'Books for Viet Nam' drive being held here Nov. 14-20

Quad-Command units are joining with the National USO to conduct a "Paperback Books for Viet Nam" campaign Nov. 14 to 20.

USO units in Viet Nam reported to the national headquarters that reading materials were extremely short among servicemen in Viet Nam. In response, the USO has started a nationwide campaign to collect paperback books which will be shipped by the USO military units in Viet Nam.

At Camp Lejeune unit commanders have been directed to place receptacles in suitable places throughout the base and mark them "Books for Viet Nam in Viet Nam". Base Information Services will pick up books upon call from the units and deliver them to the Montford Point-Camp Lejeune USO.

Boy and Girl Scout units of Camp Lejeune are organizing the drive to conduct a drive in housing areas of the base and USO council members at the base will place receptacles in the Exchange and libraries.

Any one-base organization having receptacles full on Nov. 14 may arrange to have them emptied by calling Base Information Services 7-5655.

United Fund drive reaches 113% goal

The United Fund Drive closed with a resounding 113%. As of Nov. 5, with some contributions still coming in, the total collected is $79,500. This exceeds the total amount collected last year. Command standings were as follows:

2d Marine Division	112

Commanding General speaks on United Fund

The Quad Command exceeded its goal of $70,000 by $9,500 for an overall percentage of 113%. However, the figures themselves don't begin to tell the full story of the work and effort expended by the Unit Chairmen and Keymen in achieving this noteworthy contribution. I and every Commander am fully aware of the work that went into this drive.

Also, it must be recognized that it required the participation of every Marine, Sailor and civilian co-worker of this Quad Command to make this year's fund drive the success it was. We have shown our civilian friends in the Onslow County area that we can respond to matters that are of interest to all of us.

To each and every member of the Quad Command I say "Well Done."

Wilmington college supports V. Nam policy

Wilmington College students rallied around the campus flag last week in support of American servicemen in Viet Nam. Norberto Machiran, Junior Senator at Wilmington College, read a resolution passed at the Student Senate meeting Monday night.

The resolution reads in part: "WHEREAS: This being our sincerest ideal and desire to let our feelings be known to our fellow Americans and to the world as Wilmington College Students; "Now therefore BE IT RESOLVED: That the Student Body of Wilmington College deplores and condemns the recent draft card burnings;

"That we understand the commitment of our Government of Viet-Nam;

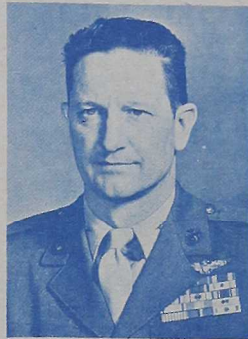

"That we support and look with pride and admiration on the actions of our servicemen in South Viet-Nam, in line with our tradition of support and furtherance of freedom and democracy at home and abroad."

Marine Corps Air Facility New River

COL. E. C. FUSAN
Commander
Marine Corps Air Facility

The Marine Corps Air Facility is a key member of the Quand-Command. It is through their support that the 2d Division is able to strike with the lightning swiftness of an angry rattlesnake should the need arise.

The Facility was initially commissioned as Peterfield Point in April, 1944. It was secured after World War II, and then re-activated under its present name in October, 1951.

The primary mission of the Air Facility is to provide a "home" for their tenants--Marine Aircraft Group (MAG)-26, and Marine Air Control Squadron (MACS)-5.

MAG-26 began delving into the aspects of vertical envelopment on June 16, 1952, at Cherry Point, when the MAG formed around the nucleus of two squadrons.

Today the MAG is made up of a Headquarters and Maintenance Squadron, a Marine Air Base Squadron, an Observation Squadron, and six helicopter squadrons.

The Marines of MAG-26 have proved their worth by enhancing the striking power of our combat units.

Commander's Birthday Message

Each year on this day we reflect on the chronicle of all those who have held the name Marine and pay our esteem to them.

Today, as in other days gone by, Marines are in fact helping to preserve freedom in the world; others of us are training in readiness to so do. Let us never falter or deviate from our avowed creed: "Always Faithful"—to Corps—to Country—to God—to all freedom loving and freedom seeking peoples everywhere.

Let us assure all, that we will be in the vanguard of military forces fighting for such principles.

Let us all have a Happy Birthday.

Your Dental Health

All of us have two sets of teeth. Too many of us will have three.

One of the factors causing us to lose our teeth prematurely is the food we eat.

We moderns, with our easy-eat foods and our taste for far-rich pastries and cakes, have laid ourselves open to a thimble future.

Studies show that there is a direct relationship between diet and tooth decay. There also some relationship between diet and periodontal diseases. The periodontal tissues are the gums and other supporting tissues around the teeth.

A diet heavy in sugar and starches is a direct invitation to tooth decay, since bacteria in the mouth quickly turn them to decay-producing acid.

The texture of foods is also important. Soft foods tend to stick between the teeth and around the gums—a choice spot for bacteria to work.

Persons with periodontal disease often curtail their diet by eliminating the coarse but nutritious foods they need; with tender or swollen gums these foods have become painful to chew.

A diet good for dental health must, first of all, be good for your general health.

