

TOP YULE DISPLAY—The Christmas display outside the 2d Marine Regiment command post took top honors in the 2d Marine Division Christmas Decorations Contest held at Camp Lejeune Dec. 22. There were two other first place winners: 3d Bn., 6th Marines, first place in all battalion command posts; Mess Hall No. 226, 2d Marines in mess hall group. The 6th Marines placed second in category "A" and 2d Shore Party Battalion was runner-up in category "B" while mess hall 508 was second in category "C".

WINNING CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS—The elaborate display of greenery, lights and fixtures won first place in the annual Christmas decoration contest among Force Troops units. Builders of the award winning display were the men of 2d Amphibian Tractor Bn., who took top honors last year also.

Marine Colonel Earns Highest Viet Nam Medals

DA NANG, REPUBLIC OF VIET NAM, DEC. 26, 1964--A grateful Republic of Viet Nam bestowed two of its highest awards on U. S. Marine Lieutenant Colonel Joseph Koler, Jr.

The Cross of Gallantry with Gold Star and Medal of Merit first class were given to the Commander of the Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron in separate ceremonies.

Lieutenant General Nguyen Kanah, Commander in Chief of Vietnamese Armed Forces and former Prime Minister, made the presentation of the Cross of Gallantry to Koler. He received Viet Nam's second highest award for leading his unit on a strike mission near the walled city of Hue.

The fortress is located about fifty miles north of Da Nang on the coastal plain. Flying a UH-34D helicopter, the veteran Marine led his pilots into a landing zone under heavy enemy fire to disembark a company of Vietnamese Rangers.

The second presentation took place at Da Nang. The Medal of Merit was pinned on the Marine Officer by Brigadier General Nguyen Chanh Thi, Commanding General of "I" Corps.

Evacuation and rescue work during the flood caused by Typhoon Joan brought the Colonel his second citation. Koler and his men flew in darkness, rain, typhoon winds and braved Viet Cong small arms fire to rescue more than 1700 stranded Vietnamese.

'Steel Pike I' Marines Seagoing Salesmen

Marines have often been accused of assigning a photographer and reporter to each combat squad, but Exercise STEEL PIKE I indicates that each Marine is a top notch Public Relations man himself.

Marines that visited Lisbon, Portugal after the operation was secured, so impressed the Portuguese that the newspaper O SECULO assigned Senorita Isa de Santana Rodrigues to write an article about the American Marines visiting their fair country.

After being printed in Portuguese, the commendatory article was translated and submitted to THE NEW YORK TIMES for possible publication to note the impression of Americans left by the Marines.

Clifton Daniel, Managing Editor of the TIMES, thanked the European journalist for her "lovely tribute . . . (and) . . . generous words." However, the paper's policy prevented printing the article.

In forwarding it to MajGen. W. J. Van Ryzin, 2d Division CG, Daniel emphasized the writer " . . . was obviously impressed with some of the young men under your command."

The 1,500 word translated article stressed the "unique opportunity" for the people of Lisbon to better understand Americans following the Marines' visit.

"We know (your) liberal and democratic way of thinking in the political field. We know about (your) big-scale financial dealings; we know about the tycoons who breakfasts in Paris, lunches in London, dines in Rome and goes home to bed. On the other hand we have the cinema, with its fairyland world of illusion and luxury that fills the wide eyes of the European with visions of grandeur and fabulous riches."

Evidently the Marines left a truer impression of the American. She reported feeling the Marines possessed "a profound sense of human brotherhood . . . an overflowing tenderness towards children."

"Is there a more beautiful scene than the picture of these brave hard men, well trained in the arts of warfare, kneeling down on the ground with their hands affectionately stretched out to the little ones . . ."

The translation continued with descriptions of Americans exuberantly touring the scenic city, enjoying recreational activities set up through the Lisbon American Women's Club and finally standing in line "to hold out their strong arms" at the National Blood Bank . . . to save lives."

Summing up the visitors, she said "the American is like that, spontaneous, sure of himself . . . open-hearted and tender . . . with a healthy childlike gaiety."

She concluded the Marines displayed "tenderness (for) the Portuguese people . . . were especially sensitive to beauty . . . we for our part were happy to witness (the) reactions."

"Fine . . . generous . . . tender . . ."

With this tribute from a Portuguese newspaper and a letter from THE NEW YORK TIMES . . . need we be reminded we are always in the public's eye no matter where our travels or orders may take us?

The impression a U. S. Marine makes may be compared to tossing a stone in a pool — it is far-reaching. Stateside, we represent the Marine Corps; overseas, we represent America.

Interest In Toy Soldiers Applies To Adults Also

Remember the metal toy soldiers, selling for a dime, that were the pride of boys at Christmas time? Along with most things in life, the price has gone up and, the materials have changed. An interest in "toy soldiers" now extends to adults such as Marine Major Donald G. Robison, Marine Barracks, 8th and I Streets, Washington, D. C.

The toy soldiers have grown more sophisticated and are now called military miniatures.

The Marine Major and his fellow enthusiasts make, buy, or trade for, the unpainted figures. They then turn to their hobby of making completely authentic military miniatures.

When finished, the three-inch toy soldiers as produced by Major Robison are valued at $10.00.

Major Robison began pursuing his hobby in earnest in 1959. Since then he has made dozens of the figures, including a complete set of miniatures depicting Marine Corps history since 1775. His hand painted miniatures decorated the Marine Corps Birthday cake in Washington this year.

He uses his collection of books and pictures of military uniforms as guides for authenticity.

The Major's military figures have been displayed in a Marine Corps historic diorama in the Peabody Museum in Baltimore. Another diorama stands with his miniatures in the Center House Mess at the D. C. Marine Barracks.

He currently is collaborating with other local collectors in building a diorama of historical uniforms for the Army's Third Infantry at Ft. Myer, Virginia.

History passes and so do many of youth's pastimes, including the toy soldier for a dime. For others, such as Major Robison, the little lead soldier became an interesting pastime with a military tie-in.

Blue Angels Pick New Marine Ace

MCAS ELTORO, CALIF., A VMFA-542 Phantom pilot fulfilled a six-year-old wish when he left the Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, for preliminary training before becoming a member of the Navy's famed Blue Angels aerial team.

Capt. Fred Craig, made his wish as he watched the Blue Angels perform at Pensacola, Fla., while he was training as a Naval Aviation Cadet.

He received his orders to the precision flying group last week and will report to Chase Field in Beeville, Texas, for check outs in the F-11 aircraft before actually reporting for flying duty with the Blue Angels.

Craig will relieve the only Marine aviator with the group, Capt. John Dretsinger, for a three year "barnstorming" tour of aerial shows throughout the country.

