Navy Relief Seminar Held Here Today

The largest seminar ever held by officials of the Navy Relief Society began here yesterday, led by Vice Admiral W.R. Berg, III, USN (Ret), president of the society, the delegates of the Executive Secretaries of the Chairmen of Volunteer from auxiliaries in the first half of the United States. The delegates are the field Casework Directors of the Navy from Navy Relief Headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The seminar is being held for an exchange of information among the Executive Secretaries of the 24

Auxiliaries from Great Lakes, Illinois, East. Miss Virginia Franks, Executive Secretary, Camp Lejeune Auxiliary, has organized the meetings and will be hostess for the event.

The two-day conference will include two discussion groups each morning and afternoon, which range over Medicare, family problems, assistance to dependents of deployed servicemen and retired personnel or survivors, movement of house trailers and even ownership of a color TV.

Mrs. Joseph O. Butcher, Honorary Chairman of Volunteer Women for Camp Lejeune, will address the meeting today at 11:45 a.m.

The discussion topic on Volunteers will be led by Mrs. R.R. Montgomery, chairman of Volunteer Women of Camp Lejeune and by Miss Francina Stonesifer of Washington D.C.

Bronze Star

A Marine Lance Corporal who won the Bronze Star Medal with Combat 'V' for heroic actions in Vietnam has been decorated again, only a week before he leaves on another combat assignment. The double Bronze Star holder volunteered for a second tour of duty in Vietnam.

Lance Corporal William A. Chieskiewicz, Bulk Fuel Company, 2d Force Service Regiment, Force Troops received his second Bronze Star from Colonel Harold Wallace, regimental commander March 13, and at the same time his orders to return to Vietnam.

In addition to the decoration, Chieskiewicz was told by Colonel Wallace that he was promoted meritoriously to Corporal.

The 20 year old native of Forty Fort, Pa. also holds the Purple Heart Medal for wounds received in the action for which he was cited Wednesday.

Chieskiewicz's citation for his second Bronze Star read, "The Dong He Combat Base came under a heavy enemy artillery attack and several rounds impacted in the Ammunition Supply Point containing 18,000 tons of ordnance, which resulted in large CHANGE OVER — The colors of Third Battalion, Second Marines are passed to Lieutenant Colonel Paden E. Woodruff Jr. (right), the new battalion commander, by the former commander, Lieutenant Colonel William M. Van Zuyen. The change of command took place during formal ceremonies.

National Safety Council Honors Camp Lejeune

For the second consecutive year, Camp Lejeune leads all other military installations in numbers of persons trained in the Defensive Driving Course (DDC), according to a citation which appeared in the National Safety Council's 1967 Honor List Issue of Driver Trainer Newsletter.

DDC here is a standard feature of the base traffic safety program. The course is taught at night by four civilian instructors. Military instructors teach the course during the daylight hours to personnel of the various units assigned to the Base.

In a recent letter from Major General J.O. Butcher, commanding general, MCB, to the Commanding Generals of Force Troops and 2d Marine Division, it was pointed out that all the benefits derived from the program to save lives cannot be measured, however, records indicate that we are on the right track.

1/8 RETURNS

Battalion Landing Team 1-8 returns here today. Dependents and friends are asked to meet the Marines at Mess Hall No. 424 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. with parking provided in the 8th Marines parking lot on River Rd. across from bldg. 423.

Dual Command Change Here

Command changes within the Second Marine Division last week saw the colors of Headquarters Battalion pass from Lieutenant Colonel A.D. Friedman to the new commander, Lieutenant Colonel William M. Van Zuyen.

Just prior to this change of commanders, Colonel Van Zuyen was relieved as commander of the Third Battalion, Second Marines by Lieutenant Colonel Paden E. Woodruff, Jr.

Lieutenant Colonel Van Zuyen joined the Second Marine Division in January of 1967 serving as G-3 of the Eighth Marine Expeditionary Brigade and then as commanding officer of the Third Battalion, Second Marines.

Lieutenant Colonel Friedman is now the Headquarters Battalion executive officer. Upon his arrival at Camp Lejeune he served as commanding officer of Communications Company, executive officer of Headquarters Battalion and in December of 1967 he became the battalion commander.

Lieutenant Colonel Woodruff, the new commanding officer of the Third Battalion, Second Marines, was formerly the Assistant G-3 in the Second Marine Division.

G.I. Bill Assistance Program Not Limited to Viet Veterans

The Veterans Administration today issued a reminder that benefits of the new GI Bill are not limited to Vietnam era veterans, but apply equally to veterans who served in the Armed Forces any time after January 31, 1955.

