HELICOPTERS AND AUTOGIROS

By Charles Gablehouse

This book on rotating-wing aircraft for the general reader deals in its first three chapters with the history of the helicopter. The chapters that follow describe its various uses and deal with aerodynamic and technical considerations. One chapter deals with other vertical and short take-off machines, particularly those which are intended to supplant the helicopter. An excellent anatomy of the "egg beater".

The Veterans' Readjustment Benefits Act of 1966 provides educational assistance for veterans who served on active duty with the Armed Forces after January 31, 1955. This law can help you obtain education or training for a chosen career or better employment opportunities in civilian life.

All military personnel with a least two years of active duty are eligible for these benefits. Also eligible are veterans who served continuously or active duty for a period of at least 181 days, any part of which was after January 31, 1955, and who were discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable. A veteran who served less than 181 days may be eligible if he was discharged or released because of service-connected disability.

You may pursue a course at a college, vocational, business, high school, or correspondence school. The course must be approved by the Veterans' Administration. It is advised, however, that you contact either your unit or Base Education Officer to learn of the accredited resident off-duty high school and college courses available on the Base which would not require the use of the G. I. Bill. The Marine Corps pay three-fourths of the cost of tuition cost for these off-duty high school and college courses.

It cannot be over emphasized that you contact the Education Officer BEFORE you sign a contract obligating yourself for large sums of money for a commercial correspondence courses offered free or at nominal fee without causing a reduction of your eligibility of the G. I. Bill.

VA may not provide training after eight years from the date of your last discharge or release from active duty if your discharge is on or after June 1, 1966. This time limit is important to you. For example, if you are eligible for 36 months of educational assistance and you want to take a 4 year school course, you would have to start your program not later than 4 years after your release from service. If you start your course later, the VA payment will stop at the end of the 8 year period.

If you desire Veterans' Administration assistance, please feel free to call the Base Education Office, 75572 or 7-5512 to schedule an appointment with the Veterans' Administration Representative.

Student Officers Visit Communications Facilities

The 18th annual reunion of the Second Marine Division Association was held last Friday night at the Langford Hotel in Orlando, Fla. The four-day meeting included business sessions, a parade and the installation of new officers. The 2d Marine Division Band under the direction of 1st Lieutenant W. G. Kennedy participated in the parade and presented an hour concert at the hotel. Looking at the reunion program are from left to right, Adolph Patterson, association national president; Lt. Gen. Julian C. Smith (USMC-Ret.), Commander of the division in the South Pacific during World War II and representative of Marine commandant at the reunion, and Herbert J. Sweet, Marine Corps sergeant major.

Students from the Communications Officer Class 2-67, Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Virginia, were here recently for a three-day visit. The school is a six-month intermediate course, leading to a primary military occupational specialty as a communications officer.

The visiting group, consisting of 40 students and two escort officers, was here for an orientation tour of communication-electronics facilities within the quad-command.

In addition to Marine officers, there were also two Navy, two Army, and one Australian officer with the group. The two Navy officers are the first to go through the school.

Having arrived at the Marine Corps Air Facility the previous evening, the officers began their tour the following day by observing a communications exercise by Communications Company, Headquarters Battalion, 2d Marine Division. While there, they observed techniques of setting up communications equipment in the field.

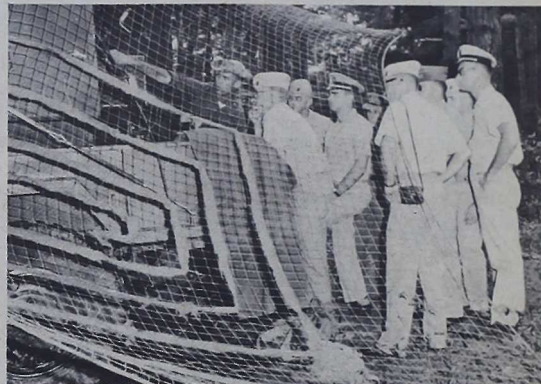

Following lunch, the officers toured the Electronics Maintenance facilities of the 8th Communications Battalion, where they inspected maintenance vans, and other equipment.

