Congress Considering Military Pay Raise

From A Navy Times Report

A military pay raise bill, based on a proposal by President Johnson, was introduced into Congress last week by Rep. L. Mendel Rivers (D-S. C.), Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

The legislation would provide a raise in basic military pay by 5.6 per cent and would become effective Oct. 1, 1967.

The President also proposed further study of the military pay system and said he would present other recommendations when the study was complete.

In his message, the President said he hopes to make all military and Civil Service pay "comparable" to that of civilian industry within the next two years.

Besides the increase in basic pay, the proposal also calls for:

---A nine - per cent raise in Dependents Assistance Act (DAA) rates for 270,000 lower ranking enlisted men. A married

E-4 with under four years service, lower ranking enlisted men, vice, for example, would get a $7.48 monthly raise---from the present $83.10 to $90.60. To this amount which is sent to the wife, the serviceman contributes an additional $40.

---Providing bachelor E-4's and all higher pay grades a basic allowance for quarters while in a travel or leave status between permanent duty stations. This is not paid now.

---Providing all bachelor enlisted men a dislocation allowance when transferred to a permanent duty station where they are not assigned government quarters.

---Raising the basic pay of the senior enlisted man in each service to $844.20 monthly, or $150 above the top pay in the regular enlisted men's scale. However, if this raise is enacted, it is expected to replace the $150 per month pro pay the four men now receive.

Rep. Rivers predicted the Pentagon - drafted bill would be approved "so fast it will make your head swim". He said the cost was fully justified. Committees began hearings on the bill last week.

If the legislation is enacted, recruits would receive a raise of $5.10 per month and four - star officers would get an increase of $112 per month. A major with 12 years service would net an extra $41.40 and a colonel with 20 years service would get an extra $59.60 a month.

Someone Who Can Help

It is a well known fact that the Marine Corps takes pride in caring for its own; and this is as it should be.

The Camp Lejeune Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society exemplifies this characteristic as well or better than any other organization. The Auxiliary's history and service dates back to within a few months of the Base's founding in 1942.

The Navy Relief Society was founded in 1904 in Washington, D.C. to provide assistance to indigent widows and orphans of Navy and Marine Corps personnel. Its scope has been widened and its success increased throughout 25 years of faithful service.

Through those years the Society has built up a reserve fund which provides an annual income of more than a million dollars in interest and dividends. This money is added to funds collected in the Society's annual drive and this total provides the Society with its working cash.

With this large resource the Navy Relief Society is able to accomplish a great deal for Navy and Marine Corps personnel through grants, loans and its many and varied services.

All Navy and Marine Corps personnel on active duty are eligible for assistance, as are all reservists on active duty. Retired Navy and Marine Corps personnel, retired reservists in receipt of retired or retainer pay and all dependents are also eligible under the Navy Relief By-Laws.

In 1965 the Navy Relief Society distributed close to $1,250,000 in the form of almost 19,500 grants and more than $2,600,000 in loans. The Society employed 44 full-time and 8 part-time nurses who made 70,000 home visits to assist service families. College loans were granted to 153 dependents and the Society provided for 18 nurseries for service personnel.

More than 6,500 layettes were given to new mothers. Nurses conducted prenatal and post partum classes for all service wives who wished instructions.

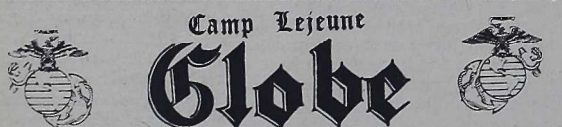

Hospitality Kits were provided to families suffering from fire or similar disaster.

Perhaps the most beneficial service provided by the Navy Relief Society came from the professional social workers and skilled interviewers whose counseling and advice alleviated tens of thousands of hardships for service families.

Last year the Camp Lejeune Auxiliary expended $135,000 in loans and gratuities -- more than was collected -- and the 350 volunteer Women donated thousands of hours of their time in helping the families on the Base.

Navy Relief is composed of 53 Auxiliaries and 62 branches and is staffed by 6,500 dedicated women. All administrative costs are borne by the income from the reserve fund and every penny contributed is used for a charitable end.

Stay Loose

By 1stLt. Ralph Deaver

Once upon a time, a man was stricken with that dread disease which all American males are susceptible -- "New-Car-Fever" was of the lingering variety, probably due in part to the steady influence of his wife who was suffering slightly from "Hor Decorating-Syndrome", that dread disease to which all American females are susceptible.

He mentioned in February that he planned to buy a new car for family's summer vacation. His wife, busy with her own illness, paid little heed, and he changed the subject, not wishing to aggravate already questionable condition. But, surreptitiously, he began to make various makes and models of new autos, their suggested list price and the extras available on each.