W.R. Phillips, Manager of the Winston - Salem Veterans Administration Regional Office, said that veterans who had at least 181 days active duty service, any part of which occurred after January 31, 1955, are eligible for these GI Bill benefits:

Educational assistance. Full-time payments for college type training range from $130 a month for a single veteran to $175 for a veteran with two dependents, with $10 extra for each additional dependent.

High School. The same payments are available to a veteran while he completes high school without losing any GI Bill eligibility for advanced educational benefits.

Apprenticeship or other on-the-job training. Payments (based on six-month periods) begin at $80 per month in the first period for a single veteran with added payments for veterans with dependents.

Vocational flight training. Payments cover 90 per cent of the established charge for flight training for veterans who have the equivalent of a valid private pilot license.

GI loans. VA guarantees a portion of loans made through commercial lenders. On home loans the VA will guarantee up to $7,500 of the loan; on farm real estate loans up to $4,000, and on non-real estate farm loans up to $2,000. VA will make direct loans for homes in certain cases.

Medical care. VA provides hospital care for all veterans who served in the Armed Forces after January 31, 1955, (whether their service is classes as wartime or peacetime) on the same basis as for veterans of earlier wars.

Top priority goes to men needing treatment for service-connected or service-aggravated disabilities.

If a bed is available, veterans may be admitted for any ailment requiring hospitalization if they are unable to pay for the treatment in a private hospital.

An allowance of $1,600 toward purchase of specially - equipped automobiles for veterans with certain severe disabilities suffered while in service.

In addition to VA benefits, which will be explained in detail at any VA office, veterans who served after January 31, 1955, are also entitled to Civil Service preference in Federal employment and to job counseling and placement by the Department of Labor and State Employment Service Offices.

Four States Set Primaries

North Carolina, Texas, Alabama and Washington, D.C. will hold primaries in May to assess their candidate's political potential.

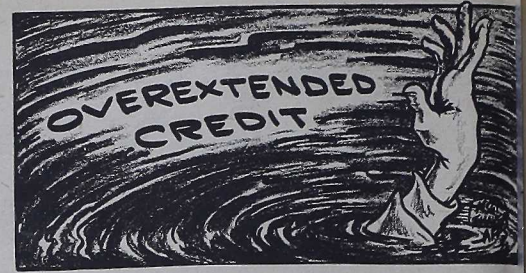

North Carolina voters must submit their ballot to the County Board of Election (CBE) by noon on the Saturday preceding election.

Texas voters who desire an absentee ballot may apply anytime using a Federal Post Card Application (FPCA) or by writing the county tax collector. The voted ballot must reach CBE by 1 p.m. on election day.

Alabama absentee voters may apply for a ballot anytime by FPCA or may write the county register. Voted ballot must reach officials on election day.

Washington, D.C. absentee voters may apply for ballots by FPCA only - which must be received by the board of elections at least 45 days prior to election day. Armed Forces personnel must register by FPCA at the same time ballot is requested. The voted ballot must reach the Board of Elections before 8 p.m. on election day.

Our Own, Private Monster

"Why is there so much month left at the end of the money?" seems to be a pretty common question in the average family or with the average unmarried serviceman. It appears as if the more we make, the more we spend.

Ours has become an affluent society in which, quite naturally, people want to live better. They want more of life's modern conveniences to make things easier and, because of these labor-saving conveniences, they are able to spend more time and more money on recreation.

However, our affluent society has created a Dr. Jekyll and Hyde monster. It's called easy credit. Buy now, pay later; money down; unlimited credit on just your signature — these common terms and common practices in today's world.

Credit is easy to get, but it's deceptive. It's a lot like a beautiful stream, pond or lake. It looks completely safe and so totally harmless when you first wade in. But one slip and you go. Maybe you'll come out all right and maybe not.

Credit is the same type monster. It looks safe enough, but a careless step and you slip under the surface into the blackness and turbulence below.

Credit is so easy to obtain that buyers often lose sight of the fact that monthly credit payments can quickly equal or exceed money they have available after taking care of necessities. When this happens, the careless credit buyer must either default on credit payments, cut back on necessities or go deeper into debt by borrowing more money to meet the bills.

Before plunging into credit buying's deep waters, make sure the item is really needed and is worth the credit charges. Decide if the monthly payments can be met or if there are already too many monthly payment obligations.

Above all, decide if the item in question is really worth risk to your credit rating and possibly your career in case you can't meet the payments. A good credit rating is essential to you personally and professionally. You owe it to yourself and your family to maintain it. (AFPS)

Individual Responsibility

Leadership Combats Drunken Driving

Many of us may think of alcohol as a stimulant, but it is a poison, more dangerous to driving than any other commonly used drug or stimulant.

