Project "T" and the State of North Carolina have teamed up to make the big step to CivOLant (Civilian Occupations, Atlantic) not only easier, but something special for Marines leaving the Corps between now and December.

Opening Round

Boss: I asked you a half hour ago to look up John Zippie's telephone number. Don't you have it yet?

New Secretary: No, but I am down to the H's already!

I don't have those nightmares much anymore. I used to associate them with a late, late pizza, but I cut out that foolishness long ago. Last night, was a pepperoni and anchovy special.

I seemed to be behind a desk in a small room. I turned around a sign on the desk and it read Project Transition. About that time a somewhat weary sergeant major came in and dropped an application on the desk.

"I'm ready to quit," he said. "I want to go on Transition."

I read the application. "You can't go on Transition. You're a sergeant major with twenty-eight years in the Corps. This program is for youngsters who haven't learned a useful trade."

"How many civilian sergeants major have you heard of?" he asked. "The Marine Corps has used me all these years and now is ready to cast me out without a means of livelihood!"

"We'll consider it, Sergeant Major," I decided dropping his form back in the basket. "Now, I believe there is someone behind you."

The next fellow looked more in the proper age bracket. "What would you like to become?" I asked.

"A computer programmer," he replied.

"Fine," I said. "What do you do now?"

"I am a messkit repair technician," he answered proudly. "I've even been to the teflon school, but frankly I aspire to even higher things in life now."

"This is quite a jump from messkits to data processing. Do you expect any difficulty in making — excuse the expression — the transition?"

"No," he answered quickly. "There is an outfit in Raleigh which will train anyone to be a computer programmer in two and a half weeks."

"Excellent," I counseled. "You wait until you have the DD214 in your hand, and you should be making big money by the time your last Marine Corps paycheck runs out. Next, please."

There was one last Marine hovering in the doorway.

"Come in, lad," I invited. "What do you want to learn to be?"

"A hired killer," he answered.

"You are already a hired killer," I chuckled. "All day long steely-eyed killers come in the doorway, and we send them out to be bookbinders, hairdressers or whatever they like. Now what field would you like to try?"

"Look," he blurted out. "I'm an intelligence analyzer. There is absolutely no demand in civilian life for analyzing intelligence. Jack Anderson and Howard K. Smith have that business all tied up. So, I looked around and this loan outfit is opening a local office. They need someone to visit slow clients and convince them to pay up before anything happens to their families."

"Wonderful," I said. "You are the first real live Transition prospect I've had all day. Can you shoot a 45? Know any karate?"

"No, but I'll learn," he said hopefully.

"Good," I replied. "It's a big jump but we'll get you changed over to civilian life in no time!"

Parting Shot:

Status quo is Latin for the mess we are now in.

All for the love of the Corps

By MSgt. Don Coleman

WASHINGTON — She was a striking stranger. With shoulders held high, she passed through a St. Paul, Minn., shopping center, a reflection of pride and royalty.

This stranger, the sleeves of her blouse marking her as military, was to influence the lifestyle of a young woman fresh from figure skating practice.

Today, 28 years later, and with a vivid recollection of the passing stranger, that woman is now the Sergeant Major of Woman Marines. June (Judy) Andler had been impressed. Rushing home, she rattled off plans to mom and dad — plans of a military career. The parents thought nothing of it until Judy came home from the Marine Corps recruiting office with a poster of a WM and announced that she "indeed" was to be a Woman Marine.

March 9, 1944, Miss Andler enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps Women Reserve and at 8:15 a.m., April 17, 1944, she boarded the train for Camp Lejeune.

"We have discussed her leaving for the Marines," a former supervisor wrote, "and I know personally she realizes it will be a lot of hard work. Having her heart and soul set as she has, for the Marines, I know she will prove very satisfactory."

Pvt. Andler (according to her records) was a sober, obedient, average Marine May 29, 1944, when she graduated from recruit training and began her climb to the Corps' top Woman Marine enlisted post.

She spent World War II at Quantico, Va., and Headquarters Marine Corps as a clerk in the Marine Corps exchange and later as an allotment clerk in disbursing. She had attained the rank of staff sergeant by the end of the war.

When the decision was made, in 1948, to create an active duty force of Woman Marines, Andler was among the few Woman Reserves still on active duty. She immediately reenlisted.

"There were 15 of us sent to Parris Island to train the new WMs," Sgt. Maj. Andler recalls.

She worked at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, first as chief clerk of the Woman Recruit Training Battalion and later as a drill instructor with the 3d Recruit Training Battalion.

It was at Parris Island where she began to accumulate the knowledge that helped advance her to the position as Sergeant Major of Woman Marines.

"Because we were all new at the job," she recalls, "we really got to know the women. My first platoon taught me a lot about instructing and counseling women."

Sgt. Maj. Andler's career was also enhanced by additional tours at Parris Island, plus duties as first sergeant of the woman officers' candidate program and as WM first sergeant at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

When asked about the quality of women recruits today, she remarked:

"On a recent trip to MCRD, Parris Island, I confirmed the fact that the motivation that makes a girl want to become a Woman Marine is no different today from any other time. Of course, you always see this at recruit training. Today, the difference lies in the fact that not as many of our women recruits are as career minded as those who joined in the '40s and '50s. Most of the women who join the service today, do so because of the educational opportunities both during active duty and through the VA."

Sgt. Maj. Andler, a high school graduate, admits her success is based on hard work and many hours of self-taught education. She advises men and women planning careers as staff NCOs to not only work hard at self-improvement but to seek a higher education. "It is becoming increasingly important," she said, "for most staff NCOs to attain a college degree if they want to be promoted and remain useful and active in the Marine Corps."

Judy Andler is slightly over five feet tall, has short, loosely-curved hair and possess a smile that would comfort even the most timid private.

"It is always easy for a woman to smile," she confirmed, "and I have found that it is an especially effective means of bridging any gap whether it is one of age or sex. You'd be surprised how effectively a smile will create a bond of trust between individuals."

When Sgt. Maj. Andler speaks of WMs, it is not as "her girls" but as "her counterparts." However, she hesitates to say that someday one of them will be her replacement.

"I love the Corps," she declared. Then in an instant, her eyes clouded and with deep emotion and sincerity she continued, "but I'm hurt because I will have to get out after 30 years. I have never been counseled to stay in the Corps, but too soon I'll have to leave."

In about two years the Corps will lose another good Marine — one who came in to make it a career. She has done it successfully.

Her secret? "You have to keep busy."

A man who is good enough to shed his blood for his country is good enough to be given a square deal after-wards. More than that no man is entitled to, and less than that no man shall have.

Gen. R.E. Cushman

CMC arrives Wednesday

Gen. Robert E. Cushman, Commandant of the Marine Corps, will visit Camp Lejeune next week.

He is scheduled to arrive at Marine Corps Air Station, New River, Wednesday.

