LT 2/2 lands at Aranci Bay

WITH THE U. S. SIXTH FLEET IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, (Delayed)—Embarked Marines aboard ships Amphibious Squadron Four arrived at Aranci Bay, Sardinia, on July 10, in order to conduct a six-day training exercise, after having visited Valencia, Spain.

Oncoming enemy resistance at Aranci Bay, Landing Amphibious Squadron 2-65 set the aggressor-held area three days of simulated resistance.

Marines of "E" Company, 2/2, assumed the aggressor role during the tactical drill. After having been held ashore by helicopters of Unit Two, H&MS 26, they landed inland to set up defensive positions.

The tactical phase of the exercise had been completed, and participants in an intense period of field training.

Marines of "D" Company, 2d Reconnaissance Battalion, gave lectures and demonstrations in the art of rappelling, which is the method of descending from a helicopter or mountain by a single rope.

Troops of each company were also acquainted with the use of rubber boats in classes conducted by the Recon Marines. Groups of men were then given the opportunity to apply what they had learned by actually going out and maneuvering the boats in the water.

After completing the operation, the Landing Force sailed for Palma, Mallorca.

SIGN OF THE TIMES—2d Marine Division-operated coffee bars will be easily identifiable by the large reflective-type red and yellow signs such as this one being installed at the junction of U. S. 17 and Wrightsville Beach Rd., seven miles north of Wilmington. Three of these Marine-sponsored coffee bars will be in operation from 4 p.m., Sept. 6, until 7 a.m., Sept. 7. The other coffee bar locations are at the junction of U. S. 17 and 258, one mile west of Kinston; and at the James Kenan School, two miles east of Warsaw on U. S. 24. Don't take a chance, take a break—and drive safely.

Operation Starlight

Largest vertical envelopment operation most significant Viet Nam victory so far

By: WO JIM SMITH

CHU LAI, Viet Nam, Aug. 23—The Marine Corps' air-ground team, with supporting naval gunfire, has defeated the Viet Cong in the largest and most significant American victory in Viet Nam.

Operation Starlight, a scheduled four-day regimental search-and-destroy mission in the Van Tuong Village complex, 12 miles southeast of here, has thus far netted 600 confirmed Viet Cong dead, 147 suspects detained, and 127 weapons and numerous war materials seized. Naval gunfire, in addition to causing heavy enemy ground casualties, destroyed 39 VC boats.

More than 500 Vietnamese refugees lined the rice paddies seeking Marine protection from the Viet Cong. The refugees were given clothing, food and shelter and provided with medical treatment.

Starlight began at 8:30 a. m. Aug. 18 when three rifle companies from the 2d Bn., Fourth Marine Regiment, were heli-lifted deep into enemy-held territory. Two rifle companies from the Third Marine Regiment, landed simultaneously from amphibious tractors to form a blocking force for the helicopter assault.

Aircraft from Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron (HMM-161) at Hue/Phu Bai and Da Nang-based HMM-261 and 361 landed the three rifle companies with no enemy opposition. The helicopter crews remained in the middle of the fight throughout the day, flying more than 12 consecutive hours supporting the ground units with ammunition, food, water, and evacuation flights for the wounded.

VC fall in defeat

The initial clash with the Viet Cong lasted close to eight hours. The Marine lines held strong. The Viet Cong, with their backs to the South China Sea and supported by numerous 57mm recoilless rifles, 81mm mortars, and heavy automatic weapons, fell in defeat.

"A strong enemy force hit us with everything but the Brooklyn Bridge," reported Marine PFC John R. Womble of Covington, Ky., a gunner aboard an M-48 tank which received four direct hits from a VC recoilless rifle. The tank and the four-man crew never

Division Marines cited for gallantry in DomRep

Six members of the 3d Battalion, 6th Marines, 2d Marine Division were presented awards during formal ceremonies here Aug. 23 for their part in protecting U. S. lives and property during the recent Dominican Republic crisis.

Bronze Star Medals with Combat "V" were awarded to Captains H. W. Baker, CO of Co. L, 3d Bn., 6th Marines and R. C. Cockell, CO of Co. K, 3d Bn., 6th Marines.

The citation praised the two Marine officers for their performance of duty as company commanders during the deployment of their companies in the first Marine Corps helicopter night assault under actual combat conditions. The officers' bravery while leading their respective companies into a sector of the International Safety Zone and later exposure to hostile enemy fire while directing their companies' counter-fire, were commended in the citation.

Navy Commendation Medals were awarded to Capt. J. H. Green, battalion supply, Sgt. A. M. Negron, squad leader with the 1st platoon and Cpl. C. R. Knotts, squad leader with the 3d squad, 3d platoon, both of Company L.