Continuing their tour of maintenance facilities, the officers visited the Electronics Calibration Lab of Electronics Maintenance Company, Maintenance Battalion, 2d Force Service Regiment.

The communication officers spent their final two days at Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, familiarizing themselves with the communication-electronics facilities of the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing before returning to Quantico.

Lt. Shelton Kept Busy on Vieques

When Second Lieutenant Jesse E. Shelton reports to work in the morning he can never be sure just what he will be doing. That's why he's known as the man of many hats.

A typical day might find him

selling bonds, arranging a visit for local dignitaries or perhaps organizing a testing program for Marines who want to continue their education.

This is all in addition to his regular duties as the training and operations officer for Camp Garcia, the Force Troops, Caribbean, training area located on the island of Vieques, Puerto Rico.

Lieutenant Shelton is attached to Headquarters, Camp Garcia from the Adjutant's Section, 2d Battalion, 10th Marines at Camp Lejeune. A veteran of the Vietnam campaign where he served in artillery, he is one of two officers at Garcia who are Division, rather than Force Troops, personnel.

Among the Lieutenant's diversified jobs are: Camp Protocol Officer; Officer-in-Charge of Unregistered Publications; Range Control Officer; and Education Officer.

In addition to these, the dynamic Lieutenant also serves on the Narcotics Inventory Board; the Enlisted Recreation committee; and as chairman of the Camp Savings Bond Program.

To insure that he doesn't get bored, Lieutenant Shelton is also treasurer of the Commissioned Officers Open Mess.

Though his workload is a tremendous one, the Lieutenant maintains a cheerful calmness which contradicts his heavy schedule.

Every position which he holds is a vital one of the entire mission of the base. He is in control of the numerous training ranges and areas which are provided for the personnel on board and the units who travel to Vieques for maneuvers.

As education officer he has been directly responsible for the outstanding record achieved by Camp Garcia in the General Education Development testing program.

Lieutenant Shelton is a man of many hats and his responsibilities are great. He wears each of his hats well and has earned the respect of the officers and men he works with.

Sgt. Mercer Ships For Six

Sergeant Ira C. Mercer was presented a check for $1,400 after a reenlistment ceremony held in the Base Career Advisory Office recently.

The sergeant, a section leader with the Motor Transport Section, Marine Corps Supply Schools, received the variable bonus after he was sworn in for his second tour of duty.

A native of Waverly, Tennessee, he has seen action in both the Dominican Republic and the Republic of Vietnam.

Force Troops D&B Has Busy Schedule

The talented musicians of the Force Troops Drum and Bugle Corps will be appearing in numerous military and civilian functions in the next few weeks.

They are currently planning a five day trip to Vieques Island, Puerto Rico to appear in the annual island festival honoring the Patron Saint of the Fishermen.

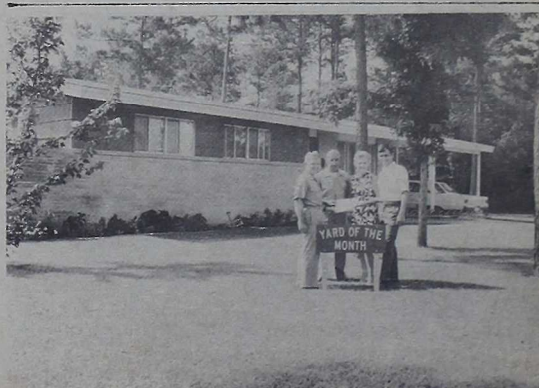

This will be the second Caribbean trip for the spirited Corps in recent months. Their appearance in several public concerts at Vieques during their last trip prompted the return invitation to perform in the islands version of the celebrated Mardi Gras.

A 200 man marching unit, composed of 100 men from "A"

Company, 8th Engineer Battalion and 100 from the Camp Garcia detachment plus a Marine color guard, one afoot and one mounted will also participate in the festival.

Prior to their trip to Puerto Rico the "D&B" will provide music for several Force Troops retirement ceremonies, a 2d Marine Division change of command and the honor guard for Lieutenant General Richard Weede, Commanding General, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic.

Arrangements are also being made for the Corps to appear in Fort Lauderdale, Florida in mid-August followed by a well-deserved leave for the bandmen.

