Brig Gen Williams Takes Force Troops Command

Brigadier General John E. Williams assumed command of Force Troops, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, from Major General John G. Bouker, in colorful change of command ceremonies here Monday.

Colonel Harold Wallace, Commanding Officer, 2d Force Service Regiment, FFLant was commander of troops, and representatives of all Force Troops units participated in the elaborate ceremony.

Major General John G. Bouker, former Commander, will report to the Commanding General, Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, to assume the duties as Deputy Commanding General, Fleet Marine Force, Pacific (Forward.).

Representing the Commandant of the Marine Corps at the colorful ceremonies was Lieutenant General A. L. Bowser, Commanding General, FMFLant, who delivered the Commandant's welcome to the new commander and praise for General Bouker.

Commanders from many of the units based at or around Camp Lejeune were in attendance for the ceremony.

Special guests attending were Major General and Mrs. Ormond R. Simpson, Commanding General, 2d Marine Division; Major General N. J. Anderson, Commanding General, 2d Marine Aircraft Wing, Cherry Point; Brigdier General and Mrs. Marian E. Carl, Commanding General, Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point.

In addition other special guests included Senator and Mrs. Albert Ellis, Mayor and Mrs. Bruce Teachey of Jacksonville and Mayor and Mrs. Lupton of New Bern, North Carolina.

Prior to assuming his Force Troops command, General Williams was assigned with Headquarters, U.S. Marine Corps as Head, Objectives Branch, Policy Analysis Division.

General Williams is a native of Collingswood, New Jersey and is a 1941 graduate from the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland. In December of 1941 he was commissioned a second lieutenant.

During World War II, General Williams served in the Gilbert Islands as battery commander with the 8th Anti-Aircraft Battalion. In 1945 he became part of the Marine Detachment aboard the U.S.S. California serving in Okinawa and the East China Sea.

General Williams' past assignments include: Flag Secretary for the Commander in Chief, Northeast Atlantic Mediterranean, London, England; Military Secretary to the Commander in Chief, Allied Forces Southern Europe (NATO); Commanding Officer, 4th Battalion, 8th Marines, Camp Lejeune; various billets at the

Scouts Take Charge At Lejeune Units

Area Boy Scouts celebrated their 57th Anniversary last week. Part of the celebration included Honor Scouts filling major command billets for the Base, 2d Division, and Force Troops last Friday.

Ceremonies before Friday included a Cub Scout Father and Son Banquet at the Tarawa Terrace Community Center Wednesday night followed by a Boy Scout Explorer Father and Son Banquet at the Tarawa Terrace Community Center Thursday night.

The Commanding General billets were held by Robert Chapman, for Major General Joseph O. Butcher, Commanding General, Marine Corps Base, Norman Stivers, for Major General John G. Bouker, Commanding General of Force Troops, and Douglas W. Curry, for Major General Ormond R. Simpson, Commanding General of the 2d Division.

The Honor Scouts arrived on the base at noon Friday and ate in Messhall 54.

After they finished eating they watched a movie and heard a speech by Major General Joseph O. Butcher.

The scouts then reported to their assigned honorary billets. Each scout held his billet for about two hours.

2d Tankers Deploy For Pickett Training

Marines of the 2d Tank Battalion, Force Troops, will deploy to Camp Pickett Virginia training area today.

The Tank Battalion under the command of LtCol. William T. Unger will move into Virginia where they will participate in an operational exercise dubbed TANDEX 2-67.

The 2d Tank Battalion, is a unit within Force Troops, which provides the big punch with heavy armored support for the Fleet

Marine Force, Atlantic.

It's M-48 (Medium) tanks with their 90mm guns and the M-103 (Heavy) tanks with 120mm guns are capable of destroying heavy armor and major field fortifications for Marine landing forces.

In addition the tank battalion utilizes flame tanks to add shock action to the infantry assault.

While at the U.S. Army reservation, Camp Pickett, the battalion will conduct training and operations from an individual tank crew level to company and battalion level to increase the proficiency and combat readiness of the tankers.

The U.S. Army reservation in Virginia affords the drivers and tank crews an opportunity to operate in terrain that ranges from the flats to hilly slopes, to ravines dotted with flowing streams and heavily wooded areas.

The tankers will also meet the challenge of cold weather, combined with ice and snow while operating at Camp Pickett.

Upon the conclusion of the 45-day exercise the tank battalion will return to Camp Lejeune, and resume its normal training schedule.

Driver Education Program Lauded by Nat'l Council

Camp Lejeune was cited by the National Safety Council for having more personnel attend driver training classes than any other military installation.

The letter sent to Major General Joseph O. Butcher, Commanding General, Marine Corps Base, from Mr. Howard Pyle, President of the National Safety Council read in part:

"I could not let this pass without expressing my admiration for the degree of practical concern for the safety of the personnel of your command demonstrated by your making the Defensive Driving Course available."

The Defensive Driving Course is compulsory on the Base for all persons, military (17-24) and dependent and civilian (18-24) who are licensed to drive motor vehicles of any type on the Base.

The program was installed by order of Major General H. Nickerson, Jr., then Commanding General of Marine Corps Base.

The Defensive Driving Course consists of eight separate one hour courses. All aspects of driving are reviewed and good driving habits are presented.

Mr. James Lasko, the Base Safety Director, is convinced that over 90 per cent of all traffic accidents are caused by carelessness on the part of the driver. It is for this reason that the Defensive Driving Program was initiated.

More than 10,000 drivers have taken the Defensive Driving Course since it began. Statistics are being compiled by the Provost Marshal's Office and Data Processing to see how much accidents are reduced through this driver education. A report will be issued in May 1967, the end of the first full year of the program's operation.

MAJOR GENERAL JOSEPH O. BUTCHER, Commanding General, Marine Corps Base, confers with Robert Chapman, honorary Commanding General last Friday. During the ceremonies Chapman was promoted to Eagle Scout by General Butcher, in connection with National Boy Scout Week.

