SWAMPEX-65

5,000 Marines ready for big guerrilla hunt

By: SGT. ROBERT O. SHAW

SWAMPEX-65 IN CROATAN NATIONAL FOREST, N. C.—The 1965-66 hunting season opens in Croatan National Forest this week. Man and beast alike will become targets in the bush, as game hunters seek wildlife and almost 5,000 Marines of the Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, hunt guerrillas.

The Marines (Infantrymen, pilots and support personnel from Camp Lejeune, Cherry Point Air Station and New River Air Facility) will meet in the Croatan area for "SWAMPEX-65", a large-scale counter-insurgency exercise, commencing Oct. 4 and running through Oct. 14.

In recent years, Marines have engaged in a Corps-wide program of orientation and training designed to meet the challenge of hit-and-run tactics used by guerrilla forces. Recent Marine successes in Viet Nam are proof that such training pays off. The grassroots tactics of well hidden American patriots who delivered murderous fire upon red-coated British regulars during the American Revolution has been woven into present day Marine infantry tactics—with a few twists.

During SWAMPEX-65, Marines in civilian clothes will build villages in the forest and act as characters in a planned scenario.

Other Marines, equipped and clothed as guerrillas, will attempt to exploit the existing government and turn local civilians against the Marines.

The script calls for the solution of a political/military dilemma which takes place in "Dozo," a province of a small country named "Ringo". Ringo is beset by marauding guerrilla forces from its neighboring country, "Elvis."

Those bearded Marines you see roaming the area are not "beatniks" or non-conformists. They are Marine personnel engaged in SWAMPEX-65.

Attempts to crush guerrilla resistance and provide adequate protection for U. S. installations in Ringo have resulted in heavy casualties among "Ringonian" friendly forces. At a point in this series of events, the Ringonian government has asked for military assistance from the U. S. The 16th Marine Expeditionary Brigade is immediately sent to Ringo and begins counter-insurgency operations.

Aside from guerrilla fighting, MEB Marines and Navy Medical personnel will initiate civic action programs in the villages of "Dozo Province." Water purification, sanitation, agricultural training and educational improvements will be taught to village headmen and their people. In an effort to teach them to help themselves and show our good will.

TWO-LEGGED GAME—Guerrilla Chief Pedro Rojas, played by Maj. H. V. Martin (center), plots mayhem against fellow Marines participating in Exercise SWAMPEX-65, due to start Oct. 4 in Croatan National Forest, N. C. Two of his cohorts, Mario Chavez and Roman Miranda, portrayed by Capt. H. W. Baker (right) and Lt. R. D. Barba (pron. BAR-BAY), discuss ambush locations. The Maj. and his force of guerrillas will attempt to rout a force of over 3,500 2d Division Marines from the forest. Spanish-speaking "civilian" Marines in mock villages located in the snake-infested swampland will add realism to the ten-day exercise. (Photo by LCpl. S. L. Downing.)

Captain Jessie H. Sutor will leave Captain Frank T. Norris, Commanding Officer at the U. S. Naval Hospital Friday, Sept. 24, 10 a. m. Attendance by invitation and will be held at the front of the hospital.

Captain Norris is a native of Holly Springs, N. C. He was commissioned in 1939, following graduation from Temple University, Philadelphia, Pa. Prior to reporting to Camp Lejeune, he served in the Personnel Division of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Captain Norris and his wife, Courtney, have three sons.

Captain Sutor, a native of Memphis, Tennessee, graduated from the University of Tennessee, College of Medicine in 1938. He entered the Medical Corps of the regular Navy in 1940. Before reporting to Camp Lejeune, he served as executive officer at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Yokosuka, Japan.

Winter Uniforms

Winter Service Uniforms become uniform of the day on Oct. 27, 1965. Now is the time to get those "greens" out of mothballs and into the cleaning shops.

SPECEX will demonstrate use of air-ground teams

More than 1,000 students from military staff schools will witness a demonstration of the Marine Corps' air-ground teamwork in a special purpose exercise to be conducted in the Camp Lejeune complex, Oct. 18-20.

Brigadier General Ormond R. Simpson, commanding general, 2d Marine Division, will be the overall coordinator for the three days of demonstrations. Division Marines; 2d Marine Aircraft Wing personnel, Cherry Point, and Force Troops, Atlantic, will participate in the SPECEX.

Students to view the SPECEX

on one of the three dates include members of Amphibious Warfare School, Air War College, Naval War College, National War College, Armed Forces Staff College and U. S. Navy Surgical Team personnel.

SATS exhibit

The visitors will view exhibits, displays and observe demonstrations of East Coast Marine air-ground teamwork. The 2d wing will demonstrate the short airfield for tactical support (SATS) and close air support utilizing live ordnance.

An assault on a fortified position by Division Marines will be aided by further Wing close air support.

Visitors will have an opportunity to see an entire battalion landing team exhibited. This will include closeup looks at Marine equipment and weaponry display in a county fair exhibit.

A complete battalion landing team air and amphibious assault across Onslow Beach will climax each day's viewing.

Morning activities will concentrate on the employment of aircraft as the students get a closeup of short airfield tactical support, a close air support

Why the Marine Corps must accept draftees

The Marine Corps once again finds it necessary to set aside temporarily its traditional all-volunteer status. This step was not taken lightly by the Commandant, but was decided upon only after careful study and analysis clearly indicated that it would serve the best interests of the Marine Corps and of the nation.

The United States' commitment in Southeast Asia has resulted in a heavy call upon the services of her Force-in-Readiness. Approximately one-third of overall Marine Corps combat strength is involved in the fighting in Viet Nam alone. Obviously, this vital undertaking cannot be adequately supported with austere "normal-times" personnel strength. Accordingly, on August 9, 1965, Secretary of Defense McNamara authorized an increase of 30,000 Marines.

Although the authorized increase merely indicated that this add-on strength was to be achieved during FY 1966, the current activities in Viet Nam present a compelling case for reaching the strength objective as expeditiously as possible.

There are two basic ways to effect a quick build-up of forces such as that presently required: mobilize the Reserve or draw from the civilian manpower pool as rapidly as possible.

Why not reserves?

The Marine Corps Reserve unquestionably has the capability of meeting the increased strength requirement. However, the Reserve is not being utilized at this time because a partial mobilization to fill this support role would largely destroy its capability to respond to its primary mission of providing a ready combat force in the form of the 4th Division/Wing team. The Marine Corps Reserve is a true force in reserve designed to meet a combat requirement at such time as a specific mission is identified and assigned. A "rank-filler" support role is also included in the Reserve mission, but it is included primarily to meet the increased requirements for additional forces incident to a mobilization.

General Greene emphasized his position on proper employment of the Reserve during hearings before the House Armed Service Committee on Aug. 18, 1965. He indicated that he saw no reason to have the 4th Division/Wing Team sitting around on the West Coast waiting for an assignment. When there was a positive job for them to do, he added, he would ask that they be called at that time and was certain they would respond quickly and well.

The only remaining possibility, then, is to build-up the Regular Marine Corps. This can be done through retention of personnel currently on active duty, selective acceptance of Reservists for voluntary active duty, and conversion of civilians into Marines. The Marine Corps is doing all three.

The Secretary of the Navy authorized the retention of enlisted members of the Navy and Marine Corps for a period of four months beyond the end of their enlistments. He also authorized a plan for the retention of certain officers. The retention authorization became effective on Aug. 20, 1965, and is expected to provide a net increase of about 6,000 enlisted men in FY 1966.

1000 reservists volunteer

According to the best estimate that can be made at this time, somewhat less than 1000 enlisted reservists will come on active duty voluntarily. Thus, over 23,000 civilian youths must be procured for the Marine Corps during FY 1966, over and above the originally programmed recruitment quota of about 39,000.

