CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1964

NO. 8

COMMANDANT CITED—Gen. Wallace M. Greene, Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, receives a Distinguished Service Medal from Secretary of the Navy Paul Nitze. The medal, which came as a complete surprise to the Commandant, was presented in the Pentagon for "Exceptionally meritorious service to the government of the United States while serving as Chief of Staff, Headquarters Marine Corps, from January 1, 1960 to December 31, 1963." The citation further stated that Gen. Greene had, "by his skillful and dynamic leadership, vision and wide knowledge of Marine Corps operations and administration, enhanced the military posture and prestige of the United States."

Draft Of Military Pay Bill Reaches Speaker Of House

A new pay bill that would put more than 142.6 million additional dollars in the pockets of members of the Armed Forces during Fiscal Year 1965 has reached the House of Representatives.

The new raise is proposed to become effective October 1, 1964.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has asked for a basic pay increase of 3 percent for officers and 2.4 percent for enlisted members with over two years service.

In his letter accompanying the bill to Speaker of the House John W. McCormack, Secretary McNamara said the raise is needed to keep military pay in step with civilian rates and quoted the late President Kennedy's pledge made to members of the Armed Forces when the 1963 boost was signed.

"In supporting this legislation before the Congress," President Kennedy said, "This administration pledged to use its best efforts to assure that in the future military compensation will keep pace with increases in salaries and wages in the civilian economy. I think that I speak on behalf of all of us when I say that is a pledge we intend to keep."

To fulfill this pledge and policy, a procedure for an annual review of active duty military pay has been developed. In addition, the entire structure of military compensation will be studied approximately every five years, the House leader was told.

If effective on Oct. 1, the raise will cost an additional $142,616,000 for the balance of FY65. This includes costs of retirements after the raise. FY66 increased costs will be about $194,062,000.

A Marine captain or Navy lieutenant with over six years service would be raised from $560.00 monthly or $576.00 base pay, an increase of $16.80.

Increases for enlisted members are more modest. The proposed bill raises the base pay of an E-5, with over six years, $5.88 to $250.88.

This proposed legislation implements President Johnson's recommendations in his FY65 budget message to Congress concerning the need to keep military pay rates in line with private industry.

The new bill does not raise retirement pay for personnel now on the retired list.

Officers in grades O-1, 2 and 3 with over four years active service as enlisted members would, in some cases, receive more pay than their contemporaries without enlisted service.

In Grade Requirements Announced By HQMC

Time in grade requirements qualifying staff sergeants, sergeants, and corporals to take the April General Military Subjects Test have been posted by Headquarters Marine Corps.

The April GMST will be the first promotion exam administered since last August and will be the last one this fiscal year.

Normally, three testing periods are established for each fiscal year, but the mid-summer exams produced such weird results that the scores were cancelled and the whole system was reviewed and revised.

Declared eligible to take the next GMST's are: Staff Sergeants whose date of rank is not later than June 30, 1961 and who had at least 30 months in pay grade E-6 by Dec. 31, 1963.

Sergeants with a date of rank not later than July 31, 1961, with at least 29 months in pay grade E-5 by Dec. 31, 1963.

Corporals with a date of rank not later than Aug. 31, 1962 who, by March 31, 1964 will have completed at least 19 months in grade E-4.

In figuring eligibility, Marines are allowed to count "satisfactory service" in their present or higher grade. Service during a previous enlistment counts too provided a man hasn't been promoted during a present enlistment.

BLT 3/2 Returns

After spending nearly six months in the Mediterranean, the 3rd Battalion, 2d Marines is slated to arrive here Wednesday, Feb. 26.

Dependents may meet the returnees at a noontime reception in the unit's messhall, Building 226.

The battalion is scheduled to disembark at Morehead City in the morning of Feb. 26 and be returned to the 3/2 Headquarters area. Arrival time is expected to be about noon.

The First Battalion, Eight Marines relieved 3/2 as the Med. Battalion Landing Team on Feb. 6. The returning BLT engaged in various amphibious exercises and visited ports in Malta, Spain, France, Italy and Greece.

Coffee Bars To Operate Over Holiday Weekend

Coffee bars for military and civilians alike will again be operating during the forthcoming Washington Birthday weekend.

The bars, sponsored by the second Division Traffic Section, will be located at three sites within a 50 mile radius of Camp Lejeune.

Hours of operation for the coffee bars will be from 6 p. m. February 23 to 6 a. m. February 24.

One of the coffee bars will be set up at the intersection of highways 70 and 11 in Kinston. Another will be established at Warsaw, two miles east on Highway 24, and the third will be set up at Wilmington seven miles north on Highway 17.

A unit from Headquarters Battalion will operate the Kinston coffee bar. The 2d Recon Battalion will be responsible for the one at Wilmington, and the 2d Anti-Tank Battalion, the one at Warsaw.

Hot coffee, doughnuts and cookies will be served at all coffee bars.

Last year, the coffee bars dispensed thousands of cups of coffee to road weary travelers, statistics disclose that since 58, when the coffee bars were first started, there have been fatal or serious injury accidents within a 50-mile radius of the bars during their period operation.

According to statistics, most accidents occur during the first 50-100 miles of a trip because of driver fatigue.

Drivers are pushing their cars, and themselves, so that they can end their journey.

Compilations show that most accidents occurred on Highways 258, between Camp Lejeune and Kinston; Highway 17 South, between the base and Wilmington; Highway 24 between the main gate and Swansboro.

Virginia Coffee Bars

Personnel who are planning to motor North during the forthcoming holiday weekend are invited to stop for a coffee break at the Triangle Fire Station, Triangle, Va.

The station is located .5 mile north of the Iwo Jima Statue entrance to Marine Corps Schools, Quantico.

Free coffee will be served to any driver beginning at 8 p. m. Thursday and Friday, 20 and 21 Feb. and 6 p. m. on Sunday, Feb. 23. The station will be open all night on each of these dates.

The service is offered by the Dumfries-Triangle Rescue Squad in the interest of traffic safety.

WO and Mrs. F. E. Daubenspeck wish to express their thanks and appreciation to the Camp Lejeune Fire Dept., Base Housing Office, ITR Motor Transport Co., and all other persons and organizations who assisted them during and after their fire, Sunday, February 16.

Alert MT Marine Saves Two Lives

Two off-duty, sleeping sentries of the 2d Motor Transport Battalion, 2d Marine Division, undoubtedly owe their lives to the actions of a member of the Battalion guard.

The guard's presence of mind at the scene of a fire definitely prevented destruction of the Battalion guard office and billeting area during the early hours of February 6.

PFC David Fortuno, Company "B", 2d MT Bn., was walking a midnight to 4 a. m. post in the Battalion motor pool and at 2 a. m. noticed a fire had started in the guard office.