Tax Info

Joint income tax returns may be filed without the husband's signature if he is currently serving in Vietnam.

The serviceman's wife must attach a note to the return stating that her husband is in the Armed Forces in Vietnam and cannot sign the return.

Div Band Marches For Mardi Gras Celebration

By CWO Bill Driscoll

At one o'clock on a slate-grey New Orleans Sunday afternoon, Gunnery Sergeant William H. Cox turned his back to the 2d Marine Division Band, took the drum major's place at the head of the Krewe of Mid-City parade, and smartly signalled with a downward stroke of his glittering mace.

At that moment the band stepped off on the first note of "Dixie," the crowd cheered, and the bottom dropped out of the sky.

Not since Moses parted the waters had nature so precisely responded to a human command.

But GySgt. Cox was not altogether pleased with the sudden new scope of his influence, because for the next three and a half hours of the parade he was unable to turn off the torrent he had apparently started, no matter how frantically he manipulated the big baton.

It was an ominous beginning to the band's fourth consecutive annual appearance in the Mardi Gras festivities. They had arrived the day before, Saturday, Feb. 4, after a five-hour flight from Cherry Point, and had been billeted at Callendar Field Naval Air Station. At that time it had been fairly balmy, with Spanish moss swaying in a soft breeze.

But on Sunday's bus ride downtown for the first of three parades they would lead, the band members took bets on whether or not the gathering clouds would unload on them. Although the pessimists won out, the enthusiastic welcome the band received from the crowds made up for much of the discomfort.

The downpour continued through Monday, lifting just a few hours before the band's next appearance, this in the Krewe of Proteus parade, lasting from 6 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. Freezing weather had replaced the rain.

The final big appearance, the Krewe Of Rex parade, was played under cloudless skies and also in freezing weather. It began at 10 a.m. and lasted until about 2 p.m., and it saw the biggest crowds. Frequently the press of the spectators had the band playing shoulder to shoulder, quarter-stepping along as the throngs impeded progress.

In each parade the band preceded other musical units and dozens of brilliantly decorated floats. On each float were costumed Krewe members tossing aluminum doubloons, strands of beads and other trinkets to the screaming, grabbing multitudes.

In the reviewing stand for the Rex parade the Mayor held forth, blasting out from a loudspeaker with countless bits of information about the passing units and floats and resplendent under his tenneghat hat.

The more sophisticated wandered through the tapestried halls of the Roosevelt Hotel either watching the costumed elite or listening to a talented chanteuse at the elegant piano bar.

For a busman's holiday the bandsmen could seek out another parade, the popular, riotous Krewe of Zulu, a happy satire on all the other parades put on by the Zulu Aid and Pleasure Club, a Negro fraternal and burial society.

The Zulus wear grass skirts, wave spears, and arrive in a boat via the Mississippi River at the foot of Canal Street, claiming to have just arrived from darkest Africa.

Instead of trinkets the Zulus toss coconuts at their admirers, sometimes cracking a few skulls, but all in fun. Their parade habitually deviates from its announced route, defying those who search it out and surprising those who don't.

The day after Mardi Gras is Ash Wednesday, the first of 40 days of Lenten fasting and penitence. It is the day everything else has been pointing for, with the public Mardi Gras season of the past two weeks a time to enjoy life before the austerity of Lent.

The spirit of Mardi Gras is infectious but hard to define. Perhaps one former king of the zany Zulu parade said it best for everyone: "I love," he said, with a majestic wave toward his subjects, "I love to percolate down the boulevard, followed by my entire residue."

Monday, as General Williams took command of Force Troops, FMFLant, he also celebrated his 47th birthday, probably one of the most memorable birthdays of his career.

GUNNERY SERGEANT William H. Cox leads the 2d Marine Division Band at the head of the Krewe of Rex Parade on Mardi Gras Day in New Orleans. Freezing temperatures numbed the musicians, who in an earlier parade had received a thorough drenching. It was the fourth consecutive annual appearance of the Band in the Mardi Gras extravaganza.

Reserve Seabees Receive Training

Seabees of Naval Reserve Mobile Construction Battalion 23 from throughout the Fifth Naval District are nearing the end of two weeks of intensive military training at Camp Lejeune.

The 375 Reserve Seabees, from Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland, are learning defensive tactics from a special Marine Detachment of Base Headquarters and Service Battalion.

They are renewing their sharpshooting skills with the M-14 rifle and the .45 caliber pistol, and are becoming familiar with a variety of more sophisticated weapons such as the 3.5 rocket launcher, the 81mm mortar, the M-60 machinegun and the 106mm recoilless rifle.

Culmination of the training for RMCB-23 came on February 15, when the Battalion defended an airfield against aggressors in a day and night operation.

The two weeks training is part of a program to keep the Battalion in peak condition of readiness for a call to active duty should the need arise.

Throughout the year, the men of RMCB-23 hold extended weekend training each month with Reserve Seabee Divisions in major cities throughout the Fifth Naval District. Each of the 15 divisions which form RMCB-23 has personnel who have served with the Seabees in Vietnam, and the roll call includes many veterans of World War II and Korea.

The Battalion is commanded by Commander Robert G. Jackson, USNR, of Portsmouth, Virginia. A team of evaluators judging the performance of the Battalion while at Camp Lejeune is headed by Captain Gilbert D. Henning, USNR, of Effingham, Illinois.

Four other Reserve Seabee Battalions from Naval Districts East of the Mississippi will follow RMCB-23 at Camp Lejeune in a training schedule that will last until mid-April.

Construction phases of the training -- and this is the prime task of the Seabees -- have been held at the home of Atlantic Area in Davisville, Rhode Island, and at Goshen Pass, Virginia, where an extensive Boy Scout Reservation was constructed.

