AH-64E achieves Army depot milestone

The team at Corpus Christi Army Depot achieved an organizational milestone when it repaired its first AH-64 E-Model Apache crash battle damage aircraft.

The aircraft was inducted at CCAD on March 17, 2014 as the first AH-64E pilot program aircraft.

The Apache was deemed fully mission capable on Feb. 28.

The Apache was involved in a rollover accident with engines operating at 100% at the National Training Center in Fort Irwin, California. The aircraft sustained damage to the right side of the fuselage and extensive damage to the airframe when the main rotor struck the ground.

With this new capability, CCAD strengthens the Army with renewed force as each attack helicopter returns for the next mission.

GE Kitting

Time is the most critical factor in executing the mission at the Corpus Christi Army Depot. A product is not complete until it is on its way back to the Soldier on the other end waiting for it.

Air Show wrap-up (April 1-2) with CCRTA bus wrap

Corpus Christi Army Depot representatives were on-location with other local military leaders as they joined city officials and the Corpus Christi Regional Transportation Authority for the unveiling of a new bus wrap, a customized graphic, commemorating the longstanding partnership between Naval Air Station Corpus Christi, CCAD and the Corpus Christi area community.

The panoramic graphic adorns one of the RTA busses used to carry passengers throughout the community.

The image features the US Army with Soldiers standing in formation and an Apache helicopter, representing CCAD, soaring overhead. The US Navy's and Marine Corps' history is illuminated with a glimpse at the evolution of flight training via the flight simulator technology used at NASCC. And then there's the Navy's precision flying team, the Blue Angels, whose presence is the highlight of the annual Wings Over South Texas Air Show, held on the base, April 1-2.

Capt. Steve Banta, Commanding Officer of the Naval Air Station, remarked on the outstanding community support that he has seen throughout South Texas as being unlike any other.

The rolling 76 year history of local aviation, crafted by the Iconic Sign Group, will be seen on area streets for an undetermined period of time.
