

CMC Sees Troops Storm Beachhead

More than 12,000 2d Division Marines stormed ashore at Onslow Beach early Sunday (April 12) as others landed behind "enemy" lines to demonstrate the Marine Corps' vertical envelopment concept, during Quick Kick V.

Quick Kick V, a gigantic 15-day combined services exercise, involving major units from the U. S. Atlantic Command, reached its high point Sunday when the Marines crossed the beach. Eastern North Carolina Marine units from Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point made up the Landing Force Task Force for the operation. The 2d Marine Wing (Cherry Point) provided the air support for the exercise.

In addition to the Marine Corps, units from the Army, Navy and Air Force participated in the exercise.

D-Day activities began with pre-assault air strikes and simulated shore bombardment from the more than 40 ships of the powerful Atlantic Fleet. Aircraft from the Tactical Air Command and the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing were launched from selected east coast bases for the exercise.

Commandant Observes

General Wallace M. Greene, Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, witnessed the dawn landing by members of the 2d Marine Division and then spent the morning aboard ships of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet.

The Commandant was flown by helicopter to the USS OKINAWA and USS RALEIGH prior to lunching with 34 visiting Central and South American journalists.

Accompanying the Commandant was MajGen. Louis B. Robertshaw, Assistant Chief of Staff (Air), Headquarters Marine Corps; BrigGen. M. D. Henderson, Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4, HQMC; BrigGen. John G. Bouker, Assistant 2d Marine Division Commander; and SgtMaj. Thomas J. McHugh, Sergeant Major of the Marine Corps.

CINCPAC COMMENDS—LtCol. Roy I. Wood, Jr., a Staff Officer with Headquarters 2d Marine Division, receives the Joint Services Commendation Medal certificate from MajGen. W. J. Ryan, Division Commanding General, who makes the presentation on behalf of Adm. H. D. Felt, Commander-in-Chief, Pacific. The citation read, in part, for "highly efficient implementation" from January 1961 until July 1963 as Assistant Head, Navy/Marine Corps Section, Military Assistance Branch, J-4 Division, Staff, CINCPAC.

'Look' Tells Story Of Marine SSgt.

If any one called you a freak because you had two good legs and feet you would get mad unless the person was Marine Staff Sergeant Donald N. Hamblen.

Sgt. Hamblen only has one leg and foot and calls his fellow Marine buddies "two-legged freaks".

The amazing story of how Sgt. Hamblen lost his leg in a parachuting accident on Sept. 21, 1962 and his winning battle to stay in the Marine Corps will appear in the May 5th issue of LOOK Magazine.

Sgt. Hamblen is now serving with the First Force Reconnaissance Company at Camp Pendleton, Calif., after passing all Recon tests again with his plastic artificial leg.

MajGen. Melvin J. Maas (ret) a blind Marine who heads the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped says of Sgt. Hamblen "he has proven he's not handicapped on the job. For a fighting man or a working man, it's his ability that counts".

Sgt. Hamblen enlisted in the Marine Corps when he was 17 and was wounded in the Punch Bowl of Korea while still a teen-ager. His story is a fine example of the saying "Once a Marine Always a Marine".

HOOTENANNY

Hootenanny Marines, here's your chance!

Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, at Goldsboro, is sponsoring a Hootenanny contest at 8 p.m. on April 18 and offering cash prizes of $50.00, $25.00 and $5.00.

Interested parties may learn full particulars by seeing Mr. Robert McIntyre, Recreation Director at Goettge Memorial Field House.

Quick Acting Corpsman Saved Life Of Infant

Because of the presence of mind and quick action of a Camp Lejeune corpsman, a five-month-old baby that was "dead" April 11, is still alive today, according to Mary Bell, mother of Debra Bell, the child involved.

"Jim (Miller) saved my baby's life. I had put Debra in the high chair, and then went into the children's bedroom to check on my boy. When I came back to the kitchen I found that Debra had slid down into the high chair and had caught her throat on the tray of the chair. Her eyes were rolled back. Her tongue was out, and she wasn't breathing at all. I ran over to Jimmy's house with Debra and he began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation," related Mrs. Bell.

