"Military Courtesy on this base STINKS!" This is how one commander here described it.

We have to agree with this view wholeheartedly by virtue of just looking around us and seeing the complete disregard of some individuals of the simple hand salute.

I overheard and witnessed one young NCO say to an officer who was asking him a question. . . "No Sir, I don't normally stand at attention when I talk to an officer."

Something was lacking from this man's training and somewhere, by his attitude the meaning of the words "Discipline and Courtesy," are just two other words.

We have at Camp Lejeune, six general officers within the three major commands. Each of them when riding in an official vehicle, has displayed a large red flag bearing his rank insignia in white, mounted on the front right fender of that vehicle.

Everyone of us knows, or should know, that proper "Military Courtesy" requires us to acknowledge our commanders with a hand salute.

Still, it happens very often that the flag will be disregarded and someone will not salute. We know that it isn't because the flag wasn't seen, for it can be seen from as far away as four to five blocks.

It is understandable if sometime you miss an officer's vehicle decal on the bumper, but there is no excuse for not seeing a general officer's flag.

It takes so little effort to pay the proper respect to senior officers. It may be time that some of these individuals at fault, pull out that Guide Book or maybe stay awake during that next class on Military Courtesy and Discipline.

DO YOUR PART

The roads and grounds which lace Camp Lejeune are among the best of any Marine Corps Base.

The trouble is, some of us don't care what the grounds look like as long as there is someone who will fix it up after it is torn up or cluttered.

The grass areas which surround the dependent housing projects on and off the base and those which line the roadways are subject to constant upkeep by maintenance crews because of carelessness.

The only exceptions for parking on grass areas on the roadway are: when you experience a mechanical breakdown or you stop momentarily to pick up or discharge passengers, according to Base Order P5560.2B.

Along Holcomb Boulevard, notice on your way home, how many ruts, patches of dead grass, or tire marks have been carelessly made.

When you get to your quarters, look around and see how many automobiles are parked on the grass either for washing or for the night. It's closer to home that way!

Take a little pride in the appearance of our Base, and at the same time think of the manpower loss and money waste created by just pure carelessness.

DON'T park on the grass except under the aforementioned circumstances. DO your part.

THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF BOOKS

by Suzanne McLaurin Connell

As we approach the end of one year and the beginning of another, our thoughts turn naturally to nostalgic songs like "Auld Lang Syne"; the mythological god Janus, with his two faces; and statements like "The past is prologue".

An appropriate way to commemorate the Old Year and to welcome the New Year is to read the words of great authors about this occasion. For example, the following make excellent reading for this time of year:

"Eves while we sing, he smiles his last,
And leave our sphere behind.

The good Old Year is with the past,
O be the New as kind!"

Bryant - "A Song for New Year's Eve"

"The merry year is born
Like the bright berry from the naked thorn."

Hartley Coleridge - "New Year's Day"

"Like yonder stars so bright and clear
That praise their Maker and they move,

And usher in the circling year"

Schiller - "Song of the Bell" (English translation)

"Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring, happy bells, across the snow:

The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true."

Tennyson - "In Memoriam"

"Orphan Hours, the Year is dead:
Come and sigh, come and weep!"

Merry Hours, smile instead,
For the Year is but asleep,

See it smiles as it is sleeping,
Mocking your untimely weeping"

Shelly - "Dirge for the Year"

So, as we plan to "ring out the old, ring in the new", let's be sure to include reading as one of the fine ways with which to celebrate an awe - inspiring occasion such as the passing of Time.

from the PROVOST MARSHAL

by LtCol. O. Ivar Svenson, Jr.

Since this is the beginning of the new year, I'd like to start out with some information and a few reminders for you, so that we can make it as happy and pleasant a new year as it should be. Let's begin with a word or two about Christmas presents:

GUNS. Many of you have received or given to your children that gun they have been wanting for so long. It may be an air rifle, CO2 pellet gun, .22 rifle or pistol for target shooting or a shotgun for hunting. Whatever kind it was, there is a Base Order telling you when, where, and how you may use it aboard the Base. REGISTER ALL FIRE-

ARMS with my office (BO 5500.1); ONLY SHOTGUNS CAN BE USED FOR HUNTING anywhere on this Base and then only as specified in BO 1710.20. RIFLES, PISTOLS, BB GUNS, PELLET GUNS CAN NEVER BE USED TO HUNT; AND MAY ONLY BE FIRED IN AUTHORIZED AREAS, UNDER CERTAIN RULES OF SUPER-

VISION as specified in BO 5500.1. For your own protection, as well as the safety and well being of your friends and neighbors, be sure to study these orders carefully before shooting any gun on this base.