This additional manpower requirement could conceivably be met through volunteer enlistments if the input could be programmed over the entire fiscal year; however, action could not be commenced until authorization was given on Aug. 9 and the tempo of activity in Viet Nam dictates that the authorized increase in Marine Corps strength be achieved at the earliest possible time.

Like all other elements of the Marine Corps, the Recruiting Service is austere structured for "normal" conditions; however--and again like all other Marine Corps activities--it is capable of making a "short dash" of increased capability in excess of its usual level of performance. There is a limit, though, beyond which it is infeasible to proceed without a considerable degree of reorganization. This reorganization, of course, takes time, and time is simply not available.

Since it involves unpredictable human behavior, estimates of the maximum number of men who will voluntarily enlist can never be precise; nevertheless, a well-reasoned estimate was made of the number of volunteers which can be enlisted between August 1965 and February 1966 (inclusive) with the basic Recruiting Service currently in the field. This estimate was then compared with the required input figure to reach the needed personnel strength at the end of this time period. The shortfall turned out to be approximately 9000 men.

4050 draftees in Nov.

The Commandant has, therefore, requested an input of 4050 men from the Selective Service System during November. Additional draft calls, if any, will be determined at a later date. Acceptance of these draftees is predicated upon the conviction that a temporary departure from all-volunteer status is of lesser significance to the welfare of the Marine Corps than is an early achievement of authorized strength.

Those who are drafted will be a reasonable cross-section of young American manhood, just as the volunteers are. Granted, the volunteer is more strongly motivated toward the Marine Corps at time of enlistment; the draftee will gain that motivation during Boot Camp. Considering the high caliber of drill instructors presently on the job, however, plus the relatively small number of draftees involved, it is anticipated that there will be no significant lessening of manpower effectiveness through the assimilation of the non-volunteer personnel. It is worth noting that some of the most illustrious pages of Marine Corps history were written while draftees were in its ranks.

It has been a long-standing tradition that only those who actively seek admittance are considered for acceptance into the Corps. The marriage between man and organization is simply more compatible that way. For this reason, not one more man will be drafted into the Marine Corps than is required to meet manpower objectives. But the manpower objectives, upon which Marine Corps combat capability is based, WILL BE met.

Volunteers are still the preferred candidates for Marines, as has always been the case. The Recruiting Service is operating at flank speed to uncover and screen sufficient volunteers, but is incapable of spreading itself thinly enough to locate every possible prospect; however, all Marine Corps recruiters are not necessarily still in uniform. Reserve and retired Marines, members of MCROA and Marine Corps League, and former Marines as individuals, can all provide another vital service to their Corps by serving as informal recruiters. No one is better able than they to locate, evaluate and motivate young men to follow in their footsteps.

Stay Loose

By RALPH DEEVER

"Answer that," someone said; "it might be the phone."

It was.

"To who am I speaking?" I asked.

"Whom," he said, "What I was calling about..."

"Just a minute, there," I said; "If I may be so bold, is it Corporal Whom, Sergeant Whom, Field Marshal Whom, or who?"

"Oh, no...no...let's start over."

"Maybe we'd better," I said, "Now...what's your rank, Whom? For who do you work? What was the purpose of your call intended for?"

Then, we started over again, and he explained that he and some of his associates--I didn't ask their names--wondered if I'd handle one of their pet peeves in my column. "Civilian clothes," he said; "that's our peeve, and we thought if you'd make something out of it in print, maybe somebody would read it, and it might do some good."

"Wait a minute," I said; "you're getting into something pretty controversial. Over half the world's population is civilians. You do away with civilian clothes, where's that leave them?"

"No, no you don't understand. What I meant..."

"I'll tell you where it leaves them. It leaves them out in the cold, that's where it leaves them. Furthermore, my wife and kids are civilians. If I put in my column 'Do away with civilian clothes,' where's that leave me? I'll tell you where--it leaves me single, two households to maintain, alimony payments, child support..."

"What I meant," he said, getting a little edgy, "was the way Marines wear civilian clothes."

"Boy, you shook me for a minute. I thought..."

"I know what you thought," he said. Then he explained that his concern was not only Marines' taste in civilian attire, but the haste with which they do it at every slightest opportunity.

"A man goes home to take his wife or one of his kids to the doctor," he said, "and he puts on civvies. He goes out to a ball game, thinks he should wear his uniform, wears civvies. He checks out leave...in civvies. The military uniform for him: civvies. He wears civvies to work in the morning, changes into uniform at the office; then, at the end of four-thirty, you can find him busily engaged at getting into civvies for the trip to his quarters. Sometimes, you'd think he's ashamed of his uniform."

"Oh, I don't think it's that. It's just that civilian clothes are authorized for wear during duty time, as you know. No wrong with them for leave, liberty, sports events, etc."

"Oh, I know that. How do you know it? Every time I bring the subject, such authorization of civvies is reviewed and we're told, 'But the point I'm trying to make...'"

"I wear civilian clothes when I'm off duty," I said.

"Don't you?"

"Sure, I do," he said; "but I don't spend half my time changing just to make sure I don't wear my uniform more than is required."

"Well, neither do I; but you might be surprised at how many do."

"Well, I don't know what to do about it," I told him; "not really. A Marine in appropriate civilian attire, in accordance with regulations, is strictly within his rights."

"Turn that around," he said. "A Marine in regulation uniform is strictly within his rights, too."

Say, he's right!

"You might even go a little beyond that," he continued. "Marines are authorized to wear civilian clothing, but civilians--are not authorized to wear the Marine Corps uniform. Just Marines. How does that like that?"

I liked it.

"To whom shall I give credit for this idea? I asked him."

"Hey, you got it right at the time--whom. May I offer my congratulations?"

"Thanks," I said. It was only after he'd hung up that I realized I'd goofed. I still didn't get his rank and organization.

Chaplain's Corner

Beginning sunset Sunday night September 26, and for 10 days following, some of your friends who are of the Jewish faith will be observing the most important days of their religious calendar.

The first two days of these High Holy Days are known as Rosh Hashanah (the religious New Year), called the Day of Judgment. While God judges His children every day and every moment, the Synagogue teaches that on this day in particular He summons each for a full accounting. Jewish tradition has beautifully embroidered and elaborated this thought. It visualizes a court of Justice over which God sits enthroned to pronounce judgment.

These Holy Days are set aside as days of Holy Convocation and are dedicated to prayer, meditation and the life of the spirit. Physical labor not of emergency nature, is abstained from so that Jews may be free to concentrate all their energies on reflection and worship. On these days Jews pray for the deliverance of mankind from sin. The sounding of the Shofar (ram's horn) as recorded in the Bible for these Holy Days reminds the worshipper of obedience to God, our Shepherd.

There are 10 days of penitence which follow and end with the Day of Atonement. The characteristic observance of this Holy Day of the Jewish Religious year is fasting and prayer. The purpose of this is indicated in the biblical text which commands: "The tenth day of this seventh month is the Day of Atonement. You shall afflict your souls." (Leviticus 23:27). Fasting is discipline of the body which Jews believe leads to a humbling affliction of the soul. By fasting we indicate that on this day pleasure is to be sacrificed for the sake of the soul.

While Judaism has never scorned the normal needs of the physical life, it selects this day for the demonstration that man does not live by bread alone, that neither food nor drink is important to man as children of God and that our vital needs are to achieve a sense of harmony with the Eternal God, the Creator of mankind. We are all His children, hence brethren one to another, serving Him in the ways known best to ourselves.

20 years ago The GLOBE said ....

(Taken from Sept. 19, 1945 edition of the GLOBE.)

A camp special order issued last week details Col. Lewis B. Puller as senior member of the Camp Exchange Council relieving Col. Alfred R. Peley.