Telling his side of the near tragedy, HN James D. Miller, the next door neighbor of Mrs. Bell, said, "The mother came running over to my house with the baby. The child was white as a sheet. I immedi-

'GOOD WILL' AMBASSADOR—Cpl. J. E. Hartman, Co. "C", BLT 1/8, sits with orphaned triplet sisters April 3 at Our Lady of Lourdes Orphanage for Girls, at Mgara, Gozo, in the Maltese Islands, during a "good will" visit to three of the island's orphanages by BLT Marines. The Marines gave lumber, paint, clothing, toys and blankets to the orphanages during their visit.

'Med' Marines Give Time, Money To Repair Maltese Orphanages

BLT 1/8, with the U. S. Sixth Fleet, Valletta, Malta,--The Marines have landed and the situation is well in hand as far as orphans on the mid-Mediterranean island of Gozo are concerned.

The Marines, all volunteers from Battalion Landing Team 1/8, embarked aboard Amphibious Squadron Four ships, took a look at three orphanages on the island--located about four miles northwest of Malta--and decided a little "spit and polish" was necessary.

The volunteers, numbering about 50, brought lumber, paint, clothing, toys, and blankets to the orphanages, and presented a sizeable cash donation to the Friends of Lourdes Orphanage Society to help in purchasing textbooks and to aid in the building of additional wings to the orphanages.

The Sixth Fleet Marines visited Our Lady of Lourdes Orphanage for Girls, at Mgara, Gozo, where they were taken on a tour of the orphanage and were served lunch by the Dominican Sisters, who operate the home under the direction of Bishop Joseph Pace. Following an audience with the Bishop, the BLT "Good Will" representatives traveled to St. Joseph's Institute (an orphanage for boys) and to the Bishop Conservatory (orphanage for girls), at Victoria, Gozo.

Meanwhile, the BLT Executive Officer, Maj. J. Phillips, and the Battalion Chaplain J. C. Mignone, Lt., CHC, visited the Gozo Civic Council where a small reception was held in their honor.

The Vice President of the Civic Council, Mr. A. Buttigieg, accepted gifts from the BLT representatives on behalf of the society.

"You are shining examples of the American nation," he said at the ceremony, "and all of the people of the Maltese Islands will remember you for your gifts and contributions to our orphans. We thank you from the bottom of our hearts," he concluded.

The Marines left the Maltese Islands April 6 to continue their five-month joint operational and "good will" tour of the Mediterranean area with the U. S. Sixth Fleet. The BLT, commanded by LtCol. H. E. Ing, Jr., is scheduled to return to the United States in mid-June.

Van Ryzin, Commanding General of the 2d Marine Division, BrigGen. Paul J. Fontana, Commanding General of the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing, BrigGen. Donn L. Also, at the ceremony, HMM-26 was given official recognition for their forty-thousand hour accident free flight record which was set in the latter part of February. The all time Marine Aircraft Wing Record, which was set over the past twenty months, included extensive shipboard operations, numerous deployments and the training of over one hundred twenty-five new helicopter pilots.

BrigGen. Fontana, reviewing officer for the ceremonies, decorated thirty persons with awards ranging from the Air Medal to the Air Medal with 6 gold stars, in lieu of their 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, and 6th awards. In order to be eligible for the air medal, one must fly twenty combat missions.

All persons who were decorated belonged to the old Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-162.

Right Of Private Ownership Is Basic Pillar Of America

(Fifth in a series of ten award-winning editorials from the San Diego, Calif., Evening Tribune. Reprinted with permission.)

The ownership of property is as old as man's acquisitive instinct.

It also is as old as his instincts for freedom and survival.

Ancient man who could claim a stone ax as his own had a tool with which he could fend for himself, provide for himself and his family.

Deprived of his possession, he became a prey of nature; a dependent upon others for his protection and his sustenance.

Man has come a long way since the Stone Age. But the principle of private ownership of property is still true in its basic applications.

The right to own private property is a fundamental pillar supporting the American way of life. It is so recognized in the Constitution.

In the fifth Amendment of the Bill of Rights — the first Ten Amendment to the Constitution — we find the provision that no person shall be deprived of "life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation."

This prohibition was addressed to the federal government.

Later, in the 14th Amendment, the protection of the individual was extended:

"... nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law . . ."

It can be seen from the foregoing that the Founding Fathers evaluated property along with man's most precious possessions—his life and his liberty.

Without property, or the right to own it, a man is virtually a slave.

We see this today in slave states where the right to private ownership either is nonexistent or so circumscribed by an authoritarian regime as to be mere sham.