BICYCLES are a favorite present for the children. For your protection, BO P5560.2B specifies when and where bicycles may be ridden. Equally important are the safety requirements for riding at night. Now that the days are so short, darkness comes early. I have yet to find a bicycle in the housing area that has the required headlight in WORKING ORDER. The base patrols and MPs have orders to take any bicycle being ridden after dark without proper lights and reflectors, and bring it to the PMO (bldg 37) where it will remain until the proud parent attaches the light and/or reflector to it. Why not save yourselves the inconvenience. A BICYCLE SAFETY PROGRAM will be conducted soon providing free inspections and safety material. Take advantage of it.

UNHAPPY HOLIDAY SURPRISES took place for a number of persons who failed to exercise good judgment and COMMON SENSE in security of their money, valuables, and their homes.

CARRYING LARGE SUMS OF MONEY ON LIBERTY AND LEAVE. The most expensive cases involved Marines carrying large sums of cash on their person. Advance pay and travel pay on change of station orders... shipping over pay... a Christmas loan... involving sums of $350, $600, and $1,000. They were robbed and naturally drinking was involved. Commanders might emphasize counseling their men to convert large sums of money to postal money orders, cashiers' checks, travelers checks or some other form of exchange that can only be negotiated by the owner.

CAR SECURITY. In addition to the cases of larceny of automobiles, are many instances of "JOYRIDING" by the youngsters. They love to drive, and are very grateful when you leave the keys in the ignition. In the course of investigating a case of vandalism, the owners of two cars didn't even know that their cars had been stolen and returned until we told them two weeks later. For your benefit, let me quote BO P5560.2B, Chapter V, Section 3:

"UNATTENDED VEHICLES". "a. Before any vehicle shall be left unattended, the engine shall be stopped, the ignition locked, the key removed, the brake there- of effectively set, and when standing upon any grade, the front wheels turned to the curb or side of the road." If you comply, we can just about wipe out joyriding aboard this base.

RECORD SERIAL NUMBERS. PUT SOME IDENTIFYING MARK ON YOUR VALUABLES. In many cases of larceny, particularly auto parts, fancy hub caps, ornaments, etc., the victim is unable to identify his property when recovered. This creates a problem in prosecuting the culprit. Did you know your tires have a serial number? Have them listed some place other than in the glove compartment of your car.

FOUND. The Chief Investigator in the Criminal Investigation Unit (7-5828) has two items which were turned in, and we have received no report of loss. A large aluminum ring about 9 inches in diameter with "MAC" stamped on it and 15 keys at-per lights and reflectors, and bring it to the PMO (bldg 37) where it will remain until the proud parent attaches the light and/or reflector to it. Why not save yourselves the inconvenience. A BICYCLE SAFETY PROGRAM will be conducted soon providing free inspections and safety material. Take advantage of it.

Starlite Hero Tells O'Malley's Actions

Cpl. M. D. Schoen
When Sergeant Robert E. O'Malley performed the acts of heroism that won him the Medal of Honor during Operation "Starlite" on Aug. 18, 1965, a Marine currently serving with the 2d Division was with him.

That man, Private First Class Robert L. Rimpson, was Sgt. O'Malley's Grenadier. He is now a member of Headquarters and Service Company, 1st Battalion, 8th Marines.

Rimpson won the Silver Star Medal for heroic actions of his own in Operation "Starlite," the first set battle of the war.

He said his unit, the 3rd Battalion, 3rd Marines, hit the beach at the Van Tuong Peninsula on the morning of the 18th in amphibious tractors.

"We received pretty stiff resistance as soon as we hit," recalled Rimpson. "It sort of slackened off then, and we were wondering what the scoop was. We soon found out. The VC had encircled us."

The Marines advanced inland in hope of contacting the communists. Sgt. O'Malley and his squad ended up near the hamlet of Au Cu'ong 2.

The area around the village was laced with trenches, and it was here that the heaviest fighting of the day took place.

"By this time," Rimpson continued, "our squad had taken pretty heavy casualties. We were getting hit from all sides by just about everything the Cong had."

"It was then that O'Malley jumped into the trench and started killing VC. He ran along the whole length of the trench line, killing people as he went. He ran out of ammunition and had to use his bayonet on one."

During the course of the action the Marine Corps' first Medal of Honor winner since the Korean War was wounded three times.

"As soon as we cleared the village," Rimpson said, "we went to our left flank to try to help out another outfit."

"O'Malley saw that they were in trouble, so he gathered everyone he could find and went to their aid. This was while he was wounded.

He helped evacuate some of the men, according to Rimpson, and then went on with the fighting.