The fewer times you eat sweets, the better off you are. A piece of candy is 75 or 80 per cent sugar, and a candybar may contain as much as 30 teaspoonsful. If you do eat an occasional confection, brush your teeth right afterwards or rinse your mouth with water.

Some foods are called "detergent" foods and these are especially helpful to dental health. These are the foods like raw carrots and celery sticks, raw vegetables and fruits that require thorough chewing.

As you chew, you force such foods over your teeth and soft tissues in a cleansing action. Your daily diet should contain ample amounts of detergent foods.

Avoid impacting foods that require little chewing and tend to pack into tooth fissures and grooves; cookies, crackers, and candies, for instance.

Good nutrition is especially important in early childhood, when the teeth are still forming. Wise parents avoid serving sweet foods to children, substituting milk and unsweetened fruit juices and raw fruits for snacks.

Seen a bald eagle?

Hunters throughout the nation are asked to send the location of any observed bald eagle nests to the National Audubon Society, P. O. Box 231, Iverness, Florida. Locations could be identified by a sketch showing the local section, range, and township, and whether or not the nest is in use.

Veterans Day

General Nickerson will be the principle speaker at the Fourth Annual Veterans Day Ceremony aboard the USS North Carolina Battleship Memorial at Wilmington on Nov. 10.

He will speak at 4:30 p. m. aboard the Battleship Memorial at its site on the Cape Fear River East.

Four enlisted men from the four branches of the armed services will speak briefly about their combat experiences in Viet Nam. Gunnery Sergeant Dushan Zobenca, holder of the Silver Star for conspicuous gallantry in Korea will speak on actions of Americans in Viet Nam.

The public is invited aboard the ship for the entire program.

A large fireworks display will conclude the program at 5:40 p. m.

A time to remember ... plan for tomorrow

Forty-seven years ago, a group of men met in a railroad dining car, in the Forest of Compiegne, France, and signed a truce ending World War I. The date was Nov. 11, 1918.

In the years that passed, other men have met and signed truces ending wars in which thousands have died. Those who survived will never forget their experiences.

Every year, countless men and women all over the world, young and old, pause for a moment of recollection and silent prayer at 11 a.m., Nov. 11.

In the United States we know this as Veterans Day and we hold commemorative services at the Tomb of the Unknowns in Arlington National Cemetery. In England, their dead are honored in front of the Cenotaph in London; and in France, at the Arch of Triumph in Paris.

This is the day on which everyone remembers. Those of us now in service have our memories also. We honor our comrades in arms in various ways. Many of us take part in memorial services in the air and on land and sea. There are some of us who, this year, may be too busy to pause and pray, for we will be fighting yet another action, many miles from our homeland.

And there may be some of us who will be remembered at this time next year.

But no matter where or how we spend the day of Nov. 11, 1965, we should remember why those before us have passed on. The causes of the past are the same as the causes today—to preserve and protect the freedoms that we so very much enjoy.

We do not want to live under a dictatorship, monarchy or communism. We enjoy the form of government that has been in this country since its birth. We want those who come after us to enjoy that same freedom and consequently, we have to fight and sometimes die to preserve it.

This year, when we pause at 11 a.m., Nov. 11, remember the past, think of the present and plan for tomorrow.

"IT IS THE DUTY OF EVERY MAN TO PROTECT HIMSELF AND THOSE ASSOCIATED WITH HIM FROM ACCIDENT WHICH MAY RESULT IN INJURY AND DEATH."

Poet's Corner

When Woman Marine Private Lee Barbara Haines read in the newspapers and saw on TV the accounts of individuals and groups around the nation protesting the actions of the United States in Viet Nam she too was stirred to protest—to protest against those who she saw as undermining the security of the U. S. by their anti-Viet Nam activities.

Private Haines joined the Marine Corps eight months ago and has a brother in the Marine Corps now stationed in Viet Nam. Her response to the reaction of the American public to the Viet Nam situation is contained in her poem published here.

United States Marines, Uncle Sam's Marines, Marines, Devil dogs, Leathernecks,
all words describing units, divisions, forces of the Corps.
Men make up this Corps. Men gave these names to the Corps.
Men from 18 years to over 50 years of age. Men, some of whom can't vote, yet defend our freedom.
Men to be proud of, Men to boast about, Men to defend.
But underneath this hardness, lie boys. Boys like the ones next door. Boys like your brothers. Boys like the high school football star. Boys like the college graduate.
They weep. They laugh. They play. They work.
All of them are sons, brothers, husbands, sweethearts.
They belong to the Corps because they believe. Believe in freedom, right and God.
They fight because they are told to. But they fight also because they hate.
Hate what they are fighting against.
They kill, wound and maim. Because they have to. They do this for us, Americans. So we can continue to live the lives we do.
Their hearts break when they see senseless slaughter of villages because of the stupidity of power minded men.
Their hearts go out to fatherless children. Their hearts cry when they see the helpless sick.
Their feelings are hurt. Their minds don't comprehend their hearts. Their emotions cry because of us, their country.
We denounce them, we criticize them, we ridicule them.
We take away their Faith, Faith in country, freedom and esprit de corps.
We are the ones who should be criticized, ridiculed, denounced. Those of us who care are apathetic. Apathetic about telling those who do not care.
How can these men believe? We give them nothing to be proud of.
How can they survive? We give them no reason to live.
In order for a Marine, Leatherneck or Devil dog to be proud they have to believe and love.
The love never fails but the beliefs become distorted.
Whether stateside or overseas—if you are a Marine be PROUD.
If you know a Marine be PROUD.
If there is a Marine in your family be PROUD.
If you LOVE a Marine be PROUD.
Defend this Marine, help this Marine.
Help him to believe by believing in him, thus regaining belief in your nation and belief in yourself.