In America the right of private ownership is basic.

This does not mean that every American has the "right" to a piece of land, a house, or a set of tools without working for them.

There has been too much twisted thinking by those who would "share the wealth."

The right of private ownership — like every right that is worth anything — requires effort to earn it; devotion, even sacrifice, to uphold and preserve it.

This, too, is another part of the American way of life.

Reading: Key To Understanding

One of the most popular misconceptions of early life is that strength and success are best explained in physical terms—money and muscle. This is not really true, but seldom is the realization fully understood until many precious years of mental inactivity have passed.

The ability to read and comprehend the best of what others have written is not an exclusive trait of the scholar nor should it remain as a remembered burden of attending school. It should be something that is encouraged and allowed to develop in order to reap the benefit of other people's successes, failures and experiences.

Reading opens the door to great treasures of ideas and experiences. It allows one to develop more fully his own ideas and to sharpen his capacities. Through reading we better equip ourselves for each day's challenge. Is it surprising that many of our founding forefathers had few degrees but fine personal libraries?

Ideas are the fruits of men's minds. Through ideas we inspire others, guide ourselves and prepare for the future. To grasp ideas, however, requires understanding. We can better understand if we read.

Visit your library soon.

Chaplain's Corner

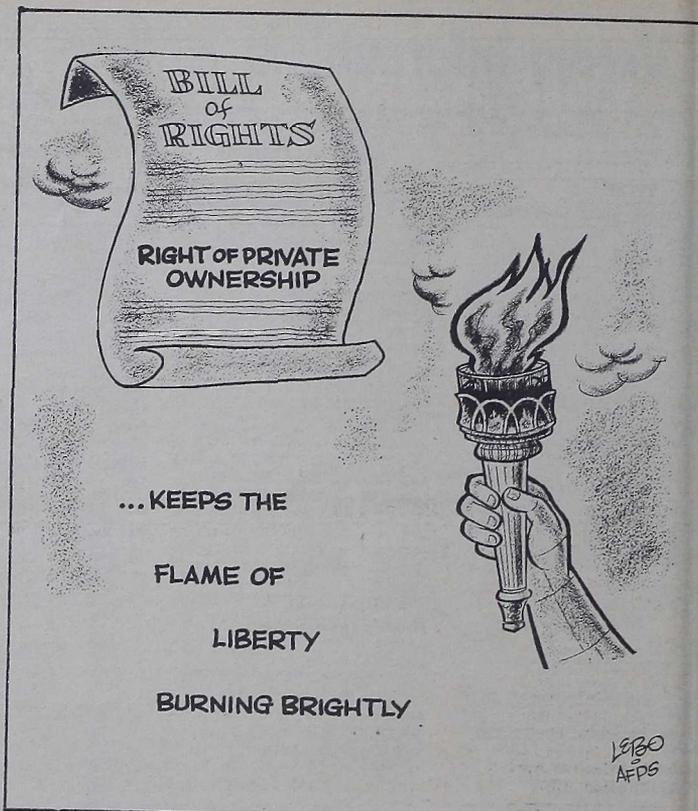

TODAY! This is your life: the day you are living now. Yesterday with its successes and failures is gone; tomorrow with its expectations may never come. But today is yours.

Some people live in the past. Dreaming of former achievements, they waste precious hours in useless reminiscing; they are content to rest on their laurels and will put forth no special effort today. Fretting over their failings in earlier years, they are now dispirited; paralyzed by discouragement, they see no reason to try again.

Some live in the future, in a world of "make believe." They are always going to do great things — tomorrow! Often their goals are not realistic and their time is spent in wishing rather than planning or doing.

An ancient philosopher wrote, "Carpe diem." Literally this means, "Seize the day." This indeed is good advice. Live life one day at a time, making the most of each precious moment, each golden opportunity. Let today's good work add lustre to yesterday's success or wipe out yesterday's failure; let today's wise actions lay a firm foundation for tomorrow's hopes.

If You Ask Me:

How do Marines coming through ITR today compare with Marines of past years?

SSGT. J. W. LOWE, ITR Weapons Instructor—The majority of Marines coming through ITR today are at least of average intelligence and very eager to learn. This is probably due to the world situation as it is today. In my opinion, they are just as good as Marines of the past.

