Operation Quick Kick V To Test Atlantic Forces

Leathernecks from the 2d Marine Division and its supporting units will storm Onslow Beach April 12 as part of a gigantic combined forces operation.

Quick Kick V, an exercise involving major units of the U. S. Atlantic Command, will be held April 15. LtGen. James P. Berkeley, CGFMFLant with headquarters in Norfolk, Va., will head the landing force phase of Quick Kick.

In addition to the Marine Corps, units from the Army, Navy and Air Force will participate in the mammoth operation.

Among the highlights of Quick Kick V will be a huge amphibious landing by elements of the 2d Division. During the exercise other infantry units from the Division will put the Marine Corps' vertical envelopment concept to use.

While Division Marines are storming Onslow Beach on D-Day (April 12), others will be landed behind the "enemy" to demonstrate the Marine Corps' powerful one-two punch.

Eastern North Carolina Marine units from Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point make up the Landing Force Task Force for the exercise. The 2d Marine Aircraft Wing, from Cherry Point, will provide the air support.

Adm. H. P. Smith, USN, Commander-in-Chief of the unified Atlantic Command, announced Quick Kick V last week and listed the units to participate. They are: Atlantic Command Headquarters at Norfolk, Va.; Army Force Atlantic, commanded by Gen. Hugh P. Harris, USA, at Fort Monroe, Va.; Air Force Atlantic Headquarters, commanded by Gen. Walter C. Sweeney, Jr., USAF, at Langley Air Force Base, Va.; U. S. Atlantic Fleet Headquarters, (also commanded by Adm. Smith) at Norfolk; an Army task force, commanded by LtGen. John W. Bowen, USA, Fort Bragg, N. C.; Navy Task Force, commanded by Vice Adm.

Charles B. Martell, USN, aboard the heavy cruiser USS NEWPORT NEWS; Air Force Task Force, commanded by MajGen. Henry Viccellio, USAF, Seymour Johnson AFB, N. C.; Amphibious Task Force, commanded by ViceAdm. John S. McCain, Jr., USN, Little Creek, Va.; and the Landing Force Task Force, commanded by Gen. Berkeley.

D-Day activities, will begin with pre-assault air strikes and simulated shore bombardment from ships and planes from the powerful Atlantic Fleet. Aircraft from the Tactical Air Command and the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing will launch from selected East Coast bases. The Tactical Air Command and the Military Air Transport Service will transport various Air Force and Army units and participate in the air drop of an Army Airborne Battle Group from the 82nd Airborne Division, Fort Bragg, N. C.

The exercise will test tactical concepts in joint operations by the actual D-Day amphibious landing and airborne assault.

FT To Celebrate Its 13th Birthday

Force Troops will celebrate their 13th Anniversary on April 1, with a cake cutting ceremony beginning at 10 a. m., and a display of their heavy armor and specialized combat equipment at the base parade ground.

The public is invited to view a wide variety of equipment including flamethrowing tanks, heavy and medium gun tanks, 50-ton Self-Propelled Guns and Howitzers, troop-carrying amphibian tractors, engineer heavy equipment, a field-type hospital tent and dental surgical trailer.

The Force Troops Drum and Bugle Corps will play military marches and selected popular songs following the cake-cutting

Marines, Sailors Get HS Diplomas

Thirty military students were awarded Adult High School diplomas accredited by the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction.

J. Marshall Crews, Dean of Wilmington College, was the guest speaker at the Onslow County Lejeune Adult High School graduation ceremony March 23, at Marston Pavilion.

In his talk, Dean Crews stressed the importance of a continuous education for every individual if our country is to remain strong and he commended the students for their duty efforts.

On hand to award the diplomas were Base Commander, MajGen. A. L. Bowser and Mr. Paul Tyndall, Onslow County Superintendent of Schools.

Other guests included MajGen. W. J. Van Ryzin, Commanding General, 2d Division; MajGen. D. J. Robertson, Commanding General, Force

Troops; and Chaplains S. L. Roberts and R. T. Matuszewski.

The ranks of the graduates ranged from a combat experienced Master Gunner Sergeant to a Private recently graduated from boot camp. Marine Corps Base, Division, Force Troops, and the U. S. Naval Hospital were all represented by graduates.

This graduation class brought to a close the Winter 1963-64 term of the Adult High School. Since its beginning in March of last year, 82 Camp Lejeune personnel have earned their diplomas through the program. The oldest man to graduate was a 44-year-old Sergeant Major; the youngest, an 18-year-old Private.

Registration for the coming Spring 1964 term will be April 20-24, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. instead of April 6-10 as previously announced. A General Education Development Test

The field jacket may be worn as part of the summer service uniform on the Base and when proceeding directly to and from place of residence.

11 Lejeune ISO's Attend N. Y. Meet

Braving the cold of "far off northern lands" (New York City) last week, 11 Camp Lejeune Informational Services personnel joined with 29 other East Coast ISO's for the 1964 Informational Services Clinic conducted by Marine Corps' Public Affairs Unit 1-1 of New York City.

The course, lasting from Monday to Friday, had been under long and complicated preparations in order to have the right instructors at the right classroom at the right time.

Since one of the functions of any ISO section is to tell the Marine Corps story to the public, the clinic served to inform the ISO personnel just what the public press, radio and television wanted.

