Fort Riley hosts Virtual Fall Apple Day Festival 2020

This year the team at Fort Riley got creative with hosting the Fall Apple Day Festival—they went virtual on Facebook. The good thing about having a Virtual Fall Apple day—it can still be experienced at any time by visiting <https://www.facebook.com/FortRileyFallAppleDay>

Keeping the spirit of the old west alive in the Heartland

The Commanding General's Mounted Color Guard is a unique unit on Fort Riley that is keeping the spirit of the old west alive in the Heartland. They perform at ceremonies and events locally, around the state and nationwide. There is much more they do than perform — look behind the scenes and find out what they do on a daily basis.

Three Fort Riley military spouses awarded scholarships

Maribel Paulino Martinez, Shauna-Leigh Morales and Tyeisha Robinson-Smith, each spouses of active-duty service members at Fort Riley are three of the 20 recipients of the Corvias Foundation's military spouse scholarship. They will each receive a one-time $5,000 award for their higher education degree.

Fort Riley's Podcast

This week for the Fort Riley Podcast Col. Edgar Arroyo, Irwin Army Community Hospital commander and CSM Michael Dills gives insight into a new system.