The 27-year-old bachelor entered the Corps in Nov., 1958, and reported to Jacksonville for flight training. He was designated a Naval Aviator in July, 1960, and reported to VMA-332, Cherry Point, to fly the A4-C.

After returning from an overseas tour with the attack squadron, Craig then was assigned to VMA-311 and later VMA-211.

He has also attended NAS Miramar's Landing Signal Officer Training School and Basic School.

Since joining El Toro's VMFA-542 a year ago, Craig has flown more than 200 hours in the F4B Phantom. He has logged a total of 1350 flying hours in his Marine Career.

In addition, Craig has completed carrier qualifications and participated in a Trans-Pac operation flying the Phantom.

Belated Christmas Gift Slated For 1100 LCpls

Nearly 1100 Marines may receive a belated "Christmas present" soon from the Commandant of the Marine Corps in the form of a promotion from lance corporal to corporal.

Headquarters Marine Corps officials indicate this increase of promotions will be made without regard to vacancies in Tables of Organization or Military Occupational Specialties. The promotion increases will be administered during the 3rd and 4th quarters of Fiscal Year '65.

The promotion increase is authorized in a recent change to MCo 1418.9D, which outlines promotion policy for lance corporal and corporal.

The change pertains to promotions to corporal and authorizes increases as follows:

Commanding Generals of Fleet Marine Force Units are authorized to increase the number of promotions from lance corporal to corporal from 5 to 7.5 percent above the authorized T/O or Manning Level figure.

Commanding Generals of Posts and Stations are authorized to increase the number of promotions to corporal from five to 15 percent above the authorized T/O or Manning Level.

Commanding Generals, LFTU LANT, LFTU PAC, MARTCOM and Commanding Officers not included above are authorized an increase from 10 to 20 percent above the authorized T/O or Manning Level.

There's A Bright Side To Income Tax Picture

Sometime during the next few weeks, each of us in the armed forces will receive, along with our pay, a couple of flimsy sheets of paper which will probably cause a certain degree of dismay and consternation for many of us.

These sheets, known as "W-2" forms, or more properly, Withholding Tax Statements, list in cold, hard figures: (a) how much the federal government paid us during 1964, and (b) how much that same government took from our pay for personal income taxes.

Between the time we get the forms and April 15, the tax return deadline, each of us will have to sit down, compare the tax withheld with the tax due according to the tax table, make a few computations, fill in the forms and file our return.

Some of us--the lucky ones--are going to find the government owes us money. Some are going to find the government figured it pretty close and the difference is only a few dollars, either way. And some are going to find, for one reason or another, the government hasn't taken enough. We'll be digging hard for that extra money before Spring.

But before we get too involved in our grumbling, let's take a look at the bright side of the tax picture.

In the first place, the tax bite on our earnings was less last year than in previous years. Laws enacted in 1964 cut the withholding rate at least two percent for most of us. In 1965, the same laws will chop at least another two percent from the rate.

The second thing to consider is how the government spends our tax money. More than half the federal budget is allotted to defense expenditures. Income tax supplies a large share of Uncle Sam's spending money.

The rest of your tax money also goes for things you can enjoy. The new freeway that cuts hours from your travel time home was financed, in part, by federal tax dollars. The national park you enjoyed on your trip last year couldn't exist long without your tax money. Schools, parks, bridges, monuments--many of the things that make the United States such a wonderful place to live--all are supported by your taxes.

In case you're still not convinced, a glance through the daily paper will show you many countries in which you could not enjoy these things--many countries whose armed forces are pitifully underpaid and underdeveloped. Many of these countries still levy heavy income taxes. How do you think people there feel about taxes?

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column reserved for publication of letters from readers of the GLOBE. All letters must be signed and contain name and address, however, names and units will be omitted on request.

An article appeared in the Dec. 17 edition of the GLOBE asking "Is Little Theater an answer to Lejeune's entertainment void?"

Pre-supposing the existence of an entertainment "void," the obvious answer to the question is this:

Even if theatre is not the answer, it is most definitely an answer -- and a good one.

The Little Theatre movement had its beginning in 1887 in France. An amateur actor named Andre Antoine gathered together a company of fellow-amateurs to form the Theatre-Libre. This was a private playhouse open only to subscribers. It was formed to produce plays using radically different production techniques from those common earlier in the 19th century.

Antoine's attempt was an artistic success, for the Theatre-Libre helped initiate the movement toward realism on the stage and in dramatic literature. It was however, a financial failure. (There may be a lesson in this for aspiring Thespians at Camp Lejeune).

Due to the fact that we were enjoying melodramas, wild-west shows, minstrel shows, and vaudeville here in the U. S., the Little Theatre movement didn't really catch hold until about 1912 in this country. But once audiences away from Broadway expressed desire to see the fine continental plays produced by the movement toward realism, amateur groups were founded and the community theatre was established in America.

Little Theatres contributed to the stragulation of vaudeville, spread even to rural communities, lost momentum during two world wars, recovered, and are thriving today. They have done important research in experimental theatre, and serve as social as well as cultural organizations.

Getting back to the point: An amateur theatrical company at Camp Lejeune would fill an entertainment void and a cultural void, both for performers and audiences. Productions can be given with very little financial burden on subscribers, especially using modern production technique. As a cultural medium, it would be an asset to the base and the surrounding community.

Your article also asked "who will get the ball rolling?" -- I will -- if there is enough interest in establishing an amateur group.

—Lt. J. S. Kopfler

6th Marines,
2d MarDiv. FMF
Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Dear Sir:

Your editorial of Dec. 17, entitled "Is 'Little Theater' Answer to Lejeune's Entertainment Void?", has definitely excited this writer's interest.

I have only been at Lejeune a little more than a year, but feel that is sufficient time in which to have determined what the relative merits of such a group could be. I may not have the answer in its entirety, but should like to be among the first to submit an offer of my services.

I am sure there are others who have had some affiliation, at one time or another, with a dramatics club or playhouse group of some sort. Amateur thespians are not usually a shy breed, so generating response to such an idea should not be too difficult. This response should not be restricted to those with the "acting urge" either. There are unlimited opportunities for people of diversified talents. Besides the players themselves, a good stage presentation needs producers, directors, make-up people, those with some knowledge of carpentry, electrical wiring and lighting, stage managers, stage hand of various kinds, publicity people, committee heads, set designers, choreographers, artists, and the list goes on.

Having belonged to theater groups up north, where we had both professional and amateur members, I know such an organization could not only become self-sustaining, but realize considerable profits.

My suggestions for the initial phase of organization would be as follows:

1. The GLOBE, being the central spot of response, determine if enough people are interested. This being feasible, make a list of all interested parties.