SSGT. P. F. KING, ITR Weapons Instructor—In comparing Marines of today with those of the past, I feel that today's Marines get much more and better training although they don't seem to stack up as well physically. This is probably due to having been exposed to a softer way of life before joining the Corps.

GYSGT. R. P. ALBERS, ITR Weapons Instructor—There's no doubt in my mind that Marines of today can do the job if the button is pushed. Their excellent technical training compensates for what seems to be a lack of physical endurance. Marines have it easier today, they live in good barracks, have laundromats, gedunks, etc.

SSGT. A. PELLEGRINI, ITR Weapons Instructor—I'm TAD here from Division and get some of these people when they complete ITR. Some of today's Marines can be taught by just normal talking while others lack ambition and have to be screamed at. This tends to have an adverse effect on some of today's Marines.

 At last we are getting some good weather so let's start these beautiful weekends off by stopping in for some cheer and conversation with your friends and military associates. It's Happy Hour time from 4:30 until 6:30 p.m. each Friday and of course we feature reduced prices on certain types of beverages. Later on in the evening the liltin strains of the Bob Bass combo will provide music for your listening and dancing pleasure. I'm sure you all remember Bob Bass. His orchestration was as used at the Birmingham tests as inspirational music for the scientists. To hear Bob and the boys bank out their rendition of "The Mischkond Cloud Part 2" is achieving the ultimate in fine listening. Countdown starts at 8:55 p.m. and detonation is set for 9 p.m. Fallout is about 1 in the wee hours.

Saturday night an equally famous group called the Squirrel and his Aces, will do the honors. Squirrel will do all the numbers that made him and his boys the rage of the Bronx Zoo in 1954. I think they call the group the Aces as he won them in a poker game. Feeding time is from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. Also, no fair throwing peanuts at the band as they will stop playing and eat them if you do.

Sunday night for the more sophisticated followers of music interpretation in the diatonic form, we are proud to be able to present Paul Peek and the Peek-A-Boos. Fresh from their smashing engagement in the Engine Room of the Battleship North Carolina where they played to record crowds, Paul and the boys will do such numbers as "Short in The Saddle," "Moon Over Secaucus," and their 100 seller hot hit "Guitar In Antarctica."

By BOB SPENCER

Numerous golfers have asked me to explain about the slice. So the tip this week concerns the slice.

A slicer's troubles can usually be traced to stance, grip, shoulder and/or body turn, backswing, or equipment.

Stance--The average player takes a stance that is too open, with his left foot drawn too far from the line of flight.

Grip--The "V's" formed by the thumbs and first fingers of the hands point somewhere in the vicinity of the chin or even further left, rather than at the right shoulder.

Shoulder and Body--In proper pivoting, both in the turn of the shoulders and body, will bring the shoulder in over the top of the ball and the line of flight, sending the ball off with a clock spin, causing a slice.

Backswing--Picking up too soon on the backswing is another contributor to the slice.

Equipment--The equipment should suit the player, otherwise he may wind up with a club that is too heavy or too light, with an over limber or too stiff shaft. (See your Pro).

To correct the Slice--Close your stance, angle the "V" in your grip to the right and time your backswing.

The best thing you could do is take a lesson.

Water Sports

If you are one of those around who believe that warm weather is never coming, then take heart! Within the week you will be hearing the crackle of sails, the clank of SCUBA tanks and a busy discussion of plans for the coming water skiing schedule. All of which spells SUMMER.

The Camp Lejeune Sailing Committee will be starting things off on April 18th with the first race of their Spring Sailing Series. The gun will go at 1:30 p. m. and boats may be drawn from 10:30 on, that morning. This series, as before, will offer trophies for each first place winners of each race and for first, second, and third spots of the series. The Rules and Regulations for these races are posted on the bulletin board at the Wallace Creek Boathouse. Anyone interested in obtaining a sailboat license should contact Lt. Vining at 7-3879, during working hours.

The Water Ski Club will have its first meeting April 20, at 7:30, Wallace Creek Boathouse Lounge. Old and prospective members are urged to come and help work out the future season. Drivers for the ski boats are needed badly and should be trained now before the ski schedule becomes heavy. So anyone, even if you don't know how to ski at the moment, attend this session and see how the club can most benefit you.