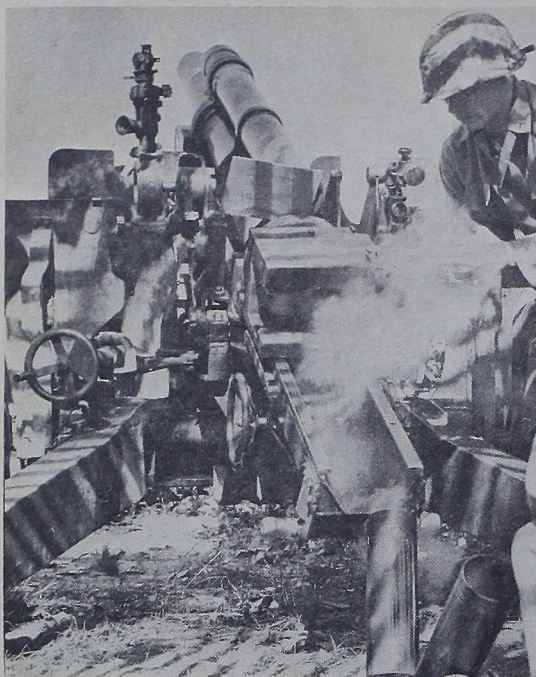

The 11 Informational Services personnel from Camp Lejeune represented the ISO's of Marine Corps Base, 2d Division and Force Troops. From Base were Maj. J. E. Maher, Informational Services Officer, SSgt. L. E. Witconis, and Sgt. G. F. Selby. Division's representatives were Maj. J. A. O'Brien, Informational Services Officer, Capt. F. E. Colt, 1stLt. J. W. Hobbs, 1stLt. W. J. Soriano, SSgt. W. F. Childs and L. E. James. Two members of Force Troops, ISO were 1stLt. R. J. Stack, Informational Services Officer, and Sgt. D. P. Brookman.

FROM AIR TO GROUND—SgtMaj. R. R. Buckner, right, takes over the "helm" from SgtMaj. S. A. Glogowsky, left, as Sergeant Major of the 1st Battalion, 2d Marines. SgtMaj. Buckner formally had the "control stick" as Sergeant Major of MCAS, Beaufort, S. C. SgtMaj. Glogowsky has been assigned to the 2d Engineer Battalion. Officiating at the informal ceremonies on March 17 is Maj. A. V. Marusak, Commanding Officer, 1/2.

HONORARY MEMBER—MajGen. A. L. Bowser, Commanding General, Marine Corps Base, was made an honorary member of the Army's Fifth Special Forces Group, Airborne last week when the units' commanding officer, Col. Herbert E. Royce presented the General with an Honorary Liberator Certificate. Col. Royce's group, from Fort Bragg, N. C., completed two weeks of training at Onslow Beach last week.

"ON THE WAY"—As the hot brass is ejected from the chamber, a 105mm warhead is enroute to its target.

10th Marines Hold FEX Training At Fort Bragg

"...When the caissons go rolling along!"

A U. S. Army song, but very applicable to the 2d Marine Division's artillery arm, the 10th Marines. Recently they have had caissons rolling in the warm areas of the Caribbean, in the Mediterranean and on Vieques; and sliding on ice at Camp Drum, N. Y. The latest Field Firing Exercise was conducted early in March at Fort Bragg, N. C.

The 2d Battalion, 10th Marines, commanded by LtCol. R. J. Edwards, used the Bragg ranges to supplement their training in the semi-annual 10-day FEX at the nearby Army camp. The Fort Bragg ranges permit maximum distance firing for the gunners--distances over 15 miles.

Artillery fire is an excellent example of Marine Corps teamwork and coordination. The impression that the gunners merely load their weapons and aim-in as in rifle firing is erroneous. Before a battalion or a company can obtain heavy artillery fire support a complex series of steps must be completed.

The action begins with a forward observer (FO) travelling with the advance units of the infantry battalion. When fire support is requested, the FO locates the enemy position and calls in the grid coordinates to the Fire Direction Center (FDC).

FDC personnel locate the position on a map, determine the proximity of friendly forces, assign an azimuth, and select the gun best positioned to complete the firing mission.

The Fire Direction Officer has the final approval for the firing. If approved, the gun selected to fire is elevated for the correct range. The proper warhead for the shell is selected and loaded. The gun team may fire a prescribed number of shells on command, or at timed intervals. The shell leaves the muzzle and carries home its destructive message.

From the moment of decision and location given by the FO, to the split-second burst on the target, a mere four or five seconds may elapse!

Not all shells burst on impact. Many are selected for detonation while still aloft. As the gunners fired at one second intervals, increased elevation by 100 meters each shot produced a magnificent burst pattern in the sky over North Carolina. This visually artistic firing display adds up to a deadly sight "on target".

Movement was an integral part of the FEX. The batteries set their guns in position under the cover of an elaborate camouflage complex and completed several fire missions. Then "...Saddle-up!" all camouflage netting was stowed, gun positions were dismantled and the guns attached to trucks and the caissons rolled rapidly on their way to new positions.

"COPTERS AWAY"—Second Marine Aircraft Wing helicopters take off after landing 2d Marine Division personnel. The Marine air-ground team work will be a highlight of operation Quick Kick.

Notice

Camp Lejeune's tri-command personnel planning to go on the 2d Marine Division Special Services sponsored bus trip to New York City must make their reservations by Friday, March 27.

Tickets for the April 17-20 trip will be available at the Division pay tables on April 1.

Personnel who purchase tickets and then find it impossible to make the trip will be able to redeem the tickets at purchase price.

All personnel, from Division, Base and Force Troops, must wear The Winter Service "A" uniform for traveling to and from New York.

Liberty will be at the discretion of each individual while in New York.

In 1958, the Marine Corps modified Force Troops to complement the reorganized Marine Division. Redesignated, it provided the CGFMFLant., with support which could be used to tailor units of the Division and Marine Air Wing to meet any situation.