General A. A. Vandergrift, Commandant of the Marine Corps, has announced that effective immediately male officers and male enlisted personnel of the Marine Corps with 70 or more points and all Marine personnel 35 years of age and older would be eligible for discharge.

Camp Lejeune's bowling exhibitionist, Joe Miller, rounded up his 10-day stand with an appearance before a packed house at the Area Five Service Club last Thursday evening.

Drummer-man Ray Bauduc, former All-American drummer with Bob Crosby's pre-war band, brings his tom-toms and his orchestra to Camp Lejeune Thursday night for a four-hour outdoor dance.

Numerous violations on the part of motorists have been endangering the lives of school children traveling on Lejeune school buses. It is absolutely necessary for all drivers to stop their vehicles, on or off the base, when they are following directly behind a school bus.

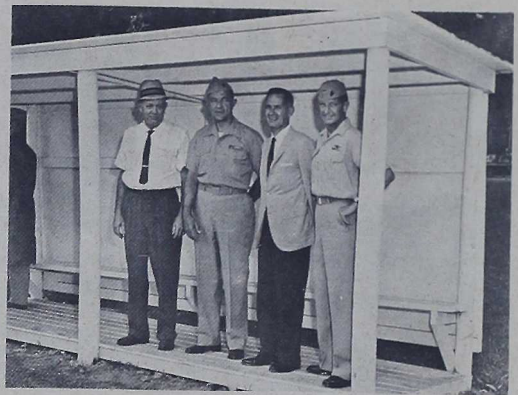

Packages mailed home from servicemen overseas are undergoing X-ray scrutiny in the Los Angeles post offices to detect articles banned from the mails. More than 1,000 packages are undergoing the close scrutiny of the X-ray machine in the post offices daily.

Another dungaree dance is scheduled for the Engineer Battalion at the Courthouse Bay gymnasium on Tuesday. Women Reserves will be guests.

A Marine night fighter squadron in the Second Marine Air Wing had many surprises from the first week of the Okinawa campaign in April until the Japs threw in the towel five months later. It was the night the squadron's new enlisted mess hall was opened over the job of messmen. Explained Marine 1st Lt. Clark Campbell mess officer, "We just wanted to surprise the boys. They've been through a lot and have done a swell job."

There were thirteen cute and snappy lady Marines at the Labor Dance in the WR Battalion area who didn't dance and didn't even talk. They were cardboard and the pert little misses didn't care if they "stood" them all out. Credit for the paper dolls can be traced back to the skillful hand and knowing eye of Pvt. Margaret Kellenberger.

A release from Okinawa stated that a new method of Japanese hara kiri was witnessed after this island had been secured and nothing but small isolated groups of Japs remained at large. A Jap soldier found an unattended amphibious tractor standing in a field near the island's southern tip, reports Sgt. George R. Voigt, Marine Corps combat correspondent. Clambering onto the vehicle, the Jap mounted the gun turret, and stood stiffly at attention. Marines nearby did the rest.

DOD tells Credit Unions to give aid to lower ranks

Special financial assistance for lower-ranking enlistmen is one of the main provisions in a new directive credit unions serving Department of Defense personnel.

Signed by Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus Vance,

Directive 1000.9 encourages the operation of one credit union at each installation for military and civilian personnel.

In accordance with accepted practices, the directive excludes, lending policies should be as liberal as possible and will be consistent with the interests of the credit union and the individual member.

Specific reference was made concerning guidance to be afforded military members in pay grades E-1, E-2 and E-3 in securing a loan for budgetary purposes.

The new policy points out that without charge, skilled counseling should be available to all members.

Emphasis on young

Emphasis was placed on particular attention to the youthful and inexperienced servicemen and young married families. Such guidance should help personnel solve money problems and budget effectively. The assistance and instruction should continue, until problems can be solved without aidance.

The directive notes, "To be avoided are unnecessarily restrictive, unreasonable, or outdated rules on the size of loans, type and amount of security, or waiting periods before loan eligibility can be obtained."

To pay off a loan, military personnel are encouraged to use service allotment privilege. The directive points out that

Credit Union Closed

The Credit Union will be closed Monday through Thursday (Sept. 27-30) for closing out of books and to move the Credit Union from Bldg. 1402 to Bldg. 58 (lower left wing.)

credit unions used by DOD military and civilian personnel, "are to be recognized and assisted at all echelons as important morale and welfare resources."

A feature of the credit union is a regular savings plan that pays dividends on purchased shares.

Legal briefs

Being in service does not mean that you can move and break your lease whenever you feel like it. Many people find themselves in a real bind when they present permanent change of station orders to their landlord. PCS orders and a military clause in your rental agreement may mean an easier time of things when you do have to make a move.

Get that military clause in your lease before you sign it! Don't expect every landlord to be reasonable when you get a transfer, he stands to lose income when you move. When you sign a lease you are entitled to those things which are contained in it. What the landlord said he might do doesn't count.

Don't hesitate to tell your legal officer the whole story when you consult him concerning a problem. What you tell him, unless it concerns a crime you are going to commit, will be held in the strictest of confidence.

You have the benefit of what the courts call an attorney-client privilege concerning everything you tell your legal officer in confidence. Only by knowing the whole story can he completely assist you in finding a solution. Oftentimes he will see additional problems which you cannot when he has all of the facts.

Then again he may give you the happy news that you have no serious problem at all!

Marine "Sweetheart" plays Broadway stage

Gunnery Sergeant Frank Cronin, Comm Support Co., 8th Comm Bn., is justly proud of his niece, Jackie Cronin.

Jackie was the 'Sweetheart' for the Regmtl. Sixth Marines when Sgt. Cronin was a member of that outfit. More recently, though, her talent and beauty bring pride to the family from the Broadway stage.

She appeared in the hit show entitled "High Spirits". Jackie also performed on the September 13 premiere of the Steve Lawrence show and then returned to New York City to further her career.

Jackie attended Adelphi College in New York and from there entered such off-Broadway shows as "Best Foot Forward" and "Bye Bye Birdie".

Miss Cronin's schedule is so tentative that she cannot schedule many family visits, but she does plan to visit her Uncle here when her agenda relaxes to allow it.

Jackie's parents reside in Elmira, New York.

CamLej Girls' Club offer varied instruction classes

By: MARTY DOUCETTE

Officers of the Camp Lejeune Girls' Club met Monday to discuss business at hand and to make plans for up-coming programs.

Mrs. Ereda Hoopes, commissioner of cheerleading, gave a full account of the progress made. About 75 girls have registered but at least fifteen cheerleaders and two mascots are still needed. Mascots should be between the ages of 5 and 7 years and do not require an athletic card. Also, at least two more instructors are needed. All interested may contact Mrs. Hoopes at base ext. 2-2975.

Mrs. Hoopes also announced that transportation is now available for cheerleaders in the Berkeley Manor area. The bus leaves Stone St. and the Water Tower at 4:30 to take the football players to Tarawa Terrace field. The bus departs the Tarawa Terrace field to return to Stone St. at 6:45. Arrangements have been made for the cheerleaders to ride this bus.

Mrs. Virginia Holzkamp, president of the Girls Club, outlined plans for the sewing and exhibition skating classes which are next on the agenda for the club. Mrs. Becky Stephens, chairman of activities, appointed Mrs. Julia Garcia as commissioner of sewing. The first series of sewing classes will be for the 8-9 and 10-11 olds. Classes will begin on Oct. 2 and continue thru Oct. 11. They will be on Saturday mornings from 9-10:30. Classes for older age groups will be planned according to ages.

Mrs. Garcia informed the officers that the only material that these young ladies will need in order to enroll in sewing classes will be one yard of inexpensive cotton material and one spool of white thread—either 40 or 50 weight. Time of place for registration for sewing classes will be announced next week.

