FOR VIETNAM VALOR

3d Medal of Honor Won By LCpl Paul

The Medal of Honor was presented posthumously to a 19-year old Marine who lost his life shielding the evacuation of wounded buddies during Operation Starlite in Vietnam.

Lance Corporal Joe C. Paul, became the third Marine to receive the nation's highest medal for combat, when the Secretary of the Navy, Paul H. Nitze, gave the medal to Paul's parents.

The Medal was earned by Mr. and Mrs. Callie E. Paul's son while serving as a fire team leader with Company "H", 2d Bn., 4th Marine Regiment near Chu Lai, Vietnam August 18, 1965.

The citation which accompanied Corporal Paul's award reads in part:

"... In violent battle, Corporal Paul's platoon sustained five casualties as it was temporarily pinned down by devastating mortar, recoilless rifle, automatic weapons and rifle fire delivered by insurgent communist (Viet Cong) forces in well-entrenched positions. The wounded Marines were unable to move from their perilously exposed positions forward of the remainder of their platoon and were suddenly subjected to a barrage of white phosphorous rifle grenades.

"Corporal Paul, fully aware that his tactics would almost certainly result in serious injury or death to himself chose to disregard his own safety and boldly dashed across the fire-swept rice paddies, placed himself between his wounded comrades and the enemy, and delivered effective suppressive fire with his automatic weapon in order to divert the attack long enough to allow the casualties to be evacuated.

The award, rotated monthly within the quad-command is bestowed for excellence as both a Marine and a citizen of the community. Sgt. Baker was selected from among 12 nominees from the regiments and separate battalions within the 2d Marine Division.

Prior to his present assignment as a platoon sergeant with the 1st Battalion, 6th Marines, he served with the 1st Battalion, 4th Marines in the Republic of Vietnam. As a member of that unit he participated in Operations Utah, Texas, Starlite and Cherokee.

A native of Cayce, South Carolina, and a veteran of 13 years military service, Sgt. Baker serves on his off-duty time as an intermediate Sunday School teacher at the New River Baptist Church.

Dumpster Rules

Calls are being received from personnel and units throughout the Base requesting extra Demster Dumpsters for their trash. It has also been noticed that some areas have trash strewn around the present Dumpsters. This does not add to the beauty of Camp Lejeune. It is a distraction and shows poor police policies.

When a call is received by the Refuse and Garbage Collection Branch at Base Maintenance, an inspection and daily check is made of the area requesting another Dumpster.

In most cases they find that the overflowing Dumpster is not filled to its rated capacity.

THIS UNFORTUNATE situation could have been prevented with proper care and attention to the refuse rules.

Large cardboard boxes, mount-out boxes, leaves, branches, and lumber are thrown into the Dumpster and this takes up the space which normally would hold trash.

By keeping lumber and wooden boxes out of the Dumpsters and by breaking cardboard boxes, we can eliminate the overfilling of the Dumpsters.

Lumber and wooden boxes should be turned into Redistribution and Disposal sections on the Base. Leaves and branches should be carried to the dump.

If we abide by these suggestions we can do away with having need for an extra Dumpster and at the same time have plenty of room for the normal amount of daily trash.

In cases of anticipated troop movements into or off the Base there are usually large amounts of trash to be disposed of.

By calling 7-3408 and 7-5158 arrangements can be made for its removal.

Assistance by you is requested to insure scheduled unloading of the Dumpsters. "Please do not park around or in front of the Dumpsters."

Stay Loose

By 2dLt. Ralph Deaver

Despite the insistence of some to call me "Danny," I am not related to, identifiable with, nor by any other means reminiscent of the Rudyard Kipling character, Danny Deever. He is not a cousin, uncle, great-grandfather, or anything else of mine, despite what self-appointed funsters may say to the contrary.

The reason I'm making so much of this, lots of folks believe name influence character. It may be true. For example, if you're a boy school, and your name is Susie, or Mary, or Veronica, I can see where it would. Definitely. But as to similarities of name resulting in duplications of character, well, I wouldn't go that far.

I once knew of a fellow named Thomas Jefferson, but he wasn't a statesman. He was a wood-cutter back in the Ozarks, hadn't been beyond the fourth grade, and wouldn't have been caught dead in one of those white wigs.

By the same token, just because some wag likes to display his knowledge of Kipling by labeling me "Danny Deever," don't expect me to go around killing my friends in their sleep. In the first place, the sight of blood unnerves me, even when it isn't mine; in the second place, I can't think of a friend intimate enough to pull something like that on, even in fun.

A name is a name is a name -- and that's about all there is to it. That's what was so shocking about an experience I had once, when I was back home on summer vacation.

