Leavetime Restricted If On PCS Orders

Starting February 1, Marines traveling on Permanent Change of Station (PCS) orders will be restricted to a maximum of 20 days delay enroute.

The information was released this week in a message from the Commandant of the Marine Corps in ALMAR 04 which references Marine Corps Bulletin 1050.

The order explained that this was a temporary measure to increase personnel availability for activation schedules.

Commanders were instructed to grant maximum liberty and leave to individuals affected by this restriction prior to transfer, and subsequent to joining, especially those individuals transferring to and from West-Pac.

"In special situations," the order said, "where reduction of delay enroute will result in undue hardships which cannot be alleviated by additional leave or liberty, order-issuing activities are authorized to grant 30 days on merit of individual case."

The new change affects any orders written after the starting date and those orders already written which direct travel after February 1, 1967. Those orders were modified by issuance of this latest directive.

NOTICE

Base Order 2070.2C requires that all persons stationed in this area who operate amateur or citizen band radios from their quarters and/or private vehicles within the confines of Camp Lejeune, must be registered with the Base Communication-Electronics Office. Failure to comply could result in disciplinary action.

Insurance Info

With the ever increasing dependence of our society upon motor vehicles, it is quite surprising the lack of understanding the average individual possesses in regards to his legal responsibility as to driving. The influx of more and more automobiles on the highways each year, with the corresponding increase in accidents, has led several states to adopt so called Vehicle Financial Responsibility Acts; and North Carolina is one of those states.

In North Carolina adequate liability insurance is a prerequisite to obtaining vehicle registration and it must be maintained throughout the registration period. If a driver cannot provide proof of such coverage, the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles has the power to revoke the individual's registration plates and suspend his license for thirty (30) days.

When the car owner's liability insurance is cancelled or not renewed, the person concerned has the duty to surrender his registration certificate and plates to the Motor Vehicle Department, unless he has met the mandatory financial responsibility in some other acceptable manner.

If a motorist has any other questions in regards to his statutory duties in this area, it is suggested that he consult the Base Legal Assistance Office or the nearest North Carolina Motor Vehicle Department.

Stay Loose

By 2dLt. Ralph Deaver

It is late. The time when it ceases to be afternoon, becomes early evening. A chill rides in upon the last rays of sunset, but the folks on their way to the church in the next block are warm with family closeness and small-town friendliness.

You're a little cold, at first. But you watch, leaning against the old wooden fence, pulling your neck down into your coat collar a little. You watch, and you forget the chill. You watch, and no one seems to think it strange at all.

Some hurry, perhaps thinking they'll miss the opening hymn. Others walk easily, talk quietly. One or two glance your way and smile.

By accident--or is it something more?--you're in a town you've never seen before. You're standing at this corner, leaning against this fence, at this moment, because a part on your car must be replaced, is not available until tomorrow when it can be obtained from Louisville, or Lexington, or Asheville, and because you're registered in the town's one hotel, and because the closeness and silence of the room have routed you out for a walk.

The cloak of darkness buttons itself around that one small speck of earth, and the churchgoers become fewer and quicker on the street. A sudden strange feeling comes to you, and you think the darkness and quiet and murmur of voices is playing tricks on you. For this town, all at once, is a place you've always known.

Suddenly, you'd bet that you once delivered papers along this very street. You turn your head and think you could single out houses of people you once knew. You're certain you could walk directly to the post office from here, locate the sidewalk you traveled to school, and find the very house where you once lived.

"Doctor Smith practices medicine here," you mutter to yourself; "Mr. Mills is Superintendent of Schools. The Mayor is Mr. Johnson." You look around, a little guilty at talking to yourself.

You feel sure that the only police force required here is a marshal, that the highlight of the week is Saturday afternoon shopping, that the most prized possession is the laughter of children.

You know this town: each tree, each house, each face and voice. You know its fables and its truths, its joys and its sorrows, its smallnesses and its greatneses.

A little fellow dashes by, giving you a wide berth. Once past, he walks backwards, the better to study you.

"Whatta you want?" he asks. "Whatta you standin' there for?"

