Base Units To Observe Memorial

Holiday routine will prevail this Base on Friday and Saturday, May 29-30, in observance of Memorial Day.

A National Salute of twenty-one guns will be fired by the 1st Marines commencing at 12 on. This salute is to be "Minute-Guns" which means there is a one-minute delay between each round fired.

The Sales Commissary Store and the Marine Exchange will be closed on Saturday, as well as the Thrift Shop.

As always on a long weekend traffic safety becomes of paramount importance. Especially during the warmer months when more thousands take to the road, conscientious driving must be emphasized.

Automobile accidents in 1963 claimed 42,700 lives and counted for over 3 million injuries, the greatest toll in the story of the automobile. To this year, 8 Marines from Camp Lejeune have lost their lives in needless accidents compared to 16 for the same period last year. This represents a 50% reduction in traffic fatalities. However, this reduction cannot be maintained further declines accomplished without the greatest

THE WHITE HOUSE PRAYER FOR PEACE, MEMORIAL DAY, 1964 BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS on Memorial Day of each year it has long been the custom of this Nation to honor its forefathers and patriots who have laid down their lives that we might live in freedom; and

WHEREAS we are eternally grateful to them for their supreme and selfless sacrifice on the field of battle; and

WHEREAS the same revolutionary beliefs and ideals for which our forefathers fought and died are still at issue in the world and the challenge against them can be met only through the same qualities of bravery, fortitude, and unyielding determination shown by our noble dead; and

WHEREAS Memorial Day each year provides a fitting occasion upon which our citizens may commemorate departed loved ones and offer prayers for the preservation of liberty and peace and freedom from the threat of war; and

WHEREAS for this purpose the Congress, in a joint resolution approved May 11, 1950 (64 Stat. 158), requested the President to issue a proclamation calling upon the people of the United States to observe each Memorial Day as a day of prayer for permanent peace;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, LYNDON B. JOHNSON, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Memorial Day, Saturday, May 30, 1964, as a day of prayer for permanent peace, and I call upon all the people of the Nation to invoke God's blessing on those who have died in defense of our country and to pray for a world of law and order. I designate the hour beginning each locality at eleven o'clock in the morning of that day as the time to unite in such prayer.

I also urge the press, radio, television, and all other information media to cooperate in this observance.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and used the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this twenty-third day of April in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-four, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and eighty-eighth.

Great Lakes Ports To Be Visited By Lejeune Units

Eighty members of the 2d Marine Division and Force Troops, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic are slated for a summer cruise — with an inland heading.

The Marines leave next week to board the amphibious force tank landing ship (LST) USS Desoto County at Little Creek, Va., for a three-month tour of the Great Lakes with stops slated at 18 inland waterway ports.

Maj. John A. O'Brien, a veteran of 17 years Marine Corps service and presently serving with the 2d Division, has been assigned as Commanding Officer of the Marine troops.

The Great Lakes cruise will afford the area residents a closer look at the modern Navy-Marine Corps team. A focal point of this viewing will be the representative "Marine Might" of the locally based Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic Forces, commanded by LtGen. James P. Berkeley, with headquarters in Norfolk, Va.

Equipment going aboard the DESOTO COUNTY to illustrate the FMF's east coast-based, "ready to fight" task force includes:

An 8-inch self-propelled howitzer, M-48 tank, tracked landing vehicle LVT-5, 106 mm recoilless rifle mounted on the "Mule" vehicle, and the deadly, tank-killing Ontos.

Other heavy equipment and smaller weapons utilized as the "Sunday punch" of the FMF will also be displayed.

The cruise, which is set to move 1,200 miles into the Lakes, comes on the fifth anniversary of the highly successful Operation Inland Seas.

In 1959, a Marine Battalion Landing Team landed on numerous inland beaches as part of the dedication of the opening of the inland waterway through the St. Lawrence seaway.

Five hundred thousand Chicago residents viewed the landing there in connection with the 125th anniversary of the Windy City and the visit of the Queen of England.

While the 1964 edition of "Marine might" is in miniature to that operation, the Great Lakes residents will be able to get a more close-up view of a Marine landing force.

In addition to the equipment displays, visitors to the LST will see color films on a panoramic movie screen of the Navy-Marine Corps team in action. The screen and films, known as the Cine-Globe Cruiser Theater, are the same as those now attracting huge audiences at the New York World's Fair exhibit.

The theater leaves the viewer with the feeling of being right on the beach or in the front lines. The dimension effect is so realistic that the Fair ex-

Col. Robertson Selected As Base Chief of Staff

Marine Corps Base will have a new Chief of Staff next Monday, June 1, when Col. Elliott B. Robertson assumes the position now held by retiring Col. C. L. Granger.

Just prior to his assignment here as Base Supply Officer in June 1963, Col. Robertson served as Chief of Staff at the Marine Corps Supply Center, Barstow, Calif. From Sept. 1959 to Aug. 1960 the colonel was commanding officer of the 3d Force Service Regiment and subsequently Chief of Staff of the 3d Marine Division on Okinawa. At the outbreak of WWII, Col. Robertson was serving as commanding officer of Company "A", 2d Engineer Battalion at Pearl Harbor. He was later assigned as Division Engineer, 6th Marine Division during the Okinawa campaign.

Col. Robertson's medals and awards include the Silver Star, two Purple Hearts, Presidential Unit Citation, American Defense Service Medal, American Campaign Ribbon, Asiatic-Pacific Campaign with two stars, and the World War II Victory Medal.

The colonel graduated from the University of Maryland in 1939 with a Bachelor of Science Degree in civil engineering. Col. Robertson is married and has five children, two girls and three boys, ranging in age from 8 to 21 years.

Col. C. L. Granger, present Chief of Staff, retires from the Marine Corps with 36 years of military service behind him. This service includes the National Guard, Army and Marine Corps Reserves and Regular Marine Corps.

Prior to his assuming duties as Chief of Staff in Sept. 1963, Col. Granger served as Base Inspector. During WWII, the colonel served as embarkation officer of the 4th Marine Division during the amphibious operations in the Marshalls, at Saipan, Tinian and Iwo Jima.

Col. Granger, with his wife and two daughters, ages five and 13, plans to retire to his citrus fruit property in McAllen, Tex.

Power Outage

There will be a power interruption on June 6-7 from 5 a.m. to 12:00 at all buildings on the southeast side of Holcomb Boulevard, southwest of Gum Street, including part of Area 3 and Areas 4 and 5. Also in Buildings 1, 2, 15, 59, and 66. Other locations for the power interruption will be in the 1800 area, Gun Parks, French Creek, Triangle Outpost, G-5 Range, Engineer Stockade, Onslow Beach, Courthouse Bay, Boat Basin, Sneads Ferry Gate, Sneads Ferry Bridge, Rifle Range and L-5 Range.

Montford Point Marine Boasts Completion Of 220 Off-Duty Courses

Are there educational opportunities in the Armed Forces?

A Camp Lejeune Marine, MSgt. Frank O. Tarbox, is in a good position to answer "yes." Six years ago, Sgt.

Tarbox had only his pre-service education in his service record, but since then he has added 220 completed correspondence courses.

His service records now contain 15 pages of educational background information with courses taken from the Marine Corps Institute, and other Armed Forces extensions schools. These courses range in length from three lessons in "Introduction to Guerrilla Warfare," to the 65-subcourse (four to 10 lessons each) "Civil Affairs" correspondence course.

"I began these studies to improve my general education, to increase my mental ability and to keep my mind alert," said Sgt. Tarbox, when asked why he developed his new found interest in education.

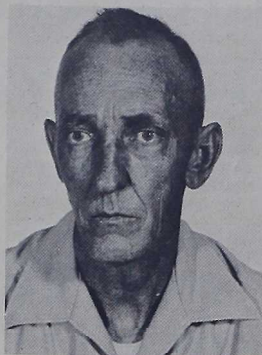

The sergeant began these courses at the age of 43, 21 years after he last attended school prior to his enlistment in the Marine Corps in 1937. He had completed two years of successful studies at Wyoming University and a six month course in a baking institute.