He started reading the ads in the paper, taking unusual interest in the late-late show sponsored by one of the dealers, and in listening to car-sellers' pitches on the radio.

Emboldened by his wife's chance remark that "The Joneses have a new car; it sure is nice", he began dropping in at showrooms looking, kicking tires, and sitting behind the wheel of one or another of the sportier models.

One day he took the old bus into the garage and instructed them "Check 'er over, tune 'er up, tighten up the rattles, and put in a new floor mat. Give me a call if anything major is wrong."

The service manager, who can recognize symptoms as well as a salesman, went along with the plan by calling within the hour, "Y automatic choke isn't automatic any more." Total bill: $62. The man's wife, thumbing through rug samples and drapery swatches, scarcely batted an eye when he told her that night. He did even have to tell her that the choke had never worked since the purchased the car. She nodded gravely when he said, "Can't start much of that. Anything else goes wrong, I may have to start thinking about trading."

He successfully found four more things wrong within a week.

She was talking about a new living room suite and he was complaining over repair bills being higher than car payments on the way to an interior decorator's when he heard a grinding that must have been the beginning of transmission trouble. One the way home as they discussed the decorator's plans and terms, his wife interrupted a sentence to say that something did indeed sound strange. He also noticed the roar of the muffler and thought there might be a problem with one of the tires.

Two days later, just before she got him to sign the decorator's payment contract, she mentioned that the door on the driver's side was sagging, and the paint was getting a little bad. That evening, a salesman dropped by, saying, "I heard you might be getting ready to do a little trading." He didn't say where he heard it, but the man, running an unprecedented car-temperature, didn't wait.

The new car arrived just hours before the furniture trucks. The man was polishing the chrome when his wife came to tell him that she had taken the liberty of buying new bedroom and den furniture in addition to the living room furnishings. "They'll add it on to the contract, just raise the payments a little."

Both recuperated nicely from their respective illnesses during the next four weeks. But, alas, they are now caught up in a disease more intense, more painful, and far more dangerous. They know, just by the millions of Americans who contract this illness each year, that there will be no respite from the pain, frustration, and acute melancholy for perhaps three years. They also face the terrible possibility that there may never be complete recovery for them. That's the worst of it with Infinitus Paymentitis -- commonly known as Extended Financing.

The consideration that she loves the new furniture and that it's the classiest car I've ever had is bitter-sweet indeed when contemplating the long, frightening road ahead.

Division Captain Awarded Medals for Vietnam Combat

The Bronze Star Medal with Combat "V" and the Navy Commendation Medal with Combat "V" were presented to Captain Charles E. Wilhelm by his Commanding Officer, Colonel Franklin J. Harte during a formal ceremony held April 20, at Headquarters Battalion, 2d Marine Division.

In the citation accompanying the Bronze Star, Capt. Wilhelm was cited for his action on June 6, 1966 while serving as a platoon commander with "C" Company, 1st Battalion, 1st Marines in Vietnam.

"Traveling on tracked vehicles across an exposed rice paddy, his platoon came under heavy automatic weapons fire from an estimated thirty Viet Cong positioned along a tree line. Displaying exceptional professional skill and bold initiative, Capt. Wilhelm, then a First Lieutenant, immediately disembarked his men and deployed them for an assault on the enemy position.

"Effectively positioning his

tracked vehicles, he utilized their automatic weapons for support.

With complete disregard for his own safety, Lt. Wilhelm repeatedly exposed himself to the concentrated enemy fire as he boldly led the assault on the entrenched enemy positions.

"The fierceness of his counter-attack took the enemy by surprise, killing nineteen and causing the remainder to flee in panic and confusion. Largely due to his aggressive and daring actions, Lt. Wilhelm turned a hazardous situation into an extremely successful encounter during which his forces sustained no casualties," the citation concluded.

Capt. Wilhelm received the Navy Commendation Medal "for meritorious service while serving as a platoon commander and subsequently as Assistant Operations Officer with the 1st Battalion, 1st Marine Regiment, in connection with operations against Viet Cong forces," stated the citation.

"While serving as platoon commander, he demonstrated outstanding professional knowledge of small unit tactics and the use of supporting arms fire. In addition, his ability to effectively train his men resulted in a highly effective fighting unit.

"Upon assuming the duties of Assistant Operations Officer, Lt. Wilhelm continued to apply his excellent professional competence and experience in directing tactical operations."

A native of Belmont, Mass., Capt. Wilhelm is presently serving as Executive Officer of Headquarters Company, Headquarters Battalion, 2d Marine Division.