Skating classes for ages 9, and 10 will get underway the first Wednesday in October. These classes will also be on Wednesday evening from 5 to 6 p.m. The instructor will be Mrs. Lou McClintock. Classes will continue for six weeks. There will be a rental fee of 25 cents for those not having their own skates. Registration for these classes will also be announced next week.

All girls participating in cheerleading, sewing, or skating activities must first obtain an athletic card from the Fld House. This card costs $1.

Club President, Mrs. Holzkamp, encourages all old members of the club to please renew their interest in club activities. All adults interested in joining the club should contact the membership chairman, Mrs. Marilyn Nicolson, 253-3462.

results of USO survey

Christmas gift ideas for those in Viet Nam

If you were an American Marine on active duty today in Viet Nam, 8,000 miles from home, what would you want for Christmas?

The USO asked the question at its three clubs in Saigon, Da Nang and Tan Son Nhut and released the results of the survey just completed.

Here's the GI Christmas check list from Viet Nam:

- more letters from home
- more pictures and snapshots of loved ones and friends, metown and neighboring activities
- more hometown newspapers
- current and popular magazines, even if they are out of date on arrival
- an increased demand for pre-recorded messages which are played back in the "Tape" room now found in USO Clubs overseas. (There is a marked increase in the exchange of tapes with family and friends; pre-recorded messages are rapidly coming the most popular means of communication with day's generation in the Armed Forces overseas.)
- Still high on the list of pre-recorded presents overseas are homemade cakes, candy and cookies—but please, not store-bought—repeat homemade. A word of caution here—careful packaging and wrapping is, of course, a necessity with easily damaged food goods and special attention must be given their mailing.
- "The way the cookie crumbles" is not funny in Viet Nam. These homemade tasty treats mix well with the like-home hamburgers and creamy, thick milkshakes the Marine can get at all USO Clubs in Viet Nam. Low on the list of wanted for Christmas are personal jewelry, billfolds, cameras; all of which are available in the military PXs in Viet Nam at lower retail prices.

Specifically on the not-wanted list are cumbersome gifts and civilian clothes.

Send gifts early

Now here's a word to those planning to send Christmas and holiday gifts overseas. Plan ahead is the watchword. Gifts sent by surface transportation may take up to 45 days before they are received. Mid-October is the latest to mark on your calendar when gifts should be mailed overseas for holiday and Christmas arrival.

Among the variety of requests appearing in this USO survey in Viet Nam was one request also for "lots of Christmas Cards."

Incidentally, it is confidently expected that the three new USO clubs General William C. Westmoreland, the American Commander, has requested for Viet Nam will be in full operation by the time Santa Claus is making his rounds. The three clubs will be at Cholon, Bien Hoa and a second one at Da Nang. These clubs and the additional USO Shows requested are being provided by the American people, principally through their local United Fund and Community Chests, and by means of independent fund raising campaigns in New York City and Chicago.

New shows

USO will also play Santa with 16 USO Shows traveling the world bringing holiday entertainment to our troops stationed overseas, even in the most remote corners of the globe. Five college groups and six professional units will be departing during early December, with an added bonus of at least five "celebrity" shows. Already firm are commitments from Roy Acuff and the Grand Ole Opry, and from Bob Hope, the perennial symbol of Christmas to millions of GIs.

their way to Norway to participate in Exercise Bar Frost-65, Sept. 17-23. Accompanying the ambassador is Capt. Donald Festa (near foreground), company commander, and 2nd Lt. Walter Dyke, the honor guard commander.

A lonely Marine's night of terror

By: SGT. GREG PEARSON

DA NANG, Viet Nam, Sept. 16—The sounds and sights of war are chilling to a young Marine on his first night of watch on a Viet Nam outpost.

The area is heavily infested by the Viet Cong. Every noise, every movement is a menace, a potential threat.

For war takes on a different character at night. The enemy is shrouded and moves through the darkness like a phantom.

The young Marine, newly arrived from the States, lodges himself between two boulders. Another Marine is ten feet to his left, another that far to his right.

But he has the feeling of total isolation. He can see no one, hear no one.

He looks and he listens. The moon is full, the stars glitter, with swaths of clouds flitting among them.

Crickets chirp in the heavy darkness, toads croak, mosquitoes peck at the Marine's sweaty face, his hands and his arms. In the trees above him a bird makes a steady, weird, plaintive screech, like a kitten in distress.

A breeze runs past the hill. Shrubbery shudders, cornstalks sway in the field at the foot of the hill, the tree leaves rustle. The young Marine looks and listens.

He knows Marine patrols are out in the area in front of him. He also knows the Viet Cong is there, hidden in deep, winding caves.

Or sneaking toward him.

In the distance a Marine howlitzer booms. Nearer, a helicopter churns through the darkness. A cloud momentarily blocks the moon. The night becomes blacker.

Small arms fire through the stillness somewhere on the other side of the hill. A small, two-engine plane drones overhead. It drops flares over the valley, lighting the area. But the silhouettes appear even more menacing.

The Marine knows the Viet Cong move with umbrellas at night. When flares brighten the sky they provide near perfect concealment, flattened on the ground.

The young Marine's eyes strain. Sweat drops more profusely from his face. His wet fingers are slippery on his rifle.

He wishes daylight would come. If he could just see the other Marines on the outpost he would feel better. Then he wouldn't seem so isolated, so terribly alone. He hungers for a cigarette. He knows it could be fatal to light one.

If only daylight would come. But it is still dark. The Viet Cong is out there.

The young Marine looks and he listens.

Early payday bill cleared by Senate

The Senate has cleared a bill that would allow the services to pay uniformed personnel as much as three days in advance of their regular pay date.

Service officials sometimes advance payday, but are held liable for collecting money advanced to persons who die before earning the pay. Under the bill, beneficiaries are not required to reimburse the government.

The new authorization would provide all-service uniformity, an official said, and help personnel collect their pay without waiting a day later when the payday falls on a weekend or holiday.

An example of the three day maximum advance is a payday falling on a legal Monday holiday. The bill would authorize payment the preceding Friday, instead of the day after the holiday.

Also, Saturday and Sunday paydays could be held on the preceding Friday. Should Friday be a legal holiday, pay could be received on Thursday.

The policy would apply to both check and cash payments.

Cast named for 'Harvey'

The three-act comedy play "Harvey", by Mary Chase, is now in its third week of rehearsals. Much has to be done by the hard-working Lejeune Little Theater group to ready itself for its tentatively set opening of October 14, 15 and 16 at Camp Lejeune.

All indications, however, point to a play that should surpass any comedy production by the group so far.

LT. ERNESTINE PHILLIPS, USN, portrays Betty Chumley. She is stationed at the USNH in the Medical Service Corps as Assistant Food Service Officer. She has been active in theater work on stage and back stage. She holds a Home Economics degree from West Virginia U. and has done graduate work at Shady Side Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pa. She is also assistant secretary for Lejeune Little Theater.

WENDELL COLLINS, HN, USN, plays Dr. Chumley. He is attached to "F" Co., 2/8. Wendell, a native of Vero Beach, Fla., makes his second appearance as the chief headshrinker of Chumley's Rest, having portrayed the part while working with the drama group at Indian River Junior College, Ft. Pierce, Fla. In addition to his interest in drama, Wendell is also studying music and art.

Camp Lejeune's Garden of Eden

By: PFC D. E. HAILE

Take a 109,047 acre tract of land with unlimited conservation possibilities. Take an organization, like the U. S. Marine Corps, dedicated to restoring, improving, and preserving the natural resources for public as well as military use.

Stir in ingredients such as lack of funds, coordination problems, and water pollution. Season well with an administration that is determined to make progress and members of a Rod and Gun Club who are willing to volunteer their time, personal resources, and skill.

