

★ ★ ARMED FORCES DAY, 1967 IS MOST SIGNIFICANT ★ ★

While the week of May 15-20 pass like any other for Marines in Vietnam, this is the week Nation has set aside to pay tribute to its armed forces ... is Armed Forces Week, 1967. Tomorrow, units of Marine Corps Base, the 2d Marine Division and Force Troops will open their doors to the families and guests of their Marines and Navy men in observance of this week. For Marine Corps Base, the 1st Infantry Training Regiment will host an "Open House" to show its training facilities to the public. In the 2d Marine Division units, dependents and guests will get a first hand look at the equipment which their Marines use daily to accomplish their mission of readiness.

While Marines here in the States continually train to bring their units to the highest peak of readiness, 75,000 other Marines continue their struggle against the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Army. At the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), Marines have met, forced out into the open and defeated large mainforce elements of at least two divisions of the North Vietnamese Army. At the same time, the grass roots war against the insurgent Viet Cong continues in Vietnam where Marines control the seacoast of the five northernmost provinces known as I Corps. The III Marine Amphibious Force (MAF) there consists of the 1st Marine Division, the 3d Maine Division which made the initial landings in Vietnam in 1965, the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing which supplies the helicopters, air observers and close air support so vital to Marine operations and its supply arm, the Force Logistics Command. The III MAF's challenge in Vietnam is fourfold: --To find, fight and destroy See OPEN HOUSE, p. 5

EDITORIAL PAGEArmed Forces Day*THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE...

America's rise to world leadership will be remembered down through history as an inspiring example of what men can achieve in the cause of freedom.

Freedom was the goal that sparked our independence -- and only the love of freedom has sustained it.

Nowhere is this dedication reflected more vividly than in the Armed Forces of the United States.

Our modern military establishment is the mightiest arsenal of all time. But it would give us neither peace nor security without the devotion to duty, the courage and sacrifice of the men and women who wear our country's uniform.

As Commander-in-Chief, I invite every American to participate in the 1967 observance of Armed Forces Day, which honors those who guard our heritage.

In Vietnam -- and around the world -- they perpetuate the ideals which made and preserve us as a nation.

Let our thoughts be with them on this day. And let our prayers attend them, always, as they unflinchingly defend our legacy and our lives.

LYNDON B. JOHNSON

THE COMMANDANT'S MESSAGE...

As members of the Armed Forces Team, we Marines are proud to participate in this annual report to the Nation.

We welcome those fellow citizens who visit our installations today, and invite all our countrymen to become better acquainted with their brothers in uniform.

WALLACE M. GREEN, JR.
General, U. S. Marine Corps

ARMED FORCES DAY PRAYER, 1967

God of our fathers, who hast made us heirs of brave and faithful men and women, accept, we pray Thee, this Armed Forces Day, our humble gratitude for the boundless blessings which they have bequeathed to us. Grant that we may prove worthy of their heroism and sacrifice.

We commend to Thy keeping all who are serving in our Armed Forces on land, sea and in the air. May Thy gracious Providence watch over them and guide them to victory and honor in defense of our nation and principles. In all things may they know Thy power and presence.

We thank Thee for the innumerable spiritual and material resources of our servicemen in their struggle for a just and lasting peace. Make us mindful of our own responsibilities to mankind. Be our refuge and strength so that in all battles of life we may be valiant in our service to Thee and our beloved country. Amen.

BOOKS in REVIEW

By Thelma Turnage

The following are among the books on the Recommended Reading List for Navy and Marine Corps Officers and are presently available at the Central Library, Building 63. Enlisted men are also encouraged to read these books. For your convenience, these and other titles on the list will be found displayed on a separate shelf appropriately marked. This list is continued from the last two weeks.

Past and Present

PRESIDENTIAL GREATNESS: THE IMAGE AND THE MAN FROM GEORGE WASHINGTON TO THE PRESENT by Thomas A. Bailey. While the author, a Stanford historian, has his own measuring rod for ranking, his primary purpose is to examine the various criteria of presidential greatness and to point out their strong and weak points. From a wealth of obscure information about the presidents, the reader is free to develop his own table of precedence, making this provocative, funny, absorbing book, a challenging one as well.