Captain Green was cited for his instrumental and orderly buildup of supplies for organic units and U. S. Embassy personnel during the early critical stages of the landing. Both Sgt. Negron and Cpl. Knotts about 7:30 p. m. last Friday an urgent call was made for the Naval Hospital here.

Cooperation, fast action needs life-giving plasma

Dewey H. Yarley to the Tidewater Regional Blood Center, Norfolk, Va. The call was for six pints of badly needed fresh frozen plasma, O-positive, for two seriously ill patients.

To save time Chief Hospitalman W. P. McCabe asked if the plasma could be flown to the New River Air Facility by a Norfolk plane. A call to the Norfolk Naval Air Station duty officer received a "Can do", reply. Another call to the MCAF duty air traffic controller assured that the field could be opened though normally the field would have been closed at this time and the delivery would have been to Cherry Point.

Chief McCabe received a call at 8:30 p. m. reporting that the plane would arrive at MCAF at 9:15. A driver from the hospital was dispatched to pick up the plasma at the Air Facility gate.

Arriving at the MCAF gate the driver found an MP escort waiting to lead him to the operations tower.

At 10:10 p. m. the blood was administered in emergency treatment at the Naval Hospital.

Reserve strength increased 2,500

WASHINGTON, August 26--Secretary of Defense has announced an increase of in the strength of the United States Marine Corps Reserve. It was announced here today that this will provide a total of 48,000 officers and men in drill-pay units. The increased strength of 2,500 regular Marines which is the result of mobilization requirements for reserve units will increase the Marine Corps Reserve to meet more combat needs.

The new strength of the Reserve will result in the mobilization of some units to additional capabilities. The 4th Division/Wing

Stop a second

By SGT. B. V. DAVIDSON

This is a senseless obituary to those thousands of people who have died in traffic accidents in this area. It is also a living obituary to those thousands yet to die in accidents just as senseless.

It is directed to the owner of a compact car who made an illegal turn into the New River housing area last Thursday night while running a red light.

It is directed toward the owner and/or driver of a brown 1959 auto who threw caution to the winds that same night and backed up on Lejeune Boulevard.

Go to your church as soon as you read this and thank God for the reflexes of the driver in the car behind you who went from 55 miles per hour to a standstill—sideways.

It is a question to those drivers who insist on violating the speed laws. What do you think you are gaining?

It is just about ten miles from Jacksonville to Main-side, Camp Lejeune. Traveling at the speed limit, 55 miles per hour, the trip should take 10.9 minutes, without stops.

If you travel at 75 miles per hour, the same trip takes eight minutes. If you think the two or three minutes saved is worth the risk, just stop a second and think.

Last year 35 military personnel from Camp Lejeune died as a result of traffic accidents. So far this year 15 have died. Just stop a second and think—did any of them try to save two or three minutes?

Last year—1964—citations were issued at Camp Lejeune for 4,702 traffic violations. Just stop a second and think—how many more kids would still have a father if 35 more citations were issued last year. The military police and the traffic laws are here to help you. Let them.

So far this year, 2,437 citations have been issued—15 military personnel have died. This means we are doing slightly better than last year—but just stop a second and think. I know 15 people who aren't reading this article.

I am a career Marine, willing to die in Viet Nam to preserve what I believe in. But no one gets medals for dying on Lejeune Boulevard. If I have to go, let it be for a good reason.

This is written by a photographer with a weak stomach, forced by his job to make pictures of mangled bodies married to a radiator.

LABOR DAY 1962—This accident occurred on Hwy. 258, sixteen miles south of Kinston, N. C. Labor Day 1962. Four in one family were killed, an uncle, a father and two Marine brothers.

Safety message from the CG

"Summertime, and the living is easy—but the driving isn't." In those words, General Nickerson reminded Camp Lejeune drivers that everyone wants to get in the car and go places in warm, sunny weather. Speaking on behalf of the Base Safety Office, and the National Safety Council, he urged drivers to back the attack on traffic accidents and drive with extra care and caution.

"Since September is such a big vacation month, we're urging all travelers to take safety along on their trips," said Gen. Nickerson. "Too often vacation trips are planned without any thought for safety on the road, and what often starts out to be a pleasure trip ends up as another traffic tragedy."

"The best way to keep out of danger on the vacation trip is to plan certain basic safety measures, and to stick to them. These safety measures are (1) control of speed, (2) keeping the car safety-checked and in good condition at all time, (3) scheduling your driving for daytime hours and allowing for occasional breaks to minimize fatigue, and (4) obeying traffic signs and signals."

"If a driver starts out on the road fully determined to follow these common sense rules to protect himself and his family in highway traffic, there is little doubt that his vacation will be safe as well as fun."