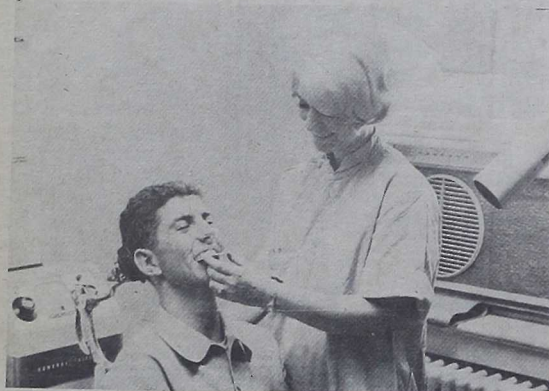

YARD OF THE MONTH -- The "Yard of the Month" sign, prominently displayed at 5858 Delaware, Berkeley Manor, testifies to the accomplishment of the residents. Presenting the award to Master Sergeant Tom Sova is Colonel W.T. Bray, (left), Acting Base Commander. Also present to claim their share of the honors are Mrs. Sova and Tom Jr. (right).

HOLD THIS BETWEEN YOUR TEETH -- DN Donna Hansen prepares to X-ray the teeth of DT3 Dave Perry before an examination at the Base Dental Clinic, Building 15.

PHYSICAL THERAPY -- SKSN J. Williams sits on an "N-K Table" in the physical therapy ward at the Naval Hospital as HMI V. M. Lever adjusts the weights. The table is a leg strengthening device.

The Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service, better known to everyone as the WAVES, will celebrate their 25th anniversary Sunday.

Women first entered military service in the United States during World War I. The WAVES were formally organized in 1942 during World War II, and more than 86,000 women saw service.

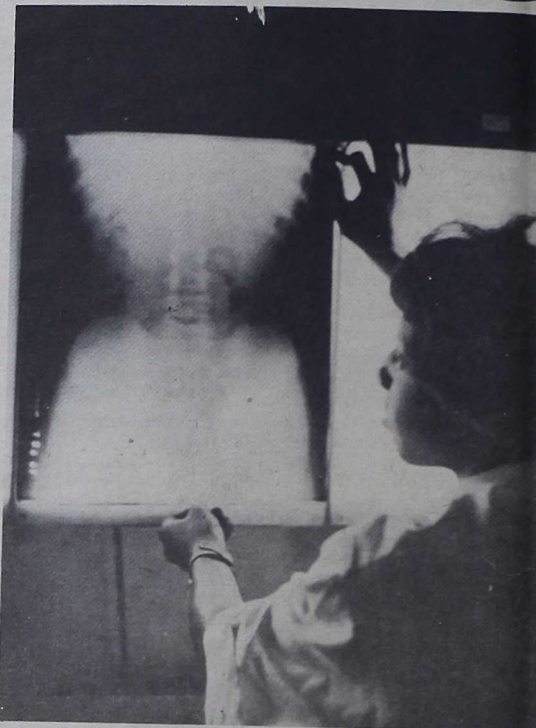

In 1948, the Women's Armed Forces Integration Act made the Waves a permanent part of the Navy and Navy Reserves.

Today at Camp Lejeune there are 35 Waves stationed aboard the Base. The U. S. Naval Hospital has 25, engaged in laboratory work, X-ray, physical therapy, and obstetrics.

Six are assigned to the Dispensary in Building 15.

These young ladies are continuing a long and proud tradition. Happy Birthday, Waves!

Division Trains Sniper/Scouts For Regiments

Could you train your telescopic sight on an enemy soldier, squeeze off a round and kill him at a distance greater than 1500 yards?

This is the end goal of a unique Scout - Sniper program which graduated its first class in the 2d Marine Division last week.

To continue its program to place one Scout-Sniper platoon within each infantry regiment of the 2d Division, they are looking for intelligent, mature Marines who are experts with the M-14 rifle, are motivated, have spirit and nine months left to serve.

While most of the training schedule is taken up with qualification with the new

Remington Model 700 rifle, the classes include 36 hours of map reading, 65 hours of scouting and patrolling, 10 hours of communications and 28 hours of close air and artillery support.

After the 537 - hour course, the men are tested which aids both the students and instructors in evaluating the course.