"Things got sort of hazy for me after that," says Rimpson. "I was hit twice myself and was taken out of the battle."

"I didn't see O'Malley again until February '66," said Rimpson. "I was going into a sub-unit on Okinawa and he was going home. We talked over old times and had a beer or two."

"The next time I saw him was Dec. 8, just after he was awarded the medal. I was one of the men asked to go to Washington, and then to Texas for the ceremonies."

"I never really expected anything like this would happen. In fact, I never even expected we would be in the middle of a war. Things like this just seem to come about."

Mike Schoedler. In the Senior Division: 1st place, Arnie Johnson, 2d place Dennis Meegan.

Dental Health

PREVENTIVE DENTISTRY CONCEPT

This is the first in a series on dental health published in cooperation with the Base Dental Department, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week, February 5-11.

When man was created it was not intended for him to lose his natural teeth early, thereby causing him to go through life with artificial teeth or no teeth at all. Some people have the opinion they are going to lose their teeth anyway and desire to have them extracted in order to get it over with. It should be kept in mind that artificial teeth are only substitutes for your natural ones and can never function as efficiently as the natural teeth.

The time to prevent the untold consequences of dental diseases is now. The action necessary to prevent dental problems requires following the rules of preventive dentistry. The first thing to be recognized is that teeth require daily care if they are to remain strong and healthy. This consists of eating a proper diet low in sweets and proper toothbrushing immediately following each meal. Regular visits to the dentist are essential to promptly care for any dental condition that does develop.

Preventive dentistry actually begins before the child is born. The prospective mother should have a proper diet, including the drinking of fluoridated water; and keep as healthy as possible to insure her child's developing a strong set of teeth. After the child is born, drinking fluoridated water will decrease dental decay as much as 60%. You should brush your child's teeth until proper brushing is carried out without your assistance.

The child will have all 20 of his teeth when he is two or three years of age and should make his first trip to the dentist at this time. The dentist will check the child's mouth and correct any dental disorders that may have developed. Oral hygiene instructions, topical application of a fluoride solution (if the drinking water is not fluoridated) and cleaning the teeth may be needed.

The most critical period of the child's dental health occurs about the age of six. Four permanent Nineteen future American citizens took one step closer toward their citizenship when they completed special classes at Midway Park Community Center December 15.

Major General John G. Bouker, Commanding General, Force Troops was guest speaker for the graduation ceremonies.

Sponsored by the Camp Lejeune Chapter of the National Sojourners Inc., the graduation climaxed 13 weeks of classes in American History and the English language.

Navy Lieutenant Harold E. McNair, Supply Co., 2d Service Bn., 2d Division was the American History instructor while Mrs. Brenda Cox and Mrs. Hazel Aycock taught English.

General Bouker and Lt. McNair presented Diplomas of Certification in American History to: Yuko Alexander; Guiliana Boyett; Nobuko Carlo, Sumiko Haggard, Toshi Herrin, Anita Hudson, Kazuko Keith, Marina Knagge, Maria - Linda Monfette, and Angelika Smith.

Graduates and recipients of certificates in English were: Rie Bitting, Christine Davis, Haruko

Estes, David Johnson, Fusae Mikulsky, Misao Rich, Reiko Schalch and Yukiko Steffy.

The classes were conducted by the Base Education Officer.

FUTURE CITIZENS - and graduates of citizenship classes conducted by the Base Education Office and sponsored by the Camp Lejeune Chapter of the National Sojourners, pose with Guest Speaker Major General John G. Bouker, Commanding General, Force Troops after graduation ceremonies at Midway Park Community Center.

Dancing Classes Begin January 12

A second semester of ballet classes for children and teenagers, starts January 12, at Marston Pavilion.

This year classes are being taught by Marilyn Mess. She has received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Montclair State College, New Jersey and a Master of Arts degree from New York University in the field of Fine Arts and Dance, respectively.

Classes are an hour long and consist of exercise, technique and dance composition. Children are grouped into classes according to their ability and age levels. Some modern dance instruction is inclined in the intermediate and advance classes. For further information call 6-6152.

Pre-Natal Classes Held in Theater At Naval Hospital

A new series of Pre-Natal classes will begin Thursday, January 12, in the U. S. Naval Hospital Theater. These classes will be held each Thursday for four weeks from 1 to 3 p.m.

Subjects covered will be layettes, care of the expectant mother, labor and delivery, hospital routine, and methods of infant feeding. The classes will be supplemented with visual slides, demonstrations and free literature.

The classes are taught by a Registered Nurse, and provided free of charge to Navy and Marine dependents by the Camp Lejeune Auxiliary and the Navy Relief Society.