CHALLENGE OF THE SEVEN SEAS by Claiborne Pell and Harold L. Goodwin. The real significance of this book lies in the description of the haphazard, overlapping, fragmented approach which characterizes the U. S. attempts to exploit and to control the sea, and in Senator Pell's recommendation to improve the situation.

THE COMEDIANS by Graham Greene. Green's ironic and disillusioned eye focuses on life in a corrupt South American dictatorship. His "comedians", the uncommitted, are caught up in a melodrama and terror without any faith, cause, or love to make self-sacrifice meaningful.

The Communist Sphere

THE THOUGHT REVOLUTION by Tung Chi-ping and Humphrey Evans. A young Chinese who grew up under Communism and depicted to the West in 1964 draws a picture of student life under "the system". Tung's experiences are of particular interest today in view of Red Guard political agitation and the continuing Chinese purge of intellectuals.

VIET CONG: THE ORGANIZATION AND TECHNIQUES OF THE NATIONAL LIBERATION FRONT OF SOUTH VIETNAM by Douglas Pike. An American official in Saigon with 20 years of experience in Asia presents what may well be the definitive study of the Viet Cong. Extremely useful as a reference, this book will amply reward any reader who desires reliable guidance through this confusing, contradictory, and constantly frustrating aspect of the Vietnamese situation.

By John L. Clark

Aristotle once remarked "educated men are as much to uneducated men as the living are to the dead". In most times, President Lyndon B. Johnson stated: "We have an advantage over others. It has become a necessity without a person is defenseless in this complex, industrialized society we have truly entered the century of the educated man."

Much evidence could be cited to support the notion that living in an educated man's century. Education contributes to development in ways which cannot, and should not, be measured in dollars and cents. But on a financial basis alone, your education may be one of the soundest investments you could make.

Statisticians have computed that a high school graduate will earn 58 per cent more in his lifetime than a person with an eighth grade education, while a college graduate will earn 68 per cent more than a high school graduate.

The Marine Corps recognizes this is an educated man's century and offers many programs enabling military personnel to further their education by either correspondence or resident study.

You, while stationed at Camp Lejeune, are afforded the opportunity to attend classes on Base to earn a bona fide high school diploma accredited by the State Department of Public Instruction of North Carolina.

This diploma is not to be confused with the usual equivalent certificate awarded by a State for the successful completion of the General Educational Development (GED) Test; it is the same diploma awarded by your hometown accredited high school. It is given full recognition for college entrance.

If you have a high school diploma or its equivalent, you may pursue a college education on Base by attending Eastern Community College Center and receive resident credit.

Full information on enrollment in the high school program, ECC undergraduate and graduate courses may be obtained from your unit Education Office or Base Education Office, 7-250.

An important point to remember is that the Marine Corps pays three-fourths of the tuition expense.

Education does not cost; it pays!

Force Troops Sergeant Presented Bronze Star

A Force Troop's Marine, Corporal Gary E. Soncrant, has recently been awarded the Bronze Star with Combat "V" for his heroic achievement in Vietnam.

On January 15, 1967, Corporal Soncrant was directing his tank supporting infantry elements gaged in fierce combat with an estimated battalion of North Vietnamese regulars.

Arriving on the front lines Corporal Soncrant immediately spotted the enemy forces preparing a defensive position. Blinding the enemy with his searchlight, he directed accurate machine gun fire, forcing the Viet Cong elements to withdraw.

Discovering that four Marines were pinned down and under heavy enemy fire, Soncrant moved his tank into position to aid the wounded Marines. Leaving his tank he aided in carrying two of the seriously wounded Marines to safety. Soncrant then continued to pursue the fleeing enemy, inflicting heavy casualties, and preventing them from reorganizing.

His courageous actions resulted in the rescue of four of his fellow Marines and contributed to the success of his unit's mission.

Snipers Are Proud Outfit But No Notched Stocks

By Sgt. Ira L. Taylor

CHU LAI, Vietnam, April 25— In the days of the Old West, many gun-fighters prided themselves in the number of men they killed and carved notches on the butt or stocks of their weapons to show their prowess.

