CMC gives views on Viet Nam war

In a news conference at Marine Corps Air Station Cherry Point Tuesday, General Wallace M. Greene, Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, touched on topics ranging from the war in Viet Nam to the probable role of the Marine Corps in the future.

The Managing Editor of the Jacksonville Daily News, Tom MacRae, opened the questioning with a query many Marines on active duty would have asked had they been there: Will officers and enlisted men holding certain MOS's have their tours of duty extended?

General Greene's reply was that "The Secretary of the Navy has the authority to extend enlistments," but it all depends upon how the situation develops. "If the status quo continues, he probably won't. If the situation escalates, there may be a requirement to extend enlistments."

WNBE-TV (New Bern) newsmen A. C. Tant asked how many North Carolina based Marines will be sent to Viet Nam?

"I'm sure that many from North Carolina bases will be sent to Viet Nam," the general replied, "provided a political settlement isn't found in the near future. Marines are ready to go anywhere, and some have already gone to South Viet Nam. I don't believe there'll be many Marines, if this situation continues, that won't have an opportunity to go to Viet Nam at least once during their career."

The Commandant was asked if, in view of the present situation, he felt the current strength of the Marine Corps will be sufficient to carry out the mission assigned.

According to Gen. Greene, the ability of the Marine Corps to complete its mission with the personnel on hand depends upon whether the situation worsens. The general said, "There may be a need for additional personnel. Whether or not reserves are called upon hinges upon the developments in Viet Nam."

At this point in the proceedings, Gen. Greene took the initiative, and, after informing

Tapes for Viet Nam' inaugurated by USO

The Jacksonville USO has inaugurated a tape-recorded message program enabling Camp Lejeune area families to send their greetings to Marines in Viet Nam.

After Jacksonville USO officials suggested such a program, Joe Waters, Associate Director of the Da Nang, Viet Nam, USO, sent a tape containing interviews with several Marines whose families live in this area.

Since the tapes were heard by families of the men in Viet Nam, the Jacksonville USO decided to begin a program called "USO Tapes for Viet Nam." An organizational committee has been formed to help coordinate the program. The committee members are: Mrs. D. Bennett, Mrs. R. Knight, Mrs. Silvaggi, Mrs. J. Howard, Mrs. R. Bolster and Mrs. S. Ewen.

The committee will set-up recording times for families of the men in Viet Nam. A group of younger girls will be formed to assist families in making the recordings. Tuesday has been designated by the local USO as the day the three-inch tapes will be recorded. Families wishing to record tapes to be sent to men in Viet Nam are asked to call the USO at 347-3750.

Plans are underway for beginning a similar program at the Da Nang USO, Camp Lejeune's Base Commander, Major General H. Nickerson, Jr., recorded a tape for delivery to Joe Waters in Da Nang. In his message to Mr. Waters (who trained at the Jacksonville USO), Gen. Nickerson expressed his appreciation for the work involved in the original tape and said that the results show the work was worthwhile. He asked that Waters help coordinate the program in Viet Nam so that the men and their families will be able to feel closer together through these tapes.

EDITORIAL

A sacred duty

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article has been forwarded by the GLOBE, as an entry in the FREEDOMS FOUNDATION award program in the editorial division. Editorial written by SSgt. John Bruce, VMO-1, MAG-26, MCAF, New River, N. C.)

Our American way of life is not something that just happened; at first it was a dream, an experiment, that our forefathers introduced on July 4, 1776. Even then some nations thought this American experiment chimerical. One of America's critics went so far as to say that our forefathers' idea was one of the idliest notions that ever was devised, even by writers of romance. Despite these accusations, our forefathers carried on with their experiment.

During the early days of our country, the future grandeur of America's way of life seemed to be ephemeral. After America won her war of independence, she still had to overcome her conditions of local jealousies and corruptions. If left undone, it would strangle her at infancy. Left alone by her warring neighbors, America survived and gained strength.

Each passing year found her growing strong. But within a few decades, the United States was again darkened by war. The American way of life was in danger. After two years of acrimonious fighting, it ended in our victory at the battle of New Orleans. Tried by the fires of both war and peace, our country expanded and developed. Our American way of life was now rooted.

Americans, young and old, rich and poor, continued to fight for this way of life down through our history. Each time our way of life was in danger, America would look to her sons to defend her. Defend her they did. As a reminder one has only to gaze at the neatly marked graves on our own shores, or across the waters--both east and west--to know that they did. The sacrifice for our American way of life at times comes high, but Americans are willing to endure the sacrifice to preserve it.

I am an American

ENEMY OF TYRANNY

"I have sworn upon the altar of God, eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of man"

The dream of our forefathers has long been a reality. America's sons lying in marked and unmarked graves helped to preserve it. Now it is for us to carry on the fight for the American way of life--For our own people of today and those yet to come.

Again, though minuscule in size, the dark clouds of war are being fashioned. Each day tells us the clouds are growing. So for the sweetness that is our American way of life, all Americans have a sacred duty. A duty to preserve the American way of life so that those who are yet to come may taste of its sweetness.

Just a note:
At first when the thought entered my mind about writing--well, I just didn't know. Later I tossed the idea around with some of my close friends. That was it. I dropped the whole idea. Some time later I was reading an old magazine when I spotted these words:
"It is not the critic who counts... The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood... who at the best knows in the end triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails at least falls while daring greatly, so that his place will never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat."
So I wrote the best I could. I'll be damned if I'll be one of those timid souls.

—J. BRUCE.

A little thought for the other guy

As in any city, Camp Lejeune's military and civilians move on wheels. It's hard to imagine life today if all these cars and trucks rolled to a permanent stop.

With the convenience of vehicles, however, come problems too.

Traffic regulations on the Base are designed to solve these problems. Your observance of these rules and speed limits help make Camp Lejeune a safe place for all of us, whether we're walking or driving.

But just following regulations isn't enough. The fact you were "in the right" is small consolation after an accident.

Courtesy--a little thought for the other guy--can make a big difference. A simple thing like dimming your headlights for an oncoming car is the kind of consideration for others we hope they'll give us.

Courtesy behind the wheel is a two-way street to safer and more pleasurable driving for all.

Stay Loose

By RALPH DEAVER

The guy looked up from the rather strange-looking machine he was working on.

"It's a status symbol," he said.

Close examination revealed that it was a portable barbecue grill, equipped with two motors--one in the usual place near the bowl-shaped charcoal container; the other lower down, beneath the container, with a sewing machine belt reaching down to one of the wheels.

"What in the world...?"

"It's a barbecue grill," he explained. "It's the only two-motor, self-propelled barbecue grill in the world. I'm inventing, and you, as of this moment, are sworn to secrecy."

"Well, o. k. Sure. I won't say a word." It was assumed that he wanted to get it on the market, patented or copyrighted or whatever it is you do with inventions, before word leaked out. "Who are you going to get to manufacture it for you?"

"I'm manufacturing it myself. What's the matter? You blind or something?" His impatience was understandable--inventing is pretty demanding work.

"How much will a machine like this sell for, if you sell it?"

"How much will it sell...? What are you--some kind of nut? I wouldn't part with this little old machine for anything in the world."

"I meant who's going to handle the volume manufacturing? After you get the model smoothed out?"

"You're looking at the entire volume, as far as I'm concerned," he said. "The machine is all I need to make the richest man in town, maybe even in the world. After all, some things are more important than money."

He went on to explain the circumstances surrounding the origin of his unique invention.

