U.S.-Allied Guests Witness SPEX-65

Nearly 750 foreign and U. S. officers visited Camp Lejeune over the Easter holidays to watch a special amphibious show presented by the 2d Marine Division at Onslow Beach.

Saturday's special exercise was viewed by nearly 300 members of the 37th Officer Candidate Class, Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va. On Monday, 450 staff members and students of the Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va., the Canadian Army Staff College, Kingston, Ontario, and the Supreme Allied Command staff from Norfolk, Va. witnessed the special exercise.

The schedule for both days included morning tours of a Battalion Landing Team Display on Sneads Ferry Road and County Fair Exhibits adjacent to the road.

Amphibious and helicopter beach assaults began at 10 a.m. each day with viewing from the Riseley Pier.

Following a noon meal at the Headquarters Battalion, 2d Marine Division, messhall, each group witnessed an assault on a fort-

Marine photographers from the Quad-Command submitted their finest works of art to the Special Services Office, this week, in conjunction with a Base Photography Contest.

The contest had two divisions, color and black and white, each consisting of several categories depending upon the subject of the photo.

Long Walk". Second place went to Cpl. M. E. Lukens, MCAF, for his entry entitled "Chicago Skyline". In the last category, Military Life, LCpl. W. E. Warner Chaplain's Assistant at MCB, won with a photo called "Up Hill".

Due to the fact that color pictures can not be reproduced in this paper, the winning photos could not be presented in this article.

Presidential Pay Panel Recommends 5% Raise

If the Presidential Pay Panel's recommendations are accepted by Congress, most servicemen will be in line for a five percent pay raise, according to NAVY TIMES. The five percent figure was agreed on unanimously, but there is dissension on the Panel on the proposed 2.7

percent pay raise for enlisted men with less than two years in service.

Give Medal To Marine Who Says CMC

Marine Corps Order 1650.1 states that commanders make use of the Navy Commendation for Achievement to deserving Marines. This doesn't mean that the medals will be lowered, according to the order, but that deserving a medal should be commended for one, and not just given an outstanding record in his service record.

Meanwhile, the House Armed Services Committee recently approved a bill which would award the Medal of Honor to Americans serving in Vietnam to wear Vietnamese medals.

small. It has been 13 years since there has been a raise in the "under two" category. Final touches have not been put on the proposal yet, but the panel, headed by industrialist Marion B. Folsom, is expected to recommend the five percent increase in total compensation to put them in line with the national economy.

For most servicemen total compensation is the key for comparing this recommendation against that of the House Armed Forces Committee.

The House Armed Services Committee suggests a 10.7 percent increase in base pay, while the Panel's is five percent overall. Included in the computations for Panel's increase will be quarters and subsistence allowances and tax advantages.

According to Pentagon officials, this brings the recommendation proposed by Rep. L. Mendel Rivers to a 7.2 average in total compensation.

After the Folsom report goes to the White House, the Administration will decide what to do with it, and then the Defense Department will draft the necessary bill.

After that, the Administration's bill will go to Congress, where the differences between the House bill and the White House bill will be threshed out.

Sixth Observance

Area Libraries are basis for professional readings

Armed Forces libraries will join civilian libraries, April 25 - May 1, 1965, in observing the sixth National Library Week.

Libraries and books form the basis of continuing programs of professional reading for each of the services. The programs are: Army, "Contemporary Military Reading Program;" Air Force, "An Air Force Reading Guide (AFP-11-1);" Navy and Marine Corps, "Guide for Professional Reading of the U. S. Navy and Marine Corps" and "Navy Reading Program."

The Directorate for Armed Forces Information and Education says the ever-increasing technical needs of the armed forces and a consequent growing emphasis on knowledge and brain-power, demand a matching growth in library functions.

Many library features that were unheard of a few years ago are becoming commonplace today. Among these are: books in foreign languages, recordings for language study, facilities for lesson studies, and specialized reference materials and services. These are not standard in all armed forces libraries, but they are features of the larger ones.

In support of today's widespread pursuit of education by commissioned and enlisted personnel alike, many service libraries now function as a secondary school library for students taking high school courses and as a college library for those seeking degrees.

An increase is being made in the inter-library loan service, a system in which all area libraries cooperate with one another in providing books for students or researchers. If a library does not have a requested book the librarian will try to borrow it from another library, this search could reach as far as the Army Library, the Navy Department Library or the Library of Congress.

Stay Loose

By RALPH DEAVER

During discussion in a recent classroom period, one student made a point of objecting to the comparative youth of the Marine Corps supervisor and (especially) the marking senior found in small units. The inference was that warrant officers and lieutenants lack the maturity and experience to properly guide and/or evaluate the older, more senior members of the unit.

The room's atmosphere denoted that the viewpoint was not a prevalent one; but, nonetheless, it set me to thinking of possible solutions to the enigma. I came up with a few ideas. Consider the following:

(1) Let's send out questionnaires to determine age and length of service.

(2) Determine the oldest, most senior person in the Corps, based upon these questionnaires, and install him or her as Commandant.

(3) Fill all other staff billets in HQMC by the same method, then go on to post and station, FMF, and independent duty stations. These billets could be also assigned seniority precedence based upon their longevity of existence.

I believe this would take care of several things. Everyone should have a chance at the top billet. All he'd have to do is outlive everyone else. Birthday parties would gain new meaning, would perhaps even replace the shipping-over party, the promotion party, etc. You could properly refer to your company commander as "The Old Man"—or "The Old Woman" in some cases. You could, in fact, so refer to your platoon leader, your platoon sergeant, the mess sergeant, the armorer, your squad leader, your fire-team leader, or anybody else who happened to have been around longer than you.

Some might call this "Another Marine Corps FIRST"; but that would not be precisely correct. It is the same system employed successfully for many years in organizing the family: the oldest man is the grandfather; the oldest woman is the grandmother; the second oldest man is the father; the second oldest woman is the mother; the third oldest man is the elder son; the third oldest woman is the elder daughter, etc. A place for everybody and everybody in his/her place.

Keen, isn't it?