This group of varied sized, highly specialized units, each with its own role is fully ready to mount out on short notice to provide many services to the FMF in combat.

Lejeune Eighth Grader Is Champion Speller

Emily Sellers, an eighth grader at Camp Lejeune High school, is the champion of the first Star-News Newspapers' sponsored 1964 Southeastern North Carolina area Spelling Bee. She won the Camp Lejeune Bee in a 30-round spelloff Friday night at Tarawa Terrace Elementary School.

Miss Sellers, the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. J. G. Sellers of Camp Lejeune, was born in Honolulu, Hawaii. She has lived on the continent for seven years and has lived at the Marine base here for four years.

Devoid and vanilla were the winning words for Emily who outspelled nine other contestants in the event marking the first time Camp Lejeune has participated in the Southeastern North Carolina Spelling Bee.

Runner-up was Linda Stevens, also an eighth grader. She failed on devoid.

Both the winner and runner-up earned the opportunity participating in the regional Bee scheduled for Wilmington the weekend of May 8-9.

Winner of the regional event annually represents SENCla in the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D. C.

Contestants from seven counties in the area will participate in the Big Bee.

The Camp Lejeune Bee was directed by John L. Fritoe, an education specialist with the base school system. Pronouncer was Chap. R. E. Jordan. Judges were Adrian Daniels, Chap. D. N. Hailstone, and MSgt. Frank Tarbox.

3 Duty Choices

Must Be Listed

Re-enlisting Marines must better start submitting their duty choice options.

From now on, if a Marine ships over and lists only one choice, Headquarters will not fill the choice. If the choice can't be filled: (1) Send him to a post near that requested, (2) Order him to the same type of duty he requested even though it may not be near where he wants to serve, (3) Send the request back unfilled and order the Marine to state at his present post.

In the past, when a re-enlistee's choice couldn't be filled, Headquarters would send the request back asking for the three options he should have listed in the first place.

SCHOOL IS OUT for the 30 Marines and Sailors who attended the Winter term of the Onslow-Camp Lejeune Adult High School which ended March 23. By attending classes two nights a week, the men earned their diplomas from the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh, N. C.

CHANGE OF COMMAND — Capt. Carol A. Vertalino assumed duties as Commanding Officer of Woman Marine Company, Camp Lejeune, at formal change of command ceremonies March 18. Capt. Vertalino served at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Clothing Needed For Med. Orphans

We who live at Camp Lejeune have a tremendous opportunity to learn of this world's wonders. Many of us have visited nearly every inhabited portion of our world. We have seen the Arabian Nights spring to life about the Buddhist temples of Bangkok and Saigon. We have seen the splendor of Europe in Paris, Rome, and London. But we also have seen people who never knew what it was not to be hungry, people who have never faced a winter with even the wildest dream of enough clothes to keep out the cold, people who never in all their lives have known a day without pain, sickness, and hopeless destitution.

It is easy for us to forget that two-thirds of our world's population went to bed hungry last night and that they have no hope that this will change.

The People To People Program was established several years ago so that servicemen and their dependents could help unfortunate people throughout the world. LANFORMED 2-64 is now collecting children's clothing for distribution to orphanages in the Mediterranean area. For the program to be a success will require the assistance of many families in the Camp Lejeune area. If you have serviceable children's clothing that are no longer needed, contact LANFORMED 2-64 so that they may be your representatives of good will. Call 7-3994 or 7-5384 to have clothes picked up or deliver them directly to building 114.

Dignity Of The Human Being Is Basis For Many Freedoms

(Second in a series of ten award-winning editorials from the San Diego, Calif., Evening Tribune. Reprinted with permission.)

The Founding Fathers of this nation had a passionate belief in the dignity and worth of the individual.

It was upon this belief that they built.

And it was to insure against the undermining of this firm foundation that they embedded certain freedoms of the people in the Bill of Rights.

Hard by the first stake — the right to worship God in one's own way — they drove into the bedrock of America:

The right of free speech and freedom of the press . . .

The right of the people to assemble peaceably.

The right to petition the government for redress of grievances . . .

These are heady freedoms, indeed. But the proper recognition and use of them is essential, if representative government is to be more than a lofty, but empty, ideal.

It is a measure of their confidence, as well as their faith, in the dignity and worth of the individual, that the Founding Fathers proclaimed these rights . . . these freedoms.

For there is a fine line beyond which the exercise of such personal freedoms can become license.

The genius of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights is that, in their fundamental statements and in subsequent interpretations, there are definite clauses that keep this whole structure of freedom in balance.

Freedom of speech isn't abridged, for example, by the prohibition of a blasphemous, libelous, or indecent public address, injurious to public morals or private reputations.

"Freedom of the press," the Supreme Court has held, "may protect criticism and agitation for modification or repeal of laws, but it does not extend to protection of him who counsels and encourages the violation of the law as it exists."

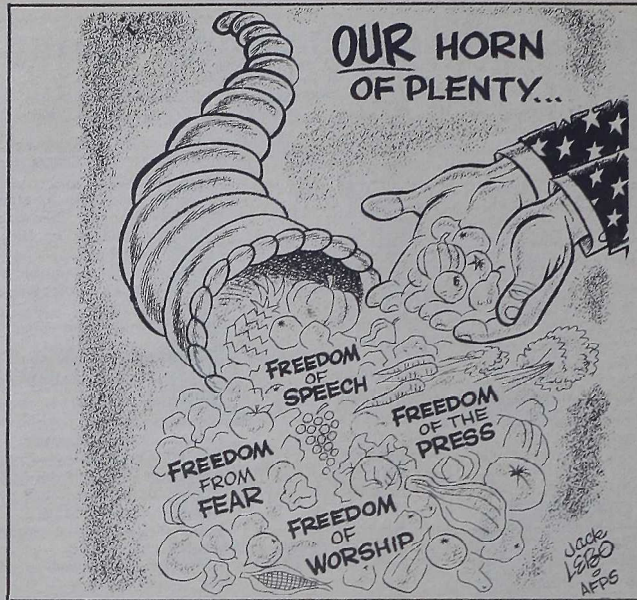

Peaceable assembly, obviously, is no sanction of mob rule.