According to the National Safety Council, in each 100 fatal accidents, 57 per cent involve a drinking driver. We must all help reduce this terrifying toll which is sapping our national strength and gnawing away at our trained manpower.

One of the most effective approaches to reduce these losses is "personal counseling" based on the MORAL LEADERSHIP concept, that personnel will, by and large, act according to what they see and hear from their Officers, Staff NCO's and supervisors.

If sincere, total support of the traffic safety program by all "leaders" can be obtained and their attitudes made known to the individual, the results would be most gratifying.

This could be accomplished through comments in day-to-day contacts weekly 5-minute safety talks; analysis of each individual accident and counseling the person involved in a "heart-to-heart" discussion of how the accident could have been prevented; letting him know that the command has a definite interest in his welfare as well as the interest of the Government.

Just remember one thing ...

you don't have to be intoxicated to become a potential menace to yourself and everyone else on our streets and highways.

Today's crowded, fast-moving traffic is dangerous enough. One should make it more so driving after drinking!

Returns After 27 Years

New 'Top' At Sixth Marines

Twenty-seven years have elapsed since one Camp Lejeune Marine wore the French Fourrangere awarded to the Sixth Marines during World War I. Sergeant Major Arthur E. Voss, the new sergeant major of the Sixth Marines, first wore the French Fourrangere as a private in 1941, while training in Iceland, for one day.

He enlisted in the Marine Corps Nov. 12, 1940, underwent recruit training at San Diego, Calif, for a period of seven weeks. After "boot camp" he was assigned to the Second Battalion, Tenth Marines, which soon departed for Iceland with the Sixth Marine Regiment, for extensive cold weather training.

During the training in Iceland, England's Prime Minister, Winston Churchill, reviewed the Marine Brigade and on this single day, Sergeant Major Voss wore the French Fourrangere of the Sixth Marines.

He came to Camp Lejeune in 1942 and served with the Twelfth Marines of the First Marine Division. Shortly thereafter, the Twelfth Marines left for the West Coast on their way to train in New Zealand. For the next two years, Sergeant Major Voss saw action in both Bougainville and Guam during the Pacific Campaign.

In 1945, after six months in the Guard Detachment at Earle, New Jersey, he was selected for recruiting duty in St. Louis, Missouri, where he stayed until 1947.

During the next eleven years, Sergeant Major Voss attended an ordnance school on guided missiles at Quantico, Va., went to White Sands Proving Grounds in New Mexico, attended a Navy Missile School at the Naval Air-Missile Test Center at Point Mugu, Calif., and served with the Marine Corps Guided Missile Test Unit at the Naval Ordnance Test Station at China Lake, Calif.

In 1958 Sergeant Voss became an instructor at the Navy Reserve Officer Training Corps (NROTC), University of North Carolina, where he served until assignment to the Third Marine Division in Okinawa in 1961.

From 1962 until 1964, Sergeant Major Voss served with the Marine Corps Engineer School here at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

From the Engineer School he went to Hawaii to the First Marine Brigade and served there until March 1965 when he moved out with his unit to Phu Bai in Vietnam. After his tour in Vietnam, he was transferred to the Second Reconnaissance Battalion here as sergeant major from 1966 until his assignment to his present position.

On March 8, 1968, Sergeant Major Voss, 27 years after first wearing the French Fourrangere, became the senior enlisted man in the Sixth Marines.

THE FRENCH FOURRANGERE, awarded to the Sixth Marines for the battle of Belleau Woods in World War I, is adjusted to the uniform of Sergeant Major Arthur E. Voss, the new regimental sergeant major, by Colonel Richard H. Kern, Sixth Marines commander. The sergeant major last wore the Fourrangere in 1941, for one day.

Cook Makes Parachute Jumps With Recon Co.

It's not unusual for a Marine to be proficient in two or more jobs, so when SSgt. Peter C. Drummond straps on his parachute and makes training jumps here with 2d Force Reconnaissance Company, Force Troops, no one pays much attention.

But if SSgt. Drummond were to wear his parachute while preparing a meal for several hundred Marines undergoing training at the 1st Infantry Training Regiment, there would be plenty of attention.

Drummond, the only known qualified cook-parachutist in the Marine Corps takes the dual-job as a matter of fact and when his primary duties as mess sergeant for the recon company permit, he is on the jump list.

Although he takes a bit of kidding from both sides when called, "Airborne Bean Burner," by the members of his company or, "Airborne Potato Peeler," by the mess hall crew, Drummond points with pride to his 13 jumps and says he is ready for more.