Before you can think of an answer, he turns and runs again, halting only at the haven of the Church door. You shiver a little as you turn back to your room.

In the instant between the click of the light switch and the flash of the room's overhead light, it comes to you why you were standing there. You were waiting for that brief moment to come and lay its hands on you.

Such moments have a way of showing up when they're needed.

Marine Corps Jargon Traditional As Rifle

"There is the right way, the wrong way, and the Marine Corps way." Sometime in your service career I am certain that you have heard these words.

Part of the Marine Corps way is the jargon used for many different terms and expressions. There words are as much a part of Marine Corps tradition as the rifle.

According to Vice Admiral Leland P. Lovette in his book "Naval Customs, Traditions, and Usage", most of our expressions came from the British and Colonial Navies and were well-established by the early 1800's.

Here are some of the common expressions and their origins. Someone is known to have said that "boondocks" are fit places for the training of fighting Marines. Training areas such as woods, jungles, and mountains are sometimes referred to as "boondocks."

"Chow" is the way Marines refer to the meals they eat. The word came from chew and took the form it now has through many years of conversation.

"Chowdown" is an expression which means that "chow" is ready or that "chow" is being eaten. It also comes from chew.

The expression used by Marines to acknowledge that an order has been received and is about to be carried out is "Aye, aye." This comes from the Latin "alo" which means to affirm and it started in the British Navy.

Marine Corps equipment such as haversacks, ponchos, shelter halves, etc., is referred to as "782 gear". It is called this because of the number on the receipt form used in handing out this particular gear.

The "brig" gets its name from two places. "Brigadine" supplied a portion of the meaning because it means robber and men who were robbers at sea were put in jails aboard the ship. The jails would generally have only "brigs" (meaning robbers) confined in them.

In naval battles, the famous British Admiral, Lord Nelson, used fast ships called "brigs" to carry prisoners away from the areas. Thus, the Navy and Marine Corps called their confinement areas "brigs."

A written message or memorandum is called a "chit" by Marines. The term comes from the Hindu word "Chitti". The old East India Trading Company adopted the use of the word in the 1700's. At the same time the British Navy began using the word in its naval business.

"Furling" the flag comes from the Old English term meaning to make a bundle. In most flag folding instructions "furl" is used to designate part of the formal procedures.

A dish or a serving of food is called "mess" as it was hundreds of years ago in England.

The "scuttle-but" was the sailors source of drinking water on the ship. Marines know it as a drinking fountain. Men in the navy gathered there to drink and gossip.

Terms of service in the old Navies were judged by voyages. The sailor usually signed for only one voyage. "Shipping over" meant that the sailor had signed to go on another voyage.

"Shipping over" now means to enlist for another term of service in the Corps.

There are many other words as interesting as these I have pointed out and the book by Vice Admiral Lovette is an excellent source of information.

Chaplain Speaks

Someone has said that the setting aside of a special day to honor mothers is not a tribute to them, but rather an affront, meaning of course that we should honor and respect them every day of the year.

Perhaps the same can be said of World Day of Prayer, a day which emphasizes the importance of prayer in the lives of God's people. Certainly prayer should be a daily activity in the life of one who calls himself a Christian, and it's importance cannot be overestimated.

However, we are a busy people living in a hurried age and we find ourselves engaged in countless pursuits which sap our strength, time and energy. In this active living we neglect our prayer life, only to find ourselves lacking the wisdom, direction and purpose that such a life affords. The words of Christ, "Without ME, ye can do nothing", certainly apply to this situation.

Yet far too often we have prayed the prayer of the foxhole religionist whose feeble utterance is, "If YOU pull me through this one Lord I'll". But prayer, like love and marriage, must be cultivated and nurtured, so that there is a reality of relationship between the participant and his God who has said, "ASK, and it shall be given you; SEEK, and ye shall find; KNOCK, and it shall be opened unto you."

