

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following column is derived from FMFM 1, WARFIGHTING. It will be presented as a weekly series to enhance the professional military education of our readers. Concentration and Speed continued

Since it is relative speed that matters, it follows that we should take all measures to improve our own tempo and velocity while degrading our enemy's. However, experience shows that we cannot sustain a high rate of velocity or tempo indefinitely. As a result, another pattern develops: fast, slow, fast again. A competitive rhythm develops in combat, with each belligerent trying to generate speed when it is to his advantage

The combination of concentration and speed is momentum. Momentum generates impetus. It adds "punch" or "shock effect" to our actions. It follows that we should strike the decisive blow with the greatest possible combination of concentration and speed. Surprise and Boldness

We must now acknowledge two additional considerations that are significant as multipliers of combat power: surprise and boldness

By surprise we mean striking the enemy at a time or place or in a manner for which he is unprepared. It is not essential that we take the enemy unaware, but only that he become aware too late to react effectively. The desire for surprise is "more or less basic to all operations, for without it superiority at the decisive point is hardly conceivable." But, while a necessary con-dition for superiority, supprise is also a genuine multiplier of strength in its own right because of its psychological effect. Surprise can decisively affect the outcome of combat far beyond the physical means at hand.

Surprise is the paralysis, if only partial and temporary, of the enemy's ability to resist. The advantage gained by surprise depends on the degree of surprise and the enemy's ability to adjust and recover. Surprise is based on speed, secrecy and deception. It means doing the unexpected thing, which in turn normally means doing the more difficult thing in hope that the enemy will not expect it. In fact, this is the genesis of maneuver to circumvent the enemy's strength to strike him where he is not prepared. Purposely choosing the more difficult course because it is less expected necessarily means sacrificing efficiency to some degree. The question is: Does the anticipated advantage gained com-pensate for the certain loss of efficiency that must be incurred?

NEXT WEEK: Suprise and Boldness continues.

In years past, one served for 20, 30 vears or more and then when it came time for retirement it was a parade on a Friday afternoon, your discharge papers and thank you very much we'll be seeing you. Once outside the safe confines of the base, culture shock became a very large reality; a reality that some couldn't cope with.

Bill of Rights celebrates its anniversary

By Master Sgt. Mary A. Peterson, USA

Had the original Bill of Rights been ratified, the first and second amendments would have addressed Congress' size and compensation. The freedom of religion, expression and redress, and the necessity of a defense force and the right to keep and bear arms would have followed.

But the Bill of Rights was intended to protect personal rights and provide individual protections

September 25 marks the 200th anniversary of Congressional passage of the Bill of Rights.

Ratification Dates The first state to ratify the Bill of Rights was New Jersey on Nov. 20, 1789, followed by Maryland, Dec. 19, 1789; North Carolina, Dec. 22, 1789; South Carolina, Jan. 19, 1790; New Hampshire, Jan. 25, 1790; Delaware, Jan. 28, 1790; New York, Feb. 24, 1790: Pennsylvannia, March 10, 1790; Rhode Island, June 7, 1790; Vermont, Nov. 3, 1791; Virginia, Dec. 15, 1791.

Votes from the three original states -Massachusetts, Georgia and Connecticut were unnecessary to ratify the Bill of Rights. Historians speculate these state governments realized they had business unfinished: They ratified the bill nearly 150 years later, in the spring of 1939.

vice employment, and many more for not only the retiree, but their spouses as well.

It's important to include the spouse in these seminars so that they are properly informed about all the benefits to which they are entitled. It's also important for them to understand the stress the retiree will be under once his/her entire life is about to change.

Retirement is something that has to be carefully planned so that not only is the retiree ready for it, but the rest of the family as well. There are important family papers that have to be obtained and certified for VA eligibility. There are civil service employment regulations that the retirees must understand. There are important regulations for regular commissioned officers to be briefed about when it comes to employment.

The pre-retirement seminars bring in experts to give you the latest information so that you'll be able to make an intelligent decision about a related subject when the time comes. If you don't think you can take a week off because your job is too important, think again. Some time ago CMC prepared a "White Letter" indicated no one person should be indispensable that a section couldn't along without him/her. You've given service 20 or more good years and 1 it's time to ask for one week off so you can prepare yourself and your fai ly for your second career.

If push comes to shove and you rel think you can't get away then arrange an appointment with me and I'll give as much information as I can get ready for retirement. We here at Fa Service Center do all we can to pre the retiree for tomorrow.

