Small Craft warriors raid foreign shore

Sgt Arthur Stone
Marine Combat Correspondent

ZARGATE NAVAL BASE, Argentina – Civilian media from the Buenos Aires province of Argentina joined Argentinean military personnel recently to witness a capabilities exercise conducted by the Marines of Small Craft Company, Headquarters Battalion, 2d Marine Division, and Argentinean Marines and commandos here.

Attendees witnessed the joint warfare capabilities of an amphibious raid as Argentinean Marines posing as a terrorist group seized two civilian hostages and secured them at a military encampment.

Minutes later, a group of Argentinean commandos slipped ashore by Zodiac and conducted a reconnaissance of the area.

The Argentinean media rushed to photograph the departing commandos as the sound of diesel engines roared down the Piranha River. A formation of two U.S. Marine Riverine Assault Craft (RACs) and two Argentinean gunboats then raced into position and slammed to a dead stop.

Gunners on the four boats began delivering bursts of small arms fire into the terrorist encampment as two U.S. Marine raider transport boats vaulted the wake of the RACs. They raced to the shoreline, bearing a contingent of infantry from 3d Battalion, 2d Marine Regiment, and the Argentinean 3d Marine Infantry Battalion.

The U.S. Marines vaulted the gunwales of the raider and hit the beach running. They dropped to the ground to lay down cover fire as the Argentinean Marines raced around the U.S. left flank and rushed to seize and secure the hostages held in a small shelter on the shore. Seconds later, the Argentinean Marines were scrambling back into their raider with the freed hostages.

This action cued the RACs and other boat crews. Their gunners again provided suppressing fire as the raider sped from shore. An Argentinean helicopter "gunship" then delivered three "rockets" into the terrorist camp. Three, small explosions nearby simulated this action.

The chopper then circled high and dropped three Argentinean Navy Seals for a free fall parachute jump in scuba gear. They landed on target ending the capabilities exercise.

"The combined force capabilities demonstration provided the Argentinean Marine Corps the opportunity it needed to show its own military capability to its nation, and its ability to inter-operate smoothly with the militaries of other countries," said Los Alamos, N.M., native, Maj John R. Shafer, commanding officer, Small Craft Company.

Clear! Engineers, EOD begin mine-clearing project at Freedom Creek

Sgt Bobbie J. Bryant
Marine Combat Correspondent

Explosive Ordnance Disposal and combat engineer personnel with Marine Wing Support Squadron-272, Marine Wing Support Group 27 are currently clearing the Freedom Creek minefield here.

For 30 plus years Freedom Creek has been the burial grounds for various land mines.

In December 1967, the Marine Corps Engineer School completed a 30-month land mine life and serviceability project. The project's purpose was to determine serviceability of various land mines after lengthy burial times.

Twelve hundred mines of all types were buried and removed at three, six, 12, 18, 24 and 30-month intervals, according to CWO-2 Mel L. Soult, EOD and project officer from Chicago.

"The mines were tested to see if they would function after a certain period of time due to the saline environment. Basically, salt water was corroding all the land mines in the U.S. prior to Vietnam," he said.

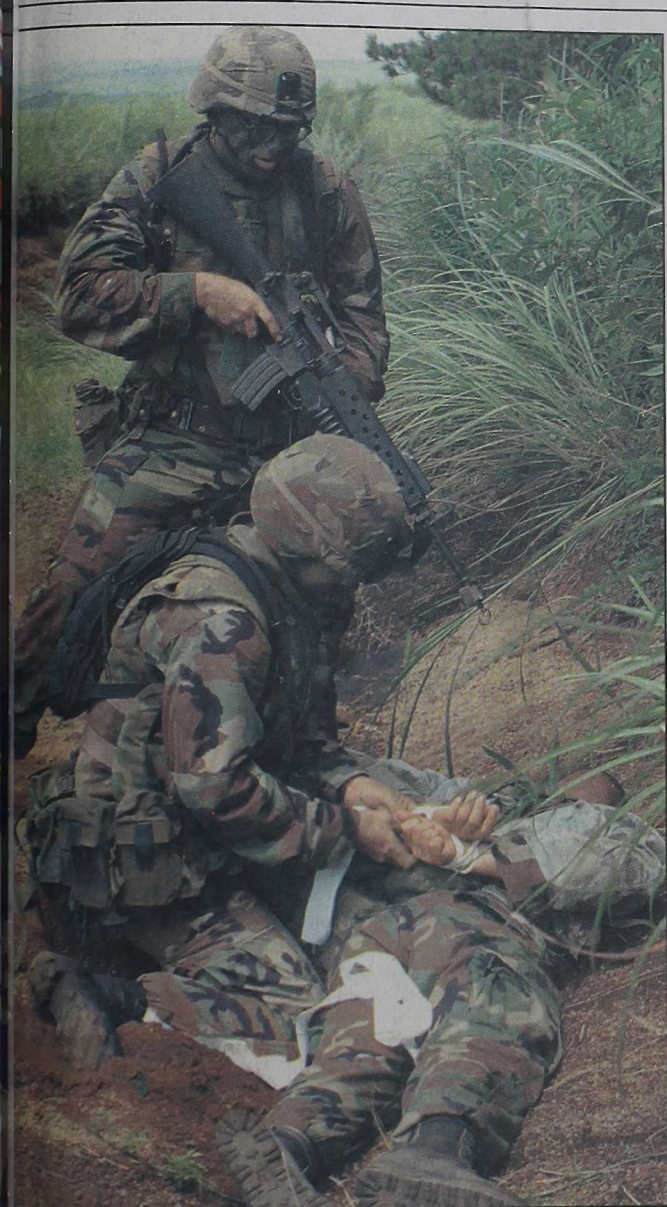

The test conducted during the project determined how long a mine could be kept in working order underground and since then, better metals have been designed to prevent corrosion.

According to Soult, the minefield was found to be an enormous public safety hazard, consisting of approximately 17 acres of land laid out in an "L" shaped pattern. Approximately 75 percent of the site is not

Ordnance sends steel down range

TYNINE PALMS, Calif. – One having air assets included in the scheme is to put rounds and missiles on selected targets. Without the Marines, the air combat element would be absolutely useless.

Marines from the ordnance section Light Attack Squadron-269 are part to provide ordnance support combined Arms Exercise for the Super Cobra and the UH-1N

Basically provide all of the ordnance the squadron needs and we load it out before the flight missions make sure they have everything for the designated mission," said Mark D. Severance, aviation ordnance technician, HMLA-269.

Handle all ordnance that goes on the TOW missiles (Tube-launched, sighted, Wire-guided missiles), missiles, 2.75 inch and 5 inch rockets with high-explosive and white phosphorus projectiles. We also handle a multitude of crew-served weapons firing ammunitions such as .50 caliber and 7.62 rounds, as well as the Cobra's 20-mm cannon."

Besides the never-ending job of keeping the aircraft well stocked with ordnance, the Marines also have a few "behind the scenes" responsibilities.

"We do way more than just load ordnance," said Severance. "We do control checks on all of the weapons systems to make sure everything is working properly. Systems are checked every day, as well as 24 hours prior to a flight mission."

There are differences in the training the ordnance Marines are receiving here at CAX compared to the training received at Marine Corps Air Station New River.

"Back home we shoot more inert ordnance," said LCpl John R. Kytte, ordnance technician, HMLA-269. "Out here at Twentynine Palms, we can shoot more live ordnance to include high-explosive rounds."

"This enables us to utilize all of the training we have had in the past," said LCpl Ty C. Cargill, ordnance technician, HMLA-269.

'Quiet man' embodied term 'Semper Fidelis'

September 15 at 3 p.m. the busy, bustling thoroughfare aboard Camp Lejeune known as Main Service Road will officially be named in honor of "the quiet man."

In a ceremony outside the Camp Lejeune Staff NCO Club, Main Service Road will become McHugh Boulevard in honor of the third Sergeant Major of the Marine Corps, the late SgtMaj Thomas J. McHugh.

The date was selected to coincide with the 50th anniversary of the Inchon landing during a "police action" sometimes known as "the forgotten war."

For McHugh, the Korean War was sandwiched between World War II and the Vietnam "conflict."

He saw action in all three.

Born in 1919 of Scottish and Irish parents, the New York born, Philadelphia raised, Jacksonville, N.C., resident was a member of Charlie Co, 1st Bn, 1st Marines during the Guadalcanal campaign, the first Pacific offensive of World War II.

He later fought at Cape Gloucester and Peleliu.

August 3, 1950, when the North Korean People's Army (NKPA) was about to push "the good guys" into the sea at Pusan, McHugh arrived as a member of How (Hotel) Co, 3rd Bn, 5th Marines - the strike force of the 1st Provisional Marine Brigade.

Dubbed the "Fire Brigade" for the numerous times it was moved and inserted to stem enemy attacks and reclaim lost ground and called "the yellow legs" by the NKPA because of leggings Marines wore at the time, McHugh was almost continually engaged in combat for six weeks in sweltering temperatures.

When the brigade was absorbed by the 1st Marine Division, McHugh made the Inchon landing. Then, from sweltering heat, fire and ice, he would endure the sub-zero temperatures of the Chosin Reservoir campaign.

He became Sergeant Major of the Marine Corps in June 1962, serving until 1965.

Usually, like the Commandant, that is an end of a career assignment, but McHugh was an unusual Marine.

He continued to serve and was transferred to Vietnam in 1969.

The "quiet man" served his country and the Corps from Oct. 3, 1938 until Dec. 1, 1970.

He died Feb. 21 this year.

Why the "quiet man?" Neither loud nor boisterous, seldom profane, McHugh could do more with a glance and his eyes than most men.

As the saying goes, he could tell you with his eyes to go to hell and make you enjoy the trip.

McHugh had a pet peeve.

He disliked the term "Semper Fi." He preferred Semper Fidelis - Always Faithful, unless, of course, you really meant "Semper Fi."

"You know what 'Semper Fi' means?" he once said. "I got mine, Mac, screw you."

And that's the printable version. McHugh believed in tradition and some things shouldn't change.

September 15 at 3 p.m., all are invited - active duty, retirees and civilians - when McHugh Boulevard becomes official.

Yeah, Tom, we remember. Semper Fidelis.

SgtMaj Murphy did freelance photo-journalism for 16 years. He retired from the Marine Corps in 1973, and was a personal friend of SgtMaj McHugh.

Being corporal is challenging, f

Probably the single most important rank that any enlisted Marine will attain during his or her career in the Corps is the rank of corporal. It is a significant change in your status as a Marine that should never be treated lightly. From the moment you add that extra chevron and put that "blood stripe" on your trousers, you become responsible not only for your own life and well being, but for the lives of other Marines as well. You should never use the phrase "I'm only a corporal" when you face a leadership challenge, because you are armed and supported in the execution of your duties by everyone from your platoon sergeant or noncommissioned officer-in-charge to the Commandant of the Marine Corps. It is this most important rank of corporal that I would like to talk to you about this week.

In 1778, a Prussian by the name of Baron von Steuben was helping our fledgling nation form a professional Continental Army when he wrote the following into his "Regulations for order and discipline of the troops of the United States of America."

They were his thoughts on non-commissioned officers.

"The choice of the noncommissioned officers is an object of the greatest importance: the order and discipline of a regiment depends so much on their behavior, that too much care cannot be taken. ... Honesty, sobriety and a remarkable attention to every point of duty, with a neatness in their dress are indispensable requisites; a spirit to command respect and obedience from the men, an expertness in performing part of the exercise, and a teach it, are absolutely necessary."