"When I graduated from high school as salutatorian, this guy Toler McElvey finished as valedictorian. When I got a job at a machine shop, he hired me as assistant manager. One year, I went to the southern part of the state deer hunting. I killed me a ten-point buck. Toler went all the way to Colorado, bagged a sixteen-point deer, brought down an elk, and claimed he got a shot at a bear." He shook his head sorrowfully. "It's always been that."

"I bought me the sporty little convertible in town, B. I tell you it'd knock your socks out. You know what old Toler got him? He got him a just like mine... only it's wire wheels, air-conditioned and a record player. Can imagine a guy like that?"

"Two weeks ago, I took him out to see a new house I was closing the deal on. He looked at it, said he liked it, then informed me that he purchased five acres out in Country Club Estates and hired an architect from Arlington designing him a 12-room house. He wasn't joking either."

He tackled his invention again, talking as he worked.

"I'm pretty sure I've got him this time. I'll patent this self-propelled grill. I put it on the market. Just show it to him, and say, 'Hey, Boy, look what I got--a self-propelled barbecue grill.' Then old Toler'll say, 'Hey, Boy, ain't that kewl? Where'd you get that? I'd like to run right out and get me one of them.' Then I'll say, 'Sorry, Boy, this is only...'"

The telephone interrupted and he picked up the receiver.

No one could have kept listening when he screamed:

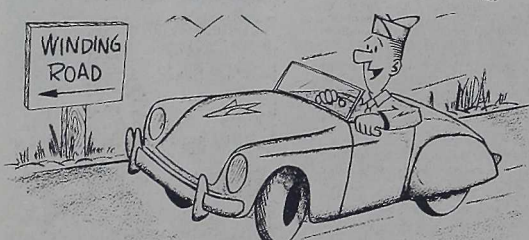

"A WHAT? A FOUR-WHEELER WHAT?" He calmed his voice down with an obvious effort. "Oh. Oh, yeah... sounds keen. A four-wheeler becure grill, eh? Say... Where you get it anyway? Hey, I'll have to run out and get me a couple of them? What do you mean 'you can't buy 'em'? Because it's what on it? Oh... Oh, I see. He jammed the receiver with a crash.

"That was Toler McElvey," he said; "and you know he's done? He's done it all." "Yeah, I heard. Beat you the punch with a four-wheeler, eh?"

"That's not the half of it. I could duplicate one of those if that was all he'd done. No! Nothing that simple. He's built him a four-wheel self-propelled barbecue WITH BUCKET SEATS, POWER STEERING ON! He walked over and delivered a savage kick to his own invention, jammed his hands into his pockets, and walked away, shaking his head muttering to himself.

At the door, he stopped, looked back. "How about this? You ever heard of anything so sneaky?"

Chaplain's Corner

One of the most overworked and misunderstood expressions that I know is one that we see or hear almost daily--The American Way of Life. I think, particularly in these days of tension and turmoil in the world, that it would do us well to try to grasp the meaning of these words instead of just letting them pass us by. We are proud of our heritage as Americans and like to think that what we have in our country is kind of an example to people everywhere of how people can live together. We pride ourselves in being Americans.

The question that keeps coming to my mind when I use the words the American Way of Life is just what do I mean? Actually the American way of life is how we Americans live. The good and the bad in our American society is the American way. Would that we could select only the best of our society and let this be our way of life but this dog just won't hunt. Some Americans live by the highest principles known to man and yet some of us just exist day by day doing whatever comes naturally. I know to what I refer when I speak with pride about the American way. I mean a Nation under God seeking to provide freedom and happiness to all men. Yet I read in the paper about an increase in crime, kids running wild, drunken drivers killing hundreds each year on the highways, and observe a patronizing attitude among our people concerning our Churches. Somehow the theoretical use of a phrase seems shallow.

It seems a characteristic of Americans to be able to rise to meet a crisis. This has been in evidence throughout our history but we can't rest on our laurels nor just spout phrases. Now is the time to rise to a new crisis and to put meaning into the phrase the American way.

This places the responsibility on each of us. Our nation is comprised of 180,000,000 folks just like us. It is no better nor no worse than we are. Are we doing our part to make our nation one of which we can all be proud? As service personnel we are pledged to die for our country if called upon to do so. The call has already come to live for it and to keep it great.

THE KILLERS
The Universal motion picture, in color, answers the question, "What kind of man does it take to face the guns of hired killers without the instinct to turn and run?"
The talents of its five stars—Lee Marvin, Angie Dickinson, John Cassavetes, Ronald Reagan and Clu Gulager are ominously interplayed against the dark background of a huge master crime and the excitement and color of speedway crowds and 150-mile-per-hour racing thrills.

He learns that his eight-year-old son is a mathematical genius in love with a famous French movie star with whom he is carrying on a steady correspondence. His letters to her read like the following:

My father is an absent-minded professor who objects to jobs and make money. However, I am an eight-year-old genius who can mathematically predict horse races. Is it wrong for me to support the family?

FANNY HILL
Fanny Hill stars Michael Hopkins, Walter Giller and Alex D'Arcy with Letitia Roman as Fanny.
It's the story of a young, friendless girl who came to London in 1740 to seek her fortune.

LILIES OF THE FIELD
Sidney Poitier plays a footloose and penniless ex-G.I. in the triple award-winning production "Lilies of the Field."

For his starring role, Poitier won the Academy Award for Best Actor in 1963 and at the recent Berlin Film Festival, received top laurels to an actor for the best performance. Try Exercise to improve pistol score

Camp Pendleton SCOUT)

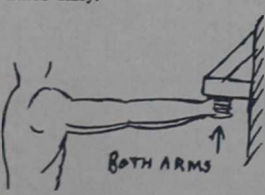

Many of us do not fire as well as we could because we have not developed enough strength in our grip to hold the pistol steady throughout the course, or enough strength in our deltoids (shoulders) to hold the pistol up in a steady position.

We do not have this strength simply because we normally fire once a year and that does not provide sufficient conditioning of these muscles to hold steady long enough to complete the firing course.

If this lack of strength is your problem and if you perform these following exercises regularly as described, your score should definitely improve.

1. Grasp the pistol firmly, exerting maximum tension for 8-10 seconds. Repeat five times daily.

2. With clenched fist hold arm(s) straight out and press upwards against an immovable object. Hold with maximum effort for 8-10 seconds. Repeat five times daily.

Perform these exercises (daily) for 4 or 5 weeks prior to the week of record firing.

WAVES mark 23d year

Camp Lejeune WAVES, along with WAVES the world over, celebrated 23 years of service July 30. WAVES serve in major stations along the East and West Coast and in London, Paris and Naples.

At Camp Lejeune there are 24 WAVES who provide medical attention for Marines and dependents. To celebrate their anniversary a picnic was held July 31 at Hospital Point.

Women first became eligible for military service during World War I by an act of the Civil Service Commission. YE O M E N - E T T E S, as the WAVES were called then, were released from active duty July 31, 1919.

WAVES became a permanent part of the Navy; the Naval Reserves in 1 by the Women's Army Forces Integration Act.