Drummond attributes a near-accident in a plane flight to his becoming a Marine Corps parachutist. "I was on a flight in the Caribbean that had engine trouble. Although we made it safely down, I wondered what I would have done if I had to jump," he said.

When he was assigned to the reconnaissance company here, Drummond, asked for, and received permission to complete the U.S. Airborne School at Fort Benning, Ga. He made the necessary five jumps and won his silver wings.

For SSgt. Drummond, the difference between his two jobs is about as great as you can get, but then who else can hold the title of an "Airborne Bean Burner"?

Sunday Mass Rescheduled

Due to the painting of the Catholic Chapel, (Bldg. 17) the regular schedule of masses for this Sunday, 24 March, 1968, will be offered in Marston Pavilion vice the Catholic Chapel.

To reach the Marston Pavilion (Bldg. 730), going from the Catholic Chapel, continue on the Main Service Road, cross the Wallace Creek bridge, then make a left turn at the first road after crossing the bridge.

HARD CHARGERS — Members of Second Marines' competition combat squad display a certificate of the Tarawa Award which they received for tying for top honors in the 2d Marine Division's Annual Combat Squad Competition. The other winning squad represented the Sixth Marines.

Supply Technicians To Visit Lejeune April 11

A team of technical personnel from the Defense Supply Agency (DSA) will visit here April 11th. The team's sole purpose is to solicit comments, complaints and recommendations pertaining to the quality, reliability, maintainability and usability of items that DSA procures and supplies. The information the team accumulates is later evaluated by the cognizant DSA Supply Center and appropriate corrective action is initiated.

If you have a problem, it is important that the particulars of the problem, the Federal Stock Number of the items, the Contract or Requisition Number (if known) be assembled prior to the team's arrival.

In order to assure that your problem will be made known to the team, or if you wish to discuss the forthcoming visit, contact Major J.R. WUTHRICH, Supply Services Department, 7-Supply Services Department, (7-5643) Base coordinator for the DSA team visit.

secondary explosions.

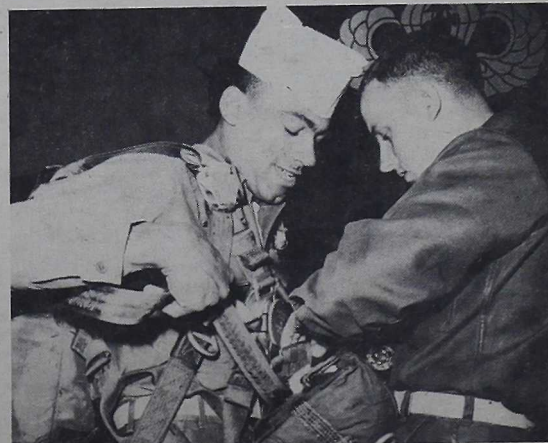

"After being trapped in the Ammunition Supply Point for over four hours, several Marines were able to escape; however, most of the members of the ammunition platoon still remained in the area.

"Disregarding his own safety, LCpl. Cheskiewicz and a companion unhesitatingly entered the hazardous area, located some of the trapped Marines and led them to safety.

"Informed that additional personnel were still in the area, he immediately reentered the ammunition supply point and successfully returned with the remaining members of the platoon. Although wounded during the search, he refused medical aid until all personnel were accounted for."

His actions undoubtedly saved the lives of many of his comrades, his citation read.

Beware Of The Bear!*11 All Marine Champs From Lejeune

Four Marines successfully defended their titles and seven others, all from Camp Lejeune, ascended to the ranks of All Marine Champions, as the All Marine Trials came to a close last Thursday night.

The evening's first bout saw current All-Marine champion, Sergeant Larry Armendariz, retain his title by knocking out Lance Corporal Charles Perez in 2:59 of the first round. Perez, one of the most determined fighters Armendariz has faced all season, was knocked down three times before the All Marine was finally able to put him away.

In one of the most closely contested, bitterly fought and yet evenly matched fights of the evening, 17 year old, PFC Paul Cordero earned the bantamweight title by gaining a decision over Corporal Cecil Beverly. Both fighters were sharp and quick, and their superb conditioning was evident as they heaped punishment upon one another. However, it was Cordero's aggressiveness and crowding style that finally determined the fight's outcome.

Another All Marine champion was born in the featherweight class as Lance Corporal Pete Browner posted a victory over LCpl. Frankie "Rawhide" Allen, Browner, who had kept his powerful right hand in check throughout most of the first two rounds, caught Allen with a right cross late in the second round that sent him to the canvas for the mandatory eight count. Browner hit the weakened Marine at will for the remainder of the bout, gaining a unanimous decision at its conclusion.