2. Select three people from that list to head and conduct the first general meeting. See that they have the means and ample time to contact each other prior to this meeting.

3. Announce, via the GLOBE, a date for general meeting of all interested parties with a designated place to meet.

4. The purpose of this meeting would be to introduce ourselves to one another, appoint a nominating committee for officers (the three presiding coordinators could do this), plan future meetings, acquire suggestions, and formulate general plans.

These are only necessary beginning steps. They are naturally general in nature, but with successive meetings the specifics could be worked out.

This kind of group would be unique in that a chance to participate in something jointly is offered to men and women Marines, wives and even some of our younger dependents. Anyone who has ever been involved in this type work knows the tremendous satisfaction, both personal and unified, that is derived by all participants from an "opening night". A "Little Theater" at Camp Lejeune would be a great asset to a base that by its very location is starved for this particular brand of culture. The evident large cross-section of our country represented on this base must certainly contain a multitude of talent. I have stated my availability. I am waiting to be contacted.

Sincerely, LCpl. Paul M. Sheehan, SSCO., MCSS, MCB, Camp Lejeune.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to the heartening response for the formation of a "Little Theater" group, plans are already in full swing. Any (Marines and dependents of the Quad-Command only) who is interested in joining the Little Theater Group is requested to attend the group's first organizational meeting at Marston pavilion on Tuesday, Jan. 12, 1965 at 7:30 p.m. If you are interested in coming, but will be unable to attend the meeting, or if you do not have transportation, please call the Editor at 7-5522. Members will not be restricted to actors, choreographers and dancers, etc. Anyone with a strong desire to help out with Little Theater work is encouraged to attend.

ARMCHAIR CHRISTIAN

Are you an "Armchair Christian?"

Most sports fans can name their favorite teams. If they are highly enthusiastic they can list all the important statistics -- games won, leading players and their histories.

Regardless of this interest and knowledge, the fan is an outsider. He is one of the countless number who share vicariously in team contests. He does not participate in the hard work, sacrifices, joys and sorrows of the team itself. The players reap their rewards of honor, while the armchair fan has only the temporary pleasure of looking on.

Can a parallel be drawn in the spiritual realm? The answer is "yes," and the parallel is truly a vital one. Ask the average church goer why he believes in God, and the answer will undoubtedly be "why, because I'm a Christian."

Yet keeping the armchair athlete in mind, one may ask himself, "What team am I on? Am I really on God's team?" One may know a great deal more religious history and doctrine than the average person but still be no more than an armchair Christian. Once a person identifies himself with Christ, he must either assume the full responsibility which the name bears or be guilty of grave blasphemy. "Let everyone that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity." (II Timothy 2:19).

As a sports fan one wouldn't think of approaching the manager of the team and announcing that he was a member of the team and wanted his award just because he attended all the games and knew all the statistics. Could you on an equally flimsy basis stand before Almighty God and claim a Christian's reward?

MOVIE REVIEWS

OF HUMAN BONDAGE

He swore he'd never touch her again and then she whispered his name and he was lost. This is "Of Human Bondage." MGM presents Somerset Maugham's monumental masterpiece starring Kim Novak as Mildred, who couldn't help herself, she lived only for pleasure and needed men the way an addict needs drugs. And Laurence Harvey as Philip who loved her, took her back again and again only to be despised and degraded. See Kim Novak as Mildred and Laurence Harvey as Philip in "Of Human Bondage." The most unforgettable and tempestuous love story ever brought to the motion picture screen.

OCEAN'S ELEVEN

Frank Sinatra heads a star spangled cast in "Ocean's Eleven." This Technicolor comedy-melodrama which has a glamorous Las Vegas background also stars Dean Martin who plays a night club entertainer who's looking for excitement and finds it.

WHO'S MINDING THE STORE

Everyone is asking, "Who's Minding the Store?" and only Jerry Lewis has the fun-filled answer. Turned loose in a modern department store Jerry rocks the store from flagpole to bargain basement. This rollicking film stars the multi-talented Jerry Lewis and co-stars Jill St. John, Agnes Moorehead, John McGiver and Ray Walston. The film is in Technicolor.

MAN'S FAVORITE SPORT

What's a man's favorite sport? Just ask any girl or answer the question yourself when you see Rock Hudson in his latest and funniest screen delight, "Man's Favorite Sport." He has the answer with the aid of three luscious wow girls, named Brunette, Paula, and Prentiss, blonde Maria Perschey, and redheaded Charlene Holt. Don't miss Rock Hudson and friends in "Man's Favorite Sport" with Henry Mancini's music, and in Technicolor, too.

ISLAND OF THE BLUE DOLPHINS
 One of the most honored literary classics of our times has been brought to the screen as an unusual and exciting motion picture adventure in color. Scott O'Ell's "Island of the Blue Dolphins" is the moving story of a young girl, played by Cella Kaye, abandoned on a California Coastal island, and how, like Robinson Crusoe, she ingeniously survives.

CHARADE
 The love affair of a team of sophisticates in Paris is smartly told with a debonair Cary Grant and a worldly wise Audrey Hepburn in the Technicolor film "Charade." This film discreetly and delightfully tells of the unconventional courtship of an adventurous American (Grant) and a newly-made widow (Hepburn). It's a comedy-mystery-romance set in a Paris decor with cocktails, murder and Givenchy gowns.

Old Spanish Fort

Camp Garcia, a familiar area to many Marines who have stormed the beaches of Vieques and charged up and down its many hills, has undergone a continuous program of improvements and face-lifting since 1947 when FMFLant units began utilizing Vieques Island as an amphibious training area.

The camp, located directly south of the center of the island and approximately one mile inland from the southern beaches, was named in honor of PFC Fernando Luis Garcia during dedication ceremonies held in February 1959 by LtGen. E. A. Pollock, Commanding General, FMFLant.