The sniper platoon of the Fifth Marine Regiment, Task Force X-Ray, 1st Marine Division, is proud of its record too, but doesn't notch its weapons.

Since January the 35-man sniper platoon has accounted for 60 confirmed Viet Cong killed in both the Chu Lai and Da Nang Tactical Area of Responsibility.

"Most of the action has been with the 2nd Bn. at An Hoa," said Sgt. Thomas G. Casey, 23 (Woodruff, S.C.), platoon sergeant of the sniper platoon.

"We have a squad attached to that battalion at all times," he continued. "For the other two battalions, we are on call for anything from a fire team patrol to a major operation."

The sniper platoon has three, 11-man squads, with a squad broken down into five two-man teams (a shooter and a spotter).

"The shooter and spotter are interchangeable," Casey said, "and depends on who is the best shooter. The shooter is always in charge of the team," he added.

Armed with the Remington Model 700 rifle, mounted on a Monte Carlo stock with a Redfield 3x-9x power scope and equipped with a range finder up to 600 yards, the snipers have recorded kills up to 1500 meters.

"I think it's the best sniper rifle in Vietnam," Casey said. "Not all our kills come with the rifle," he explained. "If the VC are out of our range or there is a large group, we can call in artillery or mortar fire on them. We get credit for those too."

Before being assigned to the sniper platoon, the Marines must complete the 1st Marine Division's Sniper School in Da Nang. Upon completion of the school, the Marine is given the sniper Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) of 8541.

In the field the snipers keep a record of the type of action they encounter and report any VC sightings and activities to the battalion intelligence section. When they return from the field, reports are also made to the platoon sergeant.

"We have a highly motivated platoon," Casey said. "They all want to be snipers. It's just a little bit more of a personal war that way," he concluded.

BOOBY TRAP — Captain Michael Dominguez, Officer in Charge of the 2d Marine Division counter-guerrilla warfare school, explains to visiting members of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce the destruction that can be caused when an unsuspecting Marine moves an "innocent looking" pile of trash. A "Viet Cong guerrilla" had been there first and left it booby trapped.

Jax Military Affairs Group Sees Counter-Guerrilla Site

Forty-three members of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce visited the counter-guerrilla warfare center at Camp Lejeune Wednesday afternoon. The visit by local doctors, lawyers and business men consisted of a tour of the counter-guerrilla training grounds plus the Vietnamese village.

Arriving at the center, the group was met by Major General Ormond R. Simpson, Commanding General, 2d Marine Division.

General Simpson stressed the importance of the school in the training of Marines for combat in South Vietnam. He said, "We like to think that Marines are alive today because of the valuable training being conducted here at the counter-guerrilla school."

General Simpson presented Captain Michael Dominguez, Officer in Charge of the school, to the group. The Captain served as the tour guide through the training area. He is a veteran of the Vietnamese conflict, and in his remarks to the visitors stated that the mission of the school was to instill in the students the senses, suspicions, reflexes and reactions that will enable them to defeat the guerrilla.

The Chamber of Commerce members were briefed on the history of the school, which was opened in January 1966. The pressing need for this type training has caused the staff to be increased to its present strength of three officers and 35 enlisted men. The training pace is fast but thorough.

SPECIAL TO "CHARLIE" — Crouched down to avoid the blast, a 60mm mortar crew from the 1st Bn., First Marine Regiment, 1st Marine Division, sends a round (at top of photo) on its way to the Viet Cong. The Marines were on a five day search and destroy operation 14 miles southeast of Da Nang early in April.

YOU MUST HAVE BEEN A BEAUTIFUL BABY - Serenading the rest of the guests at the SNCO Wives' Club semi-annual membership meeting are, from left: Millie Spencer, Mary West, Bernardine Brown, Mickey Wratford, Marsha Read and Paula Anderson. Billed as the "Baby Dolls" and managed by Mrs. Betty Mosley, the group boasts a combined total weight of 1,151 pounds. Special guests at the May 11 meeting included Mrs. Joseph O. Butcher, Mrs. Ormond R. Simpson, Mrs. John E. Williams and Mrs. E.B. Wheeler.