Stay Loose

By RALPH DEEVER

Lend me a few minutes of your time and a sympathetic ear, for we've a mutual foe to be dealt with, and I am obligated to warn you of him.

He goes by a simple name, but his potential danger to our society is no simple matter. He is The Plodder, and you shall know him by his works.

He has no hopes for gain, either by fame or fortune. He seeks, from his labors, nothing more than a mere safe existence. He will not move mountains or harness the lightning or bridge the rivers of our land. He will do nothing more than plod down the road of monotony.

He is terrified by decision, paralyzed by the unique, dumb-founded by the unusual. His entire fate is governed by the circumstances of money, family, education, the weather, and local custom. He has no thought of his own; or, if he does, then he has no voice to speak it with.

He arises at six, shaves and dresses by six-thirty, breakfasts at six-forty, reads the paper until seven-fifteen, gets into his car and drives downtown, to arrive at his office exactly one minute before eight. He does this every day, all week, all month, the entire year.

He leaves the office at exactly four o'clock each afternoon. He plods through a scheduled routine until he retires at night. In the morning, he begins all over again. Dismal. . . Dismal. . . He is a creature of habit.

What caused this man to wither, ere reaching productive maturity? Is he a victim of the time of his generation? Was he pushed to mediocrity his more zestful contemporaries? Does he carry an burden of the enigmas world? Whatever the case, his ranks grow perceptibly, you and I—the forthright, imaginative, inquisitive trollers of society—must to counter the poison which association and exposure brings upon us.

Down with the plodder! is our rallying call. Down with the plodder and his inactivity and his ridiculous, clock-watching schedule, rally 'round the banner of activity, wearing the armor of open-mindedness.

Medical Corps anniversary

"It is my pleasure to extend to all officers and members of the U. S. Navy Medical Corps at Camp Lejeune my congratulations on the occasion of the 123rd Anniversary of your Corps."

From August 31, 1842, the Navy Medical Corps has played the highest skill and courage and won the respect of Marines in both war and time of peace.

Your outstanding ability and devotion to your duty and to your duty has earned the admiration of all in the Naval Service. I take pride in saluting you as an integral part of the Marine Corps team and your sincere wishes for continued success.

Chaplain's Corner

... "But it was his fault!"

One morning four years ago, we all prayed for safety of one man—Alan Shepherd. Everything was A-O-K.

But on this same day automobiles killed over 100 people and injured over 4,000 more. Commander Shepherd's flight was front page news. But the death and hospitalization of over 4,000 people was not news. Why? It happens every day!

In WWII, 115,246 Americans died in action. But during the same time, with gas rationing yet, three times as many people died in accidents.

We face the Labor Day weekend, set aside to honor Americans who helped to make America great. Yet we celebrate our greatness and their efforts by a bloody slaughter of our citizens. Labor Day doesn't have to be a slaughter. Let us all do our part. The driver who speeds doesn't get there very much sooner. Sometimes he doesn't even get there at all.

We can help by driving like Christians. Remember the answer which Jesus gave the lawyer who asked for the first and greatest commandment. Jesus answered, "You shall love the Lord your God. . . and your neighbor as yourself." This ties into a bundle all the commandments of God. Let's apply this to God's people this week-end.

Let's ask, "And who is my neighbor?" Is he the unknown motorist with California plates who wants to pass us? Is he the man in the approaching car, whom we never see and who falls to dim his lights and passes?

The answer which Jesus gave is as good in our day as in His. "Who is my neighbor?" It was then that he told the story of the Samaritan traveling the Jericho road. Year after year, conditions have changed, but the point of the story remains the same. Everyone you meet on the road is a neighbor you can count on.

Highway driving is a social activity with strong moral implications. There is a good and morally bad way to drive.

Christian faith should make us feel just as responsible for these unseen neighbors on the highway as we are responsible to our unseen God. A look on today's streets and highways means plain thoughtfulness means not crowding your neighbor's car, it means slowing down to allow someone to enter the heavy traffic on the side street, it means driving defensively and alertly in anticipation of some driver's expected start or stop.

This weekend, after you fasten your seat belts, before you get rolling, pray—prayer—or one of your hands steady, my eyes clear, my mind alert at all times. Forbid my carelessness to harm another. Watch me, and any who may act against me. Protect me from danger from harm and guide me safely to my journey's end.

Even teachers must be taught

By: PFC D. E. HAILE

This year nearly 4,000 Marines will come in contact with the well polished products of a school designed to turn Marine officers and non-commissioned officers into skilled instructors.

The school is the Instructor Training Unit, a part of the Marine Corps Supply Schools, Camp Lejeune.

The products are military instructors.

Each year the Instructor Training Unit graduates 150 Marines from the Formal School Instructor Course and about 200 Marines from the Unit Instructor Course.

