2d Division Marine Is Top Ranger Graduate

GENERAL'S INSPECTION--Brigadier General William J. Weinstein, USMCR, inspects honor guard upon his arrival here for two weeks annual training duty.

General Weinstein Takes On Div. Post

Brigadier General William J. Weinstein, USMCR, was rendered honors by a 2d Marine Division honor guard upon his arrival at division headquarters Monday morning.

The reserve general, a Detroit attorney, arrived Sunday for two weeks of annual training duty. While here, he will assume duties as Acting Assistant Division Commander.

He is currently Commanding Officer of Volunteer Training Unit-1 in Detroit.

General Weinstein, holder of a Bronze Star medal, is a recognized author and lecturer on products liability laws, evidence law and guest-passenger law. He was selected for the rank of Brigadier General in the Marine Corps Reserve last year and was promoted to that rank in July 1967.

The first week of his visit will include calls on the Division Commander, Assistant Division Commander and the Commanding General of Force Troops. Tuesday through Thursday, he will journey to the Caribbean area to observe deployed Marine units in action.

The second week of his visit, the General will concentrate on Marine Reserve activities at Camp Lejeune. He will be briefed on and will observe the huge MEBLEX operation of those units

Monday through Wednesday.

July 27 has been reserved for the general's visit to Marine Corps Base activities. During his tour, he will visit 1st Infantry Training Regiment, Supply Schools, Engineer School and various other Base organizations.

After a visit to 2d Marine Aircraft Wing facilities July 28, the general will leave for his return trip to Detroit, July 29.

Reserve Units Merge For MEBLEX 67 Here

MEBLEX 67, an amphibious training exercise for Marine Reserve units, is currently underway at Camp Lejeune, with a landing on Onslow Beach set for next week.

The Reserves will board ship Sunday and Monday and make the assault on the beach Tuesday.

Units participating are the 3d Battalion, 25th Marines, Cleveland, including "K" Company from Akron, Ohio, and "L" and "M" Companies from Columbus, Ohio, Headquarters Company, 25th Marines, Worcester, Mass., 6th 105mm Howitzer Battery, Canton, Ohio, "B" Company, 4th Engineers, Roanoke, Va., and 29th Rifle Company, Buffalo, N.Y.

A member of the 2d Reconnaissance Battalion, 2d Marine Division, made a triumphant return to his parent organization recently after finishing first in his class at the eight-week Ranger Course conducted at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga.

The Marine, Corporal Andrew M. Sendry, completed the course with the highest point total of the 149 men enrolled. The class included 110 officers.

During the entire eight weeks, the men were individually graded on their performance, enthusiasm and leadership qualities.

The Ranger Course is conducted in three phases; physical conditioning, mountain training and counterinsurgency and counter-guerrilla operations.

During phase one the trainees are confronted with two very formidable structural adversaries known as Confidence Courses.

One of the most difficult obstacles on either of the courses is the "Suspension Traverse Rope Drop." The problem begins with a three-inch wide board. The students must walk this simulated gang-plank to the end where they start the second half of the over-water challenge. The first part of the obstacle requires the balance of a tight rope walker while the second involves both coordination and discipline.

When the novice Ranger reaches the end of the plank he must grab the pulley which is attached to the "Slide-for-Life," a rope suspended across a river.

As they coast faster and faster down the long slanting cable the instructor tells them to drop into the water at a certain point. They are usually going about 50 miles-per-hour by then. If they don't drop when told, they will smash into the huge tree which anchors the cable. Cpl. Sendry stated, "Though it was dangerous it was still fun."

The second phase of training took place in mountains near Dahlonega, Ga. Here the men learned the skills of mountain climbing, mountain warfare and how to live off the land.

While there, the students found that if your fingernail could get into a crack, it was big enough to use as a hand hold while climbing the sheerest stone wall.

The men were given only the bare minimum of rations during the entire course as a test of their endurance. They were not allowed to kill wild game or catch any of the many varieties of fish in the mountain streams which they crossed again and again.