Fortuno immediately entered the building and, as kerosene flames raged to the ceiling, awoke the two sleeping, off-duty sentries.

The 22-year old Marine then ran to an adjacent shop building and grabbed two fire extinguishers. He re-entered the burning building and contained the blaze until the arrival of the Base Fire Department.

PFC. Fortuno was awarded a Meritorious Mast for "outstanding performance of duty," by 2d MT Bn., Commanding Officer, Lt. Col. E. K. Vickers, Jr., on February 14.

SENTRY SAVES LIVES—PFC David Fortuno, Co. "B", 2d MT Bn., 2d Marine Division, receives congratulations and a Meritorious Mast from his battalion commanding officer, Lt. Col. E. K. Vickers, Jr., on February 14. While walking guard on February 6, Fortuno was credited with saving the lives of two sleeping, off-duty sentries and preventing a building from being destroyed by fire.

☆ Profile ☆

Chief Warrant Officer C. W. Keeton

Chief Warrant Officer Charles W. Keeton now 55 years old, nears the completion of 30 years active service in the Marine Corps carrying vivid personal memories of the battle for and the fall of Corregidor in 1942.

Presently serving as Officer-in-Charge of Clothing Cash Sales, Gunner Keeton began his Marine Corps career as a private in 1934 at the age of 24. After completing boot training at Parris Island, S. C., he entered the quartermaster field (now known as supply) and has served in this field ever since.

In 1937, the Gunner went up the ranks to corporal and 1938 saw two further jumps for him as he climbed to the rank of staff sergeant with the expansion of the Marine Corps.

Transferring from East to West Coast Warrant Officer Keeton saw pre-war duty in Shanghai, China with the 4th Marine Regiment in 1939. In late September 1949, while China was getting hotter, he went along with the 4th Marines to Olongopo, Philippines.

When the Japanese opened their attack on the Philippine Islands, Gunner Keeton was then a quartermaster sergeant (equal to today's gunnery sergeant), serving in supply of the 1st battalion of the regiment. Under General MacArthur's orders, the 4th pulled out of Olongopo to take up defense positions on Corregidor.

It was during the final stage of the fight for Corregidor that Warrant Officer Keeton, wounded in both legs, the face and left arm, became a prisoner-of-war. The gunner was out of the active war but the fight for survival was just beginning, as he had to spend 44 months in various POW camps prior to his liberation in September 1945.

The last 18 years of the gunner's career have been served as a warrant officer, beginning with his commission to WO-1 in December 1945.

Gunner Keeton's story may not be unusual for those who consider themselves as the "old Corps," but it does emphasize the fact that no matter what duty a man may perform, whether it is a plump and easy job or work of an infantryman, when the time comes and the chips are down, it will be every available Marine and his rifle, on the line, defending his country and all it stands for.

ECC Offers New Course On Community Relations

Education 334Q, Home-School-Community Relations, will be offered by East Carolina College at the Brewster school, during the winter term. Education 334G is a three quarter hour senior-graduate course. The course may be used for renewal of "A" and "G" teaching certificates. A student must have earned a minimum of 144 quarter hours of undergraduate credit or hold a B. A., B. S., or M. A. degree to be eligible for credit.

There will be ten class sessions held on Monday nights. The class will begin on Monday, February 24, 1964, and will end on Monday, April 27, 1964. Each session will be three hours in length.

Tuition for Education 334G will be $27.00, plus the cost of the textbook.* An enrollment of at least 16 people will be needed for the class.

Registration and the first class meeting for Education 334G will be held at the Brewster School, February 24, 1964, at 6:30 p. m. Dr. Ralph Brimley will be the instructor for the course.

For further information contact the Extension Division, Box 307, East Carolina College, Greenville, North Carolina.

*A $3.00 late registration fee will be charged if a student registers or pays his tuition after the first class meeting. No registrations are permitted later than the second class meeting.

TOP GRAD—Capt. G. Sellers, 3d Bn., 10th Marines, accepts his certificate as the outstanding student of the Officers Embarkation course from Lt. Col. P. A. Davis during a graduation ceremony January 31. The 2d Marine Division officer posted a 98.4 mark for the four-week course at the Landing Force Training Unit, Little Creek, (Va.) Naval Amphibious Base. He topped 61 other officers from various commands of the Marine Corps and Navy. (Photo by SSgt. Frank Saldana.)

Raider Assn. Meet At Quantico Sat.

The 16th Annual reunion of the Edson's Raiders Association will be held at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., Saturday, Feb. 22.

About 100 former Raiders and their families are expected to attend. Reunion headquarters will be established at the Staff NCO Club in Diamond Hall.

The Raiders were the Marine Corps World War II specialized combat force and were named for their first commanding officer, Lieutenant Colonel Merritt A. (Red Mike) Edson.

The Raiders were formed in Feb. 1942 from volunteer Marines. It was a lightly equipped fast-moving unit designed primarily to wage guerrilla-like offensive warfare. Edson was chosen as the first leader of the unit because he was regarded by Marine Corps officials as a master mind of deceptive warfare.

He died in 1955 and Edson Hall here at Marine Corps Schools, which houses Communications Officers School, was dedicated to his memory.

Some 700 former Raiders belong to the association which was formed in 1949. The senior former Raider now serving at Marine Corps Schools is Brigadier General Lewis W. Walt, Director of the Landing Force Development Center.

After luncheon Saturday at Diamond Hall, the group will go to Edson Hall for Memorial Services before returning to Diamond Hall for a business meeting.

A dinner will be held that evening in the Staff NCO Club followed by a dance for the reunition.

Colonel F. C. LaHue, Marine Corps Schools, G-1, is the Reunion Chairman for the event.

Hours For Utility Uniform

The utility uniform may be worn during working hours or when in a duty status after normal working hours, in the Camp Cafeteria, Hostess House Snack Bar, Area Barber Shops, Cleaning and Pressing Shop, Alteration Shop, Cobbler Shop, and Commissary Store.

It may also be worn in the Central Exchange, Building No. 84, including all facilities therein, and Area Exchanges from 0830 to 1730 Monday through Friday.

In addition to the foregoing, the utility uniform may be worn in Area Exchanges at any time when personnel concerned are in a duty status.

The utility uniform will not be worn at any time in the Hostess House Dining Room, the Chinese Room or the Steak House."

The date for the "Bravo-64" GMST is April 3.

Passing the GMST unlocks the promotion gates for Marines in these three pay grades. Without a passing grade in the GMST or a hard to get waiver, staff sergeants don't stand a chance with selection boards weighing their qualifications for promotion.

For corporals, whether they pass or fail the GMST counts heavily in their cutting scores, on which their promotions are based.

Headquarters also confirmed the previously published convening dates for the 1964 selection boards.

The board to pick new E-9s and E-8s will meet April 6, that to select new gunnery sergeants will start work June 15 and the one which will choose new staff sergeants will begin Aug. 17.