Clove Hitch III In Final Stages

SAN JUAN, P.R., April 24 — Exercise Clove Hitch III involving a 21,000-man U.S. force has moved into its third day (D plus 2) on schedule.

The Joint Task Force Commander, Vice Admiral Bernard A. Clarey, said today, "The exercise is going according to plans and is providing an excellent opportunity to test joint operational concepts."

The attack phase of the exercise got underway last Saturday with simultaneous airborne and amphibious assaults on this island and the nearby island of Vieques.

At present, Army airborne troops, under the command of Lieutenant General John L. Throckmorton, are moving inland from the southeastern tip of Puerto Rico on a "search and destroy" mission. Marines, led by Brigadier General Edwin B. Wheeler are pushing in the opposite direction in an effort to link up with the Army.

Ground movement has been hampered by dense rain forest, jungles and mountainous terrain, however, the U.S. Army and Marine forces expect to link up tomorrow approximately 15 miles southeast of San Juan as scheduled.

Last Saturday, the 32nd Airborne Division parachuted onto the island of Vieques. Simultaneously, Marines mounted an amphibious landing on the southeastern tip of the island.

The airborne troops were dropped for the first time in a training exercise from the Military Airlift's new jet transport, the Starlifter (C-141). The Marines also employed air support as they heli-lifted one landing team into the interior of Puerto Rico near Salinas. A second team came ashore in Navy and Marine Corps landing craft.

After "clearing" Vieques, the 82nd and other elements of General Throckmorton's XVIII Airborne Corps, were transported to the eastern tip of the island where they began their "sweep and destroy" operations.

The Marines linked their heli-borne and amphibious teams and began their drive to the Northeast.

The warships of Rear Admiral C. Edwin Bell, Task Force 124, provided supporting fire for the landing forces. Actual heavy fire was directed at Vieques Island.

Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps jets also provided supporting fire for the ground forces. Air strikes on the Puerto Rican mainland were simulated, however.

Navy ships and submarines operating in the waters near Puerto Rico have been engaged in clearing simulated mine fields and in antisubmarine warfare operations.

Clove Hitch III is serving as a test of tactical concepts in joint operations.

The exercise, conducted by the Unified Atlantic Command, is being directed by Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, Commander in Chief, Atlantic, from his headquarters in Norfolk, Va.

Participating Army and Air Force forces are being provided by the U.S. Strike Command. Over-all Army activities are being coordinated by General Paul L. Freeman, Jr., Commander in Chief of U.S. Army Forces, Atlantic, Ft. Monroe, Va. General Throckmorton is the Senior Commander Ashore of U.S. Forces.

U.S. Air Force and the Puerto Rico Air National Guard participation in the exercise is being coordinated by General Gabriel P. Disosway, Commander in Chief, U.S. Air Forces, Atlantic, from Langley AFB, Va.

M-16 Distributed to Allies

The newest model M-16 rifles are being distributed to units of the South Korean and South Vietnamese forces in the Republic of Vietnam, according to the Department of Defense.

Distribution to the Korean and Vietnamese Army and Marine Units in action is scheduled to be completed by the end of June. The Defense Department said a small number of XM-16E1 rifles were provided earlier to train Korean and Vietnamese forces to use the new weapons.

The Department noted that all U. S. Army combat units are equipped with the M-16's and that all U. S. Marine Corps units either have the weapon or have it enroute.

The Colt - manufactured M-16 is the military model of the commercially developed AR-15.

Commandant Requests Voluntary Contribution

The Commandant of the Marine Corps has issued a call for voluntary contributions by active duty officers to the Navy Marine Coast Guard Residence Foundation, Inc., during the month of April.

Purpose of the fund drive is to build an endowment fund of $2 million to be invested by the Foundation. Income realized from the fund will be used to support elderly widows who require charitable assistance in order to reside at Vinson Hall.

In February, 1967, the endowment fund totaled $121,000.

Each retired and reserve officer not on active duty will receive an appeal to contribute by mail on an individual basis.

Since benefits from the Fund apply only to officers and their dependents, contributions will be limited to the officer corps. Contributions will be entirely voluntary and there will be no dollar goals or quotas.

Funds collected should be forwarded directly to Navy Marine Coast Guard Resident Foundation, Building 59, U.S. Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C. 20390. Checks or money orders should be made payable to the "Residence Foundation, Inc.," or to "NMCGRF, Inc."

Wallace Creek Boathouse Offers Fun For Everyone

With the advent of warm weather and sunny skies, many Marines are taking advantage of the water sports, equipment, and facilities offered for their use at the Wallace Creek Boathouse. For motor boat enthusiasts, the Boathouse maintains 44 outboard motors and boats which may be reserved at a minimal fee for a two-hour period. A word of advice: you must have a boat operator's license before you can check out a boat.