Sgt. Tarbox has been a Marine Corps baker for 27 years and is now serving with the Food Service Schools at Montford Point. At the schools, he serves as the Non-commissioned Officer in Charge of the bakery section; personal counselor; the school company's gunnery sergeant; career advisory non-commissioned officer and as leadership instructor for the Food Service Schools. Even with all of these duties, Sgt. Tarbox still finds the time and effort to average two hours of study seven nights of the week. Sgt. Tarbox is also a member of the Camp Lejeune School Board.

He continually strives to induce other Marines, young and old, to accept the educational opportunities offered and better themselves for "Corps and country."

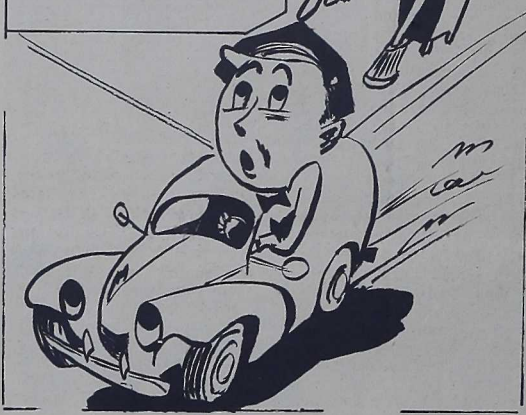

Sgt. Tarbox feels that education is the answer to curbing the growth of communism in the United States.

As this 49-year-old Marine has shown by his accomplishment, the successful completion of 220 correspondence courses in six years (and currently working on another series containing 30 subcourses), educational opportunities to Armed Forces personnel are unlimited. It is up to the individual to grasp these opportunities and use them.

'Bean Town' Hosts MCROA

More than 400 U. S. Marines invaded historic Boston, Mass., from 7-10 May, as the Marine Corps Reserve Officers Association bivouaced at the Statler Hilton for their 38th annual conference.

Headed by General Holland M. (Howlin' Mad) Smith, legendary Marine leader of World War II, the former Leatherneck delegates and guests from Seattle to Maine heard LtGen. Charles H. Hayes, Assistant

Commandant of the Marine Corps describe today's Corps as being "in the best shape it has been in my 34 years of service."

"We are in excellent logistic condition," he said, "and have in the barn the beans and bullets we need to go to war."

General Hayes spoke of the modernization of equipment on the ground and in the air, but added: "Behind this array of new gear and new doctrine is one fundamental which I must emphasize. That is our unfailing and constant attention to the individual Marine."

"The individual Marine," he said, "is the basic building block in our system. He is the priceless ingredient in our formula. From the first day in boot camp to the last retirement parade, we must devote constant attention to his morale, his welfare, his training, his discipline, his professional efficiency and his motivation to serve his country. As he goes, so goes the Corps!"

BrigGen. Joseph L. Stewart, Director, Marine Corps Reserves, and BrigGen. Hugh M. Elwood, Commanding General, Marine Air Reserve Training, addressed officials of the convention on opening day, Friday May 8.

Mayor John F. Collins of Boston, welcomed the delegates to the city at a luncheon and Mr. Erwin D. Canham, Editor of the Christian Science Monitor delivered the principal address.

At historic Faneuil Hall Col. Arthur B. Hanson, USMCR, was elected President of the Association succeeding BrigGen. Robert B. Bell, USMCR.

11 Div. Officers Finish AO School

Eleven 2d Marine Division officers were awarded Aerial Observers wings and presented Aerial Observation School diplomas by BrigGen. John G. Bunker, Assistant Division Commander, at the Paradise Point Officers' Club, May 11.

The 10-week school, which usually runs two classes annually depending on the needs of the Division, trains selected officers in aerial observation.

Those receiving A. O. wings were: Capt. W. L. Strain, First Lieutenant Roy F. Clackum, W. M. Rakow, C. G. Simpson, R. L. Padgett, J. D. Richards, H. D. Spaulding, William W. Moorhead, Second Lieutenants A. J. Brennan, E. E. Parker, and J. W. Pierson.

Lieutenant Brennan, 3d Battalion, 10th Marines, won high honors with a 88.9 percent, and 1st Lt. Clackum, 2d Engineer Battalion, was a close second with 88.6 percent.

"NOW BACK IN THE OLD DAYS"—General H. M. (Howlin' Mad) Smith, center, discusses uniforms with Maj. George C. Fox, right, Inspector-Instructor, 1st Bn., 25th Marines, while LtCol. Laurence W. Eskell, Headquarters Marine Corps, looks on. The famed Marine general attended the Marine Corps Reserve Officers 38th annual convention held in Boston. The uniforms are on display in the 1st Cadet Corps Armory in Boston.

SecNav Reaffirms SecNav Establishment Of Scientific Awards

The Secretary of the Navy has issued an instruction reaffirming the establishment of the Captain Robert D. Conrad Award for scientific achievement and revising nominating procedures under the Award may be conferred.

The award is designed to recognize and to reward individuals who make outstanding contributions in the field of research and development in the Department of the Navy. Such contribution shall be outstanding as to be widely recognized not only by personnel within the Department of Navy but also by the civilian scientific and engineering community of the nation.

Award consideration will be given to achievements in the following:

Planning and administration of scientific research and development.

Individual achievements in series of achievements which contribute to the progress of science or technology in the field of significance to the Navy.

At the time of the achievement or contribution cited as basis for the award, nominees must have been in one of the following categories:

A civilian employee in active employment status in the Department of the Navy.

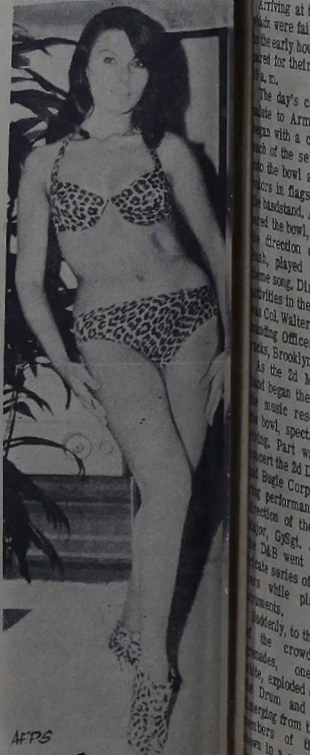

An employee of a Navy contractor.

A member of the military service on active duty.

The Captain Robert D. Conrad Award will be presented on the recommendation of the Chief of Naval Research and Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Research and Development) subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Navy.

It will be presented annually at the Navy Science Symposium which is held each spring.

For further information data to be provided on nomination and nominating procedures see SECNAV instruction 5061.9C dated 10, 1964.

Second Division Band lays For Fair-goers

BY SSGT. JACK CHILDS

ens-of-thousands of people from the far-flung corners of the globe, viewed the Marine Division Band and Bugle Corps during their two-day visit to New York City May 16-17.

On May 16 they marched in the Armed Forces Day parade and following day appeared at the New York World's Fair.

In the parade, down New York's fashionable 5th Ave., the band was followed by a detachment of blues-clad Marines from Marine Barracks, Brooklyn Navy Yard. For 40 blocks, starting at 94th St., 5th Ave., spectators crowded both sides of the parade route. Invariably, as the Marine band marched smartly down each city block, they were met with cheers and applause.

his reporter, while preceding the band on the parade route, heard such remarks as, "Here comes the Marines! Now is more like it." That, in a Navy Chief Petty Officer's At one intersection an elderly lady enthusiastically remarked, "They make you stand up and cheer when they march by." And more one child broke away from her parents long enough to cheer with the Marines.

the band's smart performance at the 2 p. m. parade unit had rolled out of their tents in North Carolina at 3 a. m. the same morning. The Marine musicians were transported from Camp Lejeune to Marine Corps Air Facility River by bus, and from there were flown to the Naval Station, Brooklyn, N. Y.

short bus ride took them to Marine Barracks, Brooklyn, where they had just enough time to grab a quick lunch, change their dress blues, and board the train once again for the trip to New York City and the parade.