Postscript: Have you ever given thought that now that you're near retirement age you're as old today as father was when you joined? And at age he looked old, but when you loo the mirror you look 30, going on 21 that's how old you feel. Maybe that's dad felt when you joined and how y feel when your son joins. Just some for thought.

September payday

To avoid financial hardship for active duty servicemembers, Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney has waived the September-October military payday rule and has directed that September military pay be paid on Sept. 29.

This year's payday would, by law, be on Monday, Oct. 2. Any other time of the year, payday is the first day of the following month or the last working day of the month if the first falls on a weekend or holiday. The law specifies that the Oct. 1 payday not be a rollback because it is the beginning of the new fiscal year operating budget. Nevertheless, the Secretary has authority, allowed by Title 37 of the U.S. Code, to modify military pay schedules.

Maternity uniforms

The Marine Corps has adopted the maternity camouflage uniform currently being used by Army and Air Force women, according to Marine Corps Bulletin 1020, dated Aug. 23.

The purpose of the maternity camouflage uniform is to provide uniformity at commands where utilities are worn as the uniform of the day and to provide a comfortable and easily maintained uniform for duties for which utilities would normally be appropriate. The uniform consists of a coat and slacks made of 100 percent rip-stop cotton fabric in the woodland camouflage pattern.

It will be worn under the same general regulations and with the same components as the standard utility uniform except that the web belt will not be worn. The USMC emblem decal will be placed on the left front panel of the uniform, with the top of the emblem on line with the second button hole from the coat neckline. It will be vertically centered between the armhole seam and the second vertical row of stitching from the edge of the coat opening. The individual's name will be marked on the uniform as currently prescribed for the utility uniform.

Marine Corps Bulletin 10120 of May 19 provides guidance on the requisition, issue and sale of the uniform.

Housing provision

Marines considering marriage should note a recent change approved by the Housing Department at HOMC

The change allows Marines to apply for family housing 30 days prior to marriage.

Under the current base policy, Marine Corps bulletin 11101.30J, to be eligible for base housing, a Marine must be either married or unmarried, divorced, separated or widowed with legal proof of dependents.

All applicants are given a control date and placed on the waiting list accordingly. In the revision of MCO 11101.61A, it will indicate Marines certain of their marriage plans will be eligi-ble 30 days prior to the marriage. Their control date on the list will be the date of application, which will not go beyond 30 days.

Until the married couple provides proof of the marriage, there will be no housing assignment.

The revision to the order is intended to lighten the burden of marriage planning.

For more information, call the Family Housing Office at 451-2895.

Youth program now year-round

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a two-part series on the Red Cross, one of the non-profit organizations to receive funding from the Combin-ed Federal Campaign, which begins Sept. 29.

If one visits the Naval Hospital, he may notice the workers seem to be getting younger and younger. It's not one's imagination, it's the Red Cross's Youth Program. For the first time since its inception 19 years ago, it has been extended to a year-round program.

Teenagers from 14-18 may volunteer their time at the hospital from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays. During the school year, volunteers may work from 4-7:30 p.m. on weekdays. Currently, there are 33 Red Cross volunteers working in physical therapy, nuclear medicine, OB/GYN clinic, oral surgery and the new-born nursery or wherever they may be needed. "We place them based on their choice and need.

This is dependent on the needs of the hospital," said Barbara Yauch, chairperson of Red Cross volunteers Volunteers work in clerical capacities that include fil-ing records, operating computers and taking vital sign

"Volunteering has changed me. I used to be shy and not really that outgoing. Now I talk to people and learn about them. It puts a smile on my face," said Melissa Goodno, a Red Cross youth volunteer.

Volunteers help hospital staff members when the staff gets cut in the evening or can take up some of their paperwork to free them to do their jobs. "We're glad to have the youth volunteers at the hospital and many of the staff take them under their wing," commented Yauch.

"We've enjoyed working with them because they're enthusiastic," Sandy Byrtus, hospital chairperson for Red Cross added.

Volunteers not only gain insight into the medical field, but working in a professional setting allows them to learn valuable skills that are transferrable anywhere

It's a nice transition from school to an adult job," said Evelyn Abrahms, Red Cross station manager for Camp Lejeune

"With President Bush's big push for volunteerism, it's a great program and it all starts with the youth," Yauch concluded.