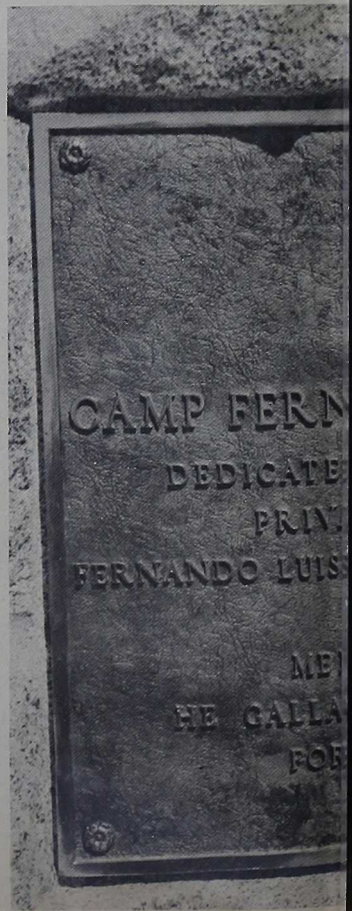

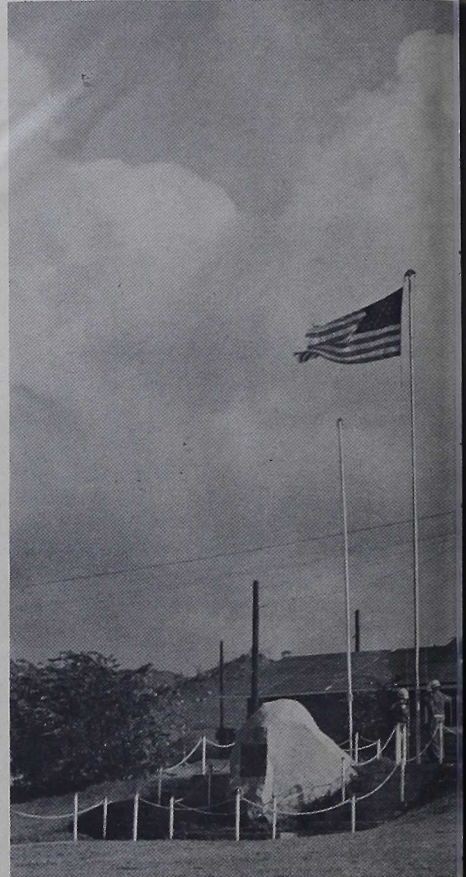

PFC Garcia, a Medal of Honor winner, was killed in action on Outpost Bruce, Bunker Hill, Irwan-dong, Korea on Sept. 5, 1952. He also has a destroyer escort (DE-1040) named after him, and has the distinction of being the first native of Puerto Rico to win the nation's highest award.

Lieutenant Colonel W. L. Persac, Commanding Officer of Camp Garcia, operates under the command of the Commanding General, Force Troops. The mission of the Garcia Detachment is to operate and maintain all areas and facilities on Vieques Island utilized by Marine Corps units.

A company from the 8th Engineer Bn., Force Troops, is assigned to Camp Garcia on a six-month rotating basis. "C" company, commanded by Captain Clyde E. Lane, is currently putting the finishing touches on Butler buildings and quonset huts built during the 18-month construction project. The buildings will be used as quarters for Marine units undergoing training at Vieques.

Camp Garcia Marines take full advantage of the natural recreation facilities found on the island.

There are fine beaches located within walking distance of the camp; affording the sun-worshippers excellent swimming and spear-fishing facilities. Floating diving platforms and thatched shelters have been added by Marines in their off-duty hours.

Camp facilities include an enlisted club, Staff NCO club, outdoor movie and a recreation building.

Horse-back riding is something you wouldn't ordinarily expect to find on a tropical island. However, Vieques abounds with herds of half-tame horses. Many a leatherneck equestrian has caught and broken these small, wiry ponies to halter.

Most Marines make the five-mile trek to Isabel Segunda, population 5,000, for a little "R and R" after hot, dusty field problems. This quaint and colorful village, with its brightly painted Spanish houses, offers the Marines a glimpse of the Latin culture so familiar to the Caribbean.

Many Marines on "liberty" have visited the old Spanish fort that overlooks the town and harbor. The English, first rulers of the island, began construction in 1713 and slowly added to it until the Spanish destroyed part of the fort with cannon fire when they took the island from the British in 1752.

Community relations with the civilian population of Vieques is outstanding due to the people-to-people effort of Marines at Camp Garcia. Several work-projects have recently been completed by the 32d Marine Expeditionary Unit commanded by Col. E. P. Hartsock.

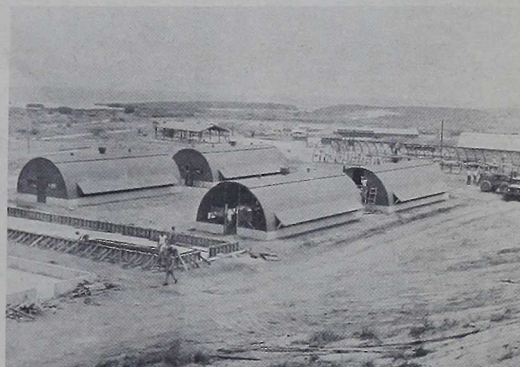

Marines from the MEU repainted a school building and hosted 90 civilian guests aboard the USS Boxer. Past projects have included building a new school and playground.

In addition, Vieques Marines furnish ice cream and toys for the local school children at Christmas.

Vieques Island, with its miles of undulating kunai grass and tropical undergrowth is progressively being transformed into a highly workable and livable training area regarded by the Marine Corps as one of the most promising facilities of its kind.

Quantico Quintet Quieted After Seven-Year Reign

The dynasty of the Quantico Marines basketball team over the past seven years of Christmas Tournament play crumbled over the holidays. Philadelphia College of Textiles and Science dumped the Leathernecks 81-75 in the tourney's final at Larson Gymnasium.

The visiting Pennsylvanians made it to the finals by disposing of Findlay College of Ohio 94-72, and Slippery Rock State College of Pennsylvania, 97-70.

Using a tight zone defense and a wide-open style of offense the Philly "Rams", led by the shooting of John Shannon and Cleveland Smith, stymied the game Marines. The hard-nosed defensive play of the Rams held Quantico's two 20-point-plus men, Brian Sheehan and Dick Peloff, to 15 and 12 points respectively.

For his consistency and all-around ball playing, John Shannon of the Rams was elected Most Valuable player of the 11th Annual Christmas Collegiate Basketball Tournament. During the three-day tourney, he tossed in 53 points.

Two tournament records were set during the tournament, as the Findlay College "Oilers" set the tourney record for most points scored by one team in a game and the most points scored by an individual in one game. Ed Mandell erased an eight year mark of 43 points, set by Paul Johnson of Mt. Saint Mary's College, of Maryland, as he scorched the nets for 44, while leading the Oilers to another record of 132 points against the hapless Alfred University five (132-85).

Division Draws 240 At Holiday Turkey Shoot

Nearly 240 shooters took part in the 2d Marine Division's Turkey and Ham shoot held here on Dec. 29, 1964. Two shooters took three prizes, while two other marksmen garnered two awards.

The top shooter of the day was Staff Sergeant H. L. Meese, who captured three turkeys. Two of the birds were won during regular competition, while the third, a live one, was won in a shoot-off with the low man of the day, Sgt. Paul J. Labarge.

The other triple winner was a dependent, L. Leppink, who took first place on three relays. The two double winners were Sgt. R. E. Parrish and Cpl. J. L. Van Norman.