As I walked along Main Street, greeting folks I'd known a long time ago, smiling and exchanging pleasantries, and trying in general to make people understand I had amounted to something more than had been predicted, I heard a voice that stopped me in my tracks (You DO make tracks on Main Street, in my town.)

"Hey, Deev!" said the voice; "Danny Deaver!"

"Gene Tunny!" I said, turning and retracing my steps. "Boy, it's been a long time." And I was sincerely glad to see him.

If he noticed that I kept my left high, as we shook hands, he gave no indication. I don't think he even noticed that I was on my toes for instant movement, if required. But, when the kid with the bicycle bell caused me to leap back and throw up both hands to guard my face, there was no longer any hope that he'd think these were just odd mannerisms of mine.

I'm grateful that he just laughed it off; though I should have known he would, being like he is: good-natured, a sport, a regular feller, a good-humor guy. Besides, back in school, I've heard him say a thousand times, "A name is just a name, isn't it? Isn't it?"

And, usually, the kid he was talking to would bob his head in the affirmative, so Gene would let him up off the ground.

Woman Marines Observe 24th Anniversary Monday

Woman Marines throughout the world will be celebrating their 24th Anniversary February 13. Camp Lejeune Lady Leathernecks will celebrate the occasion with special ceremonies in front of Base Headquarters and a luncheon and cake cutting ceremony later in the evening.

A special unit of Woman Marines will be formed in front of the headquarters Monday for the flag raising ceremony at morning colors to commemorate the day.

After noon, a luncheon has been scheduled at the Central Area Service Club for all Woman Marines where the traditional cake cutting ceremony will be held. In the evening the ladies plan buffet supper and formal dance for Woman Marines and their guests. The supper is slated for 7 p.m. with the dance following at 8 p.m.

The dance is scheduled in the Carousel Room and the Keg Room simultaneously. Josea Sapp will provide the music in the Carousel Room while the Nightworkers are scheduled for the Keg Room.

Dress for the ladies has been set at gowns, cocktail dresses or Undress Blues, while their guests will be required to wear either Winter Service "A"; Dress Blues with ribbons or a Dinner Jacket.

Woman Marines here carry out the traditions set forth by the first woman accepted into the Corps in 1942 by the Secretary of the Navy.

On February 13, 1943, four women faced the nation and explained why a woman's division of the Corps was needed. These four ladies formed the nucleus and were in fact the entire Woman Marine Reserve at the time.

A year later, under the slogan "Free a Man to Fight," this nucleus had expanded into an elite organization of 800 officers and 14,000 enlisted personnel.

Camp Lejeune became the training ground for woman officers and recruit training school for Woman Marines in July 1943 after starting at Hunter College in New York.

Even today we see signs of those times of training when the women received instruction here. Three streets at Camp Lejeune are named accordingly:

"Virginia Dare" in memory of the first English-child born in America, (not far from New River);

"Lucy Brewer" commemorating the legendary character who is supposed to have dressed herself like a man and served on the "Constitution," and after the first Woman Marine, "Molly Pitcher."

Today, also, we find a new trend and new policy for the woman of our Corps. They serve in the Far East, where before, the only overseas assignments were to Hawaii in the Pacific area.

And only recently, an announcement was made of the first Woman Marine assigned to duty in a combat zone with the assignment of a Woman Marine Captain to a post in Saigon, South Vietnam.

The trend has changed but the traditions remain the same, and today's women in the Corps have a greater opportunity to learn more skill in virtually any field.

We join with the rest in wishing the Woman Marines at Camp Lejeune and wherever else they serve, A Happy Birthday.

"Although critically wounded during the course of the battle, he resolutely remained in his exposed position and continued to fire his rifle until he collapsed and was evacuated. By his fortitude and gallant spirit of self-sacrifice in the face of almost certain death he saved the lives of several of his fellow Marines ..."

Lance Corporal Paul was born April 26, 1946 in Williamsburg, Kentucky, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Callie E. Paul, who now reside at 3821 Little York Road, Vandalia, Ohio. In addition to his parents, Corporal Paul is survived by a brother, James, 12, now living at home, and a sister, Mrs. Laura R. Rogers, of Dayton, Ohio.

Paul joined the Marine Corps on April 26, 1963, shortly after his 17th birthday. After completing recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, and individual combat training at Camp Pendleton, Corporal Paul was assigned to Company H, Second Battalion, Fourth Marines. He arrived in Vietnam with his unit on May 7, 1965 and served there until his death.

Force Troops In FIREX

Several Force Troops units are currently deployed from Camp Lejeune to Camp Garcia, Vieques Island, Puerto Rico where they are participating in a FIREX, a one month live fire training exercise.