Amphibious training was carried out at Little Creek, Virginia ... and this is the second time the Battalions have trained with the Marines at Camp Lejeune.

This is an important year for the Seabees and for the organization of which they are a part, the Navy Civil Engineer Corps. It is the 25th Anniversary of the Seabees, and the 100th Anniversary of the Civil Engineer Corps.

New Commanders In 8th Marines; 2/2

Colonel William H. Mulvey relieved Lieutenant Colonel Curtis A. James Jr., as Commander of the 8th Marines, 2d Marine Division, during a formal change of command ceremony Feb. 10.

LtCol. James assumed duties as Regimental Executive Officer.

Col. Mulvey, who was G-3 Plans before assuming his new command, was born in Marlboro, Mass. He is a graduate of Catholic University, Washington, D.C., and holds a master of science degree in international affairs from George Washington University, also in Washington.

Entering the Marine Corps Reserve as an enlisted man in 1942, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1944. He served as a platoon leader with the 3d Marine Division. He participated in the campaigns on Guam and Iwo Jima, earning the Silver Star Medal for actions on Iwo Jima.

In 1945 he joined the 1st Marine Division and was promoted to 1st Lieutenant. Lt. Mulvey served with the 1st Division until 1947 when he was assigned to the Inspector Instructor Staff, New London, Conn. In 1948 he was transferred to Marine Barracks, Washington, D.C., where he served as Guard Officer and Commanding Officer of Ceremonial Company.

Following his tour at Headquarters Marine Corps in 1964 he was sent to the Naval War College, Newport, R.I. Completing his course of study at the college, Col. Mulvey served with the United Nations command, U.S. Forces in Korea in the J-3 Division.

Promoted to colonel in 1966, he joined the 2d Marine Division as Assistant G-3 Plans.

Lieutenant Colonel James T. Breckinridge assumed command of the 2d Battalion, 2d Marines, 2d Marine Division, relieving Lieutenant Colonel Francis W. Tief at a change of command ceremony here Feb. 10.

LtCol. Tief has been assigned to the 2d Marine Division G-2 section.

LtCol. Breckinridge enlisted in the Marine Corps Reserve in 1943. He later attended the Officers Candidate School in Quantico, Va., where he was commissioned a 2d Lieutenant in 1945.

In 1946 he was integrated into the regular Marine Corps and became a Platoon Commander in Company E, 2d Bn., 2d Marines, which in 1948 conducted the first Mediterranean deployment made by the 2d Marine Division. He was also promoted to 1st Lieutenant that year.

From October 1948 until June 1951 he was the commanding officer of the Marine Guard at the American Embassy, Paris.

Upon leaving the American Embassy he was assigned as a platoon commander with Company A, 1st Battalion, 5th Marines during the Korean Conflict.

He was an advisor for the 1st VN Battalion until 1957 when he returned to the United States for duty with the Personnel Procurement Branch, Headquarters Marine Corps, Washington, D.C. Serving there until 1960, he entered the College Degree Program at the University of Maryland and was graduated in 1961 with a degree in Military Science.

During the next five years he was to serve as the Assistant Chief of Staff with Task Force 79 in Okinawa, Inspector and Instructor with the 12th Infantry Battalion, USMCR, Pittsburgh, Pa., Marine Corps Command and Staff College, Marine Corps School, Quantico, and also Assistant Director of the 2d Marine Division, Redeye Missile Troop Test Group.

Dental Health

What causes swollen gums in children? I thought only adults got gum diseases. Can a virus cause some types of gum disease?

There are many reasons for swollen gums in children, and I would suggest you see your family dentist for a complete diagnosis and course of treatment.

Gum disease -- the adult kind -- is often found in children. One of the more dangerous aspects of this type of disease, for both adults and children, is that it is painless until it actually becomes damaging. As a result, the victim is often unaware of the affliction until some harm has been done.

A primary cause in gum disease is the bacteria--not viruses--in the oral cavity which unite with food particles and saliva to form a hard, crust-like material called calculus which clings to the teeth. This substance collects more bacteria, which eventually irritate the gums. As the gums become infected they begin to recede and leave pockets of infection which continue to destroy the tissue.

As the disease progresses, the gums and the underlying tissue and bone are gradually destroyed. At this point, the teeth often become loose, and it is necessary for the dentist to extract them.

Occasionally orthodontic treatment can be a caustic factor in the development of gum disease. For example, bands on the teeth may make it difficult to clean the teeth properly. Im-packed food may irritate the gums and cause them to become inflamed. This problem should not arise if the dentist's instructions for home care are followed.

One of the drugs used in epilepsy treatment--Dilantin--often causes the gums to grow over the teeth. Brushing the teeth with a hard bristled brush can further irritate these overgrown gums.

While some day there may be a vaccine or some other immunologic agent to prevent gum disease, the best preventive we have today is good oral hygiene. This means brushing the teeth regularly after eating.

Equally important, regular dental care will go a long way toward protecting your gums from disease. The dentist or hygienist will clean the calculus from the teeth to keep it from growing and prevent it from eventually infecting the gums. The dentist will also determine how often you need this scaling and recommend cleaning at specific intervals. Remember, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, especially where gum disease is concerned.

NHA-ISA Drive Begins Feb. 21

With the President's endorsement, the campaign of the National Health Agencies and the International Service Agencies Joint Fund Drive starts here on Feb. 21.

The Kick-off Rally will be held in the Camp Theatre at 9:30 a.m. on Feb. 21. The main speaker will be Major General Joseph O. Butcher, Commanding General, Marine Corps Base.

Representatives from both agencies will be at the rally to explain the functions of the agencies. Films will be shown and campaign material will be distributed.

Programs of medical research, community services to patients and public and professional education are aided.

In the U. S. and overseas, all Armed Forces members and Federal employees will be asked to help the health agencies reach their goal of 100 per cent, generous giving.