Chaplain Speaks

A NEW LOOK; A NEW YEAR

In the Book of Revelation there is a verse which is very apropos to use for a text at the beginning of a New Year. The verse reads, "Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth; for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea was no more."

The story is told about an old painter of Sienna, Italy, who stood for a long time in silent meditation before his canvas. Finally, he turned away, saying, "May God forgive me that I did not do it better." Like that old painter it would perhaps be well for us at the end of this year 1966 to exclaim, "God forgive me for not doing my tasks better this past year."

However, not one of us can afford to live in the past, brooding over our sins of omission and our sins of commission. As we look ahead at 1967 and a new heaven and a new earth, it is necessary for us to cultivate a spirit of optimism. Too many of us have been inclined to feel that this world is a stage and all of us are actors enacting a woeful tragedy. A large company of us see only a dark future ahead for civilization. To be sure we cannot close our eyes to all that is wrong and like Robert Browning's famed Pippa Passes declares, "God's in His heaven and all's right with His world." There are errors that have to be rectified; there are injustices that have to be reconciled; there are wrongs that have to be righted. But in 1967 much can be done towards making this a better world-much can be done to bring to pass a new earth. And each one of us can make a small contribution.

The prophet Isaiah was able to scan the horizon and see a new heaven and a new earth because, as he relates in the sixth chapter of his prophecy, "I saw also the Lord." He saw things that he did not like, things that dismayed him, but also saw the Lord. And so 1967 is a great year ahead, for, we can see our God helping us to create a new earth.

Chaplain Barker C. Howland

Women In Space? It Could Happen

In the very near future the eyes of the world will be focused on the Cape Kennedy Space Center and the first of the Apollo manned space shots.

It has also been said that America's first flight to the moon could occur as early as 1968. The climax to this $23 Billion program is to come when an Apollo spacecraft is launched by a giant Saturn V rocket.

With the moon shot not to far in the future, space scientists have turned all eyes toward the future possibility of sending support personnel to the moon.

When this occurs we will find members of the Bioastronautical Operational Support Unit deeply involved, supplying aerospace surgeons and aerospace nurses for such moon flights.

Training is already underway, and several doctors are already qualified, now training is being conducted to prepare the aerospace nurses for such an eventuality.

Two of the women currently in training for such a flight or related duties are Air Force Captains Judy Hutchins of Ho-Ho-Kus, New Jersey and Carol Carrodo of Utica, New York.

The two women are enrolled in the Aerospace Resident Nurses training program, which consists of 52 weeks of extensive training just as the astronauts receive.

Recently the nurses visited the Marine unit from Force Troops, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, who are a part of the Launch Site Recovery Force, at the Cape Kennedy Space Center.

The nurses must be fully acquainted with every facet of the space program and their training takes them from the shores of the Atlantic, on the Cape, to the Space Headquarters at Houston, to research facilities around the nation, and back to the space center for more training, training such as a day on the seas with the Marines and their amphibian vehicles.

While with the Marines of the 2d Amphibian Tractor Battalion the ladies were hosted by Major Donald Bieger, the Launch Site Recovery Force, Surf Commander.

WOMEN IN SPACE??? It could very well happen and perhaps not too far in the future. When the women go into space you will probably find (left to right) Air Force Captains Judy Hutchins and Carol Carrodo.

FOR SAFER DRIVING. Many of our accident reports contain the phrase "vehicle equipped with seat belts but not in use." PREVENT SERIOUS INJURY. . . FASTEN YOUR SEAT BELTS. We are getting some of those frosty winter mornings, and I have noticed many drivers of private vehicles not properly clearing their windows for all-around vision. This is against all rules of good judgment and common sense as well as BO P5560.2B. You are subject to a traffic citation as well as inviting an accident. The worst violators are in the Paradise Point housing areas.

HAVE A SAFE AND HAPPY NEW YEAR. . .

BASE CERAMICS HOBBY SHOP

Pouring slip into the mold.

A birthday coming up for an aunt, a dining room table which needs a centerpiece, or maybe just a knickknack to add that touch to the living room. . . problem solved! You need $3 and a Friday night lesson at the Base Ceramics Hobby Shop.

The Ceramics Shop is a busy place because more people are discovering the secret of its success. It is an inexpensive way to accomplish something and still have a good time.

A Friday night class beginning at 6:30 and finishing up at 8:30 p.m., includes a short practice application examination, and gives you the qualification to carry the Ceramics Card. This entitles you to the use of the facilities in this shop.

To begin your first piece of ceramic you need tools, purchased with the afore mentioned $3, and a mold. The hobby shop has over 400 molds in a variety of sizes and different types to choose from. You may take out three at a time as it is easy to pour three in one evening.