The lightweight match saw past All Marine champ, Lance Corporal Harrison Payne, register a knockout over Corporal Thayer Borel. Payne continually staggered his slower opponent with vicious combination punches to the face and body, and yet the rugged Marine refused to fall.

The referee was forced to call the fight midway through the second round.

Lance Corporal Larry Carlisle also registered a knockout in an upset victory over Willard "the Chief" Phillips in the light middleweight tilt. Carlisle, who had knocked out past All Marine champion, Lance Corporal Tony Griffin, in the semi-finals Wednesday night, lost the first round and appeared on his way to defeat in the second when he suddenly caught Phillips with a right cross that sent the Chief crashing to the mat. A stunned crowd watched as he finished him off moments later, in 1:58 of the second round.

After the fight, boxing coach Ray Rogers commented, "He (Carlisle) went through both of my light middleweights, knocking each of them out in less than two rounds. That boy is quite a boxer!"

The third knockout in a row came in the middleweight event as Corporal Hinton Wilson retained his All Marine honors, stopping PFC Tracy Youngblood 47 seconds into the first round.

Sergeant Art Redden, current All Marine champion and one of amateur boxing's finest light heavyweights, gained a decision over teammate, Corporal Houston Williams. And yet Williams won a moral victory in the bout, as he refused to be knocked out by the powerful Redden, matching him blow for blow throughout the entire fight.

The heavyweight affair, one of the evening's most impressive fights, saw Sergeant James "Sugar Bear" Williams pound out a unanimous decision over Staff Sergeant Al Wilson, past All Marine champion and one of the most highly regarded heavyweights in the Marine Corps. Wilson was unable to match the Bear's vicious left. This victory left little doubt as to the respect Williams commands in heavyweight circles.

Three Marines gained All Marine honors unopposed. They were 106 pound Corporal Mike Fortuna, 139 pound Sergeant James Ham and 147 pound Corporal Richard Royal.

Al Wilson-Heavyweight

by SSgt. Ben Maruffo

The sparse crowd looked in amazement as heavyweight Al Wilson trapped his opponent in the first round of the 1968 All-Marine tournament last Wednesday night.

It was by no mistake that Wilson, a staff sergeant from Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, systematically stalked his opponent. . . each move calculated to deliver the vital blow which would win him the bout.

The six-foot-one inch Wilson was back on the boxing circuit after two years absence from the fight scene.

Wilson was known in service boxing circles as All-Marine Champion from 1959 to 1963; Runner-up Interservice Champion in 1961 and Interservice Champion in 1964.

In 1964, Wilson remembers a decision which will remain with him as one of the biggest downfalls in his fighting career.

He was competing in the National AAU championships and lost in the finals to Buster Mathis, a 19-year-old.

Of that fight he remembers, "It is very disappointing to think that you've won a match and hear the decision go against you."

Al came to the 1968 All-Marine trials with only one thing on his mind. . . to qualify for the Olympic trials and make the 1968 games in Mexico City in October.

"The Olympics," he said before his second bout in the finals, "has been my only dream since I started boxing in 1964.

A pensive Al Wilson

It is the highest, most coveted position for any amateur competitor. What I want is to get my name recorded in the Olympic records," he said.

The final night of the All Marine trials ended in defeat and disappointment for Wilson and ended his hopes for his goal as an amateur boxer.

Superb conditioning and youth in the person of Sergeant James "Sugar Bear" Williams finished Al Wilson's hopes for that Olympic try.

The bout went the three-round limit, but by the end of the third the heavy punching had taken its toll on Wilson, unlike his opponent who was aggressively fighting for the KO.

Williams earned the 1968 All Marine crown for the heavyweight division and Wilson lost a gallant comeback attempt.

Sports Scene

by PFC Andrew Lynch

After three and one half months, 200 or more games and over 8,000 minutes of basketball, the cage season has come to a close here at Camp Lejeune. At this time it is only appropriate that the year's highlights be reviewed.

The season's finest teams, in this sports writer's mind, were Division's 3-6 Panthers and 8th Comm., representative of that citadel of sports, Force Troops. Three-six, winners in the loser's bracket of the Holiday Tournament met powerhouse A.T. Bn. in the finals, and defeated them twice in a row by a total of 36 points for the championship. The fast breaking, run and shoot speedsters, led by 26 points per game Chris Shazier, cockily moved to the FMFLant Tourney the following week. Alas, the clock struck twelve a tournament too soon for the Tri-Command's Cinderella team as they turned into a pumpkin at the hands of VMA 225, Cherry Point, sinking into oblivion and disbanding shortly afterwards.