Another plan, should the above prove impractical, would be to base seniority in the Corps upon height. The tallest person would be the Commandant, the next would be the Assistant Commandant, and so on. I think I might even prefer this system, inasmuch as I'm even taller than I am old.

However, either plan would be acceptable. After all, I'm almost 40 years old, six feet and five inches tall, and am nowhere near the position to which I would like to become accustomed.

Things sure get disheartening sometimes.

FOOF'S SPOOFS

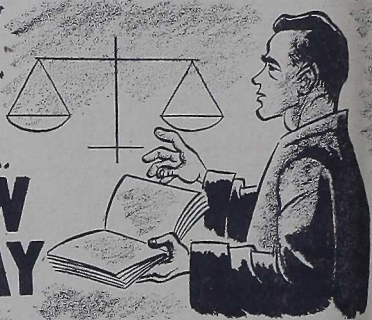

ONE WAY TO BE POPULAR IS TO LISTEN CLOSELY TO A LOT OF THINGS YOU ALREADY KNOW.

Law Day Accentuates Value Of Democracy

MAY 1ST...

USA STYLE...

LAW DAY

...DEDICATION TO PRINCIPLES OF

Four years ago, Congress designated May 1 of each year as "A special day of celebration by the American people... for the cultivation of that respect for law that is so vital to the democratic way of life." That day is known as Law Day, U.S.A.

Law Day, U.S.A., is America's answer to communism's martial May Day demonstrations. The Communists have adopted the first day of May as a time to flex their muscles and rattle their missiles. Americans celebrate the day in a dignified and significant manner by reaffirming their dedication to the rule of law and reason rather than force and violence.

Under our constitutional form of government, which limits governmental powers, it is essential that individual Americans assume the responsibilities of citizenship.

The American serviceman is in a position to demonstrate, both at home and abroad, his dedication to the rule of law. Because he is under closer scrutiny than other citizens of the United States, he is under a greater obligation to abide by the law and exemplify democracy.

This is especially true of overseas assignments. People of other countries base their impression of the United States in part or entirely on the actions of its citizens in their midst. Disregard of the accepted standards of fairness and willful infraction of the law injures the reputation of the armed forces of the United States. It casts doubt on the validity of our democratic ideals and weakens the free world's ability to resist communism.

Every American citizen—especially the serviceman—should observe every day of the calendar as Law Day by doing whatever he can, each day, to strengthen and foster respect for law and order. This is a small price to pay for the blessings of liberty we enjoy under the rule of law.

Chaplain's Corner

The Pennsylvania Dutch have a peculiar expression which goes, "Ve grow too soon old, und too late schmart." Unfortunately, while humorous, it is also too tragically true.

A characteristic of many young men is to take religion and worship lightly. Life, to them, is still one big ball. They feel self-sufficient and in complete control of everything. They are eager and in a hurry to "enjoy" life to its fullest. There is so much to do and it seems that there is hardly enough time to do it all.

So, unless they have matured and gained wisdom through life's experiences, they go on their merry way with little concern for the verities of life and the teachings of their religion and God.

It is also characteristic of youth to feel that despite what those older and wiser may say, they are different and it doesn't apply to them. For many, only as they mature and begin to face the problems of life and its responsibilities do they begin to take life realistically.

They learn, for example, that life's problems and circumstances are essentially the same for them as for most everyone else. They really are not as different as they thought.

Hopefully they learn that there are vast resources available when they can obtain direct strength, and insight, toward the purpose of life and existence. Fully they learn to look through communion with God in worship, Scripture, and prayer that they can better relate themselves to deal with life and their relationship with others more honestly and realistically.

However, time matures inexorably on. If you stray from communion with God in the practice of your faith, speak to your chaplain, attend worship, and renew yourself spiritually. Remember, grow too soon old, und late schmart!"

RUNS IN THE FAMILY—Jimmy Ord, 11, son of Lt. Col. J. B. Ord, Jr., CO, 2d Bn., 8th Marines, checks the microphone of a tanker's helmet at the County Fair exhibit Saturday for SPEX-65. His grandfather, former Marine Corps Commandant, General Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., (Ret.), also visited the first SPEX of the year at Camp Lejeune. Corporal Fredrick J. Nagel, tank commander from Company "C", 2d Tank Bn., FT, assists Jimmy during his tour in the driver's seat.

ified enemy position at D-27 range with close air support. This was followed by a close air support demonstration utilizing live ordnance. A Short Airfield Tactical Support demonstration at Bogue Field concluded the day's activities.

The static display and County Fair exhibits were presented by the 2d Battalion, 6th Marines.

Lt. Col. Rollin F. Van Cantfort commanded BLT 3/8 which made the beach assault in conjunction with shipping of Amphibious Squadron 12. The BLT had been deployed in the Caribbean since January.

In the afternoon, Company "K", 3d Battalion, 2d Marines, commanded by Capt. William J. McManus, conducted the attack on a fortified enemy position at D-27 range with close air support provided by jets of the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing, Cherry Point.

The first squad of the company's 3d platoon utilized to illustrate Marine Rifle Squad capabilities.

The close air demonstration with ordnance and SAT demonstration completed the SPEX program.

Ohio Scouts get bird's eye view of Marine life

Visiting Camp Lejeune as guests of the 2d Marine Division April 19, were 183 Explorer Scouts and advisors from the Cleveland, Ohio, area.

The explorers, representing the Greater Cleveland Council, the Northeastern Council, and the Fitchburg Council, visited here to find out what Marine Corps life is like.

The Explorers were formed into three platoons complete with Drill Instructors. In true Marine Corps tradition, the "Boots" were heard to chant at the command "Who's the best?" "Marine Corps, Marine Corps," and other chants familiar to all Marines. The young "Marines" also found that goofing off in the chow line brought forth the barking words "Gimme ten and five for the Corps," from the D. I. One slightly overweight Explorer remarked, "I haven't done this many push-ups all year!"

Facing movements were done by the numbers and at least one platoon had learned several hand signals. According to one of the Explorers, double time was the one they had used the most.

Noon chow at the Marine Corps Engineer School's mess hall was described as "Pretty good." Marine Corps life was described as "too good." The Explorer volunteer information was quick that he was enjoying himself.