If you can imagine this situation, you have an idea of the problems facing conservation authorities at MCB, Camp Lejeune, and you also have an insight into why the base's conservation program has been making progress.

The base is home for an abundance of wildlife. It has more than 65,000 acres of farm land capable of sustaining wildlife; and 26,000 acres of water.

Beginning at the time the base was purchased, the Forestry Management program is the oldest organized conservation program of the base.

The estimated timber resources of Camp Lejeune at present are 180 million board feet and 207,000 cords of pine, 48 million board feet and 189,000 cords of hardwood. Cutting is performed on a ten-year rotation plan with about 6,000 acres being cut each year.

Trees to be cut are marked by personnel of the base Forestry Section. Cutting is supervised by the section to insure that contractors abide by their agreements with the base.

Controlled burning, reseeding, construction and maintenance of timber access roads and firebreaks are also responsibilities of the Forestry Section. These projects open up the forest to hunters and aid in reducing fire hazards in the woods.

Wildlife food

Wildlife food plots also come under the supervision of the Forestry section. Members of The Rod and Gun Club with help from local Boy Scout groups aided in establishing and maintaining 40 food plots ranging from 1/4 acre to 5-1/2 acres in size. Plans for about 25 more food plots are under consideration.

These food plots provide wildlife with food and cover and serve to concentrate game animals for civilian and military hunters.

Water conservation

Water conservation on the base presents some of the largest problems in the overall conservation program. A survey by North Carolina authorities showed pollution levels in areas of New River, the Inland Waterway, and Southwest Creek to be above acceptable limits.

Although immediate action in this area of the conservation program are limited, the potentially dangerous situation is not going unheeded. Base officials have included four secondary sewage treatment units in the military construction plans for the fiscal years 1967-69.

Two major projects initiated by the base Rod and Gun Club will increase the use of the available water resources on the base.

Seven fresh water ponds have been limed and fertilized in preparation for stocking with bass fingerlings and bluegills by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The project was completed this year and the ponds were stocked in May. Rod and Gun Club members have posted "NO FISHING" signs around the stocked ponds and are fertilizing them.

Wallace Creek

The second project initiated by the Rod and Gun Club that will increase the amount of usable fresh water as well as increase the use of present water is the construction of an earthen dam on Wallace Creek.

Federal authorities inspected the area in 1962 for possible use as a migratory waterfowl site. The plan was turned down because it was believed the dam would not hold the 200 acre lake basin if a heavy rain fall were encountered.

In 1964, members of the Rod and Gun Club voted to investigate the site again for boating, fishing and other recreational uses. The U. S. Soil Conservation Service is presently conducting this investigation.

Only cypress trees will be left standing in the lake basin and the surrounding area will be made into a picnic and general recreational park. If the plan is approved, construction will begin later this year or early 1966.

A 200-ACRE LAKE BASIN will be produced up-stream from this site if the Wallace Creek Dam project is approved.

Other projects

The Rod and Gun Club has participated in a number of conservation projects other than those listed above, including the establishment of weighing stations for hunting statistics on deer and bear; providing the chief huntmaster, huntmasters, and assistant huntmasters for organized deer and bear hunts; and initiating a program of official photography to record progressive steps undertaken in conservation field.

The Club also planned an extensive program of brush clearing along fresh water streams to provide adequate fishing and picnic areas. To date, about 1,500 feet of stream banks have been cleared.

Wood duck boxes have been built on local ponds and more are planned for this winter, providing food for wild ducks in some of the marsh areas.

In the past five years, 27 turkeys have been captured and released in other parts of the state. Club members aided representatives of the North Carolina Resources Commission and the Base Game Warden's office in this project to help increase the turkey population of the state.

Conservation education is an important part of the overall conservation program at Camp Lejeune. Included in this program is an area of 220 acres located near the Junior-Senior High School.

This acreage, unsuitable for troop training or hunting and fishing, contains six miles of nature trails. An excellent outdoor classroom for conservation studies, the area is maintained largely by school students and scout groups.

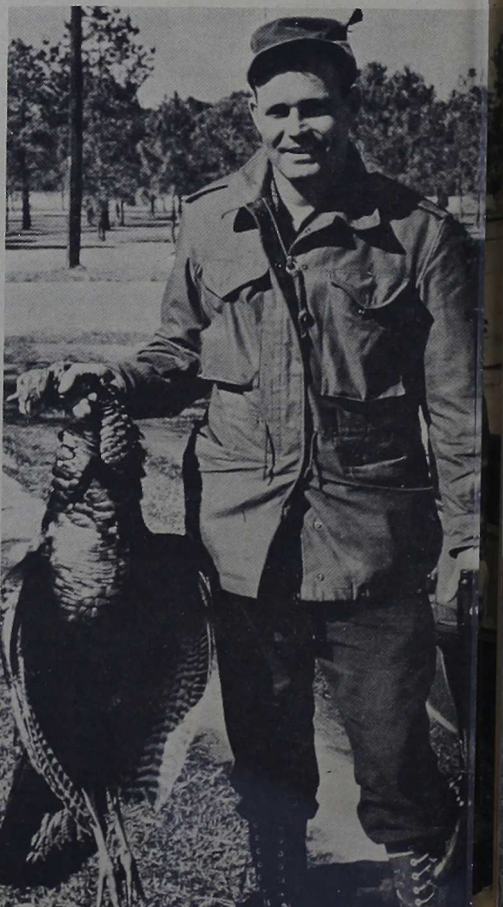

The conservation projects mentioned above are only parts of the overall plan for this Marine Corps Base. Many of the projects overlap and assignment of responsibility becomes complex.

It should be emphasized that the results and progress that have been made are due to the high degree of cooperation among base, county, state, and federal officials.

Such co-operation and unselfish donation of their spare time by members of the Rod and Gun Club can only serve to have this conservation area fully realize its potentials for military and civilian use.

DEER AND BLACK BEAR are two game animals taken by civilian and military hunters on the rich gamelands of Camp Lejeune.

CAPTAIN EUGENE A. BERRY, President of the Camp Lejeune Rod and Gun Club, poses with his prize "tom" turkey on the base.

THESE DEER WERE TAKEN on one of the five organized hunts conducted by the Rod and Gun Club of Camp Lejeune last year.

Learn history at its origin; right here at Camp Lejeune

(First in a series of seven articles concerning historic landmarks located within the confines of Camp Lejeune.)

Marine Corps history in Onslow County as we know it today, only dates back to early spring of 1941 but settlement of the area dates back over two hundred years.

Three Englishmen were the first white settlers in Onslow County arriving here in 1705 at Town Point on the New River. Town Point was located about opposite the main part of Camp Lejeune today.

Within the next 8 years, 35 other families settled in this area. Today Onslow County is one of the fastest growing counties in North Carolina.

Oddly enough, many of the landmarks which mark the growth and history of Onslow County are located here at Camp Lejeune.

This article and the ones to follow will point out the landmarks, their locations and whatever history can be found concerning them.

Snead's Ferry

Snead's Ferry is no longer there and it has not been operating a ferry for some time. Carteret County first established a ferry system of floats here in 1725. Its present name was given for Robert Snead, who took over its operation in 1757. The bridge presently spanning New River at this point was constructed in 1939.

U. S. ELLIS at New River

During the Battle of New River in the War between the States, on Nov. 28, 1862, the U. S. Steamer ELLIS entered New River Inlet on a mission to destroy vessels found on the river, capture the town of Jacksonville, take the Wilmington mail and destroy any salt-works found. The Ellis reached Jacksonville, but was fired upon by a battery located near the area of Snead's Ferry Gate.