The General's itinerary calls for a Tri-Command breakfast at the SNCO Club the following morning. He will also visit the Marine Corps Engineer Schools, the Infantry Training Regiment at Camp Geiger, the Marine Corps Service Support School at Montford Point, and make an aerial reconnaissance of Paradise Point.

On Friday, Gen. Cushman will tour Force Troops and the 2d Marine Division.

That afternoon Gen. Cushman is scheduled to attend ceremonies at Mile Hammock Bay during which Force Troops 2d Amphibian Tractor Bn. will officially convert to the new LVTP-7 (Landing Vehicle, Tracked, Personnel.)

RAdm. P.O. Geib

NEW STARS — Rear Admiral Phillip O. Geib, MC, USN, Commanding Officer, US Naval Hospital Camp Lejeune, rose to flag rank last Thursday in a ceremony on the Hospital's front lawn. USNH Commander since last August, RAdm. Geib departs next month for new duties with the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Washington, D.C. Navy Captain Earl R. Peters, Executive Officer, USNH Philadelphia, will be the new head of Lejeune medical facilities.

Flood victims need aid

The American National Red Cross has addressed an appeal to Camp Lejeune Marines and dependents for aid to flood victims of Tropical Storm Agnes and flash flood victims in South Dakota.

Because this emergency comes at a time when Red Cross disaster funds have been seriously depleted, the Red Cross has asked its local chapters to raise a minimum of $10 million to augment the many millions of dollars necessary to assist victims of these floods and other recent catastrophes.

Since Jan. 2, 1971, nearly $12 million has already been spent to assist victims of such disasters as the recent floods in Texas, Kentucky, Washington, W. Virginia, and Pennsylvania.

Marines here wishing to make contributions to the Red Cross may address their donations to: American National Red Cross (Flood Disaster Relief), 17th and M St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. Or, donors may contact the Camp Lejeune Chapter of the ARC at 2173 in Bldg. 41.

Precedence list delayed

The lineal precedence list for sergeants major through master sergeants, planned originally for distribution June 30, was not published on schedule.

Promotion officials at Headquarters say that unexpected complications will cause a delay in distribution of almost three months. The list will detail the order of seniority of the Marine Corps' top two enlisted pay grades.

MajGen. Huang Lo ends visit here

The Deputy Commandant of the Republic of China Marine Corps ended a four-day visit here Monday.

MajGen. Huang Kuang Lo arrived here last Friday after ending a tour at Marine Corps

Base, Quantico, and left Monday afternoon to continue his tour of U.S. installations at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island.

The 51-year old general visited units of the 2d Marine Division, Force Troops and Marine Corps Base. Included in his tour were visits to 2d Recon Bn., the 1st Infantry Training Regiment, Marine Corps Service Support Schools, and the Marine Corps Engineer Schools where he observed a landmine warfare demonstration.

Gen. Huang has served his country for 31 years since his graduation from the Chinese Military Academy where he was commissioned a second lieutenant.

During World War II, he was awarded two medals for heroism and won two battlefield promotions. He was later wounded in the communist rebellion as he fought his way across China leading his troops.

Gen. Huang was Chief of Staff of the Republic of China Marine Corps before he assumed his present position late last year.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR — MajGen. Huang Kuang Lo, the Deputy Commandant of the Republic of China Marine Corps, talks to members of the 2d Recon Battalion during his recent visit to MCB, Camp Lejeune.

Skills Center open at Project 'T'

By LCpl. Jeff Wickland

Marines with less than 60 days to serve the Corps need not feel "too short" to receive free government training. Since June, a select few have been able to get a jump on the job hassle through the Project Transition Skills Center here at Camp Lejeune.

Camp Lejeune's Center, like its sister operation at Camp Pendleton, offers classroom training under the Manpower Development and Training Act in a dozen occupations and On the Job Training in others. Trainees must have less than "60 and a hook" and qualify in certain priority classes.

The highest priority eligible for the concentrated 240 hours of skills training goes to applicants who possess a combat MOS, and lack a high school diploma or GED certificate and a skill appropriate to civilian work.

The next highest priority goes to combat specialized Marines who lack either a high school education or an appropriate skill.

Combat MOS's acceptable to the program, along with other details of the Skills Center Program are spelled out in Marine Corps Base Order 1760.8. Appropriate MOS fields include infantry, armor and amphibious, combat engineer, artillery and missiles, combat air crew, pilot and navigators, and small boat operators.

Third priority goes to non-combatant MOS Marines who lack a High School education and an appropriate civilian skill.

Classes are conducted at Coastal Carolina Community College, and aboard the base, in retail sales, arc welding, auto mechanics, auto service mechanics, electrician's helper, bricklaying, carpentry, radio and TV repair, surveying instrument, plumbing, plumber's helper, and law enforcement courses.

Although the program was designed for Marines serving overseas, Camp Lejeune Marines and others stationed in the US are eligible to apply. Those not stationed at Camp Lejeune are brought on the base under TAD or PCS orders.

Since the program began operation in June, the Skills Center has turned out 14 men trained as auto service mechanics, and 12 men trained as arc welders. Six of the trainees were from off base, one from overseas.

Applicants for Skills Center training go through the normal Project Transition application channels, contacting their career planners and commanding officers.

The Skills Center supplements Project Transition, but in no way replaces it. The major difference between the two programs, aside from eligibility, is the length and concentration of training. In Project T, trainees receive 360 hours of training in up to six months. The Skills Center gives out 240 hours in up to 60 days.

Applicants who are too short even to complete the concentrated training can still benefit through the World of Work program, which provides civilian-bound Marines with opportunities to see a Project Transition Counselor, a Veteran's Administration Representative, a Veteran's Employment Representative, a Career Planning Counselor, and a Career Library Counselor for advice on obtaining post-Marine Corps employment. It also provides the applicant with assistance in locating jobs, where possible.

2/6 on standby in Fla.

More than 500 Marines of the 2d Bn., Sixth Marines left here Saturday under the command of LtCol. Bruce M. MacLaren for Homestead Air Force Base, Fla.

The Marines are part of a 2500 man Federal Task Force on standby duty 30 miles from the Democratic National Convention Headquarters in Miami. It is anticipated that the entire Task Force will remain on federal property and will not be required at the convention site.

The 2-6 Marines have, however, been specially trained and equipped to cope with any civil disorders which they may encounter.

When asked about the possible use of Marines in Miami should necessity dictate, MajGen. Fred Haynes, CG, 2d Marine Division, said "The 2d Marine Division has a standing civil disturbance requirement for one battalion to cover any locale east of the Mississippi.

"Now, as during the last four summers, we are increasing our training tempo somewhat for possible commitments to ensure we are ready, as always, to meet any assignment."

In addition to the Marines, some 2000 troops of the 82d Airborne Brigade from Ft. Bragg, N.C., are also headquartered at Homestead AFB.

ABOUT PAGE ONE...

CivOLant is one BIG step

It's a big step to CivOLant! (That's Civilian Occupation, Atlantic.)