MRS. J. T. GARCIA, (holding daughter Michele) wife of Force Troops Captain John T. Garcia, points to her hometown in Iceland. Chaplain A. R. Saeger, his wife, Mrs. Garcia and Mrs. R. T. Wallace, will present a program on Iceland at the next meeting of the International Wives' Club on Friday, Feb. 17, at 10 a.m., in the Paradise Point Officer's Club.

OWC Bridge

The OWC Bridge Club will meet on February 21 at 9:15 a.m. in the COM (open). Play will begin at 9:30. No reservation is necessary, so come for a pleasant morning with your friends.

USO Notes

Movies for the weekend of Feb. 17-19 are "Partners", "Twelve to the Moon", "Get Yourself a College Girl" and the original version of "The DI".

The Hospitality Hour will be held at St. Anne's Episcopal Church on Sunday at 2 p.m.

OFFICER CHANGE -- Mrs. J.R. Motelewski (left), incoming Red Cross Chairwoman, is welcomed aboard the Base by Mrs. Edwin B. Wheeler, the honorary chairman, and Mrs. John G. Bouker, the former chairwoman who has been transferred to Hawaii.

Activities

OWC Group II

February 24 promises to be an interesting and enjoyable evening for patrons of the Commissioned Officers' Mess, Paradise Point Officers Club. The Marine Corps Supply Schools and the Field Medical Service School will host "A party A brewin".

BLT 3/8 Pulls Liberty in France During Cruise

WITH THE U.S. SIXTH FLEET THE MEDITERRANEAN (DE-AYED) — Marines from Battalion Landing Team 3-8, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Robert L. Nichols, visited their first port of call in the Mediterranean area as the amphibious landing force for the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

The flagship for BLT 3-8, the USS Freemont pulled into Toulon, France, a leading naval arsenal. Toulon is situated 410 miles southeast of Paris and 30 miles southeast of Marseille.

Toulon became an important stronghold during the reign of Henry IV from 1589-1610. During the War of the Spanish Succession, it resisted a combined attack by Austrian and Sardinian forces and English and Dutch fleets.

Napoleon Bonaparte first distinguished himself here during the French Revolution. The Marines could plainly see by the harbor, the people and the buildings the historic and military value that Toulon holds.

On the first day of liberty, the ship was not able to dock at the French naval yard but a liberty launch was put in the water and despite strong winds, biting cold and snow flakes, Marines and sailors saw this beautiful city.

Once ashore, the Marines wasted no time in getting to know the city and its occupants. Shopping was good and the servicemen found out that excellent bargains were to be had in perfumes, jewelry and leather works.

Aside from historical interests, the BLT Marines found time to organize soccer and basketball teams and participate in several games with local French teams.

The excellent pier-side facilities and nearby athletic fields also provided space for the Marines to catch up on their close order drill, physical conditioning and play some intramural contests.

The day had come when the ships pulled out of Toulon and Marseille harbors. Every Marine and sailor felt that maybe he had left something behind in those ports which he would probably never see again.

Only 30 miles away the rest of the fleet was visiting Marseille, France. Marseille is the second largest city in France and its most important seaport. The city is said to be the oldest in France. It is a contrast between old and new.

Along with modern buildings one finds narrow, winding streets and ancient structures dating back many centuries. It possesses considerable charm and local atmosphere, with its picturesque old harbor, its attractive drive along the sea and its tree-lined boulevards. It holds many of the same interests as Toulon, beautiful Cathedrals and lovely museums of fine art.

While in France, Marines and sailors got a chance to go touring in two different spots. One was to Paris, the capitol of France, and the other to the French Maritime Alps on a skiing tour.

In the hearts of everyone was a warm glow for France. There was no time to daydream however, as preparation began for the next big amphibious operation on the island of Corsica.

LET US RAMBLE TOGETHER

Thought you might like to ramble with me on a few matters. For the past few hours I've been preparing sermon themes for Lent and feel a need for a coffee break.

Did you hear that Mortimer got hit by a car and died almost instantly? He was little Jon's favorite pet - the small, friendly dog that always slept in his room. Lately Mortimer had started to bark at cars, and the road was icy and he must have lost his footing. Of course, Jon was broken-hearted and his dad's first impulse was to talk of heaven, but it seemed best to assure him of what Daddy was assured - that Mortimer had suffered but a few moments and that life is made up of disappointments as well as happiness and God has promised to help us with all of them. Jon had broken his leg and had it in a cast. He was using crutches, so that made things worse.

Just remembered that when I used to ask my youth church study classes what the difference is between a human and a dog, the members would invariably say: "A dog has four legs" or "A dog has a tail" or "A dog has hair all over its body". I used to say that the main difference is that a human being has a brain and a dog doesn't. The youth would argue! Usually one of them had a dog that reacted to him more quickly than some of his friends.

Recently I heard a lecturer say, "The one thing that makes us human as over against animals, is that we are responsible creatures; we have to render an account of our lives to God. God has taken on human form in Christ to free us from our irresponsibility and to enable us to live responsibly." I haven't time to report more of that lecture, but I was given something to think about. Haven't you also found yourself grappling with this task of truly being Human?

Coffee break is over. Thank you for wandering in thought with me.

Chaplain Vernon E. Aves

'KOLD KILO'S' TRAINING

CAPTAIN WILLIAM OSGOOD, one of the instructors at the training center, demonstrates the kick-turn on snowshoes to members of "K" Co, during the first phase of training for the Camp Lejeune Marines.

SKIS have to be waxed to be able to slide over the snow and, here, two Marines from "Kold Kilo" work together to get their boards in top running condition.

Leathernecks from "K" Company, 3rd Battalion, 2d Marine Regiment, returned to Camp Lejeune Feb. 5, after a two-week cold weather indoctrination course at the Marine Corps Mountain Warfare Training Center, Bridgeport, California.