I believe you can sum up what that "old" Baron said in this acter, attention to duty, loyalty, presence, professional skill and ty to instruct. What he looked for in commissioned officers is relevant as they are now in the

In my opinion, being a corporal is certainly the most important there is, also is probably the most difficult grade to hold in the Marine Corps. Why? Well for the most part, a corporal is in a state of transition. When you become a corporal, you could be a corporal for a long time, or you could be a corporal for a short time. Those very same privates that you see in the ranks are also privates - and going on

L.I.N.K.S. gives spouses peace of mind

"Life isn't always a bowl of cherries, sometimes it's the pits," states mentor Jean Persely. "At L.I.N.K.S. we teach spouses how to hope for the best, but plan for the worst." L.I.N.K.S. (Lifestyle, Insights, Networking, Knowledge, and Skills) is a Marine Corps family team-building (MCFTB) program, which gives military spouses a basic understanding of their unique lifestyle.

L.I.N.K.S. provides the information in a spouse to spouse seminar, designed to be casual yet informative, factual yet fun. The "mentors," (trained spouses who lead the discussion), explain the ins and outs of being married to a Marine and what benefits and opportunities this way of life provides.

The classes normally take place over three mornings and include discussions about benefits, deployments, separations, moving, finances, community, and the traditions and culture of the Marine Corps. Each L.I.N.K.S. seminar ends with a graduation ceremony where a "Very Important Presenter" speaks and gives the participants their own I.D. tag and a L.I.N.K.S. tote bag.

Early in February L.I.N.K.S. moved into newly renovated spaces in the Midway Park Chapel. The new spaces include a large office, reception area, kitchen, and large classroom. L.I.N.K.S. also has first-rate childcare spaces and a brand new playground. The new space and equipment that came with it has rejuvenated our volunteer team.

Another important aspect to the growing success of L.I.N.K.S. is the support received from MCFTB Camp Lejeune and New River and the terrific advisory board. The support does not stop there; all of the generals and many of the sergeants major on base have been supportive of the program and have volunteered to speak at our graduations.

The number one key to our success, however, has been our volunteers. They put in long, selfless hours to help other spouses. Their hard work is definitely paying off. During the 1998/1999 year, L.I.N.K.S. Camp Lejeune/New River graduated 224 participants. In the 1999/2000 year we nearly doubled our graduates at 393.

In fact, of the 16 bases with the L.I.N.K.S. program, Camp Lejeune/New River had the most graduates.

The L.I.N.K.S. class is for every spouse in every house. If you are new to this lifestyle or are ready to come to our next class. If you are a new spouse or an experienced spouse, we want you to attend. We have found that our most successful classes are those with some "seasoned" spouses and their insights.

We can arrange special sessions for spouses who are new to the area. We offer evening sessions quarterly and welcome as many as need warrants. We have FREE childcare.

L.I.N.K.S. Camp Lejeune/New River is a growing program for spouses. We are proud to be the title of "Best in the Corps" and look forward to the year ahead.

It's what comes out of your mouth that counts

"As a man thinks in his heart, so is he. We will not see how the heart controls the mouth." We are going to start in Matthew 12:34-37. Now we are looking into our teacher, Jesus, because we are reading the words of Jesus as he was teaching this to the Pharisees. We will see what Jesus thought about the words of your mouth.

Matthew 12:34 says, "Oh generation of vipers, how can you, being evil, speak good things?" They were trying to put forth a false front, you see. Jesus said, "Wait a minute, you cannot speak good things, for out of the abundance of the heart, the mouth speaks."

Is Jesus speaking to us? He says, do not try to cover up. What is in your heart is going to come out of your mouth. You might cover it up for a while, but just as soon as you get aggravated or you get the opportunity, it is coming out of your mouth, from your heart.

It is said that when a man gets drunk, he starts to tell on himself because he starts acting like he really is. He lets go. Jesus says that your mouth is telling what is in your heart.

He says that a good man, out of the good treasure of his heart, bringeth forth good things. It is kind of a chain reaction.

He says that the evil man, out of the evil treasures of his heart, bringeth forth evil things: "but I say unto you that every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account of in the day of judgment."

"For by your words you will be justified, and by your words you will be condemned." Now, if you want to see how true this is, just get arrested. The arresting officer has to state your rights to you. What are your rights? The right to remain silent. Why? If you do not remain silent, whatever you say can be held against you. You can hang yourself by talking. The officer has to tell you to keep your mouth shut. If you do say anything, he is going to use it against you. This is a warning.

In the spiritual world, the accuser, the "slick lawyer" that is trying to hang you with your words will use your words to accuse you and I to God the Father. He is the accuser of the godly. This word for accuser is KATE-GOREO - to accuse in judicial procedure. The usual word for the evil one is diabolus, to slander.

We cannot afford to give the accuser any words to use against us. We have to give our lawyer, Jesus, good FAITH-filled words to use in our plea before the Father.

Now, of course, we know that the religious people, before they would eat anything, would be careful to wash their hands, cups and dishes to kill all the germs, because they did not want to defile the body.

But Jesus came with a new ruling here. He said, "It is not going to hurt you to eat something with germs on it, because your body is equipped to get rid of that, and there is no problem." Of course, even the disciples could not understand it. They said, "Wait a minute, Master, before you get away, why don't you explain this to us?"

Jesus said, "Don't you understand that whatsoever entereth in at the mouth goeth into the belly and is cast out into the draught, but those things which proceed out of the mouth, come forth from the heart, and they defile a man."

Chaplain's Call
MARSHALL

It is your words that are producing. For heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, thefts, false witnesses, blasphemies, the things that defile a man. But to earth hands defileth not a man, it is only physical things that defile a man.

Jesus is presenting a simple teaching: words will tell what you are and either justify you. Your words are an extension of you. The real you is your spirit. Your words are an extension of you. When you put them out, they are a part of you and you are responsible. Nobody else is responsible except you.

Jesus is talking about the heart - not only you may say, "I said that, but I did not mean it, I am sorry, I did not mean to hurt your feelings, not true. You said it because that is what your heart. That is what you felt in your being. That is why you said it and later on you excuse yourself. That is no excuse. You may gize for gossiping, but that does not do it. The real you is your spirit. Your words are an extension of you. When you put them out, they are a part of you and you are responsible. Nobody else is responsible except you.

Proverbs 16:23 has something to say about the heart of the wise teacheth his mouth, learning to his lips." You see, your heart is your spirit. If your heart is wise. How does your heart learn? From the Word of God. You put God into you, then the heart of the wise is understanding to your mouth and learning to your lips.

Can't spare time from work to have that knee scoped?
Does your child need their tonsils taken out without missing school?
Would it help to have surgery on Saturday?

Drawing from Reserve Unit Detachments as far away as St. Louis and Chattanooga, Tenn., motivated corpsmen, nurses and providers may have found their niche successfully assisting the Naval Hospital surgical staff in reducing patient backlog.

Recently developed, the Weekend Same-Day Surgery Clinic at Naval Hospital, Camp Lejeune is opening its doors for non-traditional surgical schedules.

With the help of the Naval Reserve Headquarters Detachment, the hospital surgeons now have a complementary surgical support staff that can be utilized to complete additional surgical cases on the weekends.

The approach is both economical and practical, given that the hospital facility is available and the reservists are eager to utilize it.

Not only will the Weekend Same Day Surgery Clinic reduce the patient backlog, but it will also serve the reservist in honing their operating room skills.

If having surgery on the weekend is better for your schedule, please discuss it with your surgeon at your next appointment.

In addition to supporting the weekend surgery clinic, the reservists also support the Mobile Educational Clinical Unit (MECU) during non-traditional hours. Any unit attached to Marine Corps Base Camp Lejeune may request support from the MECU.

The MECU can be utilized for a wide variety of preventive screenings such as blood pressure checks, cholesterol screenings, skin cancer screenings, school sports physicals and much, much more.

Any unit interested in scheduling the MECU may do so by contacting the Health Promotions Department at 451-3712.

Marines provide for Georgian food bank

Cpl Brandon L. Rizzo
Marine Corps Correspondent

DOBBINS AIR RESERVE BASE, Ga. — Marines and Sailors of the 22d Marine Expeditionary Unit (MEU) gave back to the community during Training in Urban Environment Exercise (TRUEX) in Atlanta, recently.

As part of an outreach effort in return for the tremendous support of the community, volunteers from the MEU provided greatly needed manpower to the Kids 'N Need store of the Atlanta Community Food Bank and the Big Trees Forest Preserve.

Upon arrival at the Kids 'N Need store Aug. 23, the MEU's volunteers were greeted by the sight of a large warehouse "filled to the brim" with pallets and boxes of school supplies. Meanwhile, trailer trucks waited for the space to be cleared so they could also be unloaded.

Among the 102,000 pounds of donated school products, lay the answers to low-income schools' problems. Schools that couldn't provide enough pencils for their students could soon obtain notebooks, crayons, dictionaries and more at no cost to them — once the Marines and Sailors unpacked and stocked them.

"It was like the Lord had sent them," said Judy Stamps, Kids 'N Need program director, referring to the MEU volunteers. According to Stamps, the program's volunteers are mostly elderly citizens who are not able to move and stock such heavy loads of supplies. As the only employee of the program, Stamps says that volunteers are the key to making it work.

"I'm very happy to have had this opportunity to help these kids," said Sgt Tony Lamson. "We were very poor growing up, and I really understand what some of these families are going through. Being able to help means a lot to me and my Marines."

Once the scheduled volunteer effort was completed, the Marines and Sailors decided to stay at the warehouse and continue the effort throughout the rest of the day.

"The citizens of Atlanta have been very good to us in letting us train here," said Cpl Mark Clement. "I'm just happy to help Mr. Stamps make some positive contributions in the lives of these children, and show that Marines really do care about their communities."

This would not be the conclusion of the MEU's community efforts, however.

Physical labor continued when the Marines and Sailors arrived at the Big Trees Forest Preserve, Aug. 24 to aid in environmental preservation.

The volunteers spent the day mowing logs throughout the forest to areas where they would help prevent soil erosion.

The mission of the Big Trees

Forest Preserve is "to preserve and protect this urban forest while linking community learning, health and well-being to the natural environment."

This forest preserve began in 1990. Spanning over 30 acres, it is one of the last urban forests in the highly-developed areas of Sandy Springs in northern Atlanta.

Charlie Cochran, the program director at Big Trees Forest Preserve took full advantage of the Marines' and Sailors' presence. Just like the Kids 'N Need program, most of the volunteers at Big Trees are not able to move heavy objects, so Cochran decided to have the logs moved while he had the opportunity.

"We felt very good volunteering here today," said Petty Officer 2nd Class Wayne Smith. "Mr. Cochran has created a beautiful place here, and we're very happy to have had an opportunity to contribute."

For more information on these volunteer programs, call Kids 'N Need at the Atlanta Community Food Bank, (404) 892-9822 or Big Trees Forest Preserve, (770) 643-1803.

Marines, civilians team up against terrorism

LCpl Allan J. Grdovich
Marine Combat Correspondent

Twelve thousand people were taken hostage, and 900 Sand Jam partygoers at Onslow Beach were killed, when terrorists seeking the release of their political leader set off a bomb.

Fortunately, this was only a fictional portrayal of what may one day become a real-life situation.

The Military Civilian Task Force for Emergency Response (MCTFER) gathered here Aug. 24 to discuss ways to prevent such a terrorist attack, integrate military and civilian police assets and learn to work together in severe situations such as a hostage crisis.

The scenario depicted a radical political group that held approximately 12,000 concertgoers hostage at Onslow Beach after disabling the only bridge leading to the beach.

Once the bridge was disabled, the terrorists then hijacked explosive cargo loaded aboard a barge heading through the Intracoastal Waterway.

The political group detonated the explosives before government help arrived, said Col Mark T. Goodman, assistant chief of staff, Installation Security and Safety (ISS) on Camp Lejeune.