While in the mountain training phase the students had the

Gov't Bonds Drive Slated For August

The Quad-Command has designated August as the month for the 1967 savings bond "Share in Freedom Campaign." The drive will begin Aug. 1 and canvassers will work toward increasing the enrollment in savings bond programs. Person-to-person contact will enable canvassers to fully explain the benefits and new savings plans.

The object of the campaign is to alert prospective buyers to the advantages of investing in savings bonds. The new U. S. Treasury savings notes -- "Freedom Shares," for example are sold only in combination with the Series E bonds. Freedom shares are available in four denominations: $25 (purchase price $20.25), $50 (purchase price $40.50), $75 (purchase price $60.75), and $100 (purchase price $81). They provide a higher return than Series E bonds (4.74 per cent) when held to maturity (4 1/2 years).

The Freedom Share and Savings Bond are sold as a package. An investment of $20.25 for a freedom share plus $18.75 for a bond, for example, equals a purchase price of $39. The combination has a value of $50 at maturity -- half in 4 1/2 years when the freedom share matures and the other half in seven years. The combination can be purchased in six pay days through a single $6.50 allotment.

Why Reenlist?

by: LCpl. D. A. Switzer

"What, me ship?" This common phrase too often shows a complete disregard for the close scrutiny needed in any decision that will affect a man's future.

Many Marines, too many in fact, refuse to listen to the reenlistment talks given by their company commanders, first sergeants and their career advisory NCO's, simply because a buddy told them they shouldn't "ship-over".

When you look closely at the benefits offered to a Marine, especially on his first reenlistment, you become somewhat stunned at what can be yours for the asking.

The variable bonus plan is one good example. Here is a new car, new furniture for the wife, a savings account for your child's education or a host of other things that you have always wanted, but could never afford.

The change of duty station option is another example. Perhaps you want Inspector - Instructor duty near your home town. Maybe you would like to be a recruiter. Perhaps you want to spend two years in Europe, the Bahamas, Hawaii, or South America. You can get almost any station in the world, if you qualify.

Are you dissatisfied with your current trade? Why not ask for a change of specialty? I know a Marine sergeant who recently traded his MOS in food services for a position in accounting and finance, a field he had long desired to be associated with.

Education is yet another feature of the program. No company, no matter how large, has the educational opportunities offered by the Marine Corps. Every possible subject is covered, from basic infantry tactics to the complex field of data processing. These doors are open to you.

So far, we have mentioned only the material things. Have you ever considered the intangible benefits that you now have in your possession? These things are hard to measure but are summed up in one short phrase--Esprit-de-Corps. The friendship you have with fellow Marines, the respect of those who are not Marines, and the dignity associated with any profession, are but a few reasons that make a career Marine a special type of person.

Granted, everyone is not meant for military service and conversely military service is not for everyone, but the next time the possibility of reenlisting is presented to you, at least give yourself the time to think it over and weigh the benefits. Many a rush decision has ruined what could have been a promising and rewarding career.

Summertime is relaxing time and what better way to relax on a hot, humid, day than with a good book. If you read only fifteen minutes a day you would read one-half book a week; two books a month; twenty-four books a year.

Read while you wait those odd minutes during the day while waiting for a train, an appointment, in stores etc. You'll be amazed at how many interesting books you'll read in a few months. Try these for a beginning of your leisure reading:

THE GROUCHO LETTERS
—letters to and from Groucho Marx—

Witty, sardonic and cynical letters by the comic of mobile visage, the look of wild amazement and the weaving cigar.

THE TIME IS NOW
by Pearl S. Buck

Written some years ago, this autobiographical novel was held until the author was ready to publish so personal a story. ## Buy U.S. Savings Bonds

Modern math—Savings Bond Style

If you bought ten $25 U.S. Savings Bonds, you'd pay $187.50 . . . and get back $250 at maturity.

Whether you buy just one Bond—or a Bond every month on the Payroll Savings Plan—that $4 for $3 return is guaranteed by the U.S. Government.