Byrtus agreed by saying, "If volunteers become involved at youth, then they may volunteer as adults." To become a Red Cross Youth volunteer, you must be between the ages of 14-18, fill out an application, have parental permission and attend an orientation about rules and duties. For more information call 451-4596.

Sergeant major beats odds

One of eight female sergeants major in Marine Corps

By Cpl. Deborah A. Drake

Taking a not so great situation and making the most of it usually requires giving everything you've got. When the odds are stacked against you, it makes goals seem impossible to reach.

Coming into the Marine Corps during an era when women weren't easily accepted, made the going tough. One Camp Lejeune Marine didn't quit and has reached her goals.

Sgt. Maj. Burnadette B. Howard, 2nd Supply Bn. sergeant major, took 21 years to reach what seemed to her to be an impossible goal. She conquered the odds and reached the highest enlisted rank in the Marine Corps.

"The odds were against me from day one. I came in during a time when men felt women should not be in the Marine Corps," Howard said.

When she left Augusta, Ga. in Sept. 1966 and joined the Marine Corps, little did she know she would became a sergeant major in the Marine Corps.

Working against the odds, she started her career in the Corps and with no meritorious promotions to help her along, she made sergeant in less than two years. She served in this rank four-and-one-half years before reaching staff sergeant.

"I had to work for everything I got, and it was twice as hard," she said. Presently, there are only eight female sergeants major in the Marine Corps.

Howard was selected for promotion in February 1988, frocked in May of 1988 and promoted to sergeant major February 1, 1989. Joining the Marine Corps and becoming a sergeant major were not top items on her list of priorities back in '66.

"I wanted to join the Navy at first, but I guess it was the sweet talk of the Marine Corps recruiter that made me sign," she said.

There are a lot of different reactions from people because she is a sergeant major. "Most people are sur-prised. When I make a call and say I'm Sgt. Maj. Howard, they usually say 'yes sir' and I have to correct them," she said.

"When Marines are told they have to go to see the sergeant major, I don't think they know that they are going to see a female. For some of them it is more dramatic when they come in here to be chewed out by a woman," she said.

People have often used the term 'your mother wears combat boots" as a put down. Though this expression may be offensive to some, Howard claims that her son is taking it all in stride. "He likes to tell his friends that his mother is a sergeant major," she said

At 2nd Supply Bn. she is looked upon as a true asset. She spends a great deal of time helping others.

"I have girls calling me from other units to talk about personal problems. If they have a problem that I can help with and does not need to go through the chain of command, I help. Sometimes when the male Marines don't know how to take care of a problem with a female Marine, they ask me to talk to them," Howard said.

"I like to wear my Charlies so that junior Marines can see my rank. Most people can't believe that I am a sergeant major. You don't have to be old, run down, hard looking or unfeminine to be a sergeant major.

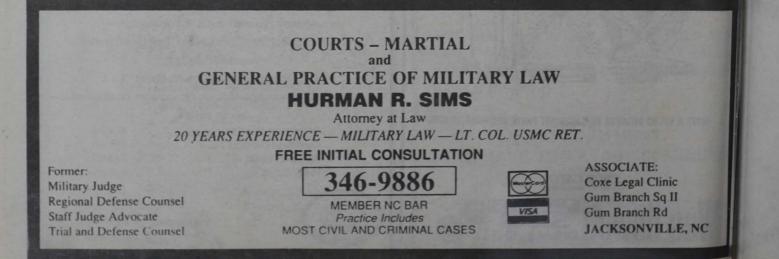

"The first impression most people have when they meet me is that I'm a pretty easy person to get along with. I'm not the type of person to be harsh or rash all of the time, but they know I mean business," she added.

Howard started her career as an administration clerk and later made a lateral move to be an audiovisual technician.

Her advice to other women in the Marine Corps is: "Just don't let the job get you down. If you have done your best and you can look at yourself in the mirror and know you've done your best, you have nothing to worry about. You can do hile Sailors from the USS Iwo Jima (LPH 2) celebrated the ship's 28th anniversary Aug. 26, a reinforced platoon of Marines, scurrying up ladderwells to helicopters on the flight deck, would have to wait for their cake

The "sticks" of Marines boarded four CH-46 Sea Knights and a CH-53 Super Stallion, lifted up, banked left over the Atlantic, and headed for a ship on the horizon.

Was it just another helo training mission for Bravo Co. Marines from BLT 1/8? It appeared so. They've boarded more helos during the MEU's predeployment workup than they care to count.