TRIPLE PUNCH—The combined fighter and attack capabilities of the 3d Marine Aircraft Wing at the Marine Corps Air Station El Toro and the 2d MAW at Cherry Point includes the F-4B "Phantom" (bottom), F-8E "Crusader" (upper left) and A-4E "Skyhawk." The variety of weapons the planes can deliver, from small bombs to large air-to-air rockets, is shown with each aircraft.

GLOBE Celebrates Twenty Years Of Service To Lejeune Marines

This week the GLOBE comes to you with a 20-year history of proud service to Camp Lejeune Marines and families.

First published Feb. 23, 1944, the GLOBE, the newspaper for Marines, of Marines and by Marines, had the mission of entertaining and informing Camp Lejeune Marines of the happenings around them both here and elsewhere. Although staffed with different personnel today, its original mission is still maintained with each weekly edition.

Prior to the days of the GLOBE, the New River Pioneer served to keep the personnel informed, beginning as a mimeographed paper Oct. 31, 1941. Nearly a year later, the Pioneer was transformed into a newspaper similar in the format of the paper you read today. The Pioneer's first edition was dedicated to the 1st Marine Division, the first Marine unit to pioneer the wilderness that is presently Camp Lejeune, prior to their campaign in the Solomon Islands.

During its 20 years of weekly service to Camp Lejeune Marines, the GLOBE has been published under 20 Base Commanders and has worn out 34 editors, four of whom served at "the desk" twice. Its editors have ranged in rank from private to 1st lieutenant.

Those who read that first GLOBE 20 years ago may recall that the Women's Reserve (present Women Marines) was celebrating its first birthday, the War Bond Drive was going strong at Camp Lejeune, the photo of Marines in action on Namur Island, Kwajalein Atoll, in the Marshalls and that the Women Reserves were going through their boot training at Montford Point and that the Corps' Commandant, Lt. Gen. A. Vandegrift, spent four days inspecting the camp.

As the processes of printing improved, the GLOBE is printed through the latest form of printing processes—photo-offset, giving it more versatility for better appearance in layout and makeup. Over the years, reader suggestions have often been received and frequently put to use, improving the paper even more to the readers' liking.

Throughout its two decades of service, the GLOBE has continually strived to perform its mission well and many times has been rewarded for its successful performance. Annual Journalism Awards for Marine Corps publications, the highest award in Marine Corps journalism, was established in 1953 but was recently discontinued. During the years it was in effect, however, the GLOBE received this award on three occasions—in 1955, '56 and '59. In addition to these, the Department of Defense Quarterly Award has been presented to the GLOBE more than half a dozen times. Two American Heritage contest awards have been won by THE GLOBE, the latest just last year for its work during the 1962-63 contest.

The GLOBE opens its 21st year with a proud history of service and accomplishment.

DEMONSTRATION FOR SECRETARY NAVY—The Honorable Paul H. Nitze, left, Secretary of the Navy, rides in an amphibian tractor driven by Cpl. R. L. Costa of 2d Amphibian Tractor Bn., Force Troops, during a demonstration by component units of Force Troops held at the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Va., on January 21.

Elements Of FT Units Demonstrate For SecNav

Elements of Force Troops, Atlantic, took part in a demonstration for the Honorable Paul H. Nitze, Secretary of the Navy, on Jan. 21 at the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Va.

The purpose of the demonstration was to show the Secretary the capability of tracked vehicle support provided by the Navy-Marine Corps team during an amphibious landing.

Participating Force Troops units were parts of the 2d Tank

Bn., 2d Amphibian Tractor Bn., and the 2d Field Artillery Group which operated off the landing ship tank USS Lorraine County, of Amphibious Group 4, Squadron 10 at Little Creek.

For the demonstration, six tanks were provided by the 2d Plt., Alpha Co., 2d Tank Bn.; six amphibian tractors by the 3d Plt., Alpha Co., 2d Amphibian Tractor Bn., and two eight-inch tracked howitzers by the 2d 8" Howitzer Battery, 2d Field Artillery Group.

MCAF Scheduled For Jet-Copters This Month

Marine Corps aviation will step into the new era of jet-powered helicopters this month, when Marine Observation Squadron-1 (VMO-1), receives the UH-1E helicopter.

The UH-1E manufactured by the Bell Corporation of Fort Worth, Texas is the first tactical turbine powered helicopter to be utilized by the Marine Corps.

Designed after its big brother, the Army HU-1B helicopter the UH-1E has one main rotor and an anti-torque tail rotor, both powered by a turbine engine.

The Bell chopper has its work cut out for it replacing the old reliable fixed wing OE-1 and OE-2 aircraft and the HOK "mixmaster" helicopter. With cruising speeds up to 120 knots the UH-1E can be flown by one pilot, but has the capacity for a co-pilot and crew member.

The versatile new chopper can transport three litter patients and a medical attendant, carry 7 troops, land in any type terrain or accomplish its primary mission of observation from altitudes in excess of 10,000 feet.

VMO-1 has been in the observation business for over twenty years. When VMO-1 was commissioned at Quantico, Va., on 27 Oct. 1943, as an artillery spotting division—originally VMO-155—it was the first organized squadron of its kind in Marine Corps History.

The squadron found themselves engaged in their first combat operation on Orute Peninsula. In doing so they became the first squadron to land on Guam during the war.

During the early part of April 1947, VMO-1 was transferred to the operational control of the Second Marine Division. In May, the squadron moved to Peterfield Point, Camp Lejeune, which is at present MCAF New River.

At present four members of VMO-1 are training at the Bell School in Fort Worth, Texas. A number of pilots are training at NAS Patuxent River, Md., while the remainder of the squadron will be transitioned when the new "birds" arrive.

Maj. Robert Tilly, Project Officer for the UH-1E said that, "The basic simplicity of this helicopter makes transitioning it rather easy."

The turbine powered engine will eliminate 90% of the trouble found with the old type aircraft, the biggest factor being that it minimizes the power control problems.

Although the helicopter is not an all weather aircraft, it is fully instrumented and can land in any terrain.

Air Facility Pilots Match Recon Skill

Evasive tactics utilized by the members of Marine Aircraft Group-26 were proven sound this past week. The aviators were pitted against the forces of the 2nd Reconnaissance Battalion, 2d Marine Division in a week long escape and evasion training exercise held at Camp Lejeune.

Playing the part of the aggressor force, the Recon unit patrolled the swampy area into which the helicopter crews were dropped.

If captured the crews were placed in compounds and subjected to harassing procedures in an attempt to gain pertinent information which might aid the Recon unit in further captures.

The pilots and crew men were to spend the night in the area before proceeding to predetermined helicopter pick-up zones for recovery.