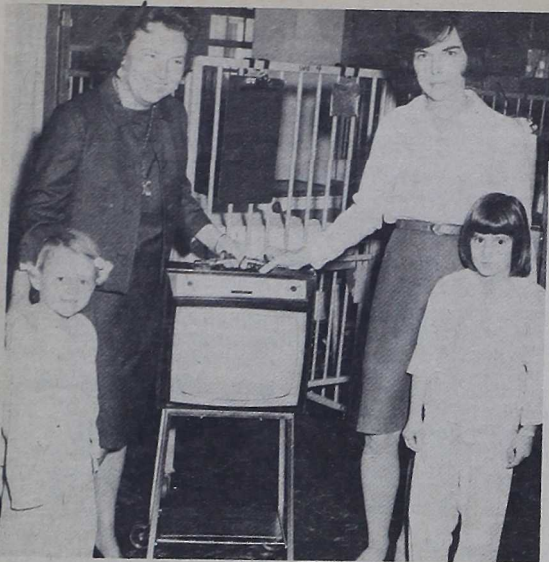

God Himself has offered to us the access to His throne through the medium of prayer. Can we refuse so great an invitation?

The story is told of a little boy who worked hard to earn enough money to buy his father a birthday present but who was somewhat disappointed at his father's reaction when he made the presentation. Upon being questioned as to whether or not he would have rather had something else for a gift the father answered, "Son, it is not your PRESENT that I want, it is your PRESENCE that I want." The boy then realized that he had spent so much time earning money to buy the present, that he had neglected spending time with his father.

May we each resolve on this World Day of Prayer, February 10th, to not let the activities of each day diminish our relationship with our God.

Activities Calendar

Midway Park

Wives' Club

For many years the Midway Park Wives Club has served as a recreational, informational, and most enjoyable pursuit for the wives in Midway Park. In the past, the wives have participated in fashion shows, best hat design shows, baby contests, talent shows, and many others too varied and numerous to mention. From time to time a speaker will come to our meetings.

Places we have visited are the Base Bakery, a Florist Shop, Hickory Farms, the Beach and even an occasional luncheon at a local restaurant. Each Halloween, Christmas and Easter there are parties for the children of members. There is always a free Nursery. The children are presently placed in the Midway Park Nursery at no cost to the members. We meet every Thursday morning from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon at the Midway Park Community Center. A typical meeting consists of our activity followed by refreshments. The last meeting of each month is our business meeting. Elections were held recently, and those elected were: President, Judith Walls; Vice President, Jerry Lott; Secretary, Nancy Lowe; Treasurer, Shirley Durain.

If this sounds interesting to you, no matter how little time you can contribute, we need and want your support. For further information on the Midway Park Wives Club, contact Mrs. Nancy Lowe, 2-2333 at 729 Butler Drive, Midway Park, N.C.

A January 11 edition of a Military publication erroneously stated that exclusion of officers pay for service in Vietnam from $200 per month to $580 would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1964. The correct retroactive date is Jan. 1, 1966.

MEBLEX Hits Vieques

CAMP LEJUNE, N. C. (Oct. 10) - Final elements of Provisional Regimental Landing Team Two returned to Camp Lejeune last week after a three week exercise in the Caribbean.

Commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Robert W. Yerkes, Provisional RLT 2 was the ground maneuver element for MEBLEX I-66. It included Battalion Landing Team 3-6 and 3-2 plus headquarters element from the 2d Marine Regiment, 2d Marine Division.

Both BLTs landed at Vieques by helicopter and amphibious tractors, established an evacuation area, and then withdrew at night in accordance with a detailed withdrawal plan.

Overall control of the exercise was directed by Rear Admiral W. P. Mack, USN, Commander of Amphibious Group Two, and Major General Norman Anderson, USMC, Commanding General of the Twelfth Marine Expeditionary Brigade. Twelve ships, the commanders of amphibious squadrons Four and Ten, Marine Attack Squadron 331, and Marine Helicopter Squadron 365 and 264 provided naval and air support to the ground units.

Embarked in USS Pococeno (AGC 16), headquarters personnel made liberty stops at St. Thomas, V. I., and Aruba, Netherlands Antilles, enroute to Camp Lejeune after the exercise.