But not so big that Project Transition can't help a Marine find or prepare for a job "out there." In fact, the illustrator who produced the artwork for Page 1, LCpl. Dave Sellers, is a Project T. man getting some OJT experience with the Joint Public Affairs Office for the civilian occupation he plans to pursue when he leaves the Corps in September.

Other Marines get caught sitting on their locker-boxes wondering what they'll do when they get out.

This page has a story on Project T's Skills Center; and page "A" has the scoop on what Page 1 is all about — the Job Fair sponsored by MCB, Camp Lejeune and the State of North Carolina.

CONGRATULATIONS LITTLE LEAGUERS

CUBS AND WEBELOS — Cub Pack 190 of Tarawa Terrace will hold a parents meeting, July 19, 7 p.m., at the TT Scout Hut. Men and women interested in assisting the Den Master in committee positions are particularly urged to attend. Parent support is essential to the Pack's continued success. There are currently openings for Cubs and Webelos, boys 8-10 years of age. Registrations will be taken at the July 19 meeting.

OVER AT LAST! — This slightly hoarse and very proud mother joins other parents in the same general condition in a great sigh of relief, another highly successful Little League season is over. Our youngsters have learned the mechanics and theory of baseball, have practiced and played till they should have been limp. More importantly they have learned from their coaches and trainers sportsmanship and loyalty and pride. How hard it is to adequately thank men who have taken on hours and days of work to help form your son, to teach him to play, to win and to lose. The team which I know best presented awards to its coaches with the inscription, "First in Leadership, Sportsmanship, and Character", and other teams and parents have surely echoed the thought. To all Lejeune coaches and officials, our thanks and our gratitude, we stand in your debt. It is perhaps not widely known that many young Marines, without boys of their own, volunteered to coach and officiate for the Lejeune Little Leaguers this year. To these men goes a special vote of appreciation. And so, time now to get our nerves and voices back in shape, it has been noted that dependent's football sign-ups go Aug. 5 and 12!!

BIBLE SCHOOL SET — Vacation Bible School opens its doors at two locations, July 17-21. Base buses will transport children to and from Stone Street School or Tarawa Terrace II Elementary School; consult schedule for exact times. Children, three years, of age through sixth grade, may be registered Sunday, July 16, 9:15 - 10:15 a.m., at Stone Street Sunday School, Tarawa Terrace II Sunday School or the Base Chaplains Office. Bible Study, worship, music, crafts and recreation will be provided for attending dependents at no charge.

DANCE TO 'THE ONYX' — The TT Civic Association announces a dance to be held July 22, 8 p.m. - midnight, TT Community Center. Tickets will be on sale at the door, $1.50 for couples, $1 per person. The TT Sitter Service will offer reduced rates for this function, no advance reservations are required. Come out and enjoy the fun, all military personnel and dependents over 18 years of age are welcome.

FOR PROTESTANT BIBLE SCHOOL

Bus service available

Bus service for Protestant Vacation Bible School will be provided July 17-21. Classes begin at 9 a.m. and end at noon at the Stone St. School and the Tarawa Terrace II School. Children three years old through sixth grade may attend.

The following schedule lists the times that buses will stop at the stops indicated. All times are a.m. Children will return home on the same numbered bus that picks them up in the morning. Motor Transport officials advise children to be at bus stops five minutes prior to the scheduled pick up times.

TEEN TOPICS

Purple Plumes awarded

By Jim Redman

Well, Summer is now half over and just to let everyone know about it the Teen Club is having a "Middle of the Summer" dance. It will be held at Marston Pavilion Saturday, July 15, from eight till the midnight hour and the Grapes of Wrath will provide music to stomp grapes by.

After reading this, many of you will say to yourselves, "Oh heck, another dance. Is that all the Teen Club does?"

The answer is No. The club has many other activities. For instance, in the past few weeks there have been some really good fighters at Marston Arena. So good, in fact, that a beer company wants to put them on TV but they can't decide who should be the home team, Lejeune or Jacksonville.

Seriously though, the Teen Club recently spent a large sum of money on a good amount of games and a new Bumper Table. The old one broke a leg so they had to shoot it. Also, in the future the club plans to repaint the inside of Marston Pavilion so people will stop calling it the Teen Mausoleum. I understand the color scheme is to be light blue and Navy blue.

This week two more people of honor were discovered by the Purple Plume, thus making them worthy for induction into its secret society. They are Mike Drennan and Kevin Brooks. These two young men have proven themselves worthy of such an honor for the following reasons:

This past July 5, Mike left Camp Lejeune for Annapolis, Maryland and the Naval Academy where he will receive his college education and skill in sailing for free. Most people do not realize the honor involved in receiving an appointment to the Academy. It is one of the finest schools in the country and many people feel it is a great honor just to be considered much less accepted. So the Purple Plume extends its congratulations and Good Luck to Mike.

Kevin was recently selected to play in the 10th Annual Boys Home All-Star game. Kevin is the first LHS player to ever be selected. This climaxes a great year at LHS that includes his being Tri-Captain, Most Valuable Player, an All-Conference selection and a player on the first team of the All-East squad. So to Kevin the Purple Plume extends its thanks for the many hours on the field for LHS and wishes him Good Luck in the future.

For those who want to go and see Kevin play, the game will be held Aug. 5 at 8 p.m. in Ficklen stadium which is located on the campus of ECU. Tickets are available at Furniture Fair and if enough interest is shown there will be a bus provided by the High School. Come on football fans and let's go up to ECU to support Kevin.

OWC sponsors Nursery School

Registration for the Paradise Point Nursery School will be held in Bldg. 2625 Aug. 1, at 9 a.m. The school is sponsored by the Officers' Wives Club and is open to children of OWC members living on and off the base.

Children who are four years old prior to Oct. 16 and not yet five by that date are eligible for enrollment. Younger children not yet four by Oct. 16 may be placed on a special waiting list and will be accepted if there are additional openings.

School hours are from 8:45 to 11:00 a.m. Monday through Friday with classes scheduled to start Sept. 6. Tuition is $25 per month. A registration fee of $5 will be charged in addition to the first month's tuition.

Registration fees are not refundable. Registration fees and tuition for September must be paid by check at registration. Please bring the child's birth certificate and shot record.

For additional information call Mrs. MacDermant, Supervisor, at 353-1394.

CHAMPUS NEWS

DENVER — Cosmetic and plastic surgery procedures that are intended to, or are incidental to other procedures that are intended to, improve abnormal bodily functions or relieve pain are authorized under CHAMPUS when performed by a qualified practitioner.

Officials of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS) also note that cosmetic and plastic surgery procedures that are performed solely for the purpose of changing or improving the appearance or form of the individual will only be authorized when competent professional authority has determined that the accomplishment of the procedure is essential to the physical or mental health of the patient. CHAMPUS officials have advised beneficiaries that these procedures must be approved in writing by the state fiscal administrator prior to their accomplishment.

● Under CHAMPUS inpatient care normally will be provided in semi-private accommodations.