No, the Founding Fathers sought no licenses. They sought to insure the freedom and dignity of newly freed men and their prosperity by:

The right to stand straight and speak . . . to read freely and fully, with confidence in an unhobbled press . . .

To gather with others sharing a common concern . . . to petition without reprisals or the sneer of official contempt.

Let us remember and rededicate ourselves to these manly goals.

"THOU ART THE CHRIST"

This confession has been often misunderstood by many people because they forgot that it had a two-fold meaning; one, it was made by a man, and two, it was a point of view which could be supported best by using only a part of the confession. This is unfortunate because the confession carries on its back the two great supports of the church, Faith and Man.

When Peter made this confession he was speaking as a man. No matter what else we may say, this is an inescapable truth. Peter was doing the talking. There seems to be very little doubt that Peter did not fully realize what he was saying, but this takes nothing away from Peter. We have had almost two thousand years of Christianity and we don't fully understand all there is to know about our Lord.

In this confession God is telling us that the work of the church, the teachings of the church, the mission of the church, will be brought about by man. This is a tremendous thing to behold, that God, creator of the universe would trust man with this mission of the church. Surely God knew of our shortcomings. Surely God knew that we would fall short of what He had a right to expect from us. Surely God knew that we would run away when the going got tough. Indeed He did!

But God also knew that man would rise to great occasions and do things he himself would think impossible. God knew and man discovered that the little man would often face death in order that the cause of Christ might be advanced.

In order to achieve these mighty things the second phase of the confession must be seen. It is this: Faith. This confession made by Peter was act of faith. Our Lord told him that nothing in his religious or secular experience brought this knowledge to him. God in His own wisdom made this possible. This confession of Peter was a mighty step beyond the limitations of human reason. It brought our attention, in a very vivid way, the tremendous possibilities open to us when we accept our part in God's creation. In this two-fold way of the confession we can see the meaning clearly and we can understand why new insights why nothing can destroy the church and the faith of the church as set forth in this great confession recorded in the Gospel of St. Matthew chapter 16, verses 13-20.

On this Easter Sunday we observe this great confession, and every time we pray to God and make our confession in the name of His son, we participate in this great moment of Easter.

Movie Reviews

FUN IN ACAPULCO Director: Richard Thorpe. Screenplay: Allan Weiss. Cast: Elvis Presley, Ursula Andress, Elsa Cardenas, Paul Lukas, Larry Domasin, Alejandro Rey, Robert Carricart, Teri Hope, Charles Evans, Alberto Morin, Francisco Ortega. Technicolor.

THE CRIMSON BLADE Drama starring Lionel Jeffries and Oliver Reed; produced by Anthony Nelson Keys and directed by John Gilling; color.

DR. CRIPPEN The case of Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, accused of poisoning his wife and cutting her neatly into bits, was one of the most celebrated in the crowded annals of British crime. And since 1910 when the affair occurred, hundreds of explanations of it have been offered. Yet another is provided in Leigh Vance's screenplay for this John Cain production.

At the beginning, under the credits, there is a marvelous stop-action shot of Donald Pleasence in the title role. Immediately afterward his prosecutor is seen describing him as a "monster in human form," and soon after that we are treated to a rendition of "I'm Not a One-Man Woman" by Coral Browne, as the unfortunate Mrs. Crippen. In short, it all begins in the crisp, witty tradition of innumerable British melodramas.

But gradually the good doctor's tale is taken more seriously, until we are forced to realize that what is intended is a serious look at the human drama behind the famous crime. Crippen's love for his co-defendant, young Ethel Le Neve, is explored in considerable detail, as is his revulsion for his brassy, blousy wife. Rather much is made of the sexual relations, or lack of them between the wedded pair.

NCO Club

If you want to have a seat for Saturday night's spectacular you're going to have to arrive early. Sorry, but absolutely no reservations.

Saturday, for the benefit of those who aren't already club in, is the Third Anniversary of the NCO Club. A gala evening of top entertainment has been planned to celebrate this occasion.

Two top bands will kick off the evening's festivities. The Downbeats will beat out the rhythm in the Blue Room, while The Tassels toot their tantalizing tunes in the club's party room for the uninformed (that's the old bowling alley).

A full staff will be working in the galley, under the competent leadership of Chef Bob Murphy, to turn out heaping plates of golden fried chicken — $1.00 per serving. The manager has also assured us that there will be a "surprise" happy hour sometime during the evening.

Then, so you can sleep-in Sunday morning, the club will serve a free breakfast to all the hardy hangers-on.

After you're well rested come on back Sunday with the family and enjoy our Easter Special: a tender roast beef dinner with all the trimmings for $1.25, children under 12 75c. Or try a sirloin steak dinner special for two for $2.50. Make it a date to drop into the Blue Room the same night and listen to some real big city talent as your NCO Club proudly presents Jimmie Vee and the Scamps.

Game night has once again been brought back to Tuesday night by popular demand — that means we didn't have any choice. That night try the chef's chili burgers, with french fries for 25c or mouth watering grilled cheese sandwiches with french fries for 20c.

To round out the week drop in on Wednesday night and relax to the sounds of the ever-popular Big Bob Bass and his band.