GUANTANAMO BAY, CUBA, Dec. 16 - Hurricane Ilex swept through Guantanamo Naval Base last September leaving much damage in her wake. One of the most serious pieces of damage was the destruction of the chapel spire. The spire was destroyed by the hurricane. The chapel is somewhat isolated from the rest of the base. ALMERIA, SPAIN (Oct. 28)--High winds and rough seas kept them, Marines of Battalion Landing Team 2/6 (BLT) debarked from Amphibious Landing Ship, LST-1169, for a successful landing at Almeria.

In two previous landings to credit, BLT 2/6 Marines downed the nets to the waiting boats. Debarking was not usually a problem.

Artillery Unit Stay On Target

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (Oct. 3) - The 10th Marine Regiment, under the command of Colonel Charles J. Harris, arrived at Fort Bragg on Sept. 12 to begin the 10-day annual FIREX, conducted at Fort Bragg, N. C., was a two-day regimental controlled firing problem.

On hand for the beginning of the regimental FIREX was Brigadier General Edwin B. Wheeler, Assistant Division Commander. The artillery arm of the 2d Marine Division, Camp Lejeune, N. C., was supported by Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-162, from the Marine Corps Air Facility, New River, N.C., in transporting the regiment's forward observers directing fire missions over the target area.

After initial preparations were complete, including the establishment of a base command post and forward command post, and operations meetings, the big guns, 155mm and 105mm Howitzers, fired continuously throughout the exercise. The 2,000 Marines fired over 8,200 rounds into the impact area at Fort Bragg and strung over 200 miles of communication wire. During the moonless nights, when they moved their equipment by convoy to new gun emplacements, the Marines were constantly under simulated gas attacks from aggressor forces.

Engineers Tackle Multitude of

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (Aug. 15) - The 2d Marine Division engineers have changed the landscape at a section of Camp Lejeune's Midway Park. Before the engineers moved in with a fleet of bulldozers, cranes and earthmovers, 48 condemned buildings clustered the area.

Marines of Company A, 2d Engineer Battalion began their face-lifting of the area during June by gutting each building. Engineers, manning cranes, tractors and other heavy equipment, stripped the roofs off each building. Bulldozers followed, crushing walls into rubble. The area was then cleared of the debris, readied for future seeding and the planting of trees.

This is only one of more than 160 projects the engineers have handled for the 2d Marine Division and Marine Corps Base at Camp Lejeune this year.

The battalion's primary mission within the division is to provide technical assistance to the troops in the field. From the laying of a mine field and removal of obstacles to the building of shower units and water purification sheds, the engineers are experts, thoroughly trained in their field.

In addition to three letter companies, A, B, and C, there is a drafting and surveying section to plan the projects. The first goes to the home of the Harris family. The cost, type of the work, and the time required, and the cost of the work. These estimates are made by the Division Engineer Hudson. These projects are signed to a letter company in turn, supplies ten jaw. COMMANDANT OF THE MARINE CORPS,

GENERAL WALLACE M. GREENE, JR., TOPS
VISITORS TO DIVISION'S COUNTER-GUER-RILLA WARFARE COURSE IN 1966.

Exercise Features Redeye Troop Test

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (Nov. 20) - The Marine Corps' heat-seeking Redeye anti-aircraft missile carried by foot troops, received extensive attention and evaluation last week during field exercises here.

A troop test to determine the most appropriate method for control of the Redeye was part of the 2d Marine Division's Command Post Exercise here, Nov. 14-18.

Major General Ormond R. Simpson, Division Commanding General, commanded the four-day exercise which was conducted to maintain top training level for command operations in the field. Units of the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing, home based at Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N.C., joined the Division Marines for the Redeye troop test.

The Redeye missile is an infra-red, heat-seeking device that will head for the hottest part of an aircraft—the exhaust. It is fired from the shoulder in the same manner as the familiar 3.5 rocket launcher—commonly known as the "bazooka."

During the exercise, Redeye teams consisted of three men: a gunner, an assistant gunner who acted as the team radioman for simulated firing orders, and a third Marine to evaluate the team reaction.