Pest House

Although no official records have been located, local lore has it that during the great epidemics of the 18th and 19th centuries, a crude crematorium was erected about 300 yards north of Snead's Ferry Gate. It was here that the remains of plague and pestilence victims were burned in an effort to reduce contagion.

Good things to know ...

Inspections

For those Marines who think that when a CG holds an inspection, it is strictly for the purpose of harrassment, then perhaps these two comments made by the base CG on an inspection of a unit might prove otherwise:

1. The right shirt pocket of several shirts were incorrectly formed and stitched to the shirt. These shirts could be replaced in kind. The stock of this item should be examined to determine the prevalence of this defect toward possibly reporting faulty manufacturing.

This comment reserved for the edification of lower-ranking troops who might feel that they are the only ones who are guilty of discrepancies:

2. A number of pistol magazines had not been properly cleaned. This was particularly true in the SNCO platoon. The immediate action taken by the platoon leader to correct this was heart warming.

Clothing

Wearing proper civilian clothing is just as important as being in correct military clothing. Civilian shirts (unless they are of the jacket type) should be tucked into trousers.

Saluting

Officers riding in automobiles should be saluted as if they were walking. Officer passengers will always return the salute, remaining seated. If the officer is a driver, he will return the salute, if doing so is not contrary to safe-driving principles.

An officer or enlisted man driving an automobile is not required to render the salute to a senior. Others who may be passengers will render the prescribed salute and return salutes on all occasions. When so doing they will remain seated. If the vehicle is parked, the driver will salute without rising from his seat.

All official cars having passengers in the rear seat may be presumed to be carrying an officer who should be saluted. An uncovered flag plate on an official car or a flag flown on the fender indicates it is occupied by a flag or general officer. This insignia, which is significant of rank of the passenger, requires that junior personnel render a salute.

Huntsville Rockets are next

D'dogs beat A&T

17-14 in 2d victory

It's been at least two years since a Camp Lejeune Devil dog football team has won three straight, but that very thing will happen if the Marines win Saturday afternoon when they play host to the Huntsville Rockets, a semi-pro team from Huntsville, Ala.

The Rockets have a star-studded roster featuring a number of former National Football League performers, among them are several ex-Chicago Bears. They're coached by a former pro standout himself, Bobby Luna, who played with the Pittsburgh Steelers and the San Francisco 49'ers.

Last Saturday, the Devil dogs came from behind to beat the North Carolina A&T Aggies 17-14, before an estimated crowd of 6,000 at Liversedge Field. The win for the Lejeune team, was its second-straight home victory, and sets the stage for the important encounter with the pros Saturday afternoon.

Defensive safety Ron Nay set up the key Devil dog score in Saturday's ballgame with a 24-yard runback of an intercepted pass that put the ball on the Aggie 14-yard-line late in the fourth-quarter. Three plays later, halfback Art Redden carried across from the four and Clarke Blake added the extra-point to put Camp Lejeune ahead 17-6 with only five-minutes left to play.

The Aggies took the ensuing kickoff and marched 75-yards to score on a one-foot quarter-back sneak by freshman stand-out Willie Pearson, but there was little more than a minute of play remaining after Pearson's pass to Conrad Lattimore for a two-point conversion, and the Devil dogs had managed to hold on for their second victory of the young season.

The Devil dogs didn't go anywhere the first two times they had the ball, but late in the first period, Willie Williams alertly scooped up the ball after a fumble by A&T's Nathaniel Jones and the Marines had a first-and-ten at midfield.

Neil Johnston swept left end for ten-yards and a first-down on the 40, and, after an incomplete pass, Johnnie Blount picked up 11-yards on a quick-pitch to put the ball on the 29. Larry Humphries took the ball down to the 15-yard-line on a pair of carries, but the drive stalled there, and Clark Blake came in to boot a 30-yard-field goal to put the Devil dogs on top, 3-0.

The Aggies couldn't gain anything on the following series and punted, with Lejeune taking over on its own 35-yard-line. The Devil dogs moved down to the A&T two-yard-line mainly on the strength of a 29-yard draw play with Clark Blake carrying and Phil Gehringer throwing the key block. A screen pass to Johnston, who turned in a sparkling performance for the second straight week, was good for 16-yards in the drive.

A fumbled handoff cost the Leathernecks six-yards, and a pair of passes by quarterback Jeff Mair were incomplete on the goal-line, so the Aggies took over on their own eight.

Fifteen plays later, A&T had a fourth-and-six situation on the Devil dog 22-yard-line. Linebacker Brian Biggs stopped Willie Pearson after a yard-gain, and the Marines took over with less than a minute left in the first-half. Trying to improve upon their 3-0 lead, the D'Dogs went to the air, but Willie Vaughan picked-off Jim Laurent's pass and took it 25-yards to paydirt. The kick was no good, but Lejeune went to the locker room at half-time, trailing the Aggies 6-3.

Neither team was able to score in the third-period, but the Devil dogs did have one threat blunted on the 13. After Terry Miller recovered a Dick Armstrong fumble, on the A&T 47, a pass to Johnston and a pair of runs by Blount, one of them another successful quick-pitch, took the ball to the Aggie 20. Fullback Blake went up the middle for seven to the 13, but there the drive bogged down, and A&T took over.

A few plays later, the Aggies had a fourth-and-19 situation from their own two-yard-line. Neil Johnston fielded the A&T punt on the 33 and carried all the way to the Aggies' five-yard-line, but a clipping penalty moved the ball back to the A&T 37. A 19-yard-pass from Jeff Mair to Johnnie Blount gave the Marines a first-down on the A&T 18 as the third-quarter ended. Four plays later, Mair hit end Don Bartolazzi with a 21-yard-scoring toss and, after Clark Blake's kick, the Devil dogs had regained the lead, 10-6 with 14-minutes left in the game.

Nay's pass theft and the resulting touchdown came nine-minutes later, and even though A&T scored again, the D'Dogs had accomplished what a few observers had thought was almost an impossibility, beating a bigger and faster North Carolina A&T squad.

Saturday afternoon, the Devil dogs will be playing another big, fast team, and professionals at that, the Huntsville Rockets. Kickoff time is two p. m., and members of the general public as well as military personnel are invited to attend. There is no admission charge.

a go go

For the second straight week, the Devil dogs have come from behind to win a football game. They beat the highly-rated North Carolina A&T team which outweighed them by a considerable margin, showing the some 6,000 fans in attendance that it pays to be in condition when you play football.

The ground game seemed to be a little smoother Saturday, and the quick-pitch, a play put in to use the talents of halfback Johnnie Blount, worked well on a couple of occasions as did the fullback draw, with Clark Blake carrying.

Coach Cherubini had said his team would pass more last week than they did against Elon, and the two quarterbacks, Jim Laurent and Jeff Mair did throw more passes as opposed to 14 the week before. But only eight were completed Saturday, as opposed to seven the previous week, and for less yardage than the week before, too. Even so, one, a 21-yarder to Don Bartolazzi, was good for a touchdown. It was the first scoring toss by the Devil dogs this year.

Overall, the team did seem to function more smoothly last Saturday and continued improvement is what the coaching staff is looking for. A few of the linemen came in for some rare praise from Coach Cherubini. He praised red team tackles Darryl Lasater and Charles Hines for steady performances. He also credited the team guards Terry Miller and Ned Chappell with some fine work.

End Don Bartolazzi, on the receiving end of a touchdown pass, was mentioned by the coaching staff as doing "a real fine job." Backs Neil Johnston, Phil Carter and Clark Blake came in for their share of the plaudits. Cherubini points to Carter as a player whose performance improves every week.

Cherubini called the team's play "a lot steadier than last week," but said the Aggies' two scores were "gifts." He expects the Devil dogs to be in somewhat better condition (physically) than their opponents at this week, since the semi-pro Rockets don't practice daily as a collegiate team would.