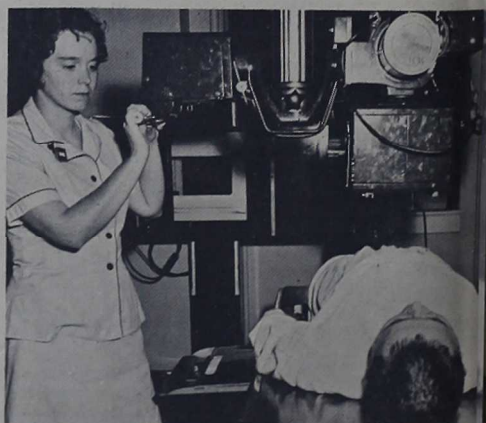

The name WAVES originates from the phrase "Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service."

Officer and enlisted WAVES occupy jobs formerly held by male personnel. These jobs cover 20 different fields, including supply, communications, administration, aviation, electronics, data systems, and the medical corps.

Selections of WAVES and their training provide the Navy with a continuous nucleus of well-trained, professional-minded women ready to meet the needs of the Navy.

WAVES serve Camp Lejeune Marines in fields other than medicine as Machine Accountant Service Man Cheryl Neilly (left) and Machine Accountant L. A. Violette (right) prove by operating an IBM sorter and calculator in Fiscal Supply Dept. at the USNH.

Ohio Explorer Scouts Guests of 2d ReconBn.

Eight Explorer Scouts from Terrace Park, Ohio, visited here Tuesday and saw demonstrations of everything from rubber boat training to small arms firing.

The scouts were guests of 2d Reconnaissance Battalion, 2d Marine Division, which arranged the demonstrations and conducted tours.

Each year, Porter takes his charges on trips throughout the country. Last year, Post 286 visited Fairbanks, Alaska, where the boys witnessed the my training in that area.

The Scouts' Camp Lejeune started Monday evening. Shortly after arrival, the boys camped tents on the parade ground near Recon. Battalion 1 spent the night in the open.

Tuesday started off with them during the battalion area, visiting Battalion Headquarters, the messhall, the barracks and dining facilities. The rest of the morning was spent observing the firing of different weapons, including tanks, 155mm howitzer, 3.5 inch rocket launchers and individual weapons.

After a noon lunch break, when the boys went for a swim, the tour was continued with the scouts visiting 2d Anti-Tank Battalion, the Field Artillery Group's vehicle park and the New River Air Facility. Also, the boys watched Force Recon, conduct rubber boat training while at Onslow Beach.

Besides the firing, the scouts witnessed the 3d Battalion, 8th Marines during small unit tactics training. After the full day of activities, the boys returned to Montford Point, camped out again Tuesday night and departed for Cape Hatteras yesterday.

Scoutmaster Porter and Dr. Bruce G. MacMillan are the two adult supervisors during the year's outing for the Ohio youngsters.

NO SWIMMING HOLE—During combat patrols in the Chu Lai section of Viet Nam, troops of 2d Bn., Fourth Marines Regiment, 3rd Marine Division, meet more obstacles than just the Viet Cong—in this case, the swollen An Tan River. Rifles and cigarettes go high—to stay dry.

Corps needs Lawyers

Headquarters Marine Corps has announced the Corps will continue to augment the supply of law officers holding the rank of captain and major, by appointing reserve officers to the regular ranks.

The Marine Corps has been experiencing a shortage of qualified lawyers in the ranks of captain and major, and the augmentation of reserves will be made periodically by an officer board convening in Washington.

Applicants for appointments as regulars must hold permanent appointments as active or inactive captains or lieutenants. They must either hold the MOS of 4409, 4405, or meet the requirements for assignment of these MOS's, and have a law degree from an accredited university.

The applicants must have been admitted to practice before the highest court of a state, a Federal Court, or the District of Columbia.

Further details, including method of application for augmentation, can be found in Marine Corps Order 1120.15A dated July 2, 1965.

USCG observes 175th anniversary

The Coast Guard, which serves under the Treasury Department in peacetime and under the Navy in wartime, will celebrate its 175th anniversary Aug. 4.

Congress established the Coast Guard, then called the Revenue Cutter Service, in 1790. It began operations with one cutter, the Massachusetts, built at a cost of $1,000 and manned by four officers, four marines and two apprentice seamen.

The Coast Guard has been credited, in the past 10 years, with saving the lives of 31,888 persons in danger at sea and saving ships and cargoes with a value of $16 million.

Coast Guard fleet units have recently been assigned to duty in the coastal waters of the Republic of Viet Nam. They were assigned to the RVN because of their experience in search and rescue, law enforcement and boarding operations.

Marines sought as cadets at Coast Guard Academy

A nationwide competitive examination for appointments to the U. S. Coast Guard Academy will be conducted December 4, 1965.

Coast Guard Cadets attend the U. S. Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn. Successful completion of the four-year course leads to a commission in the regular Coast Guard and a Bachelor of Science degree.

There are no Congressional appointments to the Academy. Appointments are based on the candidate's standing on the eligibility list of those who pass the competitive exam. The exam scores are combined with an evaluation mark from interviews etc., to determine each candidate's standing.

Applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 22 (by July 1 of next year), be graduates of an accredited high school, be single and never have been married, and must be at least five-foot four-inches but no taller than six-foot-six.

The competitive examination is conducted by the College Entrance Examination Board, Princeton, N. J. Application to take the test should be submitted directly to the CEEB by November 4. Applicants must take both the Scholastic Aptitude and Achievement Tests.

Completed applications for appointment to the Academy should be forwarded through official channels and should be postmarked not later than December 4, 1965.

Both active and reserve Marine Corps personnel are eligible to compete for appointments. A booklet listing requirements and containing application forms can be obtained by writing to: The Director of Admissions, U. S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn., 06320.

See your 156sgt. for details.

AFTER 35 YEARS—MGySgt. Wilburn Holt (left), who has served for 35 years in the Marine Corps, is reenlisted for another two years July 23 by his CO, Maj. Robert A. Walker. The 52-year-old NCO in charge of the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing band reenlisted "so I could finish my tour in Viet Nam." The band is furnishing perimeter security for part of Da Nang.

Local USNH admits first Viet Nam casualty

Marine Lance Corporal Alexander Bethea, Jr., wounded in Viet Nam, was admitted to the U. S. Naval Hospital here July 4. He is the first casualty from Viet Nam to be admitted to this hospital.

Bethea was wounded while on combat patrol against the Viet Cong near Da Nang Air Base July 4. He was serving as a scout, or forward scout, for a platoon when he stepped on a mine that set off a hand grenade booby trap. Fragments from the grenade hit Bethea in both legs, inflicted a slight wound to his head, and fractured a bone in his right foot.

The 23-year-old Marine was sent to the DaNang Air Base for an emergency operation and then sent to Clark Field in the Philippines for another operation. He remained at Clark Field for about two weeks before being transferred here.

Bethea was transferred here at his own request. It is a policy of the Navy to allow wounded personnel to be hospitalized near their home town if possible. Bethea is from Sanford, N. C.

According to Bethea, he will be hospitalized for approximately five weeks.

Bethea, who was awarded the Purple Heart for his wounds, stated that he would like to make the Marine Corps his career.

DOD tightens rule on lie detector use

The Defense Department has tightened its policy on the use of lie detector tests to secure information that normally can be obtained through skillful investigation and interrogation.

A new DOD directive lays down the ground rules for polygraph (lie detector) examinations that may be given to personnel in the military services and defense agencies.

Prior to examination, the directive states, an individual must be advised of the opportunity to obtain and consult with counsel of his own choice, and must give written consent to examination.