Early Sunday morning the Levee-based Leathernecks boarded buses at the barracks in Brooklyn for Flushing Meadows, site of the 1964-65 New York World's Fair. They were scheduled for three concerts at the fair's Singer Bowl, arriving at the fair grounds, which were fairly deserted due to the early hour, the band prepared for their first concert at 11 a. m.

he day's ceremonies, in a parade to Armed Forces Day, with a color guard from the services marching in the bowl and placing their flags in flagstands in front of the bandstand. As each unit ended the bowl, the band, under the direction of MSgt. C. P. 1, played each service's song. Directing the day's activities in the 18,000 seat bowl Col. Walter F. Lyster, Commanding Officer, Marine Barracks, Brooklyn.

the 2d Marine Division band began their concert, and music resounded through the bowl, spectators began arriving. Part way through the concert the 2d Division's Drum and Bugle Corps put on a stirring performance. Under the direction of the band's Drum Major, GySgt. J. E. Rippard, D&B went through an intricate series of march maneuvers while playing their instruments.

uddenly, to the astonishment of the crowd two smoke grenades, one red and one white, exploded on each side of the Drum and Bugle Corps. Emerging from the smoke, five members of the D&B were in a reenactment of the Jima flag raising, using instruments to symbolize the event. The remainder of the D&B stood at rigid attention saluting as the smoke billowed around their heads. The audience's approval was made evident by their thunderous applause.

During the lunch hour the band took a welcomed break for a quick visit to some of the pavilions surrounding the Singer Bowl. Then it was back to work. The afternoon concerts drew far larger crowds as the fair grounds were now massed with visitors. As the band played its final number of the afternoon, the Marine Corps Hymn, there was practically a 100-percent standing ovation. Adding their applause along with the crowd were the 108 members of the North American Air Defense Command Band from Colorado Springs, Colo. This unit had a tough assignment—they followed the 2d Marine Division Band on the afternoon schedule.

Before the band was dismissed from their official duties for the day, and allowed time off to see more of the fair, there was just one more picture to be taken. And this one was to turn out to be the most interesting one of the weekend.

Marines marching on the Mall in front of the Unisphere were bound to draw attention, and they did. However, as the band posed for their picture, resplendent in their dress blues, thousands of curious onlookers gathered around the Mall. It is unlikely that in the history of the band have they had their picture taken so often, by so many, in such a short period of time. The sound of clicking cameras could only be compared with that of a Spanish dancer and her castanets.

What musician, or Marine, could pass up such an opportunity? MSgt. Bush, with the air of the professional that he is, conducted a short, unscheduled performance to the pleasure of the crowd. And the applause received would rival a curtain call for the original cast of My Fair Lady.

On their own now the Marines scattered to the four corners of the fair grounds. A conservative estimate, on the time that it would take to see all of the exhibits, would be about five hours a day for two weeks.

Well, the band had only seven hours, and not a minute was to be wasted.

A survey taken the following morning on the return trip to New River showed that the musicians had traveled over most of the 646 acres of fair grounds. In small groups, or by themselves, they had seen the United States Pavilion, the Billy Graham tabernacle, the Navy-Marine Corps exhibit, House of Japan, the Thailand Temple, the General Motors and Ford exhibits just to name a smattering.

They had eaten at the Brasserie restaurants, partaken of some liquid refreshments at the Lowenbrau exhibit, and they had bought gifts and souvenirs for those back home. The sights they had seen had beguiled the eye and delighted the mind. And more than one Marine promised himself that he would return before the fair ended.

In addition to the Marine equipment and crews, the 2d Marine Division Chorus will be aboard. The chorus, numbering approximately 25 voices, is under the direction of 1st Lt. Benjamin J. Borchelt.

A four-man karate demonstration team will show the public its professionalism in hand-to-hand combat which goes along with the FMF weaponry might.

The cruise is slated to call at ports in all of the five inland lakes that comprise the Great Lakes and along the St. Lawrence seaway. The cities scheduled for stops have a total population of 8-1/2 million residents.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., will be the first stop. The DESOTO COUNTY will arrive there June 15, and depart the next day for a five-day stop at Rochester, N. Y., before visiting Buffalo, N. Y., for five days, June 25-29.

Other visits will be at Erie, Pa., June 29-July 1, Toledo, Ohio, July 3-5; Detroit, Mich., July 9-16; Bay City, Mich., July 17-20; Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 24-27; Duluth, Minn., July 30-Aug. 2 and Marquette, Mich., Aug. 3-4.

The cruise then moves into the populous Lake Michigan area with calls at Chicago, Ill., Aug. 7; Milwaukee, Wisc., Aug. 8-11; Naval Base, Great Lakes, Ill., Aug. 12; Chicago, Ill., Aug. 13-17; Muskegon, Mich., Aug. 17-19 and Manitowoc, Wisc., Aug. 19-20.

The LST then continues seaward with stops at Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 22-24; Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 26-30 and Oswego, N. Y., Sept. 3-4.

A three-day recreation visit to Montreal, Canada during the Labor Day weekend will be the last stop before the ship returns to Little Creek in mid-September.

The DESOTO COUNTY will also carry men of the Navy's Underwater Demolition Team 22, a full-scale model of the Polaris missile and the Navy H-19 helicopter, used extensively in anti-submarine warfare.

Assisting in presenting the Navy-Marine team picture as part of an impressive four-ocean challenge, will be the projection of slides with soundtrack narration by ViceAdm. John S. McCain, Jr., Commander of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force.

The USS DESOTO COUNTY, one of the newest ships of her type, was commissioned in 1958 and displaces five times the tonnage of the widely known World War II LST version.

LtCmdr. Horace D. Mann, Jr., 33 years old and a graduate of the University of North Carolina, assumed command of the ship last summer.

EDITORIAL :

What Would Those Who 'Stood It' Ask Of Us?

"These are the times that try men's souls," wrote Thomas Paine in December, 1776, when America's hopes for freedom were at low tide. "The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of his country; but he that stands it now deserves the love and thanks of man and woman."

As the United States came to be, it was made clear—and it has remained so—that for Americans to sing freedom we have to pay the piper. We are free today, and first among free nations, because thousands of our countrymen have fought to the death or risked their lives for liberty's cause. When the call came, it wasn't summer soldiers and sunshine patriots who answered.

And that's why we have Memorial Day—to pay tribute to those who "stood it," the ones who "deserve the love and thanks of man and woman."

Gen. John A. Logan inaugurated the first official observance of Memorial Day in 1863 with this pledge: "If other eyes grow dull and other hands shake, and other hearts grow cold in the solemn trust, ours shall keep it well so long as the light of warmth, the warmth of life, remain to us."

Now Memorial Day signifies, perhaps more deeply than any other patriotic observance, the soul of America. On May 30, while we are picnicking, listening to the Indianapolis "500" auto race, or whatever, we will do well to examine that significance and how it relates to our service for God and Country.

As we pause on Memorial Day, 1964, first let us remember the tragedy and triumph of supreme sacrifices offered by Americans who lie in cemeteries all over the world, and next let us resolve to make conscious efforts to become better, stronger, more dedicated Americans.

That would be all that those who "stood it" would ask of us.

MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day—Decoration Day, different names, different dates, at times but a day which has a unity of meaning for every one. It is a day of remembrance of heroic people engaged in great tasks and their sacrifices. A reminder, is Memorial Day of the price paid in the quest for freedom.

History cautions that all who died, were not engaged in great struggle for a great cause. Sacrifice alone does not make an adventurer a noble one. Nor can we say that a sacrifice of our time or life constitutes the best contribution we can make. What is important is not the dead nor the monuments, but as Lincoln stated, the all-important factor is the task, the unfinished task. Long before, the Apostle Paul wrote "Though I give my body to be burned, and have not love, it profits me nothing."

We share a job of great magnitude, to preserve liberty, the democratic ways of government, the rule of just law, security of the opportunities of life and happiness not just for ourselves but for mankind. Sacrifice done will not make worthy goals nor condone our purpose.

Heroic individuals have, through the years sought that which has honored our Nation's purpose. Wars become a reality in the midst of the adventure. With these struggles a heavy toll was exacted and there were those who died. All fought, all worked by their commitment they were willing to offer their lives. The important thing was the goal, the good to be attained. A battle won, a victory secured does not mean a goal has been reached nor liberty secured. It does mean that others have felt that our purpose and our nation was worthy of sacrifice.