The Boathouse offers lessons in operations and rules of the sea from 9 a.m. to noon every Saturday and Sunday. How fast you qualify for an operator's license is up to the instructor, but usually it can be accomplished in two lessons.

For those wishing to take a boat long on a trip, there is a special package deal offered for $4, which includes boat, trailer, trailer hitch and gas. This pleasure package may be checked out for three days.

Sailing buffs may find it takes longer to qualify for a "skipper's" permit, but lessons are offered at the same time on Saturday and Sunday. A sailboat may be checked out for any amount of time during the day, but limited to one day.

For the less ambitious sailor, rowboats and canoes, complete with cushions and oars, are available for two-hour periods, or for three-day trips. No license is needed.

Water skiers will want to take advantage of the ski-beach facilities located across from the Boathouse, behind Marston Pavilion. Instructors are available for beginners, and practiced skiers may use the ski jump.

The boat repair shop is available for your use and Mr. G. Gutchalk, the manager, is there to assist you. Supplies and equipment are at the repair shop and paints and other supplies may be purchased there.

All facilities of the Wallace Creek Boathouse are available to you through Special Services on a "first come, first served" basis. Come early, stay late, and have fun!

GETTING HER READY—Lieutenant S.P. Lewis, Executive Officer, Military Police and Guard Company, Headquarters and Service Battalion takes advantage of the facilities offered at the Boathouse to refinish his craft.

Chaplain's Message

"COMPASSION."

Palestine of years ago - indeed the world of 1900 years ago - was a very personal world, but compassion was not one of its strong points. The lame, the sick, the poor, the weak, were in this condition because some personal "demon" got hold of the individual and brought on this particular sickness.

Jesus of Galilee looked at the people around him and saw fear, eyes that could not see, personalities suffering from frustrations, hunger that came with birth, and a haunting loneliness striding among all classes and all ages. To these people Jesus said, "come to me all of you who are weary and over burdened and I will give you rest. Put on my yoke and learn of me for I am gentle and humble in heart and you will find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light".

Compassion is right concern for people, all people, all classes, and all ages. This simple statement of Jesus is eloquent testimony for ritual of concern. Indeed the greatest ritual service, said Jesus, "is the service of human need." There is no evidence that Jesus conducted what we call a "Church Service". He was not a student of a seminary, he was the holder of no college degrees, he did not offer a philosophical system, and he did not preach long and learned sermons. But his whole being went out to people in need, to those rejected by others. To the poor, the suffering and the needy, he gave of himself completely. By his actions he taught that church is more than liturgy, more than hymns, no matter how well sung. He taught us that right worship demanded that we do well to those who suffer mentally or physically. He taught us that oneness with God demanded that all men accept each other as brothers. Here acceptance means love.

Each of us can draw our own conclusions about our own sense of compassion towards our fellow men and how well we have acted upon the teachings of our Lord. If we have any doubts about where we stand, just measure our attitudes and norms of conduct along side his life and his teachings.

F4U Corsair Comes To Life Again To Honor Bridgeport Servicemen

Memories of World War II and the postwar period were recalled momentarily this week as members of the 2d Bridge Company, Force Troops, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic moved into a heavily wooded area here to begin salvage operations of an F4U Corsair fighter aircraft that crashed in 1952.

The battered remains of this "work horse" of the Marine Corps, whose name became synonymous with the names of Marine Corps aces and the symbol of Marine air power during World War II, will be returned to its birthplace in Bridgeport, Connecticut.

The bulky fuselage was loaded by a Bay City Crane, furnished by the 2d Bridge Company and the hauling was done by the West End Moving Company of Connecticut.

A committee of three from the Marine Corps League, Chateau-Thierry Detachment of Bridgeport instigated the salvage operations. The plane will be used as a monument to greater Bridgeport area servicemen.

WM's Help Prepare Food in Mess Hall

"Man the grills, the troops want Chow."

"But Sarge, we can't man the grills, the cooks are women."

Such is the case in Mess hall No. 54 where three Women Marines (WM's) work with 14 male cooks in preparing 3,000 servings of food each day for personnel of Headquarters and Service Battalion, Marine Corps Base.

The trio, Privates First Class Melinda L. Jacquot, Geraldine F. Enger, and Marti M. Libey, were trained as cooks at the U.S. Army Quartermasters School in Fort Lee, Va., after graduation from recruit training in Parris Island, S.C.

All three are cooks because they "liked cooking and asked for such a job."

These WM's work from 4:30 a.m. to 12:00 on the first watch or from 11:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on the second watch. Instead of preparing meals for a family of two or three, these cooks may mash 450 pounds of potatoes, cook 150 pounds of hamburger, or prepare a vegetable dish for 1,200 personnel.