"This company," said its commander, Captain Phil Felton, San Francisco, Calif., "is one of the best trained in the 1st Marine Corps today."

"Just last November, we attended the Jungle Operations Course while 3/2 was on the Caribbean cruise. Now we've learned to fight a cold weather war under some pretty bad conditions."

"Kold Kilo" arrived at the training center's base camp, 7,000 feet high in the rugged and picturesque Sierra-Nevada range of northern California, on the evening of Friday, Jan. 1.

They were greeted by the season's first heavy snowfall. "White stuff" was to come down for three more successive days, and intermittently, throughout their two-week stay.

The 220-man company went through some long days while at the center. When they weren't in the field on tactical and non-tactical bivouacs, their working day began at six in the morning with physical training, and ended at nine at night after classes or practical application exercises.

They were kept on this tight training schedule because there was a lot to learn in a very short time.

"Kilo" Company was taught all the finer points of cold weather mountain warfare, from snowshoeing and skiing to keeping a unit functioning in the cold, wet atmosphere.

Their ultimate goal was to learn how to function as an effective fighting force in the unfamiliar surroundings.

A long way from the flat, sea level environment of Camp Lejeune, they had to work in some of the most hilly and treacherous terrain around, at altitudes ranging from 7,000 to 9,500 feet.

It took a while for the men to get acclimated to the thin oxygen at the camp, and many found themselves short of breath just climbing the stairs from the messhall to the billeting area.

But, a carefully planned and well executed P. T. program kept the Marines into top shape.

Long hikes on snowshoes and skis were the order of the day just about every day, for the troops. Whether they were "tasked" heading for a definite objective, or just on a training hike, they were constantly on the move.

FIRST LIEUTENANT MANSEL WOOD, Company K's executive officer, pulls on a thermo boot after spending the night in a sleeping bag at the Marine Corps Mountain Warfare Training Center at Bridgeport, California.

WITH THEIR SNOWSHOES strapped to their mountain packs, "K" Company plods through knee deep snow to their first bivouac area, over 9,000 feet above sea level.

shoes and skis were the troops' main mode of transportation during through the course. They were on snowshoes by the end of the first training day, and skis by the end of the second.

Most of the men, this was the first time on either of the mountains.

Skis were the harder of the two to master. They were learned slowly for the first few days, while learning the concepts and styles of military cross country skiing on the flat. Then they took to the hills for climbing and downhill skiing.

They learned the most economical way to climb hills, and then come down them without, as one of the instructors put it, "pulling their necks."

They learned how to pull 200 pound sleds along two foot-wide tracks, how to live comfortably in their snowy surroundings and, most important, how to employ the techniques of cold weather survival.

A sidelight to the exercise was that the company did not eat rations while in the field. They lived on a diet of cheese, candy, dehydrated meats, potatoes, cereals, and fruits.

Five days rations was carried in a small paper bag by the troops, and the weight of the canned rations normally employed, was reduced by adding water to the dehydrated foods and cooking them on mountain stoves. The men were encouraged to eat throughout the day on candy, cheese, and cookies.

Aggressors, some of the center's instructors, played their part to the hilt. Dressed in uniforms similar to those of the Red Army, they set up ambushes all along the company's path.

The company's mission was to take a guerrilla command post, as the site of an enemy radio station.

On a long cross country march, the company moved into the area on the evening of the second day. After formulating their attack, the company dug in for the night.

Shortly after first light the Marines, on skis, swooped down the mountain side with weapons blazing, overran the enemy position, neutralized the radio station. After "mopping up" the area, they began the long 14-mile hike back to base camp.

THE "WHITE GHOSTS" of "Kilo" Company tow a sled full of equipment up a steep hill on their way to a night bivouac area.

HOT CHOW is a treat for any Marine while in the field and, for the Leathernecks from K-3-2, it is no different. The troops ate this meal in the midst of a snow storm during a break from their downhill skiing practice.

Boxers Sweep Charlotte Tourney

Charlotte, N.C., was invaded by Marines last week.

The Marines in question were Camp Lejeune's Boxing Team and what they invaded was Charlotte's 35th annual Carolina Invitational Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament.

They not only invaded the tourney, they dominated it. Drawing large crowds both nights, Coach J. C. Davis' pugilists placed 12 boxers in the finals and won six championships. There would have been more trophies in the bag, but 10 of the 12 Marine finalists were fighting other Marines.

Coach Davis and his team left Camp Lejeune yesterday for Winston-Salem where they will compete in the Carolina AAU Tournament this weekend. On Feb. 25, the team will meet a team from nothing on brotherly love and went after each other with no quarter, much to the delight of the 3,000 fans.

In the bantamweight class, Lejeune's Ray Mulett won a TKO over Bucky McGinnis of Mount Holly. Mulett had too much speed for McGinnis and was scoring at will with combinations. The referee stopped the bout at 1:58 of the second round.

Charley Davis won the featherweight division over teammate Roosevelt Hamilton in a close match. Both boxers have been around the ring a long time. Davis is primarily a boxer, while Ham is a stalker and a hard puncher. It was Davis' ability to score points boxing that won him a split decision.

Mike Emerson, a much improved fighter, made a gallant try to upset teammate and All-Marine Robert Lozada in the lightweight division. Lozada's greater experience enabled him to control the fight and score more points, but Emerson landed some hard punches. Lozada won a unanimous decision.

The only Marine to lose to a non-Marine was welterweight Richard Royal, who dropped a hard-fought battle to Pete Osborne, a big figure in Carolina amateur boxing for some time.

Both Royal and Osborne scored well with combinations and body punches throughout the match, and both were aggressive. Osborne won a split decision.

Art Redden continued his winning ways in the light heavyweight division, defeating teammate Hinton Wilson. Hinton boxed well, but Redden's greater strength and ring experience gave him the decision.