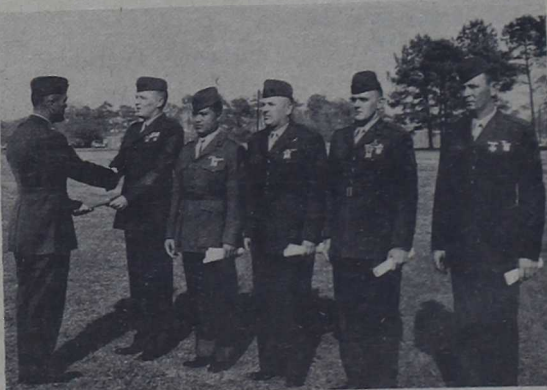

Force Troops units deployed are the 2d Field Artillery Group, 8th Communications Battalion, and selected personnel from the 2d Force Service Regiment and the 2d Air Naval Gunfire Liaison Company.

The 2d Field Artillery Group under the command of LtCol. L.R. Dorsa and the 8th Communications Battalion, commanded by Major D.H. Tinius are supporting the 2d Marine Division's 10th Marines in the live fire exercise.

The selected personnel from the 2d Force Service Regiment are ammunition technicians and ANGLICO personnel are acting as forward observers during the operation.

In addition, the 8th Communications will augment the Camp Garcia communications section and will assist the camp personnel in repairing and improving the communications on Vieques Island.

Force Troops in Carib

Highly skilled Marine specialists from Force Troops' 2d Force Reconnaissance Company are currently deployed from Camp Lejeune to the Caribbean area where they are engaged in a comprehensive training exercise.

These selected personnel from the Force Reconnaissance Company are aboard the submarine USS Lion operating in the area of Saint Thomas, Virgin Islands in training that involves buoyant ascent from a submerged submarine, and reentry while the submarine is underway.

This training basically involves the subs escape trunk for exit and entry while the sub slips through the waters.

In addition, selected Marines from the 2d Reconnaissance Battalion, 2d Marine Division are training with the Force Reconners.

Health Week Aims to Protect Our Children

Dental disease afflicts more than 95 per cent of Americans at some time of their lives. Its cost to those who have it is often high, in terms of its effect on total health, on personality development and the expense of eradicating the damage it does. More draftees were rejected in World War II for poor dental health than for any other reason. And yet, if the knowledge we now have in dentistry can be spread and can be applied by all Americans, beginning in early childhood, nearly all dental disease can be prevented.

National Children's Dental Health Week which is being observed from Feb. 5 through Feb. 11 is striving to focus attention on the dental health of our children, wherein lies the genuine solution to the Nation's dental health problems. For the seventh consecutive year, school administrators and teachers co-operating with the Base Dental Department plan a dental health program for Camp Lejeune Schools which undoubtedly has effects far beyond the National Children's Dental Health Week.

A program is presently underway to provide topical application of stannous fluoride to all Camp Lejeune dependents in grades 1 through 12. This program will commence during National Children's Parents will receive further information regarding this program through their school systems.

The Camp Lejeune Officers' Wives' Club and First Citizens Bank have volunteered the financial requirement for this program, the money to be used to purchase pamphlets, posters, movies, etc. The Professional Services Division of Proctor and Gamble is also furnishing dental health education materials and supplies for this week of emphasis on dental health. The Wives Club is sponsoring competition between sections of grades and/or rooms in the school systems with prize ribbons given for the most original display of dental health. Judging of displays will be conducted by representatives of the Officers' Wives' Club.

During National Children's Dental Health Week, dental officers from the Base Dental Department will visit each of the schools in the Camp Lejeune area public school system. The children will be instructed in the practices of good dental health by the use of movies and other training aids. In addition, dental officers will be available to give dental health presentations to the PTA groups if so desired. Interested PTA groups may contact the Administrative Officer of the Base Dental Department at extension 7-5663 for information. At Camp Lejeune, one of the most important achievements resulting from past National Children's Dental Health Week and the U.S. Naval Dental Corps Preventive Dentistry Program is the fluoridation of the Base Water Supply.

Beneficial Suggestions Save $68,758 On Base

The United States government has long recognized the value of employee suggestions.

The Administrative and Incentive Awards Program provides means through which any government employee, civilian or military, can make beneficial suggestions which will improve government operation.

The Industrial Relations Office, headed by Mr. J.D. Terrell, is taken on the duty of processing the beneficial suggestions made by the Administrative and Incentive Awards Program on the base.

Beneficial suggestions are made to the command where the suggestions apply. The suggestions are then turned into the Industrial Relations office to be processed. They are returned to the originating command where they are investigated to determine the benefits of adopting the suggestion.