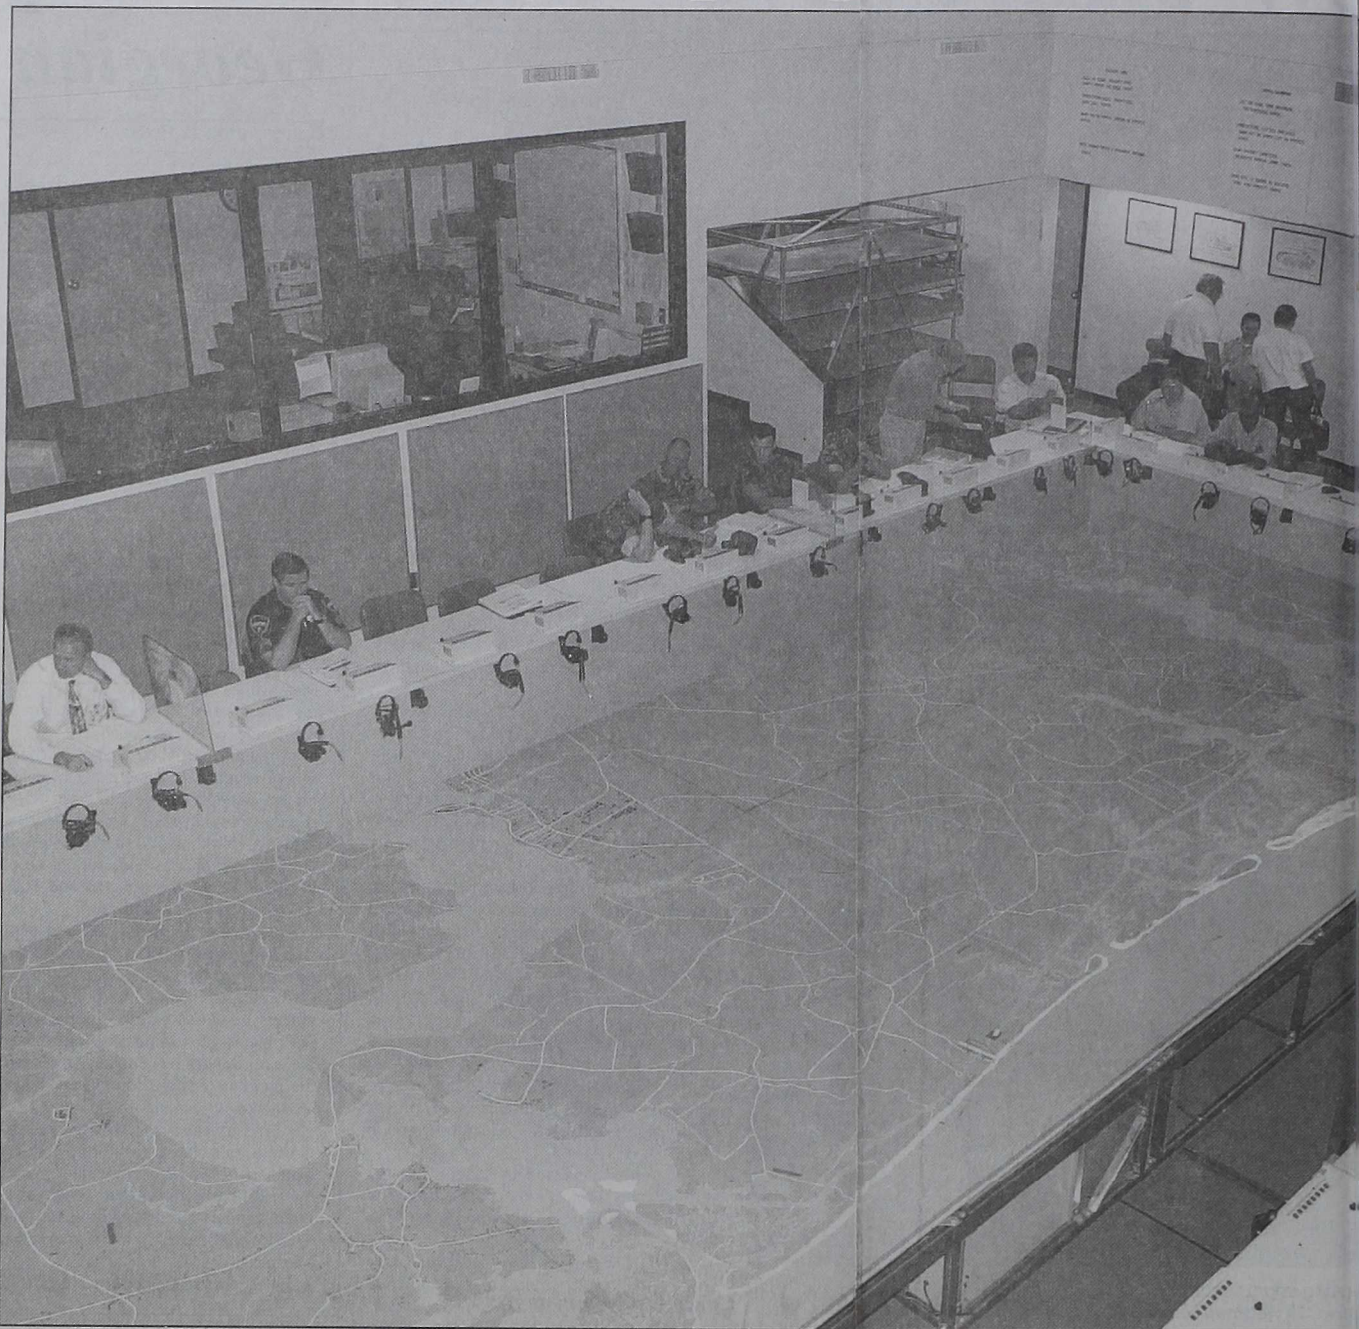

The facility used to unfold the event was the Combined Arms Staff Trainer (CAST). Here MCTFER representatives from city, county, state and federal emergency management firms sat around a large map of Onslow Beach and discussed some strategies of working together.

"There is no current terrorist threat at Camp Lejeune, but you cannot rule one out. The purpose of these meetings is to learn to integrate our strategies; you don't want to get to know each other when bad things happen," said Goodman.

An example of such an instance was the World Trade Center and Oklahoma City bombings, pointed out Chuck Dolejs, a representative from Regional Options International, Inc.

"Nobody knows exactly when a sour situation is going to occur. Seeing everyone here helps, because we all know what everyone does now, and we know what each of us can provide for one another," said Dolejs.

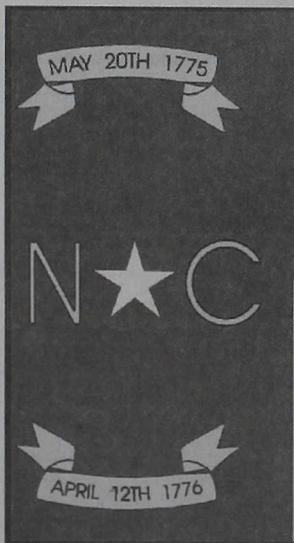

The task force meeting concluded with future plans to gather and talk about tactics later in the year, as well as plans for a live exercise involving role players in the spring of 2001, said Goodman.

Members of the Military Civilian Task Force for Emergency Response gather to discuss ways of combining assets in the unlikely event of a terrorist attack.

Recon dive instructor saves life

Sgt Andrew D. Pomykal
Marine Combat Correspondent

A 2d Reconnaissance Battalion dive instructor here, recently helped save the life of another Marine who was preparing to attend the Marine Combatant Dive Course in Panama City, Fla.

SSgt Ronald D. Giger of Lyons, Neb., provided rescue breathing to revive Cpl James R. Mayer III after the Marine became the victim of 'shallow-water black-out.'

"I gave him two rescue breaths and checked his pulse," Giger explained. "He (regained consciousness) 20 seconds later."

Giger said Mayer caused himself to hyperventilate while treading water, which caused oxygen levels in his brain to become too low. That is when Mayer lost consciousness.

Following Giger's life-saving efforts, emergency medical technicians were notified, and Mayer was transported to the Camp Lejeune Naval Hospital for further evaluation.

Giger said Mayer was later released and continued training the next day.

AIRBORNE! -- With his country's flag flying from his ankle, an Argentinean Navy Seal parachutes into the boat basin in front of spectators at Zarate Naval Base, Argentina during a capabilities exercise put on by the Argentinean military and the Marines of Small Craft Company. ## MINES from 1A enclosed due to the extreme weather conditions here, he said, and it was possible, before this clearance began to walk through the minefield without ever knowing it existed.

MWSS-272 is conducting the clearance to verify that all land mines are out of the Freeman Creek minefield. The clearance operation will return the minefield to its natural state, free of hazardous land mines, without causing any significant environmental damage.

"Once the mine field is actually cleared, we'll clear 38 sectors, here, twice; a third, neutral, party will come through and do a random sector verification."

Upon completion of the operation, the MWSS-272 commanding officer will submit a letter to the Marine Corps Base commanding general, detailing the clearance operation and the steps taken to clear the area of hazardous ordnance. At that point, the minefield will be deemed as cleared.

In addition to eliminating a public safety hazard, the minefield clearance provides MWSS-272 Marines with a considerable training opportunity. Approximately 35 combat engineers and EOD technicians will be carrying out duties they are trained to perform. Being the last active minefield in the continental United States, Freeman Creek offers a training environment that could only be matched by the minefields at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, while they existed, according to Soult.

"This is good training, said LCpl Todd A. Downing, a combat engineer who hails from Westchester, Pa., "It prepares us for a real world conflict. Sometimes you get nervous out here but most of the time it's alright."

"Most of us work in construction and don't really get a chance to train like this," added PFC Tommy V. Rodriguez of Santa Domingo, Dominican Republic.

CORPORAL from 2A

option. Those very same Marines you are now in charge of were your peers, and now they are your subordinates. At times, that can make things uncomfortable -- to say the least.

But the orders must still be given and the job must still be done. You start to understand the phrase, "it's lonely at the top," because not every order you give will be popular and there will be those days when you just don't have time to explain why something needs to be done.

But you know what? Being a corporal of Marines is still the greatest job in the Corps. Why? Because you are in charge. You get to make some decisions. You get to organize the mission and, yes, you get to supervise it too.

Will you make mistakes? You bet you will, but you will learn from those mistakes and hopefully not repeat them. You will be challenged to learn your stock and trade, and if ever you have to use those skills in combat, you will be able to accomplish your mission and bring as many of your Marines back alive as humanly possible. Because that's really what it is all about, isn't it? Success on the battlefield.

Marines, enjoy the time you are a corporal and don't be in too great of a hurry to become a sergeant.

Learn the basics of leadership and responsibility and you'll find the next rank that much more enjoyable when you attain it because you will have a solid foundation on which to build.

Remember all the greatest generals in the world can come up with the greatest plans in war time, but if the corporals don't execute them, they ain't worth the paper they are written on. Learn your job and learn it well. Take care of your Marines. Be a professional. You have my respect and my support. Only you can lose either of them. Semper Paratus.

SgtMaj Holub is the Marine Forces Pacific sergeant major.

Dragon 'challenges' Marines during DOD-wide experiment

Compiled by Millennium Dragon Public Affairs

Mississippi's Gulf Coast is currently hosting Millennium Dragon, the Marine Corps' latest experimental effort.

Millennium Dragon is a Marine experiment involving about 400 Marines from II Marine Expeditionary Force, Marine Forces Atlantic and Marine Forces Reserve.

Being conducted by the Special Purpose Marine Air Ground Task Force (Experimental) -- the Marine Corps Warfighting Laboratory's experimental unit -- the experiment is part of the larger Millennium Challenge joint experiment. Millennium Challenge is sponsored by Joint Forces Command and involves four separate service experiments and three joint experiments taking place at various sites around the country.