Now that's a pretty busy schedule, one that you'll have to be well fortified for, so tomorrow night you can start off with Happy Hour from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. The menu for Friday night will be a seafood platter for $1.00 or a breaded veal cutlet platter for 75c.

Variety Vacationland

Spring is upon us and Marines of Camp Lejeune, like millions of other Americans, are breaking out road maps that have been stuffed away since Labor Day of last year. The open highway gets more inviting as the wonders of Spring unfold in a dazzling spectacle of color. The State of North Carolina, with its endless miles of sun-washed beaches and its many historical landmarks that have contributed so much to our country's history, are now open to the public. The North

TRYON PALACE

This symbol of the American Revolution in New Bern was the seat of the last of the Royal Governors. It was completed in 1770, partially burned in 1798, and restored and dedicated in 1959. The State's first Constitutional General Assembly met here and Richard Caswell, first Constitutional Governor was inaugurated here.

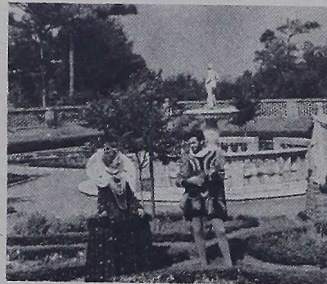

OLDEST CHURCH IS IN BATH, OLDEST TOWN

The first church in the oldest town of North Carolina is St. Thomas Episcopal at Bath. The town, incorporated in 1705, was a Colonial capital and haunt of the pirate Blackbeard. The church, established in 1734, and early buildings are open to the public.

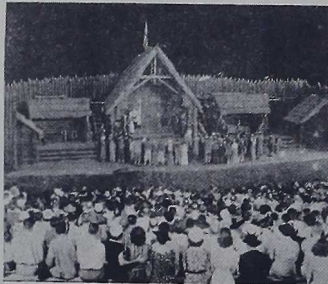

ELIZABETHAN GARDEN

This garden, adjoining the Fort Raleigh National Historic Site, is exactly as Sir Walter Raleigh's colonists might have designed had they had attempted such a project when they landed on Roanoke Island. Wright Memorial and Cape Hatteras are nearby for further pleasure.

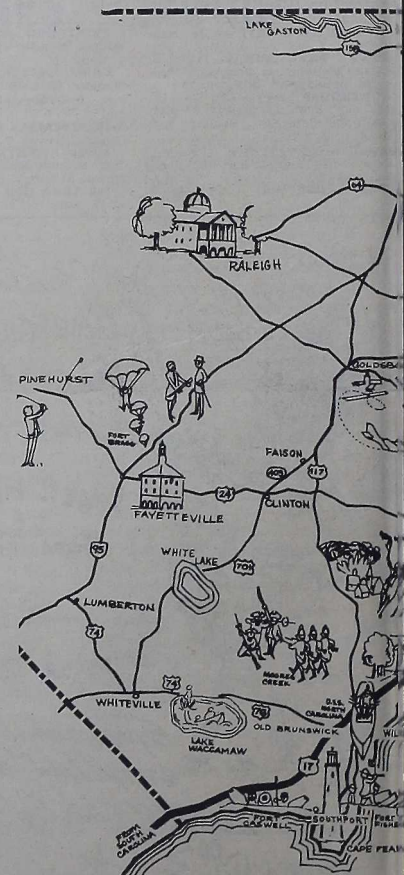

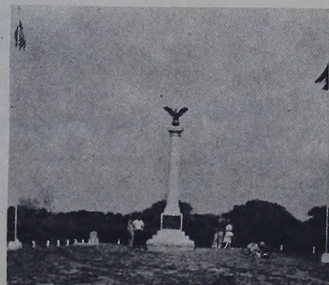

THE LOST COLONY

Pulitzer Prize Winner Paul Green's play in the famous waterside theatre on the site of the first English colony in America. It opened in 1937 and has had a continuous run each summer except for the period blacked out by World War II.

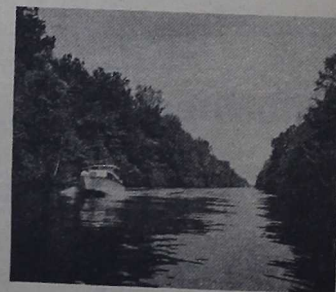

FORT FISHER MONUMENT

Located on U. S. 421 18 miles south of Wilmington this monument marks the site of Fort Fisher which fell to the Union attack of 1865. This defeat cut the last line of supply for the Confederate Forces. This is the site of the largest land-sea battle in history until WW I. It is near Carolina Beach.

FORT RALEIGH NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE

Restored Fort Raleigh on Roanoke Island where the first English colonists landed in 1585. Two years later it provided one of history's greatest mysteries—the Lost Colony.

GEORGE WASHINGTON CANAL

George Washington's Dismal Swamp Canal is a waterway through the Dismal Swamp for some distance as far as North Carolina. It is the only waterway in the state that is not a part of the Atlantic Ocean. The canal is about 750 square miles in area and was reduced by drainage in 1791. It is accessible by U. S. 17.

PENELOPE BARKER HOUSE

This house has been restored as a State Historic Site and overlooks Edenton Bay. Penelope Barker presided over the first Tea Party of 1774. A few months later the ladies of Boston expressed their resentment over taxation in a similar manner.

CAPE HATTERAS LIGHTHOUSE

Cape Hatteras Lighthouse looks an area rich in history. Prominent attacks during the Civil War, the old lighthouse built in 1798 and was of an attack by Federal forces. It is the tallest brick lighthouse in the U. S.—193 feet built in 1870 near the older structure which was placed.

