Carnival of Dinant is not as ancient as the others, its 12th edition will be held this year on Feb. 15. The “Guinguet,” the “Cafonnette” and the “Cheval Bayard,” the famous giants of Dinant, will start their parade at 2 p.m. at the Cultural Center of Dinant. The funniest part of the Carnival is that you can disguise yourself and take part in the wheel barrow decorating contest! For more information, call +32(0)82-710124.

Stavelot

When: Mar. 10 to 12

Where: Different streets in Stavelot

The 516th edition of the Carnival of Stavelot, also known as “The Laetare of Stavelot,” will be held Mar. 10 to 12. This famous Carnival includes fireworks, confetti, light shows and other fun festivities! The most important day is Sunday. A huge parade involving more than 2,000 local participants and beautiful floats takes place at 2 p.m. and one of the biggest fireworks shows in the region is held at 9 p.m. The “Blanc moussis” are the traditional icons of the Carnival. They wear a white dress and don carrot-nosed masks, parodying 15th century monks who were forbidden from the Carnival. For more information, visit www.laetare-stavelot.be.

Tournai

When: Mar. 9 to 11

Where: On different streets in Tournai (Place Crombez, Place de Lille, Rue de la Madeleine, Avenue des États-Unis)

What makes the Carnival of Tournai special is that it has a different theme each year. This year’s theme will be “Drôle de biète” (weird creatures). The festival starts on Friday night with the Nuit des Intrigues, a light and sound show, but the Carnival itself starts on Saturday, with all the different “brotherhoods” wearing magnificent costumes and parading through the streets of the city.

Children will enjoy the launch of balloons at 5 p.m. on Saturday and the throwing of Pichous, traditional biscuits, from the Belfry at 6 p.m. After the biscuits are thrown, the ‘Carnival King’ is burned, while children dance around a bonfire to the sound of drums. A masquerade is then held at the Halle aux Draps at 10 p.m. on Saturday. For more information, call +32(0)69-766526 or email asbl@carnavaldetournai.be.

Andenne

When: Mar. 11

Where: Different streets in Andenne

The Carnival of Andenne, also called The Carnival of Bears, was created in 1954 and celebrates the legend on a young boy who was rumored to have killed a bear that was terrorizing the city with his bare hands. During this event, more than 500 “bears,” which have become the mascots of the town, parade through the streets of Andenne led by the giant bears Fonzi, Martin II and Martel. The parade starts at 2 p.m. and tons of confetti and sweets are thrown into the air.

The parade ends at the end of the afternoon at the “Place des Tilleuls,” where the recently elected Carnival King and Queen throw hundreds of tiny toy bears from the balcony of the town hall. The Carnival of Andenne is a great event, especially for those with young children. For more information, email elce1954@hotmail.com. ♦

Highway Construction and Road Closures

You may experience some delays while driving in Belgium this season. Road construction projects are occurring throughout the country and may result in temporary lane closures and road congestion. We will provide regular updates to ensure that the community is informed and prepared.

Outside the Gate

Antoing-Tournai Vaulx (E42): Road construction began Feb. 6 on E42 in Antoing-Tournai Vaulx, in the direction of Mons. Work is scheduled to be completed by Feb. 14.

Mons/The Ring (A7): Until Friday, there will be road construction in direction of Brussels near the Grand Prés. If you drive to Brussels via the R5, you will have to take the deviation, or detour, until the Imagix roundabout. From 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., there is expected to be road congestion in that area.

Brussels: Be patient if you are driving on Boulevard de la Woluwe (R22). Traffic is reduced to one lane, and there is road congestion. Road construction is behind schedule. The expected completion date is yet to be determined.

Brussels: Renovation of the Reyers tunnels is in progress in the center of Brussels. Work is scheduled to be completed by the end of the year. Since Jan. 27, the Reyers-Meiser tunnel is closed in the direction of Meiser for three months.

Tubize-Engghien (A8): Pay attention if you are driving from Brussels. There is still road congestion on E429 (A8) between Tubize and Engghien in the direction of Tournai. The speed of traffic is reduced to 70 km/h.

Tournai-Mons (E42): Work on the bridge started Nov. 13 in Bernissart and is expected to last two years. Traffic is reduced to one lane in the direction of Mons.

Andenne/Daussoux (E42/A15): The three-way yard project between Andenne and Daussoux has been underway since August. This project involves 15 km in both directions. Two lanes of traffic will be maintained. Work is scheduled to be completed by August 2018.

Please be cautious and patient while driving at all times. If you have questions or would like to report other highway construction sites and road closures, please email the U.S. Army Garrison Benelux Public Affairs Office at usarmy.benelux.id-europe.list.pao@mail.mil.