In the heavyweight division, Lejeune's Charley Dwyer and John Thompson squared off. Dwyer, another boxer who has come on strong lately, scored well with jabs and combinations while Big John landed several haymakers. Dwyer threw the best punch of the bout, a hard right in the second round, and won the decision.

In the only final not involving Marines, Gusta Gaines of Kingstree outpointed Chip Holtzclaw of Charlotte for the middleweight title.

Eight Marines boxed in the semi-finals on Friday night.

Rosie Hamilton completely

dominated his match with George Nixon of Kingstree, hitting him with just about every punch in the book and staggering him again and again.

Emerson, showing his improvement, won his first match of the year by coasting past Robert McGinnis for a unanimous de-

Royal took a split decision from Louis Lowery, a run-and-hit fighter who featured fancy footwork.

Osborne, who defeated Royal in the finals, fought the most exciting bout of the semi-finals against Marine Robert Stoddard. Osborne had a slight advantage in the first round, and in the second, blasted Stoddard with a left hook that required the Marine to take a mandatory eight-count.

Stoddard went into a bob-and-weave and survived the round. In the third, Osborne came out to finish the Marine off, but Stoddard stunned Osborne with a quick combination and went on the attack. Stoddard was in control of the fight at the bell, but lost a split decision.

Coach Davis commented that in a longer fight Stoddard would probably have won because of superior condition.

Lejeune middleweight Billy Jenkins lost a split decision to Gusta Gaines of Kingstree in a fight that was "controversial" and "unpopular with the crowd", according to Davis.

Hinton Wilson, one of Lejeune's classiest boxers, upset Ricky

Ballenger, a hard-puncher who is one of the toughest light-heavyweights in the Carolinas.

Ballenger won the first round by a slight margin, mainly because he changed his style and boxed rather than slugged. In the second round, he changed back to his old style. This was a mistake.

Hinton began scoring at will

with jabs and quick 1-2 combinations. The third round belonged entirely to Wilson, with the Marine adding force to his punches. The judges returned a unanimous decision.

In the other two bouts, both in the heavyweight division, Dwyer coasted to an easy victory over Junior Bentley of Lenoir and Big John Thompson outpointed John Finch of Mount Holly.

Lejeune Outdoors

by Charles Peterson

The 1966-67 hunting season has been another safe and productive one for Camp Lejeune.

At sunset on Saturday the quail, rabbit and turkey season comes to a close. Everyone involved is always happy to see the season open. Some hesitate to admit it, but most sportsmen are usually happy to see the season end.

Anyway, the womenfolk always are. Oops! Maybe that statement should have gone some place besides here.

Seriously, though, in just a few more days it'll be time to grease up the old gun and store it until next season.

Happy memories and fireside chats will keep experiences of the past season alive until opening day next fall.

There were no hunting accidents reported this season on base or in Onslow County which is always welcome news to everyone. All persons that hunted here are hereby commended for practicing safe gun handling while enjoying this favorite pastime.

There was a slight increase in the amount of wildlife harvested at Camp Lejeune during the season. The most noticeable increase was evident in the number of squirrel and duck taken by hunters.

Fifty-three more deer were taken this season than last season. A portion of this increase was due to conducting antlerless hunts this year. Some of this number would not normally have been taken during regular hunts when male deer with visible antlers are taken.

Game harvest figures on the base are recorded for the number of deer, bear, and turkey taken by hunters. The following is the completed report of the amount of game harvested and total number of permits issued for the 1966-67 hunting season.

Deer - 436
Bear - 4
Turkey - 5

Hunting- Fishing permits issued:

Seasonal 1,464
Daily 448
Resale (daily) 406

Eighty-eight antlerless deer were taken. Of this number, seventy-seven were females.

Seven deer were known to have been taken illegally, and seven fawns were taken from the woodlands of the base. Two deer were believed to have died from natural causes, and thirty-four deer were killed by motor vehicles.

ARMENDARIZ

Winston-Salem in a dual match there.

Carolina Golden Gloves champions from the Charlotte action are Lawrence Armendariz, Ray Mulett, Charlie Davis, Robert Lozada, Art Redden, and Charley Dwyer.

Armendariz won the flyweight title by defeating fellow Marine Art Lieb in a very close bout. Both boxers have been All-Marine champions. Armendariz was more aggressive in the final round, and this probably decided the fight.

In all the championship bouts where Marine fought Marine, the fighters have sparred so much together that they know each other's style too well to often land damaging punches.

The Marines, however, spared

1/2, 2/6 Leading Intramural Cagers

With only a couple of weeks before the playoffs, two undefeated Division cage teams are still in charge of the Base-Division Intramural Basketball League.

The American League is led by 1-2 with a 5-0 record. Service Bn, and 3-6 are in hot pursuit with four victories and one loss. The next highest team is Supply Schools with a 2-3 mark.

Leading in the National League is 2-6 with a 6-0 record. Headquarters-10 is second with a 4-1 mark and Base Materiel is third with a 4-2 slate.

The league champion will be determined in a playoff tournament tentatively scheduled for February 25.

Here are last week's results: Headquarters Bn, socked 1-6 69-45 with Johnson scoring 18, Smith 17, and Lee 13 for the winners. Byers led 1-6 with 15 points and Underwood added 12.

League-leading 1-2 smashed Supply School 100-42. Halftime score was 51-13 as the Supplymen couldn't get untracked. James led 1-2 with 22 points and had plenty of support from Jackson with 19, Zadel with 17, and Saffron with 16. Nash led Supply Schools with 11, all of which came in the second half.

Krueger's hot hands poured in 36 points for Med Bn, as they crushed the Rifle Range 81-41. Stangas added 21 for Med Bn. Murphy was high for the Rifle-men with 15 markers.

A game can't get much closer than Naval Hospital's clash with Recon. The Hospital won 62-61 in overtime. Nickles led the Ben Casey boys with 32 points, six of which came in the overtime. Sisk added 16 more. Ripley was Recon's big gun, also with 32 points.