The administration building of built in 1851. The college was founded in 1848 as Chowan Baptist Female Institute and did not close its doors during the Civil War and the Reconstruction.

It is now coeducational.

ORTON PLANTATION

Rich in history, this plantation is also one of the most beautiful in the South. The house was built in 1725 and was used as a hospital by the Union forces after its capture during the Civil War. It is reached by paved roads just off U. S. 17 near Wilmington and the Battleship
Memorial.

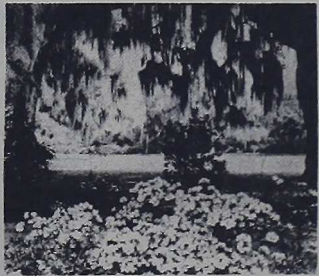

EDENTON TEA PARTY

On October 25, 1774 undisguised ladies of five Albemarle Counties gathered in Edenton and signed resolutions supporting the protest of the Continental Congress against injustices of the British including the tax on tea. The Penelope Barker House is also on the waterfront at Edenton.

AIRLIE GARDENS

In Wilmington breathless beauty may be seen in the multi-colored flowers and trees of Airlie. The gardens were designed by Top-pel, gardener for the German Kaiser. The ante-bellum mansion has in it the handrail from Sir
Walter Raleigh's home in England.

CONSTITUTION HOUSE

History was made in colonial Halifax with the adoption of the
"Halifax Resolves" in April,
1776, the first formal sanction of American Independence. The Constitution House dating from 1758, has been restored. Halifax was an important Roanoke River

Camp Lejeune downed the Wilmington Seahawks 5-3 last Wednesday to finish their three game series with two wins and one loss against the "Hawks".

Gene Caffery, a veteran of last year Lejeune's mound staff picked up the win, and nine strikeouts enroute.

The Marines punched their first run across in the second stanza when shortstop Joe Schratz singled to drive in Ron Burke who had doubled earlier. Jim Hall brought in the next run for Lejeune in the second frame with a hard hit single to right field to drive in Tom O'Leary from second base.

Bobby Shipp scored the initial run for Wilmington in the sixth after getting to second when three men from Lejeune's team let a fly ball hit to short left field by Shipp drop between them. George Hunsucker collected the rbi, bringing in Shipp with a line drive single to center field.

Lejeune had the ball game on ice in their half of the sixth on an error, a sacrifice bunt and a back-to-back doubles by Hal Norton and O'Leary.

The Seahawks made their final bid in the seventh inning bringing in two runs on a pair of singles and an error. Lejeune pushed their final run over the plate in the eighth.

Caffery pitched six and 1/3 innings for the Marines, gave up three runs, six hits, one walk and struck out nine for the win.

The Marines picked up five runs on seven hits, while the Seahawks scored three runs on seven hits.

In the first game of a regularly scheduled three game series against Virginia Tech, Lejeune combined the long ball hitting of Joe Schratz and the well coordinated right arm of pitcher Dick Hall to smother Virginia Tech 9-3.

Dick Hall mixing up his pitches but depending upon his fast ball racked up 11 strikeouts in the seven innings he pitched.

Joe Schratz blasted a 315 foot home run in the second inning, the first home run for Lejeune this season. Powerful Tom McHenry contributed to the victory against Virginia Tech by collecting a pair of triples and a double.

Hal Norton and Dick Garcia started off the scoring with a single and a double giving Lejeune a one run lead in the second inning. Joe Schratz's home run over the 315 foot marker in left field made it 2-0 in favor of Lejeune.

In the fourth Ron Burke and Jim Hall preceded McHenry to the sacks with a walk and a double and then scored on McHenry's fence blasting triple to left field. Hall helped his win along with a single that scored McHenry.

Virginia Tech got single runs in the 8th and 9th innings Eddie Boyce and M. H. Herndon and Stan Forbes unleashed a flurry of singles and doubles scoring two runs. But it was all over in the 9th inning and Lejeune collected 9 runs to Virginia Tech's 3.

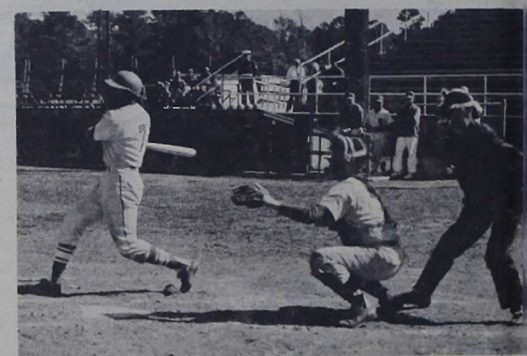

Rain, the dreaded enemy of all outdoor sports events reared its ugly head over Camp Lejeune Friday and Saturday to cancel out the remaining two games the Lejeune ball club was to play against Virginia Tech. Both teams were eagerly awaiting a break in the weather but that break never came.

In the first game of a three game series with Springfield

College of Mass, Lejeune's Chuck Cuppett pitched a two hitter to down Springfield College 1-0. In the fourth inning Ron Burke doubled into left field just in front of the 315 foot marker, stole third base and came home on a wild pitch. The ball got through the Springfield. The score at the end of two innings was Lejeune Springfield College 1.

In the third inning Lejeune picked up four runs on 1 hits. Dick Garcia and Buddy Simpson drew free passed, Norton singled to left field, Dick Garcia was put out field catcher, the pitcher came up to cover the plate as Ron Burke came sliding in, the catcher threw the ball to the pitcher but the pitcher missed the tag scoring the only run in the first game for Lejeune.

In the second game of the series Springfield College went down to the superior batting power of the Lejeune Marines 8-4. Ralph McIntyre was the starting pitcher for Lejeune and Harvey Oxendine came in to finish up the game in the seventh inning.