The Rockets will be bringing along some brand-new personnel for Saturday's game after picking up three players who were recently released by NFL clubs, two of them, guard Kent Francisco and end Gary Baker, who had been with the Chicago Bears, and the third, guard Andy Von Sonn was with the Los Angeles Rams. Von Sonn and Francisco, incidentally, are both products of UCLA.

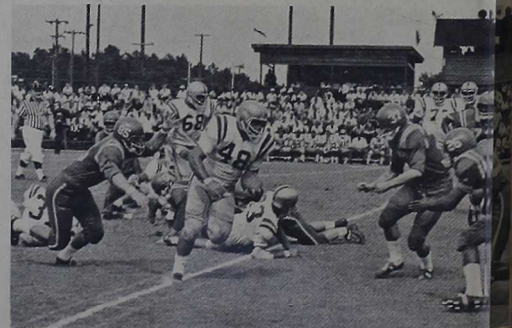

Last weekend, the Huntsville Rockets lost a heartbreaker to Wilmington, Del., 14-13 on a last-minute field goal. With several additions to their roster, the Rockets will present a difficult hurdle.

Cherubini says he's certain that his team can win against the Rockets, and he can be just as certain that the Rockets will be passing against the Devil dogs Sunday. The one advantage the Marines have is that they have been playing together as a unit longer than their opponents, at least if you count practice sessions.

One thing is certain, Messrs. Nay, Carter and Jenkins will get a workout Saturday in that defensive secondary. Compared to what the fans have seen in the way of passing thus far this year, it's going to look like it's going to be a tough football game Saturday.

Devilpups win; season's first

By: JIM PRESKITT

Camp Lejeune's High School Devilpups will play host to the Fort Rams tomorrow night after gaining their first of the young season last 19-0 over Green Central's Rams.

The Devilpups combined a strong defense with the explosiveness of Jim Tinkham, Harvey Hoopes and Tom Horne with the pinpoint passing of Kuzan to shut-out the Rams for Lejeune's first win in seasons.

After Green Central failed to get the ball on its first series, Rams were forced to kick. Tinkham, Lejeune's fine halfback, fielded the ball his own 30 and followed the fine blocking up the left line, outrunning everyone 70-yards and the Pups first down, Harvey Hoopes barked over for the extra point, the second-quarter, Lejeune drove 70-yards on the wing of quarterback Joe Whitton, who hit on four-passes in drive, to account for all but 10-yards of the 75-yard drive. Two of the passes went to Al Harris, with the others to ends Carl Burks and as Nobles.

After passing the ball down the Rams' ten-yard-line, Lejeune gave the ball to halfback Horne who went in from the The extra-point failed but Lejeune led at the half, 13-0. The third-quarter, the Devilpups' offense began to roll, this time grinding out the game on the ground. Halfback Jim Tinkham gained well on end-runs during the drive and hard-running fullback Hoopes had some good runs up the middle.

The drive faltered when the Pups got inside the Rams' 20 and they lost possession on a fumble, but the defensive unit was equal to the task and the line was nearly impenetrable, with Dick Smith and Mike Murphy stopping everything coming their way. Eldon Little and Hoopes turned in fine performances at their linebacking posts, and the defensive backfield of Tinkham, Bullard and Horne limited the Rams to three pass completions in 14 attempts.

In the last quarter, Lejeune scored again on a bruising 11-yard-run by Harvey Hoopes, who had a great night after missing last week's game against Pamlico.

Camp Lejeune High School's junior varsity squad won its first outing 7-0 over the Beaufort JV's Thursday night on the intramural field.

Fullback Duggan Smith climaxed a 70-yard-drive with a three-yard plunge in the third-quarter to give coach John Griffin's junior Devilpups their first win of the season.

Both the Devilpups and JV's play at home this week. The JV's entertain Pamlico County tonight at 7:30 on the intramural field. Tomorrow night, it's the Devilpups against East Carteret with the kickoff coming at eight.

the 11th Frame

By MARGE STINNETT

any high scores were during the week as the Lejeune began to roll. Of our most interesting, certainly most colorful is our Junior League which got underway Saturday night with some 200 youngsters showing up for the open-session.

Divided into three groups, the Lejeune Bantams, Mitey Mites and the Junior Strikers, the Junior bowlers got off to a good start as in Aines (Bitsy Bantams) led a high game of 114, RichardaPrato (Mitey Mites) had a game of 157, and for the Lejeune Lucky Strikers Steve rolled a 204 game and Homer Jim Hensel had a 546. And this is only the beginning!

Thursday afternoon at two, the qualifying rounds of the Tournament of Champions. The six winners in each division (Ladies and Men) were: Miss Ross, Fran O'Mera, and Miss Bailey, Marge Stinnett, Mickey Layton and Jewel Marriott. For the Men—G. B. Tolison, Bob Ausherman, Bob Randolph, Ron Millar, Joe Gaddi and Jim Heverling. These 12 bowlers will compete in the Finals which will be held Saturday, September 25, at five p. m.

The Wednesday Night Officers League turned in seven 200 plus games and six 550 plus series. Homer King led the men with a 588 series and R. Nolf had high game of 233. Lilly Medina rolled a 547 series with a high game of 223.

In the Men's Staff NCO League there were four 550 plus series and eleven 200 plus games. Woody Owen topped the league with a 575 series and Bill Jones rolled a high game of 235 and a 565 series. Ralph Makin and Bob Randolph each had series of 460.

With such scores as these, we all agree, "Another great year is in sight with bigger and better bowling for all."

Boxing team gets publicity for last year's champions

The final cuts in Camp Lejeune's boxing team have been made by Coach Ray Rogers and the squad of 25 fighters is beginning training. Even though cuts have been made, anyone desiring to try out for the team may do so at any time by contacting Rogers at base ext. 7-3125.

Meanwhile, several members of last year's boxing team have received national publicity in a publication entitled "The 1965-66 A. A. U. Boxing Guide." The fighters were all champions in the 1965 National A. A. U. Junior Championships at High Point, N. C.

Six Camp Lejeune fighters won titles in the tourney last year, the largest number of fighters representing a single service to win championships in the event since 1922. Camp Pendleton's 1953 squad equaled that mark.

Last year's winners were; Thurman Hayes, Ray Mullet, Bob Lozada, Harrison Payne, Art Redden and Ken Norton. Norton also was chosen the outstanding fighter in the tourney. The sportsmanship trophy went to Floyd Stevens, a Camp Lejeune Marine who was decided in the finals, and the outstanding coach award was given to GySgt. Rogers. The Lejeune team won the team title, of course.

Rogers will attend a Carolina

A. A. U. boxing committee meeting Saturday at Charlotte, N. C. In addition to holding a coaching clinic, the committee will select tournament dates for the coming season.

Golf notes

In last weekend's Scotch Foursome at the Paradise Point golf course Edna Kinder and Dick Moore finished first in the low gross category with a score of 73. Margaret and Bud Puckett were next with a 74, and Hannah Young and Jim Kinder were third with a 75.

MOVIE REVIEWS

4 FOR TEXAS

Two opportunists meet when they off a gang attacking a stage and from then on try to snare each other until they join to destroy their common enemy. Both end up at the altar. Stars: Sinatra, Dean Martin, Anita Ekberg, Ursula Andress, Charles Bronson and Victor Bruno.

DARK INTRUDER

Director Harvey Hart, working skily, creates an eerie atmosphere in San Francisco in the late 1890's. A mad killer (human or monster) claiming people to death in the streets. This brings Leslie Nielsen a playboy and expert in the cult, into the case as the secret investigator for the local police commissioner, Gilbert Green. Signs soon point to some ancient Sumerian cult.