● Under CHAMPUS successive inpatient admissions for similarly recurring procedures or for treatment of the same condition will be considered as one admission for the purpose of computing the CHAMPUS beneficiary's share of the charges, provided not more than 30 days elapse between the successive admissions.

● The services of a professional registered nurse, licensed practical nurse, licensed vocational nurse, or technical registered nurse outside an inpatient facility are payable as CHAMPUS outpatient benefits when the attending physician certifies that the services are medically necessary.

WASHINGTON WIRE

HUMAN RELATIONS INSTITUTE IN OPERATION

The Human Relations School at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, became a permanent school and was redesignated as an institute July 1.

The Human Relations School first opened in September 1971 to test curriculum developed by the American Institutes for Research and the Human Relations Branch at Headquarters Marine Corps. A total of 113 officers and staff NCOs were trained in two pilot classes.

The first class for the Human Relations Institute began July 9. It is a special class for reservists on two-weeks of active duty. A second summer class is scheduled to begin July 30. It will be a three-week discussion leaders class for active duty members of the Marine Air Reserve Training Command and its detachments. Discussion leaders are trained to conduct guided discussion training sessions on human relations at their parent units.

Course curriculum encompasses:

- the value of human life and the role of the Marine as a defender of human life;
- minority-majority issues adversely affecting human relations within the civilian society and within the Marine Corps;
- culture shock (a reaction to the differences in customs and cultures which individuals find difficult to understand in relation to their own culture); and,
- selected readings in the general field of human relations.

Emphasis is placed on: oral and written presentations; basic research and interview techniques and procedures; and research and implementation of individual action programs.

$1500 BOUNTY FOR NEW GRUNTS, CANNON COCKERS, TANKERS AND AMTRACERS

Certain recruits entering the Marine Corps during the next three months will get a $1,500 lump sum bonus in a test of the combat arms enlistment bonus program.

A similar test is being conducted by the Army. The Secretary of Defense asked for the tests to measure the effect of an enlistment bonus on the recruitment of an all volunteer force.

The Marine Corps will pay the bonus to the first 3,300 volunteers who (1) enlist for four years in the regular Marine Corps; (2) report for active duty during the period of June 1 through Aug. 31, 1972; and (3) volunteer and qualify for assignment in a combat arms specialty — occupational fields 03 (infantry), 08 (field artillery) and 18 (tank and amphibian tractor).

The bonus test program is open to prior service applicants who meet the above prerequisites and:

- have not been separated from the military service for more than three months;
- have not completed more than three years of active duty service;
- have not previously received a reenlistment bonus, or
- are not entitled to a reenlistment bonus at the time of enlistment.

Reservists not on active duty who meet the conditions and requirements also are eligible for enlistment under the bonus program.

The actual MOSs involved are: 0311, 0331, 0341, 0351, 0369, 0811, 0812, 0842, 0944, 846, 0847, 0848, 0849, 1811, 1831 and 1833.

HUMAN RELATIONS BRANCH REDESIGNATED

The Human Relations Branch at Headquarters Marine Corps has been deactivated and its functions reassigned.

The branch's personnel are now operating as the Human Relations Section, Equal Opportunity Branch of the G-1 Division. The branch had been under the G-3 Division. They have retained the responsibility for the Marine Corps' human relations program.

MARINE CORPS VOLUMES ON WORLD WAR II OPS COMPLETE

The last of the five volume "History of U.S. Marine Corps Operations in World War II" has been published.

Volume IV is an 848-page edition titled "Operations in the Western Pacific" and was authored by Truman R. Strobbridge and George W. Garand. Its publication, although following Volume V, completes work begun in 1961 by the Marine Corps Historical Branch.

The other volumes are: I — Pearl Harbor to Guadalcanal; II — Isolation of Rabaul; III — Central Pacific Drive; and V — Victory and Occupation.

Only Volume IV (GPO No. D214.13w89) and V (GPO No. D214.13w89-y5) are available. They may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402, at a cost of $10 and $11.75 respectively.

Job help for the vet

By JAMES D. HODGSON

Secretary of Labor

Although the United States has always extended a helping hand to the veteran who has served his Nation in time of war, the Vietnam-era veteran has special problems which challenge the ingenuity of those charged with assisting him.

For one thing, the veteran of the Vietnam conflict is, on the average, younger than the veterans of World War I or World War II.

Because he is younger in years, he has, generally, had less formal education, less training for the world of work. In many cases, he has never held a job so there just isn't a job to return to — as there so frequently was for the servicemen and women returning from World War II and the Korean conflict.

In addition, in our rapidly changing technological society, the jobs for which our young men and women were trained several years ago may simply not exist today. It is not a case of men having been replaced by machines, but machines having become so sophisticated that they require more highly-trained people to operate and repair them.

All of these factors have contributed to the distressingly high rate of unemployment among Vietnam-era veterans in the 20-29 year age group.

It was this high unemployment rate which just a year ago caused President Richard Nixon to call for intensified Federal efforts to find jobs and job-training for our veterans. In doing so, he established the Jobs-for-Veterans program to mobilize the resources of both the public and private sectors toward this end.

In June of this year, expressing his deep concern over the plight of the jobless veteran, the President directed the Secretary of Labor to initiate action in six areas. These included:

- 1) Drawing on the resources of the National Alliance of Businessmen.
- 2) Expanding the Department of Defense's Transition Program for men being separated from the service.

3) Augmenting the number of training opportunities for returning veterans.

4) Requiring all Government agencies and contractors to list their job openings with the U.S. Employment Service.

5) Increasing the effectiveness of the U.S. Employment Service in locating job opportunities for veterans.

6) Providing special vocational rehabilitation services to veterans who have been drawing unemployment compensation for three months or longer.

In July and August, the initial two-month period of this intensive effort, nearly 122,000 Vietnam-era veterans were placed in jobs or training. Nevertheless, despite this achievement, 320,000 young veterans remained without jobs in September — or more than eight of every one hundred who were in the labor force.

Although we are convinced that the President's new economic policy, targeting in on unemployment and inflation, should provide the necessary impetus for an increase in employment opportunities for all workers, we do not intend to let up on our efforts to help the Vietnam-era veteran get his start in the world of work.

We gave Federal agencies and Government contractors until Dec. 15 to list their job openings with the local offices of the U. S. Training and Employment Service. This may result in as many as one million job opportunities being listed by the end of the year; many will be jobs for which veterans either are presently qualified or will be able to qualify for with special training.

Further, by the end of next June, we expect to fill 75,000 Civil Service jobs with veterans. Within the same time interval, we are confident that the efforts of the National Alliance of Businessmen will have produced 100,000 job openings with private employers throughout the country. And, we have reserved more than one-third of the public service jobs created under the Emergency Employment Act for Vietnam-era veterans.

In addition, we are taking steps to deal effectively with the special problems facing a number of servicemen or newly discharged veterans.