You have your mold. Into this you pour slip, a greyish liquid. Let it sit for about 20-25 minutes, then pour the excess clay out. Let it drain for about 30 minutes. Then take the top off the mold, letting it sit for another 20 minutes. At this point you lift out the piece carefully and let it sit for 24 hours, before cleaning it.

To clean your ceramic piece use a special cleaning tool and a sponge. It is now "greenware". It's ready to be put in the kiln for firing. . . You may turn in only three pieces to be fired at one time. The heat of the kiln reaches an approximate 2100 degrees and is fired for eight hours, then left in the kiln to cool for another eight hours.

The piece of bisque, as it is now called, is ready to be either glazed or detail painted. If you decide to glaze it you have a choice of either clear or colored glaze. There are about 200 colors and kinds of paint and glaze. Then you would turn it back into the Kiln Room to be fired for the second time, after which your product is finished.

If you decide to do detail paint work you will send it in to be refired after completing work with "underglaze". One day later you pick it up from the Kiln Room and apply clear glaze. You fire it for the third time and the following day you may pick up your finished piece of ceramic.

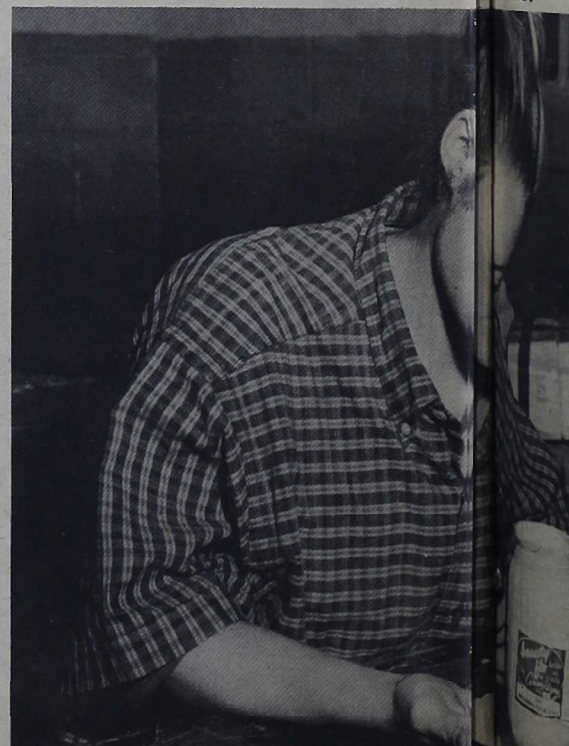

At this time the Ceramics Hobby Shop is equipped with 11 "automatic shut-off kilns," making it the largest Ceramic shop on any base in the Marine Corps.

The Ceramics shop is open for your use on Tuesdays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 3 to 10 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The shop is closed Sundays, Mondays and holidays.

PUTTING IT UP—Teams representing the 8th Engineer Battalion, Force Troops, and Headquarters and Service Battalion, Marine Corps Base, battle in the Christmas Holiday Tournament sponsored by the 2d Marine Division.

IN HOLIDAY CAGE TOURNEY

Engineers, MCSS Reach Semifinals

Marine Corps Supply Schools and the 8th Engineer Battalion advanced to semi-finals of the winners bracket in the 2d Division Holiday Basketball Tournament here at Camp Lejeune last week.

The Supply School nipped Headquarters Battalion 73-70, while the engineers stopped Base Materiel in the double-elimination tourney 85-74.

Supply School outlasted the Headquarters' five in a game which saw the lead change hands 13 times and the score tied six times. Headquarters had an eight-point lead early in the first half but only led by 31-30 at the half.

Trailing 69-67 in the final two minutes, Supply Schools' Adlea Cambell tied the score, and foul shots by Otis Nash and Ron Titus put the game away.

Cambell scored 22 points in leading the Supply school to its third tournament victory. Nash had 19 and George Lee added 12 for the winners, while Jerry Webster led the Headquarters' five with 17 points.

In the second game, fouls played a major role, as the 8th

Cage League Needs Coaches

A shortage of coaches and referees is presently a roadblock to the formation of a basketball league at Camp Lejeune for dependent boys 12-14 years old.

Major E. E. Hodges, in charge of the proposed league, said five men who had volunteered to coach received orders and were transferred within one week.

"We're not going to enroll boys until we get the coaches," Hodges said. "But we hope to find them and start our practice next week."

He projected January 28-29 as possible dates for the first games.

If brought into being, the league would be open to all boys within the age limit with no restrictions on height or weight. The organization would be similar to the Junior Bantam Football League, which recently ended its season.

Games would be played in Goette Fieldhouse on weekends.