If the helicopter was shot down in a recovery attempt, the downed crews chances of rescue were significantly reduced. Therefore, all precautions to ensure a safe, un molested landing and departure for the "chopper" were taken by the people on the ground before signalling the aircraft that the area is clear for pickup.

The results proved the value of this type training, for in the course of the week long operation only five persons were captured of the seventy-five who deployed into the area. One of the captured managed to escape again.

Col. K. L. Reusser, commanding officer of Marine Aircraft Group-26 added impetus to the exercise by personally participating, after issuing a challenge to the Recon units to catch him. They did not.

The Marine Story

Beginning February 12, 1964, the Mutual Broadcasting System will air a series of 13 Marine Corps radio programs entitled, "The Marine Story," produced by the Division of Information, Headquarters Marine Corps. The show will dramatize events in Marine Corps history, personalities of the Marine Corps today, and the use of equipment such as the Ontos. Mutual will broadcast the program on its nationwide network between 5:55 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. EST every Wednesday.

NEW MARINE UH-1E JET-POWERED HELICOPTERS

TSGT. SUH WON KIM, a Korean Marine, who is presently going to Engineer Equipment Chief's School, Courthouse Bay, studies the technical manual for equipment he is being taught to maintain there. Upon completing the 24-week course Sgt. Suh Won Kim will go back to Korea where he will use the training received to instruct the Korean Marines.

Our First President Was Truly A Man's Man

We all know that George Washington's Birthday is a national holiday — an extra day off for many of us. But before you take off on that long weekend, why not ask yourself how much you know about Washington, other than that he was the first president of our country.

Historians once pictured Washington as a man who was almost perfect in everything he did. Stories about his honesty and strength grew into legends. They set up George Washington as the example for all men to follow, but, in doing it, they made him seem a cold and unfeeling person, almost too nearly perfect to be real.

A closer study of his life shows that Washington was a man of great warmth with strong feelings of humanity.

His record as a military leader is perhaps one of the best ways to illustrate this.

As Commander-in-Chief of the first American Army, Washington worked long, weary days and nights to make soldiers of school-boys, farmers and businessmen.

He used all his military knowledge and personal strength to defeat forces that were often stronger and better trained than his own.

Through the darkest days of the War of Independence, Washington was courageous and full of hope for victory. At Valley Forge, he kept up the spirits of his men through a long, bitter winter without sufficient food, clothing or shelter. He was plagued by the efforts of jealous commanders in other parts of the country to destroy his authority and have him removed from command. His army was often placed in extreme jeopardy by a Congress which had no real power over the states it governed.

Historians say that Washington did more than any other man toward winning the Revolutionary War. But he didn't do it by being a cold, unfeeling military strategist. He did it by sheer force of will, a deep desire for freedom, and a warm devotion to the men who served with him. These are the traits which we in the Armed Forces might best reflect upon in observing his birthday.

Chaplain's Corner

The wonders of God's creation has been a source of awe and inspiration in every era of man's history. This sense of wonder has been particularly significant when man has been able to relate what he has seen or experienced to the creative power of God.

David, the shepherd boy, was also aware of the wonders of the universe around him. As he spent many days and nights tending his father's sheep on the Judean hillsides he observed the splendors of changing seasons, birds in flight, the rising sun — in it all he saw the hand of God.

As David stood in awe before the things God did, he was most impressed by the fact that in spite of man's relative insignificance, the greatest of God's creations was man himself.

David expressed this feeling in verses 3 and 4 of the 8th Psalm: "When I consider the heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained; What is man, that thou art mindful of him and the son of man, that thou visitest him?"

As David saw the things that God had made, no doubt he must have observed that all things had been created to serve some purpose in God's plan.

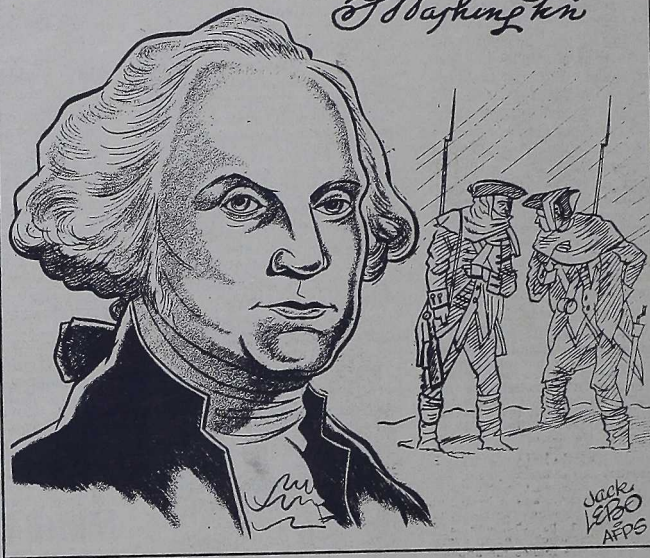

If a plant, a sheep, a river, the sun, all have some purpose in their existence, surely man, the greatest of God's creation, must have a reason for existence!

As a part of this greatest of God's creation, have you discovered your reason for existing? In finding God you can. Not to know Him is merely to exist. To know Him is to live.

No Pass, No Talk

Salesmen, Solicitors To Gov't Quarters Must Be Cleared By Provost Marshal

"Sir, I'm answering your card requesting a free Atlas," says the suave talking, nattily dressed businessman at your trailer door.

Fifteen minutes later (longer if your sales resistance is particularly high that night) he leaves with your signature on a contract to pay his company $488.99 in 24 easy monthly payments and you're left wondering what in the world you're going to do with a 24 volume set of Dr. Pillslinger's Medical Encyclopedia.

If you did in fact send in the card asking the salesman to bring you the "free" Atlas, that's your hard luck.

However, Base regulations require that all solicitors aboard the Base be cleared with the Provost Marshal's office and all personnel are urged to report any salesman or solicitors who come to Base Housing uninvited.

MOVIE REVIEWS

BLUE HAWAII

Filmed partly in Hawaii starring Elvis Presley and Joan Blackman. As usual Elvis is surrounded by pretty girls but his thoughts are only for Miss Blackman. He plays the part of a romantic Hawaiian tourist guide assigned to a group of impressionable school girls on vacation. Misunderstanding and complications crop up in his love life, but all eventually is resolved with the guide and his true-love forming their own tourist agency.

MARILYN

The title of this movie explains the story. A movie in memory of the late Marilyn Monroe produced by Richard Zanuck and narrated by Rock Hudson. The career of the late actress with highlights of her life and clips from her motion pictures, climaxed by scenes from her last, uncompleted film, "Something's Got to Give."

VERTIGO

A thriller involving a young detective, James Stewart with a neurotic fear of height and a beautiful but unhappy young wife, Kim Novak. Directed by the one and only Alfred Hitchcock, who in every one of his movies makes his appearance somewhere. Kim Novak plays a double part to add to the mystery of this exciting thriller.

THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF THE BROTHERS GRIMM

This biographical drama has no cat stars. It deals with the lives of the devoted Grimm brothers who authored the immortal Grimm Fairy Tales, and incorporates several of their top yarns. This movie is well recommended for the whole family.

WHERE THE BOYS ARE

An extremely frank comedy, with a bit of stark drama, concerning a quartet of co-eds among the 20,000 collegians who invade Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for two weeks of frenzied frolic each Easter. The girls pick this site because that is "Where the Boys Are." Stars are Dolores Hart, George Hamilton, Yvette Mimieux, Jim Hutton and Connie Francis, who does a bit of singing.

PALM SPRINGS WEEKEND

Starring Troy Donahue and Connie Stevens with a cast of others. Location of the picture is Palm Springs with a host of high school and college students spending a weekend with nothing better to do than create havoc, with such high jinks as a swimming pool full of detergent suds, a donnybrook brawl at a wealthy home, and bumper tag with convertibles. Also Troy Donahue will make his singing debut with "Live Young." The movie is mostly aimed at the teenage set but should be fun for the whole family.

BLT 3/8 Learns The

On January 9, Battalion Landing Team 3/8, commanded by Lt. Col. D. E. Lownds, landed at the mouth of the Rio Chagres river, Fort Sherman, Panama Canal Zone, to commence one week's training in Jungle Operations.

This marked a double first--the first time since World War II that a large group from the 2d Marine Division has taken part in jungle warfare operations, and, the first time such a large group of students has attended the Jungle Operations School.

To many of the men in the BLT, it was the first time they would come face to face with an enemy that would give no quarter, and ask no quarter.

start of a fast-paced week of intensive classroom instruction and practical application which would teach them that the jungle can be a home.

One of the first steps of the Jungle Operations Committee (JOC), is to inform each man about the jungle and help him erase false fears and misconceptions that the minute he steps into the "brush" a boa constrictor will crush and eat his body, or that beneath every large leaf hanging close to the ground is a poisonous snake whose strike causes instant death.

This period of instruction is designed to psychologically condition the student and build up his confidence.

treat them. They also learned how to wear clothing to provide the most body ventilation.

Next the students received classes on plants and foods in the Tropical Gardens of Fort Sherman. This enabled each man to see the ripe fruit and the brush, tree or vine it grew on. They examined fruits at various stages of growth and were given opportunities to taste them. They also studied food substitutes--fruits and roots which take the place of potatoes, sweet potatoes and other foods.

After the class on fruits and average--especially when a live animal is displayed behind a tray of meat one of its kin is filling.

It was at the meat station that one young Marine was taking great delight in treating his stomach to a fine tropical meal when he reached for some monkey meat. Just as he was about to put it in his mouth he happened to look beyond the tray and spotted a monkey looking back at him. After a few moments of silently eye-balling each other the Marine replaced the meat on the tray and walked off. The monkey, seeming to know what had taken place,

Jungle Living

It was an enemy about which they knew practically nothing.

Some of the older, more seasoned, battle-marked veterans of World War II recalled the similarities of this jungle and jungles they had faced in the Pacific. For this minority of the BLT, the jungle was not as eerie as rumors would have them believe for they had learned to live with, in, and from the sinister looking trees and plants which formed a virtually impenetrable barrier before them.

To all men of the BLT, however, this first day was the

In the Terrain Appreciation class the men learn the various types of terrain and vegetation they can expect to encounter in any jungle in the world. They also learn how jungles are formed and in what parts of the world they can be found. His study here is especially beneficial since Fort Sherman contains 55 square miles of some of the finest jungle terrain in the world--upland jungle, swamp jungle, savannah grasslands and secondary growth.

The men also received instruction on heat effects on the body, major heat illnesses, their causes and how to avoid and foods, the students visited a fruit station where they sampled coconut, papaya, finger bananas, regular bananas, etc.

From the fruit station they went to the food substitute station to sample yuca, plantain, taro and other items. The third station, the food station, is the one that separated the men from the boys. There the men sampled such delicacies as monkey, sea turtle, coati mundi, boa constrictor, iguana or niqui and other meats.

To many persons it doesn't seem difficult to eat such fine foods, but the way the school serves them it takes a bit more intestinal fortitude than followed the Marine with his eyes--all the time nodding his head.

During the Tropical Gardens class the men were also shown how to kill, prepare and cook or smoke small game.

Another class, one of the most popular, was Snakes and Animals. Probably because of each student's lack of information about the subject content, the class captivates the audience.

A natural fear or dislike of snakes and animals is widespread and breaking down this fear is a major step in conditioning Marines to fight in the "brush" regions. This is accomplished by introducing the students to most of the many palm found in Central American jungles. Following the preliminary students toured the JOC to get a closer look and attempt to handle some of the animals.

The Jungle Living class taught the importance of first aid, sanitation and hygiene. Students learn how to achieve the maximum in their every day equipment.

Instructors (all Army experts) are most anxious to extoll the use, care and value of the machete--a valuable tool and weapon in the jungle.

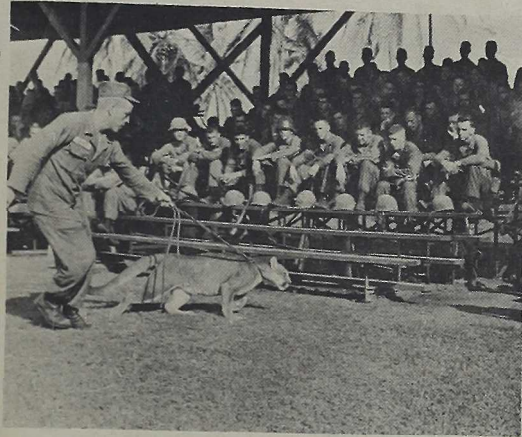

In addition, during the Living class, Marines are taught to build jungles, if the or bohios. It is necessary for each man know how to build a bohio, and what type of poles and materials must be used in the construction of a bohio. A minimum of engineering is required, but a maximum of ingenuity is necessary to build a bohio in the jungle for the proper use.

Each pole for a bohio is carefully selected, cut to size and tied with vine, and then fire ants living in the tree's hollow center.

It is impossible for anyone making a bohlo out of an ant tree to get a night's rest, and it's equally doubtful that he'll get any rest the following day when he puts on his uniform--fire ants have a very painful bite.

Next the students received a class on Ropes and Knots. There they learned which knots would be most effective for jungle use and how to string ropes necessary for travel and survival. These are very important in the obstacle crossing instruction ment and was easily mastered by the student.

Another obstacle was the less than 50 foot in width water hazard. This type of obstacle is crossed by using a single strand rope bridge. As the name implies, the bridge was constructed by anchoring a single rope on both sides of the stream, then having each student make the crossing by using the "commando crawl"—that is, to lie flat on the rope and pull himself across. Here, balance is a major factor in whether or not the man will make it across in the same position as he started out.