The school also conducts courses for Marine Corps Reservists during their annual field training, Seabee units, and units of Force Troops and the 2nd Marine Division.

structors to locate potential trouble areas the students may have.

The second talk is a five minute "sales pitch" in which the students attempt to sell items from straight pins to automobiles to their fellow students. Eventually, the students learn to present a well prepared, hour-long lesson that includes lecture, demonstration and application phases of the teaching process.

In addition to the time spent making presentations and participating in supervised study, the students spend many hours of their off-duty time preparing lesson plans, collecting information, studying, and rehearsing their presentations.

According to Captain James Hefflin, the Officer in Charge of the Instructor Training Unit, most students spend six to eight hours preparing for a one-hour lesson.

Unit Instructor Course students make five presentations during the two week course. As in the Formal School Instructor course, most of the student's time is spent giving and organizing presentations. Only 27 of the 80 hours scheduled for the course are spent in classroom instruction.

Training aids used
Students often use training

aids in their presentations, and some of them are home made. The school provides a Training Aids section that provides students with equipment and materials necessary to make the training aids they need.

The Training Aids section also has personnel who make signs, posters, and demonstration materials for use by the Instructor Training Unit Staff. Students in both courses are evaluated on their presentations according to military appearance, platform manner, voice quality, organization of the lesson plan and other factors that affect the learning situation. These factors are discussed by the Instructor Training Unit Staff and the students during a critique following each presentation.

A file is kept of the student's evaluation sheets. This provides the staff instructors with the information they need to help the student's improve their ability to teach others.

During the nine years that the Instructor Training Unit has been in existence, it has been fulfilling a need that has Corps-wide significance. The Marine Corps believes that an informed Marine is a better Marine, and the Instructor Training Unit provides the personnel to insure an ever improving Marine Corps.

New reenlistment bonus to be paid in installments

WASHINGTON -- Department Defense officials are working with the services to put the variable reenlistment bonus into effect as soon as possible.

No definite date has been set, but one service official estimated it would be sometime in October before certain critical-skill reenlistees would be receiving the bonus.

Under the new military pay plan, an individual serving in a designated critical skill could receive several thousand dollars in addition to the regular reenlistment bonus, based on pay grade, term of reenlistment and longevity for pay raises.

Critical skill first-termers would receive the bonus would receive a down payment upon reenlisting, with annual payments of $864 each year thereafter, an official said.

An example would be a critical skill E-4 completing a four-year reenlistment and reenlisting for four years. The normal bonus would be $864, four times a base pay of $216. If reenlistment, the individual would receive an additional $3,456 in equal installments.

This means getting $1,728 on reenlistment (normal bonus and variable payment), then receiving three annual payments of $864 for a $4,320 total. An E-5 under similar circumstances would receive $3,456. For a six year reenlistment, the amount would be approximately $7,000. The new bonus does not count against normal reenlistment entitlements. A person may collect up to $2,000 in normal bonuses during a service career.

In some meritorious cases, the variable bonus may be paid in fewer installments if the service secretary determines it to be in the individual's best interest.

8 presentations

Students attending the Formal School Instructor Course spend about three of their four weeks of class applying what they have learned. They are required to make eight presentations before a class composed of their fellow students and the staff instructors.

The initial presentation is a three minute impromptu speech presented the first day of class. This talk enables the staff in-

DOD seeks further free mail laws

The Department of Defense has praised enactment of free mailing privileges for service personnel in designated overseas areas, but feels more legislation is needed to insure air delivery service.

Congressional testimony was given by Army Adjutant General Major General Joe C. Lambert, appearing as DOD representative concerning H. R. 10441, one of several bills on the subject.

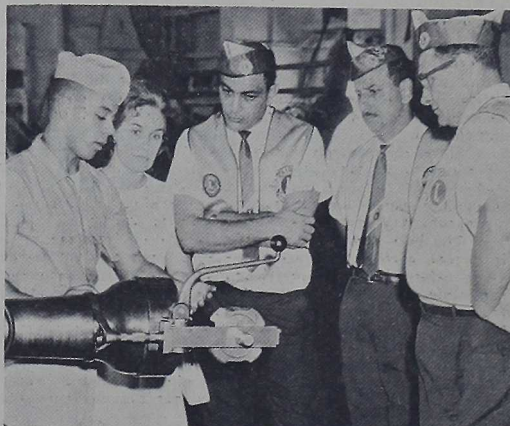

One provision supported by DOD would extend first-class letter air mail privileges for designated areas and for personnel hospitalized in service facilities due to disease or injury incurred in the area covered.

DOD did not lend support to a provision allowing parents, and others, to send certain air mail parcels to designated areas at a reduced rate.

General Lambert explained that DOD does not favor setting a precedent for the general public which would affect military budgets.