The Explorers took their platoon's progress becoming "Marines" a tell you so at the slight vocation. This report that the quickest way an argument was a member of the first platoon the third platoon or section looked more square. Needless to say, the take was not made once.

The Explorers took from their indoctrination at Camp Lejeune to tour view a display of the equipment, and observe maneuvers of an AMTR. The Explorers also viewed a close air support demonstration in which bombs, rockets, palm, strafing, and screening were demonstrated before departing for Port

Everyone enjoyed field meet --except "Horrible Hog"

By CPL. R. O. SHAW

If they ever give a trophy for the "Field meetin'-est" outfit at Camp Lejeune, it appears that all competitors will have to go some to top the show put on by the 2d Battalion, 6th Marines, April 13.

Sunny skies and soft breezes greeted 1,200 Marines, wives, children, friends and pets at the six-hour affair. Among the many events scheduled for competition were Close Order Drill, a Clerk Typist Contest (everybody gets in on the act), Sleeping Bag Drill, Hand Grenade Throw, Rifle and Pistol Assembly/Disassembly, High Crawl, Forced March, Crew-served Weapons Drill, and Physical Fitness Competition.

Wives, children and friends were not forgotten. Baby sitting and bus services were provided during the meet, and a tour of the troop barracks and mess hall was conducted.

The main events of the field meet were, of course, the athletic and military competition, but somewhere along the way, the meet took on a carnival air for spectator and contestant alike.

From that point on, the competition was keen, the cheers lusty and the enjoyment complete--except for one of the honored guests: Horrible Hog. (Not to be outdone by their rival companies, Company H, Marines had "acquired" a fine young hog as their mascot). Ordinarily a most well-behaved gentleman, Horrible became quite unruly during the climax of the forced march, due to the excessive vocalizing by the spectators. His attendants finally managed to console him, but he was never quite the same after that. Perhaps he'd begun to reflect on just what it was they were going to serve at the barbeque following the end of the meet.

By the time the dust settled, the judges made their decisions, the points had been tallied, and the individual winners and winning company selected.

On hand to award the trophies was BrigGen. Ormond R. Simpson, CG of the 2d Marine Division. The general's presence at the meet was considered a signal honor for the battalion, for it was his first opportunity to meet his Marines and present awards since taking command of the Division April 12.

After presenting awards for individual events, the general presented the over-all winner's trophy to Company F, Captain

"SLEEPING BAG CONTESTANT"

James V. Knapp, F Company Commander, accepted the trophy on behalf of his Marines. Also on hand for an award was LCol. Dennis Ievers of Company F, to whom the general presented a Leatherneck Marksmanship Award.

Trophy-giving usually signals the end of a field-meet, but such was not to be so at THIS field meet. After the morning's physical exertions by the contestants and vocal participation by the spectators, all hands were invited to the barbeque, from which fragrant aromas had been wafting across the green of the athletic field all morning.

It was not immediately learned whether or not Horrible Hog was to be included in the invitation, or the menu.

A good meal is not complete without good music. This requirement was filled by the 2d Marine Division Band, which serenaded the diners as they sampled the culinary efforts of the Battalion Mess Hall.

The weeks of planning and preparation by 2/6 Marines had paid off.

Area Residents Warned Of Live Minefield Area

Lejeune residents are warned of an area made dangerous by a test involving the installation of high explosive anti-tank and anti-personnel mines.

The map shows the area of the minefield which has already been laid and will remain in position until about May 1, 1967. The test objective is to determine rates of deterioration of buried service mines.

The danger area is located south of Highway 172 to the Inland Waterway and east of Freeman's Creek to Range G-5.

The live minefield is in the shape of the letter "L", with the short axis pointing south-east and is surrounded by inner and outer protective fences constructed of barbed wire. Appropriate signs which read "Danger--Live Minefield" have been placed at both inner and outer fences at 60-foot intervals.

The minefield test site is an exclusion area. NO PERSONS NOT CONNECTED WITH THE TESTS WILL ENTER THE CONFINES OF THE OUTER FENCE.

Road To Citizenship Made Easier By Corps

As Americans, many of us take for granted the fact that we are citizens of the United States and merry way complaining about taxes, the draft, and events that are part of the American way of life.

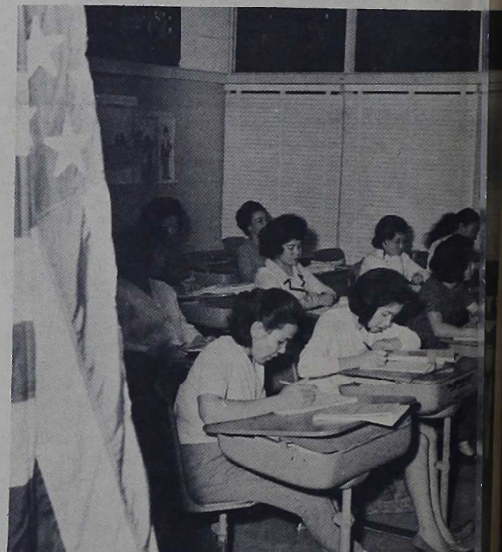

Not all the people living in the United States, however, are in this position. These people are aliens who have come here for a new and better life. Once in this country, many desire to become citizens, but the road to citizenship is hard and long.

The Marine Corps, realizing that most aliens possess this desire, has paved a road which makes the trip a little easier. Aided by the support of the local chapter of the Sojourners Club, the Base Education Office holds classes in English and American History for the foreign born.

The English class conducted once a week, is a fundamental course in conversation. The students begin by simple phrases and progress to a high level of fluency. For most students, this involves hours of study. Upon completion from the English class, students proceed to the civics class.

In the Civics class, students are given a brief overview of American history. The emphasis is on the governmental bodies of the United States. With the knowledge they gain in this class, the candidates have a strong foundation for citizenship tests.

... When the going gets rough, the American Flag is the alien students the added inspiration they need.

Safety-Minded civilian at MCAF averts disaster

MCAF, New River, April 12--Last Monday, April 5, while on his way to work at the Marine Corps Air Facility, Paul S. Bolick of Burgaw noticed smoke coming from around the roof of the home of Norman Stephenson, Onslow Pines Rd. (Stephenson is a Camp Lejeune Civil Service employee).