Maybe you can get closer. In regulation time, 2-6 nipped Base Mat 100-99. Base Mat came back from a 15-point deficit at halftime to almost catch top-running 2-6. Spurlock poured in 43 points for Base Mat, the week's individual high, and Bragg had a fine game with 31 points, but these big guns weren't enough to stop 2-6's balanced attack.

Brooks led 2-6 with 35 points, Little had 15, Edwards 14, Nelson 13, and Moton 12.

Headquarters-6 was down 40-37 at halftime against Shore Party Bn, but rebounded for an 81-75 triumph. Mangum led Headquarters with 27 markers and Savicek added 24 more. Bowen and Sanders each scored 12. For Shore Party, Caldwell had 24 and Buschbacher 17.

Headquarters-10 put the skids to Anti-Tank Bn, 81-73 with Washington showing the way with 21 points. Evans scored 18 and Roger 13 in support. For the Anti-Tankmen, Chapron had 18, Harris 15, all in the second half, and Chunn 12.

Shore Party Bn, became the victim of 2-6's legion of scorers as 2-6 rebounded from their squeaker with Base Mat, Shore

Party was bounced 105-79. Edwards had 23, Little 20, Stuart 14, Brooks 12, Martins 11, and Moton 10 for 2-6. For Shore Party, Caldwell took game honors with 29 points and Buschbacher and Hammock each dropped in 13.

Service Bn, zapped ITR 81-61 behind Menke's 28 points. Dausch led ITR with 19 and Robinson notching 16.

Engineer Bn, downed H&S Bn 80-74 after trailing 35-34 at the midway point. Murray was tops for the Engineers with 32 points while Studebaker chugged along for 16. Lewis had 20 and Benton 18 for the H&S.

Service Bn, blew Supply School right out of the gym, 111-70, as Menke fired in 28 points and Lee 22. Price led Supply Schools with 18.

1-6 piled up a 32-23 halftime lead over 3-6, but 3-6 came roaring back to win the game 64-59. Underwood led 1-6 with 27 points while Rainey paced the winners with 16.

ITR slipped past Engineer Bn, 70-67 with Neal leading the Camp Geiger troops with 26 points. Murray topped the Engineers with 30 points.

Headquarters Bn, annihilated H&S Bn, 120-50. The halftime margin was 62-22. Crooks with 23 and Johnson with 20 led Headquarters while Louis topped H&S with 13.

In other games, Base Materiel whalloped Recon 102-74 and Medical Bn, squeaked by the Naval Hospital 67-65.

"It was the best of times. It was the worst of times—". Now while we're sure that Old Charlie wasn't referring to ten-pin activities this might just as well apply to our Bonnyman bowlers who for the past week or so have been hot on the tournament trail.

Some of us did great. Some of us made our averages anyway. And then there were some of us who just plain fell flat on our faces.

Don Hubbard, however, came through with flying colors at the Mens State Tournament in Wilmington when he turned in a big 605 series with handicap in the Singles Division.

It looked as though Lloyd James and Harry Coates might win a little something extra when they both nearly earned their ABC TriPLICATE awards. Lloyd's games were 200 - 200 - 202 and Harry bowled 189-189-193.

We understand that Dave Lausterer and Herman Stackhous participated too.

This coming weekend will bring to a close the Womens Eighth Annual Jacksonville - Lejeune City Tournament, so we'll be able to give you all the results then.

As usual our bowlers continued to do some pretty big things in the leagues this week.

In the Scratch Tiros Mike Henitz rolled a smashing 692 series with games of 200 - 258 - 234! In the Marine Corps Base Intramurals, the Pin Pushers bowled a 1008 game scratch!

Myrt Kensler, with a 113 average, bowled a 177 game! Bob Ausherman converted the 5-7-10 split and Lloyd James turned in three 600 series in one week!

High series in the leagues were bowled by Paul Helsing 600, Carol Fromcer 504, Ken Postlewait 574, Connie Alonzo 584, Harry Coates 550, Anna Coates 529, Barbara Scott 562, Barbara New 417, Kathy Traub 555, Jo Dougherty 487, Dottie Givens 570, R. Hayes 590, J. Wentworth 562, Bill Bass 615, H. Stackhous 646, G. W. Frazier 613.

Leading with high games were Jo Dougherty 181, Dottie Givens 201, R. Hayes 225, S. Wohl 226, Paul Helsing 226, Carol Fromcer 200, Ray Caves 225, Connie Alonzo 210, Al Elfreth 213, Jewell Mariotti 193, Fran O'Meara 193, Barbara Scott 200, Juanita Dietz 165, Vicki Hill 214, Lopez 250, H. Stackhous 245, Caves 245.

REMINDER! The High Series-High Game Club Tournament will begin this Saturday. High Game qualifications will start at noon sharp and High Series qualifications will be rolled at 2:00 p.m.

All bowlers having won a high game or high series club emblem from Bonnyman since the start of the Winter season are eligible to participate. Entries close at midnight tomorrow.

White Oak Falls

Devilpups Smash Quantico

The Devilpups of Camp Lejeune High School whalloped traditional rival Quantico 79-61 last Saturday in Virginia to extend their season record to 10 victories and five losses.

In other games last week, the D'pups played one of their best games of the season in blasting White Oak 76-49 and lost to another old rival, Swansboro, 74-58.

Against Quantico, the Devilpups led all the way, but didn't assume a big lead until late in the game. Coach John Griffen complained that his defense was not up to par, and that his team played a ragged game.

For Quantico, it was another lesson in frustration. The Warriors have won only one of 12 games.

Lane Argetsinger led the Lejeune attack with 23 points and David Ogle followed with 22, hitting a torrid 75 per cent of his shots from the floor. Ronnie Caves scored 14 and Rick Gutekunst 13.