Other winners included CWO. C. A. Galvin, LCpl. F. A. Geeslin, Lt. M. C. Tryon, LtCol. H. T. Pittman, D. F. Moon, WO. A. S. Morrill, LtCol. B. F. Myers, PFC T. Stafford, Sgt. J. E. Rea, Lt. T. P. O'Leary, PFC D. B. Stepp, PFC D. Lefew, Cpl. A. R. Matthews, WO. R. Dietz, LCpl. A. A. Bartley, PFC R. S. McQuiston, Lt. R. P. Smith, LCpl. M. D. Tyler, Lt. A. D. Harris, and SSgt. W. S. Reidy.

Locals Advance In State AAU Boxing

The Camp Lejeune Boxing Team powered its way into the second round of the Greensboro AAU Boxing Tournament Monday evening, as Francis Hutchinson, Ken Norton and Marshal Fortune, Jr. scored opening round knockouts.

Ken Norton, Lejeune's novice heavyweight stopped Joe Cryzelli of South Carolina in the first round. Norton, who put the gloves on for the first time this year, entered the ring at 209 pounds.

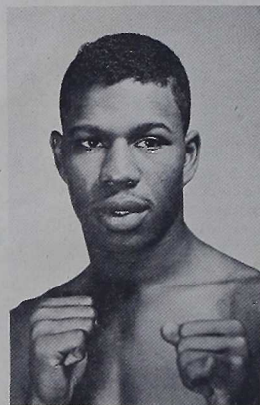

The Lejeune Middleweight, Francis "Hutch" Hutchinson, winner by a knockout in his last outing, made it two in a row as he dropped Bill Hubert of Cherry Point late in the first round. The hard throwing Hutchinson, who hits like a light heavy, tipped the scales at 156.

Francis Hutchinson

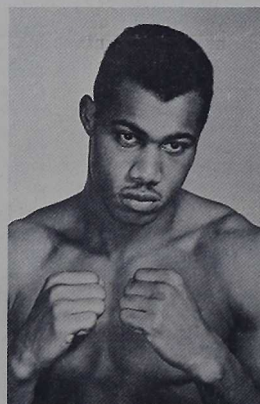

The third knockout of the night was scored by Marshal Fortune, Jr. The speedy 147 pounder floored Charlie Ballinger of Blacksburg, early in the first round. Throwing a flurry of rights and lefts, the Lejeune boxer scored repeatedly until the lights went out for Ballinger.

Bob Lozada, All-Marine Featherweight Champion in 1964, decisioned Bob Ray of Charlotte for the D'dogs fourth victory. The 132 pound scrapper jabbed and hooked beautifully, while landing an occasional bomb on his opponent's chin.

Marshal Fortune, Jr.

Four of the Lejeune boxers were stopped in the opening round. Don Reid, fighting at 132 pounds, lost by decision to Bill Hester of High Point. Charles Perry, 156 pounder, lost a close decision to Mike Austin of High Point, while Lejeune's two new comers, Mike Aronin, welterweight, and Joe Datham, heavyweight, also dropped decisions.

Down The Middle

By Skip Vierling

The beautiful weather and a long weekend brought out many old faces that haven't been seen on the course for some time. In addition to those who dusted off the clubs were a few bright and shining newcomers including 1st Sgt. P. C. Rizzo's two charmers, Janet and Lucille, as well as your scribe's pride Ken, (not in the caddy role for the first time).

Considering the amount of holiday leaves and trips that put many golfers quite a few miles from Camp Lejeune, both courses received steady if not crowded play. Among the regulars sporting new equipment was Gysgt. Ski Kozlowski, one of this area's longest drivers.

On Saturday SgtMaj. S. W. Smith, MSgt. W. C. Nowell, Sgt. Frank Greene and yours truly journeyed to Cherry Point. It was the first time around for me, and to say that I was impressed with the course would be putting it mildly. The course is a real challenge and the greens are in outstanding condition.

Big doings this weekend for all Burger Bucket golfers! Jim Gantz and Joe Inman will hold a clinic at 7:30 a. m. Saturday. They will go over many of the small mistakes often made, as well as many of the basic details that are forgotten by 'old' golfers. On the agenda will be: how to play uphill and downhill lies, long and short putts, the grip, stance and all manner of winning tips. Following the clinic a "Blitz" will be played. This is a darn good opportunity to get some added education and put it to use in a round of golf right after school.

All America Bowls

The last step in the four-step approach is vital.

The two preceding steps are, in a sense, automatic. Here's what happens on the fourth step if everything is working.

The left foot and right arm are synchronized. As the right arm descends in the pendulum, downward and forward, the left foot begins to slide. The ball should be neither behind nor ahead of the bowler.

At the end of the step comes the explosion point. This is the instant when the ball leaves the hand and the follow through begins. Much happens quickly. And it is all so important that many instructors begin their teaching of a student, who is not a beginner, by observing what he does here.

Billy Welu, a first team bowling All-American, gave me some fourth-step hints. The left foot should never leave the lane. The feet should be at right angles to the foul line. The shoulders should be parallel to the foul line, except when angling for a spare shot.

High Series Champ and High Game Runner-up; HM1 A. I. Mathisen, High Club Champ and High Series Champion; Capt. Ron Foley, High Series Runner-up and SSgt. Al Hill, High Game Runner-up.

ALL-STAR—Hawaii Marine Bill Connolly, (right) accepts his All-Star team award from Young Suk Ko, Athletic Director of the University of Hawaii. Also named to the tournament's dream team is LeRoy Walker, (center) Utah State. Other members not present were Wayne Estes, Utah State, Clyde Stallsmith, Hawaii Marines, and John Austin, Boston College. The All-Star squad was picked from participants in Hawaii's first annual Rainbow Basketball Classic Tournament which hosted some of the top military and college teams in the nation. The Hawaii Marines upended the University of Wisconsin "Badgers" in the final 69-62.

Roving With Rick

Ready, aim and be darn sure you know what you're firing at. With the coming of the new year hunting seasons have opened on a varied number of birds and game throughout the state. A few of our fine, feathered friends however are now out of season. As of Jan. 2, Ducks, Coot and Hooded American and Red Breasted Merganser are taboo.

After Jan. 9 no more barrels can be aimed at Woodcock and Wilson's Snipe. Either Geese and Brant are still in season, and can be taken at the rate of 3 and 6 a day respectively up to Jan. 15. Make sure though there aren't any snow geese in your sights. Season is closed on them.