Things look very bright for skiers this year. Besides lots of new equipment having been ordered, a very convenient bus route has been arranged to take the skiers over to the Air Facility Marina and return them to Mainside. You will be able to leave every hour on the Camp Geiger bus; at Camp Geiger a jitney will be waiting to shuttle you right to the Marina's beach. Nothing could be easier. Questions on this and the skiing schedule can be answered Monday night--so come on down.

Finally, if we haven't wetted your appetite so far...how about SCUBA Diving? They are also having a meeting, Tuesday night, April 21, at 7 p. m., Area Five Pool. If you have completed your pool training and are awaiting your ocean dive, or are an "Old" but inactive member, or if you are even considering the sport, come and get in on the beginning organization.

control was just too much for the Pembroke State batters.

Pembroke's starting pitcher Bob Johnson was giving Lejeune a run for their money in making it a pitcher's duel until the ninth inning.

With two outs, the last of the ninth the game looked as if it would go into extra innings when Harvey Oxendine another Lejeune pitcher, pinched hit for that a catcher not only can stop a ball but can stop a third baseman when his team needs the run to win. This victory credited to Cuppett for his endurance and control must be credited to the whole team for the fine spirit and team play they showed during the nine inning pitchers duel.

In Saturday's game against Frederick College Harvey Oxendine pitched his way, with the help of his teammates booming bats, to a 10-3 victory.

Lejeune opened up the scoring in the first inning when Dick Garcia singled to center field, Hal Norton and Jim Hall doubled scoring Garcia. Hal Norton then blazed his way from third base and stole home. Ron Burke singled, scoring Jim Hall.

In the second inning Lejeune came back for two more runs. Harvey Oxendine the Lejeune pitcher, doubled to center field. He scored when Dick Garcia doubled.

Hal Norton hit a 1-0-n-g ball into left field receiving a double for his efforts and received the RBI when Garcia scored on it. Lejeune went scorebound again in the seventh inning when Hal Norton doubled and scored when Chico Lugo singled. Lugo scored when Joe Schratz doubled to right field.

It was Hal Norton again in the eighth inning breaking the scoring loose when he hit a home run over the 315 foot marker in left field. With Buddy Simpson on with a single and Dick Garcia on when he bunted safely Norton cleared the bases with his home run.

Frederick College scored one run in the seventh inning and two in the ninth but when Hal Norton limbered up his big bat they knew it was all over. Last Friday afternoon's game with Frederick College saw them go down to the fine pitching of Gene Caffery 5-2.

In that game Tom O'Leary knocked a home run with no one on in the second inning to open the scoring for Lejeune.

FISHING

Bluefish

BLUEFISH: A school fish usually caught in the surf or in the sounds. Ocean and sound pier anglers often catch ice chests full in a short time by plugging with artificial lures or bottom fishing with shrimp or cut bait. Another favorite method is trolling. Pound for pound, blue fish are among the gameiest of all. The spring run of bluefish begins in April and continues through May and the fall run sometimes lasts during the entire autumn season.

Local Marine Karate Club To Host Championship Meet Sat.

Camp Lejeune Karate Club will host the Second Annual Lejeune Karate Championship Meet at the Goetzke Field House on April approximately 20 clubs from the U. S. and Canada have invited to participate, including teams from Erie and Pgh, Pa.; Framingham, Jersey City, N. J.; Chic

Mass.; Jersey City, N. J.; Chicago, Ill.; Knoxville and Memphis, Tenn.; Covington, Ky.; Toronto, Canada; Phoenix, Ariz.; Peoria, Ill.; Canastota, N. Y.; the University of North Carolina, and MCAS, Cherry Point, N. C.

Twenty trophies will be awarded in the first, second and been studying under Mr. Aizo Shimabuku.

Anyone stationed at Camp Lejeune is eligible to join the karate club, but to remain a member he must demonstrate complete interest in karate. Strict rules are also enforced concerning conduct. A student must conduct himself in a gentlemanly manner at all times, and the easiest way to get boot-ed from the club is to be seen acting boisterously, or engaged in streetfighting.

The Shorin-Ryu club has six degrees of white belt a student must be promoted through before he is eligible for a green belt. In order to earn a green belt a karateka (a player of Karate) must demonstrate: 13 basic blocks and counters, all basic punches and kicks, nine jujitsu techniques, and six kata (forms). To earn a green belt a Shorin-Ryu club member must also play and best three men at one time, run three miles barefoot non-stop in 22 minutes and free play 15 one minute rounds with a 15 second break between rounds. After every fifth round the aspirant to the green belt must do 25 push-ups.