Each suggestion must point out a problem. It must tell the old method of operation and tell how new method will solve the problem. All the benefits from the suggestion must be clearly outlined.

In a recent interview Mr. Terrell stated, "Our office only handles the paperwork involved in the Incentive Awards Program. Whether the suggestion is adopted or not is up to the command where the suggestion originates."

"Each suggestion is also considered by the Incentive Awards Committee after it has been investigated by the commands. The committee decides whether the suggestion was given proper consideration. If it was adopted by the command they decide what type of award will be presented."

When a suggestion comes to the IRO Office it is time-stamped and given a number. Then it is referred to the organization from which it came.

The average processing time from the time it gets to the IRO Office until payment is made is 2 days.

Each command thoroughly investigates the advantages and benefits outlined by the suggestions. After the suggestion has been investigated and approved or rejected it is referred to the Incentive Awards Committee.

The Incentive Awards Committee investigates all suggestions made by Base personnel. They act on 25 to 30 suggestions at a time.

The Committee makes certain that all suggestions are given proper consideration. It also makes certain that each suggestion was over and above the normal duties of the person who made it.

In fiscal year 1966, 380 suggestions were processed by the IRO Office. Of these, 115 were adopted by the Base commanders.

Award money for beneficial suggestions totaled $6100 in 1966. The estimated dollar savings to Base Operations was $68,758.

Beneficial suggestions awards range from honorary awards up to $25,000. The $25,000 award must be approved by the Secretary of the Navy.

Local commands can approve awards up to $1500.

Staff Sergeant Charles L. Walker was awarded $15 recently for a Water Purification Unit modification. This suggestion is typical of hundreds of suggestions adopted each year. Most awards go to Marines who have suggested changes in machinery.

Payment of awards to Base personnel comes from the Base Operation and Maintenance Fund.

Recommendations made by men in the 2d Division are handled by the Division G-1 section. Award money comes from the Division appropriations. The suggestions are approved by the section heads.

Force Troops handles their beneficial suggestions through their section heads and adoption is approved by the Commanding General. Award money comes from Force Troops appropriations.

Civilians give their suggestions to their line supervisors. Responsibility for adopting or rejecting the suggestions rests with their civilian supervisors.

The Chaplain's Column

Has God Found You?

If God seeks men in many ways, you may ask why has God not found you? Why does He not come into your life as a personal possession and experience? Has He withheld himself from you? While God is seeking you, you must fulfill certain receptions before He comes into your life. Consider a few - have you fulfilled them?

1. Awareness: Once a botanist with a microscope was studying the heather bell. A shepherd came by and asked him what he was doing. Instead of trying to explain, the scientist asked him to look into the microscope. After a long look, the shepherd exclaimed, "And to think that I have been tramping on them all my life." We are often unaware of the wonders around us. It is quite possible that God, too, is closer to us than breathing or nearer than hands and feet, but we do not know it. God can be present, but if we are not aware of him, He is not present for us.

2. Listening: Elijah learned that God sometimes speaks in "a still, small voice" and not in a fire, storm, or earthquake. Do we seek quiet through solitude and prayer to hear the voice of God? We usually hear what we want to, you know. Two men were riding on a subway. In the midst of the noise, one said, "I hear a cricket." Looking up he found it - amazing his companion. Later as they were walking on the sidewalk, someone dropped a coin. The second man heard it and picked it up. But the first man didn't hear it. We hear those things we train our ears to hear. We often fret, worry and strive to attain God, and get nowhere. The Psalmist suggests: relax and "Be still and know that I am God." God dwells in your TAOR.

CORPORAL Rome B. Flowers, Jr., HqCo., H&S Bn., receives a Purple Heart from Captain J.H. Sutor, USN, Commanding Officer, U.S. Naval Hospital. Corporal Flowers was wounded while on patrol near Da Nang, Vietnam.

Staging Battalion

Provided the situation in Southeast Asia continues as it is now going it is fairly certain that all Marines will soon have something more in common than a predominately green uniform. That something will be an unofficial but well-earned diploma from dear old Staging Battalion U.

If you missed the last Asian war and have not yet otherwise learned, Staging Battalion is located at Camp Pendleton, Calif., and is now a prerequisite for graduate work in the rice paddies.

Few escape the requirement to pass through its cactus-covered campus, and in the infantry-styled units formed there for ease of handling are to be found clerks, carpenters, cooks, aviation types, bakers, communicators and of course a liberal sprinkling of infantrymen.

Age, rank, and MOS are no barriers to common matriculation, although your rank will determine your billet in the unit you train with.

The average length of stay in Staging Battalion is from 20 to 25 days. Fifteen of these are actual training days, and the rest are either weekends or waiting days.