If your favorite dish is pheasant under glass or stewed rabbit, what are you waiting for? From now until Feb. 15, throughout the state, season is open on Rabbit, Quail, Wild Turkey, Non-Native Pheasants, and Ruffed Grouse. Raccoon and Opossum season is open until March 1, while Ringneck Pheasants and other non-native gamebirds except for ducks at licensed controlled shooting preserves are in season until March 31.

Anyone interested in viewing an ice hockey game? Professional hockey towns, such as New York, Detroit, Chicago and Boston are too far on a regular weekend to travel to see the world's fastest sport. However, semi-pro hockey can be just as exciting, if not more so at times than the pros. On Friday evening at Charlotte, N. C., the Charlotte Checkers take on Nashville, while Saturday has Nashville at Greensboro against the home town Generals.

This weekend also opens the week long Civil War Centennial Observance of the Battle of Fort Fisher at the State's historic site. It will run from Sunday, Jan. 10 until the following Sunday. This Friday and Saturday evening also will be the Mid-South Invitation Duplicate Bridge Tournament at Pinehurst, N. C.

A little advance notice for all boxing fans. The 1965 All-Marine Boxing Championships will be held at Camp Lejeune this year from March 23-27. Last year on the West Coast our boys made a good showing as Art Redden and Bob Lozada walked off with the Middleweight and Featherweight crowns respectively. They will be back again this year representing Camp Lejeune, but Redden will be fighting Light Heavyweight this year.

For those not addicted to the "basketball madness" another sport in which a ball and a net figure prominently will also share the Force Troops intramural spotlight this winter.

Volleyball will swing into a full slate of action about Jan. 11 with eleven teams expected to enter league competition.

Division's Holiday Net Tourney Ends

The 2d Marine Division Holiday Basketball Tournament finals were held last night. Because of GLOBE deadline Wednesday afternoon, the results will not be published until next week. The field of sixteen teams were narrowed to just two, as the two week long tourney drew to a close.

"B" Co., 1st Battalion, Sixth Marines met Headquarters and Service Co., 2d

Reconnaissance Battalion in the finals.

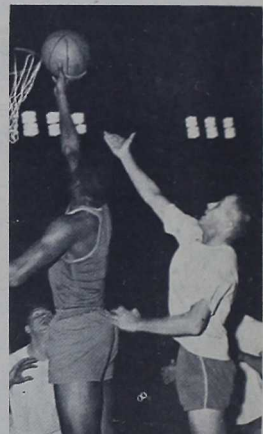

In the quarter finals of the holiday festival MP Company turned back "A" Co., 1/8, while "B" Co., 1/6 stopped "M" Co., 3/6, 46-37. In the lower half of the bracket "A" Co., 1/6 defeated a game "C" Co., 1/6, 49-43, while H&S Co., 2nd Reconnaissance Battalion pushed by "D" Co., 1/6, 61-51.

Yesterday's semifinal action saw a scrapping, charged up "B" Co., 1/6 turn back a late surge by MP Co., 45-41. Led by Don Bartolazzi and Bill Jones, B-1-6 spurred to a commanding 8 point lead, only to see it slip away as MP's Bill Evans sank three straight field goals.

With two minutes remaining on the field house clock, Bill Jones stole the ball and laid it in to put his team ahead 43-31. After recovering a missed shot by the opposition, Don Bartolazzi began working the ball slowly trying to run out the clock. Seeing the lane was open, the backcourt sharpshooter darted down the middle and scored, putting the game on ice. The diminutive backcourt duo of Bartolazzi and Jones tallied 15 and 11 points respectively.

In the second semifinal match a strong H&S Co., 2d Recon team was pitted against "A" Co., 1/6. The Recon "Raiders", led by the prolific scoring of Ted Shramek, sunk the game "A" Co. team, 60-51.

A bitterly contested game for the first three quarters gave way to the pattern ball displayed by the well drilled Recon team. Shramek was high man for the night as he garnered 20 markers. Teammate Chuck Kraranza threw in 14 points in the winning cause, Bill Fleming was high man for the losers, as he netted 11 points.

DRIVING FOR TWO—Bill Evans of MP Company, 2d Marine Division drives past an unidentified player from "B" Co., 1/6 during their semi-finals match of Division's Christmas Tournament. "B" Co. went on to cop the contest 45-41.

Piloting Class

The New River Power Squadron will start a piloting course on Tuesday, Jan. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Jacksonville city auditorium. The course will be 12-14 weeks long, with meetings held once a week. Subjects to be taught will include small boat handling, safety afloat, rules of the road, compass reading, chart interpretation, mariners' knots, line handling, life saving, etc. Anyone may attend these lectures. The course is presented free of charge.

LEATHERNECK AWARDS—Corporal Ralph A. Rossi, Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron 265, MAG-26, MCAF New River, (center) displays his awards presented by the Leatherneck magazine for his outstanding rifle marksmanship. Cpl. Rossi was presented a Winchester rifle along with a clock and a certificate of excellence for placing second in the east coast division of the 13th annual Marine Corps Rifle Marksmanship contest. Colonel Stanley V. Titterud, MAG-26 Commanding Officer, (right) and Lieutenant Colonel E. C. Stanton, squadron commander, presented Cpl. Rossi with his awards.

"GOOD SHOOTING SARGE"—Lt. Col. J. B. Ord, Commanding Officer, 2d Battalion, 8th Marines, presents a Leatherneck Award to Sgt. R. H. Odum, Company "F", 2/8. Sgt. Odum qualified for the award in Leatherneck Magazine's Division "B", 3rd quarter. He fired a 238 x 250 for requalification on the "A" Course.

TELEVISION PERSONALITY—Staff Sergeant Richard F. McChesney, NCOIC of the Base Informational Services' Radio/Television section receives a Letter of Appreciation from Major General A. L. Bowser, Camp Lejeune Commander, Dec. 29, just prior to his transfer to the west coast. The sergeant was cited for the extensive work, initiative, resourcefulness and devotion to duty in connection with his production and presentation of various local radio and television shows for the Marine Corps over the past ten months. McChesney's wife, Lola, is at left.

Marine Of The Month

Private First Class Walter G. Bain, a grenadier in the 1st Platoon, Company "L", 3d Battalion, 6th Marines, 2d Marine Division, has been selected as 6th Marines, Marine of the Month.

Colonel George W. E. Daughtry, Commanding Officer, 6th Marines, presented PFC Bain with a letter, a $10 gift certificate and a 96-hour pass during an informal ceremony in the colonel's office.

Colonel Daughtry congratulated PFC Bain on his selection as Marine of the Month, and informed him that he had been picked as "the best" from about 3,500 eligible men.

Since joining the Marine Corps March 30, 1962, Bain has participated in two squad competitions. He was a rifleman in the squad competition put on for the Commandant of the Korean Marine Corps in April, 1964 and as an automatic rifleman in the more recent Marine Corps-wide squad competition at Quantico, Va.