To qualify for a brown belt a man must among other requirements, demonstrate 11 katas, and run 10 miles non-stop bare-footed.

Qualification for a black belt requires a demonstration of 25 katas, showing and explaining every movement of the kata. Knowledge must also be demonstrated in bo (pole) and sal (knife) fighting. A man trying to qualify for a black belt must also demonstrate his ability in competition.

Sam Pearson, a 28-year-old native of Lakeland, Fla., began the study of karate while stationed at Atsugi, Japan, during 1956. Pearson's original interest was judo, but feeling that karate offered him more, he began learning karate under Mr. Higa. After finishing his overseas tour Pearson returned to the States, where he worked out alone.

In '59 Pearson was again ordered to the Far East, this time to Okinawa, where he enrolled in the dojo (school) of Mr. Aizo Shimabuku, a holder of the 10th degree red belt. Pearson credits Mr. Shimabuku with having the most to do with his development as a karateka.

In the Second Annual Canadian Karate Open Championship Pearson placed second behind Shean Higashi, losing by one point. In the World Karate Open Championship Tournament held at Chicago, last year Pearson fought the tournament runner-up, Jim Chapman, in a bout that went into two overtimes, and has demonstrated karate to many civic groups, social clubs, etc.

"By putting on these demonstrations we hope to do away with false conceptions the general public has about karate. We give an accurate idea of what karate actually is. Public exposure also helps build the confidence of my students," says Pearson, explaining his reasons for the demonstrations.

Representing Camp Lejeune in the 2nd Annual Camp Lejeune Karate Tournament in the black belt class are: LCpl. A. W. Hane, Sgt. R. Acbarado, Cpl. R. Kelly and PFC. R. E.

Collins; in the brown belt division, Cpl. G. R. Preman, in the green belt division, LCpl. H. T. Boyless, Cpl. R. E. Dietrich, and in the white belt division, Cpl. M. R. Jones, Sgt. J. J. Trost, LCpl. R. F. Muehard, Cpl. W. A. Botha, LCpl. T. B. Hartman, LCpl. G. G. Aaron, Cpl. A. L. Williams, LCpl. C. W. Geary, LCpl. M. R. Jones, LCpl. R. W. Hascall, Cpl. B. B. Christon, Cpl. F. K. Poluch, LCpl. D. M. Jacobson, LCpl. R. D. Bouake, Dependents representing Camp Lejeune in the Karate Tournament are: A Bauman son of GSgt. W. W. Bauman; D. Taylor son of Sgt. R. A. Taylor; T. X. Jacobson, son of 1st Sgt. J. G. Jacobson, and A. M. Wilkinson, Jr., son of Col. A. M. Wilkinson.

FRINDLY PERSUASION—Peter Musacchio of the Shorin-Ryu Karate Club seems to be applying a bit of persuasion to the neck of Rick Luntz, also a member of the Shorin-Ryu

SIDE KICK—LCpl. R. Coniglio defends against a side kick demonstrated by Sgt. Sam Pearson during a demonstration of Karate. "The demonstrations," said Sgt. Pearson, "are put on to do away with false conceptions the general public has about karate."

SPORTS NOTES

According to Bob Alley, president of the Camp Lejeune Boy's League, nearly 600 boys are signed up for the three leagues. More than 150 Marines will be involved in coaching, supervising, and officiating. League action will begin May 2 with two new diamonds being dedicated during opening day ceremonies.

Due to the nearness of the Interservice Boxing Tournament only one of the Lejeune fighters was entered in the National AAU's at Las Vegas, Bill Verdier was decided by Bonita Pejaz of Pureto Rico. The All-Marine Team is expected to arrive here sometime this week to begin intensive training for the Interservice bouts.

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C.—Jere L. Hess, USNH, son of M. Louise M. Hess of Charles W. Va., and the husband of former Catherine Ann Dick of Export, Pa., was selected as the Bluejacket of the Month for April 1964 at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Camp Lejeune, N. C. He was given a letter of commendation by the hospital Commanding Officer, Capt. T. Norris, MC, USN, and cited for his outstanding conscientious performance of his duties.