For example, a program is now being developed to give job counseling and training for civilian jobs to servicemen undergoing treatment for drug use at 35 military bases. It is our conviction that in this situation medical treatment and job training must go hand-in-hand in order to achieve the successful rehabilitation of these men.

Short is short for short-timer, a phrase certainly as old as the first Leatherneck recruiting poster that hung in Tun's Tavern.

To most heavies, short is a word flaunted by junior Marines getting close to the end of their enlistment; a word that often means a man doesn't have enough time to make a six-month cruise, or pull a month's tour of guard duty. It is a word heavies don't like to hear because it often means a good Marine, an asset to the Corps, is getting out.

To the Marine who's short on time to do in the Corps, the word is often breathed with a sign of relief. Some Marines consider themselves short from the day they join; others wonder if they'll ever get half-way through their hitch so they can apply the word to themselves.

Short is usually used by a Marine during the last six months of his active duty. And, if he's a sharp short-timer, he'll seek counsel from Project Transition when he hits the six-month mark.

Some short-timers are so short, they'll claim they don't even have time to read this Word of the Week ... which is anything but short.

Marston Pavilion

By LCpl. Jeff Wickland

In today's competitive job market, knowing how to find work is as important as knowing how to do it, and job contacts are vital. Realizing this, the Commanding General, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, and the Governor of North Carolina have combined in sponsoring aboard the base what backers believe is the biggest job fair ever in the eastern United States.

Military and dependent personnel thinking of taking the plunge into the job market can survey his opportunities first hand at a gathering of job recruiters and employment counselors in Marston Pavilion Wednesday, July 19.

According to Project Transition Coordinator L.G. Simpson Jr., several hundred representatives of businesses, colleges, and various levels of industry and government in the eastern US will be on hand from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. to interview applicants for all types of positions.

Among the 6,000 invitations to employers were queries to the General Telephone Company of the Southeast, Weyerhaeuser Company, Piedmont Aerospace Institute, and many other major industries.

Government employers invited include the North Carolina Employment Security Commission, and a number of police departments. The Greensboro, N.C. Police Department has already accepted an invitation along with the Civil Service Commission.

In the tight field of education, Educational Testing Service and East Carolina University were among the employers contacted.

In addition, those attending the Job Fair can seek information on all types of veteran's benefits, including education and housing subsidies, through a Veteran's Administration Representative.

Those planning on working for themselves can learn from a representative of the Federal Government's Small Business Administration, who will be present.

Job applicants should prepare in advance a resume that includes the applicant's name, address, and telephone number, in addition to the information listed here:

- JOB OBJECTIVE: Including preferred location and indicating willingness to relocate.
- EXPERIENCE: Starting with the most recent experience and going back. Include only experience related to the job objective.
- EDUCATION: Including schools and major subjects
- MILITARY SERVICE: Including branch of service, rank, Military Occupational Specialty, duties and dates of service.
- PERSONAL DATA: Including age, height, weight, physical condition, marital status, and family information.
- AVAILABILITY DATE.

Mother's plea answered; fallen warrior

WASHINGTON — A mother's plea to bring her Marine son's body home "if it takes a hundred years to find him" was answered recently when the remains of her son and four other World War II Marines were returned to the U. S. from battlefield graves dug nearly 30 years ago on Guadalcanal.

The remains, discovered in October 1970, were buried in a common grave at Arlington National Cemetery June 28.

The five were among nine Marines killed on Guadalcanal Oct. 9, 1942 by Japanese small arms fire. They were: Cpl. John F. Suggs of Richlands, N. C.; PFC's Godfrey E. Hunter Jr., of Winston Salem, N. C.; David W. Johns of Johnstown, Pa.; and Eugene Johnston of Littleton, N. C. and Pvt. Paul E. Gagnon of Augusta, Me.

All were members of Co. "E", 7th Marines, 1st Marine Division. The company, commanded by Capt. Walter S. Haskell Jr., was on a 6-day operation, sweeping from the Matanikau River towards Point Cruz on the Northern coast of Guadalcanal.

Because of the heavy fighting, eight of the Marines were buried where they fell.

The other Marine of Co. "E," killed that day was temporarily interned in the 1st Marine Division cemetery and later shipped to the U. S.

In 1946, American Graves Registration personnel spent several weeks searching for the bodies of the eight Marines. The extensive upheaval of earth caused by artillery barrages and bombing plus the rapid growth of thick underbrush hid the gravesites and only three were found.

Reservists keep coming

By Maj. H. J. Bartol

Camp Lejeune becomes the training site for thousands of Marine Reservists every summer with Division and Force Troops units acting as training hosts. Last week-end, 10 units of Reserve Marines arrived for two weeks of Annual Training Duty — 714 Reservists — some from as far away as Seattle, Wash.

A few good men put aside their college texts and civilian jobs — teachers, policemen, truck drivers, construction workers, and many others — to increase their skills as Marines.

During the year they meet monthly for a week-end of training. Then, each summer, they are hosted by a Regular Marine Corps unit with a similar mission which provides on-the-job experience.

So far this summer, nearly 3000 reservists from 35 units have participated in activities such as helicopter operations, motor transport maintenance, computerized supply procedures, and weapons firing.

The Reserve Marines work beside regular counterparts developing the skills needed to maintain proficiency in their MOS.

Work during the July Fourth holiday and on weekends indicates the seriousness with which an Annual Training Duty is accomplished.

Most of the units which have trained so far this summer have been support units of the 4th Force Service Regiment hosted by similar units of 2nd FSR. The host units provided the opportunity for the reservists to work in warehouses, motor pools, and shop areas and to attend classes on new developments in their specialty.

Infantry and artillery troops of the 4th Marine Division have been preparing at their home reserve centers for their ATD at Camp Lejeune which begins July 22. When 49 units arrive here late next week, it will be for the usual intense training followed by participation in a brigade landing exercise called "High Boot".

According to LtCol. G. F. Hoffman, Assistant Officer-in-Charge of the Reserve Liaison Unit here, so large a number of Marine Reservists can be accommodated because of the outstanding support of the host units and professional Marines of Camp Lejeune.

The members of Organized Marine Corps Reserve Units are not the only reservists to arrive at Camp Lejeune. And summer is not the only time the base provides them with training.

Throughout the year Reserve Marines participate in individual on-the-job training (OJT) and attend schools here.

Last Monday about 100 citizen-Marines — officer and enlisted — were to begin two-week schools on Mine Warfare and Demolition, Automotive Mechanic, Motor Transport, Supply, and Instructor Orientation.