Bolick stopped and found no one at home. With the aid of William F. Young, a fellow Air Facility employee and neighbor of Stephenson, he extinguished the fire which had started in the attic near the chimney.

The Southwest Community Volunteer Fire Department responded, and the Chief is reported to have said that a few minutes delay would have resulted in considerable damage.

Bolick and Young managed to extinguish the fire with no damage to the lower floors of the home.

For 100% Fewer Cavities-- Visit The 4th Dental Co.

One of the most specialized units within the Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, is the 4th Dental Co., Force Troops. This highly trained unit is comprised entirely of dental officers and dental technicians sufficient strength to provide dental services in support of Division, Wing or Force troops. Among the all-Navy command dental personnel especially trained in oral surgery and orthodontics, the oral surgeon can be used in a dental clinic or may be attached to a Battalion Aid Station during combat to treat facial injuries and lessen the chances of disfigurement. Dental technicians can also be sent to combat areas to treat dental patients who cannot leave the front lines.

Highly Mobile Equipment Used

A kit, similar to the hospital corpsman's "unit two" is used by "dental techs" in combat areas. The kit contains essentials for such things as temporary sedation, fillings or extractions. Other field equipment used by the company includes a dental set up in one case. One section is a dental chair and light, the other a dental equipment cabinet set up the other section.

Dental treatment can be taken to the unit in the field by use of the M-100 trailer which is helicopter transportable.

The trailer contains a complete dental clinic for one officer and technician. For larger scale operations the unit can set up tents to provide a 16 dental officer clinic and facilities for making partial or full dental plates.

It is not intended that the company participate as a unit in early phases of a combat operation, but upon the establishment of a stabilized area, dental services are concentrated where most effective.

tal clinic facilities and was in the process of rendering routine dental treatment.

The 4th Dental Co. maintains a continuous in-service training program to keep the dental technicians proficient within their rating structure.

This training program includes professional, military and field subjects. The services of the 4th Dental Co. are available upon request by

Operative Procedures

During last year's Operation "Steel Pike I" 4th Dental Co. employed detachments of dental officers and dental technicians to various ships of the task force to render dental care while underway.

As the war games progressed, the 4th Dental Co., joined the assault forces on the beaches of southern Spain and immediately became operative for dental emergency treatment.

Within a matter of hours the company had reached its assigned campsite, erected den-other units of Force Troops for instruction and demonstration in proper oral hygiene.

Dental treatment and field facilities are part of the curriculum at Field Medical Service School and a Dental Officer of 4th Dental is the instructor on the subject.

Last year the company rendered 16,068 teeth, inserted 573 prosthetics appliances, extracted 1,455 teeth, cleaned 2,339 teeth and provided other dental services in 31,726 cases.

ON THE WAY—A CH-46 Sea Knight air lifts cargo to new command post site as waiting forward party turns away from swirling dust.

Test Displaces CP In Minutes

Since the advent of the helicopter in military operations, troops and material may now be moved swiftly to meet fluid tactical situations. At the same time, logistics and other support requirements once thought impossible to perform are filled in terms of minutes instead of days.

These facts were graphically demonstrated by members of the 2d Marine Regiment and HMM-265 at Camp Lejeune, April 14.

Utilizing a pair of new CH-46 Sea Knight medium helicopters built by the Vertol Division of the Boeing Aircraft Company, the complete advance party and forward echelon of the regiment's command post were displaced several miles in a matter of minutes.

How It's Done

The procedure for such a displacement is a coordinated operation, during which complete communications is in effect between all units, whether in transit to or established at the new command post site. An advance party, made up of a security platoon and essential communications personnel, is sent out to scout the new location. Once the site is secured, a defensive perimeter and landing zone are established, and the forward command post swings into operation.

A call confirming establishment of the "CP" is sent back to the regimental commander, who then orders the forward echelon to displace. The tactical and communications situations at the moment are determining factors in the decision to displace.

The forward echelon consists of the regimental commander, his "S" sections and supporting personnel and equipment. Once the forward echelon is displaced, loading of the rear echelon begins.

The rear echelon can move out by land or by helicopter, depending on the weight of vehicles and time available, and the number of helicopters on hand. It is possible however, to displace the entire command post by helicopter.

Using CH-46

This was the first time the 2d Marines had employed the CH-46, which proved to be a highly efficient vehicle for the demonstrations. Cargo was loaded into large metal alloy baskets, which were then pulled to the aircraft with a built-in winch-driven cable. Once the basket reached the rear loading ramp of the chopper, it quickly disappeared inside on a set of twin roller-bearing channels which match the twin skids on the basket itself. Off-loading was effected by merely releasing the baskets, which rolled back down the slight incline of the cargo deck to the ramp. Marines at the new site took over at the ramp and quickly removed the baskets to the cover of the woods surrounding the landing zone.

On the return flight to the former command post, the Sea Knight was easily converted to a troop-carrier by the flight crew, who simply folded down pre-installed passenger benches and locked them into place.

Within a matter of hours, the entire command post had relocated and was in full operation several miles from its former site. The distance between the new and old sites in this instance was filled with training areas and office buildings, but it takes little imagination to feature impassible swampland, dense jungle, or rugged mountain terrain instead.

The availability and use of such techniques as this makes the term "Force in Readiness" a title the Marine Corps can wear with confidence.

Most NCO ranks due for increase during 1965

The Marine Corps is the only branch of the United States Armed Services which has been slated for an increase in non-commissioned officers during 1965.

The Army and Navy face cut-backs while the Air Force has been authorized to maintain its present strength in NCOs.

The fiscal 1965 end-strength in the Marine Corps' to six NCO grades is set at 68,952 and in the new budget will be raised to 70,268. This is an increase of 1,316.

The boost will authorize approximately 70 more E-9 billets, about 300 more in the E-8 rank, 242 more in E-6 and about 1,500 in E-5.

Two of the Marine Corps enlisted grades will be reduced. The number serving in E-7 will be cut approximately 500, and the number in E-4 ratings will be reduced by about 250.