A person being examined must also be made aware whether the area of an examination contains a two-way mirror or other device for monitoring. The directive provides assurance that no adverse action will be taken if an individual refuses a polygraph, and permits a person either under or associated with an investigation to request a polygraph.

A polygraph examination will not be given to persons who are not in sound physical or mental condition, the directive notes.

During a criminal investigation a polygraph examination may be used only where the alleged crime is punishable by death or confinement for a term of one year or more.

Polygraph examinations may also be conducted as part of a counterintelligence or personal security investigation when access to information higher than confidential is sought.

The directive explains that a person examined in either counterintelligence or personal security areas must be made aware of the opportunity to consult with counsel and rights under (1) the self-incrimination clause of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution; or (2) Article 31 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, whichever is appropriate.

Hiroshima. The destruction wrought by an American atomic bomb on this Japanese city, followed by another bomb dropped on Nagasaki, concluded the war with Japan on the same note of violence with which it had begun at Pearl Harbor

August important month in American history

The month of August contains two important days in the pages of American history.

August 7, 1942, date of the first major offensive taken by the United States in the Pacific Theater of WWII. Marines were first to land on Guadalcanal, where they had begun building an air strip.

The victory at Guadalcanal was doubtful for almost three months. Before the island was finally won in January 1943, the United States had committed two Marine divisions, two Army divisions, and an Army regiment.

August 14, 1945

The second date is August 14, 1945, three years later during the same month Japan formally surrendered to the United States aboard the USS Missouri.

Events leading to peace began August 6, when a single B-29 dropped an atomic bomb on Hiroshima. On August 9 a second bomb was dropped on Nagasaki.

Japan had entered World War II with limited objectives. Her original aim was to gain the resources of southeast Asia. The Japanese did not plan an all-out war with the United States.

Their strategy to conquer southeast Asia was to neutralize or destroy American power in the Pacific.

The Japanese plan called for simultaneous attacks and sudden attacks on Pearl Harbor and Clark Field near Manila.

Admiral Yamamoto put his finger on the fatal weakness of Japan when he wrote: "It is not enough that we should take Guam and the Philippines, or even Hawaii and San Francisco. We should have to march into Washington and sign the treaty in the White House."

Peace! A five-letter word that means so much to every American was fought for during the war with Japan. Today it is also being fought for, as the war in Viet Nam proves.

Cost Reduction Program nets savings of $359,987

July 26 through July 30 was "Defense Cost Reduction Week," climaxing for Fiscal Year 1965, a program that is constantly pursued at Camp Lejeune.

The Secretary of Defense set aside the week to pay tribute to the thousands of military and civilian defense personnel whose ideas produced hard savings of over four billion dollars in Fiscal Year 1965.

Although no specific goals for savings were assigned to Camp Lejeune during Fiscal Year 1965, this command reports a savings under the Cost Reduction Program of $359,987 For Fiscal Year 1966, the cost reduction goal for this command has been set at over $600,000.

The Commanding General urges all military and civilian personnel to exercise maximum ingenuity and initiative in identifying ways and means of meeting and surpassing cost reduction goals. Cost reduction in areas not assigned goals should be vigorously pursued and reported when appropriate.

According to the Secretary of the Navy "Conservative estimates of fiscal Year 1965 results of the Navy Department's Cost Reduction Program is over 1.6 billion dollars in hard savings. This outstanding participation is due to the continuing enthusiastic participation of all hands."

Navy assault ship launched July

The Navy amphibious assault ship TRIPOLI (LPH-10) was launched at the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corporation, Pascagoula, Mississippi, on Sunday, July 31, 1965.

Principal speaker was Congressman E. A. Garman of Maryland.

Mrs. Clifton B. Cates, former Marine Corps commandant General C. B. Cates (Ret.), christened the ship.

The GLOBE said

It was announced in a recent Camp Memorandum that all employees of Camp Lejeune will be issued the New Tobacco Ration Card. It was also announced that military personnel will be allowed to purchase rationed tobacco using one adult dependent's ration card if used at the game as a military ration card.

The GLOBE welcomes this week the Third Marine Division to its ranks of readers with subscription of 2,000 copies. Individual subscriptions will be accepted for one year at a cost of $2.00. Overseas units will receive special club rates. $1.25 per year providing subscriptions exceed ten copies.

If you entertain any doubts as to how the Marine Corps photographic situation has developed since the beginning of this war ask WO Louis Tager, who has just been named as OIC of the Camp Photo Lab. Mister Tager was at one time the official Marine Corps Photographer.

The Camp Lejeune Original Christmas Card contest will close August 15. Three prizes are offered as follows: First $100 War Bond; second $50 War Bond and third, $25 War Bond.

In the hats off department... Tarboro, N. C., is the home of a new little newspaper called the "Home Front News" edited and circulated free by Tarboro Rotary Club. 10 papers go to servicemen in Edgecombe County. These men are the only ones to read this paper and the citizens of the county never do. This idea came about because the paper was called "too broken." Since its primary object was to delight the boys, editors figured "they will be the only ones to read it." It really is a great little paper and a tribute to the hospitality and friendliness of North Carolina.

They were at sea—the boat was rolling and rocking something awful. One Marine got pretty sick, and soon was leaning over the rail. The captain came along and said, "You can't sick here, Mac."

The Marine regarded the captain for a moment, then said, "Watch!"

YUKYU ISLANDS—A group of leathernecks have an idea to settle with the reports T/Sgt. Gerald... when they first landed at advance base, they provided a hen that laid at least eggs a week. Then a Japanese strayed the area. The lines got to their foxholes, but not the hen.

FMFLant Golf Tourney firing the links next week

Over 50 golfers, representing six commands, will tee off Tuesday in the 1965 Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic golf championships.

Five-man teams will be competing in the Open Division for the team title and individual awards. Senior Division players, 45 years old and over, are competing for medalist honors with each command limited to four entries.

The defending 2d Marine Aircraft Wing entry from Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N. C., heads the tournament hopefuls. Last year's runners-up, Force Troops, Atlantic, Camp Lejeune, plan to use the "home course advantage" in their drive for the title. The host 2d Marine Division, 2d Force Service Regiment and Marine Aircraft Group-26, New River, N. C., round out the local entries.

A quintet representing FMF-

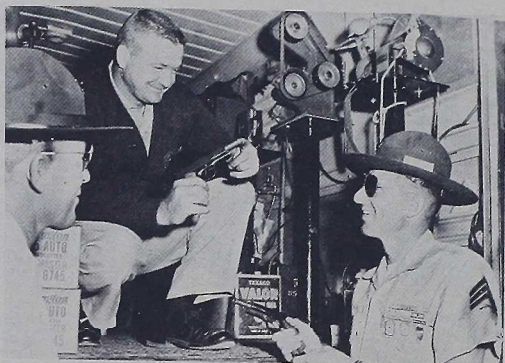

Lant Headquarters, Norfolk, Va., completes the field.

Both divisions will compete in medal play with the Open Division slated for 72-hole competition ending Friday. The Seniors will tangle in a 54-hole event with play opening on Tuesday.

In the Open action, only the low four rounds per team will be counted each day toward the team standings.

Individual trophies will be awarded the top two teams in the Open Division, with awards slated for the winner and runner-up in individual scoring. Senior Division entries will be competing for first and second place trophies only.

Open Division entries are limited to golfers with an eight handicap or lower. Both divisions will compete over the par 72, 18-hole Camp Lejeune Course #1.