According to the regimental bulletin publishing Bain's selection, he was picked "...for his continued high level performance of duty...."

PFC Walter G. Bain

MERITORIOUS MAST FOR NBC WORK—Corporal J. Mills is awarded a Meritorious Mast by Maintenance Battalion's Commanding Officer, Lieutenant Colonel J. A. Wachter. Cpl. Mills was awarded the mast for his work as Nuclear, Chemical and Biological Warfare NCO for the Battalion during the latter half of 1964.

PI Admin. School Graduates Classes

The Marine Corps Personnel Administration School here graduated two administrative classes December 18; the First Sergeant's Administration Course and the Administrative Chief's Course.

First Sergeant James F. Lau topped the First Sergeant's Personnel Administration Course class of 14 with the highest academic average, while Sergeant Francis A. Pepe received the Administrative Chief's Course honor.

Colonel John Loy, Depot Legal Officer, was guest speaker for the exercise and presented diplomas to the graduates.

To the first sergeants he remarked, "As senior troop leaders, you are the one to set the tone for other staff non-commissioned officers in your organization. Your job is one of a supervisor and it should be such as to increase the initiative of your juniors in promptness, neatness and efficiency."

First Sergeant Lau is assigned to Marine Corps Base, 29 Palms, Calif. Placing second and third respectively in the First Sergeant's Course were First Sergeant David O. Watson from Camp Lejeune, N. C., and Gunnery Sergeant John C. Maness, of Quantico, Va.

Sgt. Pepe is with the 1st Marine Division, Camp Pendleton, Calif. Staff Sergeant Donald E. Lake, Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., placed second and Sgt. Alrid E. Plaskett, Marine Corps Recruiting Station, New York City, earned third place honors for the administrative chief's course.

The Administrative Chief's Course graduated 59 non-commissioned officers during the ceremony.

CHANCE MEETING—Corporal Allen M. Ross, Jr., Company "F", Battalion Landing Team 2/6, dines with his father, Allen M. Ross, Sr., Third Mate aboard the Merchant ship S. S. Del Sol, at Huelva, Spain, shortly before the relief of the BLT as the landing force for the U. S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. Cpl. Ross, embarked aboard the attack transport USS Rockbridge (APA-228), received a message informing him that his father's ship was also anchored at Huelva. A boat was lowered from the Rockbridge and the younger Ross was "taxied" to his father's ship where they dined and discussed the Mediterranean. It has been more than one year since Ross last saw his father before this chance meeting.

Red Cross Volunteers To Help With School Health

Red Cross Volunteers are now being trained in preparation for assisting teachers in caring for sick or injured during school hours. Women volunteers of the School Health Program, an approved activity of the American Red Cross, are undergoing training at the Tarawa Terrace School.

Twenty volunteers comprise the class. This is the first time this type of training has been introduced into the North Carolina school system. Only one other state, Florida, can boast of a school health program.

Mr. William J. Sherrin, Field Director of the American Red Cross at Camp Lejeune stated that the present class of volunteers will graduate in February.

The duties of the Red Cross Volunteers will be to assist in First Aid within limits outlined by school medical authorities and in accordance with theory and skills taught in the Red Cross Standard First Aid Course. They will assist the public health nurse or school health nurse with physical examination procedures, such as weighing and hearing or vision tests. Arrange for transportation home of a sick child at the direction of the school authorities. They will stay in the classroom, when requested, if it is necessary for the teacher to leave to attend to a sick or injured child.

Some of their additional duties will be assisting with records other than health records and assisting small or handicapped children in the school lunchroom and other places.

The training course given by the Office of the Red Cross Field Director consists of six hours training on Red Cross Basic Training for Volunteers and the Red Cross Standard First Aid Course which consist of 10 hours, training. A standard First Aid Certificate will be issued upon successful completion of the course.

The following training will be given by the School Authorities. Responsibilities of the Red Cross Volunteers in case of fire or fire drills, channels of authority and relationships (Doctor, School Nurse, Red Cross Volunteer Nurse). Preferred telephone technique, Principal Teacher and Red Cross Volunteer relationships, Ground rules peculiar to a given school and a tour of the school including general information as it relates to the Red Cross Volunteers' duties in the school.

An orientation and Training course conducted by a Nurse designated by the school will include; simple nursing skills, such as safe handwashing, safe waste disposal, safe procedures for taking temperature, reading clinical thermometer—its care and cleaning and proper making of sickroom bed.

Instruction on routines and policies regarding the use and administration of the sickroom and the use of forms and records to be maintained in the school health room are also included in the course.

The Red Cross Volunteer must have completed all training before being assigned to duty.

A probationary or practice period of ten hours of work in the school is required before the Red Cross Volunteer who has been trained for school service may receive her cap and pin. The school will designate a person to whom the Red Cross Volunteer reports. This person will be responsible for supervision, on the job guidance and required school orientation for the volunteers.

WOMEN'S HIGH SERIES—Mrs. Rosemary Waite registered a high series total of 626 in the Women's Division at the Camp Lejeune Bowling Center for the month of December followed by Mrs. Jo McCabe as high series runner-up with a 599.

MCAF Enlisted Wives

The Enlisted Wives Club of the Air Facility holds its regular meeting on Dec. 18. The following new officers were elected. President Mrs. Steve Davis, Vice-President Mrs. Charles Hattmaker, Secretary Mrs. Alfred Pitts and treasurer Mrs. Keith Scott.

On Jan. 8, an installation luncheon will be held at the Air Facility Marina. The club needs more members. All wives of enlisted men are invited to join the club. For information about joining the club contact Mrs. Alfred Pitts at ext. 192.

OWC — Group I

Everyone's a winner on January 14, when Group I of the Officers' Wives Club plays White Elephant Barter. Mrs. E. B. Robertson and the H&S Battalion wives will host this unique affair at the Paradise Point Officers Club. Social hour being at 10 a. m. followed by a savory brunch served at 10:30. Then guests will try their luck at Bartering. Everyone is requested to bring an item, wrapped or unwrapped, for the Barter table. — This is a good chance to exchange those duplicate Christmas gifts.

Members will be contacted by a telephone committee, but in the event that you have not been reached, please call Mrs. R. B. Ranck at base extension 66274.

OWC — Group VI

Group VI of the Officer's Wives Club will hold its monthly luncheon Jan. 13 at the Paradise Point Officer's Club. The wives will each bring a treasure for the silent White Elephant Sale to start at 11:30 a. m. during the social hour.