Students Told: Get S.S. Cards Before June

The District Manager of the Social Security Administration in New Bern, Mr. Adrian Hatfield, has urged all students who will be taking a summer job for the first time to apply early for their social security cards and avoid the June rush.

The number of applications for social security cards during the months of May and June is four to five times greater than in the other months of the year, frequently causing long delays. Since employers need to see a new employee's social security card before he goes on duty, getting the card late could result in missing a good job opportunity.

Applications may be obtained from the New Bern Social Security Office located at 308 New Street, or from most post offices.

Further information may be obtained from Mr. Charles Farlow, Field Representative from the New Bern Office, in Room 103 of the Courthouse in Jacksonville from 9:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Thursdays.

Offices Relocated

The Basic Education Office, Basic Testing Center, and East Carolina College offices have been relocated in Building 83 (Topside-Central Library).

Activities Calendar

The Lejeune High School PTA will hold its final meeting of the year on Tuesday, May 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the High School Auditorium.

The program, presented by the students, will include the installation of officers for the coming year, and an exhibition of the achievements of the various departments in the school, including the Art Department, the Industrial Arts Department, and the Home Economics Department.

Students from the Physical Education Department will present a tumbling exhibition, and the High School band will perform. In addition, readings, skits, and dramatizations will be presented by students in the other department.

New Equipment Installed At Amateur Radio Station

New equipment recently installed at the Base Amateur Radio Station has doubled its capacity for the number of stations that can be reached, according to SSgt Ben F. Brooks.

Located near the Base Skeet Range, the Station now has two amplifiers and two receivers, providing direct communications patches with Vieques, Puerto Rico, Camps Schwab and Hansen, Okinawa and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. Indirect patches are possible with Marine Corps installations around the globe.

Okinawa patches can be made 6:30 - 9 a.m. daily. The patch to Vieques is open 9 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. daily and Guantanamo Bay 9-11 a.m.

Personnel wishing to make calls may dial 7-5886 or 7-5312 or stop at the Station. An average of 375 calls are handled per month.

The Station also has a teletype circuit with MCAS, Cherry Point, and via that station has teletype communications with the world.

Marines there are utilizing the many tedious hours of training they have received at Camp Le-jeune and Camp Pendleton and are giving a proud account of themselves.

Hostilities will continue in South Vietnam until that country gains its freedom from aggression and communism, and Marines will continue to contribute their part toward that independence.

At home the training will continue to keep our armed forces the strongest ever ... let us pause to pay tribute to this most significant day in our Nation ... Armed Forces Day, 1967.

Chaplain Speaks

"THE CHURCH IN OUR MIDST"

Mobility is a pass-word in the military community and in the civilian community. When sociologists view the mobility of our nation's people, they contend that this movement from place to place contributes to our emotional turmoil. When military analysts observe the mobility of a military unit, they finalize that this ability to "move out" to a new site, set up a new CP and perimeter denotes the effectiveness of the military unit. Today, we can say that Americans at home, in Vietnam, the farmer and the businessman, the sailor and the Marine - everybody's on the move.

In the midst of this great people movement, civilian or military, there is the CHURCH or CHAPEL. When a new community is established, the church becomes the landmark among the community-service buildings. When the 3d Battalion, 2d Marines sites its new TAOR, or when the 2d Battalion, 2d Marines settles aboard the APA, the chapel becomes a real part of the new home. The chapel may be a rice-straw thatched building bound to upright bamboo poles, a bunker beamed edifice with fiber glass roof or the below-deck space in an unoccupied hatch. Where people are, there is the chapel, the church.

Aboard Camp Lejeune we have chapels, spaces with multi-purpose uses, one of which is Divine Worship Services. "The Church in our Midst." In these places the Abiding Presence, God, is with us. Here is the community furthered and its activities given purpose. Aboard, God's gifts are provided and accepted to make contribution to life and community.

The God-relationship and the neighbor-relationship become the center for responsibility into our mobility - in cars on the highways, in aircraft on missions, in the classroom, the conference table, the public meeting, the patrol briefing. What we do in our mobility depends many times on what we do, see, learn and believe in our place of Divine Worship.

"The Church in Our Midst" was born on Pentecost with the sending of the Spirit and it spreads, it moves from place to place, with God's creatures, us. See you in Chapel?