Lejeune Takes 3 In Week's Play

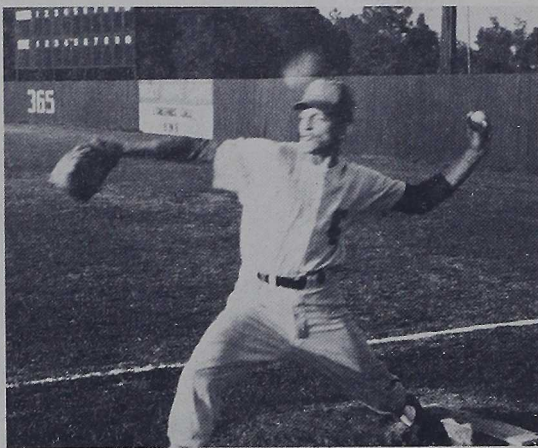

In last week's action, the Camp Lejeune Devildog's Baseball Team manhandled Mount Olive Jr. College twice, 13-2 and 10-0, before running up against some stiff competition from Elon College. Fred Roth gained his fifth victory in the Elon opener with a fine 4-2 effort, but the D'dogs dropped the final two contests 2-1 and 8-5.

Most of Lejeune's batters fattened their averages as the Mount Olive "Panthers" moved it to Harry Agganis Stadium. In the series opener, Nick Sutyak, who now sports a 2-1 mark, received plenty of help from the bats of Elmer Stone and Ron Nay, Stone, who leads the Lejeune hitters with a .533 average collected three hits, while Ron Nay picked up two. Nay, who plays centerfield, is rapping the ball at a .392 clip.

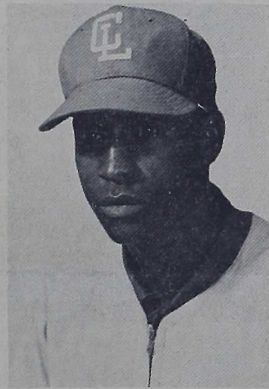

Guidlin Stops Panthers

"Lefty" Ed Guidlin chalked up his second win of the season as he shut out the Panthers in the final contest 10-0. Guidlin, who relies on pinpoint accuracy, has struck out 13 batters in his ten innings of pitching, and has only issued one free ride.

Al Davis put the finishing touches on the win with a towering shot that cleared the left field wall. That was Davis' first home run of the season. Lou Lepito, Lejeune's shortstop, chipped in with a pair of hits.

Elon College moved in on Thursday. The Fighting Christians greeted their hosts rudely, as they jumped on Fred Roth for two quick runs. The locals tied the score in the third inning when Tom McHenry's base hit and four walks sent two runs home.

Lejeune went ahead to stay in the seventh as McHenry singled to right, Joe Schratz walked, Jim Hall reached first base on an error, loading the bases with one out. Ron Nay rapped a single to center with McHenry scoring. Ken Beles, the local's field general, tapped a single to left sending Hall home.

The Fighting Christians from Elon bounded back on Friday as they stopped Dick Hall, 2-1. Hall, who now has a 2-4 mark, has dropped some tough ball games. He has fanned 51 batters in 46 innings. His ERA is 2.93. Hall ran into a brief wild streak as he walked three batters, with a base hit in between walks accounting for their first run. He also gave up a home run to opposing pitcher, B. Everett.

On Saturday, the Devildogs held a 4-2 lead going into the eighth inning when Elon pushed five runs across the plate, while picking up only one hit.

Camp Lejeune hosts the University of North Carolina to-night under the lights at 7:30 p. m. Pembroke State then moves in for two games.

Keglers Prepare For All-Marine

The 1965 All Marine Bowling Championships will be held May 11-13 on all Marine bases throughout the Corps. All personnel, who plan on entering the tourney, must roll 18 games, with six games being tossed on each of the three dates.

Local keggers, who are planning to bowl their games at the new Camp Bowling Center, must sign up at the Center by May 9. All scores will be forwarded to the command athletic officers by the Lejeune Bowling Center manager.

The highest three scores in both men and women's bowling will be forwarded to Headquarters, Marine Corps for selection as the 1965 All Marine Champion.

If local Marines wish to bowl their games off base, a score sheet, signed by the proprietor of the respective lanes, must be obtained by the participants and forwarded to their command athletic offices. All scores must be forwarded to CMC by May 14.

INTER-SERVICE CHAMPIONS—Capt. F. E. Deal, captain of the MCB Pistol Team and WO E. S. Sarver present the 7th Annual Inter-Service Pistol Championship 1965, Base Category, First place, 45 Cal. Team Trophy to Maj. Gen. A. L. Bowser, Base Commander, Camp Lejeune, in the general's office. The

Roving With Rick

The cry of "here they come" was heard down Topsail Island this weekend, as the local had a field day catching mullet. Catches had been reported daily since March 26th, but no assurance came through until last Saturday, when all the reported fishermen with catches from 5 to 15. Some lucky reel men caught from 20 to 40 on coming tide on Saturday afternoon.

Virginia's outstanding stock car race of the season, the 10th annual "Virginia 500" for NAS late model machines, will be held at Martinsville, Va., this Sunday at 1 p.m. The speedway can hold 21,000 spectators, and a full field of starters already been assured. Qualifying trials are scheduled for Friday afternoon. The fastest 20 cars will start positions for Sunday's race. The remainder of the 40-car limit field will be determined in a lap qualifying race on Saturday. Fred Lorenzen, winner of the last three 500-lap races at Martinsville and top money winner last year, will be the man to beat. Martinsville is in bounds for a weekend libel, so why not take a trip up to this year's Virginia classic.

Quantico's Jim Stewart, who was a member of the 1964 Camp Lejeune Football Squad, has recently joined the Virginia track team. A former Southern Illinois runner, who holds the school record in the 100 yard dashes, will add depth to this year's thinclad. The flashy cinderman's best time in the 100 yards was turned in at the 1962 AAU meets in Louisville when he broke the tape in 9.4.