Cadette and Senior G.S. Plan For Encampment

More than 90 Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts together with adult leaders will be "roughing" it during the District III Patrol Encampment tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday at the Brewster Scouting area.

Girls and their leaders will be living in tents and cooking on charcoal grills. All patrols will be assigned camp duties, such as camp-wide flag ceremonies, building campfires, etc.

A very busy schedule has been planned daily from the time the girls pitch tents Friday afternoon until breaking camp Sunday afternoon. However, it is expected that the girls will still have time to become acquainted with one another.

Much of the time will be spent in meal preparation and clean up. From 9:30-11 a. m. Saturday, classes in skills will be held. These will be on compass reading, lashing, knot tying and nature hikes. On Friday evening there will be a campfire singing to welcome the campers. Saturday night's campfire will feature stunt night, a highlight of the fun part of the encampment. Patrols will also be busy with a two-hour game period Saturday afternoon.

Religious services are planned for Sunday morning with the Catholic girls attending the 7 a. m. mass at Mainside and the Protestant services being held at the campsite at 10 a. m.

Director of the encampment will be Mrs. J. O. Elder, Cadette-Senior Planning Board adviser, and also a leader of Cadette Troop 247.

Participating Troops are Senior Troop 297, Camp Lejeune; and Cadette Troops 130, Jacksonville; 124, Marine Corps Air Facility; 130, 307, and 247, Camp Lejeune.

This encampment is a prerequisite for the 1964 Patrol Encampment of the Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina in June when two sessions are planned to accommodate the hundreds of Girl Scouts from the 21-County Council. Camp Lejeune will also be host to the Council Encampment at the Brewster Scouting area. Session I is June 7-10, (Sunday afternoon-Wednesday morning); and Session II, June 10-13, (Wednesday afternoon-Saturday morning).

Lejeune Family Leaders Richlands Teen Club

Surf, Mashed Potato, Camp, the Thunderbird and Patrol too--these phrases sound foreign or unreal to them but they are familiar terms to SSgt. and Mrs. Orren R. McHeffey.

The McHeffeys and their 18-year-old daughter, Mildred, are driving force behind one of the largest teen-age clubs in eastern North Carolina.

The club, which is located in Richlands, N. C., has 366 members ranging in age from 13 years.

It all started when McHeffey received orders to report to the Troops at Camp Lejeune in the summer of 1960. After thinking about looking for a place to live, the McHeffeys decided to settle in Richlands.

The McHeffeys plan to retire to the Marine Corps in a few years and had been hoping for a nice quiet community in which to spend their retirement years.

Richlands, a small, farm community with a population of 3,300, located 25 miles from Camp Lejeune, seemed the place they had been looking for.

While driving across the street from the Richlands high school, the McHeffeys became acquainted with local teen-agers and their social problem. This and the fact they have a teen-age daughter were the major reasons and his wife decided to work with the young people of the community.

The McHeffeys began sponsoring the club and, using their father's record player, held the first Saturday night teen-age dance at the Richlands community center building. The turnout was not very encouraging. Only six teen-agers showed up. "Something had to be done, the club needed a 'shot in the arm' to get people interested", McHeffey said.

This was where the ARGENTS came in. Their four-piece combo began playing for the teen-club in 1961 and became an immediate hit. The combo is led by Cpl. Johnny Gruden of Camp Lejeune who plays an electric guitar and is supported by two more electric guitar players, Arthur R. Jarmann and Lonni Record. PFC Dick Sullivan plays a mean set of drums, completing the band.

The word spread and the attendance soared. Last New Year's Eve the dance was attended by a record crowd of over 500 swinging teen-agers.

A recent addition to the club's activities is a square-dance group called the Cloggers.

SSgt. McHeffey recently received orders to report to the 3d Marine Division in Okinawa.

When asked what the future holds for the teen-club now that he has received orders, he replies, "My wife Isabelle is going to continue to sponsor the club in my absence. We have enjoyed working with teen-agers during the last four years and have a sense of fulfillment in watching young people learn to get along with others and grow up to become valuable assets to their community."

"Curiosity Killed A Man" — A 3-Act Tragedy

Act 2

Act 3 — The Finale

With an approving nod from Mother Nature, the granter of fair skies and pleasant temperatures, April 20 will mark the beginning of the mass exodus of Camp Lejeune Marines as they don appropriate attire and scurry to the beach.