Stay Loose

By RALPH DEEVER

Happy Birthday, Old Man. How were the first 190 years?

Tell me your stories about Tun Tavern and the "Brown Bess" musket and the Mameluke Sword and Tripoli and the Creeks and Seminoles. How was the action at Vera Cruz? Was it bad at Chapultepec? Tell me your stories, Old Man--birthdays are made for memories.

Sing me your songs of Belleau Wood and the Mademoiselle from... wherever she was from... and how far it was to Tipperary.

Tell me how you fared the great flu epidemic, the heart-breaking rain, the body-breaking, oozing, endless mud, the relentless machine gun fire, the rattling, roaring, artillery. Tell me about wheat fields, and the Argonne and Soissons. How was Dallas and New York and Los Angeles and... and Oshkosh, after you'd finished your war "over there"?

How were your island treks in the 1940's? Did you seek the glory you attained, or did it come unbidden, or was it thrust upon you? Did you sorrow for those you lost at Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Iwo Jima? Did you feel pain for your own, crawling through jungles, wading volcanic sands, engaging the enemy in mortal combat?

You cleaned your weapons, stood listening posts, looked at the Southern Cross, went on patrols, slept when you could, and thought about "someday, someday--home." You stood your ground, or advanced to stand new ground; you fought--asking no quarter, giving none; you cried in the privacy of night for things you could not change; you won your struggle and came marching home in victory.

Old Man--you proud old man--read us again the saga you wrote in frozen Korea. Especially, quote us passages from the Chosin chapter; the verses of Inchon; the legends of Reno and Carson.

How is it, Old Man, that you show no marks of age? How is it that you are not stooped or withered or aged by age, like lesser men? How is it that you stay youthful, and vigorous? I draw this from the endless procession of new faces, new spirit, new allegiance in your ranks? Nicholas, Hendrick, Lejeune, Daly, Basilone, and on--these men are mirrored in your stances, your countenance, and your stride. Are you really men... recreated?

Tell us, you grand old man, of your present enterprises--in-the-making. What names and faces and places and honor are being added to this very day--this very minute--to your vast volumes? How will you lose... How much will you sorrow... What sacrifices will you make? How straighter and taller and stronger will you stand, when you come home, as always, to victory?

We hear these grand old men as we salute you, and as we salute that same old man, Hurry, Old Man, and all you will. This promise ebbs, is always short, is like a bird upon the wing, and cannot get our fill of it.

Another 190 years hence, who are now gathered here, will have relinquished our places to someone else. We'll be replaced and recreated. We won't be here, but others will and they, like us, will say "Happy Birthday." Happy Birthday, you Grand Old Man!

Birthday Greetings from President of United States

"As Commander-in-Chief, it gives me great pleasure to send greetings and best wishes to the United States Marine Corps on your 190th Birthday.

The responsibilities which face the Marine Corps today are numerous and heavy. You have met them admirably. The nation is grateful for your strength and effectiveness, which are greater today than ever before in your long and distinguished history.

I know that you will continue to encourage high caliber men and women to choose a career in the Marine Corps and add their talents, imagination and dedication to the defense of our nation and the support of our national policies."

Chaplain's Corner

The chaplains of Camp Lejeune are very pleased to use this space as a means of wishing all Marines everywhere a very happy birthday.

Your Corps is 18 days older than ours, but our respect for you is not based upon your greater age. It is based upon an effective working relationship almost two centuries old, and upon a very high regard for your fighting prowess, your proud traditions, and your high patriotic, moral, and religious ideals.

In war and in peace, we chaplains join the rest of America in saying, "We're glad the U. S. Marines are on our side!" Your finely-honed edge of readiness, your valor, and your devotion to your country and your God, have been the difference, on several momentous occasions, between victory and disaster.

On your birthday, our prayer for you is: "Almighty and Everlasting God, we invoke Thy divine presence among us as we pause to honor the birthday of the United States Marine Corps. We pray for a continual sense of pride in our uniform and an ever increasing loyalty to the ideals of the Corps. Help us to serve Thee and our cause that wherever we will be blessed by a just and enduring peace. We pray for the families and the dependents of our Marines. Watch over them and keep them safe from all evil and harm. May they ever be loyal to their men, giving them encouragement in their duty as good Marines. Draw us all together in one heart to serve Thee, Our God, all the days of our life. Amen."

The 'Follow Me' Division

This is the Marine Corps' 190th year. Some of those years have been full of glory. Some of them have been pretty lean. Even so, throughout those 190 years, it's been the same Marine Corps.