Leatherneck Trackmen Hold First Home Meet

Thin-clads from all over the Quad-Command competed April 14 in the first track and field meet of the 1965 season at Liversedge Field. The meet consisted of eight track and six field events. Although no new records were set, several trackmen made excellent showings.

Moses Cops

In the 100 yard dash, three-tenths of a second separated the first three men, James Moses, Jr., broke the tape in 10.2 seconds with W. E. Knepp two-tenths of a second behind him. H. Hadsion came in third with a 10.5 second run.

Moses was not through for the day after winning the 100 yard dash. He came back later in the afternoon to win the 220 yard dash in 24.1 seconds.

The next event was the 120 yard high hurdles. This event, as did the 100 yard dash, proved to be a fast and close race, with D. Williams and H. M. Brooks crossing the finish line in the same time of 16.2 seconds. In the 220 low hurdles, Leonard Tate made the trip in 28.5 seconds.

The mile and two mile runs, turned out to be a battle between two men, 1st Lt. E. B. Laughton and PFC K. Voss. The mile run was won by Laughton with the time of 4:47, with Voss right behind him. The two mile run was also captured by Laughton, as both men crossed the finish line with a 11:21 clocking.

Dunn Captures 440

First Lieutenant William C. Dunn literally ran away with the 440 yard dash, with a time of 51.4 seconds. His closest competitor crossed the 2.2 seconds later. The 880 yard run turned out to be another close race. One and two-tenths of a second separated the first three runners as Curtis L. Devonish ran the yardage in 2:02. The bard came across .5 later and Lt. Laughton third with a time of 11:16.

As the track events were being run, six field events also in progress. The high jump was won with a jump by Rafael Orta. George out jumped the field of fencers with a leap of 4' 10" in the broad jump.

In the pole vault competition John T. McMurray cleared the pole which was set at 11' 6", beating out the second place winners D. H. H. and R. W. Baumann inches.

Hart Triumphs

The shot put and the events were won by Lt. A. Hart. Hart threw the shot 46' 4". In the discus again showed his versatility letting fly with a 140' toss.

In the last event, Brad Stuart threw the javelin 153' 3", out distancing the place winner by 15' 3".

On the basis of their performance in this meet and the results of the meet at Williams and Mary's several athletes were selected to represent Camp Lejeune at the All-Marine Meet, 29-May 1. Qualifying for the meet were Lt. Jim H. Bill Dunn, Lt. Ed L. Cpl. Ralph Orta, L. Cpl. J. PFC Brad Stuart, PFC Voss and Pvt. James

Division Triumphs In FMFLant Play

A field goal and a free throw in the final five seconds of play provided the margin of victory for the 2d Marine Division last Friday (April 16) as they eked out a 73-70 win over defending champion, 2d Marine Aircraft Wing to wrap-up the 1965 Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic Basketball Championship.

Game-winning heroics were performed by W. Jenkins who scored from underneath to give Division a 72-70 lead, and then coolly iced the game with a free throw with two seconds on the clock.

Wing rallied late in the game after trailing by as much as 15 points and knotted the score at 70-70 on R. D. Abney's two straight jump shots, but Division's fast break and a costly foul killed any chance that the Cherry Pointers had for winning their second straight FMFLant title.

Jumping to an early lead, Wing faltered late in the first half and went to the dressing room tied with the host team, 35-35. In a complete reversal, Division jumped into a fat lead in the second half only to see its offense sputter late in the game as Wing rallied to make it a real battle down to the wire.

Game scoring honors went to Division's Charlie Heard who had 23 points, Willie Sallis added 13 for the winners, while F. H. Bacon's 21 points was tops for Wing.

In afternoon action Friday, Wing rolled over Division, 79-64, to set-up the evening

FMFLant Basketball Action

The Force Troops basketball machine ran out of gas too soon as Wing held on for an 88-79 verdict and a second crack at Division's powerhouse.

Bacon led the Wing with 26 points, while Williams tallied 25 for the losers.

In the lone Thursday afternoon game, Force Troops eliminated Marine Air Group-26, MCAF, New River, 86-73, with Davie Lora's 20 points leading the way.

Lora got 19 point efforts from Ralph McFarland and Lenny Morrow, while Phil Vaughn's 20 was high for MAG-26.

D'dog Keglers Top ECIC Tournament

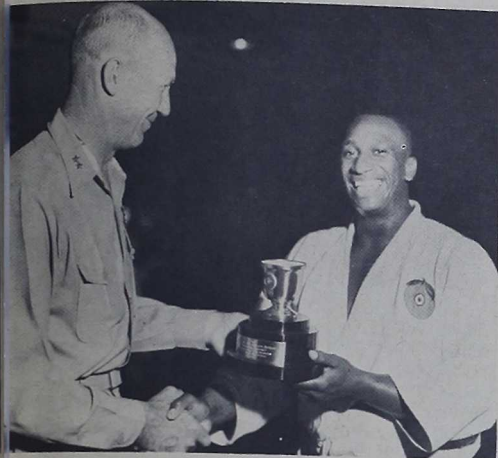

The Camp Lejeune Keglers captured firsts in all four events of the 1965 East Coast Interservice Conference Bowling tournament last week, turning back both NAS Norfolk, Va., and MCS Quantico, Va.

Master Sergeant A. P. Jukoski started the Devil dog's ball rolling as he scorched the lanes with a blazing 1187 series for six games. PRI W. Outler from NAS Norfolk finished second with a 1167 series.

The doubles competition had Lejeune copping both first and second place, as Cpl. R. Haversat and DT2 K. R. Millar rolled a 2341 series, followed by the team of Cpl. R. L. Ord and HMI L. Nicoletta with a 2256 total.

Camp Lejeune made a rout of it in the All Events competition, as five of the six men on their squad finished in the top six positions, with the sixth man finishing 10th. R. L. Ord led the onslaught with a 3390 total, followed closely by team-mate R. Haversat with a 3355 pin count. Outler from Norfolk finished third with a 3348 total.

The Lejeune bowlers made a clean sweep of the tourney as they captured the team title with a 5742 series. They finished 277 pins in front of Norfolk, who rolled a 5465, followed by Quantico with a 5450 series.