Decoration and honors are inadequate, the dead have honored us, "This," said Lincoln, "is the unfinished task." Work to be done good to be sought after, effort for mankind, worthy goals demand our time, interest, strength, mind and sometimes sacrifice. Our tribute to heroic predecessors is our labor and our devotion to advance in our own day, that common good for which our nation stands.

--Chaplain R. F. Lang

J. F. Kennedy Memorial

The President and the bi-partisan leadership of the Congress have endorsed a voluntary fund-raising campaign to support the establishment of the John F. Kennedy Library as a national memorial to our late president.

The library will house a complete record of President Kennedy's life, his times and his administration. It will be built on a site donated by Harvard University and personally selected by President Kennedy eight weeks before his death. He had intended to make his office there and had hoped to make this institution a center for the training and education of young people both from America and abroad who wish to pursue careers of public service.

It is the wish of President Kennedy's family and friends that his plans be fulfilled. When the library has been built it will become the property of the United States government, which will assume responsibility for its maintenance and operation. It is estimated that the cost of establishing the library will be $10,000,000 all of which is to be raised by public subscription and voluntary contributions.

Letter To The Editor

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is an excerpt from a letter received by the GLOBE last week.)

Sir, I am a young man, in my mid-20's, I am single, both my parents are dead, I have only one sister (she is also single). I have no brothers, I am very lonely and would be pleased to write to a U. S. Marine age between 21-36 or even age 40, married or single. (Please state they should contact me by AIR MAIL as soon as possible). My hobbies are stamp collecting, building model ships and warships, modern music, etc., and especially I like to write but I have no one to write to, so I get no letters at all.

I was in the hospital with a heart complaint recently, but now I am home and I feel very lonely. I appeal to the U. S. MARINES men at H. Q., AIR BASES, and ON BOARD WARSHIPS at SEA, to please try and contact me by air mail letter and to be my friend or friends.

I will write quite often to them and will send them post cards and newspapers of Glasgow and Scotland and latest news.

Sir, and men of U. S. Marines, I saw the U. S. Marines drill display and etc., at the Military Tattoo, 1958 in Edinburgh Castle Scotland.

I am very interested in your Marine Corps and would be honored to have many friends serving in the Corps. Your motto is also THE MARINES HAVE LANDED--THE SITUATION IS WELL IN HAND! Please Sir, Officers and Men, Please help me! and become my friends. God bless you all.

Sincerely,

RALPH GUNNER

SODOM AND GOMORRAH
 Who's In It?—Stewart Granger, Pier Angeli, Stanley Baker. What's It About?—Based on the Biblical story of Sodom and Gomorrah. What's the Verdict?—A very moving picture based on the Bible.

BATTLE AT BLOODY BEACH
 Who's In It?—Audie Murphy, Gary Crosby, Dolores Michaels. What's It About?—A swiftpaced story of a young American's search for his bride in the war-torn islands of the Pacific. He finds her only to discover she has become a fierce partisan of the guerrillas and is devoted to their leader.

MADISON AVENUE
 Here are the "Build up boys," the public-relations experts in the gray flannel suits, with the suave know-how and the stop-at-nothing skills, who use every means, fair or foul, to create national images out of anonymous personalities, and then try to feed on their vanities. Starring Dana Andrews, Eleanor Parker, Jeanne Crain, and Eddie Albert.

SOLDIER IN THE RAIN
 Who's In It?—Jackie Gleason and Steve McQueen. What's It About?—A Master Sergeant and a Supply Sergeant team up as buddies who's favorite pastime is to play tricks on the M.P.'s and there is a wholehearted disregard for regulations. What's the Verdict?—An extremely hilarious comedy. Running time, 88 minutes.

COMMANDO
 Who's In It?—Stewart Granger.

BLT 1/8, With the U. S. Sixth Fleet, San Florent, Corsica, May 7—More than 400 French Marine Commandos wound up a week of amphibious training exercises with Battalion Landing Team 1/8 May 7. The exercises being conducted in preparation for FAIRGAME II, a NATO operation to be conducted on Corsica later this month.

Throughout the week, members of the Corps Amphibie de la Marine and Marines of BLT 1/8 have been exchanging ideas and demonstrating tactics.

Company "C", BLT 1/8, put on a demonstration of an assault on a fortified position for the French Commandos and the Commandos, in return, showed the Marines their concept of a "raid" on the same position. Each unit held classes on hand-to-hand combat techniques, weapons, tactics, physical training, and support equipment.

Capt. B. M. G. De La Maisonneuve, the French Corps' Executive Officer and Operations Officer, acted as the Liaison Officer to the BLT during the training period.

Capt. De La Maisonneuve is a veteran officer, having served in combat with the Corps in Algeria.

"I have learned a great deal about amphibious warfare and about the United States Marine Corps during my visit with this BLT," the captain said. "I am sure, also, that the Marines who have been working with our Commandos have learned a little about us and our 'guerrilla-type' warfare. I

A Writer Squared For

Is it time to stop poking fun at the "square" Americans? Here, Charles H. Bower, head of the advertising firm of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, shows how modern cynicism has corrupted an old-fashioned word that made a virtue of honesty, pride and hard work.

Following is full text of an article by Mr. Bower, reprinted by permission from the February, 1964, issue of the "Public Relations Journal":

Back in the days before the phrase "Going to his eternal rest" meant getting a job with the Government, Mark Twain was scheduled to make a talk. Noticing that his lecture was poorly billed, he stepped into a store and said:

"Good evening, friend—any entertainment here tonight to help a stranger while away his evening?"

The storekeeper straightened up, wiped his hands, and said: "I expect there's going to be a lecture. I've been selling eggs all day."

There have been quite a few changes made since that day. Although the price of eggs may prohibit their use as indoor guided missiles, we have become so well-to-do as a nation that we have a guilt complex about it.

Conformity is sweeping the country. And, while more and more people want to get seats in the grandstand, fewer and fewer want to sweat it out down on the field. More and more youngsters who come in looking for jobs are asking, "What can you do for me?" rather than, "What can I do for you?"

They want to discuss the extras they're going to get rather than the extras they're going to give. They want to know how cool it is going to be in summer—and how warm in winter. And how safe at all times of the year. And when they go to work, they hasten to hide their light in the security of a committee, where there is safety in numbers.

The progress may be slow and the glory may be small, but the work is steady. Their eyes are on the clock rather than on the calendar. The coffee break is more important than the big break.

More and more girls are more interested in filling their nails than in filing what needs to be filed. The other day I overheard two girls in an elevator; one said to the other, "Heavens, no, don't learn shorthand. If you can't take dictation, you won't have to stay after 5 p. m."

We have always had our share of freeloaders in this country. As Channing Pollock once said, every generation produces its squad of moderns who march with pea shooters against Gibraltar. But only in the past quarter century it seems to me, has noninvolvement become an accepted way of life. When we were poor, we had to sweat it out. We couldn't afford detachment from the life and fate of our country—and one of the great dangers of affluence is that it permits such detachment.

I'm going to mention quite a bit about a six-letter word. Why six letters? Because modern literature has snapped up all the four and five-letter words as its own. So I am going to start on six-letter words: the word is "square"—S-Q-U-A-R-E.

Back in Mark Twain's day, it was one of the finest words in our language, among the top 10 on any lexicographer's hit parade. You gave a man a square deal if you were honest. You gave him a square meal when he was hungry. You stood foresquare for the right, as you saw it, and square against everything else. When you got out of debt, you were square with the world. And that was when you could look your fellow man square in the eye.

Then a lot of strange characters got hold of this honest, wholesome word, bent it all out of shape, and gave it back to our children. Convicts gave it the first twist. To them a "square" was an inmate who would not conform to the convict code. From the prisons it was flashed out of the bopsters' cult of the bopsters.

Now, everyone knows learned to get away from it. A guy who better than anyone that he has to be to stop at a bar on fired up and full of to spend his evening scraping the bottom of grease and steam into paid to do. A fellow upper lip. A slob plays "America the Beautiful" today that the tain stated.