Springfield threatened in the first inning by rapping McIntyre for three singles loading up the bases but a double play and a fly out to right field retired the threat.

Lejeune picked up one run in the first inning when Dick Garcia singled, Hal Norton singled to deep right field sending Garcia to third and with one out Tom O'Leary flew out to right field receiving the rbi when Dick Garcia scampered home for the first Lejeune score.

second base, Hal Norton scored second base and Tom O'Leary collected a triple into center field scoring Buddy Simpson. Hal Norton, Ron Burke singled into left field scoring O'Leary. Bartsch made it to first base on an error then Nar Call singled but Bartsch was thrown out at second base. Larry Norton singled to right field bringing in Tom Bolko for a run. Andrew Whalen received a walk and an error by the third baseman put Alan Gaffam on base and scored Nar Call for the second run that inning. The score after three complete innings of play was Lejeune Springfield College 3.

By BOB SPENCER

The Tip of the Week concerns know your greens. How many times have you heard someone on the course an: "Man, this green is fast!", or how about the old excuse: never broke an inch!" Aside from the usual amount of untimely remarks, those two laments are among the most common you'll hear — or say yourself.

While there are no short cuts to a better evaluation of putting surfaces, I believe that there are many fundamentals that the average golfer can learn and use to better advantage. During this coming year, the following tips will make a difference like "This green is fast" and "it never broke an inch" — up less frequently.

Assuming then, that your putting stroke is a reasonably good one, the next step is developing a practical understanding of grain and contour.

Basically, there are three types of putting surfaces — Bermuda, Bent, and Rye (generally with another type of grass mixed in.)

The most difficult is Bermuda, a thick, coarse grass with a lustrous appearance. It is used in the warmer southern climates where it has the quality of withstanding heat.

Bermuda grass is not too difficult to recognize. Its blade is thick, the texture is full and the glossy surface will appear when you stand in the center of the green and look around. In this direction, the grain will be growing away from you and the grass will give a glossy shine. If you run into a cloudy day, just stroke your putter on the green. One way, the putter will glide smoothly over the surface. Another way, it will meet with some resistance. In the latter case, you will be stroking against the grain.

Rye and Bent are much easier to recognize and, fortunately, are easier to putt on. Rye is probably the best putting surface you can have since it is the truest. Very seldom do you discover an uneven break on Rye greens. In most cases, the Rye is supplemented by another type of grass to give it durability and growth power.

Bent is simply what it sounds. The blade bends noticeably, making it easy to determine the type of roll it will have. If it is toward the hole, your putt will be with the grain and, consequently, somewhat faster. Distinguishing Rye from Bent is a lot easier. A very short cut will leave the hair growing straight up. Like Rye, as the hair grows longer, it begins to bend in the direction of its natural position, like Bent. The speed of the putt and Bent greens depends a great deal on how closely they are cut. Freshly cut Rye and Bent can be lightning fast. But the grass grows a few days and they become notoriously slow.

Always keep in mind the fact that greens regardless of their type, will always be slower in the morning than in the afternoon. But when the early dew evaporates, the greens will be at their fastest. Later in the day, the greens are very difficult to putt, particularly when they have had a good deal of traffic. Foot prints, and scuff marks all contribute to rough putting conditions in the afternoon hours. To really see how much punishment a green takes during the course of one day's play, look at the headlights of your car on a green some Saturday or Sunday evening. Every mark on the green will be accentuated by the lights and shadows, and it will give you a good idea of what the green is up against.

- (1) Allow for the effect of grain, especially when playing greens of Bermuda grass.
- (2) Grass appears shiny as you look with the grain, darker when sighting against it.
- (3) Grain usually runs toward ocean; away from high ground; in same direction with water drainage, prevailing winds.
- (4) Form general impression of green's contour before sighting line on specific putt.
- (5) You should notice especially any grain or contour that affects the ball as it nears the cup.

With an entire summer of golf to go, make it a point to know a little more about the texture and contours of the greens. This knowledge can pave the way toward more consistent scoring on the greens.

Next Week: Putting.

Special Services Camping Trailers

Camping Trailers Ready For Outdoor Enthusiasts

If you're the type of Marine that starts getting his fishing gear ready at the first sign of warm weather; likes to spend a relaxing weekend in the middle of nowhere; enjoys a meal of fresh fish, fried chicken or any other mouth-watering meal cooked over a blazing outdoor fire; or just likes to travel and not have to worry about the expense of staying overnight in motels, then Base Special Services has something you'll be interested in.

For the past few months, the motor transport section of Base Special Services has been reconditioning camping trailers for the use of active duty Marines in the Camp Lejeune area.

All you need to check out one of these campers is certification that your automobile liability insurance will cover you while towing a trailer. You don't even need a trailer hitch, you can check one of them out too.

GySgt. Hall, Reservations Chief, said that 20 trailers will be available for use April 1. Reservations are possible but should not be made earlier than 30 days prior to the date wanted.

To check out a camper for longer than four days you will need leave papers, with leave papers you can check one out for a 15 day period. Reservations will be on a first come first served basis but priority will be given to those who have not used a camper during the current season.

The camping trailer comes equipped with a double bunk (the bed of the trailer) and a folding type tent shelter. There is enough room to set up two additional cots under the shelter. An eight-foot mesh canopy that can be attached to the shelter comes with the trailer.

Camping equipment, such as cots, stove, lantern, sleeping bags, etc., will have to be supplied by you.

Reservations may be made by applying in person at the Special Services Reservation Office, Geotge Memorial Field House, or calling 7-3762 during working hours.