The results will enable Captain John H. Randolph, Officer in Charge and his platoon sergeant Staff Sergeant R. D. Williams, to change the future programs as needed.

The captain explained it this way: "Since nothing like this has been attempted here in the past, modifications and alterations are expected to be numerous."

"What we were striving to mold was something of a cross between a recon Marine and a team shooter. We wanted an impeccable marksman, one who found it just as easy to be crafty with his wits as it was to be deadly with his rifle," he said.

According to Captain Randolph, the initial group of trainees really did an outstanding job of meeting these standards.

Since intelligence is placed on an even par with marksmanship as a prerequisite for entrance into the Scout - Sniper Program, prospective platoon members are thoroughly screened prior to their acceptance. Having hurdled this first barrier, the Marine finds that his work is just beginning.

Hours upon hours of classroom study follow, with each subject taught by the best instructors available. Classes may be held anywhere, from the most desolate marshes of Camp Lejeune to the Hills of Vieques Island, Puerto Rico.

The platoon undergoes two solid weeks of training on Vieques under simulated combat condition, including a 48-hour escape, evasion, and survival exercise. Here too, the men break down into two-man teams, with one handling the rifle while the other gathers information of possible value.

The rifle being used by these potential scout-snipers, the Remington Model 700, is one of the most accurate and deadly weapons in the Corps' arsenal. It boasts an effective killing range of up to 1500 yards. The program, in addition to providing detailed and comprehensive training to the troops, is providing the first opportunity to field test this rifle.

The men had a first - hand opportunity to familiarize themselves with the rifle during the two-week period of the course set aside for marksmanship. They utilized every range in the Camp Lejeune complex, and one at Vieques.

Firing was conducted during reduced light conditions of dusk and dawn, and targets were placed at various distances from the shooters, ranging from 200 to 1,200 meters.

Occasionally, the distance between target and shooter was not divulged, in an effort to compel the shooter to experiment with and analyze the effectiveness of his rifle.

Expert instruction for the marksmanship phase of the course was provided by members of the Division Rifle and Pistol Team.

Upon completion of the program, graduates are sent to the 6th Marines, 8th Marines, and 2d Reconnaissance Bn, to assist these organizations in forming and training their own Scout - Sniper Platoons.

The establishment of the Scout-Sniper program within the Marine Corps has created still another element in its already potent fighting machine.

GETTING ACQUAINTED with the Remington Model 700, these Marines listen intently to their instructor, for they are well aware that what they learn during their training is vital to the accomplishment of their mission.

COVER AND CONCEALMENT -- The ability to observe and not be observed is the difference between success or failure of the Scout-Sniper team.

HONOR GRAD -- Sergeant William V. Schroeder was the top graduate in the 30-man Sniper School graduating class with a 95 per cent average. He is currently with Headquarters Company, 2d Marines.

TEAMWORK is present everywhere within the Marine Corps. While the shooter takes aim, the other member of the team is busy gathering information.

Chaplains Corner

A California motorist, apprehended for speeding, claimed that a heavy tail wind pushed him along.

A woman arrested for shoplifting said she had tried on a hat but it was so tiny she had forgotten she was wearing it.

A North Carolina man, arrested for stealing, said he took the money because he needed it in order to repay $10 he had stolen someplace else.

An Oklahoma motorist gave as his excuse for driving without a license the fact that it was impossible to get one since he was receiving a pension for blindness from the state.

As humorous or sad as the above excuses may be, each one is an excuse that real people gave in real situations last year.

We are often quite ingenious with the reasons and excuses for our mis - conduct and errors in life, but sometimes we show a depressing lack of ingenuity when it comes to correcting some of these errors.

Hundreds of years ago, the Psalmist wrote, "Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth; and a door around my lips, Incline not my heart to evil words to make excuse for (my) sins."

Sometimes, we hide behind the lame excuse that the whole world is going wrong and we are just a part of it. It is easy enough to fall in this quagmire; it is a convenient dodge for what is our own personal responsibility in daily life.

When we get lost in the maze of our own subjective reactions, it is usually very difficult for us to see that most of our troubles lie in ourselves, not in the world which we blame for all our miseries.