The purpose of the troop test was to determine how the missile should be employed and to what organization it should be attached.

Colonel Clifford P. Blankenship of the 2d Wing served as Redeye project officer during the test.

Squad Competition

Camp Lejeune, N. C. (Dec. 9) - A 2d Battalion, 2d Marine Regiment squad was chosen as the Division's best Dec. 6, after almost 30 hours of exhausting small unit operations.

The Top Squad Competition drew together the Division's the night reconnaissance patrol, at about 7 p.m.

The squads had to find the command post by compass and then go to the spot where they would spend the night and report their findings.

Division Hosts JCOC-SPEXs

CAMP LEJEUNE, N., (Aug. 30) - During the Special Purpose Exercise held here August 26, one hundred members of the American Legion Security Commission watched an assault on a fortified position and witnessed the destruction caused by Marine Corps' air-ground team.

April Visitors View Air-Ground Might

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (Apr. 21) - More than 1,500 visitors will be guests of the 2d Marine Division during the next five days as the Marine Corps air-ground team demonstrates its readiness.

Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic units, under the coordination of the 2d Division's Commanding General, Major General Ormond R. Simpson, will participate in Special Purpose Exercises (SPEX) April 22-23 and the Joint Civilian Orientation Conference (JCOC) April 25-26.

Guests will include top government officials, military commanders, business and civic leaders from throughout the nation, members of three U.S. and Canadian military staff colleges, university students, local military dependents and invited civilian guests.

The schedule of events includes amphibious landings across Onslow Beach by a Battalion Landing Team (BLT); rifle platoon assaults on a fortified position; BLT static displays; firsthand spectator examination of the latest equipment and weaponry; close air support shows, featuring the fire and shock power of Marine Corps aviation; and Short Airfield for Tactical Support (SATS) demonstrations, using aircraft-carrier-styled launch arrest gear to provide small "stand airfields" for shore-based combat support.

Exercises will be seen Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning by 75 of the nation's business and civic leaders who are members of JCOC. Sponsored by the Department of Defense, the JCOC strives to promote public understanding of our nation's defense posture. Members are briefed at the Pentagon and taken on trips to Armed Forces field installations for military demonstrations.

The schedules for April 22 and 23 combine the JCOC demonstrations into individual day-long programs. The ground phases will be held in the morning. The hour-long Onslow Beach landings all begin at 10:45 a.m. The 2d Wing conducts the afternoon programs after the visitors have had lunch in the Engineers' mess hall.

Th Friday special exercise will serve as the dress rehearsal for the following days and mark the first SPEX of the year.

The 2d Division hosted the JCOC for five consecutive years (1960-64) to demonstrate the Marine Corps' mission. Previously the demonstrations had been staged at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

Following the fortified assault the group observed the County Fair Exhibit featuring the Battalion Landing Team's equipment and weaponry, and a mile-long formation of 2-8. A demonstration of house-to-house fighting at Camp Lejeune ended the exercise.

Major General Ormond R. Simpson, commanding the 2d Marine Division, was the sponsor for the exercise, which involved units of the Division's Marine Aircraft Wing and Troops, Atlantic.

The visiting committee members come from all parts of the United States.

Other noted civilian guests present were George H. W. Bush, Jr., Adjutant General, and Ray Stiles, state director for civil defense.

Noted military leaders were Lieutenant General G. B. Bowser, commanding Fleet Marine Force, and Colonel Louis H. H. Jr., medal of honor winner and director of the 6th Marine District, Atlanta, Ga.

"WELL DONE"

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (Nov. 20) - The two-day Special Purpose Exercise (SPEX) held Sept. 28 and 29 at Camp Lejeune ended with a "well done" message from the Division.

In a message to commanders and participants in the general of participation in the National Leagues, Lieutenant General Alvin M. Bowser, commanding the 2d Marine Force, stated that Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles F. Brown and other Department of Defense and Armed Forces visitors pressed their "deep appreciation of the value of the exercise."