The history of the French unit is much different from the U. S. Marine Corps also. Until 1958, the Commandos were six separate units, each operating independently of the others. These units were called "Commando." They were Jaubert, Trepel, Penfentenyo, De Mont, Hubert and Francois. Commando Jaubert and Commando De Montfort seen action in Indochina and Commando Trepel had been in combat in North Africa.

"In 1958," the captain said, "the Commandos were joined and made one unit, called the Groupe de Commandos. From then until 1962, we were in combat in Algeria."

In October 1963, the current re-organization of the Commandos began. The Groupement of Commandos became the Groupement of Fusilier Marine Commandos, Corps Amphibie de la Marine. Under this new system each of the pre-1958 units retained its name, but became "Companies" instead of "Commandos." This reorganization also brought about an attempt to "helicopterize" their equipment and supporting weapons.

"We have only one home-base, at Toulon, France," remarked the captain. The Marine Corps' Battalion Landing Team utilizes an amphibious squadron of ships for transportation and an 'at sea' base of operation, while we use only one ship, the "Arromanches," an assault helicopter ship," he said.

Each unit also differs greatly in tactics from the other. Where the Marine Corps' an established set of tactical principles, the Commandos have no "set" tactics. They develop their tactics as each problem or battle occurs, maintaining "guerrilla warfare" offensive and defensive actions.

"Service in the Commandos is not the same as in the Marine Corps either," said Capt. Maisonneuve. "A man must serve in the Marine Corps for 20 years before he can retire with a pension from the government. In the Commandos, he need serve only 15 years before being able to retire. Where the U. S. Marine enlists in the Marine Corps and serves only as a Marine, the Commando must enlist in the Navy and then he volunteers for the Commandos, serving a three, four or five year period of duty. Following this, he must then return to duty aboard a Navy vessel and serve a tour on it before being allowed to volunteer for another tour of duty as a Commando," he said. "Also, the Commandos all have Navy ranks, even though they serve as Commandos. The Marine has nine enlisted ranks where the Commandos have only six," he concluded.

Battalion Landing Team 1/8 is commanded by LtCol. H. E. Ing, Jr., and is currently deployed in the Mediterranean Sea on a five-month joint operational and "good will" tour as the amphibious striking arm of the U. S. Sixth Fleet. The Camp Lejeune based 2d Marine Division unit is scheduled to complete its current tour in mid-June.

away, although that is bad enough. I do not mean any imbalance of trade--threatening as that may be. I mean that we have been importing instead of exporting ideas.

The United States of America was once the greatest exporter of ideas the world had ever known. We created and sold abroad the idea of individual dignity, responsibility and freedom. We created and sold the idea of government of the people, by the people and for the people--an idea that is still being bought today. We exported the idea of freedom of worship; the idea of unfettered press; the idea that those who are taxed should be represented.

It is hard to find a basic idea that America has exported since you and I were young. We have, I think, bought in the bazaars of Asia Minor the idea that an honest man is either a fool or a liar.

From our most mortal enemy we have bought the idea of a strong government for weak people.

We have bought abroad the idea of "Let Jack do it," of "What's in it for me?"--and the gesture of the neatly shrugged shoulder.

The other day I was told by a friend that his young son came home from his progressive school proudly exhibiting a book that he had won for excellence in natural history.

"However did you do that?" the delighted father asked.

"The teacher," answered the son, "asked how many legs an ostrich has and I said three!"

"But an ostrich has only two legs", the father protested.

"I know," said the boy. "But I came closest. All the other kids said four."

This may be funny. But it is not funny that today our colleges are loaded with youngsters who are hardly prepared for high school--kids who cannot do simple arithmetic and who cannot spell simple words.

This, too, was an import--the idea that the dull discipline of the three R's was disturbing to little Johnny's ego. We got really scientific and went to work on the poor little kid and his id with the result that today hardly any school that really is a school is without a class in remedial reading. It would save considerable money if the class were held in the highest level of our teachers' colleges and were called "remedial thinking."

Our museums today are exhibiting on their walls paintings by people who never learned to paint. It used to be a sort of joke that you could not tell which was the top and which was the bottom.

Nonbooks are being thrown together and sold by nonwriters who never bothered to learn how to write. Murky poems are being ground out by scraggly poets who sing them to their friends because they are unreadable. Here, for example, is one deathless line: "O man, thee is onlon-constructed in hot gabardine".

"Life" magazine describes our beatnik geniuses as "fruit flies....some of the hairiest, scrawniest and most discontented specimens of all time, who not only refuse to sample the seeping juices of American plenty and American advance but scrape their feelers in discordant scorn of any and all who do."

Some of their output is worse than trash; some of it goes beyond making fun of Mom and Dad and marriage and automatic dishwashers and suburbia.

Always tearing down these days. Never building up. Always knocking. Belittling. Downgrading. A sneer rather than a grin. A mocking laugh rather than a belly laugh. Poking fun at other people rather than at ourselves.

What, by the way, ever happened to laughter? Once we were a laughing nation. We laughed easily and deeply. The corn may have been as high as an elephant's eye--but we laughed, and it was good for us.

We laughed at Lincoln, Mark Twain, Artemus Ward, Mr. Dooley,

Locals Rip Eustis; McGuire AFB Here

The "Fighting" Marines of Camp Lejeune made it five straight in their East Coast Interservice Conference games when they defeated the Fort Eustis "Wheels" here Monday night 6-1.

Dick Hall gave up four hits and struck out 16 of the Fort Eustis batters for the win, "Fireball" Hall in his last two games has struck out 38, dropping 22 of these in the Fort Devens game for an all time record. As of Monday night the overall record for the battling Marines was 37 wins against 15 losses.

The Lejeune Marines scored their first run in the opening inning when Buddy Simpson beat out a throw to first and later scored when Tom McHenry blasted a double to deep center field.

The local nine came up with three runs in the second inning. "Legs" Lepito blazed in to first base safely, went to second on Ron Burke's single. Both men advanced one base on a wild pitch. Dick Hall punched a single to center field scoring Lepito. Buddy Simpson got on with an infield hit forcing out Hall at second, and scoring Ron Burke for run number 2. Hal Norton plowed one out to deep left field scoring Simpson and bringing in the third run for that inning.

Everything was quiet until the fifth inning when "Thumping" Jim Hall sent a screamer off the scoreboard, 365 feet in right field for a home run.

The local nine picked up their last run of the game in the 8th inning when Ron Burke opened up the inning with a walk. He went to second on a wild pitch and scored from second on another wild pitch.

Lejeune went ahead on a two run sortie in the third inning on a pass to Hal Norton, Hall's single and Tom O'Leary's 2 run double.

They added three more in the fifth when Tom McHenry led off with a single, Norton Connected, Hall followed with a single and O'Leary and Dick Garcia followed suit.

McHenry walked in the sixth, Hall doubled, O'Leary left a sacrifice fly and Garcia pounded a run-scoring single.

Singles by Buddy Simpson, McHenry and Norton plated the final run in the seventh.

In Lejeune's 4-0 victory over Fort Devens they went ahead in the first inning on singles by Buddy Simpson, Tom McHenry and Jim Hall's sacrifice fly.

They added three more in the sixth on Simpson's free base, a single by Hall, a walk to Garcia and Lou Lepito's two-run double.

Last Wednesday, May 20, Lejeune traveled to Wilmington and dropped one on the Sea Hawk diamond 5-2.

Glenn Mills, from Wilmington College clouted a three run homer in the third inning, the first of his college baseball career to provide Wilmington College with the victory.

Mills clutch hit over the fence in left field, 370 feet from the plate, came with two outs in the third inning and brought the Seahawks from behind.

Charlie Poole for Lejeune had 13 strike outs going for him in that game but the home run by Mills iced the game for Wilmington College.

Camp Lejeune will open up a two game conference tilt against McGuire Air Force Base of New Jersey here May 28-29, Thursday and Friday nights. Game time will be 7:30 p. m. at the Harry Agganis Field.

Pvt. Robert Shaver Sets New Requal. Record At Camp Matthews With M-14

A Marine Recruit with no previous target shooting experience set a new Marine M14 qualification record at Camp Matthews, the San Diego, Calif., Marine Corps Recruit Depot's weapons training facility.