A few nautical miles away is the tiny island of Vieques, Puerto Rico. According to the Fleet Exercise 4-89 scenario, the island nation has been racked by turmoil during the month of August. Since the death of President Escobar last year, no government faction has emerged to consolidate power and prevent the economy from degenerating further. The population was uneasy, inflation was spiraling, and efforts to establish a ruling coalition government had failed.

At dawn Aug. 25, a fictitious rebel party staged a coup with the help of nearby Dictator Nabuc. The Vieques police force, the closest equivalent to a military structure on the island, remained apolitical.

An enemy airborne company secured an abandoned airfield. An infantry battalion occupied the main beachhead. An enemy communication relay site was quickly established a short distance away.

The Marines in the air knew none of this. They did, however, have a job to do.

To draw attention away from the Mediterranean Amphibious Ready Group 1-90 sitting offshore, the Nabuc leader ordered a small commando force to seize a United States civilian crew freighter (USS El Paso LKA-117) under the pretext of retrieving a stolen cocaine shipment. Marine intelligence stated the raid force might consist of up to 30 men dressed in American-styled cammie uniforms.

Nabuc radio traffic intercepted by Marines revealed that the commandos would send a ship-in-distress signal to the freighter requesting their assistance. Then they would seize the vessel.

"Man the flight deck! '53 inbound," boomed through the El Paso's loudspeakers. The MEU's forward command element, led by Lt. Col. R. Morse, exited the heavy hauler and hustled up to the bridge. Moments later, 2nd Platoon fast-roped onto El Paso's deck and set up security in the time it takes a boatswain's mate to blow his pipe.

Sailors scanning the area for rebels were suddenly joined by three dozen heavily-armed Marines peering over the rails looking for something to whet their appetites.

The MEU Marines' rapid response, however, previded the El Paso with enough security to continue her mission.

Story and photos by Staff Sgt. Lee J. Tibbetts 24th MEU Correspondent s evening's western skies over Vieques Island became a lush purple streaked with orange, faint sounds of helicopters drifted in on a tropical breeze. However, this serene setting, 25 miles south of Puerto Rico, was about to erupt.

A CH-46 Sea Knight helicopter, loaded with armed Marines for landingzone security and field-expedient communications, hugged the ocean on its approach. Within minutes, they viewed Vieques' calm lagoons mixed with coral cliffs for the first time.

The helo banked right revealing a CH-53E Super Stallion helicopter carrying a 105mm Howitzer externally. Both helos banked left and followed a draw that climbed into the island's interior. The '46 found its target and discharged its load. The '53 placed the cannon on target, then Cpl. Johnny Varner's gun team.

"Comm's up! Round away." Corrections were made then nine more rounds were fired for effect. Twenty-three minutes after the first helo landed, the artillery raid was over. Their mission, to "soften up" an enemy position nearby, was completed. And the 24th MEU's Fleet Exercise 4-89 began in earnest

During the following week, reconnaissance Marines gathered hydrographic information in the surf for future landings. Helo companies made repeated assaults from the USS Iwo Jima (LPH 2). Other scenarios, testing all MEU components, were rapidly executed.

MSSG-24 Marines shuffled lifesaving support to units moving across the island. Full water jugs were priceless as tropical heat blasted the island warriors humping steep terrain. Marines from HMM-365 worked endlessly keeping their "birds" safely aloft.

Many units struck objectives and returned to ship awaiting new missions. Some units stayed ashore using the island's live-fire ranges

The eastern tip of Vieques shook for days as aircraft dropped devastating destruction under ANGLICO's instructions. MK-19 and machine-gun barrels were heated up by Weapons Company shooters. Heavy mortarmen stack ed their tubes and plates for lighter weapons and squad maneuvers on Range

Bookstore stocks Commandant's reading I

The "Expeditionary Bookstore," the first of its kind in the Marine Corps, opened its doors Sept. 6, in a dual ceremony that featured this unique store and the opening of the new headquarters of the 2nd Marine Division Association.

The bookstore and the association headquarters share Bldg. 11, formerly the HQ Bn. armory located on Post Lane. On hand for the ribbon cutting were Maj. Gen. Donald R. Gardner, CG, MCB, and Maj. Gen. O.K. Steele, CG, 2nd MarDiv. Operated by Moral, Welfare and Recreation, the book store stocks many of the titles on General A.M. Gray's Professional Development Reading List.

The Commandant has set down the reading lists because he feels Marines must read to learn and must learn to lead.