Onslow Beach officially opens Monday, April 20.

Thinking only of pleasure and moments of relaxation, the average beachgoer is headed for trouble unless he is aware of the dangers that lurk in the sand and surf.

Just north of Onslow Beach lies a target area for the Marines of Camp Lejeune and unless you are an expert at walking on eggs without cracking them, Brown's Island Inlet is not the place for you. Brown's Island Inlet is an arsenal of unexploded and dangerous ordnance.

Large and numerous "Impact Area" signs are posted throughout danger areas and in all water approaches to danger areas.

Signs, however, are not enough warning! Danger lies everywhere, even in unposted areas. The death-dealing projectiles are sometimes cleverly hidden in the sand. Others might easily be found in unlikely spots, brought there by shifting currents and sands. Some projectiles sit with their noses barely below water levels, awaiting the unwary boater or bather who has wandered just a bit off course.

Photos by LCpl. J. M. Ives

Explosive Ordnance Demolition personnel are only able to remove or neutralize a small percentage of the projectiles due to the inaccessibility of many sections of the swampy lowlands and because some are so well hidden from sight.

Impact areas and the areas surrounding these marked areas are not the only sources of danger. Anywhere along the beach, a swimmer could accidentally trigger explosives that have been on the shoreline for countless years. Explosive Ordnance men on the base have found ancient cannonballs in these areas. Filled with highly sensitive gunpowder, which has been exposed to the elements of weather over a prolonged period of time, these cannonballs have become hypersensitive time bombs.

Boaters should be familiar with federal regulations concerning the Brown's Island area which reads in part:

"All Navigable waters between the south bank of Bear Creek and the north bank of the north connecting channel between the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway and the Brown Inlet will be closed to navigation at all times. Vessels may pass through the north connecting channel and the south connecting channel (Bank's Channel) between the Intracoastal Waterway and Brown's Inlet to the ocean whenever the military is not using the area. Extreme caution is urged when using the waters. Unusual water turbulence could trigger unpredictable explosives.

This article is not meant to put a damper on your summer festivities at the beach. It is only meant as an aid to help you enjoy a fun-filled summer season. None of us can avoid danger as the proverbial ostrich did when he buried his head in the sand to avoid harm. Be on the alert — avoid unnecessary injury.

NBC Warfare Specialists Practice Deadly Job

By SGT. D. L. WILLIS

At 11 p. m. on March 31, 1964, the enemy exploded a nuclear weapon in the vicinity of Washington, D. C. This was the hypothetical setting for a training exercise. Weather reports indicated that for 10 hours winds had been blowing in the direction of Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, carrying radioactive particles. It was believed that certain sections of the Headquarters Building Base Material Battalion, 2d Force Service Regiment, were contaminated by radioactive fallout. The battalion's Nuclear Biological, and Chemical Warfare (NBC) team was called in to monitor the building.

The scene described above was the first of many NBC test exercises scheduled by the Battalion NBC Officer 1st Lt. L. T. Feeley. The exercises are designed to illustrate the problems a Marine NBC team might encounter in the event of a real nuclear attack.

In order to create realism, six radioactive samples, used to test the Radiac Meters, were placed in the Headquarters

Building to simulate actual contamination.

Before the exercise began, the men, composed of five teams, with four men to a team, were briefed on what they would be looking for and what their responsibilities would be. The men were dressed in heavy rubber suits, head covers, boots and gloves; under the suits they wore gas masks. Although rubber suits are not normally worn while monitoring for radioactive fallout, they were worn in this case because most of the problems encountered during the test would occur while monitoring a gassed area.

At 9:30 a. m. on April 1, 1964 the test commenced and by 10:15 a. m. the five teams had monitored the building. It was discovered that certain areas of the building were contaminated with radioactive fallout. Fifteen minutes later the five teams had discovered all but one of the six test samples placed in the building.

The crisis was over... A Marine team had done its job as part of America's FORCE IN READINESS.

were briefed on the various phases of the helicopter assault which were part of the operation staged Sunday.

After the briefings aboard each ship, the Commandant took time out to visit the troop compartments and talk with individual members of the 2d Marine Division.

After leaving the ship, General Greene was taken on an aerial reconnaissance of Onslow Beach to observe Marine units moving inland.

He was flown back to Washington, D. C., Sunday afternoon from the Marine Corps Air Facility, New River.