Boxers Clobber PhibLant 7-2

Camp Lejeune's Post and Station Boxing Team rolled to its thirteenth victory of the 1966-67 campaign by defeating a revenge-minded crew from Naval Amphibious Base at Little Creek, Va., last week.

An enthusiastic crowd of 1,500 cheered the Marines win by a 7-2 margin over the team they defeated 8-1 in a match here December.

Winners for Camp Lejeune were Lawrence Armendariz, Sal DiCecca, Roosevelt Hamilton, Richard Royal, Neal Taylor, Hinton Wilson, and John Thompson.

In the feature bout of the night, Hinton Wilson of Lejeune won unanimous decision over Alvin Vince Fagan, the home-town favorite. Both boxers were in top shape but Wilson, who earned his boxing in Pittsburgh Golden Gloves circles, had too much power for Fagan.

A hard right to the body in the second round marked the beginning of the end for Fagan, who faded noticeably.

Perhaps the most exciting bout of the evening was a rematch between two hard-hitting heavyweights, John C. Thompson of Camp Lejeune and Jerome Haywood of PhibLant.

Thompson had knocked Haywood out in the first meeting, and Haywood was seeking revenge. Haywood asked specifically to be matched against Big John.

Marine coach J. C. Davis said both coaches gave their fighters instructions to box their opponent, but "when that bell rang, both of them came out throwing punches like lightweights."

Both men were staggered in the first round. Toward the end of the round, Thompson was hit hard again and went into a bob-and-weave. From there, he threw a right that decked Haywood for an eight count.

Haywood was only angered by this and came out for the second round with even more vengeance. He backed Big John in to the ropes and put it to him. But just when Big John seemed ready to go down, he threw a four punch combination. A jab, a right cross, a left hook, and another right and Haywood was down and out.

He was still out five minutes later.

In the first bout on the card,

Marine Lawrence Armendariz met Navyman Leroy Woodward. The three-time All-Marine flyweight won a unanimous decision, knocking Woodward down in each round and having him hanging on the ropes when the fight ended.

Sal DiCecca, fighting PhibLant's Ronald Toney, was fighting out of his weight class by 15 pounds. DiCecca tipped the scales at 111, Toney at 126. DiCecca dominated the fight and won a unanimous decision.

Ray Mulett, fighting his first bout for Camp Lejeune, as were Armendariz and DiCecca, ran into PhibLant's Ott Harrison and lost a split decision. Mulett was the aggressor in the fight while Harrison, according to Coach Davis, threw very few punches.

Davis termed the decision "controversial" and said even the crowd was surprised at the decision.

Roosevelt Hamilton, the "old pro" of Lejeune's team, drew James Miller in a rematch. Hamilton weighed 129, Miller 132. Ham knocked the sailor down in the first with a left hook and again in the second with a right cross, and won a unanimous decision.

Woody Thompson was the other unlucky Marine who lost. Woody battled Morris Harris. Both fighters weighed 132. Coach Davis said the bout "could have gone either way. Both fighters threw a lot of punches." Harris won a split decision.

Richard Royal, another All-Marine champion fighting his first bout this season, won a unanimous decision over Jose Torres (not the pro). Royal staggered his victim in the first, put him on the canvas in the second, and staggered him repeatedly in the final round.

The last time Jim Hudson fought against Camp Lejeune, he lost. But he sent his opponent to the hospital with a broken jaw. This time against Neal Taylor, he lost again in a split decision and Taylor is still healthy. Both men threw punches and fought aggressively, but Taylor scored a decisive knockdown in the second round.

Intramural Cagers Begin League Play

Action became serious in the base-Division Intramural Basketball League last week with the completion of inter-league play and the beginning of regular season contests in the American and National Leagues.

Headquarters Bn. defeated Service Bn. 69-61 in the first league game, an American League affair on Thursday night.

Four National League games followed Friday night. Headquarters-10 defeated Headquarters-6 104-82, 2-6 slaughtered Medical Bn. 146-87, Naval Hospital defeated Base Materiel 84-71, and Shore Party Bn. dumped the Rifle Range 91-59.