Leatherneck Pistol team in action at Camp Perry

The Marine Corps Pistol Team, this year's entry in the hand-gun phase of the National Rifle & Pistol Matches, arrived at Camp Perry this week to begin competition in the 1965 edition of the "World's Series of Shooting."

The team, consisting of 36 shooters from posts and stations throughout the Marine Corps, is led by Col. Walter R. Walsh, Commanding Officer, Marine Corps Shooting Teams. The team was formed June 14 at Quantico, Va., and is made up of Marines who excelled in the Marine Corps Matches.

Since forming, the shooters have been practicing and shooting in other matches, all in preparation for the big "shoot" here. Pistol competition began August 2 and will run through August 7.

"This is the best team the Marine Corps has ever put together. The scores, depth and ability of all the shooters is outstanding and we expect great things from them all," said Capt. Edward J. Land, officer in charge of the team.

The firing is divided into three categories; .22 caliber, center fire matches and the .45 caliber. The first day, Aug. 2, was devoted to the preliminary or warm-up matches; .22 caliber matches on the second day; center fire on the third day and the .45 caliber on the fourth day. Tomorrow, all three categories for team championship will be fired.

The "big" match all the Marine Corps shooters look forward to each year, the National Trophy Match, is fired

Aug. 7. This is designed for both individual and team shooters and is the most sought after and coveted title.

According to Capt. Land, Sgt. Francis A. Higginson is one of the most promising Marine Corps pistol shooters this year. "But, in addition to Sgt. Higginson, there are many other fine marksmen on our team who possess the ability and potential to make a winner and who also can contribute greatly to the overall success of the team," the Captain added.

Sgt. Higginson is one of three Marines who has broken the elusive 2650 x 2700 aggregate score with the pistol. CWO William E. Eubanks, Marine Corps Pistol Coach and a team member, is also a member of the 2650 x 2700 club.

The other Marine 2650 x 2700 club member is Maj. William MacMillan, former Olympic champion. Maj. MacMillan is not with the team this year. He is presently serving with the 3rd Marine Division in the Far East. Because of the Viet Nam situation, Marines from the Far East commands did not field a competitive shooting team.

Fred Roth wins seventeenth . . .

Leatherneck nine go 3-0 at Roxboro

Wichita, Kansas drew much closer to the Devildogs' reach last week as they picked up their third straight win at the North Carolina Semi-Pro Tournament in Roxboro, N. C.

Hurler Fred Roth took the mound against undefeated Ramseur on Thursday night to hand the semi-pro-nine a 4-2 decision and advance his team into the finals.

Roth, who now holds a 17-1 seasonal record, opened the first inning by fanning all three batters. After getting the first two men out in the top of the second inning, Roth momentarily lost his control and walked his first and only man of the night. Then Ramseur's left-fielder connected with a high and outside pitch into deep left-field for a two run homerun.

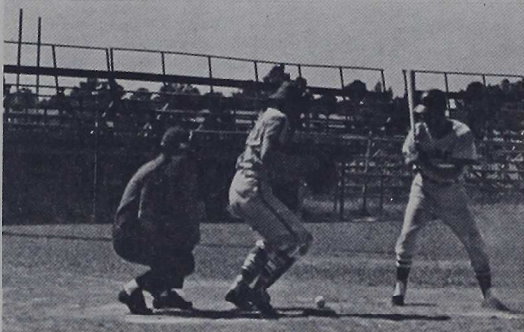

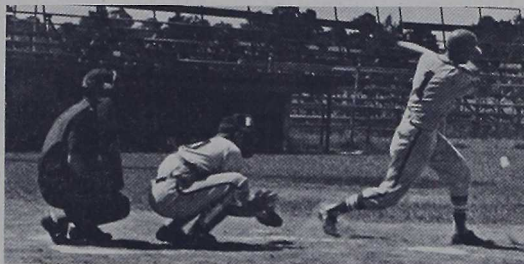

The Leathernecks came back in the bottom of the same inning to reduce the opposing team's lead by one. Catcher Ken Eeles led off the inning with a crashing drive into left centerfield for a double. Then player-coach Jim Schwab broke the ice for the Marine-nine with a triple, driving in HURLER FRED ROTH now holds a 17-1 record for the season.

Eeles to make it a 2-1 game.

After two were out in the bottom of the third inning, secondbaseman Ron Nay reached first base on an error. Ken Eeles followed suit by also making first on an error putting runners on first and second. Then Jim Schwab laced his second extra base hit of the evening into left-centerfield for a double, driving across his second and third RBI's. John Findlay, who is now playing in rightfield, singled, scoring Schwab for the third run of the inning. Neither team scored again as Roth allowed only two runs on four hits while striking out eleven men to post the win.

IN FRONT AND BEHIND—Catcher Ken Eeles is as good in front of homeplate as he is behind. Above, Eeles lines a hit down the third base line for a single. Below, he blocks a would-be wild pitch to prevent the advance of a base-runner.

Righthander Dick Hall came in during the eighth inning to relieve Roth. Hall went 1-2/3 innings to save the game for his mound partner.

The Devildogs will return to Roxboro tonight to play Johnston County. If the Marines can win this game, only one more game will separate them from the National Championship in Wichita, Kans.

The soccer game took place recently when the BLT soccer team, captained by Cpl. McCullagh, received an invitation to play several local teams while the Marine BLT was on a port of call visit to Palma, capital city of the Spanish island of Mallorca. At the conclusion of the game, the team was awarded a trophy by the Spanish team as a mark of their appreciation of the Marines' soccer skill and competitive spirit. BLT 2/8 returned to Lejeune recently.

The North Carolina Semi-Pro Tournament began back in 1935 at Greensboro, N. C. Since that time, Camp Lejeune has won the championship only twice. The local-nine's first victory came in 1952 and it wasn't until 1959 that the Leathernecks repeated their performance.

With the exception of last year, the Rainey semi-pro team from Greensboro, has captured the Roxboro tourney since 1960.

To night the Devildogs will play against Johnston county, a team that defeated Rainey last week.

Pott Shots

The cry of "play ball" was heard this week for the last time this season on the Tarawa Terrace ball diamond, as the 1965 Little League play came to a close. What was, for over two months, the scene of cheers and the cries of frustration fused with the blur of colors and dust, is now silent and empty.

The championship teams are still celebrating their victorious season and the losers, well, there is always next year. But even though the season is over, the impact of what occurred during these few months will always remain as a never-ending influence on the lives of these young major league aspirants who played their hearts out all season long. For these boys not only learned how to handle a ball, but more important, they learned the principles of sportsmanship and the ways to live and play with their fellow companions.

But all of this didn't just happen. The organization of four leagues and over thirty teams did not magically appear on the horizon. It took months of planning by a handful of people, long before the season opened, to get this mammoth project off the ground and into reality. Once the Little League program was formed, it took a special breed of people to keep it alive. These people became known as the league commissioners, managers and coaches.

These people, mostly men, not only had to have sound knowledge of baseball, but they also had to possess great quantities of patience and understanding. Although the commissioners and their assistants did a tremendous job, I feel that the success of the 1965 season fell primarily on the shoulders of the many coaches and managers.

These men, mostly fathers themselves, gave up a few hours of free time they had in order to invest in the lives of these young Americans. They came home after a long day at work, only to stay for a few hours with their families before leaving for a practice session or game. These men taught the members of their teams things that parents could never teach and as a result these men became one of the greatest factors in the socialization. And due to these men, these young boys will grow into men with stronger ideals and codes of conduct than they might otherwise have had.