A Military Assistance Command Viet-Nam message reports the new pay bill "enthusiastically received," but says to be truly beneficial it should insure air mail privileges.

Loss of time in surface mail delivery regardless of good motives would have an injurious effect on morale, the message stated. Service personnel in the Republic are using air mail almost exclusively, it was explained.

D'dogs impressive in first scrimmage

Excessive penalties, hot weather and a few bumps and bruises marked the 1965 Camp Lejeune Devil dog football squad's first scrimmage held last week at Liversedge Stadium. The "red" team, composed of players who were currently on the first team, dropped the "gold" team 16-8 behind the passing of Al Laurent.

Laurent, who alternated at quarterback last year with gold team leader Jeff Mair, hurled a 52-yard scoring toss to Don Bartolazzi, breaking an 8-8 tie late in the first half.

The scrimmage got off with a bang when the red team fumbled on the first play and their opponents recovered deep in red territory. Six plays later, quarterback Jeff Mair scored on a keeper.

The red team battled back to tie the score with five minutes gone in the second quarter as Neil Johnston crossed the goal line on a five-yard end run. Moments later, Laurent and Bartolazzi teamed up to put the red squad out in front to stay.

GOLD HOLDS RED

After the half-time intermission, the red team seemed certain to make a rout of the contest and controlled the pigskin for nine of the 10 minutes in the third quarter. Four times the red squad tried to cross the goal-line from inside the three-yard-line, but each time their assault was stymied by spirited line play by the defense.

Standouts for the red team included four returnees from last year's squad and a pair of newcomers, Ron Nay, safetyman and punter on the 1964 Devil dog team, made several key tackles that blunted first-down attempts by the gold squad.

A big reason why the gold unit was unable to gain much ground through the middle, was an immovable object named Dick Serman. Another of the veterans from last year's team, Serman contributed a bang-up performance in the Devil dog's first full scrimmage.

RETURNEES SPARKLE

The offensive unit was sparked by the running of Johnnie Blunt and Neil Johnston. In the third-quarter, they took turns churning up the turf with their off-tackle slants and end runs. They should prove to be a potent one-two punch for coach Ron Cherubini's 1965 charges. Both backs are returnees from last year's snake-bitten team.

The other standout on the red team was Don Bartolazzi. A first year man on the Leatherneck squad, he used his speed and maneuverability to full advantage in getting behind the defenders on pass patterns.

Perhaps the most pleasant surprise for coach Cherubini was an end who switched to full-back and played for the gold team. When that outfit did get rolling, it was on the bull-like running of Hal Brown. He seems to have gained the knack of running over would-be tacklers.

The Camp Lejeune Marines will open their football season with a home contest against Elon College on Saturday, Sept. 11 at two p. m. at Liversedge Stadium. The game has been designated as Jacksonville-Onslow County Day.

Marine Corps shooters score well at National

The Marine Corps Rifle Team won the grand finale of the 1965 National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, by capturing the National Trophy Infantry Team Match, adding another victory to their impressive string of seven first place wins in the National Matches.

The Infantry Team Match was the last match fired in the Nationals which ended last weekend, and consisted of all rapid Msgt. in 1963.

In the Wimbledon Cup match, Cpl. Carlos N. Hathcock of the Ranger Detachment, 2d Marine Aircraft Wing, Cherry Point, N. C., out-shot 19 other competitors in a sudden death shoot-off for the title. The course is 20 shots from the 100 yard line using a rifle. Hathcock used a 70 bolt gun with a scope. Two high shooters from each relay are selected for the shoot-off.

APPROACHING LANDING ZONE—The bronc was the victor in this particular case during the bareback-bronc riding competition at the 1st Annual Camp Lejeune Rodeo last week.

Rodeo pulls big crowds in first appearance here

America's "Wild West" came to the sunny Southland last week in the form of the first annual Camp Lejeune Rodeo. Several thousand persons were on hand for the three-day affair, during which more than 100 entrants vied for some $2,000 in prize money.

Forty-two of the contestants were either Marine Corps personnel or dependents, and of that group, only two were in the money. PFC Fred Cogburn, Hq. Co., 6th Marines, 2d MarDiv, won second-place honors in one of the segments of bareback-bronc riding. Cogburn, who's from Arkansas, has been competing in rodeos for several years. The other Marine winner was Paul Kerr, who garnered third-place money in the rugged Brahma Bull riding event Saturday.

In all, five-events were run during the rodeo, and the competition was fierce in each of them. Dennis Brooks, Bonlee, N. C., and Sonny Sinsel, Ft. Bragg and Houston, Tex., each were first place winners in the bronc-riding events.