Twenty-year-old Pvt. Robert D. Shaver set the new record by shooting a 246 out of a possible 250 points. His score bested the previous record of 244, set in January by another Michigan recruit, Pvt. Norman Colvin of Detroit. Pvt. Shaver is from Beechwood in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Shaver, who admits to shooting of the record, had fired 199 out of the first 200 points. Still on his last string of fire, Shaver wasn't confident of breaking the record.

"I was worried," he said.

"Thursday I fired a 45 at the 500-yard line—that would have only tied the record."

Shaver fired a 50 in the standing position and both rapid fires. In the slow fire sitting and kneeling positions he dropped one point and with a tremendous amount of pressure on him at the 500-yard prone position, he fired a 47.

"He was very receptive and attentive," said SSgt. Fordie S. Silva. Preliminary Marksmanship Instructor. "He applied everything that was taught."

A modest Marine, Shaver attributed his record score to his Drill Instructors and Marksmanship Instructors.

"They are really excellent," claimed Shaver, "and worked with me all the time."

TOP TEAM—The team from Hq. Bn., 2d Marine Division, was first place winner in the Division's Intramural Volleyball Tournament. The team from the 2d Marines copped second place honors. Dick Hall

The "Wheels" lone run came in the third inning when outfielder, Jerry Lewis got on by beating out a throw to first base, went to second when an attempted double play fell through and scored when left fielder John Drew singled to right field.

Saturday, May 23 the Lejeune Marines traveled to Raleigh, N. C., and dropped a highly favored North Carolina ball team 4-2.

Chuck Cuppitt blazed his way through North Carolina University with a five hitter.

Adding two more conference wins to their five game winning streak the local nine defeated Fort Devens last Thursday and Friday 8-0 and 4-0.

Dick Hall established a new strikeout mark for the Base Thursday night as he sent 22 Devens' batsmen back to the dugout. The old mark of 19 was established by Alex Bright last year.

Dick Hall also had a "swing-ing" night at the plate banging a pair of singles, one double and two rbi's.

Chess Play Slated For Servicemen

The American Chess Foundation will sponsor the Fifth Annual Armed Forces Chess Tournament to be held in Washington, D. C., from Nov. 7 through 14, 1964. The tournament will be limited to the best sixteen players from all the services including the Coast Guard. The American Chess Foundation will make the final selection of the sixteen participants.

Each nomination should include the following information:
A statement from the candidate that he desires to participate on a voluntary basis, and that he understands the conditions under which the competition will be conducted.

A statement from the nominating command that the candidate can be available to participate if selected.

A record of chess background including rating by any recognized organization, record of performance in service chess activities, and record of performance in chess activities outside of service.

Awards donated as follows:
The Thomas Emery Trophy to the winning service.

Appropriate trophy awards to individual place winners.

Silver medallions for all participants.

The Navy Times will make an award to the Seafarers finishing the highest in the standings.

Final selection of participants will be made on the basis of chess records. The deadline for submitting nominations will be Sept. 15, 1964. Those selected to participate will be notified about Oct. 1 in order that proper arrangements can be made.
Nominations should be submitted to the Commandant of the Marine Corps (Code DSM).

7 Armed Forces Boxers Earn Olympic Berths

Seven of the 10 fighters who earned berths on the United States Olympic Boxing Team in the three-day trials In New York City are members of the Armed Forces.

The Army, Air Force and Marine Corps each placed two fighters on the team, and the Navy has one. Of the 20 finalists in 10 weight divisions, 14 were servicemen.

The bouts, held on the World's Fairgrounds, were in many cases renewals of long-standing interservice boxing rivalries.

Armed Forces fighters who made the team and who will go into pre-Olympic training Sept. 6 at Hamilton AFB, Calif., are:
Robert Carmody (flyweight), Army, Ft. Campbell, Ky.; Lou
Johnson (bantamweight), Air Force, Bolling AFB, Wash., D. C.; Charles Brown (featherweight), Marine Corps, Camp Pendleton, Calif.; Charles Ellis (light welterweight), Army, 8th Inf. Div., Europe; Maurice Frilot (welterweight), Marine Corps, Camp
Pendleton, Calif.; James Rosette (middleweight), Navy, NAS Ream Fld., Calif., and Harley Cooper (light heavyweight), Air Force, Offutt AFB, Neb.

Civilian members of the team are Ron Harris (lightweight), Detroit; Toby Gibson (light middleweight), Spokane, Wash., and Buster Mathis (heavyweight), Grand Rapids, Mich.

Olympic officials said 10-13 alternates, to be chosen from runners-up and other impressive fighters in the Olympic trials, would be invited to attend the three-week training camp. The U. S. Olympic boxing coach will be MSgt. Freddy Lenn of the Marine Corps.

FISHING

North Carolina's unique Fishing School, scheduled for June at Hatteras, has enrolled its maximum student body of 70 and now has a waiting list of hopeful anglers and would-be anglers.

The school, officially the Short Course in Sport Fishing, is sponsored by North Carolina State College, Raleigh.
The short course was established 12 years ago and has been an annual event ever since.

Hatteras Marlin Club is making ready for its biggest International Blue Marlin Tournament here during the week of June 1-6.

Emile F. DuPont, Wilmington, Del., chairman of the tournament arrived to assist Edison Meekins, club manager and director and club President Earl Phillips of High Point, in last minute planning for the event.

Chairman duPont's cruiser
Malola, skippered by Capt.
Hick Simpson, arrived earlier this week.

"It looks as if we are sure to have a minimum of 50 boats and 100 anglers for this fifth annual tournament," Phillips stated in High Point this week.
"That would be more than we have ever had in the past."

rector, 6-6751, prior to May

MEMORIAL DAY RACES

A three-legged Jaycee sponsored racing spectacular--sports cars, motorcycles and demolition cars--scheduled for May 30-31 at nearby Topsall Island marks racing's first major return to the beaches since its decade-past heyday at Daytona Beach.

Kicking off the two-day "Topsall Island Holiday Races" is a sports car cup race set for Saturday, May 30, using a special beach and road course, both sides of which can be seen from the high sand dunes inside the unique course.

Sunday's events include the "Atlantic Coast Championship Races," for motorcycles, followed by a mammoth demolition derby championship involving 150 cars to be completely demolished on the spot in a survival-of-the-fittest contest that will net the grand champion a $1,000.00 first prize.

The derby part of the triple-feature racing program will be staged on a portion of the special road course now being readied for both sports cars and motorcycles. Grandstands located at a starting-line vantage point facing the ocean will give fans an unobstructed view of the paved course as well as a segment of the beach backstretch.

International Speedways, Inc., of Charlotte is in charge of the Jacksonville Jaycee-sponsored Holiday Races.

Parris Island Sand Flea Unusual Hunt Subject

"Benn, this is natural for you. I want you to go out and get me a bottle of sand fleas."

Having no reason to doubt the sanity of GySgt. Bill Hart, Parris Island Informational Services Chief, I answered meekly, "Who, me?"

"Yes, you, great hunter," replied the good gunner as he sailed a letter to me which he had made into a paper airplane.

After overcoming the initial shock, I began to read what turned out to be a rather unusual request for any informational service office.

The letter was written by Wayne Van Cleave, a student at Central High School in Memphis, Tenn. Wayne explained that he was majoring in science and that one of his experiments involved the use of sand fleas. This request raised a question that I had found unanswerable ever since I took my recruit training in 1958.... "What does one do with sand fleas when one is not slapping at them?"

Determined to find a solution to this enigma, I enlisted the aid of HMI Willie Hampton, a member of the Depot Preventive Medicine section. Willie was born and bred in Beaufort, S. C., located right outside Parris Island and was quite familiar with sand fleas.

According to Willie, sand fleas usually make their appearance in the morning or late in the afternoon. We made a date for an early morning outing and I hit the books to find out exactly what a sand flea is.

Webster defines a sand flea as a flea found in sandy places, (Natch). Medical journals describe them as a member of the Heleidae family and of the Genus Culicoides Species. Marine recruits have their own definition for the little pests but such a description would never get by the censors.