And now, with the new 4.15% interest rate, E Bonds mature faster—in just 7 years! Your old Bonds will earn more, too. And they'll continue to grow for you, at the new interest rate, as long as you hold them. So now Savings Bonds are better to buy, and hold, than ever.

And buying Savings Bonds helps build your security another way, too—by helping build your country's security. Knowing you're doing your part to support our men in Vietnam is a star-spangled good feeling you can't measure with numbers.

Discover that feeling for yourself, today . . . while starting a solid financial foundation for your future. Ask about the convenient Payroll Savings Plan where you work—or buy Bonds regularly at your bank.

Phase three was the most physically demanding section of the course. For this phase, the trainees were taken to Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. There they carried out platoon and company size patrols and reconnaissance missions in the swamps and marsh lands.

After two weeks of physically exhausting on-and-off patrols, the entire class was marched 15 miles back to Eglin because three men went for an illegal swim while on a patrol.

The training was tough and so was the discipline but, according to Cpl. Sendry, "it is a great course and I would recommend it to any non-commissioned officer in the Corps."

Marines Decorated For Viet Service

Two Marines from the 2d Battalion 8th Marines, 2d Marine Division, were honored July 13 for their service in Vietnam.

Sergeant Cleveland Whitehead Jr. was awarded the Navy Commendation Medal with Combat "V" and Corporal Richard M. Weber received a Certificate of Commendation during the early morning dual ceremony. Making the presentations was their Commanding Officer, Major Joseph F. Cody Jr.

While attached to "I" Company, 3rd Battalion, 5th Marines as a forward observer, Sgt. Whitehead was accompanying a combat patrol when the unit came under heavy enemy fire.

"In the initial burst of fire, the patrol leader was wounded and Sgt. Whitehead unhesitatingly assumed command of the patrol," according to his citation.

"With complete disregard for his own safety, he repeatedly exposed himself to hostile fire to direct and encourage his men, skillfully maneuvering them into advantageous positions," the citation continued.

After the unit had successfully squelched the enemy's attack, Whitehead moved his patrol to secure a landing zone and "personally prepared the wounded patrol leader for evacuation."

The Certificate of Commendation awarded Corporal Weber was signed by Major General H. Nickerson Jr., Commanding General, 1st Marine Division.

The Commendation cited Cpl. Weber "for his outstanding performance of duty while serving with the Civil Affairs (S-5) Section, 3rd Battalion, 5th Marines, in operations against Viet Cong forces in the Republic of Vietnam from March 1966 to April 1967.

"During this period, Cpl. Weber demonstrated superior judgement and initiative in the accomplishment of his tasks, and was of invaluable assistance to the S-5 section throughout eight major operations," the citation stated.

Sgt. Whitehead is presently with H&S Company, while Cpl. Weber is with "F" Company.

ORDERS TO PITTSBURGH -- Sergeant L. B. McGinnis, Jr., (left) receives his orders for Inspector - Instructor duty in Pittsburgh, Pa., and a check from Gunnery Sergeant A. L. Pope, Base Career Advisory NCO, prior to leaving Camp Lejeune. McGinnis received his change of station through the duty station option plan available to Marine Corps reenlistees. He also received a variable reenlistment bonus of more than $2,000.

Foundation Awards Grants To Marine Vets' Children

"This is certainly a highly worthwhile endeavor, for any effort we can make toward providing a better education for young people results in a pay-off for the future that we cannot even estimate. Never in history has there been such an upswing in the importance of education, and this type direct help is most worthwhile."

These words were written by Astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr., Colonel, USMC (Ret.), in a letter he wrote to the New York Marine Corps Scholarship Foundation regarding their program of educational grants.

The Scholarship Foundation awards grants annually to children of Marines killed, wounded or disabled in action. Since its incorporation five years ago, the Foundation has awarded more than 40 college and vocational school scholarships to deserving Marine dependents who would otherwise have little opportunity to further their education.

Twenty-one Marine dependents received scholarship awards this year totaling $26,250. The scholarships were awarded last February at the Fifth Annual Leatherneck Ball held in New York City.