8th Comm. seemed to pick up where 3-6 had left off. Another fast break, hustling team, they lost in the Force Troops championship playoffs to 2d Amtracs by three points, but came back to show their true colors in the All Camp Tourney. Advancing to the semi-finals, they knocked off the Base tournament winner, MCES, 75-69. In the finals they met 2d Engineers, the winners from Division, who they proceeded to dismantle piece by piece, running away with a 109-83 victory. Double figure heroes for 8th Comm were cousins Lovis and Richard Gilliam, John Newell and Frank Carter.

The year's outstanding players were 3-6's Chris Shazier and Jim Kreger, a superstar from a relatively obscure 2d Medical Bn. Shazier was the impetus for 3-6's fast break machine and a consistent 25 points per game scorer. However, the final nod must be given to Kreger. Typical of Kreger's play was the Division tournament final. In that tilt he single-handedly brought an otherwise weak 2d Medical Bn. to within three points of a victory over 2d Engineers and the Division basketball title. The hard driving, quick moving guard scored 37 points in that contest, and was instrumental in over 70 percent of Med. Bn.'s 18 thefts that evening. A 28 point per game average and the strength of a big forward make Jim Kreger 1967-68 intramural star of stars.

GOLF — On the golf scene, C.W. McDaniels, supervisor of the Base Licensing Bureau, shot a hole in one last weekend on the second course at Paradise Point.

Mr. McDaniel, who hadn't played golf in over 22 years, bought a set of clubs and practiced one day prior to last week's round. On the second hole a number four iron did the trick on the 147 yard hole. This is the first hole in one this year on the number two course.

F.T. In FMFLant Tourney

The volleyball championships held at Cherry Point last week, the Force Troops team, 2d FSR, lost to the members of the Air Wing.

It's not every day you get a chance, so when the members of the Force Troops Volley team were informed that they could get another crack at the FMFLant trophy, they folded right up on it.

The team, coached by Capt. Charles F. Roth, Executive Officer, Motor Transport Company, 2d FSR, boasts a 12 man squad that, during the Force Troops Intramural Competition, succeeded in winning all five of the games that they played.

From the five game winning streak at Camp Lejeune, the Volleyball Team travelled to Cherry Point where, as luck would have it, the team lost their last two games in a double elimination tournament.

For the Force Troops team the chance of securing the FMFLant title was a lost dream.

Downhearted they returned to Camp Lejeune only to find that the Cherry Point team couldn't make the trip to Newport, Rhode Island to participate in the Volleyball finals. Due to this the Air Wingers had to forfeit their number one position to the Force Troops Marines.

With the second chance the Force Troops team is once again in training for the forthcoming games at Rhode Island. The tournament will run from Monday through Friday of next week.

A.P. Golf Happenings

The East Carolina Pro tournament will be held to at the Paradise Point Golf course. Competition will be judged on a team basis, using the ball from each foursome.

The semi-annual "Burger Meet" between Cherry Point and Camp Lejeune is scheduled for March 31 at 9 a.m. at the Paradise Point Golf course. The Air Facility will represent Cherry Point. Those interested in playing may sign up in the Pro Shop at the golf course.

Finally the Azalea Open Golf tournament, one of the major tournaments on the Pro golf circuit, will be held at Wilmington, N.C., April 18 - 21. Tickets for military personnel have been reduced from $5.00 each day to $1.50, and may be purchased from Jim Gantz, Paradise Point's pro.

Lejeune Outdoors

by S/Sgt.

Dale R. Flickenger

Fishing in and around our base has been slow so far this year. However, some fishermen are taking bream and bass out of the upper end of Wallace Creek off the Piney Green Road by using live minnows and worms.

The three ponds that are opened to fishing on the base have not been too productive as yet. A few bass were taken in the Mile Hammack Pond and some catfish were taken from Cedar Point Pond, by fishermen who were using angle worms.

Personnel fishing in and around our base are asked to police their litter debris including their used bait boxes. There is some evidence around our ponds that fishermen are forgetting about their trash when they finish fishing.

Saltwater fishing should pick up if the weather turns warmer. I have found that New River is a very good place for flounder. In the past, I have had good luck using live menhaden for bait while fishing on the sandy bottoms.

Many people go flounder gigging at night. They use a strong light, and when they see the eyes of the flounder shining, they gig them. This method is similar to frog hunting, and is quite a lot of fun. I'm sure that you would enjoy this sport if you once try it. By the way, North Carolina is one of the few states that permits flounder gigging.