At 6 a. m., on the morning of May 13, which we named "Flea-Day", Willie and I met for our hunt. We decided to stalk our prey at the Parris Island golf course where Willie felt the fleas would be awakening from a busy night of biting.

Turning right at the 11th green we drove down a narrow dirt road. Noticing the rather wild environment we were going through, I quite casually asked Willie if there were any snakes in the immediate area. "Oh, just a few rattlers," he drawled. "Gulp", I gulped.

When we arrived at our destination, a heavily moss-covered area deep in the woods, Willie produced a rather odd-looking gadget which he said was vital in catching sand fleas. It was a medical pipette with a foot-and-a-half of thin hose attached to it. Explained Willie, "When the sand flea lands on my arm, I'll stick the pipette over it, inhale, and then blow the little feller into a bottle."

"Wonderful", I muttered, "but what happens if you inhale too hard?" Willie just smiled with that knowing smile that all corpsmen seem to have and said, "No big thing."

Our search began in earnest with Willie stalking and me right on his heels with pen and notebook at the ready position.

The normal, healthy sand flea measures only about two to three millimeters in length. This in itself makes them difficult to locate, but when the wind is blowing, like it was this particular morning, it didn't seem the sandy devils wanted to make an appearance.

Suddenly, I felt something move on my arm. Sensing that I was on the verge of capturing my first sand flea, I gave it a quick slap, held it up to Willie and exclaimed, "Look, I got one!" "That's a mosquito son!" said Willie as he began pointing out the insect's nomenclature.

Continuing the search, Willie mentioned that female sand fleas are the only ones that bite and thus are the easiest to capture. We both hoped that Wayne Van Cleave had no intention of breeding the fleas.

Deciding that the wind was too strong, we called it a morning. That afternoon Willie went out by himself and brought back a whole bottle of sand fleas.

Dubbing him the champion sand flea catcher of Parris Island, I asked Willie if he would be interested in starting a Depot sand flea catching association. Willie declined on the grounds that we had already bitten off more than we could chew. I agreed. After all, chocolate-covered sand fleas aren't the biggest selling commodities in the world.

Provost Marshal Office Goes To LtCol. Williamson

The duties and responsibilities of Provost Marshal at Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, changes hands today as LtCol. Harold P. Williamson relieves Col. John G. Babashanian.

Col. Williamson has been serving as Executive Officer, Headquarters and Service Battalion, MCB, since September 1963. His military career began in the enlisted ranks in November 1963 and he was commissioned a second lieutenant in October 1962.

The new Provost Marshal's combat record extends back to the start of WWII and into Korea. In the beginning of WWII, Col. Williamson saw service in the European - African - Middle Eastern Campaign and entered into the action in the Pacific theater as Commanding Officer of the Marine Detachment aboard the USS CHESTER. The colonel participated in naval bombardments and amphibious operations from the Gilbert Islands to the Iwo Jima Landing.

In Korea Col. Williamson took a part in the Chosin Reservoir operations in November and December of 1950. Later, from Jan. to July 1951 the colonel took part in offensive and defensive operations in Korea.

Among the colonel's awards and medals are the Silver Star, Bronze Star, two Presidential Unit Citations, the Asiatic-Pacific Campaign ribbon with four stars, Korean Service ribbon with four stars, the Philippine Liberation Medal and the Republic of Korea Presidential Unit Citation.

Col. Babashanian, the departing PMO, has held the responsibilities of this office since June 1962. His next assignment is with the Landing Force Training Unit at Little Creek, Va. Prior to his assignment as PMO, Col. Babashanian served as Executive Officer of the 8th Marine Regiment, Marine Division.

Proleum V. Nasby. Later we laughed at the gentle humor of the columnist as Don Marquis, F. P. A. and H. I. Phillips. I laughed at Will Rogers because he made us laugh at ourselves. I remember the sly, dry way he spun that rope and those yarns that took those wonderful quips of his about life in general and the particular.

I laughed at Robert Benchley. Remember when a magazine told me on an assignment to Venice and he wired back, "Streets of Venice. Please advise?"

Now I think there is one true comic on the stage, and one in the world writing a column. I am talking about Bob Hope and Budweiser. Others are cynical, sly and bitter. We laugh when we hear that everyone but squares knows that Mr. A or Mr. B but we don't know why we are laughing.

We refer to our humor as sick, sick, sick,--and it is, is, is. I refused to get cards on Mother's Day expressing in some way that she was loved and wanted. Now if she is lucky she gets a card that shows "Whistler's Mother" flat on her back and a caption that says, "You're not the only one who's off her rocker". I refuse, she may get a card that says, "Want to lose 15 ugly pounds? Then cut off your head."

For a while, to me represents the cackling of despair. Even Bob Hope, clean-cut and buttoned-down as he is, cannot resist the temptation to give a hot-foot now and then to our national idols. I think we need those idols. I am not going to be amused by a picture which Lincoln's publicity man tells him, "Write it on the back of the Abe," or, "Why don't you take it easy tonight, Abe, take a show?"

Laughter today is stored in Hollywood in cans, just as the gold is stored at Fort Knox. It is taken out as needed and pasted on television films. The laugh track tips us off to when things are funny.

We laugh when I am amused. I want to decide what I am funny. This, I suppose, will mark me as a square. If I am funny, I will be in pretty good company. For this country was founded, put together, fought for and saved by squares.

I refuse to prove that Nathan Hale, Patrick Henry, Paul Revere, George Washington, Benjamin Franklin and almost everyone else you care to include among our national heroes were anything but simple thinking what each might have said had he been a square.

NATHAN HALE: Me spy on those British! Are you trying to give me a news flash, chum. They hang them.

PAUL REVERE: What do you mean--me ride through every village and town? And in the middle of the night, yet I am on me? Am I the only man in Boston with a horse?

PATRICK HENRY: Sure, I'm for liberty. First, last and always. I was got to be a little realistic. We're a pretty small outfit. We are pushing the British around, someone is going to get it.

GEORGE WASHINGTON: Gentlemen, I am honored. But I do wish you would try someone else. Let's say General Gates. I'm just the things organized at Mount Vernon. You might say I had a hard time. Against the French, you know.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN: What we really need as Ambassador France is a young man. I'm 70 years old! It's time a new generation took over.

Perhaps a significant fact that what such men actually did was quietly sneaked out of our schoolbooks. "This Week" magazine made a survey recently of school history books issued since 1920, compared with those issued since. Nathan Hale said, "I have but one life to give for my country," in all the texts and in only one of the new texts.

Patrick Henry said, "Give me liberty or give me death" in 12 of the earlier texts and in only 2 of 45 recent ones.

But when Paul Jones set the record. He said, "I have not yet fought," in nine of the old books and in none of the new ones.

When Dwight D. Eisenhower was President, he appointed a commission on National Goals to decide where we were all going. The first step should be a commission on national heritage to make sure that some of us at least remember where we have been.

Military Personnel: Please read your official travel orders thoroughly and completely.

(a) When your orders contain the following statement: "Travel via Government Aircraft is directed where available", a certification as to the availability of Government Air must be made on the orders by competent authority before travel is performed by other means or travel claim for monetary allowance in lieu of transportation is submitted.

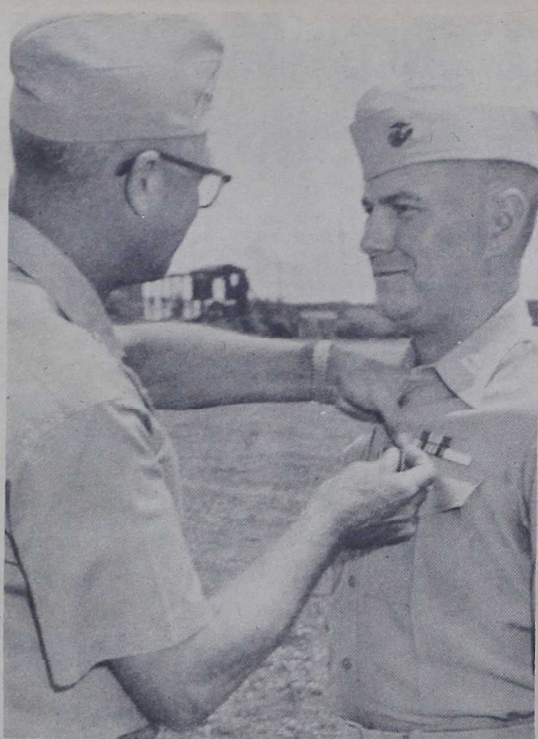

(b) The certification as to the availability of Government air must be obtained before departure on temporary additional duty orders and also prior to departure from TAD station or stations.