The Scholarship Foundation operates on funds it receives from the proceeds of the annual ball, as well as small donations received from interested persons.

The Louis Calder Foundation added to the Scholarship Foundation's funds by contributing a $50,000 grant this year. This is the first large grant the Foundation has received to date.

Those who have benefited from the program include a young athlete who lost his scholarship when he was seriously injured in a football game. He is now completing his education with the help of a grant.

A two-year-old boy, following the unexpected death of his mother, was suddenly orphaned when his Marine father was killed in Vietnam. The educational grant given this boy by the Foundation will amount to $8,000 and will assure him of a college education some 15-16 years in the future.

Another recipient this year was the young son of a Marine paraplegic. The father had appealed to the Foundation to help him put his son through the Marine Military Academy at Harlingen, Texas. The appeal was soon acknowledged by the Foundation, permitting the son to continue through a full college preparatory education.

The program has met with considerable success in recent years and is growing at an ever increasing pace. The Foundation anticipates proceeds in excess of $35,000 from next year's Leatherneck Ball as compared to the $22,000 received from the last ball.

With those proceeds and added contributions, the Foundation plans to award even more grants next year.

Scholarship application blanks may be obtained by writing to the Chairman of the Scholarship Committee: Mr. George Weiss, Bach & Co., Inc., 36 Wall Street, New York, New York 10005.

'Marriage Enrichment' Instruction Continues

"Married Love" and "Formula For Building Love," were the topics discussed last Monday during the first of a series of four evening programs on "Marriage Enrichment" conducted at the Tarawa Terrace Community Center.

The recorded lectures of Dr. Urban Steinmetz, director of the Family Life Bureau of Escanaba, Michigan provided the background for further discussion led by Chaplain William E. Baker, LT, USNR-R.

Chaplain Baker, a minister-educator from Virginia, is assistant Dean of Students at the University of Richmond and is on a thirty days' temporary active duty assignment at Tarawa Terrace.

The series of discussions to be held Monday and Wednesday evenings the 17th, 19th, 24th and 26th are based upon the premise that many couples could achieve greater harmony in the family environment with a better understanding of inter-personal relationships.

The recorded talks by Dr. Steinmetz are enjoyable to hear and easy to understand. Confusing technical jargon has been left out, and marriage is discussed with frankness, reverence, humor and simplicity.

The Tarawa Terrace Girl Scouts will furnish a baby sitting service each evening and refreshments will be served by the ladies of the association. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Nat'l Cooking Columnist to Lecture at TT

The Good Housekeeping magazine's "Susan, Our Teenage Cook" will share her professional knowledge, creative talents and helpful secrets with military wives at the Tarawa Terrace Community Center Annex.

This program offers innovations for homemaking including household hints, laundry tips, recipe ideas, gracious entertaining and personal grooming.

Slides featuring international dishes made with simple foods will be shown. Free household hints and recipe booklets will be available to all attending.

Miss Williams has a versatile business background with Good Housekeeping magazine. Her experience has included demonstrations of home appliances, laboratory investigations of all types of home-care products and advertising claims. In addition, she has done extensive work in recipe development and food photography.

She holds degrees in Home Economics from Syracuse University and New York University.

For reservations please call 346-6693, 353-2661, or 347-1321 before July 22.

Six foot, one-inch long and packed with killing power describes this 34-pound diamondback rattlesnake killed by Staff Sergeant Lindell L. Lee recently near Sneads Ferry.

SSgt. Lee ran over the snake on his way home from the Base and decided to claim the reptile as his prize. He took his .22 caliber rifle from the trunk of his car and began to pump rounds into the snake as it slithered across the dirt road near his home at Sneads Ferry.

Sgt. Lee fired a total of 12 rounds into the snake before it slowed down enough for him to trap it with a stick. He then held the snake until it died.

The "rattler" had a total of 11 rattles and one button. Its fangs measured almost two inches long.

Sgt. Lee is a member of Company "B," 2d Amphibious Tractor Battalion.