Reserve units currently aboard are H&S Company, 4th Shore Party Bn., from Seattle, Wash., hosted by H&S Co., 2nd Shore Party Bn.; "C" Co., 4th Shore Party Bn., from Charleston, S. C., hosted by "A" Co., 2nd Shore Party Bn.; Truck Co., 4th Service Bn., from Connellsville, Pa., hosted by 2nd Service Bn.; from Fort Schuyler, New York, Hq. Co. and Radio Relay Construction Co. of 6th Communications Bn., hosted by 8th Communications Bn.; Detachment, Supply Co., 4th Service Bn., from Wilmington, Del., and Supply Company, 4th Service Bn., from Washington, D. C., both hosted by Supply Co., 2nd Service Bn.; Service Co., Headquarters Bn., 4th Marine Division, from New Castle, Pa., hosted by Service Co., Headquarters Bn., 2nd Marine Division; Truck Co., 4th Service Bn., from Erie, Pa., hosted by Truck Co., 2nd Service Bn.; and H&S Co., 4th Amphibious Tractor Bn., from Tampa, Fla., hosted by 2nd Amtrac Bn.

The support of Camp Lejeune is an important element in developing the capability of these men to bear the title — READY.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Super Summer-time sounds

As Summer gets hotter midst the rain and wind, so do the bands and performers. After a long, hard day at work, after a swoop, after a day of golf, swimming or basking in the sun, off-duty Marines can sit back and enjoy a cold beer or two, relax, get in a few dances or just groove on the sounds to any of the groups of playing at the base clubs.

Marines owe it to themselves, their bodies, their minds, to break away from it all. Check the following columns for who's going to be where and when.

For the vet

Facing the fact that many men not only entered the Service without civilian job skills but were assigned military duties for which there is no civilian counterpart, we have also developed a job-training program for this group of military personnel. Twelve thousand men will benefit from this program which will afford full-time training in civilian job skills for 60 days prior to discharge.
This Administration is pledged to follow in the footsteps of President Abraham Lincoln more than 100 years ago when he recognized the National obligation "to care for his fallen soldiers and their families."

A job for each returning veteran and woman is a part of that obligation. We, the Department of Labor, intend to devote all of our resources to seeing that the obligation is fulfilled.

Lejeune's master tailor retires after 30 years with exchange

Lejeune's master tailor retired after 30 years of service with the Marine Exchange.

Pietras accepted his retirement certificate from Gen. Anderson, ACMC, in briefings June 30. The commandant also presented Pietras with a Certificate of Appreciation. During the informal retirement ceremony, Gen. Anderson noted that Pietras had made red clothes for almost every Marine general within the last 30 years.

Born in Massachusetts, Pietras moved to Poland when he was a youth. He learned tailoring in Europe before enlisting in the Marine Corps in 1943 at the age of 21 after he had returned to Massachusetts.

His first duty station was Camp Lejeune. Here, he helped organize the uniform shop in the exchange and by the end of the war, he was NCOIC of the shop. He also designed much of the present Woman Marine uniform.

After his tour with the Corps, he accepted the post in the uniform shop as a civilian. He then began to organize many of the departments in the present exchange, such as sporting goods, hardware and civilian clothing.

Pietras plans to continue to reside in Swansboro during his retirement.

Luncheonette extends hours of operation

By Sgt. C.D. Gilbert

Is it difficult to grab a sandwich or a bite to eat at the bowling alley or snack bars during the evening hours because many other Marines have the same idea?

According to the Marine Corps Base Exchange Officer, the luncheonette at the Main Exchange is scheduled to open its doors from 5 p.m. until 11 p.m. beginning July 21.

"The extension of the luncheonette hours will relieve congestion at the Bus Station and Bowling alley snack bars, restrictions in service clubs that require a patron to be a member of the unit being served by a specific club, and the unavailability of area clubs to families. Extending the hours of operations at the luncheonette is our way of trying to meet the needs of the people here at Lejeune," Capt D.W. Johnson, assistant Main Exchange Officer, explained.

Pizza, hot sandwiches, chicken and draft beer by the cup or pitcher will be sold during the extended hours.

As part of the new image of the luncheonette, Marines will be able to call their order in and have it waiting when they arrive at the luncheonette. Carry out orders will also be available at the luncheonette.

The evening hours of operation will run for a trial period of 90 days. If the extended hours are a success, the luncheonette will continue its evening service in the future.

More corporals to be sergeants

WASHINGTON — With the ink hardly dry on the warrants advancing 4,185 corporals to sergeant during June and July, HQMC has announced that more promotions to sergeant are scheduled for September.

To be eligible corporals must have at least nine months in grade, the same as the previous advancements. The number to be promoted has not yet been announced.

Commanding officers have been directed to compute and report composite scores to Headquarters by Aug. 10 on all corporals with a date of rank of Nov. 30, 1971 or earlier who are

Amtracs, Radio show, tell for dependents

By LCpl. Tommy Page

The wives and children of Marines serving with Force Troops' 2d Amphibian Tractor Bn. and 2d Radio Bn. went "on the job" for four hours of family day fun and freebies last week.

The occasion was an "open house" to give dependents a first hand look at the equipment used and the mission of these two battalions.

F.T. reenlistments top Corps

For the second consecutive month, Force Troops here led the Marine Corps in percentage of first-term reenlistments.

Force Troops' June reenlistment rate of 17.6 percent exceeded the Marine Corps' goal of 15 percent and was again followed by the 1st Marine Division in second place with a 15.3 percent reenlistment rate for June.

Sgt. Juan Guerrero of Hq. Co., Force Troops, received the most money for a single reenlistment. In addition to $10,000, Sgt. Guerrero was promoted to his present rank and received orders to MCAS, Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, for his next duty station.

Marine Barracks, Long Beach, Calif., is the destination of LCpl. Gary E. Everts of 8th Motor Transport Bn., who put Force Troops over the top by being the last Marine to reenlist in June. Second FSR received the highest individual unit LCpl. Gary E. Everts reenlistment rate with 40 percent reenlisted, while 2d Bridge Co. reenlisted six Marines, the largest number of Marines reenlisted in a separate unit.

BENNIE SUGGS—GySgt. Thomas J. Miller of the 2d Engineer Bn. explains his award winning idea to LCpl. Keith Davis. The idea was to use discarded Tactical Air Field Dispensing Systems hoses instead of buying new hoses. GySgt. Miller won $50 while saving the Marine Corps $496 a year.

BLT 1/8 returns

Marines of BLT 1-8 returned from routine exercises in the Caribbean yesterday.

While deployed, the BLT, commanded by LtCol. J.K. Coody, took part in numerous beach landing operations at Guantanamo Bay, Vieques, and Port Everglades, Fla.

Isabel, P.R., and Kingston, Jamaica, were liberty ports for the BLT during its deployment.

Approximately 250 dependents turned out for the 2d AmTrac Bn. family day at Mile Hammock Bay. The new LVTP-7 (Landing Vehicle Tracked Personnel) was on display and a demonstration was conducted to show the LVTP-7's better maneuverability over the older model LVTP-5. The demonstration included a troop landing, reversing and then circling back making a high speed run. Following this, the families boarded the LVTP-7 for a ride over some of the immediate terrain.

After everyone had ample opportunity to work up a healthy appetite, a picnic style lunch was served.

After lunch, the equipment operated by the Marines of 2d Radio Bn. was on display for guests and dependents in the battalion area. Radio interceptor and monitoring facilities as well as direction finding and electrical communication counter measure equipment were also demonstrated.