Though we may not admit it, though we may never use the words, each of us is constantly groping in the darkness for "the way, the truth, and the life." It might just be that we could have the privilege of helping others to see God by the way in which we live. Or does some "convenient" excuse come to mind at the mention of such a project?

"Incline not my heart, O God, to make excuses for my own sins."

Bakery Keeps Stomachs Happy

Some use it with butter, others prefer peanut butter, and still others desire jam; but whatever the combination, bread, at the rate of more than 3500 loaves a day during a recent period, is a mainstay in the diet of Marines here.

The responsibility of supplying this vast amount of bread for consumption aboard this sprawling complex rests with the Base Bakery.

Under the auspices of the Base Food Services Office, the divides it into six equal parts at the desired weight. From there the dough is fed into a rounder and then into an overhead proofer for about 13 minutes for easy molding.

After its proofer rest, the balls of dough are pressed into round discs and then rolled by a pressurized curler screen. Two rolls of dough are twisted together to make one loaf and placed in a pan. From there it is placed in a proof box at 104 degrees for one hour and fifteen minutes to let the bread rise.

After rising, loaves are placed into the oven for a 25-minute baking period. The freshly baked bread is then cooled to 90 degrees or below before the slicing, wrapping and delivery.

Bread plays a major role in the daily menu of Marines aboard this base. According to Major B. D. Bridges, Base Food Supply Officer, "The starch and protein content of bread helps balance the diet."

Besides being a limited source of various "B" vitamins, the Major indicates that bread... "helps regulate the body processes by maintaining steady nerves, good appetite, aiding digestion and promoting healthy skin."

Besides its daily output of bread, the bakery also bakes rolls, biscuits, breakfast pastries, doughnuts, cakes and cookies.

BAKER'S DOZENS -- Daily, dozens of doughnuts are placed in pans for breakfast meals by Sergeant Jack N. Hurley and Lance Corporal Brenda K. Higgins.

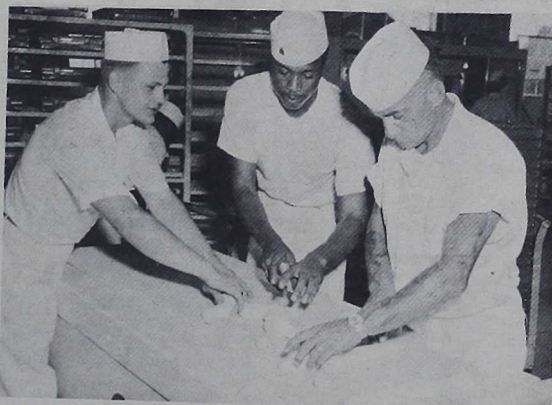

bakery works 18-hours a day, five days a week to meet the demand.

The day starts at 2 a.m. as the first "sponge", consisting of flour, yeast and water is prepared. After a three and one-half hour fermentation period, the "sponge" is re-mixed, with shortening, sugar, salt and milk powder added.

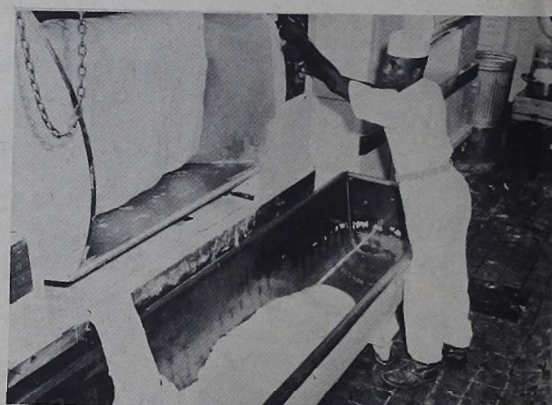

Following the re-mixing and a 20-minute "deck" (rest time) the dough is put into a machine which

STARTING THE PROCESS -- Gunnery Sergeant W. D. Wyatt starts the first phase of a "sponge" consisting of flour, wheat and water.

DOING THE TWIST -- Members of the bakery crew twist rolls of dough together to place in pans for rising.

Fourteen Scuba Divers Qualify

By DAVE BERGLUND

The Sea Urchins Scuba Club made its first ocean dive of the season last Sunday. By 7:15 a.m. twenty-four experienced and beginning divers were aboard the special services boat "Montezuma" and heading out to sea.