Key to Housing Dwellers' Lockout Jam Is Just That

When a Military Police watch was maintained in the Tarawa Terrace Housing Office and Midway Park, Knox and Gelg Trailers Parks, occupants were locked out of their quarters could obtain assistance from the Military Police on duty.

Now, the present Military Police force is no longer adequate to maintain a permanent watch at these housing areas. It is necessary to discontinue the assistance that was provided for the convenience of occupants is inadvertently locked out of quarters after normal working hours. Extreme care should be exercised to preclude such occurrences as much as possible. Damage incurred through forcible entry will be repaired at occupant's expense.

Base Laundry also --- Serving Marines

Service to the dependent as well as the Marine is the distinguishing feature of two subdivisions of the Base Supply Department: The Base Laundry and Base Property Control.

The Laundry, one of the biggest in North Carolina, launders government articles, provides individual service for Marines and dependents, and gives laundry service to non-appropriated fund activities aboard the Base.

With the equipment to "Wash anything that's washable", the Laundry last year did 7,472,668 lbs. of washing. The Laundry does no dry cleaning.

For individuals, the Laundry cleans a bundle in two - to - three days, using the latest methods.

To make sure the right person gets the right clothes, three types of marking are used. At least one method can be used on each piece, no matter how delicate.

Last summer two 800 lb. washer - extractor units were added to increase the Laundry's capacity, and the latest soap and bleach chemicals are used.

Periodic checks are made on the chemicals, with test fabrics being sent to the American Institute of Laundry for tests of tensile strength and whiteness.

Use of the right soaps and chemicals allows the clothes to be washed gently, without undue destructive agitation.

The Laundry repairs small rips and tears and with the addition recently of a button replacing machine, makes sure all buttons are on before clothes are returned.

Pick-up of bundles is made easier and faster by a system of rotating bundle racks. The clerk doesn't have to move from the counter to get your bundle. A button is pressed and the bundle comes to him on a conveyor belt.

Delivery and pick-up can be made at two locations: Building 1500, across from the Base Filling Station, and Building 7 930 at Camp Geiger.

Hours at the main Laundry a 7:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday rough Friday and 8:30 a.m., mp Geiger, the Laundry is open ndays 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and Tuesday through Saturday 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Base Property Control has the overall mission of providing Marine Corps Base, 2d Division and Force Troops with all the equipment they use that can't be taken to the field.

But for the individual Marine and his dependents, Base Property Control is important because it provides him with furniture and maintenance facilities
if he lives in Tarawa Terrace, Capehart, or Paradise Point housing.

After being assigned Base housing, the occupant visits Property Control where the wives choose the articles they want from photographs.

Items are checked off on a list and Property Control will deliver and move the furniture in by the time the housing unit is released for occupancy.

There is one major style of furniture for Tarawa Terrace and Capehart housing, but officers in Paradise Point have a wider choice. Field grade officers and their wives can pick their furniture by individual piece in the warehouse.

Property Control is not allowed to issue items that the family already owns. An effort is made to match colors where possible, and an inspector checks each piece and indicates repairs or replacement as needed.

Since 1965, Property Control has been unable to purchase new furniture. The old furniture is kept in shape by re- conditioning done by the state prisons and by use of new slip covers.

In addition to the furniture, Property Control provides residents of base housing, including those of Midway Park, with cleaning implements such as buffers, rug shampooers, vacuum cleaners, etc.

Residents of Paradise Point and Capehart may also check out doormats, hose, rakes, lawn sprinklers, shower curtains, and garbage cans.

The Laundry and Property Control are two of the services that make life easier at Camp Lejeune. Make use of them.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS --- Carol Pyeatt, wife of Major F. E. Pyeatt III, ponders her choice of an easy chair at the Property Control Warehouse as E. L. Miller offers his opinion.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE -- A gold ball too big to fit in the cup? Well not really, but Lieutenant Dave Vansing of Force Troops thought his tiny ball looked this big when he blasted off the 12th tee at the Paradise Point Golf Course. His ball winged its way down the fairway, dropped on the green, sank out of sight, and the Lt. had a prize catch-a-hole-in-one. (Photo by SSgt. J. M. Abreau)

Stars Clash

The Berkeley Manor All-Stars defeated the Tarawa Terrace All-Stars during a double-header played in the Girl's Softball League here July 14.