Jimmy Carter of Siler City, N. C., took both firsts in the calf-roping events. Another Carter, this one named Richard, won one of the two segments of steer-wrestling. The other first-place money went to Dennis Brooks.

The most dangerous of the five events, the Brahma Bull riding, was won by Johnny Baxter, Bennett, N. C.

Even the girls got into the act during the rodeo. They had their own event, strictly for women, barrel racing. Clara Carter of Siler City won two of the three segments (or go-rounds as they're called in rodeo-circles), with the third first-place going to Peggy Lanier, Chinquapin, N. C. Susie Roseman of Jacksonville took third-place honors in two of the go-rounds.

There was another winner at the rodeo. His name is Mark Douglas Cronk, son of Cpl. and Mrs. J. L. Cronk, Midway Park, who was the lucky recipient of a three-year-old pony. The youngster was celebrating his fourth birthday, and what a present he received. The pony was awarded as a doorprize, and Mark's ticket stub was drawn from the hundreds belonging to all of the youngsters who'd attended during the rodeo's three-day stay at Harry Agganis Stadium. Besides the excitement furnished by the events themselves, the crowds that packed the stadium for the three performances were delighted by the slapstick humor of a pair of rodeo clowns, and had the opportunity to watch a mounted four-man Marine Color Guard post the colors before each of the performances.

The second-place finisher in the Senior Division was Col. W. McLean, 2d MarDiv. Both Kinder and McLean will represent the Marine Corps in the 1965 Interservice Golf tournament to be held at Cherry Point Sept. 7-10.

Devilfish make splash at Super Sabre meet

The Camp Lejeune Devilfish took 20 youngsters to the Super Sabre Invitational Swimming Meet at Myrtle Beach, S. C., Air Force Base last week, and they returned with 37 medals.

The Devilfish competed against youngsters representing 18 other teams from North and South Carolina, as well as unattached swimmers. All of the competitors were 17 or younger, and all of the events were run by age-groups.

Top medal winner for the Devilfish was Jane Flood, who brought home five awards while competing in the 13-14 age-group. Janie finished second in the 50-meter freestyle event, third in the 100-meter butterfly, sixth in both the 100 and 200-meter freestyle races, and seventh in the 200-meter individual medley.

Another of the Flood's, (there are three on the team), Mike, won medals for a third-place finish in the boys freestyle relay, a fifth in the boys medley relay, and an eighth in the 100-meter backstroke event.

The MacKenzie family also boasts three members on the team, and between them, they accounted for another eight medals. Jamie MacKenzie, competing in the 11-12 age-group, finished fourth in the 100-meter butterfly, fifth in the 200-meter freestyle, and sixth in the 200-meter individual medley.

Brother Andy was on the second-place medley relay team for 9-10 year olds, and took fourth place honors in both the 50 and 100-meter freestyle events. Sister Stacy was a member of two relay teams that finished seventh in the girls 9-10 category, the freestyle and medley teams.

Devilfish Coach Jack Hayes is currently conducting tryouts for youngsters interested in becoming members of the team.

The tryouts are being held at the Area Five Swimming Pool, Bldg. 540, on weekday afternoons.

French Creek transformed into military 'Disneyland'

One hundred and fifty acres of Camp Lejeune's backwoods area were transformed into a playground and display area on Aug. 26 as the 2d Engineer Battalion, 2d Marine Division staged an open house and field day for their dependents and guests.

In addition to demonstrating their everyday work techniques and standard engineering equipment, many of the engineers found themselves performing unfamiliar roles as they entertained the younger visitors.

Utilizing organic equipment and imagination, the M-274 "Mechanical mules" became modern-day versions of prairie schooners; the water purification and shower unit was transformed into a wading pool for the small fry; and a large crane was turned into the engineers' version of a merry-go-round.

Static displays and demonstrations of the unit's equipment began at 10 a. m. as the visitors inspected exhibits, watched demonstrations and sometimes operated selected items of equipment.

Visitors were afforded an opportunity to become familiar with almost every phase of the battalion's operation as they toured the area viewing everything from the unit's surveying equipment to a battalion command post set up to demonstrate the operations conducted in the field.

While the Engineers and their guests feasted on heaps of fried chicken, hamburgers and hot dogs, the 2d Marine Division Band played during the luncheon break.

Afternoon activities pitted battalion units against one another in tests of their engineering skills. Contests ranged from pole climbing to road construction. Engineer Support Company took top honors in the afternoon's competition by compiling a total of 64 points.

For the comfort and assistance of the visitors a supervised nursery and first aid tent, complete with cots, mattresses and even large electric fans powered by field generators was set up in the area.

JUST LIKE DADDY—Mike Horne, son of SSgt. D. R. Horne, Engineer Support Co., 2d Engineer Battalion, sits in the driver's seat of a large tractor.