In keeping with the WM motto, "Free a man to fight," Women Marines such as these three cooks help to relieve the shortage of male personnel caused by the conflict in Vietnam.

At present, there are over 1,700 Women Marines on active duty filling such jobs as secretaries, news reporters, photographers, accountants, dispatchers, stenographers and cooks.

As a Marine, these WM's participate in drill, military training, inspections and all the other duties required of a serviceman (or woman).

Happy 26th Anniversary,

Twenty - six years ago on May 1, Lieutenant Colonel W. P. T. Hill became the commanding officer of Marine Barracks, New River, N. C. All that existed of Camp Lejeune was blueprints.

A war that more and more involved the United States was raging in Europe, and in the Far East, Japan was sweeping through China and casting a greedy eye on the rest of the Pacific.

LtCol. Hill, isolated in the pine thickets and swamps of the North Carolina coast, had his orders: "Build, equip, and begin operating a Marine Corps base capable of training a full division of Marines."

An old summer cottage was established as headquarters, and Hill went to work. A tent city was built near Jacksonville for the thousands of construction workers who were hired to do the job.

In 1941, the American people were a frugal bunch, and the huge military budgets of today were undreamed of. LtCol. Hill and his men had to make do with what was available.

Before being purchased by the Marine Corps, the future Camp Lejeune had been farm land, with some 640 families existing within its 170 square miles by fishing and subsistence farming.

The base's first warehouse was a reconstructed tobacco barn. Rains turned the sandy trails connecting the Base with the outside world into a quagmire, fouling transportation for days. The first messhall was set up in a building once used as a bathhouse on a nearby beach.

But despite shortcomings, progress was rapid. The construction workers began work in earnest in August, 1941, and raised buildings so quickly that by August, 1942, the headquarters was moved from Montford Point to its present location in Building One.

Tent City was constructed in 1941 on the site of present Camp Geiger, and the 1st Marine Division, complete with pith helmets, '03 Springfields, and high leather boots for the officers, arrived for training.

A few months later the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, and seven months after that the 1st Marine Division made history on Guadalcanal.

On December 20, 1942, the new base in North Carolina was named Camp Lejeune in honor of a Marine hero of World War I who had died a month earlier, Lieutenant General John A. Lejeune, a short, belligerent Cajun from Louisiana.

ings at Onslow Beach and on New River, night problems across the river from main side, and the camp newspaper reported that Lt. So - and - so had departed for duty in the Solomons or the Mariannas. Sound familiar?

Betty Grable and Glenn Miller came to entertain the troops, intramural athletic teams were studded with ex-All-Americans and professionals, and officers' housing was at Midway Park.

In 1943 the U. S. Naval Hospital was completed. With beds placed in the passageways, it cared for as many as 2,087 patients at one time.

Woman Marines also made their debut here in 1943, and more than 3,000 were trained before the war's end in such jobs as truck drivers and parachute riggers.

After the war ended, the 2d Marine Division took up residence at Camp Lejeune and has maintained its home here ever since. In 1951, Force Troops, FMF Atlantic, was formed to give heavy combat and service support to the 2d Division, and was also based at Camp Lejeune.

Twice since the end of World War II, the regular routine of the Base has been interrupted by the demands of war, Korea in the early '50's and now Vietnam.

Even in the relatively placid peacetime periods, Camp Lejeune's units have maintained a state of combat readiness that has allowed for instant response to the trouble - spots of the World, Lebanon in 1958 and the Dominican Republic in 1964.

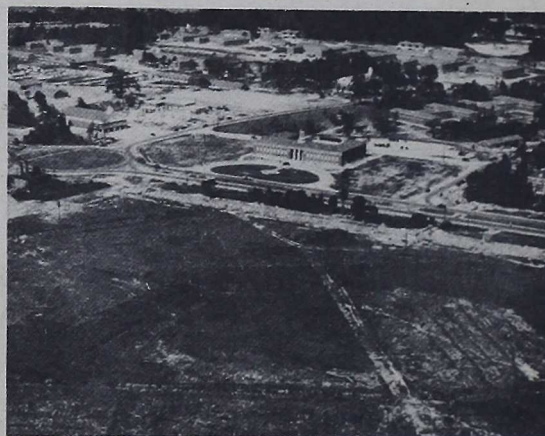

But the people who live and train here no longer suffer in a tent city or worry about isolation because of rain and mud.

Today Camp Lejeune is one of the best equipped bases in the World, not only militarily, but also in providing for the needs of those stationed here.

There are 4,300 buildings, most of them cheating the summer heat with air conditioning; there are 15 movie theatres; five swimming pools; nine chapels; two golf courses, an accredited school system; and the list could go on and on.