Lejeune Archery

By 1stLt. John Bates

In the past few weeks I have mentioned that all archers should receive advice from a qualified National Field Archery Association instructor; so today let's take a look at the only qualified female instructor we have as a member of the Camp Lejeune Archers, Mrs. Andrew.

Mrs. Andrew has been in archery for three years and has won a table full of trophies. The latest title she won was at the Eastern North Carolina League Championship Shoot, in which she took top honors in the women's Bare Bow division.

The five male instructors in the club, had to pass a written test conducted by the NFAA to obtain their card certifying them as instructors.

To pass the NFAA instructor's test, an applicant must spend hours studying the NFAA handbook and then spend many hours of practical exercise solving the problems archers run into while shooting.

During a class of instruction each shoot is studied very carefully the shooting position to the target butts.

In the past two years she has worked with the Youth Summer Archery Program. Recently Vi conducted a beginner and advanced class graduating over 400 students.

Next week I am going to print a list of the state sponsored shoots going up this spring and summer. Until then I'll say: NOCKING POINT: the marked place on the bowstring where the arrow nock is placed before drawing and shooting.

Vi St. Andrews explains the finer points of archery.

Mike Douglas Trains With Marines

By PFC "J" Richards

Condense seven or eight days of Marine amphibious assault training into one continuous five-hour session?

Hardly possible, even for a seasoned veteran of such missions, especially if you're a television star who has never, "hit the beach."

Mike Douglas, star of TV's popular "Mike Douglas Show" did the impossible last weekend at the "World's Most Complete Amphibious Training Base," Camp Lejeune.

Mr. Douglas and his two-man crew of associates, Ken Johnson and Dan Kibbee won the respect of the Marines who participated in the day's exercises.

A composite platoon of 'Bravo' Company, First Battalion, Second Marines, 2d Marine Division, underwent the rigorous training while Douglas served as a grenadier, packing all the usual combat equipment.

Boarding a landing craft via cargo nets, landing and assault techniques from a Force Troops Amtrac, river patros and destroying fortified positions were all on the agenda. Demolitions were provided by the Second Engineer Battalion to add realism.

The many tasks had to be repeated several times, both for perfection and different camera angles.

Following the physically fit

Summing up the day, Mike Douglas had only words of praise and appreciation for what the Marines are doing.

"Sitting next to those young men, I thought that if I were their age, I'd want to be doing the same thing," he said.

"I wish more Americans could do this and see what's going on here. I feel a lot easier about our fighting men now. Excellent people."

Mike went through his "Marine for a Day" with all the necessary gear, including utilities, combat boots, pack and his "pot" (helmet). However, he did miss out on one item.

When given his steel spring "blousing garters", to blouse his trousers in Marine Corps fashion, he quipped, "What is this, does someone want their screen door fixed?"

The overall cooperation of the units of Camp Lejeune involved in the day's activities, lent an aura of smooth precision to the day. The spirit of hustle all the way was instrumental in the amount of work accomplished.

Douglas said the films taken during the Camp Lejeune training will be used in a future television show.

Immortal Showboat

ce again this summer the commissioned battleship North Carolina located off U.S. 17 on the western edge of Wilmington will unmask her guns to the thunder through a sound-light drama depicting her colorful career.

The hour-long production, entitled "The Immortal Showboat" is the ship's World War II name, is the nation's largest sound-and-light drama.

The show, presented entirely on the ship with the audience waiting from a 1,200 seat grandstand, offers a vivid and often surprising account of life aboard one of America's greatest super-ship thoughts.

Highlight comes with the firing of the ship's guns through a process of simulated gunfire devised especially for the show.

In addition to the shows, daily tours of the ship are offered from 8 a.m. until sunset. Visitors may enter the gun turrets and a complete cross-section of compartments from the pilot house down to the engine room.

A large museum off the main deck contains photographs and other items from the ship's career.

Through special arrangements, Base Special Services has obtained 320 tickets at a special rate. These tickets may be purchased at the Custodian's Office, Goettge Fieldhouse for $65 each. Tickets will go on sale April 1.

The schedule for presentations is as follows:

Vietnam Story: Marines at War

Stories and Photos from III Marine Amphibious Force

DaNang River Bridge Gets MP Protection

MP RESPONSIBILITY—The Da Nang river bridge and its old French companion provide vital I Corps transportation links. (Photo by Sgt. A. M. CHAMBERS)

Like a modern day "Horatio at the Bridge," a Marine military police company provides stalwart sentinels for the Da Nang river bridge.

One of the most important structures in Viet-Nam, the eight-month-old bridge is guarded by "C" Co., 3rd Military Police Bn., a unit for Force Logistic Command. The company, attached to FLC's 1st Military Police Bn., has provided protection for the bridge since it opened June 25. An elaborate security system has been set up for the 1,680-foot structure.