It's the same Marine Corps that wrote the book on amphibious operations during WW II; and the same Marine Corps called upon to carry the ball during the Korean "police action." This same Marine Corps continues to do the job, to answer the call.

Contrary to what some critics claim, the Marine Corps doesn't rest upon its laurels. When trouble broke out in Lebanon in 1958, 2d Marine Division units didn't float ashore on laurel leaves. They came ashore ready.

When the rocket rattling began over Cuba, 2d Division Marines were on call again; ready.

Still they trained: Operation Quick Kick—seven of them to date. Operation Steel Pike I. Med-cruises, Carib-cruises, cold weather training in Norway, jungle training, and more. Much of it outside the U.S.

This meant many hours away from wives, sweethearts and families. But the training went on, always with the idea of being ready.

Ready they were.

During its Silver Anniversary year, the Division found itself back in the headlines, when the 4th Marine Expeditionary Brigade answered the call to protect American lives and property in the Dominican Republic. (This wasn't the first time Marines had set foot on Hispaniola, either.) To almost anyone in the free world, and some outside it, "Marines" and "Santo Domingo" became nearly synonymous.

So it continues; the Marine Corps celebrates its 190th birthday, and 2d Division Marines pin on a new ribbon. Some simply add a star—they got their ribbon in another hemisphere.

The Division is proud of its 25-year share of Marine Corps history, but you don't wear ribbons on your utilities.

In this, the Corps' 190th year, the training goes on, while headlines hint at trouble. The 2d Division remains at the ready.

FORCE TROOPS

Force Troops, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, was activated on April 1, 1951, with 15 diverse and highly specialized battalions and companies, directly under the Commanding General, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic; with the mission of providing heavy combat support and heavy combat service support for the 2d Marine Division.

From their first home at Camp Geiger, more than 14 years ago, Force Troops has provided their specialized support in every fleet-wide amphibious landing conducted by the Atlantic Fleet, plus independent assignments in the U.S. and abroad.

In the past year, Force Troops has again been called upon to provide the necessary support and power-punch to fulfill many training exercises and actual missions.

In November, 1964, units of Force Troops, along with the 2d Marine Division, began returning to the U.S. after participating in Operation Steel Pike I, in Spain, which involved 28,000 Marines from the Fleet Marine Force, plus Spanish Marines.

In February, 1965, the 2d Tank Bn., and other support units of Force Troops, participated in Exercise SNOWFEX-65 at the U. S. Army Cold Weather Training Center, Camp Drum, Watertown, N. Y.

During February, Force Troops provided a crew from the 2d Amphibian Tractor Bn., to participate in recovery operations of the GEMINI-3 launching at Cape Kennedy, in coordination with the National Aeronautics Space Administration (NASA).

On March 5, 1965, the first two buildings of the proposed multi-million dollar Force Troops complex were officially opened as Maj. Gen. A. L. Bowser, Commanding General, Marine Corps Base, turned the keys to the structure over to BGen. Donn J. Robertson, CG, Force Troops.

At the end of April, Force Troops units boarded ships with units of the 2d Marine Division and traveled to the Caribbean to protect the U. S. citizens during the Santo Domingo crisis.

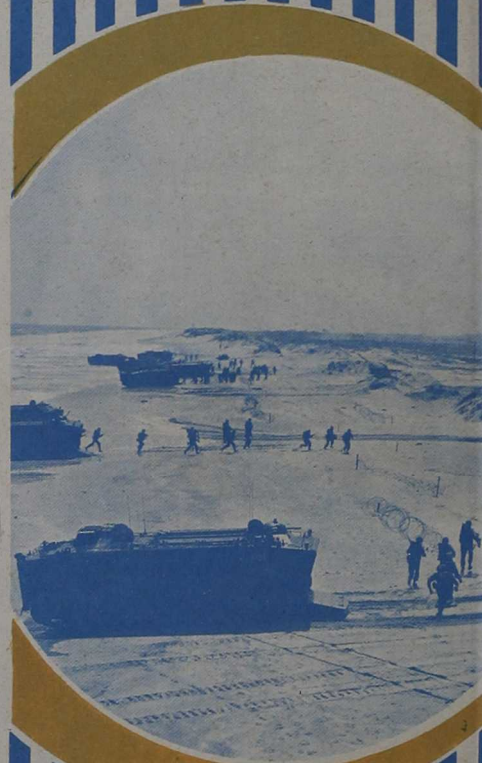

In July of this year, Force Troops picked up its first regimental size unit as the 2d Force Service Regiment became a unit.

On Sept. 3, 1965, BGen. John G. Bouker assumed command of Force Troops, relieving BGen. Donn J. Robertson. Bouker came to Force Troops from the 2d Marine Division, where he was the Assistant Division Commander and CG of the 4th MEB.

From Oct. 4 to Oct. 14, 1965, Force Troops Marines participated in SWAMPEX-65, a combination of counter-insurgency, counter-guerrilla warfare and civil action, staged in Eastern North Carolina's Croatan National Forest. The 16th Marine Expeditionary Brigade, was commanded by BGen. John G. Bouker, CG, Force Troops.

