Governor Sanford Lauded For Support Of Marines

Col. A. B. Geiger cited North Carolina's Governor Terry A. Sanford January 30 on behalf of General Wallace M. Greene, Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, with a Certificate of appreciation for Governor Sanford's personal interest and direct support of Marines stationed in the Tar Heel state.

Col. Geiger, Head of the Military Personnel Procurement Branch, Washington, D. C., extended the token of thanks for the governor's constant interest in Marines and their mission in North Carolina as a force in readiness for a world united in peace.

Accompanying Col. Geiger were Col. James D. McBrayer, Jr., Director, Sixth Marine Corps District, Atlanta, Ga.; LtCol. A. L. Emils, assistant director for personnel procurement, Atlanta; Major Philip G. McIntyre, Carolinas Marine recruiting officer, Raleigh; and SgtMaj. Rufus E. Duncan, Jr., Raleigh's station sergeant major.

Governor Sanford was especially recognized for his strong support of the recently established off-duty education programs at Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point for Marines to obtain high school diplomas through special night school classes.

In expressing the appreciation of all Marines, General

Greene, who became the 23rd Commandant of the Marine Corps on Jan. 1, and a Marine officer since 1930, said, "As users of the product of our secondary and higher institutions of education, we Marines are keenly aware of the solid investment in the strength of America the taxpayers' educational dollar buys. The unique accredited adult education high school program already has 599 Marine students and has awarded 48 high school diplomas.

"These educational programs make better Marines, a better Marine Corps and a stronger Nation. The true strength of any nation, state or community lies in the vigor and spirit of its citizens. The Marine Corps is indeed fortunate to have installations in a state where the understanding and friendship of the citizens and leaders are so abundant."

Governor Sanford, highlighting Col. Geiger's two-day inspection of the Raleigh Marine recruiting station here, presented the colonel with a gold Tar Heel cuff link set.

Raleigh's Mayor Jim Reed, on behalf of the Tar Heel Capital City, honored Col. Geiger with a gold miniature Key to the City of Raleigh.

Small Arms Symposium Held At Camp Theater

Brig. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, former 2d Marine Division Assistant Commander and current Marine Corps Landing Force Development Center Director, Jack Weller, Internationally known arms expert, Col. Walter Walsh of the Marine Corps Rifle and Pistol Team and Major William W. Gray, Fort Benning, Ga., Infantry School Officer, head a list of high ranking officers conducting a two day small arms symposium being held at the Camp Theater.

The purpose of the symposium is so that the field grade officers stationed at Camp Lejeune can acquire a thorough understanding of the problems inherent in the small arms system.

There are three service rifles currently in use in the various branches of the military services of the United States. Each of these uses a different type of ammunition, is operated differently and can be fired differently. These three weapons are the M-1, which is being used in posts and stations and the M-14, now in use in the FMF. The Army adds the third rifle, the M-16, formerly called the Armalite or Ar-15.

There are still other families of military small arms in the experimental and development stages such as the Stoner Rifle, named after its inventor, a former Marine, being tested by both the Marine Corps and the Army. Weapons selected for the Marine must be accurate, dependable and able to withstand the rigors of combat. They will affect his training, logistics and tactics.

Lt. Col. R. M. Calland, Camp Lejeune Rifle Range Commander and well known weapons expert on the history and development of military rifles in the Marine Corps opened the symposium with a lecture on the Marine Corps' past and present weapons.

Mr. Weller, arms expert will discuss contemporary foreign weapons while a panel discussion, headed by Brig. Gen. Walt will discuss tactics and the use of Weapons.

ANNIVERSARY REVIEW—Vice Admiral John S. McCain, Jr., USN, Commander, Amphibious Forces Atlantic Fleet, (standing in jeep, right) is shown as he reviews members of the 2d Marine Division at a parade and review celebrating the Division's 23rd anniversary, January 31. Accompanying the admiral is Maj. Gen. William J. Van Ryzin, Commanding General, 2d Marine Division (standing beside the admiral), and Brig. Gen. R. McC. Tompkins, Assistant Division Commander (sitting in jeep). Nearly 15,000 Marines were massed on the Camp Lejeune parade field.

School Trained Marines May Switch MOS If...

There's good news for Marines who are school-trained in their MOS and want to get into a new field.

Up to now, the Corps' attitude on retraining people who have already had expensive formal training in a particular MOS has been an adamant "naynay".