Obstacles of 50 to 100 feet in required two ponchos, 36 inches of cut brush and a light frame.

After the Marines received their first day's instruction they returned to their living areas where they put much of their newly gained knowledge to use by reconstructing their bohios, building living conveniences and learning to identify and enjoy tropical vegetation and animals.

Like any Marine command post, the men found ways to reduce their work load and temporarily forget the day's stress and strain.

This source of relief was evidenced when members of Company "K", 3/8 constructed an elaborate palm frond approach to their living area.

light paths through the living areas.

On the second day the Marines were up before dawn and hiked from their CP area to the classrooms for more instruction.

During the next three days the men were engaged in conducting squad size jungle tactics.

It has been said that in the jungle a man cannot walk a straight line distance of one-quarter of a mile without having to cover at least one mile of ground. This is because of the heavy vegetation.

For the last two days of training, the men of the BLT were taken into the jungle for a two

19th Hole

By BOB SPENCER

Golf Etiquette

In the absence of special or local rules, twosomes, threesomes, or foursomes should have precedence of and be entitled to pass any other kind of match. A single player has no standing, and should give way to a match of any kind.

Any match playing a whole round is entitled to pass a match playing a shorter round.

If a match fails to keep its place on the course and lose more than one clear hole on the players in front, it should allow the match following to pass.

The tip of the week concerns guarding against your over-swing.

First, you should have somebody check your swing or check it yourself.

If you can see the clubface out of the corner of your left eye when you reach the top of the backswing, you are definitely over-swinging.

If your hands are above the level of your head, you likewise are overdoing it. To cure this fault, brace the right side during the backswing. With the knees flexed and the weight evenly distributed on the insides of both feet, bring the club back with a firm left arm, transferring about half the weight that is on the left to the right. Thus, at the top, approximately 75 percent of the weight will be on the right side. As the weight is shifted, concentrate on keeping the right knee flexed at all times.

When the right side receives this weight without stiffening, the body will then be in a position to deliver maximum power into the impact area during the downswing.

If, however, the right knee stiffens, it becomes difficult to control the weight shift and an over-swing could very well be the consequence.

Another point to remember when over-swinging is the right elbow. It should always point to the ground at the top of the backswing. If it goes beyond this point, then you know it is time for adjustments.

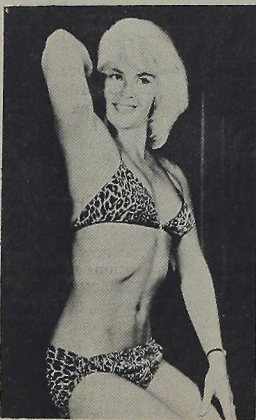

Congratulations are in order for Lt. Col. G. T. McLean, Assistant G-1, 2d Marine Division for sinking the season's first hole-in-one, Saturday on Course No. 1. The colonel's "once-in-a-lifetime" shot was holed after 20 years of play.

TV Pro Grapplers Arrive Here Feb. 27

Wrestling, one of the oldest forms of combat of which we have any record will be featured at the Geotge Memorial Field House, Thursday evening February 27th at 8 p. m.

Penny Banner

Sponsored by Base Special Services the evening's entertainment will include a main event, a women's catch-as-catch-can event and a tag team match.

Professional TV wrestling stars will be featured in these events.

For openers Tommy O'Toole, weighing 242 pounds from Phoenix, Arizona will tangle with Angelo Martinelli, a speedy, skillful individual whose spirit of conquest does not over-shadow his wrestling ability.

In the semi-finals, looking fit to kill in and out of the ring, Penny Banner, the number three women's professional wrestler in the United States will be pitted against comely Cora Combs, whose competitive spirit coupled with her attractive appearance should make for an interesting evening's entertainment. Penny Banner, a native of St. Louis, Mo., weighs in at an attractive 138 pounds while her opponent Cora Combs, a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., trips the scales at a well-proportioned 135 pounds.

In the main event there will be an Australian Tag Team Match with John Smith and Ivan Kameroff grappling against Sid Jones and Alex Medina. The combined weight of Ivan Kameroff and John Smith is a comfortable 478 pounds. Sid Jones, a local Houston, Texas, scrapper weighs 234 and his partner Alex Medina will make up the weight difference. This event will be the best of three falls with an hour time limit.

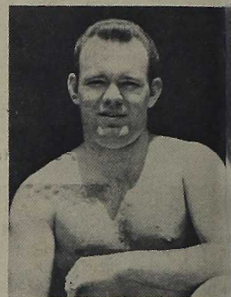

Tommy O'Toole

Ivan Kameroff John Smith

Tag Team wrestling owing its rigorous nature provides fine mental tonic to development of an aggressive attitude and it excels means of acquiring physical efficiency, coordination and effective use of the body.

Sid Jones

The matches are open to public and tickets are currently on sale at the Field House, $3.75 on a first come first served basis. Those unable to advance tickets may purchase them at the gymnasium door the night of the match.

Camp Lejeune's Shorin-Do Karate will hold a demonstration of the finer points of Karate between the wrestling matches to highlight the night's entertainment.

Saddle Club Meet

The Onslow County Saddle Club, newly formed club for both English and Western riders, recently held a meeting to discuss plans for the coming year. The program includes dressage, cross-country, and endurance riding.

MT, 1/6 Undefeated in Div. Basketball Tournament

Quintets representing Motor Transport and 1/6 were the only unbeaten teams left in the six-team Division Intramural Double Elimination Basketball Tournament Tuesday.

Highlighting opening action, along with the two leading the elimination of a pre-tournament co-favorite AT Battalion, MT and 1/6 had completed regular season play undefeated. MT won their first loss to Motor Transport 69-55 and 1/6 by 1/2, 60-58.

Motor Transport and 1/6 were slated to meet Tuesday in the winner's bracket. The loser was to play in the consolation bracket Wednesday night.

The championship game is slated for 1 p.m., Thursday, in the power bracket winner cops that game, another match will be held at 1 p.m. Monday, in the Base Final.

Motor Transport won the tourney with an exciting 59-47 victory over 1/6. Marv Franklin garnered all seven points in the final quarter. The winners after the clubs were deadlocked in regulation play. Motor Transport scored 25 points to lead the scoring in the final quarter with 17 and Franklin with 13. Ulysses paced 2/10 with 18 and 13 points.

and final quarters highlighted Motor Transport's triumph. Franklin scored in 24 points in the second quarter for the 69-55 triumph. Franklin, who balanced scoring attack with 18 points, was joined by Virgil Cameron who scored 17 and Virgil Cameron who scored 17. Virgil Cameron scored 20 points for AT in the opening tie and topped 1/2, 54-50. Williams and John Jackson hit 1/2 to lead the winners and John Prichard scored 1/2. The team, 1/2, had earlier downed 2/6 60-58. Walter Johnson, Prichard and AT win with 17, 13 and 19 points. Vernon Foster counted with 15 at the season's end.