Once a Marine joins a training unit, he is given a billet commensurate with his rank and regardless of his MOS. The unit remains intact until it gets to WESTPAC, where it breaks up and individual assignments are made.

Of the 15 days, 6½ are generally administrative in nature while 8½ are field training. During this time living accommodations for all are similar, open squad bays, although the various rank categories have their own appropriate areas.

While this applies equally to officers, there are times when facilities are filled, and officers are then permitted to find civilian housing in the Oceanside area.

On the subject of billeting, there are no government family quarters available at Camp Pendleton at the present time. Staging Battalion recommends that Marines not bring their dependents to the area solely for residency during the staging period, chiefly because of the compact processing schedule.

For those who intend to relocate their dependents to California during their overseas tour, however, there is presently an ample supply of civilian housing available in such nearby communities as Vista, Oceanside and San Clemente.

Something else which Staging Battalion recommends you leave behind is your car, unless you have definite plans for it when you depart. If you intend to sell your car out there you are in for a licking because so many try to do the same.

On the other hand, a man without a car on Camp Pendleton leads a somewhat restricted off-duty life, since distances between on-base facilities and to nearby civilian communities are staggering.

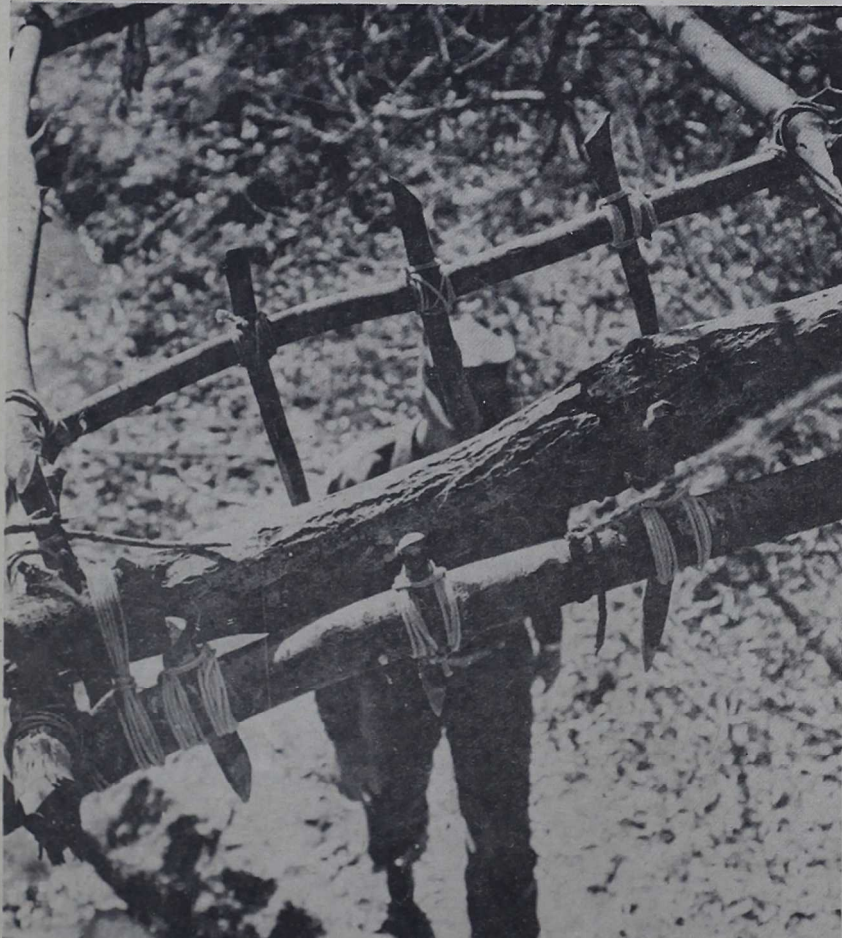

Public transportation consists of commercial buses which do not run every few minutes, and private taxi service empties wallets fast.

There are many other useful tips to be picked out of a conversation with the Staging Battalion people. For example, if you have a private weapon you want to take to Vietnam, forget it, even if it is a knife with a blade six inches or more in length. No private weapons are allowed in Vietnam; all casualties will be inflicted using government equipment.