Paul Doppel led Quantico with 25. Benny Goebel added 17 more.

The Devilpups have now beaten the Quantico cagers two years in a row and if they win next year will retire the rotating trophy.

Against White Oak, who the Devilpups defeated earlier this year 99-90, Lejeune was in command all the way. Griffen's charges held a 41-20 halftime margin. "They play an outstanding game. The fast break was working beautifully, the defense was effective, everything worked," the Coach said.

Argetsinger scored 25 in that one, with Ogle firing in 21. Gutekunst scored 12 and Ray Ogle 7. David Rowe led White Oak with 13 points.

Swansboro Wins

Swansboro put together a red-hot first half that doomed the D'pups, who were hoping for an upset. The Pirates raced to a 27-8 first quarter lead and were on top at halftime 42-16.

The Devilpups reassembled themselves at halftime and outplayed Swansboro in the second half, outscoring the home team 42-32.

Argetsinger with 21 and Gutekunst with 14 were the only D'pups to score in double figures. For Swansboro, Wayne Norris had 32 points and Craig Guthrie 15.

Lejeune Marine Wins 8-Mile Race

A Marine from Camp Lejeune, Second Lieutenant Bill Clark, won the D.C. Roadrunners' eight mile race held last weekend at the University of Maryland.

Clark's winning time was 45:49; 6. Herb Lorentz was second, and Lieutenant Mike Manley of Quantico was third.

A former miler for Notre Dame, Lt. Clark is Supply Officer for the 2d Field Artillery Group, Force Troops.

Carolina AAU Sets Track Meet

The North Carolina AAU Track and Field Championships have been scheduled for May 20 this year at the Greensboro Senior High School Stadium.

The Championships are one of the top track and field events in North Carolina, and have attracted athletes whose performances have compared with the best in the nation.

Marines interested in entering the meet should write to Director, North Carolina AAU Track and Field Championships, Box 8066, Greensboro, North Carolina for entry blanks.

Liberty Bound?

Going on liberty in the Washington, D. C. area?

The Soldiers, Sailors, Marines, and Airmen's Club, (SSMAC) 1015 L Street, N. W., is open 24 hours a day all year to active duty enlisted men on leave or traveling through Washington.

Sleeping facilities cost $1.50 a night. Food is served at wholesale cost. The club has 208 beds, showers, a recreation room, library, lounge, and patio. Last year 32,000 servicemen used this club. One third of these men were Marines and Sailors.

ELECTRONIC CALIBRATION

By: PFC J. S. Addington

At Camp Lejeune, more than a million dollars of electronic gear, three Marine specialists, and a civilian calibration technician are combined to form the Electronics Calibration Lab. It is their mission to assure the accuracy of all Marine Corps test and measurement equipment. Suspected defective electronic gear is tested with other specialized electronic equipment. This is the story of the men who test the testing equipment.

The Electronic Calibration Team is a section within Electronics Maintenance Company, 2d Force Service Regiment, Force Troops.

The Calibration Team and its laboratory were set up in July 1963 answering the radio technician's intriguing question, "How do I know which is defective, my radio or my testing equipment?"

All electronic testing equipment within the Fleet Marine Force, Force Troops, the 2d Marine Division, and all East Coast Marine Reserve Units is tested periodically by Force Troops' Electronic Calibration Lab.

IBM cards are kept on all testing equipment and periodic reports are submitted from the Data Processing Unit to the laboratory on the testing status of all testing equipment.

Normal tests run on the average piece of electronic testing equipment takes the laboratory approximately four hours. All testing gear is checked and calibrated at least once a year by these Force Troops specialists.

Tests conducted include frequency readings, power currents, circuits, voltage, and resistance.

Calibration equipment must be three times as accurate as the gear being tested. The specialized equipment utilized by the Calibration Team is so accurate that if a frequency were a second your watch would lose only one second in every ten years.

Humidity and temperature controls are a must in the lab. Temperature must not vary more than two degrees from 22 degrees Centigrade and humidity must be a constant 50 percent.

The momentous task of the Calibration Team becomes apparent when we consider that after testing the equipment the technician must make the necessary adjustments to correct any defective readings.

Warrant Officer Melvin J. Hamilton, a graduate of the first Marine Corps calibration class, is Officer - In - Charge of Force Troops' Calibration Team. WO Hamilton's Team consists of Gunnery Sergeant Edward K. Fisk, Staff Sergeant Franklin A. Ingraham, and Mr. Charles Brown.

Each is highly specialized and have completed at least 14 months of formal electronic training. This training includes completion of the highest form of electronic training offered by the military school system.

The school is located at Pomona, California and utilizes such delicate equipment as scales capable of measuring the weight of a flashlight beam.

Now that we know the Electronic Calibration Laboratory assures the accuracy of the radio technician's gear we are still left wondering, "Who assures the accuracy of the Calibration Team's equipment?"

The answer lies at a Laboratory in Norfolk, Virginia which periodically checks Force Troops' Calibration equipment. The Norfolk Laboratory is in turn calibrated by the National Bureau of Standards and the National Bureau of Standards is the authority.

If they say it's accurate; you assume it's accurate!

GUNNERY SERGEANT Edward K. Fisk adjusts one of many dials amid a tangle of connections as part of the elaborate calibration process.

STAFF SERGEANT Franklin A. Ingraham manipulates a slider amid electric cords, dials, meters, and an oscilloscope

IN A QUIET, LONELY, yet crowded corner of Force Troops' Calibration Lab, Staff Sergeant Franklin A. Ingraham works surrounded by electronic calibration equipment.

WARRANT OFFICER Melvin J. Hamilton scans an electronic circuit in a manual and determines the next phase of the calibration task.

CALIBRATING IS A quiet task, utilizing facts, figures, and complex equipment. Despite the calm hundreds of unheard, unseen electronic circuits are awaiting the touch of the calibration Technician.