Marines from North Carolina began arriving in Gulfport Sept. 5 and participated in several classes before being assigned to their respective experimental roles. The classes covered many issues, including how to deal with the sub-tropical Mississippi heat -- the average day features 95-degree temperatures and humidity levels almost as high.

Gulfport, the largest city on Mississippi's Gulf Coast, is the site of the Experimental Combat Operations Center (ECOC). Established at the Air National Guard Combat Readiness Training Center, the ECOC is operated by the SPMAGTF(X) staff and attached II MEF units. Marine operators will focus on horizon communications, command of maneuver forces and reconnaissance and target acquisition during the experiment.

The OTH communication wireless internet system provided Extending the Littoral Advanced Concept Demonstration (ELB ACTD) -- primary system. The ELB system WarNet, links Marines operating Shelby and Gulfport.

Scheduled to wrap up September, the experiment is the first of a series of experiments being conducted by U.S. Command. The experiment also building block for the next in Corps experiment, Keri Experimental (KBX), scheduled next year in California.

JOB WELL DONE -- Bob Swinford from the Forest Service gives Col Mark Callihan a memento for the headquarters. Third Bn, 2d Marines recently joined the forces in Idaho in the battle against fire.

'Paper or plastic' answer

DeCA's corporate objectives are to strengthen the benefit and at the same time reduce unit costs. We must reduce our unit costs seven percent by 2002 and 10 percent by 2007.

One of our efforts to reduce costs will be to no longer ask customers if they want plastic or paper bags.

Plastic will be used for all orders unless a customer specifically asks the bagger to use paper. Paper bags cost 3.7 cents versus 1.3 cents for plastic. A paper bag cost almost three times the amount of a plastic bag!

If a customer requests double bagging with paper, we will bag first in plastic and then in a single paper bag.

Now you are probably asking yourself what are you supposed to do with all these plastic bags?

There are a lot of uses for plastic bags around the house. Some of the uses I have found are: they are great in the small trash cans in the bathroom, I use them when I am cleaning out the litter box, I have used them as packing materials when I am shipping packages, I've put my shoes in them before I pack the shoes in my suitcase, I always take several with me on a trip for dirty clothes, etc.

There are so many uses for the plastic bags at home.

Paper bags will still be available for those who don't want the plastic. We encourage those who do use paper as a choice, to recycle them by bringing them into the store to be used for their next purchases.

In other news, your Camp Lejeune Commissary has been working with our vendors to provide daily sidewalk sales. We have been very successful for the past several months and have been able to offer you some excellent deals on the sidewalk.

There are a lot of good sales planned for the future months and the sidewalk is booked solid.

For instance, we are bringing in a truckload of Keebler Cookies to introduce to you the new Sesame Street line of cookies.

In addition, there will be a truckload of Del Monte products on the sidewalk for you to take advantage of as well as two truckloads of assorted Pillsbury products.

As always, we insist that the prices on the sidewalk be the very best deal the company can offer us.

Be sure and check out the sidewalk the next time you shop the commissary (In the event of rain, the sidewalk may be rolled up and the product moved inside).

To better serve our customers, the Camp Lejeune Commissary is seeking volunteers to serve on a Focus Group.

We intend to hold meeting Focus Groups will provide management with issues, recommendations and other forms of input to improve service to our patrons.

We are especially targeting military families and single soldiers we intend to have representative complete cross-section of our base.

Children dig deep at ground-breaking

Tarawa Terrace II Elementary School's Julian W. Alexander, a 5th-grade student from Quantico, Va., and Jordan A. Nickerson, a 4th-grade student from Denver, plunged gold shovels into the ground during the ground-breaking ceremony Aug. 24 at the new school's construction site here. Julian's mom is Petty Officer 1st Class Cynthia J. Alexander, assistant department head for health promotion, Naval Hospital Camp Lejeune, of Jacksonville, Fla. Jordan's father is Sgt Bruce M. Nickerson, also of Denver, and a test cell operator with Marine Aviation Logistics Squadron 26, New River Air Station.

A groundbreaking ceremony was held for Tarawa Terrace II Elementary School Aug. 24 at 10 a.m. across from the 77th Child Development Center on New River Blvd. here.

The ceremony gave officials, school staff, faculty, parents and students a chance to celebrate the beginning of construction to their new school.

"The children will have a more modern facility with better lighting and larger rooms," said Robert L. Van Nigh, Camp Lejeune school administration officer. "It will be a state-of-the-art school."

"A playground is being designed specifically for pre-K students," said the Denver native. "In addition to the new building, we have also requested funds for new equipment, furniture and playgrounds," he said.

The new school will be a six-story brick building measuring approximately 75,000 square feet and is being built to accommodate 500 students from pre-kindergarten through fifth grade.

Van Nigh, and father of Virginia Beach, Va., was the architectural firm that designed the school. It will replace the existing Tarawa Terrace II Elementary School.

The contract to build the school was awarded to Piv Construction, Inc., of Jacksonville, N.C., in the amount of $8,281,000.

The principal speaker at the ceremony was The Honorable Carolyn R. Henshaw, assistant secretary of the Navy for manpower and resource affairs.

For more information call Robert Van Nigh at 471-3400 x223.

NEWS WATCH

Following news briefs were released by or compiled at the Public Affairs Office, Camp Lejeune.

Way cleared: The Marine Corps MV-22 Osprey aircraft and Aug. 25 have been cleared to fly again. Two Ospreys were flying last weekend, and the rest are expected to be in the skies mid-September. According to the New York Times, the Ospreys were most recently grounded after one Osprey, precautionary landing at Camp Lejeune, and maintenance crews discovered a coupling on the aircraft's drive shaft was loose. The Osprey had been grounded previously for months after 19 Marines were killed in a crash in April.

Sentenced: A Marine stationed on Okinawa was sentenced Wednesday to one year in a military prison for an off-base home at night and getting in bed with a 14-year-old girl. LCpl Kenny Titcomb also received a bad-conduct discharge and reduction in rank to private, according to a Region Post report. Titcomb admitted in a military court he wandered into an unlocked home after a night of heavy drinking and got in bed with a 14-year-old girl he did not know. He admitted to kissing the girl on the mouth and neck. The police detained Titcomb after being summoned by the girl's mother.

Pilot killed: A Navy pilot was killed Wednesday when his training jet he was flying crashed at Vance Air Force Base. The pilot, whose name is being withheld pending identification of next of kin, was flying solo in the two-seat aircraft crashed into a wheat field one mile north of the runway during a training exercise. According to the Daily Oklahoman, the pilot was conducting touch and go landings and crashed during the landing part of the exercise. Details of the accident have not yet been released. The last T-37 crash at Vance Air Force Base was in January 1997, when a jet's landing gear collapsed. No injuries were reported in that crash.

Visits namesake: The amphibious assault ship USS Tarawa (LHA-5) participated in a tribute at the island battlefield for the vessel was named, Tarawa, along with Duluth and San Francisco, stopped off of Tarawa atoll and sent about 100 Marines and Sailors ashore to commemorate the November 1943 battle — one of the bloodiest in Marine history. According to the San Diego Union-Tribune, a wreath was laid at the site for the more than 1,000 Americans killed during the battle. Most of the servicemen who lost their lives at Tarawa are buried on the island. Reefs surrounding the atoll are named after the Marines and Sailors who made the visit by helicopter an option not available 57 years ago.

Expo to host expo: The 20th annual edition of the Day Marine Military Exposition is scheduled to be held at Marine Corps Base, Quantico, Va., Sept. 19-21. Sponsored by the Marine Corps League, the expo has become the world's largest display of weapons, equipment and systems employed in the Marine Corps. The event will feature the latest in land and sea technology, and will include photo and video displays of weapons and equipment to be used in the near future.

Cars: Get a peach, not a lemon

Donna Miles

WASHINGTON — The 20-year-old Marine couldn't resist the deal advertised in his base newspaper: a five-year warranty for a used car.

Once the Marine arrived at the dealership, a salesman informed him he'd have to pay for his own trip home if he didn't buy a car. The salesman pressured the Marine into taking out a loan — at 24 percent interest — to buy both a car and an extended warranty.

On the trip back to Washington, the Marine's "peach" of a car turned into a "lemon." It started sputtering. When the Marine called the dealer for help, he was told simply to top off the water levels and continue on his way. The car survived the trip, but soon after left the Marine stranded on the roadside. The dealer refused to honor the warranty, claiming the Marine had violated its terms by driving the car when it needed repairs.

Maj Charles Hale, chief of client services for Marine Corps headquarters legal assistance, said deals involving both new and used cars are among the biggest consumer problems young servicemembers confront. Neither the Defense Department nor the services keep statistics on how many military members buy used cars that turn into lemons as soon as the deal is sealed. But LtCol Walter Skierski, chief of the Air Force Legal Assistance Division, said firsthand experience in Air Force legal assistance offices tells him too many too often.

Skierski said some cars have major mechanical problems the dealer doesn't reveal and the warranty doesn't cover. Some vehicles have no warranties at all, and the buyers aren't told and sometimes don't think to ask. Servicemembers who buy a car "as-is" and up having to pay out of pocket for anything that goes wrong after the sale. Some end up deeply in debt, he said.

"We hear about cases like these constantly," agreed John Malachuk, an attorney-advisor with the Army Legal Assistance Office. "The most unfortunate thing is that the victims are usually junior enlisted members who have bad credit or are trying to establish credit — and who can least afford to be taken advantage of."

Legal assistance officers often serve as military members' first line of defense against fraudulent used car dealers, helping to resolve disputes between buyers and sellers. And for dealerships that use deceptive practices, commanders

Urgent Fury veteran still active after near-death experience in Grenada

Sgt Sharon G. Angell
Marine Combat Correspondent

"They were shooting at me for sport. That made me mad, because sooner or later they would have to hit me," said Col Timothy B. Howard in a November 1986 article from The Observation Post. "So I waved my middle at them in my last hope of defiance."

Howard, who is the 2d Marine Division's assistant chief of staff for intelligence, at the time, was part of a squadron providing air support for ground troops during Operation Urgent Fury.

The operation called for U.S. troops being sent in to St George's, Grenada, to rescue American citizens who were being held hostage by the Marxist People's Revolutionary Army.

Howard recalls his above reaction to what he thought would be his capture or eventual death when he was forced to land in a grassy field during Urgent Fury after his AH-1T Cobra attack helicopter was shot down over St. George's.

Howard was on his second tour with what was then the 22d Marine Amphibious Unit as they were headed to relieve the Marines of the 24th MAU.

Howard's tour with the 22d MAU proved to be a lot different from anything the Marines from Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-261, or any of the other units comprising the 22d MAU, had experienced on their previous tour.

When they set sail, the mission of the 22d MAU was to relieve the 24th MAU in Beirut, Lebanon.

Before the turnover happened, the 22d MAU was diverted to Grenada.

Ironically, the mission was changed Oct. 22, 1983, one day before the Beirut bombing that took the lives of 241 U.S. servicemen.

"We were supposed to relieve the 24th MAU, but we got diverted," said Howard.

"We got the call about the bombing after we had already turned for Grenada, and it was too late to turn around to help them. We still had to complete our mission."

The beginning of U.S. support in Grenada began Oct. 25, 1983, when Army Rangers and Marines landed to help rescue American students and return the island to a peaceful environment, said Howard.

That morning, Rangers were dropped over Point Salines to secure the area.

Other Rangers were given orders to secure True Blue campus.

However, they were ambushed and requested assistance.

In addition to these Rangers, another Ranger detachment was trying to secure the area at Fort Frederick overlooking St. George's.

These soldiers came under heavy fire and Marine gun-ships were called in to assist them.

Two AH-1T Cobra attack helicopters were also sent in to provide cover fire for the soldiers.