A VERY SPECIAL FAVOR

Rock Hudson, Leslie Caron, and Charles Boyer, in Technicolor, star in A Very Special Favor. Co-stars are Walter Szrak and Dick Shawn. Hudson is the Rock of Gibraltar of romance, a smooth-operating New York playboy, and Miss Caron is the stranger in paradise, a career girl whose attempts to "dominate" betray chinked armor. The film is a joyful controversy on the subject of the American and European attitudes toward love.

THE THIRD DAY

George Peppard and Elizabeth Ashley star in Technicolor in The Third Day. Co-starring is Roddy McDowall.

The story revolves around the psychological conflict of a man, portrayed by Peppard, who emerges from a car-crash to discover his memory is gone and, moreover, that he is suspected of murdering a morally-dubious young woman. How he gropes through the fog of amnesia; finds again the beautiful but insecure wife, played by Elizabeth Ashley, he nearly loses; saves his position in a large business enterprise, and clears himself of responsibility for murder, are the main elements of drama in this picture.

TAXI FOR TOBRUK

Bring along your canteen for this war drama shot in the North Africa desert. Plenty of tanks, dust and action as the "Desert Fox's" troops tangle with "The Tobruk Rats." Rated good for general audience and stars Hardy Kruger.

Performers sought in local talent hunt

Marines of the quad-command are invited to participate in the Fifth Naval District Talent Contest. Talent try-outs for interested personnel, sponsored by Base Special Services, will be held at the Camp Theater, 8 a.m., September 28.

Anyone wishing to participate should contact Staff Sergeant Newcomb at the Camp Theater, Base Ext. 7-5513 by 4:30 p.m., September 27. If you are unable to call on September 27, be ready to exhibit your talent at the Camp Theater at 8 a.m. Sept. 28.

The Fifth Naval District Talent Contest is designed to discover, develop, and encourage talent regardless of former amateur or professional standing.

Marine Corps personnel are invited to participate in this talent search. All Naval personnel on active duty for more than 90 days are eligible to participate, provided no military reason exists to prevent such competition.

Each command can enter a maximum of three acts. An act is defined as an individual performer or a group of performers who are able to present a good performance in good taste and of an entertaining nature. Such groups will consist of not more than four performers. The running time of an act will not exceed 5 minutes.

Appropriate costumes and specialized properties may be used by any act in this competition provided such items are furnished by the act involved. Normally, the uniform of the day will be worn. No act will be allowed to use specialized scenery.

Expenses for Marine Corps personnel will be defrayed by the parent command.

The Commanding Officer,

U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Va., will act as host for the subject contest to be held on Oct. 5, 1965.

Elimination performances for this contest will be conducted in Building 3504 at 9 a. m., Oct. 5. Participants are urged to bring their own accompanist. However, an accompanist will be provided for personnel who desire this service. All contestants should report to Building 3504 prior to 9 a. m., Oct. 5.

Trophies will be awarded the first, second and third place winners. The names of the first and second place winners and an alternate act will be nominated as candidates for the 1965 All-Navy Talent Contest Finals to be held in Washington, D. C., Nov. 11-13.

Winning acts will be selected on the basis of originality, showmanship, technical excellence, and audience appeal.

U.S. Savings Bonds now 'average-dated'

The Treasury Department has announced that all Savings Bonds above the $25 denomination bought by Federal Agency and Military payroll savers will now be "average-dated". In other words, $50 and higher denomination Bonds will be dated as of the first of the month in which half of the purchase price is accumulated, regardless of the total number of payroll deductions required to buy the Bond.

This change comes at a most appropriate time—just when it can serve as an additional incentive to put part of our recent pay raise into savings.

The fact that two out of three Federal employees are on the Plan is evidence that the convenience of automatic Payroll Savings—and the safety of United States Savings Bonds—have long been appreciated. Now, with the announcement of a liberalized "average-dating" policy, the Bond program and Payroll Savings become even more attractive.

Most of us will want to take a look at the advantages which saving the Payroll Savings will bring to us and our families.

It ought to mean that many of us will be putting a part of our pay raise into United States Savings Bonds, via the Payroll Savings Plan.

2d Med. Bn. Sailor 'Marine of Month'

Hospitalman First Class Lee K. Allen, S-3 Chief, 2d Medical Battalion, 2d Marine Division, was named as Serviceman of the Month for August by the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce.

Monday, HMI Allen was introduced to the Chamber of Commerce's membership during their regular meeting. Allen was scheduled for further honors Wednesday morning in the office of Brigadier General Ormond R. Simpson, CG, 2d Marine Division, when he was to be presented a plaque by the general attesting to his selection.

Personnel selected for Servicemen of the Month are chosen for their general overall degree of excellence. In addition, each nominee is expected to have outstanding traits or characteristics in one or more areas.

Having enlisted in the Navy in May 1954, Allen was assigned directly to Hospital Corps School, Portsmouth, Va., upon completion of recruit training at Great Lakes.

During his 11 years of active service he has attended Operating Room Technician, Medical Administration and Field Medical Service Schools. Tours of duty at the Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J.; Military Air Transport Service, McGuire AFB, N. J.; 2d Marine Aircraft Wing, Cherry Point, and now with the 2d Marine Division round out HMI Allen's career to date.

HMI Allen was selected over other nominees, one from each of the Division's four regiments and eight independent battalions.

port demonstration and the employment of close air support during an assault on a fortified position by Marine riflemen.

Following lunch in the Division's Headquarters Battalion messhall, the students will view a battalion landing team as they tour BLT 2/8's static display in motorized bleachers along Snead's Ferry Road.

Stoner exhibit

Stopping at the county fair exhibits, they will have the opportunity for an examination of weapons and equipment.

question personnel on capabilities and employment. Of special interest at the county fair will be the display of the complete Stoner Series of weapons now under evaluation by the Marine Corps and the LVTE-1 (landing vehicle tracked, mine clearance).

Culminating the exercise will be an amphibious landing across Onslow Beach by 2/6.

SWAMPEX-65 ...

will have to question captured guerrillas in Spanish. Umpires will harass both forces with "casualties", declaring Marines killed, wounded or missing depending upon how the game is played. Supporting equipment—be it a jet attack bomber or a field generator—can be declared "out of order" or "destroyed by guerrilla saboteurs" if the umpires find proof that guerrillas handled it.

Nature will provide her own realism for SWAMPEX-65. Croatan National Forest oozes with salt and fresh-water marshes, "branch-water" streams and stagnant bogs, and a heavy cape of Spanish moss over her twisted thickets of underbrush and lush swamp growth.

Swamp creatures lurk in cool shadows here, waiting for SWAMPEX too. Three cottonmouth moccasins, two copperheads and a four-foot, six-inch timber rattler have been seen by Marines on the Exercise

Director's staff, scouting suitable areas for operations. A 2d Marine Division lieutenant observed that, "What Stoner trick chased out of the forest seems to have taken refuge in Croatan National Forest."

The exercise is not patterned after conditions in Viet Nam; information from operations there indicates that both terrain and the style of warfare in Viet Nam are similar to the SWAMPEX area concept.

A wealth of experience in combat will also aid in realism. Many Marines taking part in SWAMPEX-65 have seen combat in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic this year. The 1st Battalion, 6th Marine Regiment, for example, commanded by lieutenant Colonel W. F. Dodge, returned recently from operations in Santo Domingo. They were part of the Marine Expeditionary Brigade, taking part in operations in "guerrilla-infested" sectors of "Rico."

SWAMPEX-65—Elements of FMFLant from Camp Lejeune, Cherry Point-New River, have begun operations for training exercise "SWAMPEX-65." The exercise will include Marines dressed in civilian clothing. Marines, from now through the operational phase in October will be active in the area shown by dotted lines on map above. Hunters are cautioned to exercise extreme care in the selection of targets while in this area.