The first game was between the minor league all-stars. Pitcher Lynn Brooke, of Berkeley Manor, led her team to a 17-14 win over the Terracene.

The second game was between the major league all-stars. Tarawa Terrace found out that both teams from the Manor were hot when they fell to defeat 38-22 in 5 and a half innings of play. Winning pitcher for the Manor all-stars was Leona Bagwell.

Sailing Instructors Needed

Base Special Services operates twelve 16-1/2 foot Rebel class sailboats at Wallace Creek Boat-house near the Naval Hospital. When properly licensed, military personnel and their dependents (over age 14) can sail these boats in New River every day except Monday. After work sailing hours exist, and sailing licenses are also honored at the smaller Courthouse Bay and M. C. A. F. boathouses.

The present program, taught by LtCol. F. D. McCarthy, enables personnel to try for their licenses after an average instruction period of six hours. LtCol. McCarthy will be leaving the base about August 3, and at least one (preferably two) instructors are needed to keep the program functioning. The instruction period runs from 9 to 12 a.m. every Saturday morning.

Anyone wishing to share their knowledge of this challenging sport with others should call Lt. Col. McCarthy at 7-5727 during working hours.

Eagle In The Rough

By Major W. A. Merrill

The most recent ace to be recorded came on the 167 yard 12th hole on the number one course. Lieutenant D. C. VanSingen used our wood as Colonel B. W. McClean looked on. The final qualifying rounds for the All-Camp Golf Championship's completed this past week as Force Troops units decided on 1r teams. The week before, Marine Corps Base eliminations were held with MCSS and Rifle Range topping the field in the Open and Novice Class respectively. On June 30 Division teams in Headquarters Battalion took both classes. The Open Class Team that will represent Force Troops consists of Brigadier General J. E. Williams, Colonel B. W. McClean, Lieutenant Colonel E. B. Hart, Sergeant Major K. J. Postlewait, Captain Calhoun, the Headquarters Company entry. 2d Radio Battalion will play in the Novice Class with the team of Lieutenant Colonel W. H. Stoetzer, Sergeant Major Trope, Gunnery Sergeants G. Cook and T. E. Sulski and Staff Sergeant L. S. Judkins. Next Monday tee-off time is 8 a.m. All teams entered in the -Camp will assemble at the Club House at 7:30 a.m. for final preparations. Should see some fine golf during the course of this Championship.

Recently some of the younger golfers at Camp Lejeune made outstanding showing at Wilmington. The event was the 6th Annual Wilmington Recreation Department Golf Tournament. A total of nine golfers made the trip accompanied by Captain J. J. Brown, N, and the Club Pro, Mr. Jim Gantz. In the Pee-Wee Division, 10 years and under, Kevin Brown was Lejeune representative. Lloyd Porter, Mark Grubaugh and Chip Brown were entered in the Intermediate Division while Chip Ivan, Steve Peppler, Jim Gantz Jr., and Mike Brown were in Senior Division. Against 196 golfers from all over the state, the team of Kevin Brown at 56, Lloyd Porter with an 88, Mike Brown at 81 and Chip Ivan with 77 came in second place, two strokes off the winning score.

A new policy has been instituted on Course Number 1. It will be closed every Friday morning until 12 o'clock noon to permit adequate maintenance prior to the heavy weekend use. No change of course number 2; it will continue to be closed all day every day for maintenance.

In the near future a new machine listing of posted scores and handicaps will be printed. The machine has a habit of kicking out cards that are filled out improperly. A reminder — get player number from the pro shop and be sure it is on every card that is punched. Also, be sure all other information is completely filled in.

In the event anyone ever asks, there is nothing in the rules of golf which specifies the depth or dimple design on golf balls. Examination has resulted to today's dimple depth of .0135 inches. Nothing actually restricts the depth or design. Modern balls with dimple edges that aren't rounded because rounded conformation reduces less distance over long periods of use.