Anyone interested in coaching or refereeing should contact Major Hodges at 7-3273.

Engineers converted 29 of 48 foul shots to 14 of 29 for Base Materiel. The game was marred by 57 personal fouls, 32 against Base Materiel. Six players fouled out, four of them from Base.

Except for the opening minutes, the Engineers led all the way. Their biggest lead came with 10 minutes remaining in the game, at 62-47.

At that point, Base Materiel outscored the Engineers 15-3 during a three-minute spurt which was spearheaded by Roland Spurlock's six points, Jerry Donahue's five and Bill Bragg's four points. This closed the Engineer lead to 65-62. But once again fouls took their toll and the Engineers pulled ahead for its final margin of 85-74.

Marine Corps Supply Schools edged out 2d Engineer Battalion 62-57 and downed Reconnaissance Battalion 67-50 in its first two games of the tournament. Meanwhile, Headquarters Battalion easily defeated Medical Battalion, 90-60, and 1st Battalion, 6th Marines, 85-67, before losing to MCSS.

The Engineers bested Headquarters, 10th Marines, 75-64, and then clobbered 3d Battalion, 6th Marines, 104-50, enroute to the semi-finals. Base stopped Supply Battalion by a slim margin, 55-51, and downed Hospital Battalion, 66-55.

Rifle and Pistol

The Camp Lejeune Rifle and Pistol Club will hold its monthly meeting Monday evening at 7:30 in the Chinese Room at the Camp Cafeteria. New members are welcome.

Non-Boxer Aids Marine Pugilists

The boxing team sweats and strains through the workout, skipping rope, shadow boxing, sparring, but this member sits quietly on a bench, wearing regular clothes and a pair of wrap-around sun shades.

The rest of the team earns their laurels in the ring, but this member never steps through the ropes in boxing gear.

And yet, Coach J. C. Davis of Camp Lejeune's undefeated boxing team praises this individual as one of the hardest workers on the team and says he is an indispensable member of the team.

The subject of this paradox is Corporal T. H. Ziegler, and his job, as he puts it, is "taking care of the bodies." He is the team trainer.

Ziggy, as the team knows him, is responsible for care of cuts, swollen hands, strains, sprains, and anything that might affect the health of his fighters.

"If someone is hurt, I look at his problem. If I can fix it, I do. If it's something I can't handle, I send him to sick bay," Ziegler explained.

When a fighter is cut during a bout, Ziggy applies vaseline and determines how bad the damage is. If the fighter can continue, he closes the wound with a substance provided by sick bay known as "flexible colodion."

"It's like clear fingernail polish, and it seals the cut and stops the bleeding," he notes.

Ziegler, a native of Newport, Rhode Island, says his ability with injuries is a result of Marine Corps first aid training, experience, and three years as a student of karate. In karate, Ziggy reports he has learned much about the body and seen many minor injuries and their treatment.

He backed into the job of trainer when a series of injuries ended his boxing for the 1963-64 season. Ziggy was a welterweight on Camp Lejeune's championship team that year.

The boxing ring has not seen Ziggy again as a contestant. He began in karate and now proudly wears a green belt.

In addition to working on cuts, Ziegler helps prevent hand injuries by making sure each boxer wraps his hands properly, extending the tape over and beyond the knuckles of the fist.

Before each bout he makes sure the boxer is greased and his shoes scraped. The grease prevents "glove burns", and the scraping puts a rough edge of the soles of the boxing shoes, helping maintain rosin on the soles and thus firm footing for the fighter.

Ziegler also must make sure that each fighter wears his mouth-piece, individually made for him by Corpsermen in Building 15.

Sore muscles are treated to a Ziegler rub-down. Anytime a fighter has aching sinew, he qualifies for the treatment, day or night. And Ziggy must also rub down each fighter for 10-15 minutes before each fight.

This is designed to relax the fighter and build his confidence, but for Ziggy it's a lot of hard work. With the fights set to begin at 7:30, he begins his rub-downs at 5 in the afternoon.

If Ziggy weren't such a friendly type, his teammates might dislike him, for he plays the role of "Big Brother." If a boxer heaps too much good Marine Corps chow on his tray, watch out, Ziggy's there.

As dietician for the team, Ziggy passes the word on over-eaters to Coach Davis, who assigns a little extra roadwork for the offenders.

The coach is greatly appreciative of his trainer. "He is a great asset to the team. He's very conscientious and gives that little extra. He works as hard or harder than any fighting member of this team."

When not TAD to the boxing team, Ziggy is a welder in Support Company, 2d Engineer Bn. He hopes to work as a heavy construction welder when he leaves the Corps.