One Cobra was manned by then Capt Howard and his co-pilot Capt Jeb Seagle.

The other was piloted by Maj John "Pat" Guiguerre, and co-pilot 1stLt Jeff Sharver.

After Howard's Cobra made four passes, the bird needed more ammunition.

Following a re-supply, the Cobra made a fifth pass over St. George's. This pass would change Howard's life forever.

Before he knew it, his bird was hit by anti-aircraft fire originating from a nearby mental hospital, according to an article in All Hands magazine from May 1984.

Howard's Cobra has been hit several times, including three shots that injured him. The first shot hit him in the right arm tearing it off from the just below the elbow.

The second shot hit him in the right leg, seriously injuring his knee. After a final shot hit the aircraft, a golf-ball size piece of the aircraft became imbedded in his neck.

Howard said they were forced to land in a field near St. George's beach.

During the forced landing, Howard called for his co-pilot to lower the bird, but realized Seagle had been knocked unconscious from rounds impacting the helicopter.

"He must have hit his head when we got hit, because I tried yelling his name, but he wouldn't come to. I knew I had to do something, so I tried everything I could to land safely," said Howard.

Despite his injuries, Howard managed to wrap his left arm around the "stick" and control the helicopter enough to land it.

During the landing however, the aircraft was seriously damaged. It caused the tail rotor to furrow and separate from the tail boom, according to a brief in a May 1984 article in All Hands magazine.

Upon landing, all the warning lights on the circuit board were lit up, and although the helicopter managed to stay upright, it caught fire. Seagle regained consciousness after landing and attempted to assist Howard.

"He kept yelling at me to get out, but I don't think he knew how bad I had been hurt," said Howard.

Although Howard managed to unbuckle himself, he fell to the ground. Howard recalled that Seagle grabbed him by the back of his shirt and dragged him toward safety.

"I used my good leg to push with, while he was pulling me. He left me in a tall grassy field, next to a soccer stadium," said Howard.

Howard says he was worried more for his co-pilot's safety than his own, and he kept yelling, "You've got to get out of here. I am going to die, but you've got a chance," according to an article from The Washington Post entitled, 'Pilot recalls launch of Grenada invasion.'

Seagle went for help, but Howard still

Capt Jeb Seagle (deceased) drags Capt (now LtCol) Timothy Howard from their burning AH-1T Cobra after it was hit by enemy fire and had to make a forced landing Oct. 25, 1983. Howard was the pilot of the Cobra during the attack on St. George's Island, Grenada. This painting is a historical landmark that hangs in the Pentagon to symbolize the heroism of Seagle before he was captured and killed.

anticipated his own death, and said he knew he was never going to see Seagle again.

Seagle managed to send a call for help before leaving on foot to find ground support.

The other Cobra received the call and provided fire support while a CH-46 crew tried to rescue Howard.

During the rescue attempt, the Cobra received anti-aircraft fire from somewhere on the island and was shot down.

Both Guiguerre and Sharver were killed when their helicopter crashed into the ocean.

Meanwhile, GySgt Kelly Neideigh, a CH-46 door gunner and Vietnam veteran, risked his life by running into live fire to drag Howard to the CH-46 for safety.

By the time Neideigh reached Howard, more than an hour had passed since Howard's Cobra went down.

Unfortunately, Howard's co-pilot, Seagle, never made it to safety; he was found dead on the beach. He had been captured and murdered while trying to find help for Howard.

After the rescue, Howard spent many long months in the hospital learning to deal with the loss of his arm and the grim diagnosis made by his doctors that he would never walk again.

That was 17 years ago and he's proven the doctors wrong. He recently ran three miles in 23-minutes during a physical fitness test.

"I still run, and I do the sit-ups for the PFT even though I am not required. I just don't do the pull-ups because it would take me a long time to work up to being able to do one-armed pull-ups," explained Howard.

Howard credits his wife of 22-years, the former Bethany Tyrrell, for keeping him motivated.

"I think she has been the biggest part of my success and recovery. She has stood by through everything," he said. "When most people marry, they say 'I do,' but they mean I do until the times get hard or don't go their way. My wife is not like that."

Howard joined the Marine Corps in 1977 to fly helicopters.

Upon completion of a successful tour with MAG-29, he was promoted to captain and augmented the Cobra detachment that was assigned to HMM-261 to complete his second tour.

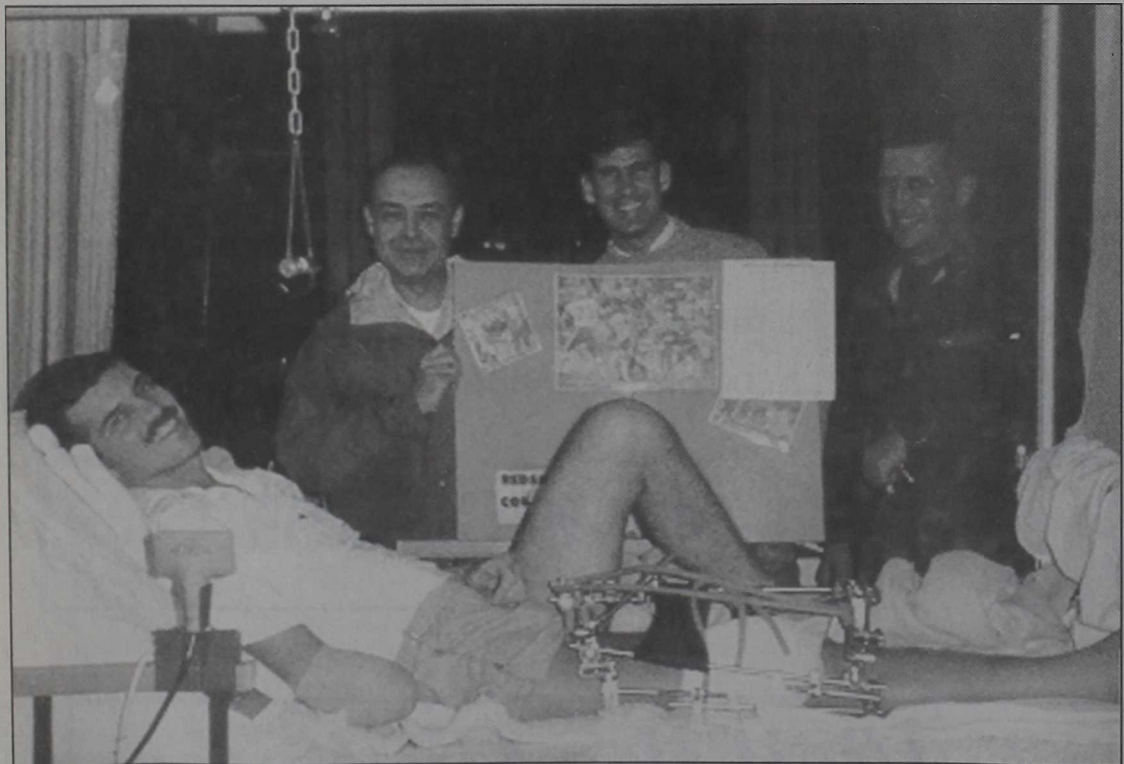

Following Urgent Fury, Howard spent many months to recover from his injuries and fought to stay in the Marine Corps.

He was assigned to various units during his recovery, including the 1st Remotely Piloted Company in Twentynine Palms.

Howard received the Silver Distinguished Flying Cross, the Purple Heart, and the Purple Heart Medal for his actions in Grenada. He also received several awards from civilian organizations honoring his courage and dedication.

JI, Japan— The sight of rounds bursting from the chain-guns of 3d Light Armored Reconnaissance Battalion's an indication that serious training was taking place Aug. 20.

Attached to Battalion 1/6 during their six-month tour of the Far East, the unit from Palms, Calif., used the training in mainland Japan to

"We have Marines that are going to be stepping up into more of the leadership billets when we return from deployment, and we're trying to prepare them for that here," said 3d Platoon Sergeant, SSgt James F. Simms of Seattle.

"I've been rotating the billets within our scout team so that the younger guys get experience doing every job," said Palatine, Ill., native Sgt Scott D. Huston, a team leader with Charlie Company, 3d LAR Bn.

"Being a team leader requires you to know how to do all the jobs within the team, so this is a good opportunity for us to get them schooled-up."

The unit's capabilities as an information-gathering force with formidable firepower make them extremely valuable to BLT commanders during combat.

"Our job is to support BLT 1/6 with whatever they need as far as Light Armored Vehicles and forward reconnaissance," commented Simms.

"Our scouts go out and do things like route and zone reconnaissance for follow-on forces. We see if roads, bridges and things of that nature are passable for them."

The combined-arms atmosphere has provided an opportunity for the combat elements to bond.

"I've been having a lot of great experiences here at Camp Fuji training with BLT 1/6," remarked LCpl Charles R. Creer from Salem, Utah.

"They're pretty good to work with and it's kind of fun to watch them learn how to use LAVs the way that they're supposed to be used. It's also great to get out of the (Mojave) desert, see green for a change and drive around."

According to the Light Armored Vehicle crewman, the chance to fire live ammunition at Camp Fuji has definitely been beneficial to him and his fellow Leathernecks.

"There's nothing quite like firing real rounds," he said. "It's not really something that can be simulated because of the way the gun moves when it's for real. The little things that you may overlook in normal training stand out more when live rounds are used."

For Aztec, N.M., native, 2nd Lt Brian G. Cillessen, 3d platoon commander, 3d LAR Bn, training in Japan has also provided him with a chance to work on essential LAV maneuvering aspects.

"The ranges here allow us to get really in depth with moving our vehicles back and forth over 1,100 meters," said the former enlisted Lejeune infantryman with India Co, 3d Bn, 6th Marines.

"We were able to do things such as bounding forward and supporting each other as we moved."

Apparently, the training offered at Camp Fuji has allowed the Marines of 3d LAR Bn to build camaraderie as well as teamwork, which may serve them well once they return home from deployment.

"I see us being able to accomplish any of our stated missions effectively because we've been able to work together as a unit the entire time," mentioned Cillessen.

"Every day, we become closer from working hard and firing a lot of rounds down-range."

"We're getting a lot more ammo to fire here than anywhere else. I'm not sure why, but we're taking advantage of it," added Simms.

50 Cals fire up foreign ranges

Sgt Houston F. White Jr
Marine Combat Correspondent

CAMP FUJI, Japan— As majestic Mount Fuji loomed in the distance, 25 members of Heavy Machine Gun Platoon, Weapons Company, 1st Battalion, 6th Marines, dug deep to improve their skills recently.

The sharp, rhythmic cadences resonating throughout the North Fuji Training Area were the direct result of fierce training behind one of the platoon's largest automatic weapons—the .50 caliber machine gun.

The mission of the evolution was clear—enable the senior Marines of the platoon to help less experienced members gain familiarity and confidence with the weapon.

During this evolution, what would normally be considered routine was spectacular because of the setting said Go r h i m, Maine, native LCpl James N. Sawyer.

"Firing here in Japan, you have different terrain, weather and climate than at home. The shoot was similar to what we would experience back in the U.S., but the atmosphere was a whole different thing for the younger Marines. It was kind of mesmerizing to look at some of them firing down range, and after they were done, to look up and see big Mount Fuji behind them," he mentioned.

According to GySgt Ray H. Mackey of Sierra Vista, Az., the training areas provided at Camp Fuji offered more advantages than just beautiful scenery for his Marines.

"The ranges here are longer and the targets are separated farther apart and harder to hit. This has allowed us to develop skills with better static shoots," said the platoon commander.

Making his fourth trip to Camp Fuji with the Marine Corps, Mackey said he noticed a big difference in the machine gunners he currently leads from the sections he saw as a young Leatherneck.