Headquarters 8th Mar. Stops Recon's Bid for 1st Place Tie

Recon lost their bid for a first place tie in the Division National Softball League Tuesday when they fell to Headquarters, 8th Marines, 3-2.

Recon jumped to a fast 2-0 lead in the top of the first on one hit. The fast recovering 8th Marines refused to yield to their opponents, holding them scoreless for the remainder of the game.

The 8th Marines caught up to the Recon pace scoring two runs off three big doubles in the bottom of the fifth.

The game, tied at the end of seven, went into extra innings. Finally, in the bottom of the ninth, the 8th Marines were able to score the winning run off two hits and one fatal error.

With one man on, in the top of the first, Recon's Robert Roberts bunted to the pitcher. In an attempt for a double play the ball was lost, bringing in both runners.

The big break came for the 8th Marines in the bottom of the fifth. Mike Phillips, Raymond McCormick, and John Nevins each made doubles in file with Phillips and McCormick scoring the tying runs.

Recon appeared to light the fire in the top of the ninth with a runner at second and two away, but soon had it put out with a pop fly hit to second.

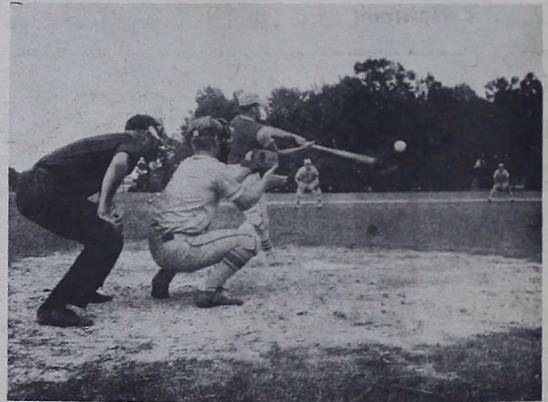

In the bottom of the ninth, 8th Marines started things rolling their way. With one man on and one away, Nevins ran out a bunt down first base line, making the bag one step ahead of the ball.

Jerry Perry cracked a line drive to third base and the runner from second was tagged out. The catcher for Recon missed a bad pitch and Nevins advanced to third.

With two away Phillips smashed a high sacrifice fly to left field. Nevins tagged up and crossed the plate to end the game, 3-2.

The winning pitcher was Mike Fuller who struck out seven and gave up two runs off three walks and seven hits. The losing pitcher, Dave Smeltzer, struck out four while giving up three runs off three walks, six hits and one error.

THE FLOATING BALL -- 8th Marine's centerfielder, Dave "Guinea" Violante, connects with what appears to be a floating ball in the bottom of the first. Recon's catcher is Glen Gagnier. The 8th Marines went on to top Recon, 3-2.

The Force Troops gymnasium was the scene and rain was the order of the day as colors were exchanged in 8th Communications Battalion, Force Troops.

A large parade was originally planned to highlight the Changing of Command ceremony at 8th Comm, but temperate North Carolina weather conditions forced the program aside.

Although conditions were dampened, spirits were not dented as Major David H. Thompson, former Commanding Officer, 8th Communications Battalion, and Major William E. House, new Commanding Officer, changed the Battalion's colors. Viewing the command changing ceremonies and battalion information was Brigadier General E. Williams, Commanding General, Force Troops, as guests of Battalion personnel.

MARINE BATTLEGROUND

at Li and Jock Mahoney are in this battle-spattered tale of a Leatherneck platoon that saves an orphan from the Chinese in Korea. The platoon adopts the little and takes her into battle with them. Finally, the Marines go to the Korean front lines, finding her behind at battalion headquarters. She waits and prays for her husband's return, unaware that they are impossible odds. The platoon fulfills its mission, but has two survivors. The tale ends with the girl a young nurse in a South Korean hospital years later, coinciding with her husband's return from the Korean conflict.

How To Get A Tank Out of the Mud

A 52 ton M-48 tank on patrol, rumbles down a dirt road, suddenly without warning it slips into a mud filled bog.