Navy Relief

To Whom It May Concern:

This is a letter I realize you can't print but somehow I hope you'll write something on your own to let people know how fabulous the Navy Relief people are. To begin with, I'm in a hospital with my leg in a cast and a baby due and all I can say is, "Thank God for Navy Relief."

My husband is in Vietnam and so, therefore, I'm alone here with five small youngsters. So far I am very amazed at what Navy Relief stands for. I never realized they helped like they do. They literally took over my youngsters - made sure the big three came and went to school and they treated my little ones so wonderful, too.

I have received a lovely layette for my new baby, which I could have never afforded. They have paid bills for me and just, all in all, made me feel that because I have some problems I am not a dropout, just that they are there for helpful purposes.

I never realized the money donated to Navy Relief can do so much and my husband in Vietnam was quite amazed also as he donates willingly but never quite understood how it really works. To my amazement, neither do a lot of people.

If you could please sometime write a notice in the Base, paper, that everyone reads so that maybe a lot more people would understand the why and wherefore of the Navy Relief, and the very wonderful lady, Miss Virginia Franks, who is the Executive Secretary.

This may be sort of a funny letter to you but it's really the only way I can say thank you to a wonderful organization.

Sincerely,
Name withheld

1967 Navy Relief Fund Drive

1967 Navy Relief Fund Drive got under way 12 and is slated to run through D. Colonel J. R. Motelewski, this Fund Drive Chairman, hopes to see contributions exceed the $77,000 collected last year.

In past years, donations will be in the form of membership coupons which may be cashed from now throughout the campaign.

Members of the Quad - Command, retired military personnel in the Camp Lejeune area, and civilian employees of the Quad - Command are urged to contribute to the Navy Relief Fund Drive by cashing the membership coupons.

Every penny collected during the Fund Drive is sent to the Navy Relief Society headquarters in Washington, D.C., and redistributed to the 53 Auxiliaries and 62 chapters of the Society located throughout the world.

Most of this money is used to help those in need. Administrative costs of the Society are covered by almost $1,000,000 in gifts and dividends collected annually.

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS the Navy Relief Society was incorporated in 1904 as a private organization with specific duties and responsibilities of providing "aid in times of need" to Marine Corps and Navy personnel and their families; and

WHEREAS the Society is supported by and operates in that community of persons serving in the Marine Corps and Navy and those members of their families who are dependent upon them and share their experience; and

WHEREAS in Marine Corps and Navy communities throughout the world the Society aids Marine Corps and Navy personnel and their families with financial and other humanitarian assistance; and

WHEREAS throughout its sixty-three years of commendable services, the Navy Relief Society has earned the respect and gratitude of Marine Corps and Navy personnel and their families; and

WHEREAS the Camp Lejeune Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary on 23 May 1967,

NOW THEREFORE, the 23rd of May 1967 is hereby designated as Navy Relief Day at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, and all Camp Lejeune military personnel and their families are encouraged to support the Navy Relief Society in its objective of providing "aid in times of need" to officers and enlisted men in the Marine Corps and Navy and their dependents.

Twenty - one year old Sergeant Gerry Lee Scherbenske has been given the "Master of Fitness" trophy and certificate by Brigadier General John E. Williams, Commanding General, Force Troops.

The "Master of Fitness" award is presented to Marines who complete a strenuous physical test administered by any of the Marine Corps Physical Fitness Centers. Approximately 25 Fitness Centers are located on Marine bases both at home and abroad.

Ten exercise events must be completed satisfactorily within a three month period to earn the "Master of Fitness" title. Sergeant Scherbenske, in an extraordinary display of endurance, completed the ten events in three days.

Included in the physical excellence test are such common physical conditioning exercises as push-ups (80 required), pull-ups (20) and sit-ups (done with a 50 pound weight behind the head).