At present the new bridge handles westbound traffic and an adjacent old French structure handles the flow in the other direction. The company's platoons are divided into four reliefs, with a team assigned to each relief.

To protect the bridges from a land attack, a series of bunkers and towers were built. The towers, manned 24 hours a day, are placed so that no one can approach the spans without being seen from a hundred yards away.

Traffic control points at the end of the bridges prevent haphazard tie-ups. They also spot checks on Vietnamese vehicles. The guards have picked up "tricks of the trade" to pick up suspicious drivers or passengers.

One of the biggest threats to the bridges are explosives floating down the river.

"One giant lily pad could hold more than 100 pounds of explosives," says Capt. John B. Marty, bridge security commander.

To combat this, guards patrol along catwalks on the bridge. Each man covers about 50 yards. They have orders to shoot anything that floats toward the spans.

Vietnamese boats are allowed to pass under the bridges after they have been inspected. As a double-check, boats are inspected again on the other side. The MPs have found carbines, bazookas and green uniforms hidden in false bottom boats.

The diver team is always on duty. Several times daily, divers check the pilings beneath the surface for explosives, strange objects. To further deter enemy efforts, the bridge security Marines use a mine boat to move from piling to piling, dropping TNT charges on each one.

"The charges don't damage the pilings, and are dropped at staggered intervals so an enemy diver's chances are pretty slim," said Sgt. S.J.P. Tarasewski, a commissioned officer in charge of one of the reliefs.

At night the bridges are illuminated so that an infiltrator can be seen more than 100 yards away. The lights are placed so that it is almost impossible to pinpoint the guards on the spans.

During the Viet Cong Tet offensive, enemy swimmers attempted to blow the bridge. Both times a pair of suicide swimmers with plastic explosives between them approached the water using crude snorkels.

Both groups were spotted and stopped before they got within striking distance. One of the teams cut their demolitions apparently hoping they might get against the pilings and be detonated when a guard shot a strange object in the water. The guards let it float harmlessly by the bridges. A boat inspection on shore retrieved 200 pounds of Composition-4 explosives.

43 Marines Fight Off 200 Cong

DA NANG, Viet-Nam—Out-numbered by more than four to one, 43 U. S. Marines routed 200 North Vietnamese Army soldiers in a fierce fight southwest of Da Nang recently.

The battle erupted when a six-man patrol from the 3rd Bn., Seventh Marine Regiment was pinned down by heavy enemy fire. Two Marines were killed at the outset and two others wounded.

A 3rd Bn. platoon led by Lt. George Bolduc, 24, was sent out as a relief force.

"I formed my men on line and we charged, yelling and screaming, just like in a John Wayne movie," Bolduc explained.

Using bayonets, rifle butts and fists the Marines drove the enemy from their entrenched positions.

"There was little organized resistance after we got into the trenches with them," said Bolduc. "They broke and ran."

A few NVA occupied a second trench four feet behind the one they had lost. At that short distance the enemy and Marines began tossing grenades at each other.

Cpl. Richard Bartolotti, 20, ran up to the trench and shot an NVA as he attempted to fire a mortar round. Bartolotti then captured the mortar and eventually carried it back to the lines.

Roulette Wheel of Life Turns In Favor of Two Marine Brothers

DA NANG, Viet-Nam, Feb. 29—The roulette wheel of life landed on "00 green" this February for two Marine brothers assigned to the Criminal Investigation Department (CID) of Military Police (MP) Co., Headquarters Bn., 1st Marine Division.

A division request went out for personnel to bolster the company. Cpl. David F. G. Meagher, 23, was initially selected from 1st Bn., Fifth Marine Regiment, to be an MP, but his typist ability led him to a clerk's billet in CID.

CID was also in need of a criminal investigator and had to "borrow" SSGT. Gregory F. Meagher, 30, from Armed Forces Police CID at III Marine Amphibious Force headquarters in Da Nang.

David was transferred to MP Company while Gregory was on his rest and recuperation (R & R) tour. When Gregory returned he found that his new clerk was his brother.

"We've seen each other more since we both reached Viet-Nam in May than in the years since I joined the Marine Corps in 1955," said Gregory.

"The last time we saw each other," said Dave, "I had been medevaced to Da Nang and my brother was standing over me. 'This is a fine reunion,' he told the doc."

They were together again for a few hours when David was returning from a Japanese hospital to his parent unit near Hue.

"There hasn't been enough time for us to get a reaction from the family," said Gregory, "but I know they will be relieved that Dave is out of 'the bush' and working with me for the present."