The nineteen teams are divided into leagues according to unit size.

Headquarters Bn. was led by Johnson and Webster, who tallied 17 and 16 respectively, in their conquest of Service Bn. Harper had 14 and Smith 11 to round out Headquarters' balanced attack.

Lee with 13 and Butler with 12 paced the losers, who were only down by three at halftime.

Headquarters-10 raced to a 53-31 halftime lead over Headquarters-6 and had five men score in double figures. Washington led with 30, Evans had 24, Shifflet 19, Slattery 14, and Roger 12. Mangum and Bradford each scored 25 as the big guns for Headquarters-6.

Three men scored above 30 as 2-6 took Med Bn. apart. Brooks was high with 38, the individual high for the week, while Nelson poured in 34 and Edwards 31. For the losers, Kruger had a fine game, scoring 37. Vaoen was next with 19.

Sisk with 27 and Kwasnick with 19 paced Naval Hospital over Base Materiel. Terrell added 11, Bloomingdale 15, and Nickles 12 for the corpsmen. Spurlock's 20 points was high for Base Mat.

Shore Party Bn. produced another balanced attack in downing the Rifle Range. Tilley was high with 25, Gorko had 20, Buschbacher and Caldwell 16 each, and Slaughter 10. Murphy poured in 24 and McLaughlin 15 for the riflemen.

In the last of the inter-league warm-up contests, Headquarters Bn. dumped Medical Bn. 83-63, Service Bn. slipped past Headquarters-10 67-57, Medical Bn. socked Anti-Tank Bn. 70-63, Naval Hospital edged H&S Bn. 73-70, Engineer Bn. rolled over the Rifle Range 82-61, 1-2 did in Recon 108-70, and 2-6 thumped 3-6 82-75.

Johnson with 18 markers and Webster with 14 led Headquarters Bn. over the Medmen while Kruger of the losers took game scoring honors with 22 points.

Kruger was back in the lime-light with 33 points as Med Bn. defeated the Anti-Tank quintet. Anti-Tank Bn. was leading by two at halftime. Carlson had 20 and Chapon 14 for the losers.

Service Bn. had five in double figures while sinking Headquarters-10. Butler was high with 16, Menke had 13, Hogue 12, and Shamley and Bruner 10 each. Washington had 18 and Evans 17 for the losers.

Naval Hospital wiped out a four point halftime deficit in defeating H&S Bn. Nickles was high man with 23 while Kwasnick contributed 16 more, Snipes with 19 and Benton with 16 led H&S.

The Rifle Range found itself on the wrong end of a twin gun attack as Murrey poured in 27 and Mock 22 for Engineer Bn. Axel with 14 points led the Range.

Recon's reconnaissance proved that 1-2 is a tough outfit. O'Bryne poured in 24 points, Jackson and Mens 18 each, and Jonic 16 as Recon was burned. Paxton led the scouts with 20.

It was a barn-burner when 2-6 and 3-6 met. Bower burned the nets for 34 points for 3-6, but Hines produced 30 and Edwards 19 for 2-6 and 2-6 won the battle of the "pogey bait loop."

In other non-league games, Shore Party Bn. whalloped Engineer Schools 84-61 as Caldwell pitched in 20 points; Underwood scored 29 as 1-6 socked Headquarters-6 67-61; Engineer Schools defeated Headquarters-6 66-37; 1-6 eased past Anti-Tank Bn. 40-33 in a slow-down game; Rifle Range nipped ITR 64-63, and Naval Hospital downed Supply Schools 66-63.

Boxer Profile

Art Redden says his nickname is "Piggy", but where he got it, this writer doesn't know. Art packs 178 pounds on a 5-10 frame and there isn't much fat to be found on his carcass.

The list of titles Redden has won is impressive. He is All-Marine, CISM champion, Interservice champion, and was an alternate on the U. S. Olympic Boxing Team in 1964. He has had 36 fights prior to this season.

Redden is also an accomplished football player. He was an All-Marine selection as a halfback in 1965, and had an outstanding collegiate career at Arkansas A&MN.