(c) Protect your travel claim by obtaining endorsements as to the availability of Government air prior to performing any part of your travel as MARCORPERSMAN Para 5055 prohibits endorsing the orders after travel is performed.

(d) Disbursing Officers will not pay mileage claims, on orders not otherwise restricted, unless the orders contain a certificate that Government Air was not available.

MILITARY JUSTICE—Mrs. Evelyn L. Clay, Civil Claims and Court Clerk, Provost Marshal's Office, Camp Lejeune, is presented with a certificate of completion of the Officer's Correspondence course, "Military Justice in The Navy," by the Base Provost Marshal, Col. J. C. Babashanian. As far as records can show, Mrs. Clay is one of two civilian employees who has ever completed the 52-week course.

BRONZE STAR WINNER—Capt. James J. Harp, 2d Engr. Bn., 2d Marine Division was presented the Bronze Star Medal by MajGen. W. J. Van Ryzin, Commanding General, 2d Marine Division, May 13. Capt. Harp was awarded the medal for saving the life of a downed pilot in Viet Nam in March 1963. The citation stated "Capt. Harp led his unit through dense jungle in an area where there was known Viet Cong activity He located the pilot and rescued him displaying leadership, perseverance, fortitude under extremely adverse circumstances in keeping with the highest tradition of the United States Naval Service."

Colonel H. E. Zastrow To Command 1st ITR

Change of command ceremonies were held yesterday at the Marine Corps' 1st Infantry Training Regiment, Camp Lejeune, relieving Col. Anthony Caputo as Commanding Officer and putting Col. H. E. Zastrow at the helm.

Before enlisting in the Marine Corps Col. Zastrow made his home in Lake Mills, Wis. He graduated from Lake Mills High School in 1936. In 1937 he entered the Corps and spent two years as an enlisted man, and in 1939 he received a Special discharge allowing him to attend the U. S. Naval Academy Annapolis, Md. Upon graduation from the academy in 1942 he was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant.

Col. Zastrow has served at some 20 duty stations since he first enlisted in the Marines and almost half of them have been in the Camp Lejeune area. He first became acquainted with this area when, in 1943, he was part of the 51st Defense Battalion, FMFLant, New River. Since then he has served in Texas, Virginia, Marine Corps Headquarters, Washington, D. C., and at several stations on the West Coast. Before taking the Camp Geiger command the colonel was the Headquarters Marine Corps Liaison representative to Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune.

During his 26 years of service he has earned several medals and awards, among them being the Bronze Star and the Navy Commendation Medal.

The colonel married the former Miss Roberta Shank of Sarasota, Fla. They have three daughters, Mary, Lucy and Katy.

Colonel Anthony Caputo, winner of the Bronze Star and Legion of Merit has been the commanding officer of Camp Geiger since August 1963. His next duty station will be Washington, D. C., where he will be a member of the Inspector General's team.

The colonel hails from Sea Girt, N. J. He graduated from Montclair High School, N. J., then enrolled in the University of Pennsylvania where he was awarded a Bachelor of Science degree in 1941. He enlisted in the Marine Corps shortly after and served as an enlisted man until October 1941, at which time he was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant after completing the Officers Candidate School at Quantico, Va.

F.T. Complex Due For Centralization

Force Troops is scheduled to move all but two of its units into one complex within the next few years.

The complex, which is being built on the main service road in the French Creek area, will eventually house equipment maintenance facilities for all Force Troops units except 2d Amphibian Tractor Bn. and 4th Dental Co.

First units slated to move into the complex in early 1965 are: 8th Engineer Bn., 8th Communication Bn., and 8th Motor Transport Bn.

Other units will move into the complex as soon as facilities to house them are completed.

Advantages of the complex are numerous, with centralization and cutting down of duplicated facilities heading the list.

At present 8th Engineer Bn., facilities are located at the Engineer Stockade on the Sneads Ferry Road. The 8th Communication Bn., and 8th Motor Transport Bn., maintenance facilities are now located in the industrial area.

beliefs in such things as ideas, pride, patriotism, loyalty, and even hard work.

We are great believers in statistics in this country, and the things that really count can never be measured even most advanced computers, sheer head-counting seems to be that people are beginning to struggle for better things.

Twenty years ago, half of us belonged to churches. Today per cent of us do. It is perfectly possible that the church full and the people are empty--but the statistics are on our side.

Sales of classical records have jumped 78 per cent in the three years. Advertising, perhaps, but the statistics are side.

Millions of people are visiting museums, millions more decade ago.

We spent over a billion dollars on books last year, and are taking 670 million volumes out of our public libraries year.

There are 50 per cent more symphony orchestras than there 10 years ago. Expenditures on all cultural activities have increased 70 per cent in the past 10 years--to a total of more than $3 billion.

You might point out to me that three billion dollars spent on culture, stacked up against 50 billion spent for war, still much. You will have to admit that there is a definite movement in the right direction.

Since the turn of the century, the percentage of our population that has graduated from high school is up 10 times. The percentage that has gone to college is up seven times. The percentage higher education trying to get higher marks is encouraging greater than it used to be. There are indications that the day it's smart to be smart is finally at hand.

But the greatest thing that has happened, of course, is our nation has a whole new set of heroes--named Gleason, Grissom and Shepard--and Carpenter, Cooper and Schirra.

The forces of conformity are still strong. Too many of us still sitting it out instead of sweating it out. Too many of us got the guts to stand up straight and dare to be square because opposite of square is round and being round is much simpler. Responsibilities and problems roll off easily. We can jump down the path, without any bumps, being careful to stay middle because that's where the most comfortable run.

Too many of us know the short cuts, and too few know where the path leads. Too few of us dare to leave the path because the path is always the easy way, the way most people take. There is no path to the future, no path to greatness, no progress.

How shall we fight for personal independence? How shall we avoid the group poop, the vortex of mediocrity, the great of cynical sophistication?

May I suggest that we all join the S. O. S., 'The Squares. It doesn't even exist, but it could. Not a left-wing organization. Not a right-wing organization. Just an organization of squares!

We might have to go underground for a while to avoid trampled to death by the coast-to-coast rat packs of saboteurs and the canned-wit commandos whose devotion to destruction.

But we would come out.

We might even have a secret handshake consisting of grabbing the other guy's hand as though you meant it and him in the eye.

We would be for participation and against sitting life of simplicity and against sophistication, for laughter and a sniggering, for America and against her enemies, for the and against the devious, for the honest way against the for a well-done job and against the goof-off, for education against the pretense of learning, for building and against the down, for the boys and girls who excel and against the national bedroom athletes.

We have, at least, the satisfaction of knowing that our problem is not new.

When Benjamin Franklin was told that the war for independence was over, he said, "Say rather the war of the revolution. The war for independence has yet to be fought."

And today--181 years later--the war for independence has yet to be fought.

An Open Letter To Navy Relief

Dear Sir,

Enclosed is my final payment. I think it's fifteen dollars. It is ten, I'm sure I'll be reimbursed. I do want to say I'm so took me so long to pay off this loan, at the time it was very needed, and well appreciated. I must commend you on not suring me for payments during the whole period it took to pay this loan back. You folks have been helping me since I've been in the Marine Corps. Whenever a crisis came about, my thought was always go to Navy Relief. To show my appreciation and confidence for such a wonderful organization have volunteered to be the N. C. O. I. C. of selling the Navy Relief benefit tickets for my section. Thus far I have sold books, four books a payday average. Total thus far, eighty worth. I'm anticipating a total of twenty books. I'm leading a battalion thus far. Again my many, many thanks and gratitude being so helpful during a time of need.

Hubert, N. C.

God Bless You,
(Sgd.) Sgt. Edward Anderson