Thus, you as a parent should be extremely grateful to these men. Although their endeavors will never be in vain, their job should not be a thankless one. Every parent should take it upon himself to personally thank his respective son's coach for a job well done.

Player Profile

RON NAY

The success or failure of any team depends primarily upon the consistency of the ball players to perform at their maximum ability. There is usually one member of the team, however, who manages to maintain a high level of play, game after game; such a man is usually referred to as an anchor man.

The Devildog-nine is not without this man. Although the labeling of any one player as such, is purely subjective, most Lejeune fans would safely say that this title belongs to the secondbaseman, Ron Nay. Nay, who started the season in centerfield and later moved to the second sacker position, has not only tightened the infield defense, but is also one of the top stickmen on the club. He has held his batting average around the .380 mark all season and is considered one of the best clutch hitters on the team.

Upon graduating from high school in 1958, he signed on with the St. Louis Cardinals organization and played in the minor leagues until 1960. He gave up his baseball career to go to college and in the fall of that year, he entered Westminster College in Salt Lake City, Utah. At Westminster, he turned in his baseball uniform for a football uniform and played on the gridiron for two years. During that time, he was awarded the second leading N. A. I. A. punter of the 1960 season.

In 1962, he decided to go to college for professional baseball and immediately signed with the Dallas Cowboys. To his size, however, he cut early in the season as a result he returned to college. While completing studies, he coached high school and college football. In February of 1963, Ron graduated with a B. A. in physical education.

One month later, he joined the Marine Corps and resumed his interest in athletics. In 1964, he was awarded honor mention on the All-Marine Football Team. After the football season ends, he will be the Lejeune football team pick up where he left off last year.

Little Leaguers' battle ends with championships

The Stone Street League's Cubs and the Tarawa Terrace League's Cardinals were declared co-champs of the 1965 Junior Little League Season last week, after battling 18 innings in a 0-0 tie during the third and final game of the play-off. Both teams had a 1-1 play-off record going into the 18 inning thriller.

The Cubs had defeated the Cardinals 3-2, in the first game of the Cubs coming back on the Cards, Stan Wood, Greg Edwards and Ed Kleumper allowed only six hits while Abby Springer, Mike Hill and Tom Roto of the Cubs gave up only eight hits. Dave Cole of the Cards sparked his team in the third department by going 3-7 connecting for the only extra-base hit of the evening. By the end of the 18th inning, the game was called and the teams were declared co-champs and rightly so.

The Pirates of the Stone Street League edged the Senators of the Tarawa Terrace League by the score of 2-1 in the tenth inning for runner's honors.

Over in the Babe Ruth League, the Pirates downed the Indians to capture the 1965 Babe Ruth Championship. Frank Rench took the mound for the Pirates during the first game, striking out 13 batters while allowing only two hits for a 6-0 shutout. The Pirates closed the gates on the Indians during the second game of the three game series by edging their opponents by the score of 8-7. Pirate hurler Keith Sims went all the way to win the game and the championship for his team.

The battle is still going on in the Major League as two teams vie for the second half championship. Both the Pirates and the Dodgers hold a 1-1 record in the play-off. The winner of the third game will take on the first half champs, the Braves, for the season championship.

This Saturday, the Seymour Johnson Little Leaguers will invade Camp Lejeune for two games. The Major League All-Stars will meet their opponents at the TT Ball Park at 10 a.m. while the Babe Ruth All-Stars will take on their counterparts at the Harry Agganis Stadium at 1 p.m.

All high school students, who are planning to tryout for this year's Devilfish squad should start getting in shape on their own prior to the opening practice. The season's first tryout will be held at the Brewster School at 8 a.m., August 16.

A glance over the leagues this week shows the spotlight on the Women's "Coffee Tea League." There were 1900 plus games, six 500 series and one 600 plus series. Peg Glen rolled 213, 17 and 180 for high series for the league. Marty force had a 206 game and 2 series--I had high game for the league (226) and a 540 series--Marie Frazier rolled 204 game and a 531 series--the Hallstorm had a 202 ne and 522 series--Louise they a 210 game and 517 ries and Hazel Cirka had a 4 series. Are all you men ready for a challenge?

In the "Ball and Chain League," Roger Pilcher had 200 plus games and a 634 series, Jim Springer had two 200 plus games and a 567 series and for the ladies, Doreen Foo was high with a 481 series.

In other Mixed Leagues, George Auer had a 223 game, Lloyd James a 231 game and, a little "Jim" told me that the little "Bea" had a 374 series.

A special note to all you bowlers who have been bowling so "lousy" lately, just remember that Arnold Palmer said he was sick over his golf--but he didn't quit!

Chapel Hill edges Devilfish, 220-175

The Chapel Hill Swimming Team invaded the Area Five Swimming Pool last Saturday, to hand the Camp Lejeune Devilfish a 220-175 defeat during an AAU sanctioned meet. The D'fish, who have lost several of their top competitors this summer due to transfers, applied the pressure to their top rated opponents throughout the meet, but it was not enough for the win.

The local swimmers jumped into an early lead during the first event only to have their slim edge reversed later in the meet. Stacy MacKenzie and Walt Pullar opened the competition by capturing the first place medals in the eight year and under freestyle event. Stacy won the girls division by completing the 50 yard course in 36.5 seconds while Pullar copped the boys competition with a 37.3 effort.

The Devilfish picked up four more first place medals during the event. L. Degernes copped the 9-10 year old girls division for the only other girls victory, while J. Buynak, Mike VanCantfort and G. Ingall captured the first place honors in their corresponding age groups.

Haney Cops Navy Match

Lieutenant Tom Haney, of the 4th Dental Company, Force Troops, walked off with the open singles championship of the All-Navy tennis tournament, held last week at the U.S. Naval Station, Newport, R. I.

Haney, who also reached the semi-finals of the doubles championship, disposed of Lt. (j. g.) Marty Fedigan, NAS Pensacola, 7-5, 6-4, 6-0. In his progress toward the All-Navy Championship, the Force troops dentist did not lose a set.

Next on Doctor Haney's agenda is the All-Service tennis tournament, being held this week at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. In addition to his All-Navy victory, Haney has previously captured championships in the Force Troops, Quad-Command, and FMFLANT Tournaments.

And They're Off . . .

Kenzie repeated their earlier performance as both swimmers won first place medals in the backstroke competition. The only other D'fish win came in the 13-14 year old boys division when Mike VanCantfort picked up his second-first place award by swimming the 100 yard distance in 1:08.9.

Stacy MacKenzie monopolized the eight year old individual competition by capturing her third win in the butterfly event by traveling the 50 yard course in 47.5 seconds. Eight year old Mark Doran won his race with a 52.4 effort.

In the 13-14 girls division, C. Degernes crossed the line 2.2 seconds before the second place winner to capture his first blue ribbon of the day while P. Flood recorded a 1:12.2 clocking in the 15-17 girls event for her first win.

In the breaststroke competition, Mark Doran and K. Slemmons covered the 50 yard distance in 55.0 and 55.2 seconds respectively, to capture first and second place honors in the eight year old boys category.

In the 9-10 girls event, L. Degernes picked up her second win with a time of 48.0, 1.8 seconds ahead of the closest competitor. S. Slemmons won his event in the 11-12 boys category with a 48.7 effort. Two brothers teamed up to cop the 13-14 and 15-17 events as 13 year old A. Wyss crossed with a 1:18.0 effort for the second Wyss-win to end the individual events.