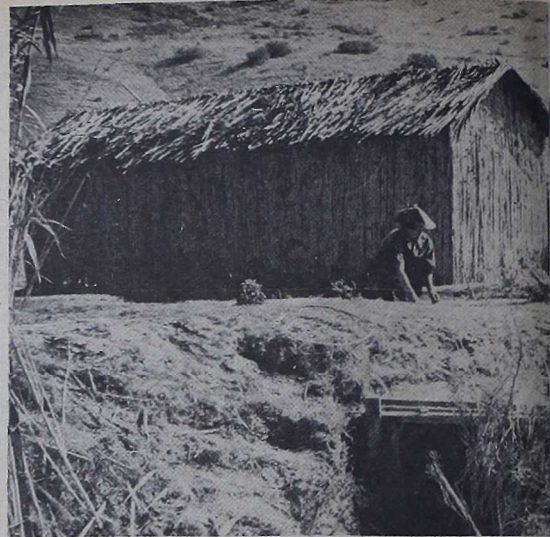

Replacement personnel are paid twice while undergoing staging, once right after their arrival and again on T-14, the next to last training day. Travel pay is liquidated upon your arrival at your ultimate destination.

You can expect to pull duty while in staging. Officers catch Battalion Officer of the Day, perform investigations, act as pay officers, hold inspections, and handle additional duties assigned by Battalion.

Staff NCO's stand Battalion Commander of the Guard, Sergeants and Corporals stand Company and unit Duty NCO.

IF THIS WERE VIETNAM, one more step and this lethal device would come swinging down, changing the Marine's whole trend of thought. But it's Camp Pendleton, Calif., where Marines bound for the Western Pacific learn what's in store for them.

To South Vietnam...

Then you go to Camp Las Pulgas. There you will be reintroduced to your feet as means of locomotion if you have forgotten that aspect of their capability.

You will also learn why Camp Pendleton is known as the Land of Perpendicular Hills. You will go through a whirlwind schedule designed to make sure you are familiar with every individual weapon being used in Vietnam, from the .45 caliber pistol through the flame thrower and the 60mm mortar.

You will throw hand grenades and fire the M-79 grenade launcher, go through a quick-fire range with pop-up targets, and learn how to call in supporting arms fire.

Scouting and patrolling, map and compass use, offensive tactics, and night operations will fill your days and some of your nights.

In real-life settings you will learn all about Viet Cong mines and booby traps. The refinements of the ambush will become part of your knowledge, as will methods of seizing and searching villages.

SERE training - short for Survival, Evasion, Resistance to Interrogation, and Escape - begins on the eleventh day and ends on the twelfth. During SERE you will learn how the Viet Cong treat prisoners, how to organize in a prisoner of war compound, and how to escape capture.

You will also learn techniques for survival including preparation of Asian foods, first aid, land navigation without maps, and evasion.

During all of this you will be doing a great deal of the aforementioned walking.

The remaining time at Staging Battalion is spent polishing up administrative matters, getting shots and combat physicals and various briefings.

On the sixteenth day the Marine rests, usually on a commercial 707 jetliner from the Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, to Kadene Air Base, Okinawa, with a brief stop at Hickham Air Force Base, Hawaii.

At Okinawa the Camp Butler Transient Facility provides transportation to your ultimate stop. Vietnam bound travelers usually fly to Da Nang before they've been on Okinawa 72 hours.

For those who arrived at Staging Battalion at the right time of the month there is a leisurely voyage aboard ship beginning at San Diego and ending at Naha, Okinawa.

There is usually one surface draft a month, taking from 1500 to 2500 Marines. Air drafts depart daily.

And so, as your ship slips quietly away from the dock or your plane arcs gracefully toward the west, you take leave of hectic Staging Battalion U., with the lingering thought that if you'd known then what you know now, you'd have started sweat-suiting it on the old cinder patch at good old Camp Lejeune Prep.

SIGHTING IN ON TARGET at Camp Pendleton with an M-79 grenade launcher, is PFC Hermon Rodgers, who a short time ago was a student at Camp Lejeune's Engineer School.

REPLACEMENT UNIT PERSONNEL test their accuracy throwing "dummy" hand grenades prior to moving to the live grenade range. All who pass through Staging Battalion, regardless of Military Occupational Specialty, get the chance to familiarize themselves with all types of individual weapons now being used in Vietnam.

Lejeune Pugilists Dominate Tourney

Camp Lejeune's Boxing Team swept through the Gastonia, N.C., Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament last weekend like Attila and his Huns. The Marines won eight of ten championships in the open division and were by far the most experienced and best conditioned team entered.

Nearly 100 boxers from North and South Carolina were competing. Teams were present from Johnny Finch of Mount Holly. The Marine was in control of the fight all the way and won a unanimous decision.

In other championship bouts, the Marines made frequent use of the knockout.

Art Lieb won the 112 pound division with a first round TKO over Mike Nixon of Kingstree. Lieb hit him with a short right uppercut to the solar plexis which knocking Mike down with a left hook in the third round.