"They're a whole lot different than what I saw back then," he said. "Things are a lot more competitive between the gun teams than it used to be, and they seem to have a higher caliber of professionalism and pride in their work."

For Mackey, the deployment has also provided him with another opportunity to see his warriors gain experience and advance in the structure of the platoon.

"I'm in a very unique position because I'm holding an officer billet as a gunnery sergeant and I picked up most of these Marines from SOI (School of Infantry) East and West."

"I've watched them go from knowing very little, to progressing to team leader and gunner positions during exercises like CAX (Combined Arms Exercise) and here at Fuji. It gives me great pride to know that some of these Marines will be the future leaders of this platoon when I leave," he explained.

When the smoke cleared, it was evident that while the 1/6 Devil Dogs had put in a hard day's work, they weren't going to remain satisfied or complacent with the level of their performance for long.

"I'm hard when it comes down to judging the performance of my Marines," said platoon sergeant SSgt Ralph E. Torres of San Lorenzo, Puerto Rico.

"They did the basics very well. However, we still need work. Like anything else, I expect nothing but the highest standards. We absolutely always aim for perfection in this platoon," he emphasized.

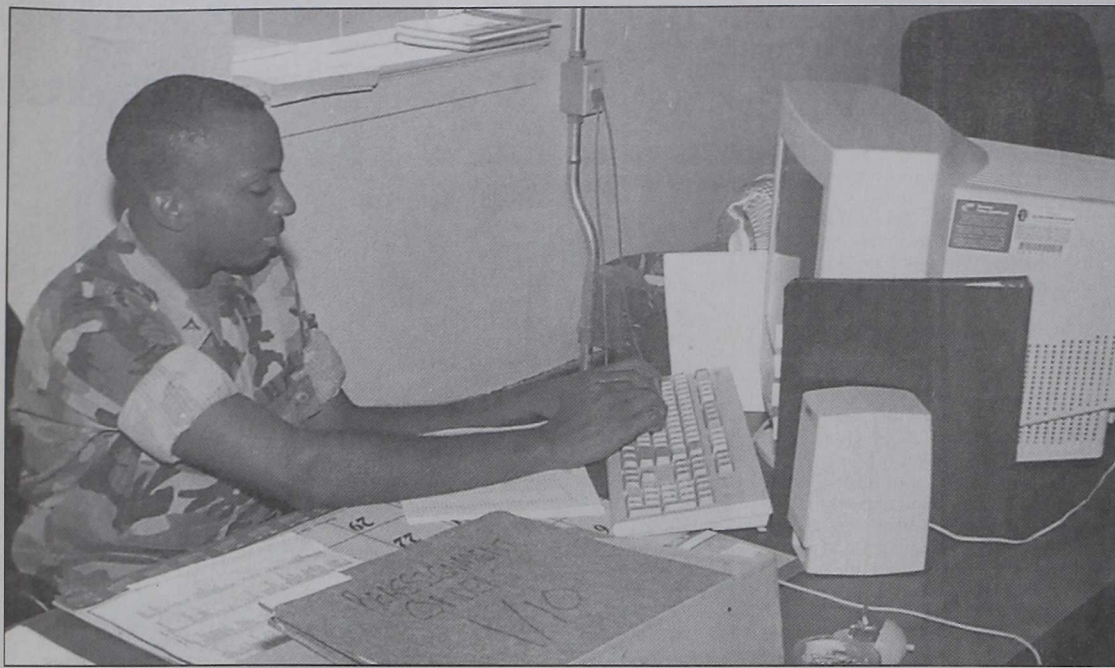

The Marines of 1/6 are currently deployed to Japan as a part of the six-month Unit Deployment Program.

Marines of 3d Platoon, Charlie Company, 3rd Light Armored Reconnaissance Battalion, conduct live-fire training in the North Fuji Training Area recently. The Marines are currently supporting Battalion Landing Team 1/6 in the Far East as a part of the Unit Deployment Program.

DPAC spearheads admin evolution

LCpl Quincy A. Hawkins applies his trade as orders NCOIC for the Division Personnel Administration Center.

Sgt Andrew D. Pomykal
Marine Combat Correspondent

Since May 1999, administration Marines from 23 different units have been combining their expertise in what they consider a huge challenge — to consolidate under one command here, which also may mean changing their way of doing business.

Yet, the mission is still the same for the Marines of the Division Personnel Administration Center (DPAC), regardless of how the process may change.

"Our mission is to provide efficient and effective administrative service, support and training to the Marines of the Division and their families," said DPAC officer-in-charge, Maj Michael P. Edwards of Bloomburg, Pa., and a former Marine Corps Administration Analysis team member. "There is a new energy behind the administration field to put new processes in place and current or new technology in action to meet the mission. Everyday I challenge my Marines to come up with new ideas."

Once fully staffed, the 250 DPAC personnel will be responsible for the maintenance of 16,000 service record books.

It is set up in several groups for streamlined service with an administrative support element, an SRB section that performs maintenance, unit diary and non-judicial punishment entries, and a systems support section that maintains a Web page and all computer assets.

There is also the usual pay, promotions, orders, legal and separations sections as well as a section that is tasked with auditing and updating records prior to deployment. In addition, a quality assurance team oversees and reviews all procedures.

"We're recreating many processes as we go and making administration more supportive to the Devil Dogs," said GySgt Ernest L. Spears from Greenburg, Ohio.

According to Spears, the consolidation is moving smoothly along.

"I think it's a great thing," he said. "Commanders and first sergeants are pleased with the effort, especially getting Marines paid and promoted on time. We're providing better support to deployed Marines so they can concentrate on training."

CARS from 1B

are increasingly exercising a powerful right: putting them off limits to servicemembers. "Sometimes the mere threat of that is enough to bring a dealer into compliance," Meixelle said.

The military also is taking steps to help educate servicemembers and their families about their consumer rights when buying used cars or other goods and services. The Navy's preventive law program, for example, uses commanders' briefings, brochures and base newspaper articles to inform Sailors and their families about frauds they're likely to encounter — including fraudulent used car deals, explained CDR Ann DeLaney, deputy assistant judge advocate general for legal assistance.

Federal Trade Commission attorney Steve Baker suggested consumers kick the tires, try out the radio and go for a test drive when buying a used car. But, he said, many don't look for what he calls the most important thing in a used car, truck or van: the buyers guide.

By law, all dealers must post a buyers guide inside each used vehicle for sale. It spells out in writing what warranty coverage, if any, consumers are getting for their money. It lists the major mechanical and electrical systems on the vehicle, including some of the major problems consumers should look out for. It also tells them whom to contact at the dealership if there's a problem after they buy.

Yet, Baker said, many consumers don't know to look for the guide, and an alarming number of dealers don't post them.

The FTC recently inspected used car dealers on Chicago's North Shore, just outside the gates of Great Lakes Naval Training Center, and found that more than one-third of the 14 used car dealers surveyed didn't comply with the law. Almost one-fourth of the cars on their lots had no buyers guides, and many of the posted guides were incomplete or inaccurate. The noncomplying dealers will be fined by the state and could face prosecution by the FTC for future violations.

Baker acknowledged that the compliance rates weren't the worst he's seen nationwide. "But what's particularly disturbing," he says, "is that the dealers are located in an area where the consumers, such as new military trainees, may not understand their rights to this information." To help protect this population, he said, the FTC plans to conduct more inspections of used car dealers near other major military bases.

Baker said used car dealers who don't display buyers guides send an important message. "Not displaying a Buyers Guide shows a blatant disregard for the law and for their customers," Meixelle said. "If the dealer isn't giving you information they're entitled to, you should take their business elsewhere — to a dealer who will give you the information you need to make an informed decision."

He suggested used car shoppers take another important step before buying. "Get the vehicle inspected by an independent mechanic that you know yourself before you buy," Baker said.

"It will cost you a few dollars, but it will save you a lot of money in the long run."

The FTC offers additional information to protect consumers from end-of-the-line lemon.

- Check out the vehicle's maintenance costs and safety ratings in consumer magazines. Look up the vehicle's "blue book" value and be prepared to negotiate.

- Ask for the maintenance records. The owner, dealer or repair shop should have them.

- Test drive the vehicle on various roads and in stop-and-go traffic.

- Get all promises in writing. Promises are worthless.

- Ask to see a copy of the warranty before you buy.

- Check out the dealer with the state's consumer protection officials.

- Recognize that warranties are often sold separately from the car, and are sold at a premium.

- Avoid buying a vehicle from a dealer who has no responsibility for repairs after the purchase, even if it falls out as you're driving off.

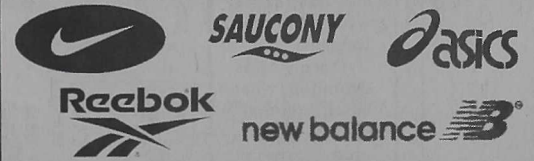

- Use extra caution when buying a used car privately, because a buyers guide is required.

- Consider using the services of a professional to research the vehicle's title history.

Parent trap? New Parent Support Program helps families

Mom Joan Smith and 18-month old Patrick enjoy the activities at NPSP's Playmorning at New River. Patrick is the son of Maj Larry E. Smith.

Cyndi Brown
Carolina Living Editor

The birth of a child is one of life's most exciting events -- and one of the most challenging. First-time parents can feel especially overwhelmed as they try to care for the small, vulnerable, unfamiliar new person who has just joined the family.

For those new parents and those with children under six years of age, the New Parent Support Program was established at Camp Lejeune in 1993 to offer a support network within the military community.

"It's hard being away from home," NPSP Project Director Mary Caldwell said of military families. "Many pregnant women and new mothers here have their husbands deployed and no immediate family available to help them. We want them to know that we are here to help and can supply support services for them."

From parenting classes to home visitation and child developmental screening, the support services provided by NPSP are extensive.

"Anything you need to know about parenting, we work on," said Caldwell. "We have a staff of six registered nurses and five licensed master's level social workers, all professionally trained to work with children and parents.

"We offer weekly parenting classes for parents with children under six and home visitation, which is one-on-one so we can specialize based on what the parents' needs are. Our Denver Screening Assessment, where we screen children based on developmental milestones, is a nice service to offer since many moms and dads don't know what to expect developmentally from their child."

"All of our programs are free and voluntary. It's a joint effort between the Marine Corps and the Children's Hospital to enhance and support the military family," said Caldwell.

NPSP has also started a weekly play morning at New River Youth Center for parents and their children age birth to six years old with structured activities to enhance and encourage parent/child interaction. The play group meets every Thursday from 9:30 to 11 a.m. NPSP also attends the OB briefs at the Naval Hospital to explain

Miracle by moonlight

Water — ever serene, inviting, and yet so mystical. Life is abundant under this glass surface, and when human danger interrupts this oasis of still beauty, one can never know the outcome or the effect it will have on you for the rest of your life.

Miracles happen, even in water...and it did for one particular serviceman.

A serviceman's worst nightmare aboard ship is to become a victim overboard during a deployment — especially a victim overboard between two deployed ships. This nightmare became a reality for a serviceman who just happened to be a man of God servicing others aboard ship...he is a chaplain.

As the story was relayed to me, the chaplain was coming aboard ship from a quick furlough with fellow friends and somehow lost his footing as he was approaching the ship's deck. The next thing he knew, he was airborne, free falling in space into the icy cold waters between two anchored, deployed ships. If the water currents from the ships or the poisonous sea snakes infesting the area did not get him, surely these two gigantic pieces of metal and iron would crush him.

The chaplain remembers plunging into the water at force speed, and he even had the presence of mind to know that he had plummeted deep, very deep. While he was attempting to get his momentum and propel himself back to the surface, he remembers feeling a deep gash in his leg — he had cut himself against the hull of the ship. As he continued to swim toward the surface, he distinctly remembered just how clear the otherwise murky dark waters had become, so much so that he could clearly view the moon through the waters. He continued swimming, allowing the moon to guide and light his way back to the surface — he felt, unexplainably, completely calm.