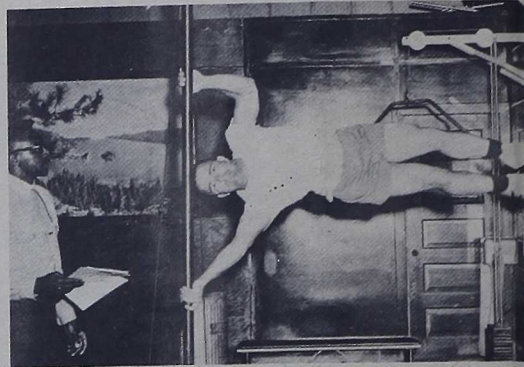

Weightlifting is utilized in the testing to determine physical strength. The five-foot three-inch, 155 pound Scherbenske bench-pressed 275 pounds and lifted from a squatting position a 315 pound weight to master the weightlifting portions of the test. A veteran to the weights, Sergeant Scherbenske has participated in organized weightlifting and judo since joining the Marine Corps in June of 1963. His outstanding weightlifting feats include: bench-press, 305 pounds; clean and jerk, 265 pounds; dead lift, 485 pounds.

Demonstrating his strength in the weightlifting events Sergeant Scherbenske displayed dexterity and coordination in the 40-foot rope climb. The rope must be scaled hand-over-hand without aid of the feet. An additional test of coordination is the 20-foot walk; on your hands.

In the "Strict Flag" the applicant must grasp a vertical pole and extend his body horizontally to the ground. The position must be maintained for a minimum of five seconds.

The final event for the "Master of Fitness" award is familiar to all Marines. The "Master of Fitness" recipient must obtain a perfect score of 500 on the Marine Corps Physical Readiness Test (PRT). Sergeant Scherbenske passed it easily. Among other events a three mile forced march must be completed in under 20 minutes; a 30 foot rope climb hand-over-hand in under 18 seconds; a simulated wounded comrade carried 50 yards in under 24 seconds.

Baseball 'Pups End Season With 5-4 Win

Lejeune's Devilpups rapped out a 5-4 decision over Jones Central last Monday night to end the season with a highly respectable 14-6 record.

Less than a week ago the Pups dropped a 1-0 decision to Pamlico in a game to decide the Coastal Plains Championship. Pamlico scored an unearned run in the sixth inning.

The run came on a walk and an error which spoiled Roger's excellent pitching performance. Lejeune's only threat came after two outs in the fourth inning when Dave Moore reached first on an error. He later went third when Charlesworth's pop fly eluded the Pamlico first baseman. Charlesworth stole second on Pamlico's shutout pitcher Howell struck out Lejeune's Demsey and sunk the boat.

Lejeune coach Tom McGhee led 19 players against Jones Central. Wade Judge and Roger Buckley each had two RBI's for the winners. The winning pitcher was Mike Henez who went two innings.

Bronze Star Awarded During 2/6 Ceremony

Four Marines from 2d Battalion, 6th Marines, 2d Marine Division, were decorated by their commanding officer, Lieutenant Colonel Paul B. Haigwood, in ceremonies held here last week.

Corporal Philip J. Wilhelm received the Bronze Star Medal with Combat "V" for his heroic actions while serving as a Reconnaissance Team Leader and Assistant Patrol Leader with "A" Company, 3rd Reconnaissance Battalion in Vietnam.

In the accompanying citation, Wilhelm was cited for his "exemplary skill and courage while participating in thirty-three reconnaissance patrols deep into Viet Cong controlled territory. During twenty of these patrols, contact was made with the enemy and in every encounter, Cpl. Wilhelm consistently displayed outstanding professional competence and a courageous fighting spirit.

"On one occasion, while moving forward to remove a trip flare on a trail, Wilhelm's team was taken under fire by more than twenty Viet Cong. With complete disregard for his own safety, he returned the fire and alerted the remainder of the patrol.

Purple Heart Medals were awarded to Sergeant Thomas D. Tobin and Corporal Frank M. Beyea, for wounds sustained in action against the Viet Cong.