Within a matter of minutes enemy fire opens up on the disabled tank. The situation is not hypothetical, it happens in Vietnam and is a constant concern to tankers.

Since bogged down tanks on any mission becomes a prime target for the enemy, immediate corrective action must be applied.

To cope with such situations the 2d Tank Battalion has developed a concept of "buddy-system" tank retrieving.

Their objective is to familiarize and prepare new tank personnel with situations that may be, and usually are, encountered in Vietnam.

"Alpha" Company, under the command of Captain Peter H. Lowry, recently moved into the field for an extensive tank retrieving problem, which done under some of the most exacting conditions, was found to be highly similar to the every day problems of Vietnam.

The 90 millimeter gun on the M-48 medium tank dipped as 52 tons of armored vehicle nosed its way into the soft mud. The diesel engine strained as the slipping treads dug the tank in deeper.

The tank continued to sink, and the call went out for assistance. The deeper the tank sank, the harder it would be to retrieve; if the mud reached the turret, three times the original power would be needed.

The men of Company 'A' their faces covered with mud, waded into the knee-deep mire, and attached cables to the stricken tank. Linking these cables to other tanks standing by, the rescue operation began.

The steel cables tightened with the strain of resistance, as the combined power of several tanks tugged to free the engulfed vehicle. Slowly, the tanks inched their way back, slowly the disabled tank rose out of the hole-- the rescue operation was successful, the tankers continuing with their operation.

Although this was not a mission, it may well be the step needed to successfully complete an operation in Southeast Asia, or anywhere else might be deployed.

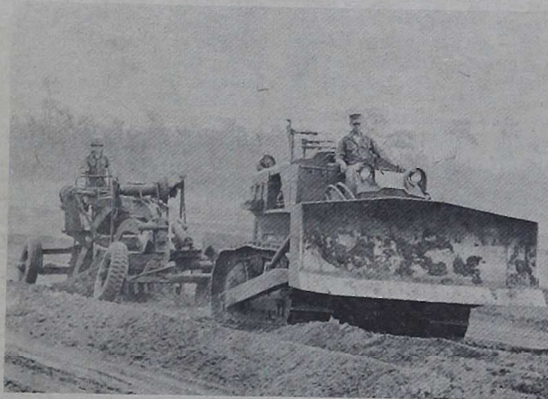

STUCK IN THE MUD??? --- Maybe you are, but not like this M-48 tank of Force Troops' 2d Tank Battalion. How did they get it out? Read the story and find out.

UP AND AWAY --- Slowly but surely the tank is eased out of the quagmire by another tank during the 2d Tank Battalion's recent retrieving exercise.

8th Engineer Bn. Shows Off For Dependents

ROAD EQUIPMENT . . . Part of the Engineer's mobility review included demonstrations of road-building machinery such as the bulldozer and road scraper.

TOUR LINE -- Dependents and Marines of 8th Engineers inspect one of the facilities during their recent Open House in the battalion.

For the many wives that have questioned their Marine husband as to "What do you do all day," the 8th Engineer Battalion, Force Troops came up with the answer.

The "Engineers" recently held a Career Day and Open House with the idea in mind to answer this and similar questions. As a result, the wives got a much better idea of what hubby is doing at work.

The day's events were opened with a brief presentation by

Lieutenant Colonel T. C. Shanahan, Commanding Officer, 8th

Engineer Battalion concerning the background, history and mission of the Battalion. The Colonel also explained the demonstrations that were planned and how they related to the Vietnam War.

The program continued with a demonstration of many of the pieces of equipment used by the engineers. Bulldozers, cranes, road scrapers and amphibian tractor mine sweepers, were all put through their paces for the guest.

The climax of the day was an impressive demolition display portraying the steps involved in "sweeping a mine field" during mock enemy fire.

Concluding the day's festivities was a brief talk by Captain C. C. Doughty on the benefits of a Marine Corps career.

YOUNG SWEEPER -- This young lady got to test the mine sweeper used by 8th Engineers as part of her visit during Open House.