When the chaplain regained consciousness aboard ship, he immediately asked the attending medical physician what had happened. Fortunately, the medical personnel had witnessed the accident. He told the chaplain that in those final moments before he lost consciousness, no one could logically nor rationally explain what exactly had happened. He said, "Chaplain, your entire body floated face upward to the surface between the ships, and you floated there as though someone was holding you underneath until we could get medical personnel to you. We just can't explain it! You have no snake bites, no serious head injuries. And for some reason, both ships did not come near your body."

The chaplain didn't remember any of this of course, and all he could do was smile and bow his head in prayer — he didn't need any human explanation. He had his own answer about that, and he also knew he had a very good upcoming sermon for Sunday's service — and for the rest of his life — about his personal "miracle by moonlight."

*This is a true story. The chaplain depicted in this story is Chaplain Howard Marshall, Marine Corps Base, HQSptBn Command Chaplain. If you have a real life true "miracle" story you would like to share, give me a call or e-mail me and tell me your story. Your name can remain anonymous at your request. their services, presents 15-minute lectures during the Kids Plus play group at Tarawa Terrace and an array of additional services. Mom's Basic Training and Daddy's Baby Boot Camp are two of NPSP's most popular programs.

In Mom's Basic Training, women in their third trimester meet to discuss the challenges of motherhood, balancing work and home life, how to soothe a crying baby, allowing dad's to bond in their own way, what to expect and how to prepare for their newest family member. The two-day class meets from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on the first Wednesday and Thursday of each month, and pre-registration is required.

In Daddy's Baby Boot Camp, also a two-day class, soon-to-be and new fathers meet to discuss similar issues with a focus on dad's learning needs. Meeting on the second Wednesday and Thursday of each month, pre-registration is also required.

"In these programs, we teach anything and everything that prepares parents for bringing a new child into the home, including how to support and communicate with each other" said Caldwell. "We have many successful graduates."

Some of those graduates got together at the first Baby Boot Camp Reunion Aug. 25 to enjoy a sit-down dinner, door prizes, games and foot- and hand-printing. More importantly, however, they got to introduce their little ones.

"We had a great time at the reunion," said Caldwell. "The parents were showing-off their children and offering advice - as the experienced parents they are now!"

Contact NPSP at 451-5286 or their offices in Midway Park for more information on the services offered or to register for their programs.

Poetry Slam

Rejection

Hey it's me can you reject me please
Because my soul is sore from being on its knees
A simple statement
A brush off if you will
I need another brick to keep my foundation still
I'm abandoning a worthless piece of my dignity
Reach out
Take it
And force me to keep sanity
For your priceless token I'm forever grateful
This bittersweet afterglow could never turn hateful
Although unaware of the amount of evil lurking in me
You kept it restrained and that kept me free
In the eyes of someone who doesn't learn from correction
There's nothing more liberating than that sweet rejection.
You know who you are and thank you!

comprehensive video, shown on "College Review" this week.

This episode details what the university can offer to individuals planning on furthering their education. Embry-Riddle University has several satellite offices located on military bases around the world and also offers an Individual Study program -- perfect for that Marine or Sailor who has some extra time after work to dedicate to the mind.

"None but the Brave," a classic World War II movie starring and directed by "Ol' Blue Eyes," Frank Sinatra, plays tonight through Monday night at 7:30 p.m. In this movie, Marines crash-land on a Pacific island held by the Japanese, and the two sides are forced to make a truce in order to survive overwhelming odds. The 1965 classic co-stars Tommy Sands and Brad Dexter.

"Power Play" music videos are still rockin and rollin on LCTV-10. Tune in every morning at 11 a.m. for your favorite artists from rock, R&B and country to what-ever else you might like moving to.

As usual, "Camp Lejeune Today" brings you a look at hard-hitting news and heart-wrenching stories taking place aboard Camp Lejeune each and every day. The always-exuberant Sgt Sharon Allen, who can be seen Tuesdays and Thursdays at noon and again at 5:30 p.m., anchors the base's front-running news show and brings the Marine Corps into your living room.

"Lejeune Happenings," featuring Yolanda Mayo and Debbie Hoffman, continues to inform and entertain even the hardest of Marines. "Happenings" incorporates many of the features showcased previously on "Camp Lejeune After Hours" and gives you much, much more.

Watch LCTV-10, keep your feet on the ground and keep reaching for the stars.

Cpl Linares is a video journalist at the Radio/Television section of the Consolidated Public Affairs Office.

Although Virginia Beach's active lifestyle makes it a special place, quiet, beach-side moments have their own appeal. Check out all that Virginia Beach has to offer on this week's edition of "Liberty Call!"

"X-Men" was directed by Bryan Singer ("Usual Suspects" "Apt Pupil").

Thirty-eight years after its comic book debut, film audi- ences can experience what the fans have known for some time: The X-Men will never die; they just keep evolving.

James Marsden is Cyclops in "X-Men."

THE CELL (R)

If you can't wait until it hits the base, "The Cell" is now playing in Jacksonville.

This new thriller tells the story of a breakthrough research program that allows a psychotherapist to probe the mind of a serial killer in hopes of saving his latest victim.

Within the confines of an abandoned rural farmhouse, Carl Stargher, played by Vincent D'Onofrio ("Men in Black"), a psychologically disturbed killer, has built The Cell, a glass-encased chamber where he drowns his innocent female victims before continuing a sadistic post-mortem ritual with their bodies. As the FBI finally closes in on the killer, he is rendered comatose by a violent seizure and is ultimately apprehended into their custody, but not before leaving his latest victim alive in The Cell with only 40 hours to live. Unfortunately, only Stargher knows where she is.

Catherine Deane, played by Jennifer Lopez ("Selena," "Anaconda," "The Money Train"), is the only chance the police have to find the girl. She is part of an advanced neurological study at the Campbell Center, a research division of a large pharmaceutical company, where she has been using her empathetic abilities along with breakthrough technology to enter in the mind of a catatonic young boy. While FBI agents Peter Novak, played by Vince Vaughn, and his partner Gordon Ramsey follow clues to uncover the missing girl's whereabouts, the FBI enlists Catherine to use her "gift" to embark on a uncharted and perilous journey through Carl Stargher's demented mind.

Marianne Jean-Baptiste ("Secrets & Lies") and Dylan Baker ("Happiness") co-star as the team of doctors.

An artsy, mind-bending, very harsh, dark and surreal psychological thriller with carefully sculpted imagery and captivating visuals, "The Cell" is the feature debut of music video director Tarsem. He sees the movie "as a graphic opera about trying to understand the mind of a serial killer. And there's no such thing as a subtle opera."

"The Cell" is a very graphic and gory film and follows such movies as "Silence of the Lambs" and "Seven." Not recommended for the young or the squeamish.

Vincent D'Onofrio terrorizes Jennifer Lopez in "The Cell."

Having a hard time deciding which movie to see? These movies are playing at the Camp Lejeune and New River theaters this week:

The Patriot: Mel Gibson, Heath Ledger. Benjamin Martin, a hero of the French and Indian War, tries to keep his family safe and out of the war for independence, but when his eldest son goes out to fight, comes back wounded and is arrested as a traitor to the crown, he is forced to take sides and rescue his son and country. Rated R for violence.

Loser: Jason Biggs, Mena Suvari. Nerdy, good-natured Paul Tannek is a student at New York University and ignored by everyone. But when he meets fellow student Dora, together they find the courage to walk away from the people who walk all over them. Rated PG13 for drug content, crude sexual material and language.

The Adventures of Rocky & Bullwinkle: voices of Ed Gale, June Foray. Rocky and Bullwinkle have been living off the residuals made from the reruns of their cartoon show, but when Boris and Natasha cross over into the real world and team up with "Fearless Leader," who has evil plans up his sleeve, they must give up retirement to save the world. Rated PG for brief, mild language.

Disney's The Kid: Bruce Willis, Emily Mortimer. Russ Duritz, a successful "image consultant," finds his life turned upside down when he magically meets Rusty -- himself as an eight-year-old child. Rusty is a sweet but slightly geeky, pudgy little kid who is not at all happy with who he turns out to be -- a 40-year-old "loser" without a wife or a dog. Rated PG for mild language.

America's Drug Problem Is Not As Big As You Think.

It can start as a dare. Or youthful curiosity. Or it may be a way to escape problems at home. Whatever the reasons, studies show that an alarming number of young children are trying drugs. Unfortunately, too many parents still do not believe that their kids are at risk.

The truth is, it's never too early to start teaching your kids about the dangers of drugs. If you're not sure how to talk to them, call 1-800-624-0100 and ask for a free booklet called Growing Up Drug-Free – A Parent's Guide To Prevention. Call today, because if you don't take care of little problems, they can easily grow into big ones.

Marines, mud, Mother Nature

Timmi Toler
Sports Editor

Camp Lejeune is preparing for the Mud, Sweat and Gears Duathlon being held Saturday at Goette Memorial Field House, and the weather couldn't be better.

"We pray for rain and we've had a couple of weeks of it—the more mud, the better," says MCCS fitness event coordinator and race director, Mike Marion. The Mud, Sweat and Gears Duathlon is a 40-k race designed to challenge its participants with three events, but yes, it's still called a duathlon. "We call it duathlon because the participants have a 5-k run, switch to a 30-k bike race, then take another 5-k run. They race in running twice during the event," says Marion.

The course for the run will be on flat, fast asphalt surfaces with a minimum of turns. The bike race will be on slightly different surfaces and will feature a new course this year covering a wide variety of terrain: grass, graded dirt, clay, standing water, sand, mud, streams, forest trails and even swamp areas. Mother Nature has been adding her own touches to the bike terrain with all the recent rain. Think mud bogging with a mountain bike, and you've got it. The courses for both races are kept under wraps until race day, and no map is provided. Participants rely on markers and monitors to complete the course and will be equipped with a champion chip timing device to track their progress.

The Mud, Sweat and Gears Duathlon is the ninth event in the Lejeune Grand Prix series and will award winners in over 160 categories. The Grand Prix Series holds several sporting events from January to October that are open to male and female participants of all ages, military or civilian. People who participate in at least four of these events accumulate points toward the Grand Prix awards held in November.

The Grand Prix Series is exclusive to Camp Lejeune, and was originated here. "In 1993, Doctor Gary was the Fitness director at Camp Lejeune and I was still on active duty before I retired. We got together and devised this idea," went out and starting chopping through the woods and making trails," says Marion. Since then, the Grand Prix Series has had an average participation increase of 30 percent per year. "We'd like to see more Marines come out and try these events. This is a race, but it's also a recreational event. Ninety percent of our participants are recreational runners. They come out and have fun, and sort of forget about the point system. There is this pleasant surprise of being invited to the Grand Prix awards banquet at the end of the year. By that time they are doing it for the fun, not the win," says Marion.

Following the duathlon, the next event in the Grand Prix Series will be the Marine Corps Half Marathon held Oct. 7.

For more information about the Mud, Sweat and Gears Duathlon and the Lejeune Grand Prix Series, please contact Mike Marion or Megan Brown at 451-1799.

Kick it! Women ready to rock

Timmi Toler
Sports Editor

For the first time ever, Camp Lejeune hosted the All Marine Women's Soccer trial camp to select players for the second All Marine Women's Soccer team. The players will head to Virginia this weekend to participate in the All Armed Forces Soccer Tournament Sunday through Friday at Fort Eustis.