In the medley relays, Camp Lejeune only took two out of a possible six events. The eight year old boys copped the first win completing the 200 yard course in 3:32.6. The team consisted of W. Pullar, K. Slemmons, M. Doran and M. VanCantfort. The only other win was recorded by the 9-10 year old girls team comprised of L. Degernes, C. Degernes, N. Smith and S. MacKenzie.

The Devilfish picked up four first place wins out of a possible seven in the freestyle relays but it was not enough to catch the Chapel Hill swimmers.

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD Stacy MacKenzie and Mark Doran are considered two of the top swimmers in North Carolina.

Marine communications undergo gradual change

By 1STLT. W. E. SMITH
Force Troops ISO

Marine communicators are currently familiarizing themselves with equipment developed in the past few years but which employs a principle almost as old as radio transmission itself—the single sideband method of radio communication.

In 1923, the first trans-Atlantic radio-telephone transmission was made. This also marked the first attempt at single sideband transmission and was extremely successful.

Only recently have equipment improvements enabled single sideband to be fully exploited. These developments have led to military and civilian acceptance of single sideband systems. SSB emission radios such as the AN/MRC-83 and the AN/TSC-15 have been adopted by the Marine Corps as standard items of communications equipment and are being phased into the Fleet Marine Force as they become available. Many experts feel that this type of equipment will eventually replace most of our present field radios.

The need for SSB systems has arisen because today's communications requires a means which is faster, more reliable, and which occupies as small an area of the frequency range as possible. The volume of message traffic, both commercial and military, in the high frequency area has become so great that the use of these frequencies is now strictly regulated by law.

Since high-frequency use is limited, communicators are confronted with the need for a means of communications which will occupy only a minimum width of the available frequency range. SSB equipment was developed to meet this need.

Single sideband, however, is not without its drawbacks. In order to keep the signal within its narrower frequency range, SSB radios must be more complex. This makes maintenance and repair more difficult, and original costs higher. Most importantly, it requires Marine technicians more highly skilled than their predecessors to operate and repair SSB equipment.

A typical piece of SSB equipment is Communications Central Unit AN/TSC-15. Many Marine commands employ it today. In Force Troops, for example, several of these components are utilized by 8th Comm Bn., 2nd Radio Bn., 2nd Field Artillery Group, and 2nd FSR.

At last we have the news that most mothers have been anxiously awaiting since June. The Camp Lejeune Dependents Schools will open August 31 to begin the new 1965-66 school year.

Eligibility for registration consists of: residence in government quarters or in housing at Midway Park, Tarawa Terrace, Knox Trailer Park, Marine Corps Air Facility or Geiger Trailer Park.

Dependents residing off Base but who are certified by the Base Housing Office of on base quarters within ninety days after the school opening are also eligible.

First grade registrants at Camp Lejeune or the Air Facility must be six years old on or before October 16, 1965. They must register prior to the opening of school or prior to the end of the first six-week reporting period. Kindergarten attendance is not a prerequisite.

Children who will not be six on or before October 16, but who were enrolled in the first grade in another state before coming to Camp Lejeune may be enrolled.

Registration data

All pupils are required to register even though they were enrolled in the schools last year.

Children in grades 1 through 12 residing at the Air Facility, New River and Camp Geiger will register on Wednesday, August 18 from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the DeLallo Elementary School.

The signature of either a civilian or military physician or a health department director must witness the certificate. If up to date, the standard military international card or a North Carolina State Board of Health card certifying immunizations will suffice.

Immunizations will be given at Ward 2, U. S. Naval Hospital from 8 to 10 a. m., Monday through Friday. Each child must be accompanied by his or her parent or guardian.

NAVY RELIEF--"Help, INC."--Mrs. James Boyers (left) Navy Relief Layette Chairman, gives materials that are used by the volunteers to make garments for new-born babies of needy Navy and Marine families. Mrs. Otis Tuter (center), new layette chairman for the Staff NCO Wives' Club, and Julianna Garcia, a Scout Activities worker, accept the material and the job of making it into a finished product that will be part of the "layette gift" received by some lucky baby from the Navy Relief.

Reporter's Corner

The lethargy enfolding clubs' activities (and I use that word loosely) seems to have tightened its grip as the summer leaks on. It's as though someone pulled the cover in a huge drain and forgot to turn the "sump pump" off. But your "Reporters Corner" reporter has salved some "valuables" from the deep, dark depths. Here are some highlights the "pipe-works" will not post:

Society to honor Cmdr. Tennille

In March it was recommended that Commander R. M. Tennille, Jr., MSC, USN, the Administrative Officer of the Camp Lejeune U. S. Naval Hospital was nominated for admission to the College of Hospital Administrators.

His nomination in the college carries a dual significance. First it means that the person has attained specific achievement in his professional field; and second, that by actively participating in the program of the College, a member has contributed to the advancement of hospital administration in general.

Commander Tennille will be admitted formally on August 29, in San Francisco. As part of his award, the personnel of Camp Lejeune share in the honor he has earned through his diligent and capable efforts to 'carry a mission'.

Drivers' Classroom Instruction Course

On special request, the Division of Base Special Services will conduct a drivers' course for applicants 15 years of age or older.

The instructions will be given at Midway Park Community Center August 9 through August 10 from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. with our offer for lunch.

Mr. Wayne Forbes is the instructor and only 30 pupils on first-come, first-served basis will be accepted. The cost

Cloggers Dance Group

Boys and girls, ages 7 to 12, interested in joining the Cloggers Dance group are asked to call the USO Club Jacksonville at 347-3750.

is $6.00 per person.

Register at the Goettze Field House, the office of the Director of Youth/Community Activities. Open tonight till 4:30 and from 8 to 4:30 tomorrow.

Navy Relief Classes

A new series of pre-natal classes will start on Thursday, August 12, at the Midway Park theater. Sessions will be each Thursday for five weeks from 1 to 3 p. m.

The classes are taught by a Registered Nurse and are free to Navy and Marine dependents from the Camp Lejeune Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society.

WGA Clinics

Last week we published a story about golf clinics for beginning lady golfers. The story stated that those clinics would be free of charge.

Evidently, we are experiencing difficulty with the visual portion of our communications, as the cost of the clinics is $3.00 per person.

The clinics are available to members of the Women's Golf Association of Camp Lejeune and will be held on Wednesday and Saturday mornings at 8:30.

The Women's Golf Association is open to all female dependents of servicemen, and all active or retired women of the Armed Forces. Membership dues are $5.00, payable semi-annually.

Ass't Teacher Needed

The Paradise Point Nursery School will need the services of an assistant teacher for the coming school year. Anyone interested in applying for this position may contact Mrs. M. Frimenko, base ext. 6-6456.

Mothers of Twins

The Mothers of Twins' Club will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at Howard Johnson's Restaurant.

Willie's returned to roost

A ramblin' rooster named Willie has returned to his roost at the Catholic Chapel, Camp Lejeune.

One afternoon last May, Father G. E. Rossbach, Base Chaplain, was standing behind the Camp Chapel. A young Marine, there for services, noticed the rooster in a tree and said, "Don't look now Chaplain, but I think a rooster is looking at you."

After looking at the Marine and deciding he appeared quite normal, Father Rossbach glanced around and saw Willie sitting in a tree.

The friendship that followed between the priest and the bird was just as unusual as their meeting.