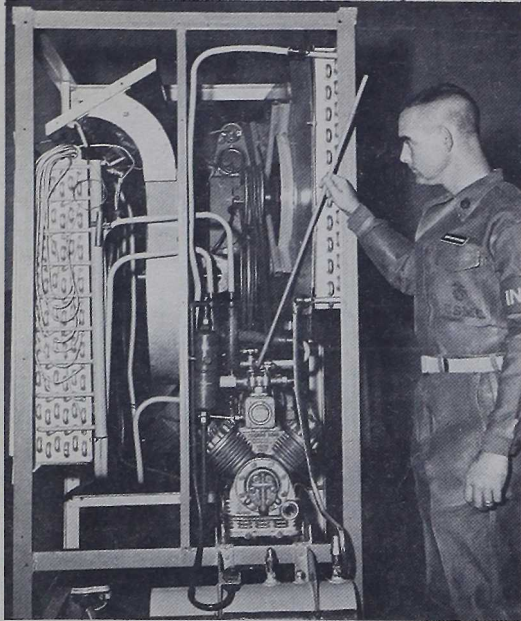

Highlighting the luncheon will be informative talks by Col. R. S. Johnson and Lt. Col. F. R. DeNormandie on the history of the eighth Marine Regiment and the Second Engineer Battalion.

Mrs. R. F. VanCantfort and the wives of the Officers of the Third Battalion, Eighth Marines will host this function. Members may make reservations by calling their Battalion Hospitality Chairman before noon on Jan. 11.

Pre-Natal Classes

A new series of Pre-Natal Classes will start on Thursday, January 14 at Camp Lejeune. These classes will be held on each Thursday for five weeks from 1 to 3 p. m. in the U. S. Naval Hospital Theater.

The classes are taught by a Registered Nurse, and are provided free of charge to Navy and Marine dependents by the Camp Lejeune Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society.

IMPROVED TRAINING—SSgt. Loyd L. Breckenridge demonstrates the new "exploded" working model of the MP51-E unit, the Marine Corps' largest refrigerator.

Instructors Build Model Of Corps' Largest Refrigerator

Necessity, they say, is the mother of invention. As in the case of SSgt. Loyd L. Breckenridge and Sgt. John W. Newborn this was proven at the Utilities School, Marine Corps Engineer School, Courthouse Bay.

Through initiative and motivation for a better way in training Marines in the arts of refrigeration, they teamed up to complete a "exploded" working model of the MQ51-E unit, the Marine Corps largest refrigerator.

In a six-month spare time project they constructed this cut-away unit from salvaged parts.

The moving parts of this unit are exposed to familiarize students with the functioning of this refrigeration unit.

During a lecture on the "exploded" working model the student can actually see how it functions. When a part is named it is no longer a mystery to the student what relationship it has to the other working parts of the model, because they can see it and actually work out any problems they have with it right there in the classroom.

Another feature of this unit is that the many electrical controls are exposed and the flow of refrigerant can be traced by various painted colored lines. The colored lines depict the high and low pressure gas and liquid lines that are critical in the understanding of the refrigeration cycle.

Teacher Wanted

The Industrial Relations Office, Marine Corps Base, is accepting applications for the 1965-1966 school year for the position of Teacher (Elementary, High School, and Library). The salary is from $4643 to $6820 per year.

Persons who are interested in teaching during the remainder of the 1964-65 school year should make note on applications so they can be considered for vacancies which may occur.

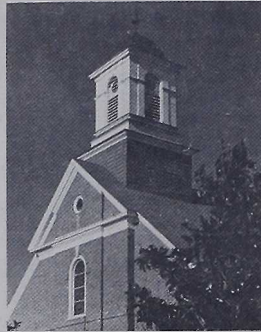

Full information and application forms may be obtained from the Industrial Relations Office, Bldg. 33, Main Gate, or at any Post Office.

Applications will be accepted until further notice.

NEW 2/10 CO—Maj. C. E. Hogan (left) transfers the colors of 2d Bn., 10th Marines to Maj. K. O. Williams during a change of command ceremony Dec. 2. Maj. Williams took command of the battalion after a tour as the Officer in Charge of the Regimental Fire Support Control Center, as Maj. Hogan became the Executive Officer of 4th Bn., 10th Marines. The brief change of command ceremony took place in the CO's office, witnessed by the majors' wives, the 10th Marines Executive Officer — LtCol. W. W. Kaenzig — and the officers and senior staff NCO's of the battalion.

Civil Defense Team ...

fulfill their responsibilities as individuals in time of disaster.

Both courses are free of charge and registration will be conducted at the Brewster Elementary School from 6 to 7 p. m. on Jan. 13. Late registration will be conducted starting at the same hour on Jan. 18 at the Brewster School. All persons satisfactorily completing the courses will be issued certificates of completion.

Military bus service from the Hadnot Point Bus Depot will depart from Track 6 at 6 p. m. each class night and will return to the depot leaving the school at 9:30 p. m.

Two other Civil Defense courses will begin Jan. 14 at the Agricultural Building in Jacksonville offering instruction in Shelter Management and Radiological Monitoring. These courses are sponsored by the Jacksonville-Onslow County Civil Defense Agency and are free of charge to all citizens, civilian and military. The Shelter Managers course is seven weeks long, meeting each Thursday from 7:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. and the Radiological Monitoring Course is for eight weeks meeting at the same times on Thursdays.

Dependents Okayed For Guantanamo

The Navy has announced that U. S. military and civilian personnel ordered for duty to the Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, may be accompanied by their dependents, effective immediately.

The statement was issued by Admiral David L. MacDonald, Chief of Naval Operations, in connection with an earlier announcement that the government was reversing its policy calling for withdrawal of dependents from the base.

That policy was made effective last February after Cuban Premier Castro cut off the base's fresh water source.

The Navy early in December completed a plant that can convert 2.2 million gallons of salt water to fresh water daily, making the base self-sufficient.

CIVIL DEFENSE EDUCATION was the topic as Major General A. L. Bowser, Base Commander, met in his office Tuesday, Jan. 5, with W. H. Wilford, left, Jacksonville - Onslow County Director of Civil Defense and three-state Civil Defense Education officials. V. W. Harris, Director of Area "C", North Carolina Civil Defense Agency; L. B. Lane, Civil Defense Adult Education Instructor, and G. D. Maddy, Coordinator of Civil Defense Adult Education for the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction, (left to right) discussed plans for course to be offered aboard the base.

HELP Wanted

The Geiger Community Center is very much in need of household effects such as cookware, silverware, linens, pillows, blankets, etc. These items are needed for check-out to all military personnel and their dependents (all ranks and units) who are in temporary housing quarters.

If you have any of the above mentioned items in useable condition please call the Director of the Geiger Center, Mrs. Wells, 0-1305).