President Johnson vows another pay bill next year

President Johnson, in the wake of signing the new $1 billion military pay bill into effect, has stated that he will send another military pay raise bill to Congress next year.

According to the NAVY TIMES, the President told a group of Congressmen and others meeting in his office for a bill-signing ceremony, "I have signed two military pay bills since I have been President, in 20 months. We had a substantial bill last year. We had one this year. And I am going to recommend one next year."

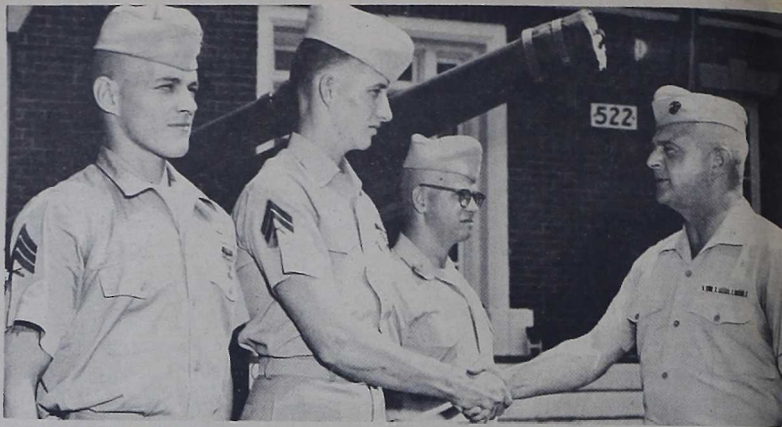

The president, however, warned against the inflationary pressures that may result from frequent raises for government employees. The statement was made during the signing of a bill giving postmasters a five-day week.

The president, after announcing his intention to submit a million dollar pay raise bill next year said, "I do hope that I am not confronted with a request from the unions and from the employers of this country that say to me: Mr. President, you are an employer and you decided that you could give X-percent increase and we think we ought to be allowed to have the same privileges that you have; because if you do that, you are going to promote inflation, and our whole non-inflationary price policy is going by the wayside."

The "structural review," which was to examine not only the pay rates but the relationship of the pay of various ranks to the others and various allowances to others, was scheduled to take place in 1966.

The only question now appears to be the basis on which the 1966 pay bill will be determined.

Base telephone office does booming business

The telephone office aboard this base has a tremendous problem...too much business.

The 7,000 phones here are used roughly 108,000 times each day. Of these, 95,000 are internal calls. They originate and are to stations on the base. An automatic system handles this business, so these calls don't create too many problems except in the realm of maintenance.

The remaining 13,000, half of them from Jacksonville, must go through telephone operators. Here is where the problems come in. There is too much telephone traffic for the existing operators and lines to handle, according to Chief Warrant Officer Oliver W. Bailey, Base Telephone Officer.

To combat this problem five additional operators have been hired for switchboard duty, and five new trunk lines from Jacksonville are being added to the system. The lines are expected to be operational by Sept. 1.

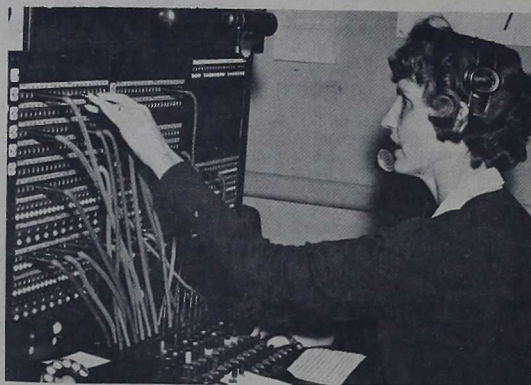

Meanwhile, the problem remains...how to call aboard base without undue delay.

Mr. Bailey gives two ways along these lines. If you arrange to call between hours of 9 - 10 a. m. or 3:30 p. m., you'll stand a better chance of getting through. A survey showed the least time of day during these hours.

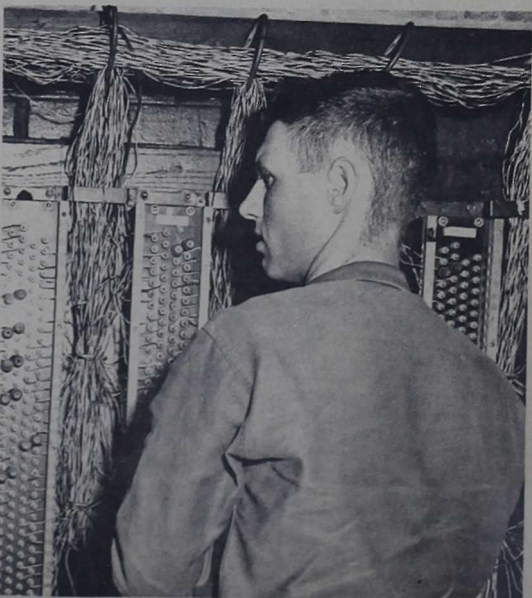

Another point Mr. Bailey brought out concerned call information. When you call a number, rather than hang up, then redial the base, hold the connection and your call will put through.