In his dedication remarks, Maj. Gen. Gardner encouraged all Marines not to stop the learning process, "We can't do that in our profession," he said.

He also suggested Marines should check out titles from the base library's Warrior Reading Room; and if they want their own copy, to "buy it at the book store." During the ceremony, the generals first cut the book store's ribbon. Then Maj. Gen. Steele joined Association President Darrell Albers and Director Francis T. McNeive, in cutting the ribbon for the association headquarters.

Major Gen. Gardner then invited the audience to join him in the store's inaugural shopping spree.

The two Lejeune generals were the first customers to make a purchase. According to the cashier, Maj. Gen. Gardner bought three books from the Com-

NCOM CABLE TELEVISION TO REPLACE WOR WITH TNT

Cencom Cable Television has announced it will replace the spendent station WOR-New York with Turner Network evision TNT, on its' Camp Lejeune Cable System effective ctober, 1989.

The move is prompted by a Federal Communications Comsion regulation stating that certain cable systems must prothe exclusivity of syndicated programming on local adcast stations by blacking out such programs on stations n as WTBS, WGN, and WOR.

According to Cencom System Manager Dennis Horn, while 3S-Atlanta and WGN-Chicago have taken contractual steps ander themselves quote "Black-Out proof" unquote, WOR not done the same.

MCAS pulls plug on MCSSS, 14-12

By Cpl. Dave Mundy

The game was building to a climax at the Camp Johnson intramural football field Sept. 13. MCAS New River had just come from behind to take a 14-12 lead over MCSSS, but the Scholars were in good position to take the lead back. On the sidelines, the spectators, coaches and players were screaming themselves hoarse.

Then the lights went out.

A delay after some unsupervised children pulled the plug on the visitors'side lighting heightened the suspense for about 15 minutes, but when the lights came back on, the Renegades managed to pull the plug on a final drive by MCSSS and preserve a two-point win in the season opener for both teams. In other Red League action, it was

In other Red League action, it was H&S Bn. MCB downing 2nd CEB 20-6;

. 8th Comm over 2nd AAV Bn. 18-6; and Naval Hospital slipping past 6th MEB 12-6. 2nd Radio Bn. was idle.

MCAS New River found itself down 12-0 before it found Lance Cpl. B. T. Patrick. Limited to only 16 yards rushing on four carries in the first half, Patrick exploded in the fourth quarter and scored two touchdowns, as well as the gamewinning two-point conversion. He finished with 137 rushing yards on 13 carries.

"I was at fullback in the first half, and all we did was switch me to halfback," Patrick said. "All we did from there was run our fundamental plays."

The Scholars grabbed a 6-0 lead at halftime on a second-quarter score by Lance Cpl. Michael Killian. Teaming with lst Lt. Kim Frink to form a hammering ground attack, Killian capped a 40-yard drive on a 3-yard TD plunge. The Renegades, meanwhile, seemingly moved the ball at will but were throttled by their own mistakes. MCAS fumbled seven times and was penalized a total of 75 yards.

The biggest fumble came early in the final period. With the ball at the MCSSS 5-yard line, MCAS quarterback Pfc. Patrick Croomb was stripped of the ball. Frink picked up the fumble at the 20 and lumbered all the way to the Renegades' 21-yard line before he was dragged down.

The Scholars capitalized on the next play, when quarterback Staff Sgt. Kevin McMillan — playing with only two full practices under his belt — floated a pass to Cpl. Dwayne Clark in the end zone. Although the PAT try failed, MCSSS was in command with a 12-0 lead.

MCAS picked up two first downs on its next possession before coach Cpl. Jerry Morris started dialing Patrick's number. See Red, Page 2B

Lejeune Marines lead interservice team in nationals

Globe Staff Report

Three Camp Lejeune Marines recently played for the Armed Forces team in the U.S. National softball tournament in Midland, Texas.

Staff Sgt. Guillermo Foster, Cpl. Juan Ortiz and Lance Cpl. Steve Hastings were part of the jointservice team that took second in the national tournament.

Seven Marines were named to the All-Service team.

Earlier, the three were part of the All-Marine team that won the Armed Forces softball title at Goodfellow Air Force Base, Texas.

The Marines, coached by Master Sgt. Ace Gotshall and Gunnery Sgt. Joe Ramirez of Camp Pendleton, posted a 5-1 record in the Armed Forces tournament to take the gold.