On Nov. 1, 1965, Force Troops picked up another unit as the 3rd Force Reconnaissance Co. was activated, administratively and operationally under the command of Force Troops. 4d Force Recon. will be subsequently deployed under operational control of the CG, Fleet Marine Force, Pacific.

The Marines of Force Troops can be proud of their accomplishments in the past year, as in all years, in helping to maintain the Marine Corps' title, "Force-In-Readiness."

Devildog Boxers Down Navy, 7-2

The Camp Lejeune Boxing Team traveled to Oceana Naval Air Station, Va., last Thursday to open the 1965-66 season by romping over the Navymen in seven out of the nine-bout card.

Only nine Leatherneck fighters out of the 22-man team saw action as Coach Rogers paired several of his first year men against the seasoned Naval boxers.

Charlie Davis, the 1965 Interservice Bantam Weight Champ, led off the series of local victories by decisioning John Mayo from Cinclant.

The 125 pound boxer worked with a series of left and right hooks scoring heavily over his opponent. Both fighters rocked each other once during the first round but it was Davis' fight from the bell. In the second round, Davis was all over his man landing stiff hooks to the head and body. The third round evened out as both boxers exchanged a series of flurries with a split-decision going to the Marine corner.

In the 139 pound class, 1965 All-Marine Champ Harrison Payne picked up where he left off last year by scoring a TKO in 1:53 of the first round.

Marv Harris from the USS Francis Marion opened the round with a series of straight right hooks which caught Payne off balance but "the bomb" regained his form and connected with a straight left and a right hook to the head, sending his man to the canvass for the first TKO of the evening.

First year man Frank Grace, a 147 pounder, entered the ring for the first time last Thursday only to stay for 1:30 as he TKOed Marv Gangi from the USS Vulcan with the form of a professional. Grace unloaded a series of left jabs and hooks from the bell and downed his man before the bout had hardly started.

Marv Ely made his debut as a Marine boxer to drop a split-decision to John Lujan from the USS Liddle. During the first round, Ely stayed with straight jabs to out score his opponent. In the second round, Ely was all over his man knocking Lujan into the ropes throughout the entire round. During the third round, Ely slipped on the loose canvass but it was scored as a knockdown resulting in the split-decision.

In the 156 pound class, Frank Davis recorded Lejeune's third TKO as he dropped his Naval opponent in 1:30 of the third round. Davis opened the bout by unloading a series of left hooks and straight rights upon his opponent Bill Nicholsen from the USS Vulcan. Davis continually rocked Nicholsen until the round ended.

The Navy fighter came back in the second round and planted a powerful right to Davis' head which made the local boxer fight all the harder. In the third round, Nicholsen bombarded Davis scoring a knockdown but Davis came back to down his man for good to record a TKO.

Heavyweight Charlie Dwyer, who had fought for Lejeune two years ago, increased the Marine's domination of the evening by decisioning Sam Fox from VF 103.

Dwyer brought the action to the Navyman from the onset of the bout, overpowering Fox with right and left hooks. During the first round, Dwyer connected with a powerful combination to the head, dropping Fox for the mandatory eight count.

In the second and third rounds, Dwyer continued to overpower his man to record Lejeune's sixth win.

Virgil Alston dropped the only other decision of the evening to Vic Fagan from Little Creek in a heads up battle. Alston beat his man to the punch throughout the first round but Fagan managed to edge the Leatherneck in the final two rounds for the win.

In the main bout of the evening Lejeune's Floyd Stevens met one of Virginia's top fighters, Gregory Lamur. Lamur, a student at V. M. I. fought Stevens early this year during the National Jr. AAU Championships to lose a close decision to the local boxer.

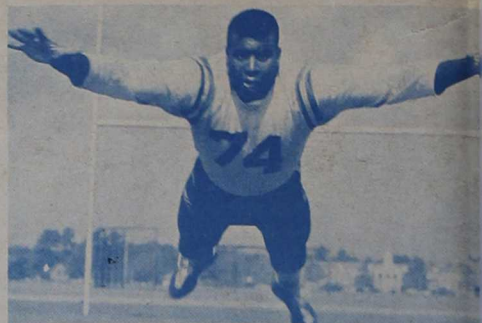

The contest last week was far from close, however, as the greatly improved Stevens dominated the bout from the bell. Stevens relied on his left hook throughout the fight, dropping Lamur for the eight count during the first round. Stevens out fought his opponent for the remainder of the fight, scoring an easy win.

On November 18, the Devildogs will travel to Dam Heck, Va., to take on the Navy for the second time. Most of Lejeune's big men from last year will fill the card and should return home with an easy victory.

Down and out

FRANK Grace entered the ring for the first time to TKO Marv Gangi in 1:30 of the first round.

TACKLE Charles Hayes will be one of the reasons the Quantico Marines will not be able to penetrate the Lejeune line.

Lejeune hosts Quantico at Cherry Point Day

The Camp Lejeune Football Team will have a chance to avenge themselves this Saturday as they play host to the Quantico Marines. The local eleven, who fell to the hands of their Virginia counterparts by the score of 36-12 on Oct. 30, will have the advantage of their home field and should be able to reverse the tables.