A native of Wilmington, Delaware, Art and his wife Barbara have two children, Jackie and Wilbert.

Starting boxing in 1963 out of "curiosity", Art claims his best punch is a left hook. His comment on the sport: "I love the competition."

Art is a corporal attached to Headquarters Co., 2/10, and is an artilleryman.

Scouts Invade Base for Camporee

By: GySgt Bill Rich

More than 250 members of the East Carolina, Onslow District Boy Scouts of America, were hosted this past weekend, aboard the Base for their Annual Winter Camporee.

The 250 Scouts converged on the sprawling Marine Corps installation fully equipped with their tents, scouting equipment and a full supply of food stuffs for a weekend of organized scouting events coordinated by MSgt Fred Chapman, District Camping Chairman.

The gala three-day weekend began on Friday afternoon with the arrival of the spirited boys; some came by bus, some by car, and still others hiked the route into the camporee site.

The affair was held at the Base's Scouting area, a heavily wooded site overlooking the river, an area designated by the Base and equipped with full facilities for the comfort and welfare of the boys and an area that enhances the role of scouting.

Upon arrival, the boy scouts registered and checked in with the Camporee Chief and District Executive John Reap. Then they were ready for a full weekend of activity.

Each scouting unit was broken down from troop to patrol and was accompanied and supervised by an adult scout leader.

The units were ushered to various pre-designated areas and began setting up; tents were erected, camp sites built, wood was gathered and fires built, and plans were made to prepare their first meal cooked in the field.

A unique Trading Post was set up by "Uncle Leo" who supplied added goodies for the boys. If an item was forgotten and not packed, "Uncle Lou" had it, or a similar replacement in his Trading Post.

Evening darkness fell on the campsite and scouts huddled around campfires carrying out organized programs that included troops and patrol skits, sing alongs, and just plain meetings and rehearsals for the competitive activities that lay ahead.

Taps was finally sounded, and all was supposed to be quiet. But hardly so, of course no regulations were broken, but in hushed voices there was the usual snickering, the groan and moan of, "gee it's cold", "wonder what mom is doing", and "gee my warm bed sure would feel good now."

Of course we must remember, this past weekend didn't produce the warmest of Carolina weather. But no matter, the boys braved the elements of nature and slept under the cover of the stars.

Saturday began with the usual reveille at daybreak, followed by clean up, breakfast cooked over a log fire, followed by a dish washing detail.

The full day's schedule called for Scoutcraft events, events of competition, pitting the various patrols against each other.

The boys participated in knot tying relays, compass races, fire building and water boiling contests and message signalling.

In addition the scouts were introduced to various woodlore activities and the day was highlighted by a tug-of-war. Winning patrols and troops were presented ribbons for their achievements.

Sunday was the final day activities for the scouts in the local area, and the day was highlighted with religious services conducted at the camporee site. Then it was time for final clean up of the area, preparation for the surge home and to one of mom's home cooked meals and thought of a warm bed and rest.

Many of the scout leaders were from the commands of the Marine Corps Base, 2d Marine Division and Force Troops, all have been active in the local program.

The camporee was over, according to Mr. John Reap, District Scout Executive, "it was one of the finest camporees in this area." He praised the attitude of the boys, the spirit of competition shown, and marveled at the capabilities of the various scout troops and patrols, attended in number.

Lieutenant J.L. Lindsay, USN, a Naval Dentist attached to Force Troops, 4th Dental Company, summed it up as a fruitful experience for the boys.

It gave them the added practical experience not afforded regular scout meetings in tent-like fire building, handling tools and cooking on open fires, according to the doctor, all training and teamwork made better men from today's boys.

And what next, its back to troop meetings, patrol meetings and preparation for the next event, the District Pre-Camporee to be held in the near future at Rocky Mount, N.C. Today's boys will be better men tomorrow, through scouting and the combined activities of our progressive communities.

Mealtime - interesting to see - sometimes dissapointing to cook.

Scouts maintained appearance .. even if it was only fuzz.

Dish washing a must in the cold.
