SAFETY CORNER

PUBLIC HEALTH MOSQUITO SURVEILLANCE PROGRAM

by A1C Asia Brooks
82nd AMDS Public Health Flight

Each year when the weather heats up, the Public Health Flight sets mosquito traps in different areas around the base. Female mosquitos require a blood meal to reproduce and are carriers of several types of illnesses. Therefore, Public Health performs surveillance activities to help identify possible vector borne diseases in the local area and determine what parts of the base with high mosquito activity can be targeted for mosquito controls including spraying and larva dunks.

Gravid Trap

CDC Light Trap

BG Sentinel Trap

Each mosquito trap's location is chosen based on a variety of factors including the population at risk and specific areas that attract mosquitos. Mosquito traps are harmless to humans and pets. Do NOT touch it! The placement and set up of the traps are very crucial. The photos above show examples of our traps which may be seen hanging from a tree or in a bucket on the ground. Mosquitos are attracted to the carbon dioxide (CO2) that humans and animals exhale. Therefore, Public Health uses dry ice (which releases CO2) as an attractant for the mosquitos which may appear to be "smoke" released from the traps.

Once the mosquitoes are caught, they are brought back to the Public Health office to be sorted then packed for shipping to the Medical Entomology Lab located at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio. These mosquitos are tested for diseases such as West Nile, St. Louis Encephalitis and Western Equine Encephalitis. If there are any positive findings, Public Health will notify the local Wichita Falls-Wichita County Public Health District and relay the information to the proper authorities on base.

If you have any questions or concerns please call the Public Health Flight at (940) 676-1874/3052.