The scoreboard of their last encounter, however, does not tell the true story. The Lejeune-eleven, plagued by penalties, played heads-up ball and were able to make good yardage.

Quantico, who now holds a 4-3 season record, knocked-off Villanova University last weekend by the score of 21-0. The Virginia squad, however, opened their season with straight losses before their first game.

The local Devildogs, who hold a 4-2 record, opened their season with four straight wins before falling to Pensacola Quantico.

The game, which will be under way at 2 p. m. at Liversedge Ball Park, is designated as Cherry Point Day. During the half-time show, 2d Marine Air Craft Wing will present a static display. Pre-game and half-time will also be performed by 2d MAW.

The two pros will bowl three games with the winners of the C. and H. Series Club Tournament being held this Saturday, Nov. 13 at 5 p. m.

Quick audience

WHEN a Vietnamese troupe of 45 performers arrived at Nang unexpectedly, word of mouth filled a theater with MAW men within minutes. The cultural performers, affiliated with the Army of the Republic of Viet Nam, presented variety acts, songs and traditional dances for an hour.

music-makers are part of a cultural group affiliated with the Army of the Republic of Viet Nam (ARVN). When they landed at Da Nang, the Vietnamese headquarters suddenly learned the U. S. Marines, if they'd like to schedule the show. There was one group also had to today for performances of Vietnamese and American ensembles. Within minutes, the theater-

Variety acts from magicians to Beatle imitators to classical Vietnamese dancing filled the theater for an hour. Then the troupe left for Quang Ngai, 75 miles south of here.

MOVIE REVIEWS

WHAT A WAY TO GO

The wild and wacky misadventures of a girl named Louisa who's out to prove the best things in life are "fun."

Starring are Shirley MacLaine, Paul Newman, Robert Mitchum, Dean Martin, Gene Kelly, Bob Cummings and Dick Van Dyke. In Cinemascope.

SONS OF KATIE ELDER

John Wayne, Dean Martin, Martha Hyer and Michael Anderson, Jr. star in this action-packed western. Katie Elder bore four sons. The day she was buried they all returned to the Texas town of Clearwater to pay their last respects.

From the four winds they came, the four brothers, their eyes smoldering and their fingers itching. In Technicolor and Panavision.

Starring in this penetrating production are Michael Parks and Celia Kaye.

HARLOW

Famed platinum blonde Jean Harlow's incendiary rise to movie stardom began when she met Hollywood agent Arthur Landau. Carroll Baker and Red Buttons portray these top roles in Joseph E. Levine's epic Technicolor and Panavision film "Harlow."

SHOCK TREATMENT

Stuart Whitman, Carol Lynley, Roddy McDowall and Lauren Bacall star in a setting of mystery, intrigue and psychopathic killing.

A bizarre mansion is in view. It bespeaks wealth but smacks of the sinister. We see its well-kept grounds and a gardener honing the blades of a large hedge clipper. He completes his task and walks through the rose garden, his love of the blooms indicated by the tenderness of his touch as he works among them. We see what are apparently three dog graves. His face curiously expressionless, Martin Ashley heads for the house.

HIGH WIND IN JAMAICA

In 1870 when a ferocious hurricane finally thrashes itself out of the island of Jamaica, Frederick and Mrs. Thornton decide that their five children must be sent to England for an education. They feel that their children's personalities are being affected by the primitive pagan beliefs of the islanders.

Anthony Quinn, James Coburn and Lila Kedrova star in the world of piracy and adventure on the high seas. In color.

SHE

Adventure, fantasy, spectacle and romance are the ingredients of one of the world's most famous novels. H. R. Haggard's "She," which is brought to the screen in Cinemascope and color.

OWC, MCAF

Mrs. R. L. Hawley and the wives of HMH-461 were the hostesses of the November "Salon of Fashion" luncheon at the MCAF Officers' Club.

Topercer, and M. Rader. Mrs. D. Althoff humorously depicted what the Marine Corps wife should not wear by unexpectedly appearing in the most undignified costumes.

Mrs. R. L. Hawley gave the commentary and Mr. Andy Owens from Johnson Music Co., provided organ music. The coiffures were styled by Nu-Charm Beauty Salon. Mrs. L. L. Parker of Marcy's Dress Shop was a special guest.

MCAF Girl Scouts

Girl Scout troops of the Marine Air Corps Facility processed over 9,000 letters for the Christmas Seal Sale which opens November 16. The girls represented troops, 44, 66, 80, 188, 124 and were under the direction of Mrs. Dolores Myers, neighborhood chairman of the scouts.

The letters are to go to the residents in Onslow County, which is now a part of the area association, Southeastern North Carolina Tuberculosis Association. All letters are coded so that contributions from each county can be counted separately and each county will derive specific benefits from the money given.

Mrs. Myers expressed satisfaction with the work of the Scouts, saying their enthusiasm passed her expectations. The work was completed in record time.

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C.,--"HANDLE CAREFULLY! COOKIES FOR VIET NAM MARINES!"

These directions are appearing on five-gallon cookie tins being sent to U. S. Marines in Viet Nam by their female counterparts serving here.

The project, undertaken by more than 20 Woman Marines began last month when Lance Corporal Julianna Makoski and Privates First Class Ruth Burris and Gloria Burgess wanted to make Christmas a little merrier for combat Marines in Viet Nam.