ALL-MARINE CHAMP—John S. Roseberry of El Toro accepts the All-Marine Judo Championship Trophy from Maj. Bruno A. Hochmuth, CG of host Marine Corps Recruit Depot, following Roseberry's successful defense of overall championship.

Judo Laurels To Roseberry

In S. Roseberry of El Toro, successfully defended crown last Saturday at the Eighth Annual All-Marine Judo Championships held at MCRD San Diego for the second straight year.

In the final match, Roseberry defended the title by holding his opponent, Richard Tyner of Camp Pendleton, with a Kesa-Gatami (locking technique) for 30 seconds.

George Tillett of MCAS Beaufort stopped R. L. Norris of the Beaufort Air Station for the 135 pound championship. Competing out of Camp Pendleton was the 150 pound champion, J. W. Blalle, who defeated R. L. Norris.

Out of the lower weight class was Richard Tyner of Camp Pendleton. The 165 pound combatant outplayed H. Tyner of the 9th Marine District, Chicago, to gain well deserved championship. In the final match, a playoff involving the three top weights, Tyner won the robin competition, which made him eligible to meet the winner of the heavyweight bracket for the title of All-Marine Champion.

Ernie Cates, of 29 Palms, who is still known to many as Mister Judo, did what he was expected to do when he captured the 180 pound division with a win over J. P. Vandersluis.

John Roseberry of MCAS El Toro gained the playoff round with a stunning win over M. D. Boeyer of MCRD San Diego in the 200 pound class. R. J. Urena was the last player to gain the remaining three slots in the round robin competition, as he defeated S. N. Nelson of San Diego for the unlimited weight championship.

When the matches were over in the heavyweight bracket, all three contestants, Cates, Roseberry and Urena were deadlocked in a three way tie. Roseberry was given the finals berth, however, because he had fought his way to the top of his bracket by whipping George Tillett and J. W. Blalle, who were both finalists in the lower weight bracket.

Down The Middle

By Skip Vierling

"Scotch Foursome" time again. The monthly match kicks off on Sunday on the #2 course and there is still plenty of time to get in on it. Even though the weather is giving us a break, both courses are getting heavier traffic every weekend. Along with the regular play we also find a ten-towards heavier in-fracture of golf etiquette.

One of the basic rules of our game is replacing a divot being on to your next shot. I'm sure many of you have observed gouges in the fairway and you could bury a putter in, and you looked around you probably spotted the divot lying at a few yards away. Sometimes either too lazy or too unt, and the result will be a Greenskeeper's hair

Another item that should be mentioned is bouncing a ball off the head of a player ahead of you. Even if you don't think you'll be able to finish your round before dark, don't take the chance of sending someone to the great 18 in the sky because you're mad. On the other side of the ledger, if you happen to be a slow player then let those waiting behind you play thru and when they have gone thru give them time to get ahead, don't start winging the minute they are 50 yards in front.

Last but not least keep the noise down. This subject has been kicked around before in this column but it still needs rehashing. Nine times out of 10 there will be a fairway adjacent to the one you are playing on, and 9 times out of 10 there will be golfers on that fairway, so keep your vocal acclades down to a roar and think of the other fellow lining up or taking his shot.

Next week we should have the results of the big match at Paris Island for you and also the placings of the Pros in the Carolina Open (Jim Gantz is in that one).

Plenty of Spring

showdown in the double elimination affair.

Wing trailed 43-42 at the half, but took advantage of Division's cold shooting from the field and free throw line to outscore them 37-21 in the final half and keep their title hopes alive.

Playing throughout the loser's bracket after dropping a 63-57 decision to Division earlier in the week, the Cherry Pointers downed a scrappy Force Troops team, 88-79, to advance to the finals.

Wing led from the start, with a 17 point bulge highlighting first half play. Force Troops trailed by 11 at halftime and by 20 early in the second half before putting on a full-court press and pulling to within three points of the leaders.

SHIPSHIP COURSE
ATE — Pictured is a ship in A. Pesheck, MCB, Camp Lejeune. Joan is a graduate of the Woman Marine NCO Leadership Course, MCS, Quantico, who completed her "second" in class. Her work section is in communications.

about their own feelings here, the comment was a restrained, "Well, certainly, if two young Boy Scouts can take it that easily, two mature Marines couldn't possibly have had any ill effects."

While at Hospital Point, the detail took 30 minutes for lunch and regrouping forces. They travelled the same return route to the main gate of Camp Lejeune, arriving at 3 p. m.

Charles and Bobby passed the test with flying colors and paved the way for other scouts to work on earning Merit Badges.

Corporal Markewierz and PFC Weller, while not working for a merit badge, also passed with flying colors; perhaps with a few weary bones and a few new aches, but more importantly, with a satisfaction that they had helped youthful Americans learn the hardships necessary to merit recognition for a task well done.

A Woman Marine tells of the . . .

Myriad Activities For Summer Fun

What's it like to be a Woman Marine stationed at the world's largest amphibious training base, Camp Lejeune, North Carolina?

This question was answered recently by PFC Patri Guinaud of Martinsville, N. J. Stationed at Camp Lejeune, Patri is a teletype operator in the Base Communications Sections.

"I enjoy my job very much and have found that the recreational facilities provided offer me an excellent opportunity for healthful recreation," she commented.

Seashore Activities

Camp Lejeune's waterways are the key to summer fun. With 13 miles of the 68 mile perimeter of the base, shoreline, (and this paralleled by the intercoastal waterway), fishing, water-skiing, swimming and boating are popular sports aboard the base.

At Onslow Beach there are beach houses, picnic tables, and cabanas on the beach, where Woman Marines can enjoy a leisurely summer sunning.

At the boat basin, the Marine Corps provides a 63 foot, diesel-powered boat for fishing parties. There is also equipment available for those who want to try their hand at rowing and canoeing.

Change of Pace

"The recreational facilities on the base are varied to offer "change of pace" activities. The newest addition is the 32 lane bowling center located directly behind my barracks," PFC Guinaud said.

The bowling center is one of the most modern and complete anywhere.

"I find barracks life neat and clean and the 137 Woman Marines here come from every part of the country—South, East, North and West; from cities, small towns and rural areas. The diverse backgrounds and myriad personalities offer an interesting and friendly atmosphere.