The trial camp ends today, but the team was formed weeks ago. "We had a low participation turnout this year, only 15 women. We had 25 come out last year, so there was no real selection process," says Sgt Brian Hickerson, the Women's Soccer Coach. The low turnout has been both an advantage and disadvantage for the team. "It's been good in a way because we've actually been able to train as a team for the three weeks of trial camp instead of waiting until after selections were made, but, the low turnout hasn't enabled us to do all that we wanted to do and we like to see more women participate in this event," says Hickerson.

Hickerson is pleased with how his team is performing. "Their sticking it to people this year and we're improving with each game we play. I see a big difference from last year, and we've been able to play more women's teams in our scrimmages and that gives us a better idea of how the tournament will be," says Hickerson.

The team consists of women Marines from all geographic areas including three from Japan.

The Women's Soccer Team will play two games per day for a grueling six days and will be competing against teams from the other armed forces: Navy, Army, and Air Force. "When it gets to the last few days of the tournament, it's all heart, it's survival of the fittest," says Hickerson.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP

DARLINGTON, S.C. — Bobby Labonte managed to win the Southern 500, NASCAR's oldest superspeedway race, despite the fact that he never led a green-flag lap.

With rain and darkness closing in, a blown engine in Jerry Nadeau's Chevrolet brought out a caution flag at lap 321. Labonte, who was running fifth at the time, pitted along with other leaders and won the race on pit road.

After he took the lead, it began raining, and the race was stopped after only 328 of the scheduled 367 laps.

It was Labonte's first victory at Darlington and enabled him to boost his point lead by 20 points to 111. Jeff Burton, who swept the 1999 races at the track, finished second.

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL

DARLINGTON, S.C. — Ford driver Mark Martin continued his domination of races at Darlington Raceway, winning the DuraLube 200 to sweep the 2000 events at the 1.366-mile track.

Martin also won the pole. It was his seventh victory at the track, three more than retired Harry Gant. Six of the top 10 and 10 of the top 15 finishers were Winston Cup regulars.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK

The Craftsman Truck Series was off last week and will return to action Thursday at Richmond, Va.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Jimmy Spencer vs. Brett Bodine

The two Ford drivers blamed each other for a crash late in the Southern 500.

"I guess Brett Bodine must need glasses or something," Spencer said.

Bodine retorted, "He (Spencer) put me in the wall, and that's stupid because he took himself out. He had a good race car, and that was dumb on his part."

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "It was a frustrating incident for two drivers riding long dry spells. Whose fault it was is probably known only by the two drivers, and they obviously disagreed."

PROFILE

Jeff Burton

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

Jeff Burton brings a breath of fresh air to the Winston Cup Series.

In addition to being a proven winner, Burton has an excellent sense of humor and is well liked by fellow competitors.

The relationship between Burton and teammate Mark Martin is a prime factor in the success of Jack Roush's entire racing organization.

Both Burtons — Jeff and older brother Ward — have won races this season. The two strike a balance between a fierce competition on the track and a closeness off it.

Before Sunday, the two had combined to win the previous three races at Darlington Raceway, one of stock car racing's sterner tests.

Hometown: South Boston, Va.

Age: 33

Car: No. 99 Exide Batteries Ford Taurus, owned by Roush Racing

Wife: Kim

Child: Kimberle "Paige" (5)

Crew chief: Frank Stoddard

Career statistics: 213 starts, 13 wins, 68 top-five finishes, 97 top-10 finishes, 1 pole, almost $17 million in earnings

First: Start (July 11, 1993, at New Hampshire); pole (Aug. 16, 1996, at Michigan); victory (April 6, 1997, at Texas)

If nothing is done to improve safety at New Hampshire, will you drive there? "We'll certainly run there. My sponsor, my car owner and everybody I work for expects me to show up and do my deal, and I'll certainly abide by that."

Do you think the Southern 500 was a sign that this year is Bobby Labonte's?

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

Jeff Burton, driver of the No. 99 Exide Batteries Ford, won his first Winston Cup race in 1997 at Texas Motor Speedway. He's won 12 races since.

year? "Bobby is a great race-car driver, and he's got a great race team."

"What Bobby and his team have done all year long is take advantage of the positions they've been put in, and they did that again (at Darlington)."

"They've made very few mistakes. They've been very consistent. They've run up front, and they've done that with very few wrecks and very few mechanical problems, and that's why he's the points leader."

"Certainly, we're right there with them in the last three months. We actually gained some points on them, but we didn't do it early in the year."

"They've been able to put a string together for the whole year, and it's very impressive what they've been able to do."

Did you have radar (for weather) in your pits during the Southern 500? "Yeah, but the radar is showing green (rain) the whole time, and it's not raining. It didn't help us as far as knowing when the rain was going to come and what to do about it."

Trackside Trivia

- Who ran the fastest qualifying lap of all time?
- Who topped 200 mph more times than anyone else?
- Who had the most career second-place finishes?

ANSWERS

1. Bill Elliott, 212.809 mph at Talladega in 1987; 2. Cale Yarborough, 15 times; 3. Richard Petty, with 158.

Who's Hot... Who's Not

■ HOT: It takes luck and skill to win the championship, and Bobby Labonte's got both. He now leads Dale Jarrett by 111 points in the standings.

■ NOT: John Andretti has placed 27th or worse in seven of the past nine races.

USS Saipan soccer team battles Dubrovnik

Cpl Derek A. Shoemaker and Cpl Shawn P. Walsh
Marine Combat Correspondents

DUBROVNIK, Croatia — Maybe if Sgt David Spirk's fiancée would have been there, the USS Saipan Navy/Marine Corps soccer team might have been spared the thrashing of an 11-0 shutout.

Though judging by their obvious inexperience and practically invisible midfield, not even Spirk's claimed source of inspiration, Nicole, could have eased the beating dealt by Dubrovnik's 3rd Division semi-pro team.

"Croatia's got some of the best soccer teams in Europe," said Spirk, the team's sweeper, just before the game. "I'd feel better about our chances if they'd start their fifth string." They didn't.

That fact was driven home when Dubrovnik's forward launched a ball more than 30 yards, over the keeper's head and into the net. It was the first of three goals he would cram down the keeper's throat in the first half.

Dubrovnik's other shining star introduced himself via a bicycle kick save from the half-line, which he lobbed to the forward for a goal.

The right middle fielder would score his team's other three goals before the 45-minute whistle.

The Saipan team welcomed the break as a chance to regroup.

However, only seconds into the latter half Dubrovnik piloted one past the defense and keeper for their seventh goal of the game.

Interrupted by some decent goal tending from Saipan, a shot that bounced off the Dubrovnik goal post, and all-around solid play by Spirk and team coach Seaman Apprentice Kevin Black, the Croatians steamed forward with four more goals, marking the game's final score of 11-0.

The Saipan players fought hard, and considering it was only their second game, and they were playing hand-picked pros, the team fared well.

"We're a new group," said Black. "We need to work on our teamwork, but we're evolving into a pretty good organization."

Spirk, a 1999 All-Marine soccer player, added the rigors of ship life take a toll on the game.

"These guys have a chance to practice every day," he said.

"On ship, you can run three miles in eighteen minutes on a treadmill, but you're not in soccer shape. You need a lot more work to get there."

Even though they lost, Saipan team members said it was worth the opportunity to play a team from another country.

Black and Spirk are even optimistic about the team's next international bout against an Italian soccer club.

Still, maybe Nicole should buy a plane ticket.

Dubrovnik 3rd Division semi-pro team's right midfielder kicks what will become the team's sixth goal against USS Saipan Navy/Marine Corps soccer team. Dubrovnik thrashed the Saipan team 11-0.

GUNN from 1D

knowing a New York player or a single Giants play, Robertson's observations were so astute that Fassel offered him the job that Saturday.

The Giants opened their season Sunday with a 21-16 victory over Arizona.

And at East Rutherford, N.J., he no doubt will bump into Jets assistant Mike Sweatman (Kansas), a Quantico linebacker in 1969, coach of the 1970 Okinawa Devil Dogs and Quantico assistant in 1971-72, the Virginia team's last two seasons.

Robertson, who has spent the past two seasons as a consultant, last coached with the Indianapolis Colts in 1997.

He served as the Colts defensive assistant for two stints (1992-1993 and 1997).

In addition, he was an assistant coach at Northwestern (1967-75), Northern Illinois (1976-79), Wisconsin (1980-81), Notre Dame (1982-83) and Army (1984-91).

The Giants, of course, are counting on former Wisconsin back Ron Dayne, the 1999 Heisman Trophy winner, to help lead them this season. He powered for 78 yards and a TD Sunday.

Tiki Barber exploded for 144 yards and two TDs.

A center, Robertson lettered at Northwestern from 1960-62 under Coach Ara Parseghian, was the captain in 1962 and received the game ball after a 35-6 victory over Notre Dame that year.

He was selected for the East-West

Game and later received a master's degree in business administration from Northwestern.

He was a center for Quantico in 1964 under Coach Vern Ellison and an assistant coach in 1965.

In Vietnam, he served as a rifle platoon commander and infantry company CO.

The Colts, coached by former Lejeune end Jim Mora, defeated the Chiefs, 27-14.

And the Bucs, whose new offensive coordinator is former Quantico back Steelkel (GLOBE, Aug.25), won at New England, 21-16.

Said The Associated Press: "A strong defense almost took Tampa Bay to the Super Bowl. On Sunday, the offense did its part."

Former Annapolis quarterback Jim Kubiak was released by the Jets.

He played this year for the Amsterdam Admirals of the NFL Europe League and has been on rosters of the Panthers and Colts.

AROUND THE 'GLOBE'

Former Georgia Gov. Zell Miller, named to fill the U.S. Senate seat left vacant this summer by the death of Sen Paul Coverdell, had various news and sports bylines in the 1950s in the Camp Lejeune GLOBE during his Marine service.

TV

Former NFL lineman Brian Baldinger worked the 49ers-Atlanta game Sunday on Fox with Curt Menefee. He is a son of former Marine Jim Baldinger, an end at Annapolis, Quantico (1954) and Pensacola (1955).

MOTOR SPORTS

Hank Parker Jr. and is Marines Chevrolet finished Saturday at the NASCAR Busch at Darlington (S.C.) Raceway. St. in 37th position, he completed the 200 laps and collected $1,450.

GOLF

Former Marines Lee Troin and Eichelberger both shot 2 for 24th place over the weekend at the Foremost Insurance Championship at Alda, Mich., each with a score of 100.

Col Gunn is an independent journalist and retired Marine intelligence officer. He has written two books on Marines and football.

Traders

TRADERS is a free service provided by the Public Affairs Office and submitted by active duty and retired military, their dependents, and civilian personnel aboard Camp Lejeune and MCAS New River. Ads must be remitted each week to the Public Affairs Office by noon Friday for the following week's publication. Ads should be submitted on a trader card available here or at the Public Affairs Office. Ads are reserved for the exchange or sale of personal goods only. Ads for services or businesses may not be printed. The Public Affairs Office reserves the right to withhold ads that may be harmful or for any reason. Official phone numbers cannot be listed. Limit is three ads per week. If the Public Affairs Office receives more ads than space permits certain ads may not be published until the following week.

- Individual forms must be filled out for each "category" of items (automobiles, pets, etc.) and written legibly.
- No more than 25 words per form.
- Trader ad submissions cannot be accepted by phone, guard mail, or fax, as these means are reserved for official communication.

Changing with the times...

There is a new and improved method of submitting trader ads from your home, through the Camp Lejeune website. Follow these easy steps to submit your trader ad in THE GLOBE.

- Go to the Camp Lejeune website at www.lejeune.usmc.mil
- Click on "The Globe" on the right side of the page.
- Click on "Trader Ads" on the right side, read the rules and follow the steps to submit your ad.
- Make sure and include your phone number IN THE AD along with your personal information and in ALL CAPS. LIMIT THREE ADS PER WEEK PER PERSON.

You can also submit your ad through mail by dropping it off at the Public Affairs Office.