Following refreshments the SNCO wives club offered information concerning the family services offered at Camp Lejeune.

'Best' bar on road!

During a 14-hour period from 4 p.m. July 4 to 6 a.m. July 5, the Force Troops' holiday coffee bar in Kinston served more than 1500 travelers returning home or to Camp Lejeune from the Independence Day holiday.

The coffee bar, hosted and manned by Marines of Maintenance Bn., 2d FSR, served free coffee and donuts or soft drinks and potato chips to all who stopped.

Situated at the intersection of U.S. highways 70 and 258, in Kinston, the Force Troops coffee bar provided a break in driving to civilians and military personnel with the intent of refreshing drivers for the last few miles before reaching home or the Base.

The coffee bar apparently served its purpose successfully, as according to the Force Troops Safety Officer, Capt. Richard J. Hogan, no accidents on the highway between the coffee bar and Camp Lejeune were reported to him for the period the coffee bar was in operation.

J'ville CoC hosts fry

A Fish Fry for Women Marines and Naval Hospital convalescents will be held today, at the Hospital Point picnic area starting at 6:30 p.m. and ending when all the fish has been eaten. All food is free.

This will be the third of four fish fries sponsored by the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce during the year as an expression of appreciation to Camp Lejeune Marines.

The menu will be fried deep sea flounder, french fries, hush puppies, cole slaw, and cold refreshments.

All Women Marines and Hospital convalescents are invited.

8th Comm gets new C

LtCol. Arthur A. Bergman assumed command of 8th Comm.

Bn., Force Troops here last from outgoing CO LtCol. E. Haislip.

USAFI sets two newbies

The United States Armed Forces Institute (USAFI) has announced the availability of two new one-semester college courses.

Course A 548, Money and Banking, provides background on control of money and how it affects the nation's economy.

The course is similar to money and banking courses offered at the sophomore or junior level in civilian colleges.

Course A 412, Afro-American Literature, traces the development of the various forms of Afro-American literature as produced by Americans of African descent, from the slavery period through the mid-twentieth century.

Areas include folk literature, slave narratives, autobiography, poetry, essays, short stories, novels and drama.

LtCol. Haislip is scheduled to report to London, England, to serve as the Assistant Communications Officer on the staff of the Commander in Chief, U.S. Navy, Europe.

LtCol. Bergman of the Missouri was commissioned 2d Lt. in June, 1955, and was 8th Comm. Bn. from September 1956 to January 1958 before attending the Communications Officers School at Quantico. LtCol. Bergman has also served with Hq., FMFPac; the Naval Postgraduate School, HQMC; and with the Office of Naval Operations. He attended the Armed Forces College from January to 1972.

His decorations include the Legion of Merit with Chevalier, Presidential Unit Citation, Republic of Vietnam Cross of Gallantry with Silver Star

NINE TEAMS IN BASKETBALL TOURNEY

Neppes team crushes foes

A one-day basketball tournament was held Saturday at the Goettge Memorial Field House as a slate of nine teams were involved in single elimination play from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Each team was given a number and was named after the coach. Games were played with two twenty minute halves, with a ten minute break between them.

In action in the first game of the tournament, Team 1 overran Team 2 by a 97-30 margin.

It was never a close game as Team 1, coached by William Anderson, enjoyed a 27-point lead going into the half. Team 2, coached by Marion Lewis, was plagued by a series of turnovers and could never overcome the gap as they fell, 97-30.

High shooter for Team 1 was Anderson with 14 points, while James Anderson of Team 2 also scored 14 points for the losing cause.

The second game began at 10 a.m. and matched Team 3 coached by Paul Neppes against Team 4, Mike Maiman. The Neppes team won the game easily by a score of 80-53.

They went into the half leading 38-20 and gradually widened their lead as the game progressed. Team 3 had a trio of top shooters in the game as Neppes, Greg Vosskuil and Bruce Cripe all tallied 16 points. Over-all high shooter was Mike Maiman with a total of 26 points.

In the third game, Team 5, McQuinn, faced Team 6, Strange, as Team 6 came out ahead easily by a 64-37 score.

The score was 31-8 at the half as the McQuinn team was unable to connect with their shots. The Strange team had a balanced and effective attack and were hot from the floor.

Top shooter from the Strange team was Lou Unseld with 17 points, while Mike McQuinn on Team 5 led the scoring with 19 points.

The fourth game between Team 7, Gunselman, and Team 8, Brown, proved to be more interesting, at least in the first half as Team 8 finally won the game by an 89-58 score.

Half-time saw Team 8 go into the break with a two point lead, 37-35. They pulled away in the second half through, scoring 52 points to Team 7's 23 points.

James Frederick, Team 8, was the high man with 31 points as F.P. Shelton, tallied 17 points for the losers.

In the fifth game, Team 8 was matched up against Team 9, Lefty, with Team 8 taking the game easily by a score of 62-31.

Team 9 suffered from cold shooting and numerous turnovers as the Brown team could not make a mistake in the match. The half-time score was 25-12, before Team 8 really pulled away during the last half.

James Frederick again led the scoring with 22 points as William Render tallied 11 points in a losing cause.

As the tournament advanced to the semi-finals, four teams were still in contention, Team 1 - Team 3 and Team 6 - Team 8.

The first semi-final match saw Team 3 crush Team 1 by a 77-56 margin.

Team 3 led all the way as they went into the half enjoying a 9 point lead, 37-28. In the second half, they controlled the boards and picked their own shots as they scored 40 more points in the game, advancing to the final match.

Top scorer for Team 3 was Paul Neppes with 18 points while in Team 1 it was Booker Jackson with 21 points.

In the second semi-final match, Team 6 edged out Team 8 for the right to the championship match by a 77-72 score.

The game was close all the way as both teams tried for a berth in the finals. Team 8 led at half-time by 6 points, 42-37, but lost the lead at the beginning of the second half as Team 6 ran up ten straight points to take over.

Team 8 could never quite catch up as many of their shots were slightly off. Lou Unseld led the winning team with 17 points but STD Mimes, Team 6 was overall high shooter with 26 points.

The final game of the tournament was an exciting match-up between Team 3 and Team 6 with both teams tired from a long day of playing. Team 3 won the championship by a 64-60 score.

Team 3 was in control of the game at the outset and enjoyed a nine point lead, 30-21 at half-time. Team 6 tried desperately to overcome the margin and at one point in the second half, they had a one point lead. Team 3 maintained their steady attack, though and pulled out in front for good.

Paul Neppes again led the Team 3 shooters with 18 points, and Lou Unseld led the losers with 14 points.

BARBS

By LCpl. Barb Majewski

times like the past week that I suddenly realize talent for organization is almost non-existent. I work through sheer determination and prayer lately been dreading an all-too-often heard cry the office — "Sports call on 80."

weren't always like this. The weather was ly cooperative, scheduled events were taking i schedule, I suppose things were just running oothly. I began to feel that I had the situation under control.