Sparked by a recent article in the Parris Island BOOT newspaper, outlining what Marines in Viet Nam wanted for Christmas, the "Lady Leatherneck" began enlisting the help of other Woman Marines.

"All of the Woman Marines we talked to were more than willing to lend a hand in the project," said LCPL. "Some of them even enlisted the aid of other

Through combined efforts the Women Marines baked more than 10,000 cookies for their off-duty comrades using materials purchased at their own expense.

According to 1st Lt. St. Stevens, Women Headquarters Company, the project is a commendation for Women Marines. The action will let the Marines in Viet Nam know that the female counterparts have not forgotten them."

At present, the Women Marines are purchasing dehydrated soft drinks to be sent to Marines in Viet Nam along with the cookies.

LanForMed 2-65 comes to aid of Russians

Navy and Marine Corps units deployed in the Mediterranean often experience unusual happenings, but very few can compare with that of Landing Force Mediterranean 2-65.

The USS Fort Mandan, dock landing ship of Amphibious Squadron Four, changed course when a request for medical assistance was received from the Mexgorie, a Russian freighter from Leningrad.

Lieutenant M. F. P. Maser, assistant medical officer, Battalion Landing Team 2/2, and a medical party proceeded by small boat to answer the call. Accompanying Lieutenant Maser were Ensign R. H. Walker and Hospitalman Third Class L. G. Johnson.

Lieutenant Maser discovered that Captain Zhdanov, the freighter's skipper, was suffering from a kidney stone that a Russian corpsman had previously diagnosed as appendicitis, needing immediate attention. Lieutenant Maser assured the captain that it would be safe for him to continue on his voyage.

Upon departing the freighter, Lieutenant Maser's party was personally thanked by its crew members, and saluted by the ship's whistle meaning "thanks."

The Fort Mandan was enroute to Morehead City, N. C., to disembark Camp Lejeune Marines of BLT 2/2, when it assisted the Russian

PFC Charles W. Bosley breaks rifle range record

Private First Class Charles W. Bosley (Geneva, N. Y.), an automatic rifleman in Company K, 3d Battalion, 8th Marines, 2d Marine Division, broke the existing range record for the M-14 rifle on the new Marine Corps Requalification Course ("X" course) at the Camp Lejeune Rifle Range, Oct. 29.

Bosley topped the old range record of 193 held jointly by three other Marines by six points with a 199 out of a possible 215. When asked how he felt about breaking the record he said, "It feels a little funny to get so much attention all at once."

In addition to breaking the range record PFC Bosley was promoted to his present rank and named regimental "Marksmanship of the Month."

Bosley attributes much of his success to the offhand position. When asked why this was so he said, "All week long the highest I fired was 127, and I was having most of my trouble in the offhand. Qualification day I fired a 33 out of a possible 35 which did a lot for my ego, and after that I just held them and squeezed them."

"I like to fire because it makes me feel relaxed," is the answer Bosley gave when he was asked how he felt about firing the rifle.

Last year he qualified as a Marksman on the "A" Course, with a 206.

Columbia Univ. offers new career after retirement

New York's Columbia University is offering fellowships under a New Careers Program. Applicants for the New Careers Program must have held responsible positions and while there are no definite age requirements, preferences will be given to applicants between 35-50.

Successful candidates will receive a fellowship which will enable them to complete one year of full-time study in appropriate undergraduate or graduate courses at Columbia University. Past experience indicates that New Career Fellows who perform well during their first academic year receive fellowships or loan aid from other sources to finance further study.

New Career Fellows are eligible to use Columbia University's vocational guidance and career placement facilities.

For further information, application forms, and school bulletins, interested persons may write to the Director, New Careers Program, School of General Studies, Columbia University, New York, New York 10027.

Horse show Nov. 14 at Rocking 'H' Ranch

Invitation is extended to military personnel of MCB, Camp Lejeune, Marine Air Facility and Marine Air Station to a Horse Show to be held Nov. 14 at the Rocking "H"

Ranch. The Grand Entry Parade will start at 1 p. m.

The Rocking "H" Ranch is located about four and a half miles west of Highway 258 on Catherine Lake Road. (County Road 1001). The RJ on Highway 258 and Catherine Lake Road is at Baysden Store, some ten miles northwest of Jacksonville towards Richlands. Guide signs and route markers will be posted at road junctions and along the routes leading to the Rocking "H" from Highway 258.

A special event of the Horse Show will be the appearance of the Parade Horses that are owned by Ed McLawhorn of Morehead City. The saddles, bridles, and other trappings are heavily ornamented with sterling silver and each set is valued at over $6,500.

Another event that should create considerable interest is the Calf Roping.

The other nineteen events, or classifications, each carry a trophy and four ribbon places. Each of the four places carries points towards the Grand Championship and Runner-Up Trophies on a 4-3-2-1 basis.

Reservist at NMFLR aids in combat heat-stress test

A Marine going from here to Viet Nam this winter may expect a change in temperature of up to 100 degrees. Due to the severe temperatures, heat exhaustion has become a serious problem in Viet Nam.