LtCol. Hill would scarcely recognize the place.

carefully avoided committing himself when asked who the first team shooters would be on the opening day of the Eastern Division Rifle and Pistol Matches to be held May 9-11.

Several of the members of the detail vying for the number one team are already distinguished shooters, which means that they have gone as far as they can go in winning awards. In the shooting world there is nothing they have not conquered.

These shooters are: First Lieutenant V. E. Burch (team captain), Warrant Officer Wallace York, Staff Sergeant Gerald Wallis, Staff Sergeant Benjamin Villegas, Sergeant Jose Enriquez, Staff Sergeant John Fuqua (distinguished with pistol), Gunnery O'Brien is also a distinguished shooter but he is not competing.

Sergeant Billy Savell has points toward being a distinguished shooter.

The 2d Division team will be made up of one officer (probab-

Gunny O'Brien said, "Any one of the four new shooters we have out here could win a spot on the first team."

Lejeune Outdoors

by Charles Peterson

There promises to be a substantial increase in the number of watercraft using the waters in the vicinity of Camp Lejeune during spring and summer. With increased activity along the waterways, all boat operators should use extra caution any time they operate their craft.

New River and its tributaries are heavily used by area boaters, but each trip does not always end in enjoyment. Last year there were six boating accidents in Onslow County, and all of them were in New River from a point near the Air Facility to the inlet. Three of the accidents were fatal.

The fact that these accidents happened should implant safe boating practices into each operator's every move when underway, no matter if he is by himself, with his friends or family.

While underway, extreme caution should be exercised in congested areas, around inlets, in open waters, at points and intersections, near bridges and piers, and in swimming areas.

Hardest Fight Was in Finley Street Neighborhood House

he hardest fight I ever had was a two-round workout in a Cincinnati," said J.C. Davis, Camp Lejeune's highly touted coach.

was at the Finley Street Neighborhood House, I was surprised to see how far a fighter George Foster had come. I figured that I had the out because I was heavier than him and had more experience," he went on.

the first round I had the stage and was not too impressed. He was trying to catch in the head and since I was taller than him wasn't getting here," he said.

When asked why this fight was the hardest fight he ever had, he nonchalantly said that the rest of the fights just weren't so tough. And he meant it.

Davis exudes confidence in both his ability in the ring and in his ability to teach. He is prouder of his ability to teach his men to fight than he is of his own individual accomplishments.

A notice to the public which J. C. Davis composed hangs on the door of the Boxing Room. It reflects the respect which he has for his men. It reads as follows:

"A MESSAGE TO THE PUBLIC"

Behind these doors train some of the most fearless fighters of all time. Once inside, you can't help but notice the talent that I have grouped in so small a place as this.

These men have the strength of wild gorillas the agility of mangy alley cats, the endurance of an unpleasant odor, and the faces of "Tasmanian Monsters."

I owe my thanks for obtaining these men from Captain Noah, who so graciously allowed them to be TAD from his Ark.

J. C. Davis

J.C. began fighting in Cincinnati when he was 14. His parents were very surprised that such a little guy, 126 pounds at the time, would be fighting. They thought all fighters were big men.

He lost his first fight because he did not eat the "right foods". But he kept on fighting because it was the thing to do in the neighborhood that year and because he felt he was good. That same year he won the Golden Gloves featherweight championship at Muncie, Indiana.

In that first year he became convinced that a fighter in the very best condition could whip a man in poor condition who had more experience. This theory proved right because he hammered away and won the Featherweight GG Title in 1956 and 1957 in his home town. In 1958 he copied the Ohio State AAU Championship.

After joining the Marine Corps in 1960 he fought in the All-Marine bouts at Camp Pendleton. He had only 11 days to train because he had just completed Boot Camp. He fought four times and lost in the finals in the 147-pound division.

In 1962 he represented Camp Pendleton at San Diego and won the AAU title with three knockouts.

Overseas in 1963, he won the Far East Inter-Service Championships in the 139 pound class. Here at Lejeune in 1964 he won the Carolina 147 pound AAU Boxing Championship and the All-Marine Contests at 139 pounds.

He retired in 1964 because he felt that he did not have the training and the coaching that he would need to go far up the pro ranks. He had seven pro fights and won six of them. His fight record includes 120 fights, 105 wins, and 63 knockouts. "I couldn't punch that hard but I sure did wear them out," he said.

He went to Vietnam in May 1965 and returned to Camp Lejeune in June 1966. Hearing that the Lejeune Boxing Team needed a trainer, J.C. asked for the job and ended up as both the trainer and coach.