The Montezuma reached the dive area about an hour and a half after departure from Swansboro. The site is marked by buoy No. 13 and is the final resting place of the American freighter "Suloide" which was sunk by a mine during World War II and now lies in 70 feet of water. In later years the ship was demolished because it was a menace to navigation.

The water was a beautiful deep blue and very clear with visibility about 40 feet.

The first people in the water were the club's assistant instructor, safety officer, and vice president who made the preliminary dive. Conditions were found to be excellent as expected. Each experienced diver acted as coach for two beginning divers and the dive began.

The dive was primarily a qualification dive for members who had recently completed a course of scuba instruction given by the club. There were eleven beginning divers and three experienced divers from other areas who successfully completed the dive and will receive their scuba cards. The card identifies the holder as a qualified scuba diver and enables him to use all base special services scuba equipment.

Persons who qualified were: Wineapple, Williams, Barber, Roda, Liszewski, Rynearson, Tucci, Pack, Willson, Barekij, Thornton, Grunwald, Williams, Humiston.

Once again, it's time to check your combination hunting and fishing license and Base permit. These expire on July 31, as do all county and state hunting licenses. State licenses for the 1967-68 season are on sale at the Sporting Goods Department, Main Exchange, and Base permits for the coming season are on sale at Building 37, Entrance One.

When you get your new license, make sure you get a copy of the 1967-68 Hunting and Trapping Regulations that is published by the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission.

Opening day for hunting marsh hens begins September 1 and runs through November 9. Shooting hours will be from one - half hour before sunrise to sunset. Beginning of the split season for hunting dove starts September 9 and ends October 14.

There is one significant change in legal shooting hours for hunting dove. Legal shooting hours will begin at 1 p.m. instead of 12 p.m. and end at sunset. During the second split season, legal hours will be from 12 p.m. to sunset.

The outlook for marsh hen hunting is always good, because there's always more birds than hunters. Dove hunting should also be somewhat improved over last year, particularly here on Base.

Twenty wildlife food plots have recently been planted to summer grain by the Base Forestry Unit. A disc tiller was purchased this year to improve food plot preparations prior to planting, which will improve utilization by dove and other game.

OPEN DIVISION GOLF CHAMPS-Captain Klages accepts the Open Division Golf Trophy from Colonel R.E. Brant, Chief of Staff, 3d Division. Captain Klages team won the trophy in the 3d Division Golf Tournament. Other team members include Sergeant Owens and Master Gunnery Sergeant Holt.

Huntmasters Selection Set

Hawaiian Club

Still Undefeated

Selection of huntmasters for organized hunting parties for the 1967 - 68 season will be held at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, August 3, in the Rod and Gun Club house which is located near the Paradise Point Tennis Courts. Membership in the Rod and Gun Club is not a prerequisite for this position and all Camp Le-jeune military (active and retired) as well as civilian employees of the Base are eligible. Each person selected will be subject to final approval of the Commanding General.

All personnel interested in formulating recommendations or changes in the hunting regulations of Camp Lejeune are urged to attend this special meeting.

The powerful Hawaiian Club Ladies Softball Team swamped the Hunters on July 19 with a score of 23 to 5 and smashed the hapless Jet Set 26 to 3. In both games the Hawaiians hit the ball, ran the bases and scored almost at will. These wins bring their league standings to 11 wins and 0 losses.

It all started back in March of '65 when a fellow officer convinced him it could be done, ala "weekend swoops."

"I used to change clothes in my office on Friday afternoons, jump into my car, and race 89 miles to make a 6:30 class," Maj. Solazzo recalled. When he became C.O. of Headquarters Company, H&S Bn., last year, things got even more hectic.

"I took my civilian clothes with me and changed at school, so as to beat the rush hour traffic. When even that became impossible, I wore my uniform to

MOVIE REVIEWS

"THE 25th HOUR"

"The 25th Hour," Carlo Ponti's followup to "Dr. Zhivago," is an epic based on the bestselling novel by C. Virgil Gheorghiu.