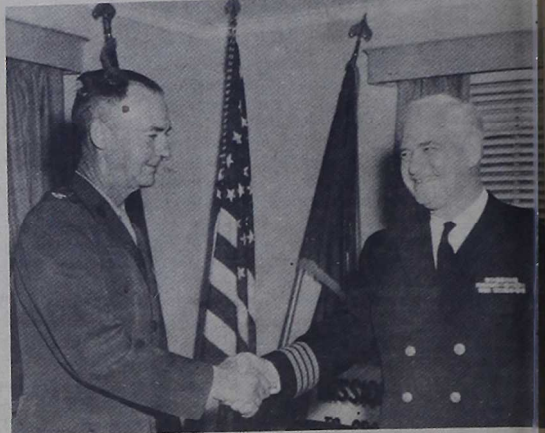

Sgt. Tobin was serving as a squad leader with "F" Company, 2d Battalion, 1st Marine and Cpl. Beyea was an automatic rifleman with "L" Company, 3rd Battalion, 1st Marines, at the time they were wounded.

Corporal Edward F. Susral-ski, Jr. was awarded a Certificate of Commendation for meritorious achievement while serving as an administrative clerk with "B" Company, 1st Battalion, 1st Marine Regiment in Vietnam.

Kathy Craft, USO Songstress, Is Big Favorite With Marines

By PFC Bob O'Connell

Every Saturday night in the Jacksonville USO, 200 Marines cut short the sea stories, put away their pool cues and gather round a makeshift stage to hear a little girl sing.

Sixteen-year-old Kathy Craft never disappoints them. Although diminutive in stature - 5 feet, 3 inches when she stretches - the Jacksonville High School sophomore commands a powerful voice.

With a sound similar to Brenda Lee, though not as throaty, brown-haired Kathy entertains the troops with a 1-1/2 hour repertoire of Country-Western music. Most of her numbers come from Loretta Lynn, Skeeter Davis and Jim Reeves.

The guitar pickin' Kathy has toured with the Grand Ole Opry in a career that began as a square dancer at age 10. She was then a member of the Carolina Kloggers, a Jacksonville dancing troupe that toured the state in a bus, pulling a flatbed wagon for a stage.

In 1962, while performing in one of the smaller towns on the circuit, the lights went out. The troupe boarded the bus until the power could be restored. When it looked as though it would be a while, the Kloggers' manager, who had heard Kathy could sing, carried the microphone to the bus and asked her if she would. She agreed, reluctantly, and thus began her singing career in the dark. Minutes later the lights came back on. "I pulled the mike away and clammed up," Kathy recalled.

After her debut, Kathy's singing became a regular act in the show. She danced with the Kloggers, and sang between dances.

Voted "Sweetheart of the USO" in 1964, the blue eyed songstress has cut a record, "Once a Day," which enjoyed local popularity in 1965. She also found time this year to play the lead role in "Anne Get Your Gun," presented by the Jacksonville High School students.

Foremost among her ambitions are a duet with Jimmy Dean and a chance with Nashville's Grand Ole Opry. She's not counting on either, but is keeping her fingers crossed.

In the meantime, there are obligations to school -- and of course, to an always grateful Marine Corps fan club.

QUITE A CRAFT - Kathy Craft keeps them happy with her Saturday night Country-Western performance. The pert 16-year-old high school sophomore boasts a large following of Camp Lejeune Marines.

Force Troops Reserves At Vieques

In the northern sector of the small island a crew of Marines begin to carve out part of a sloping knoll which will eventually become a flame-thrower range.

To the south was the start of six new water tanks on a concrete pad located at the top of "water hill" where the sun's rays miss neither man nor beast.

In the middle of the island a kindly padre watches as one of his churches and his rectory take on a new look at the hands of the United States Marines.

The name of the island is Vieques and as most any Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, Marine will tell you, it is located several miles off the eastern tip of the mainland of Puerto Rico and is a major training area for both the Fleet Marine Force and Force Troops.

These Marines are a special breed who are of infinite value to the Corps -- they are Reservists. They are part of the Sixth Engineer Battalion, Force Troops, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, and they had come from Gary, Ind., and Kalamazoo, Mich., to work and learn.

Using knowledge gained from schools attended while they were serving their six months active duty and experience accumulated on diverse projects which they tackled in their own home towns, the Reservists handled both the routine and difficult projects, which they were assigned, with enthusiasm.

"B" Company, from Gary, Ind., under the command of Major George S. Morite, did extensive repair and minor engineering work plus their load of "special projects" which included renovating "The Catholic Chapel of the Sacred Heart of Jesus"; laying the forms and pouring the concrete on which they constructed a small peninsula of rock and gravel to facilitate the beaching of landing craft so necessary to the amphibian attack of the Marine Corps.