"I feel that I can teach any man how to box," David said. "How he goes is up to him and his native ability. After each fight I start my men over on the fundamentals." In the 1966-67 Boxing Tournaments thousands of Marines and their dependents watched Davis's All-Marine Boxers all over the country. Nine of his men made the All-Marine Boxing Team and two of his men were interservice champs.

Sergeant Davis was TAD from the 2d 8 inch Howitzer Battery, 2d FAG, Force Troops. He is married and he and his wife Shirley have a two year-old daughter named Crystal.

The race was run on Patriot's Day, a state holiday in Massachusetts. Crowds lined the 26 mile, 385 yard course to give the runners encouragement.

Lejeune Women Golf In Fla.

Hallie Von Orde, Edna Maxwell, Alice Herlihy, and Faith Boyers represented Camp Lejeune in the Annual Military Dependent's Golf Tournament held April 18-20 in Jacksonville, Florida.

One hundred seventy-four dependents from all four services entered the tournament. Betty Looney, Fort Lee, Va., had the low gross score, Guswell, Alice Herlihy, and Faith Boyers finished with the low net score.

Mrs. Faith Boyers had the low 54 hole score for Camp Lejeune with rounds of 95, 95, 97. Two of Lejeune's entrants did not finish because of the oppressive heat. The temperature stayed around 95 degrees for the tournament.

the 11th Frame

By MARY ANN McARTOR

Last week end marked the beginning of the Mens Jacksonville-Lejeune City Tournament and already we have some fabulous scores to report.

For the Team Events the Bonnyman Strikers are leading with a 3156. If you didn't see this match you really missed a thriller. This team bowled a 3042 scratch, which figures out to a 200-plus-er man-per game!

Leaders in the Doubles are Lloyd James and Joe Gaddi with 1160 scratch, and R. Smidley and C. Cosner with 1284 with handicap.

Jim Poston's 601 scratch and J. R. Wutrich's 663 with handicap are the High Singles scores.

Also leading in All Events is Lloyd James with 1757 scratch while Jack McDaniels' 1910 is high with handicap.

Ron Millar is ahead in the scratch divisions for both High Series and High Game with 654 series, 256 game.

In the handicap division it's R. W. Landwehr's 700 for High Series and J. Openlander's 271 for High Game.

And this was only the beginning????!! Last Thursday night in the Twi-Liters Ola Titel chalked up another 600 series to her credit when she turned in a 602. Evelyn Smith won a couple for her team with a 597 series.

On the last day of the season for the Coffee & Tea League Sylvia Fernane, with a 121 average, earned her 200 patch when she bowled a 203 game.

The Mens' Scratch Trios (we always refer to this group as The Big Boys) turned in their usual terrific scores this week too. Ron Millar rolled a 677, Mike Henitz 670, and Lloyd James 644 and 607.

In the Officers Mixed F. Stoltz rolled a nice 234 game, Ron Millar with a 635 series and Kathy Traub with a 591 led the Early-bird Mixed.

If you've been sitting back wondering about taking up bowling, now is the time to make your move.

The summer season is short and in about three months you'll have decided whether or not bowling is your sport. While we don't like to brag, we will say that Bonnyman has a very low record of drop-outs.

We have leagues for men, women, children, couples, with handicap, and scratch. So why not come on down to the Bowling Center and let us help you sign up for the league that is tailored just for you.

The Ball & Chain will conduct its organizational meeting this Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room. This handicap league for couples will begin the Summer season on June 2 at 9:00 p.m.

CINEMA SUMMARY

THIS PROPERTY IS CONDEMNED

Natalie Wood stars in this lavish technicolor production which is nothing more than a large scale soap - opera. Miss Wood portrays a flirtatious charmer of the 1930's whose life is ruined by several greedy people, including her own selfish mother. Definitely aimed at the more mature audience, the film tries desperately to take a sophisticated look at life in a small-town boarding house but due to amateurish supporting actors and an all - too - Hollywoodish plot, the flick falls victim to a huge credibility gap. Poor.

ONE-WAY WAHINE

This latest of the "surfing - swimming - singing" imports is a notch better than the usual type by virtue of the fact that it has a plot.

Filmed on location in Hawaii, the motion picture tells the story of a girl who comes to the island on a one - way ticket, hoping to find her share of romance and adventure. When she becomes involved in a plot to recover more than $100,000 from two thieves who have taken refuge on the island, her fondest hopes are realized. In Technicolor and featuring Joy Harmon and Anthony Eisley. Fair.

BRUSHFIRE

An adventure film with a touch of realism and a hunk of bloodshed, this flick has the added advantage of being right in step with today's headlines. Set in Southeast Asia, the plot centers around an abduction of an American couple living on a plantation and the efforts on the part of their neighbors to rescue them from guerilla forces. John Ireland and Jo Morrow star in the movie, filmed in black and white. Fair.