Like its predecessor, the flick deals with a couple's love that burns brighter than the holocaust of war. Anthony Quinn and Virna Lisi are cast as the Rumanian peasant man and wife who are separated when Quinn is dragged off to help build a canal to be used as a defense against the Russians at the outset of World War II. Quinn alternately becomes a prisoner of the Russians, Germans, and Americans.

Quinn, wanting nothing more than to be left alone to run his farm with his wife, goes through a harrowing series of captures and escapes from Rumania to Hungary, and eventually winds up as a defendant in the Nuremberg trials.

Miss Lisi, in the meantime, is having her troubles keeping up the farm and fending off her lecherous tormentor, Gregoire Aslan, district police captain. Foreign actors round out the supporting cast of the metrocolor production shot in Munich, Budapest, and various locales in Yugoslavia.

The film qualifies as good entertainment, although it still remains a far cry from the "Zhivago" classic.

"IS PARIS BURNING?"

"Is Paris burning?," Hitler's immortal words, repeated frantically and frequently on Aug. 25, 1944, is an apt title for one of the screen's most colossal and exciting undertakings.

From the pages of the best seller by Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre leap the heroic and incredible events of the siege and defense of Paris in the late stages of World War II.

The cast is as star-studded as the French and allied forces' defense of the City of Lights. Kirk Douglas, Glenn Ford, Robert Stack, Orson Welles, Leslie Caron, Charles Boyer, Simone Signoret, Anthony Perkins, Jean-Paul Belmondo, George Chakiris, Yves Montand, Gert Frobe and Alain Delon lead the parade of talent.

Director Rene Clement doesn't spare the horses as he attempts to re-create in minute detail the Nazi assault and ensuing defeat. Frobe is well cast as German General von Choltitz, Hitler's candidate to burn Paris to the ground, lest it fall to the allies.

Stack, Ford, and Douglas are the American generals who thwart the Nazi attack.

Director Clement searched rural France until he found military vehicles of the wartime vintage to give the action authenticity. The battle scenes are filmed in Paris, in the exact places where the action really occurred.

The only thing missing from this inspiring drama is John Wayne. If there can be found a major flaw in this Paramount spectacular, it is that too much action is presented.

USO Notes

Movies scheduled for showing of "The D. I." this weekend are "The Last Frontier," "Girls, Girls, Girls," "Mr. Buddwing," and, of course, the original version. Films are shown continuously on Friday nights and Saturday and Sunday afternoons. All military personnel are welcome.

★★★★★ 'HOPE' COMES TO CAMP GARCIA ★★★★★

"Marines in a cow pasture?... This is just like Vietnam, over there they have the Charlies... here you have the cows." That was the start of the most fabulous two hours of entertainment ever to hit the Caribbean. It was Bob Hope, Phyllis Diller and Company, invading Force Troops' Camp Garcia.

The show was scheduled for 2 p.m. Marines began arriving five hours early to get precious seats on tanks, ontos, amtracs, trucks, and high-reaching cranes. The island had provided the stage, the audience, and a beautiful Caribbean afternoon.

Bob Hope provided the entertainment.

Hope, "every serviceman's friend" is currently on location in Puerto Rico shooting his latest film, "The Private Navy of Sgt. O'Farrell."

He was invited by Lieutenant

Colonel William D. Bassett, Camp Garcia Commander, to visit Vieques. Hope brought with him a host of Hollywood stars who are featured in his movie.

Convulsive laughter was the order of the day as the Garcia Marines and Vieques civilians were delighted by Hope; the voluptuous (?) Phyllis Diller; actors Dick Sargent and Jeffrey Hunter; and singers John Myhers and Carolyn Everett.

The two hours of spontaneous laughter and applause were interrupted by comedy routines ranging from early vaudeville to modern nightclub.

Whether it was Hope-Diller, Hope-Hunter, Hope-Myhers, or Hope-Sargent it was professional entertainment at its finest backed by the "King of Comedy's" years of experience working with the Armed Forces. Diller, seductively outfitted in a zebra-striped shift with matching ankle boots ("I have no trouble selecting my costumes.") sported her latest fashionable hairdo and traditional six inch cigarette holder.

The zany "comedienne via housewife" charmed the crowd with stories concerning everything from her hairdresser ("a sadist with a whip") to herself ("a disaster area").