Motor Transport saw 2/6 knock 2/10 out of the action. The tournament winner and runner-up will advance to the March tourney in March.

Marines Lose 2, Take 1 In Week's Net Action

In a two game engagement with Quantico the Camp Lejeune basketball team dropped both contests with scores of 95-90 and 88-72 Feb. 10-11 in the MCS Larson Gym at Quantico, Va.

By taking three out of four contests with Lejeune, Quantico earned the right to defend their 1963 All-Marine title in Hawaii Feb. 17-22.

Brian Sheehan of Quantico racked up 38 points with Dick Peloff of Quantico giving him a helping hand by tallying 21, in the first game.

Bill Jenkins of Lejeune staged a one man rally cutting Quantico's 22 point spread to 95-83 with 1:20 remaining. The six foot Marine personally accounted for 18 markers pulling his squad to within striking distance until the deadly trio of Peloff, Sheehan and Slattery found their shooting range.

In the final three minutes Lejeune held Quantico's second team to four points, while they gradually whittled down the score to 95-90.

In the second game the Quantico Marines had little trouble with their 11th East Coast Interservice Conference Court victory as they downed Lejeune 99-72.

In the opening minutes of the first half the clash looked as though it would be a neck and neck battle. Jim McGee swished the first bucket of the game putting Lejeune ahead 2-0. After 40 seconds had elapsed, the score was tied 4-4. Slattery, Hall and Peloff shattered the knot by collecting seven points in two minutes throwing Quantico into the lead to stay.

Half time score showed Quantico leading 44-43. But in the second half Quantico came back with double the fury and aggressiveness that they displayed in the previous stanza and in five minutes of play bombarded Lejeune establishing a 56-40 vantage. With 3:02 remaining Quantico substituted the second string and the bench squad turned in the last 8 points as Quantico streaked to a 88-72 win.

Marines Down Edgewood Arsenal

The Camp Lejeune basketball team trounced Edgewood Arsenal 92-76 here Thursday night in a contest in which every player on both teams, except two, broke into the scoring column.

Skeet Team Wins At SJ Air Base

The Base Skeet Team traveled to Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base on February 15 and 16, 1964, and competed in the Seymour-Johnson Winter Open.

Individual honors won by members of the team are as follows.

High Over-All Champion--Major Ziegler.

410 gauge--Runner-up to Champion--Major Ziegler.

28 gauge--Runner-up to Champion--MGySgt Mull; AA Class Champion--Major Ziegler.

After a slow start in the first couple of minutes of the game Lejeune pulled ahead sparked by the sharpshooting of Charlie Dennis, Bill Gross and Jim McGee. At half-time Lejeune had built up a 50-32 edge over the Army team.

With the game in no apparent danger, coach Joe Walsh sent most of the second team in to play the last five minutes of the first half, and almost all of the second.

Twenty of the 22 players who dressed for the game tallied before the battle was over.

Bob Abney for Lejeune although going scoreless for the game tightened up on defense and despite his 5-9 stature stole the ball frequently and got a lot of rebounds. He was a constant defensive threat to the Army netters.

High scorer for Edgewood Arsenal was Ralph Byrd with 23 points.

Lejeune Designated As Boxer's Training Camp

The Interservice Boxing Commission has designated Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N. C., as training camp for servicemen who will be competing in the Olympic Trials this spring for a berth on the Olympic boxing team.

Camp Lejeune had already been selected as the site for the Interservice Championship Boxing Tournament. In this three-day slug-fest the champions of all branches of service will come together to battle for the all-service titles. Winners of interservice titles will qualify for an Olympic trial.

The Interservice bouts will be held May 4-6. Winners of this tourney will remain here to train from May 10 to May 14. On May 15 the fighters will depart for New York City and the Olympic Trials. The trials will be held at the World Fairgrounds May 18-20.

Three Camp Lejeune Marines are in active contention for a shot at the Olympic Trials through the Amateur Athletic Union.

John Davis, Bill Mercedos, and Excel Calhoun recently won titles in the Carolinas AAUs, and by virtue of these wins will compete in the National AAUs at Las Vegas, Nevada, April 8-10. By winning National AAU titles these Marines would qualify for Olympic trials.

Another open door to the trials is via the Eastern or Western Regional Tryouts. The Eastern Olympic Tryouts will be held in Washington, D. C., April 23-25.

Base Keglers Form Intramural Play

H&SBn., Marine Corps Base opened their 1964 Intramural Battalion Bowling Tournament last week by selecting a bowling team from each company with an elimination "roll-off", to select their best bowlers to represent each company.

The turn-out was large and the pins flew as highest total pin fall determined the bowlers to represent their respective companies.

Intramural bowling will be held at the BOWLARENA, Jacksonville, N. C., and all games will start promptly at 1 p. m.

2nd FAG Wins 20th Straight FT Intramural Action

held Artillery Group won a clean sweep of the Force Intramural Basketball by bopping the 8th Engineers 76-64 last week. The 2nd FAG a record of 20 wins and no losses.

The scorers for 2d FAG were Anderson, with 23 points, and Gardner with 20. The Engineers were paced by coach with 17 points, followed by Jennie Morrow with 16. At half time, the score was tied at 36-36. Morrow, Engineers' sparkplug, had sixteen of his team's points until he had to leave the court with an injury before the end of the season.

The upset of the week was the 2d Tank Bn., which upended 8th Comm. with the score of 72-66. The Tankers have been rather quiet but since Christmas break, they have been knocking-off the com-

Marine Corps Reserve, from June 30, 1959 to July 31, 1963, has performed all duties assigned him in such an outstanding manner as to bring credit upon himself, the Marine Corps and the Marine Corps Reserve. He ac-been outstanding. He has demonstrated exceptional industry, judgment, and initiative in the performance of this duty.

He has been directly responsible for recruiting a number in excess of the present Company strength of 157 enlisted personnel. Due primarily to his efforts, this Company can boast of never missing its assigned or desired end strength. The caliber of men recruited has direct bearing on the record and performance of this unit.

International Wives' Club Plate Program On England

The International Wives Club will present a program on England, Friday, February 28, at 8 p. m. in the Lejeune Room, the Paradise Officers Club. Mrs. W. J. Van Ryzin, Capt. and Mrs. L. E. Hudson will be the speakers for this event. Major General and Mrs. W. J. Van Ryzin resided in London for three years, prior to their arrival at Camp Lejeune, during which time Mrs. Van Ryzin was Staff of CINCENL. Mrs. Van Ryzin will discuss her many experiences as an "American Wife" in London, including being in a typical London fog, meeting Prince Philip and enjoying the many charming English customs. Captain Hudson, RM is a Royal Marine. During his seventeen years of service with the Royal Marine Commando Brigade, he has served in Malta, Malaya, Suez Crisis as well as in England. He is currently on duty with the 2d Marine Division serving in the 2d Bn, 4th Marines and is the first company grade exchange officer between the Royal Marines and the US Marines. Capt. Hudson will talk about the role of the Royal Marines and about England.