If you dial the base number and get a busy signal you should hang up and wait a few minutes before you try again.

The telephone officer also pointed out that the operators have means of getting through in case of a bonafide emergency. If you have an emergency situation, and are having trouble getting your call through, contact the operator for help.

DOROTHY WHITTINGTON of 120 Fuller Dr., Jacksonville, a telephone operator at Camp Lejeune, runs a switchboard in the telephone exchange. Each line plugged into the board represents a call being made.

CPL. RONALD B. JANSEN checks out the circuitry prior to installing five new lines into Camp Lejeune. He is working at the junction box on Highway 24 where the civilian telephone lines meet the military lines.

went out of action. It also drew more than 150 rounds of small arms fire, and the driver's 'scopes were destroyed by enemy rifle grenades.

Many of the Viet Cong dead were accounted for during the first day's action by Marine aircraft, artillery and naval gunfire.

Enemy obstacles in the helicopter landing zones were cleared earlier in the morning by naval gunfire, artillery and Skyhawks from Marine Aircraft Group (MAG)-12 which collectively delivered tons of ordnance into enemy troops and fortifications.

The operation was the heaviest concentrated air action against an enemy since World War II. More than 120 tons of bombs and 600 rockets were delivered against the VC by jets from Marine Attack Squadrons (VMA)-214, 225 and 311.

The VC attempted two company-size probing actions against the Marines during the first night. Neither was successful.

Moderate enemy resistance was met during the second day. Numerous VC dead from the first day's action were found in tunnels and spider caves as the Marines searched for the enemy. A brief fire-fight cost the enemy 15 dead on the second day.

The battle-weary 2nd Bn., Fourth Marine Regiment, and the 3rd Bn., Third Marine Regiment, were withdrawn from the fight on the third day. Elements of the 1st and 3rd Bn's, of the Seventh Marine Regiment began mopping up operations.

President Lyndon B. Johnson, in a message to MajGen. Lewis W. Walt, commanding general of the III Marine Amphibious Force, said in part: "I extend my heartfelt thanks and congratulations--and those of the American people--to the military units under your command which have achieved a clear cut victory against the 1st Viet Cong Regiment at Chu Lai.

"This nation is deeply proud of its fearless fighting sons. They will have the continued, united, and determined support of their people at home. Our hearts go out to the families and comrades of those who have given their lives."

It was later learned that all arrangements at the Marine Corps Air Facility, including the MP escort, were made by PFC Charles Sadriz, the duty controller.

Letters of Commendation were immediately forwarded to PFC Sadriz's commanding officer, and to the commanding officer of VRC-40 by Captain Frank T. Norris, Commanding Officer of the hospital.

Nonconformists: Take heed!

Beatle haircuts are the rage of the teenage world these days, but a visitor won't see them around the Dependents' Schools here.

According to the student handbook for the camp schools, unusual haircuts, Bermuda shorts, short shorts and similar sports clothes will not be worn to school or to school functions. Tennis shoes and basketball shoes are also on the prohibited list unless authorized by the school principal.

Girls are not to wear midriff dresses, play clothes, hair curlers, slacks, blue jeans, clam diggers, pedal pushers, treader pants, Bermuda shorts, Jamaica shorts, or short shorts to school. Student regulations also state that kerchiefs will not be worn over the hair.

Boys may not wear shorts or abbreviated trousers, but may wear blue jeans if they are worn above the hips.

These regulations have been in effect for several years and students are encouraged to check their Student Handbook to see if they are violating student rules.

In a staff conference Aug. 25, MajGen. H. Nickerson, Jr., the base commander, stated that these rules and regulations would be enforced. Students violating the regulations for dress and personal appearance will be sent home from school with a note to the student's parents explaining the reason.

were praised for their performance of duty while directing their squads' movement during a sharp cross-fire.

Firing, during the fight, became so intense that both sides were forced to withdraw from company command post. It was during this withdrawal that PFC Knotts became separated from the rest of the platoon, but carried on an aggressive defensive against the hostile forces.

The Navy Commendation Ribbon was presented to SSgt. L. Webb, for his work as a member of the Headquarters Section of the Logistics Support Unit. His delivery of combat supplies, during the day and night, to units of the Marine Expeditionary Unit, his demonstration of superior endurance, leadership, commitment and devotion to duty, greatly to the accomplishment of the mission of the U.