"C" Company, from Kalamazoo, Mich., commanded by Major Ronald D. Cole followed up on many projects begun by Major Morita's men but they also added a number of their own which enhanced the usefulness of Camp Garcia and the island itself.

Under the guidance of Padre Pedro T. Otonello, "B" Company made extensive repairs on a public park located in Isabel Segunda, a small town located several miles from Camp Garcia, which had been originally donated by Marines stationed on Vieques.

They worked long hours on the training ranges forming a flamethrower area and building bunkers on the hand grenade range.

Pouring a concrete sidewalk running from the Base Headquarters and painting a number of buildings in the compound rounded out a full schedule for "B" Company.

This year's summer camp, termed by many of the reservists as their most enjoyable and informative in recent years, was not all work and no play.

Both companies enjoyed the beautiful beaches of Vieques and the liberty hours spent in the quaint town of Isabel Segunda.

A number of the 130 men of "C" Company and the 212 men of "B" Company travelled to the fun-filled capitol of Puerto Rico, San Juan, and visited the historic sights.

The Reservists returned with a feeling of accomplishment knowing that if the time should come when their services are needed, they will be ready to join their fellow Marines on active duty.

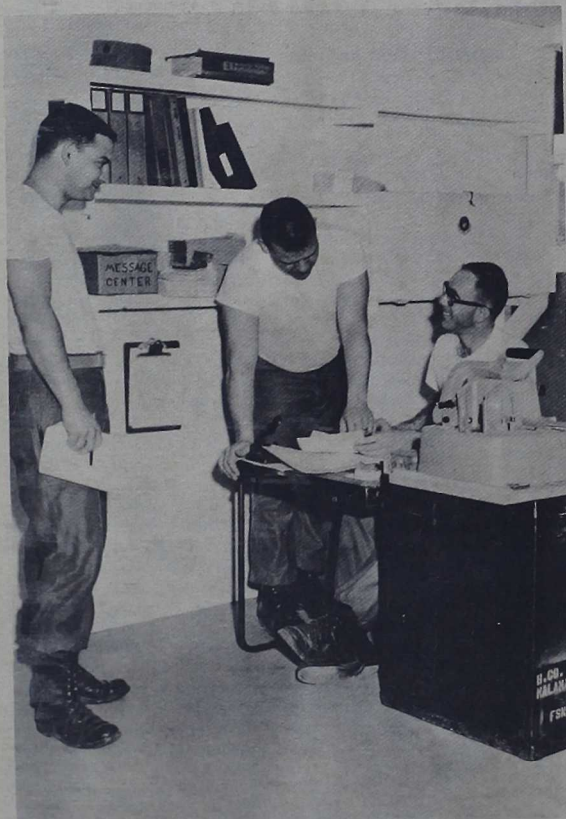

THE RESERVISTS worked numerous times with the local Vieques populace on various projects and overcame the language barrier by utilizing their Spanish-speaking personnel such as Staff Sergeant Eduardo Lara (left). Speaking with the Sergeant about supplies required to complete "B" Company's assignments are Padre Pedro T. Otonello, whose parish stretches over all the small islands near the mainland of Puerto Rico; Gunnery Sergeant John G. Hunderford; and Gunnery Sergeant Leonard M. Marshall listen in.

PLAYGROUND DETAIL. - Several of the Marines from "B" Company were assigned to rebuild and repair the public playground in Isabel Segunda originally donated by Vieques Marines. Shown fixing the merry-go-round in a people-to-people project are from left Lance Corporals David L. Chamberlain and Michael E. Schewe; and Private First Class Stephen A. Wroblewski.

"B" COMPANY constructed a 40-foot concrete sidewalk near the Headquarters Building at Camp Garcia. They used skill they had perfected on projects conducted near their own home town, Kalamazoo, Michigan.

"B" AND "C" COMPANY, Sixth Engineers erect water tanks on the newly laid concrete pad on "water hill" at Camp Garcia. The units provided their own heavy-equipment operators for the projects during the annual two week training period.