It was the first title for the Marines since 1984 and only the second time in 15 years the Corps has won the title.

Patrick carried five straight times, the final one a 23-yard dash for a touchdown, to cut the lead to 12-6.

The Air Station defense held and the Renegades got a big break when Killian who had earlier boomed punts of 51 and 61 yards - popped a punt straight up in the air. The ball finally came to rest nine yards behind the line of scrimmage at the MCSSS 31.

Patrick wasted no time. On the next play, he picked up a clearing block from Staff Sgt. C. Hampton, hurdled two more tacklers and charged into the end zone. Another sweep of left end picked up the crucial conversion points.

"We were pretty down on ourselves (after Killian's fumble return)," Patrick admitted. "But we're just one of those teams that sticks together through thick and thin, and we pulled together and came back."

Patriots pound 'Pups, 40

By Cpl. Dave Mundy

After four weeks of being the punching-bags for some of the area's larger schools, the Lejeune High Devilpups are ready to start picking on someone their own size

The Devilpups open Coastal Plains Conference action Friday, visiting Jones Senior, after absorbing a 40-6 whipping from West Carteret Sept. 15.

"It'll be a relief," admitted running back Aldo De-Jesus, who provided Lejeune its biggest offensive output of the year in the loss to the Patriots. "We'll be happy to start playing people who are about the same size as we are. It's been frustrating so far.'

Patriots quarterback Mike Holman scored a touchdown on West Carteret's first possession, then threw to more TD passes in rolling up a 27-0 halftime lead. Holman finished with 184 yards passing, completing 8 of 10 attempts.

The Devilpups didn't get untracked until the second half, and it was the game's strangest play echoing the best of "NFL Follies" - that got them moving

After Tim Williams had scored for West Carteret early in the third period to make it 33-0, the Devilpups found themselves facing a second-and-16 situation at their own 23. DeJesus took the snap in the single wing formation and seemed to take a stutter-step backwards. The Patriots' defensive line surged right past him, and DeJesus found an expanse of clear terrain ahead.

Seven fumbles by the Amtracs, however, eventually gave Comm the chances to blow the game open. Lance Cpl. Irving Garner put Comm on top by taking in a 35-yard TD toss from quarter-back Lance Cpl. Keith McGinnis. Lance Cpl. Hubert Murphy capped the scoring on a 20-vard run.

The Comm defense was sparked by Lance Cpl. David Leech and Sgt. Robert Mosley, who recorded three sacks. Lance Cpl. W. J. Smith and Lance Cpl. Dexter Conrad keyed the AAV offense.

Illegal procedure ... Sportswriter

The yellow flags are out ... The Globe sports editor, Cpl. Dave Mundy, has drawn a 10-yard penalty for not having enough yards on the field.

In a story last week pointing out the differences between 8-man intramural football and the 11-man game, Mundy inadvertently stated the field was only 90 yards long. It is, of course, 100 yards in length.

Mundy attributed the error to a mishandled snap.

Hunter Safety Local enthusiasts provide instruction

Not safe-hunter certified?

Your dinner menu could be leaner in the near future, or your hearth might be missing that prize buck you planned on bagging this year.

Beginning in 1991, first-time hunters wishing to buy North Carolina hunting licenses will be turned away if they can't show proof of passing a certified hunter safety course.

To prevent anyone in the Leieune area from missing out on the world's oldest sport, some local gamesters who are certified hunter safety instructors recently offered the course. Not only did area youths participate, but older hunters-tobe without a license.

"The course was given on two con-secutive weekends," said retired Marine colonel E.H. Arkland. "The first day was classroom instruction concerning hunting laws, regulations, ethics, conservation and safety. This included instruction on all authorized firearms and bows," he said.

The following Saturday was the application as the hunters fired a number of weapons, including black-powder muzzle loaders, .22-caliber long rifle and pistol, 12- and 20-gauge shotguns, and compound bows. The participants must also pass a written test for their certification.

The course is certified by the N.R.A. and the N.C. Wildlife and Resource Commission. It is good throughout the United States and Canada," Arkland said.

Although it is another two years before the certification is needed to acquire a license in North Carolina, Arkland offered the course early for two reasons.

The more hunters who take and utilize what they learn in this course makes hunting safer and more enjoyable for everyone," he said. "And by offering the course now, it saves from having to rush to get certified at the last minute and possibly from missing a season of hunting."

The next course is scheduled for the summer of 1990.