... the rains came.

ill games and tennis matches had to be uled. Pre-set events, such as the All-Camp es and FMFLant meets were undaunted as days overlapped until now it seems like nothing going to be over.

though I work from week to week, I still have to in horror and watch the tournaments approach tained out games are still unplayed.

frightening of all, is the realization that Camp will be hosting the Slo-Pitch Softball Tour- s... East Coast Regional, All-Marine and In- s... Everything is happening here in August.

sn't it about time for football season to begin? volves a whole new set of schedules. Is it ever o end? It scares me to think that next year will e trying to sort out this year which has become ar because of the overlap. Besides, it should be all season by then too.

afraid that the only solution is to drop one year e calendar so we can get caught up.

June was a busy month for the NCO Golf Association as 38 two-man teams took part in the June Member-Guest Tourname.

Low gross winners included first place Rick Walke and Mel

Miller at 69, while second place went to Rocky Winstead and Joe Wirthman at 70. Third place was a tie between Frank D'Errico and LtCpl. Kaasman and Don Swindell and Frank Brunson, 73.

Vogel and Nowell took top honors with a 63 in the Low Net category, while Ramirez and Downer tied with Craig and Williams for second place with a 64. Third place was Younkens and Arnett with a 65.

A special award in the tournament went to the team of Garbacz and Judkins for having the worst net score of 81.

In other golf action, the finals of the First Annual Match Play Championship were concluded with John Peebles beating Mel Miller one up to win the Championship Flight. The Consolation Flight went to John Thomas edging out Bill Steele. All four finalists received trophies for their efforts.

NCO Golf Association members and prospective members are reminded to sign up for this month's tourney to be held Sunday, July 23. An election of officers for next year will be held preceding play.

The July Tourney will be a four-man team scramble and any NCO's wishing to join the golf association may do so by contacting Mel Miller or Frank D'Errico at the Pro Shop.

Tennis ends at Lejeune

All-Camp Tennis finally ended last week after numerous delays because of the weather.

In singles competition, Jim McCabe, HMT-204, MCAS, New River, defeated R.L. Pruett, MCES, MCB, last Friday for the first place spot.

In doubles competition R.L. Pruett and M.G. Spensen, MCB, defeated B.S. Edington and A.Y. Stokes, MCB, in 6-3 and 6-2 sets to take the top honors.

The winners in each match, plus the other top men from each command, are currently at Cherry Point playing in the East Coast Regional Tennis Tournament which should end tomorrow.

Auto X meet set for Sunday

The Pine Tree Sports Car Club will hold its third annual Navy Relief Autocross competition Sunday at the Oak Grove Airstrip just north of Pollocksville, N. C. on highway 17.

Registration will be held beginning at 11 a.m., with the first timed run scheduled for 1 p.m.

The course will be approximately one mile long over a paved surface. It will include right and left turns, slalom and a short straight run.

Classes are established for all production sports cars plus American and foreign sedans and all cars compete in a class of comparable performance.

The event is a test of driver skill and vehicle maneuverability rather than speed, and the cars run individually for the best time.

The only requirements are a legally registered vehicle and safety belts. Cars will be inspected for mechanical and safety features prior to being run and the entrance fee is $4.

For more information concerning motor sports, contact Richard MacNabb at 347-6362 or Bill Confer at 346-6613.

Seven sluggers set for Texas trip

The summer Olympic Games are rapidly approaching and across the United States, young men and women hopeful of getting a berth on one of the teams are taking part in trials which will decide who will go.

Here at Camp Lejeune, seven Marines are having their final work-outs before traveling to Fort Worth, Tex., for the Olympic Boxing Trials, July 19-22.

There is a small room in the Field House where these men spend most of their time polishing up their attacks before the important trip.

Clarence James, Philadelphia, Pa., has fought 59 fights to date, winning 51 and losing 8. In 1971, he was the All-Marine and Interservice Champion in the 106-lb. class and CISM Champion in the 112-lb. class. He was also All-Marine and Interservice Champion in 1972 in the 112-lb. class.

Heading to the Olympics with 168 fights to his credit is Larry Carlisle of Cleveland, Ohio. His record so far is 152 wins and 16 losses. In 1968-70, he was the All-Marine Champion in the 156-lb. class and in 1971-1972 in the 147-lb. class. He was also the 1971 CISM champion in the 147-lb. class.

Ronald Mason of St. Louis, Mo., is also on his way to the Olympic trials. He has fought 23 fights so far, winning 21 and losing 2, but has no major tournaments to his credit. In 1972, he was the All-Marine Champion in the 139-lb. class.

Jerry Dobbs of Atlanta, Ga., was the Golden Gloves Champion in 1971 in the 156-lb. class and the All-Marine 165-lb. Champion. He has been in 48 fights during his career, winning 40 and losing 8.

Also going to the trials is Ray Russell of Cincinnati, Ohio, who won a Gold Medal in the Pan-Am Games last July. In addition, he was the All-Marine and Interservice champion in 1970-71. He has been in 136 fights, with 130 wins and 6 losses.

Reggie Jones of Newark, N.J., has been in 46 fights, winning 34 and losing 12. He was the All-Marine Champion in 1971-72 and the Interservice Champ

Shore Party stuns 4/10

It was a veritable pitching duel last Friday as 2d Shore Party Bn. and 4-10 met in one of the last games of Division's intramural softball season, with 4-10 falling victim to Shore Party by a score of 3-1.

Shore Party pitcher, R.C. Lundell, tallied 11 strikeouts while giving up only three hits in the seven innings of play. 4-10 pitcher, B. Coleman, allowed only two hits and struck out 13 batters for a losing cause.

The artillerymen drew first blood in the match-up when they scored their only run of the game in the first inning of play. Leadoff hitter, D. Hiller, got on base on an infield single to the Shore Party shortstop, P.J. Weidner. After stealing second and third bases, Hiller scored by stealing home.

All three Shore Party runs came in the third inning. After two men had struck out, Coleman walked center fielder, E. Garrett. Lundell, the Shore Party pitcher, reached base on an infield single and an error by shortstop C. Quinn scored the first run. Right fielder, D. Hammick drilled a double to center field, driving the other two runs in.

Monday afternoon saw the final game of the season as Hq. Bn.

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT — B. Coleman, 4-10 pitcher, and the umpire get together on a safe call as 2d Shore Party Bn. catcher, J.L. Legge is late with the tag on D. Hiller. faced 4-10 in a championship match-up with 4-10 coming out on top by a 4-1 margin.

A 1-0 lead was commanded by 4-10 during almost the entire game until Hq. Bn. tied it up in the sixth. Not to be outdone, 4-10 added three runs in the seventh to take the game.

The game resulted in a way tie for first place as Hq. 4-10 and 2d Shore Party hold 7-1 records. As a three teams from each were involved in the play which began Tuesday, week's Globe will give complete story of how those offs went.