Also, Lejeune's Robert Stoddard lost a unanimous decision to Jerry Anders, Royal massacred Jody Griffin of Gastonia, knocking him through the ropes and dominating the fight, and Jenkins kayoed Dwight Foster with a right in the second round.

Redden, in his second bout of the tournament, knocked Dick Todd senseless in the second round with a right-left combination. Those punches won the Outstanding Knock-out trophy for Redden.

On the first night of the tournament, Lejeune's Neal Taylor lost a split decision to Chip Hoitzelman of Charlotte in a close match, Charley Dwyer outclassed Andre Renfrow of Charleston, S.C., and Redden clobbered Beaufort Foote with a vicious second round.

Gastonia, Winston-Salem, Charlotte, Mount Holly, Kings Mountain, and Greensboro.

Coach J.C. Davis and his team leave again today for Charlotte and another Golden Gloves Tournament which should provide more entrants and stiffer competition. Davis said he is expecting another strong performance from his Marines.

Art Redden, the Marine Corps' CISM light heavyweight champion, fought the Gastonia tournament's most exciting bout against old rival Ricky Ballenger, a hard-hitting slugger who defeated Red in two of three previous contests.

With an outstanding display of boxing against the stronger, bigger man, Redden won a unanimous decision. Red's plan was to keep moving and avoid being hit by Ballenger's big guns, meanwhile landing jabs and quick combinations.

In the first round, Redden's tactics were obvious confusing Ballenger's style and Art won the round. In the second, Redden gained more control and added force to his punches. Ballenger came out in the final round throwing everything he had, but the Marine champion was able to avoid his punches while still scoring on the bigger man.

Ballenger was bleeding profusely when Redden finished with him.

In the heavyweight division, Charley Dwyer won his first championship as a Marine boxer after several years of being a bridesmaid. Dwyer defeated left Nixon gasping for air and unable to get up.

Billy Jenkins completely clobbered Byron Hager of Mount Holly in the 156 pound division. After staggering Hager repeatedly, Jenkins knocked him down with a hard left jab and won a first round TKO.

In the only championship bout the Marines lost, Pete Osborne of Greensboro defeated Les Brown in a close match that ended in a split decision.

In Friday night's action, Mulett coasted to a unanimous decision over Mike Williams of Charlotte, Zee Lozada blasted Robert McGinnis, and Pete Osborne of Greensboro won a decision over Lejeune's Mike Emerson after

ON YOUR MARK!!! — Major General Joseph O. Butcher, Commanding General, Marine Corps Base, stands ready to begin a race during the Camp Lejeune Devilfish's dual meet with the Indian Wells Valley Swim Club of California. The two teams swam in their respective States and compared results by mail. On the starting blocks are, left to right, Robin Smith, Rebecca Peabody, and Leslie Grubaugh.

Mail Tells Sad Tale, Devilfish Are Beaten

The Camp Lejeune Devilfish were defeated from 4,000 miles away last Saturday by the Indian Wells Valley Swim Team of China Lake Naval Base, Calif.

Each team swam in their home pool, and results in the dual meet were compared by mail. Unofficial tabulation shows the Devilfish to have lost 344-121.

The Devilfish gave their strongest performance in the younger age groups.

In eight and under boys, John Stoffelen won the freestyle, Jack Deyton the backstroke, Scott Grubaugh the butterfly, and Dougald Cameron the breaststroke.

The same four boys won the medley relay and, with Jeff Slemmons subbing for Stoffelen, missed in the freestyle relay by one tenth of a second.

Mark Doran won a double victory in the 9-10 boys, taking both the freestyle and butterfly. Rosemary Davis won the butterfly in the 9-10 girls.

In the 11-12 age group, Mike Howard was first in the backstroke while Kathleen Davis won the girls backstroke and Vicki Doran both the butterfly and breaststroke.

The 11-12 girls relay team of Kathy Davis, Betsy Benson, Patty Bieger, and Vicki Doran won the medley relay. With Martha Herold subbing for Betsy, the same group won the freestyle relay also.

In 13-14 girls, Edith Greenstone won the freestyle.

Devilfish coaches expressed satisfaction with the match and indicated other similar matches will be held.

Rebels, Trojans Win Openers In Boys Basketball League

The Camp Lejeune Boys Basketball League opened its season last Saturday in Goettge Fieldhouse with the Rebels defeating the 76ers 23-20 and the Bruins downing the Trojans 39-26.

The Rebels displayed a well-balanced attack with eight players scoring. The 76ers closed fast in the fourth quarter behind Paul Nichols and Ted Rodarte, but a tight zone defense protected the Rebels' lead until the buzzer.