WARNING SHOT

A suspense - filled detective mystery with a fine plot, this flick features David Janssen in the starring role as a dedicated cop wrongly accused of murder. Loaded with high - tension drama and an outstanding supporting cast, the movie rates as a top - notch thriller. Thanks to ingenious directing the audience should be kept on the edge of its seat from beginning to end. Polished professionals such as Walter Pidgeon, George Sanders and Eleanor Parker all help to create an electric atmosphere. In Technicolor. Very Good.

THE SHE-BEAST

While honeymooning in Transylvania, a young couple almost drown when their car plunges into a fog - shrouded lake where 200 years before the townspeople had drowned the evil witch, Vardella. Naturally, when the young wife is rescued it is discovered too late that Vardella has come back in her form to seek out her share of revenge on the townspeople. Several gory murders take place before the she-beast is finally studied forever. In color and starring Barbara Steele, the flick has all the usual faults of a horror picture, and then some. Fair.

LADY L

A rollicking, picturesquely story about a Parisian laundress who becomes a sophisticated lady, this film features three of the greatest stars in the business in Sophia Loren, Paul Newman, and David Niven.

Tired of devoting herself to her boy friend's anarchistic plots, the slatternly laundress becomes the mistress and later the wife of one of France's leading citizens. Lavishly staged throughout, the film features some gorgeous scenes photographed on location in Switzerland. In Technicolor. Very Good.

A FISTFUL OF DOLLARS

This motion picture has to rate as one of the bloodiest Westerns ever made - also as one of the most senseless and tasteless.

Clint Eastwood stars as the "hero" of this horse - opera as a decadent killer who hires himself out to one gang and then another, solely for the sake of making money, which he ultimately gives away to a needy family anyway. On more than one occasion he finds himself hopelessly outnumbered by a gang of desperadoes, but like some James Bond in a ten - gallon hat, he calmly moves his poncho to one side revealing his six-gun with which he systematically mows down his adversaries. In Technicolor. Poor.

AFTER THE FOX

Peter Sellers stars in this hilarious story about a master criminal who uses the production of a movie as a front for the smuggling of a shipload of gold bullion into a small Italian village. The inimitable Sellers is a natural for this madcap role which gives him the opportunity to play several different parts in the same movie. As is customary in a Sellers flick, the film concludes with a riotous chase through the heart of town with Interpol hot on the trail of "The Fox."

In Technicolor and co - starring Victor Mature and Britt Ekland. Very Good.

You caught the "Pussycat"!! Now chase the Fox!

WATCH YOUR OWN! CHASE YOUR OWN! HOLD YOUR JEWELRY!

500 See Firex at Lucky's Mound

Story By LCpl
Doug Switzer

More than 500 persons were on hand Saturday to witness a Fire Exercise (FIREX) presented by the 4th Battalion, 10th Marines at Lucky's Mound. Lucky's Mound is an observation point used to watch the effect of artillery firing into the nearby impact area.

The program began on a hilarious note as one Marine hung his washing on a line of detonator cord. As he walked away leaving his wash to dry the cord blew up, ending wash day very abruptly.

To show the importance of precise timing in supporting artillery fire, Lieutenant Colonel Frank D. McCarthy, Commanding Officer of 4th Battalion, 10th Marines, stated that the next segment of the program should begin in about three to five seconds. As he turned to point to the impact area the first round burst in a cloud of smoke and flame. For 15 minutes the cannons fired every type of ammunition from high explosives to phosphorus spotter rounds. The children especially liked the spotter rounds which covered the impact area with billowing white smoke for several minutes.

After a demonstration of the small arms weapons used in support of artillery and a brief description of each man's job within the battalion, the youngsters got a real treat.

The towering mobile guns moved up in front of the stands. As the children pointed and chattered the first piece fired a round, bringing a hush over the surprised spectators. When the second shell was fired, they were ready. Some had a tight hold on Mom's arm while the brave ones just covered their ears.

The guns were lined up by size starting with the 4.2 Mortar and ending with the 155 millimeter self-propelled gun.

The boy's main interest was the 50 caliber machine gun perched atop each turret. They fired thousands of "imaginary" rounds at enemy soldiers that only they could see. The girls however, were more amazed with the dozens of shiny knobs and levers inside the tracked vehicles.

The FIREX ended as the parents boarded the buses to ride back to mainside. Everyone, including the members of the battalion, agreed that the exercise was a complete success.

Everyone waits for the next loud blast.

"Mister what happens if I pull this lever?"

"Hey! Jimmy are you down there?"

A picnic Marine style.