Mrs. Hudson is formerly from Staffordshire, England, birthplace of Dr. Samuel Johnson. Although all of her family is from the British Isles, Mrs. Hudson also has a grandmother from Santa Barbara, Calif. Mrs. Hudson will answer questions concerning British customs to promote better understanding. The Hudsons have three children, Susan, seven years old, Kathryn, five years old, and Anthony, who became two years old this month.

The program will include slides, a display of pewter, English china and fabrics, copper pitchers formerly used for the enlisted men's daily run issue aboard British Navy ships as well as many other interesting objects and literature.

Mrs. G. I. Walker, chairman, requests members make reservations by noon, Wednesday, February 26 by calling: Mrs. R. L. Mulford 6-6144, Mrs. C. F. Redman 6-6414, Mrs. J. L. Hughes 4-4374, Mrs. J. E. Sundholm 346-9288.

Fun Exercise Club Meets At Pavilion

Do you like to exercise? All dependent ladies in the Camp Lejeune area are invited to join the Fun Exercise Group that meets at Marston Pavilion each Tuesday and Thursday from 9 to 11 a. m. The ladies do exercises like the "loose goose droop", "funny face squint", and the "rumples". The names may sound silly but no matter what the exercises are called the main thing is inches disappear.

Along with exercises the group joins in games of volleyball, ping-pong, and badminton. A nursery is provided at Marston Pavilion each time the group meets and is included in the nominal fee to join the group. If you are interested in fun and losing inches contact Mrs. Hart, ext. 22969 or Mrs. Boozler, ext. 22790.

Four 8th Comm Officers Complete Army School

Four officers of the 8th Communications Bn., Force Troops, completed a two-week course of instruction on the Radio Propagation Agency with the U. S. Army Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J., February 7.

The men who received the instruction are: Capt. C. A. McCluskey, of Comm. Co.; Capt. B. E. Pafford, of Hq. Co.; Capt. R. R. Hull, of the Montford Point Communications School and 1st Lt. J. E. Arweller, of Radio Relay Co.

In the course of instruction the four officers were given tours of the Army's Satellite Communications Agency and the Research and Development Laboratories.

The first week of the school was devoted to radio propagation in which the students received information on selecting the maximum usable frequency along with the frequency of optimum traffic to ensure the best possible radio communications. They also learned how the Agency compiled their charts for aiding all radio communications.

During the second week they studied antenna operation and how to compute the proper array pattern for receiving and sending the best possible signals.

Lt. J. P. Poerschke (Mo-Synodluth) (7-3217)...Lutheran. Communicants' classes are open to boys and girls who are in the seventh grade or above and may be registered at the opening class or by telephoning one of the above chaplains. All classes will secure at 5 p.m. each Friday.

USNH Announces New Clinic Hours

Medical service is provided military dependents on a first-come, first-served basis. Acute medical emergencies and acutely ill patients are taken out of rotation to be seen as quickly as possible.

Afternoons are reserved primarily for follow-up appointments. Emergencies are seen at any time during the day or night.

After regular working hours, and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, however, it is possible to staff the out-patient clinics with only a limited number of physicians and hospital corpsman.

The number is adequate to take care of genuine emergencies. Persons who present themselves with nonemergent medical conditions after regular clinic hours place an unwarranted work load on the assigned staff, and may impede the care of seriously ill individuals.

The following out-patient schedule is published for information:

ADULT GENERAL MEDICINE—8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

PEDIATRICS—8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

IMMUNIZATIONS—8 a.m. to 10 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Split In Socialist Ranks Unites U. S. Communists

(Fifteenth of a series of 20 articles entitled The History of Communism, by MSgt. Walter M. Stewart, USMC. Reprinted by AFPS from the San Diego Chevron, Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.)

In his best-selling book, "Masters of Deceit," FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover relates the birth of the Communist Party in the United States:

"An emergency convention of the Socialist Party was scheduled to begin in March...Chicago, on Aug. 30, 1919. The Socialists were badly split. The left wing, thrilled by the Russian (1917) Revolution, wanted to establish a Communist Party. The rightists were opposed."

The Socialist Party, seriously split on the war question, had suffered devastating losses in membership. The post-war membership was comprised largely of new immigrants of Russian, Ukrainian, South Slavic, Finnish, Lithuanian and Lettish origins, to whom the Red revolution had meant new freedoms.

Factional disputes have been the hallmark of communist organizations since the time of Karl Marx, and the embryonic party in the United States was no exception.

Members immediately divided into three groups: the Communist Party, the Communist Labor Party, and the Proletarian Party. The latter was shortlived and the other two were to ultimately merge.

The economic depression which began in 1929 permitted the party to move into high gear. Communists announced that the failure of capitalism was manifest, that the proletarian revolution was at hand. One Russian newspaper printed pictures of routine street excavations in New York City and captioned them the result of bombings and riots.

Party members began boring into labor unions and where they failed to achieve leadership, they set up substitute unions. Front organizations (the party was driven underground by prosecutions almost at birth) were formed by the hundreds.

When the Spanish Civil War broke out in 1936, 3,000 men—party members, fellow travelers and sympathizers—went to Spain as the Lincoln Brigade to fight on the Loyalist side against the fascist. (Moscow was, at that time, urging all communists to oppose fascism with whatever means available, including co-operation with capitalist and socialist groups).

But before Hitler smashed his way through France, he and Stalin signed a non-aggression pact and, to that extent, became a Communist. Consequently, American communists were devoted to keeping the United States out of war inasmuch as it was apparent on which side she would fight.

When the madman turned his tanks to the east, however, it was entirely another matter. "Aid to Russia" was the hue and cry.

A glimpse at membership figures, which should be an accurate barometer, reveals party popularity. Rolls stood at some 25,000 shortly after the 1919 organization. Membership in 1930, following the ousting of the Twenties, approximated only 7,500; by 1935, in the heart of the depression, the ranks had swollen to 30,000.

The popularity of the communist cause, i.e., anti-Hitler and pro-"poor Russia," drove membership up to 80,000 in 1944. By the end of the war, according to Saturday Evening Post Editor Harold H. Martin, there were approximately 85,000 card-carrying members and "the concealed Communists, sympathizers and fellow travelers could be numbered in the hundreds of thousands."

Today, the Party nose count is believed to be about 10,000.

Next week: Today's American Communism.