"The Private Navy of Sgt. O'Farrell" is Miss Diller's third picture with Hope and she also trooped the lines with him in Vietnam last Christmas. She described the atmosphere and audience at Vieques as being "just like Vietnam... without the mortars."

Motion picture and television star Jeffrey Hunter, well known for his dramatic roles in "King of Kings" and the "Temple Houston" series, displayed a relaxed comedy style as he clowning with Hope and Diller. He supplied sparkling wit in sketches satirizing politics, the English and the military.

The dynamic John Myhers, renowned star of Broadway and movies, amazed the Marines with his versatility and contagious vitality.

A veteran of musical comedy, Myhers sang and clowning with Hope to the obvious delight of the fascinated crowd.

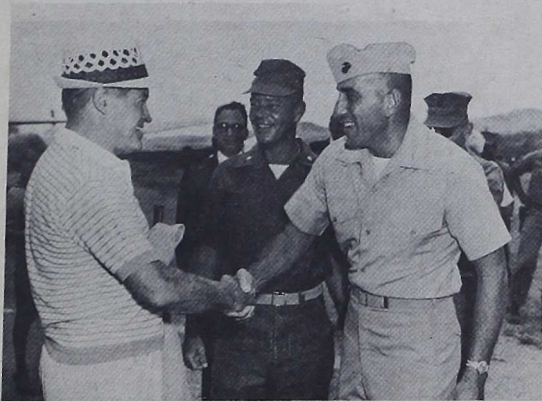

The fast-moving show was highlighted by the operatic voice of Carolyn Everett, a former Miss Kinston, North Carolina, whose beauty and talent dazzled the Marines, to say the least.

Plaques were presented to all the entertainers in appreciation for their outstanding effort following the singing of Hope's theme, "Thanks for the Memories" at the close of the performance.

The Marines stationed at Camp Garcia on Vieques Island will long remember Bob Hope, Phyllis Diller and Company. The as some 100 million other vicemen who Hope has tained, will long thank Bob "for the memories" he has WELCOME ABOARD ... Dean of American comedians, Bob Hope, is welcomed to Camp Garcia by Lieutenant Colonel William D. Bassett, Commanding Officer, Camp Garcia, and Lieutenant Colonel James T. Breckenridge, Commanding Officer, BLT 2/2, 2d Marine Division. Both officers were instrumental in obtaining Hope and Company to entertain their troops.

MISS AMERICA YOU'RE NOT ... The only person who kids Phyllis Diller more than Bob Hope is Phyllis herself. She told the overflow crowd that she "spends four hours a week at the beauty parlor ... and that's just for the estimate."

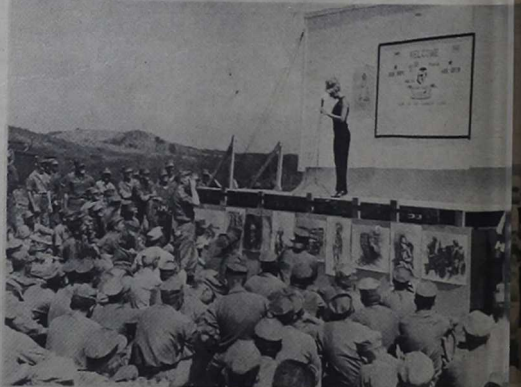

CAPACITY CROWD ... The Camp Garcia outdoor theatre provided the space for the hundreds of Marines who came hours early to get a seat for the two hour show.

OH TO BE TWENTY YEARS YOUNGER ... "I'm not sure what it is you've got Carolyn, but I'm sure it will carry far." Not only Hope was impressed with Carolyn Everett, former Miss Kinston, North Carolina; the Marines show their approval with whistles and applause.

I GOT STARTED IN THE LAUNDROMAT ... Zany Phyllis Diller, in a backstage conference, entertains Force Troop Correspondent Corporal David Steele with her recollection of early show business.

SHE USED TO LIVE NEAR LEJEUNE? ... Carolyn Everett, popular supper club singer in San Juan, Puerto Rico, wowed the troops with her style and voice. They laughed at Hope, fell in love with Diller but it was the former Miss Kinston that they ogled.