The next morning Willie showed up again and followed Father Rossbach around.

Wherever the Chaplain went, Willie was not far behind.

Willie shadowed the Chaplain for almost a month, then Father Rossbach went on leave--without telling Willie.

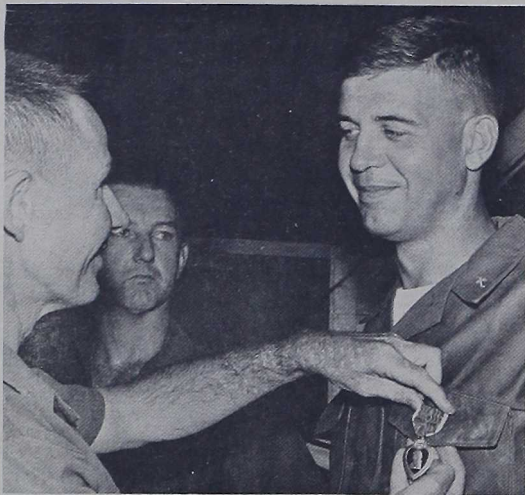

Poor Willie looked for the Chaplain for several days, but with no luck. Personnel working in the Chapel put out chow for Willie every day, but Willie decided that life without Rossbach just wasn't worth it. He left for parts unknown.

It appears that Willie reads the GLOBE. A few weeks ago a story pointed out that Father Rossbach was back; and--would you believe it--Willie made it to Mass the next morning.

If you go past the Chapel in the near future and run into a belligerent rooster, don't be frightened. Remember, Willie's back in the parish.

WILLIE CAME HOME -- Willie, the wild rooster of Camp Lejeune, struts around the parking lot adjacent to the Base Catholic Chapel. Watching Willie is Father G. E. Rossbach, the Catholic Chaplain at Camp Lejeune. Willie disappeared from the chapel just about the time Fr. Rossbach went on leave a few weeks ago. Both have recently returned.

CHAPLAIN WOUNDED—Lt. Col. Hugh F. Lecky, the "Heli Padre" of MAG-16, becomes the first U. S. Navy chaplain to receive a Purple Heart in Viet Nam. He was wounded in the right leg during the VC attacks on Ba Gia on July 8th. Brig. Gen. Keith B. McCutcheon, 1st MAW, pins on the medal.

'Heli Padre' of MAG-16

DA NANG, Viet Nam. — They call him the "Heli Padre" because he spends most of his time in helicopters, accompanying crews on airborne assault strikes or medical evacuations. He carries a chaplain's kit on his left hip, a corpsman's bag on his right belt-line and faith in his heart. Those are his only weapons.

That's why there was concern at Marine Aircraft Group when Lt. Col. Hugh F. Lecky (Northfield, Ohio), became the first Navy chaplain to be wounded in action in Viet Nam.

The rangy body leading up to a boyish grin, ambling down the flight line, has been a familiar sight to the MAG-16 chopper crews since last January. More than 150 missions have taken off with the "Heli Padre" aboard, and countless hundreds of U. S. Marines and soldiers have been comforted or treated by him.

The unbeatable law of average whacked Lt. Col. Lecky at Ba Gia on July 8th. The outpost had been overrun by Viet Cong the day before; retaken by the ARVN's the day the 34-year old Protestant chaplain landed there.

The "Heli Padre" conducted last rites for an armed helicopter pilot who had crashed, then reached over to his right hip and broke out the medical kit. For an hour, he gave emergency first aid to wounded Vietnamese soldiers and civilians. Then, a VC mortar round exploded 60 feet away and small slivers of steel chewed into his right leg.

He stopped long enough to dress his own wound, then continued his aid.

There's never any argument around MAG-16 about the chaplain being qualified to give emergency medical treatment. Before he became ordained, in 1956, he was an enlisted U. S. Navy corpsman!

But there is discussion about his missions. Helicopter crewmen, who feel protective towards their "Heli Padre", lecture, "Don't take any damn--excuse me, sir darned chances.

They recall the time when he reached out of a 'copter to lift a refugee child into the plane. He did it without the person holding the baby realizing he was going to, and when the child was lifted, two hand grenades were left in the person's arms. They'd been hidden beneath the infant. Instinctively, still holding the child, Lt. Col. Lecky kicked out, knocking the disguised Viet Cong away from the helicopter. Republic of Vietnamese soldiers hauled off the pseudo-refugee.

The MAG-16 flight crews know, too, that disregard for personal safety is a trait of Navy chaplains, and of Chaplain Lecky in particular. He was awarded Navy Commendation medal four years ago for helping to evacuate sailors from an exploding Nationalist Chinese tanker.

Enlistment rates hit peak

WASHINGTON -- Marine Corps enlistment rates have been "very satisfactory" over the last 12 months with 56 percent of the new recruits high school graduates and only 2.9 percent of them in the classification IV intelligence group, according to Maj. Gen. Lewis J. Fields, outgoing director of personnel.

He attributed this remarkable recruitment to the importance given by the Marine Corps to its recruiters and the recruiting emphasis "from the top Marine levels." Fields noted that Marine recruiters represented the best of the Corps and that a recruiting assignment was not given to men who are on their last tour of duty "to make retirement plans and make recruiting a sideline."

The recruitment goal this year has been set at 40,000, compared with last year's approximately 38,000, the general said.

the newsmen in attendance that he, too, carries a press card, he posed a question of his own. The General asked how people in North Carolina feel about the conflict in Viet Nam.

The answer given by Carl Venters, Jr., WFAA, Farmville, was that the people want more information about what's going on in Viet Nam. He told the general that the overall concept of the conflict is very confusing to most people. North Carolinians want to know whether the war is military or political in nature. Venters is a Marine reserve officer himself.

"It can't be all one way or the other (political or military), just like life it's got to be a mixture of both," the general said.

The short airfield for tactical support (SATS) at Chu Lai was praised by Commandant Greene. He told the group the field had been constructed and put into full operation in less than 30 days, and has been valuable in the operation in Viet Nam. Scores of planes, he said, have operated off of this field in support of Marine ground units.

WECT - TV (Wilmington) newsmen Gil Huguley asked about reports that the U. S. Navy would begin using the draft for the first time since 1956. Would any of the men gained by the Navy be inducted into the Marine Corps?

Marine Corps and Selective Service

The Commandant's answer was that whether the Marine Corps has to go to selective Service depends upon what, if any increase in manpower allotted to the Marine Corps. The general said the Corps can handle any normal increase through voluntary enlistment and pointed out that the Marine Corps surpassed its recruitment goal last year.

When questioned about activation of the reserve Marine Division-Air Wing, General Greene called Marine reserves at the highest state of readiness in their history. He added that should it ever become necessary to mobilize the reserves, the location of mobilization would "depend upon site of the emergency."

About the role of the Marine Corps in the future, General Greene said, "We'll do what we're doing right now. We'll carry out President's orders."

Marine morale high

Turning to the morale of the Marines serving in Viet Nam, the Commandant told those assembled that on his tour of Marine bases in the East he found the men enthusiastic about the job they were doing.

General Greene concluded question-and-answer session with the statement, "We're ready to go, and to do anything that's assigned to us."

Accompanying the Commandant on his day-long tour of the Air Station was Sergeant Major Herbert Sweet, then designated Sergeant Major of the Marine Corps. The general's itinerary included honors, briefings of a technical nature and meetings with officers and NCO's stationed at Cherry Point.