Special Benefits

"I have no doubt that my enlistment in the Marine Corps will enrich my life in many ways. The military discipline will help to keep me physically fit as well as mentally alert. I am learning to get along with and to understand all types of people.

"I am proud to serve with such an elite organization and I hope to make full use of the various advantages the Marine Corps offers."

In the black and white division, the winners are as follows: In the category "People" an entry called "Gringo" by SSgt. B. L. Owens took first place. Corporal O. H. Boysen placed second with his photo titled "Rejected". In the second category called Babies and Children, the winning entry named "Tenderness", was submitted by Sgt. W. E. Layman and second place went to SSgt. B. Uminawicz for his photo called "First Communion". The Scenic section was again captured by Cpl. Boysen with his entry entitled "Kent Bridge". In the last Category, Military Life, first place went to PFC G. C. Fortenberry for a photo called "Outlook".

The winning photos will be forwarded to HQMC and entered in the All-Marine Corps Photography Contest. Winners in the Corps contest will compete for honors in the Inter-Service Photo Contest scheduled this summer.

The GLOBE was unable to obtain copies of all the winning photographs. However, those available are reprinted with this article.

Col. Hamblet . . . (Continued from Page 1)

Women's Recruit Training Center at Hunter College, N. Y.

Subsequently, she served at Camp Lejeune, Camp Pendleton, and Quantico. At the end of World War II, Colonel Hamblet was commanding Aviation Women Reserve Group I, numbering 2,600 women at Cherry Point.

Following demobilization and the passage of the Women's Armed Forces Integration Act in 1948, she accepted a regular commission as a major. In 1949 she was promoted to lieutenant colonel.

In 1951, Col. Hamblet was assigned to the Staff of the Commander, Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, Hawaii. The following year, she was named CO of the Women Marine Officers Training Detachment at Quantico.

In 1953, she became Director of Women Marines with the rank of colonel. She continued to serve in that capacity when her initial four-year tour of duty was extended to March 1, 1959.

She was then assigned duty in Naples, Italy, as Military Secretary to the Commander-in-Chief, Allied Forces, Southern Europe. She returned in May 1962 and assumed her present billet.

After retirement, Col. Hamblet plans to make her home in the Washington, D. C. area.

Lieutenant Colonel Dorothy Knox, former assistant G-1 at Camp Lejeune, is scheduled to take Col. Hamblet's place as CO, WM Recruit Training Bn., at Parris Island.

NMFRL helps develop vaccine which someday may cure common cold

By PFC DAVID E. HAILE

This past winter, 312 Marine Recruits at the Parris Island Recruit Depot, were given a vaccine to prevent them from catching a common form of catarrhal fever, a cold-like ailment caused by Adenovirus-4.

One hundred and forty-four more Marines were given placebos, or pills that did not contain the vaccine, and were used as a control group.

After completing recruit training and being transferred to the ITR here at Camp Lejeune, the Marines were exposed to an epidemic of "cat" fever. Of the 132 Marines transferred to Camp Lejeune who received the placebos, 32 contracting the disease required hospitalization. None of the 126 transferred to ITR who received the vaccine came down with the disease, suggesting that the vaccine is 100% effective.

Cooperating Agencies

This result marked a major payoff of six years in co-operative research between the West End Dispensary, Parris Island; ITR Dispensary; Naval Hospital; and Naval Medical Field Research Laboratory, Camp Lejeune; The Laboratory of Respiratory Virology National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md.; and the Epidemic Intelligence Service, QD, C., Atlanta, Ga.

Although the development of the vaccine is just one phase in a continuing research project to prevent acute respiratory ailments, its development is of extreme importance in preventing loss of man-power and training time. The armed forces have been plagued with "cat" fever for many years, especially in recruit training depots. At one base, it was estimated that a single epidemic caused by Adenovirus-4 cost the government 20 million dollars in loss of training time and manpower.

Captain J. H. Boyers, CO, NMFRL, said that co-operation between the several laboratories working on the vaccine made possible technical gains that could not have been made otherwise. Dr. Boyers also stressed that the understanding and cooperation shown by the Base Commander at Parris Island and the Base Commander, MCB, Camp Lejeune, was instrumental in making the field application phase of the experiment possible.

Expect Wide Use

Now that the vaccine has been produced, it is expected to be put into widespread use by the armed forces in training camps.

Marine Recruits arriving at Parris Island for recruit training next fall can expect to receive the vaccine and to avoid the discomforts caused by the virus.

The vaccine will not be given to all Marines as it is in the training camps that the virus is most often encountered. Although the vaccine will prevent a person from contracting the disease, it will not cure the disease once it has been contracted. This is another reason why it would be foolish to give the vaccine to all Marines.

Dr. Boyers said the cost of producing the vaccine is high at the present time. He estimated that the cost of each capsule given to the Marine recruits at Parris Island at $1,000.

Dr. Boyers stated that under mass production techniques, the cost could be lowered to approximately 25 or 30 cents apiece, and that civilian use was practical. At the present time, however, the vaccine is not available on the civilian market.

Is the windshield of your car made of safety glass?

It has been brought to the attention of the Commandant of the Marine Corps that foreign automobiles purchased over seas are not always provided with safety glass which meets the standards set forth in the American Standard Safety Code.

The State of North Carolina and 44 other states in the District of Columbia require that automobiles be provided with windshields made of laminated safety glass in accordance with the American Standard Safety Code.

Marine Corps personnel who import automobiles for their own use without the safety glass may be subjecting themselves and their riders to substantial safety hazards and the violation of state laws.

Clothing Rules defined by HQ

Concerned with a number of inquiries, HQMC recently issued a bulletin clarifying certain misunderstandings relative to regulations.

The bulletin, MCB 15-1, pointed out that the wear of overcoats manufactured by the military is authorized.

"Further," the bulletin stated, "there is no requirement for enlisted personnel to wear the serge overcoat or the nylon-rayon—with limited exceptions."

The bulletin also cleared up misunderstandings of regulations pertaining to the wear of black plastic buttons on the black insignia.