ZIGGY ties a glove for heavyweight John Thompson after making certain his hands are properly wrapped.

Lejeune Outdoors

by Charles Peterson

Some of the 1966-67 hunting seasons come to an end this week. The season for taking bear, deer, squirrel, and wild boar ended this past Monday.

Duck, woodcock, and snipe may be taken until sunset on Saturday. The goose season continues through Jan. 14 and dove season closes Jan. 12.

Quail, rabbit, and wild turkey may be hunted through Feb. 18. Raccoon and opossum may be hunted through March 1.

Many hunters will store their firearms at the close of the week. Others will be going afield until all of the seasons close. Its common knowledge to most hunters that our hunting seasons and bag limits are based on sound biological information.

During the periods that it is made legal to hunt some birds and animals, true sportsmanship is evident to many hunters. To some it is quite lacking.

Many hunters can pass up firing at a covey of quail while hunting dove when the quail season is not open. Others will not.

What the hunter should always remember is that wildlife conservation starts with him, not the agency, conservation officer, or management technique.

You, the sportsman are helping to pay for conservation. Why not protect your investment. Don't use an open season and a closed mind to take advantage of wildlife at times when it is illegal to take a bird or animal.

You may not always come home with a full game bag, but knowing that you have hunted fairly is what really matters to you, your wildlife, and other sportsmen.

NO TABBY CAT—This 30-pound bobcat was taken by L. A. Maki last month while he was hunting deer near the Old Mill Pond off the Piney Green Road.

Devilfish Relay Teams Shine at Holiday Meet

Only one Camp Lejeune Devilfish won a gold medal at Fort Bragg's Christmas Invitational Swimming Meet, but the dependents swimming team, in a season of rebuilding, chalked up an encouraging record in the relays.

Mark Doran was the only first place winner for the Devilfish. He won the 50 yard breaststroke in the 9-10 year old boys division.

Next highest individual performer for Camp Lejeune was Rosemary Davis, who was fourth in the 50-yard butterfly in 9-10 girls group.

The Fort Bragg meet, held last week, brought together 20 teams from North and South Carolina and neighboring states.

Five Devilfish relay teams qualified for the finals.

The 9 - 10 boys freestyle team, composed of Mark Doran, Andy Giles, Kent Slemmons, and Donald Bieger, took fifth place while the 11-12 girls freestyle team, made up of Kathleen Davis, Betsy Benson, Vicki Doran, and Patti Bieger, came in fourth.

The same four girls also swam as a medley relay team, and finished fourth in that event also.

Kirby Slemmons, Pat Tesh, Mike Howard, and John Knope were the swimmers in the boys 11 - 12 freestyle and medley teams, and took fifth in in both events.

The boys 13-14 medley relay, George Herod, Joe Loehle, Steve Slemmons, and Dan House, were sixth in their event.

Next meet for the Devilfish will be against the Norfolk, Va., Neptunes in Norfolk January 14.

The Devilfish still need swimmers badly in several age groups, according to assistant coach Mrs. Nancy Bieger. She named eight-year-old and younger girls, both boys and girls in the 13-14 year old group, and boys and girls in the 15-17 age group.

Anyone interested in a tryout with the team should contact Mrs. Bieger at 5-7302.

Carolina State Bowling Tourney At Wilmington

Wilmington will be the scene of the largest participant sports activity in North Carolina early this year when approximately 2,500 men compete in the state bowling tournament.

No other single sporting event draws as many active participants as the bowling tournament, and competitors will come from every corner of North Carolina to seek honors in team, doubles, singles and all-events divisions.

Singles and doubles competition will be held at the Bowling Center, while the team event will be rolled at Cardinal Lanes. The tournament will stretch over five weekends. . . February 11-12, 18-19, 25-26 and March 4-5 and 11-12.

Entries close January 8. Bowlers are urged to get their entries in.

Doug Bridges, tournament director, and Bill Mowbray, president of the Wilmington Bowling Association, estimate there will be 500-550 teams entered and that 2,500 men will roll in the singles and doubles. Prize money totaling $25,000 will be at stake.

SSGT. P. E. LONGO

Staff Sergeant Paul Edward Longo of Somerville, Massachusetts was awarded the Bronze Star with Combat "V". SSgt Longo is currently serving with H&S Bn, 2d Force Service Regiment, Force Troops.

Serving in the Republic of Vietnam as Reconnaissance and Liaison NCO with the 3d Tank Bn., 3d Marine Division, SSgt Longo exhibited exceptional professional skill and resourcefulness.

During his tour Longo organized, trained, and led the reconnaissance elements of the battalion. On numerous occasions he initiated successful engagements with Viet Cong forces of superior size.