Richard Dodson and Lloyd Parter led the Trojans over the Bruins with 13 and 10 points respectively. Bob Pehowic paced the Trojans with 11 and played a good floor game.

Games this week are set for Friday night at 6:30 in the 8th Marines gym and Saturday morning at 9 in the Fieldhouse.

R. F. Rhoads Jr.

Each winter after the hunting season, waterfowl banding operations are held up and down the Atlantic Flyway. Camp Lejeune, with its naturally ideal environment for waterfowl, takes an active part in the operations each year.

Three banding stations were set up on Base this year, under the supervision of Base Game Protector Charles Peterson and State Wildlife Patrolman Paul Metters.

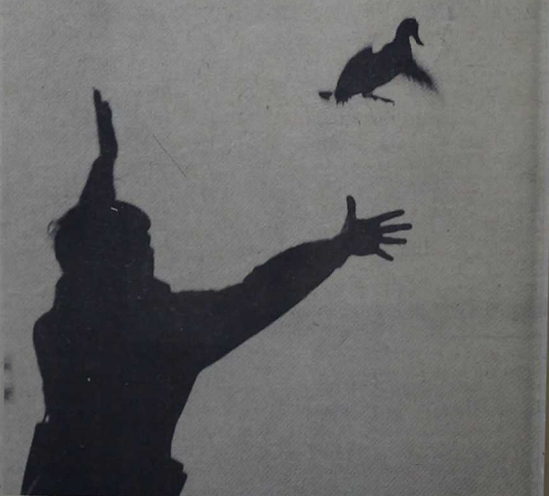

Waterfowl, usually ducks, which are caught in wire traps are banded about the leg. Those caught which have been previously banded have their numbers recorded.

Hunters are also requested to send bands found on any ducks they kill to the Fish and Wildlife Service.

From this information, migratory habits of the waterfowl, percentage of kill during the hunting season, population trends, and lifespan can be determined. In turn this information is used to determine the dates of hunting seasons and bag limits.

Staff Sergeant B.F. Brooks talks with Amateur Radio Station in Vieques while trying to patch a call from Camp Lejeune.

Free Calls to Marines in Vieques and Guantanamo

You mean it won't cost me anything to call him in Vieques?"

If you are a Marine stationed at Camp Lejeune or within local calling distance of the base you can call people in Guantanamo Bay or Vieques, free of charge.

All you need to do is call the Base Amateur Radio Station, Staff Sergeant Benjamin F. Brooks, NCOTIC of the station, assisted by Private First Class Stan Siems, performs this service by making phone patches for Marines, their dependents and their friends.

All you do is give them the name of the person and their unit. They will do the rest. If your information is correct and he is there, chances are you will be speaking to him in a matter of hours.

According to Sergeant Brooks, after receiving this information their procedure is to call the Amateur Radio Station in either Vieques or Guantanamo Bay and give them your information. As soon as they get in touch with him they will call back. Once you have been connected...speak on...a phone patch has been completed.

This method can be worked in reverse too. Let us say you are stationed in Guantanamo Bay. You call the station there and give them the name, number and place you wish to reach. They will call the station which is nearest the phone number you would like to call. Once they have been contacted they will call back. If it's long distance you will have to call collect.

It will still save you some money. This savings is accomplished through the use of non-appropriated funds, which are used in maintaining and operating the station.

This facility may be used by those in the military and their dependents. Again, all you need is a name and a number or an address and the stations will do their best to complete the call.

These calls can be made from state to state and to any country that has an agreement with the United States for third party phone patches.)

Though they cannot phone Vietnam or Olinawa, they can send messages. In order to send messages, you use the same procedure you would for a phone patch. They will take your message and send it to Washington, D.C. From there it will be sent to Camp Pendleton and on to Hawaii. From that point it will be called to Vietnam or Okinawa, depending on the address. This usually takes 24 hours.

At 4:00 p.m., all Marine stations meet on the same frequency and pass messages and general traffic from one to the other. Some of these stations are Guantanamo Bay; Vieques; Albany, Georgia; Yuma, Arizona; Camp Smith and MCAF, Hawaii; HQMO, Arlington, Virginia.

Sergeant Brooks and Private Siems do their own maintenance and repair. Siems is presently in the status of on-the-job training, with prior training in the field before enlisting.

Sergeant Brooks is a school trained electronic technician, whose past experience in amateur radio includes the Amateur Stations at MCRD, San Diego; Electronic Hobby Shop, Camp Pendleton, Calif.; Camp Smith, Hawaii; and Amateur Radio Coordinator, Okinawa, a job he also holds here as coordinator for 2d Marine Division.

How long does this procedure take? The time element depends on how many have put in their request ahead of you, the importance of the call and general traffic at both ends.