For this reason the Camp Lejeune U. S. Naval Medical Field Research Laboratory has set up a heat chamber to test the effects of heat on an individual under scientifically controlled conditions. The doctors measure perspiration, skin temperature, and heart rate.

Until recently, however, it was impossible to get an accurate reading of heartbeats under conditions which cause heavy sweating. The perspiration created an electrical impulse which interfered with the delicate equipment used to monitor the heart rate.

This problem has been solved by Lieutenant Commander W. G. Holcomb. Holcomb, a member of the U. S. Naval Reserve, spent two weeks active duty with the Research Lab in September 1964. While here, he recognized the need for a device which would more accurately monitor an individual's heart rate under the stress of severe heat.

During the following year he developed, during his spare time, a unique cardiometer which is unaffected by perspiration. Upon Lt. Holcomb's return in October 1965, the instrument was tested and found to exceed in accuracy any device previously used.

The cardiometer has possible uses in many fields of medical research. It could be used in the aerospace program or for measuring the heart rate of patients undergoing anesthesia.

Lieutenant Commander Holcomb's achievement is unusual in that the work was done in his spare time and in a field with which he was not previously familiar. His civilian job is that of a research engineer for Airborne Instruments Incorporated, Huntington, N. Y.

Gen. W. M. Greene, Jr.
Commandant
U. S. Marine Corps

Today, November 10, 1965, we commemorate the 100th anniversary of the founding of our Corps, and pause momentarily to reflect on the glories of the past while celebrating another year of service to our Country.

From its humble beginning in 1775, the Corps has grown in stature until, throughout the world, the word "Marine" has come to connote that which is finest in the profession of arms. The high regard was dearly purchased for today's Marine by those Marines who preceded us. The cost was unflinching service "in every clime and place," from the inferno of every mission; uncompromising service "in the rain forest of Major Waller's Samar. Ultimately, the cost was tens of thousands of Marine lives given in action.

Our obligation to Marines past—to keep these traditions untarnished—is not easily discharged. However, today's Marine continues to display the same qualities of courage, dedication, and fidelity which have been Marine characteristics for the 190 years of our existence. During the past year, these qualities were clearly shown in the Caribbean and are daily being demonstrated by Marines in Southeast Asia. While we cannot foresee what the future may hold for us, we do know that whatever demands are imposed, whatever mission is assigned, we will be ready. For that has been the way of Marines past; that is our way; and that is part of the heritage which we will pass to the Marines who follow us.

To all Marines everywhere—regular, reserve, retired—and to their families, I send personal greetings and best wishes on the 100th Birthday of our beloved Corps.

One hundred and ninety years ago, the U. S. Marine Corps began a record of service to its country of which every Marine, past and present, can be justifiably proud.

The position of respect in which our Corps is held, by friend and foe alike, has been achieved by the Marines who went before us and is being maintained by the Marines of today.

It is appropriate on this anniversary that we rededicate ourselves to the ideals of freedom and democracy, and to the enhancing of our position as the nation's "Force in Readiness."

It is also fitting that we salute the Marines who are not with us — those who are upholding the finest traditions of the Corps in Viet Nam, in the Caribbean and the Mediterranean.

Happy Birthday to all Marines and their families on this, the 190th Anniversary of the founding of our beloved Corps.

MGen. H. Hickerson, Jr.
Commanding General
MCB, Camp Lejeune

On the 190th anniversary of the founding of the Marine Corps we have occasion to reflect with pride on nearly two centuries of honorable service to our country. From the birth of the Republic, Marines have always been in the vanguard of their country's defense.

During the past year, Marines again have been called upon. In the Dominican Republic our own Division demonstrated clearly its vigilance and strength. In Viet Nam our comrades are stalking a new, elusive enemy—and beating him with the same determination and professionalism that has typified the Corps through its history.

As we today celebrate our birthday we must continue to dedicate ourselves to the goal of constant combat readiness. In this rapidly changing world there is little time to recall the past; we must vigorously prepare for the challenges of the future.

To all Marines of the 2d Marine Division and their families, my best wishes on the 190th anniversary of our Corps.

SGen. O. R. Simpson
Commanding General
2d Marine Division

I think it is proper on the 100th anniversary of the founding of our Marine Corps that we should take time out to examine the factors which have brought our Corps to its present position of high prestige and esteem in our nation.

Ideals have played a major role in the development of our glorious traditions—traditions which have seen us through innumerable conflicts in which Marines have distinguished themselves by their valor and determination facing tremendous odds.

But, in the end, our pre-eminence has been achieved because these ideals sprang from the hearts and souls of men—men who have answered the call to arms in our proud Corps—men who are engaged in vicious fighting today in defense of the freedom of people they have never met.

Through 190 years, Marines have been called on to play their part in the defense of freedom, and have never been found lacking the necessary qualities of courage and devotion to duty. On this Marine Corps Birthday, each of us should dedicate himself to the proposition that when we are called, we will not be found lacking.

I wish to extend to all the Marines in Force Troops, my congratulations on the fine job they are doing, and my best wishes to them and their families for the future.

SGen. J. G. Souker
Commanding General
Force Troops, FMFLant