'Why A 21-Gun Salute?' Puzzled Americans Ask

One of the questions most often asked: "Why the 21-gun salute?"

Like many other American military customs, officials of the United States Military Academy library explain, we borrowed this one from the British.

The regulation, "Salutes to be returned gun for gun," was adopted by the United States on Aug. 18, 1875. The British salute then was 21 guns.

But why the number 21? Originally, British war ships fired salutes of seven guns.

The "sacred number" seven was selected by Queen Victoria because of its mystical and symbolical significance in the Bible.

Astrological significance is found in "The Seven Planets," and the phases of the moon changing every seventh day. Ships fired seven guns, but shore batteries answered three guns to the ship's one. The difference was because gun powder

Since the death of President Kennedy, the nation's libraries and museums report a flurry of questions concerning the military customs Americans saw exercised in the President's funeral.

was difficult to preserve aboard ship. On land there were no storage problems, so three times as many guns were authorized.

When better powder was invented, the number of guns for the naval international salute was raised to the same number used by land forces.

Now the highest gun salute--the one to honor a chief of state, such as the one fired by the Armed Forces for President Kennedy--is 21 guns for all nations.

Recognizing the "gun for gun" custom, many nations of the world fired in special ceremonies 21-gun salutes as tributes to President Kennedy.

Brother vs Brother In Oper. Backpack

If things go right for LCpl. E. G. Boblick, a member of the Hawaii-based aggressor forces opposing the advancing 3rd Marine Division during Operation BACKPACK, manning an outpost overlooking a river crossing may give him the opportunity to capture his own brother.

Armed with reliable information that his brother, LCpl. T. J. Boblick of the 3rd Marine Division's 3rd Anti-Tank Battalion from Okinawa would be crossing the river at that point in his Ontos, "aggressor" Boblick welcomed his outpost assignment saying, "I'll try to capture him and maybe we can bat the breeze after I take him in for interrogation."

Luck may be against the Locust Gap, Pa. brothers, however. In the conduct of such hypothetical warfare, umpires declare both friendly and enemy forces "casualties" under certain conditions. In such an event, they are returned to the rear and must "fight" their way forward again.

Resigned to the fact that an aggressor company covers a lot of ground, Boblick believes he will eventually find his brother.

Easter Pets

Base residents contemplating the purchase of Easter Chicks, ducks, rabbits, etc., are reminded that BO 11101-30A prohibits the introduction or possession on the Base of pets, other than dogs, house cats, tropical fish and birds of the house-caged type, unless specifically authorized by the Commanding General. All pets authorized on the Base except tropical fish, must be registered with the Provost Marshal's office.

The program for the day will be as follows:

History Of Communism

Research Is Imperative To Quell 'Red Giant'

(Final installment of a series of 20 articles entitled The History of Communism, by MSgt. Walter M. Stewart. Reprinted by AFPS from the San Diego Chevron, Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.)

The result of brevity (required by space limitations and in the pursuit of reader interest) has been the manifestations of numerous shortcomings within this series, and no one is more aware of them than the author.

China, in terms of its fall to the Reds and the successes and failures of the regime, has been treated all too briefly; the critical time of Stalin's overthrow of Trotsky, the horror of the purges, the intrigue between Germany and exiled communists during WWI, Russia's participation in the Spanish Civil War, the maneuverings of the "collective leadership" which followed Stalin's death--all these cried for more attention than they got.

Southeast Asia and Central and South America are of immense importance, yet they were treated casually. These areas, however, experience politics so fluid and volatile that there was no assurance that an up-to-date summary would still be up-to-date when that installment reached print.

Too, the more recent the history, the less likely it is to be accurate and it is hoped this series will find application beyond these 20 articles.

The fast-moving events of the 1917 revolutions and those developments immediately preceding and following WWII are essentially true as related. However, the necessity of condensation is responsible for minor anachronisms.

And finally, there may be some confusion in the reader's mind over how and when Russian Socialists became Communists. It is difficult to say at just what point the word "Communism" supplanted the original descriptive of "Socialism."

Communists in the modern day frequently refer to themselves as socialists as, indeed, they are. But there is a great deal of difference between the political ideologies of those we describe as socialists or as communists.

In the first decade of post-tsarist Russia, all except those of the extreme right wing were socialists. But these socialists were readily divisible (so says the House Un-American Activities Committee report "Facts on Communism") into two groups: the (constitution) reformers and the revolutionaryaries.

It is the latter group (and this point we admit to oversimplification) that we commonly refer to as communists.

The purpose of this series which concludes with this paragraph, has been twofold: offer a basic working knowledge of the subject to those unwilling to get it on their own; and stir the fires of interest in others who will recognize the additional research is imperative if we are to remain free.

God grant that most Americans are in the latter group.

The World This Week

NICOSIA, Cyprus -- W. Greek and Turkish Cypriots reinforcing battle positions, United Nations peace force: appeared subject to more delay in its missions as buffer between the warring communities.

Forces of both the Greek Cypriots and the Turkish Cypriots were moving in heavy reinforcements on the north end of the Kyrenia Road, entrenching new gun positions along the strategic artery.

At the same time, the Cypriot government reaffirmed stand in conflict with the United Nations' concept of the police force's role. This conflict raised complicated roadblock to getting the force into active police operations.

MOSCOW--The Soviet Union has said it has no intention paying for the United Nations operations in the Congo Middle East and that if any applied pressure on Russia could lead to a breakup of U. N.

ALGIERS, Algeria--The Soviet Union and Communist China vied openly for support from the non-committed nations attending the Afro-Asian solidarity congress Sunday. Both sent messages assailing Western "imperialism" colonialism.