Sergeant Longo's planning of patrols, ambushes, and combat sweeps "reflected an imaginative approach to counter-insurgency warfare".

The presentation was made by Lieutenant Colonel Harry D. Woods, Commanding Officer, H&S Bn., 2d Force Service Regiment.

RECON

By PFC Jess B. Nelson
High above the dense tangled foliage along a swampy section of North Carolina coast, a helicopter passes. Aboard the aircraft a team of highly skilled saboteurs, dressed in forest green camouflaged uniforms, hook their nylon static lines to a steel cable running along the floor of the aircraft.

They silently await the moment a signal is given to dive feet first into the turbulent air supporting the chopper.

Below the aircraft a patch of cleared land looms into view as the first man leaps, followed by other members of the team.

In less than a minute the parachutists are on the ground regrouping to organize the next phase of their mission.

These specially trained infiltrators' mission is to steal to a pre-designated military target, make an on-sight inspection of terrain and approach paths, pinpoint the target and return to their unit without detection by the enemy.

Artists of Deception

There was no such mission today. The men of this team are members of the 2nd Force Reconnaissance Company, Force

Troops.

Well versed in the art of deception and destruction, they lay the ground work for the invasion and annihilation of the enemy's military targets.

The Marine reconnaissance team was a portion of thirty parachutists engaged in a training exercise here.

A recon team is made up of four men: a team leader, assistant team leader, Communicator and a scout. During a parachute jump the four members of a team share the 200 pounds of equipment used on a reconnaissance mission.

Cameras, radios, sketching tools and the recon man's issue weapon the "grease gun", a .45 caliber sub-machine gun, are some of the tactical items used.

This gear is in addition to the life jackets, parachutes, combat packs holding personal gear, and combat knives necessary to their mission.

Before a reconnaissance Marine becomes proficient as a jumper, he must undergo extensive training. His initial training is at a parachute jumping school, at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Upon completion he is awarded the silver Navy - Marine Corps Parachute Ensignia of a basic parachutist. The basic jumper can handle jumps that require light loads, but to really be proficient he must be able to jump with a GP bag (general purpose) with up to 120 pounds of combat equipment.

After completing five successful jumps with this heavy gear the airborne Marine is awarded the gold Navy - Marine Corps Parachute Ensignia.

A jumper's training is constant with the ultimate goal continually being perfected: precision insertion of a recon team fully equipped into enemy territory with absolutely no difficulties.

At 2nd Force Reconnaissance Company strong emphasis is given to training platoon and team leaders to be skilled Jump Masters, the man who is actually responsible for the success of a jump mission.

Careful planning is the backbone of each recon jump mission. Up to the last minute an air of readiness surrounds the jumpers. Final briefings underline operational procedures which include technical data and emergency information.

Altitude, aircraft speed, wind velocity, and departure and drop times are covered in the final briefing.

Emergency procedures are discussed. A jumper could get hung up in a tree, land on water unexpectedly, or become caught in a faulty parachute.

Emergency signals are covered to reduce injury in case they encounter trouble. All the areas covered in the final "chalk talk" emphasize the fact that the job of a 2nd Force Recon jumper is serious business.

A Unique Breed

The reconnaissance Marine is a special breed of man. Utilizing skill which run the gamut from oldest to newest in military lore, each Marine skillfully completes his job.

He receives intensive training in hand-to-hand combat, scuba training (underwater swimming), amphibious scouting and parachuting.

"Determination, intelligence, physical fitness, and maturity are the qualities we look for in choosing Marines for reconnaissance training", stated 1st Sgt. Jess M. Wise, 2nd Force Reconnaissance Company. The Marines of 2nd Force Recon, under the command of Major Donald J. Norris, are a select group screened from the infantry battalions of the Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic.

They all volunteer for the recon billet that borrows cunning and stealth from the scouts of old and employs the newest scientific equipment.

The cunning of a fox, the prowess of a tiger, the versatility of the amphibious otter, the deception of the chameleon, and the keen eyesight of the eagle are all engaged in a mobile, versatile and superior mammal ... the Recon Marine.

CHECK—The Jump Master, Captain E. B. Collins, secures Gunner Sergeant G. A. Koch's "K-Bar" as the pre-flight rigger, Sgt. L. K. Galentine, observes. This is the first check given by the Jump Master. The final check is given by the pre-flight rigger to insure there will be no accidents.

THUMBS DOWN—The jumpers in the silence imposed on them by the deafening roar of the helicopter, signal "thumbs down" before the chopper leaves the ground. From now until they jump all signals are by hand.

AIR BORNE—The parachutists are now at the mercy of the winds, which could take them into the trees or water below.