But now, the Corps is gradually easing itself away from this arbitrary position. It has left itself a loophole in regulations by saying, "personnel who are school-trained will not normally be granted formal school training in another occupational field".

The exceptions to the rule now hinge on two factors.

If the Marine's present skill will not be lost in the shuffle to a new field and can be related in some way to his "druthers", he may receive favorable consideration.

Where a school-trained Marine is in an overcrowded MOS, retraining would be mutually beneficial to man and Corps.

Before you go pole vaulting into the first sergeant's office with a request for retraining, take a good hard look at your present MOS.

If you've had expensive training in any other specialty in which there's an acute shortage of skilled personnel, better tear up that request and go back to work.

But on the other hand, it's better to light a candle than curse the darkness. If you're frustrated in your present job, check it out with your personnel section and find out how it rates Corps-wide.

If it's not on the critical list, or if you can adapt your present skill to your desired MOS, forward your request through channels.

Providing you have enough obligated time or are willing to ship over to get it, the Marine Corps will lean over backwards to consider your request.

The word that's filtered down from Marine Corps Headquarters to lower Command levels is: "If you have any doubt, resolve it in the Marine's favor and forward the request."

Holiday Routine February 21-22

Holiday routine will prevail at Camp Lejeune on Friday and Saturday, 21 and 22 February, 1964, in observance of Washington's Birthday.

The Sales Commissary Store and Marine Corps Exchange Activities will be closed on Saturday, February 22.

The 10th Marines, 2d Marine Div., will fire a national salute of 21 guns starting at noon on February 22.

Outpatient Clinic

The Outpatient Clinic of the Naval Hospital will be closed on Friday, February 21. Facilities will be available on Ward 2 to see only bonafide emergencies that occur during this time.

New Helmet Liner Due FMF Troops

Adoption of a new helmet liner for use by Fleet Marine Force units was announced today by Headquarters Marine Corps.

The new liner which is made by bonding layers of ballistic nylon with synthetic resin, will be more comfortable to wear and will provide ballistic protection. It weighs 16 ounces, or one-third as much as the steel helmet.

A redesigned suspension system adds greatly to the comfort of the wearer, and a rear head strap that fits across the base of the skull, keeps the helmet firmly in place under almost any condition.

Although the new helmet liner can be worn under the steel shell, its light weight and ballistic properties make it suitable for use as a one-piece helmet in extremely hot climates where weight is a critical factor.

Headquarters Marine Corps officials report that the new liner will be available for distribution to FMF units early in fiscal year 1965.

HOLD 'EM AND SQUEEZE 'EM—Hawaii State Rifle Champion, Marine Corporal Del Germain, shows Waikiki Beach beauty, Donna Merrill, some of the fine points of marksmanship. Cpl. Germain, who is scheduled to fire against some of the world's best shots at Puuloa Rifle Range on January 31, met Donna while practicing at Fort DeRussy on Waikiki Beach. The Hawaii Marine Rifle Team, of which Cpl. Germain is a member, will host the 1st Annual Hawaii Marine Pacific Open Invitational Rifle Tournament. The three-day shoot got underway Friday morning, January 31, at the Ewa Beach Marine range.

Seabee Unit Scores Well On Lejeune's Rifle Range

The Navyman standing on the firing line dropped to a kneeling position. He pressed the butt of his M-14 rifle into his shoulder, snapped off the safety, and steadied his sights on the bull's eye 200 yards down range. Then he slowly squeezed off ten rounds.

The Navyman at the Marine rifle range was one of 567 Seabees of U. S. Mobile Construction Battalion FOUR, The Construction Battalion, under the command of Commander Charles G. Miller, CEC, USN, is presently deployed at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina for six weeks of concentrated infantry training. Although Navyman do not usually handle rifles, the Navy's Construction Battalions are organized as a defensive combat unit. This is in addition to their duty as builders of advance military installations.

Today's Seabees must be thoroughly familiar with modern infantry weapons and techniques. To maintain the high degree of military readiness required of them, the Seabees of MCB-4 supplement their normal military training program with a deployment of the Marine Corps' Camp Lejeune every other year.

This year MCB-4 has completed its first week of training qualification on the M-14 rifle. Many of the men firing on the rifle range are new recruits and have never seen an M-14 rifle before, let alone fire one! Nevertheless, 74 percent of the Battalion personnel qualified on the new NATC weapon. Firing the Navy "B" rifle course at ranges of 200, 300 and 500 yards, 16 of the officers and men qualified to wear the Navy's "Expert" rifle ribbon with a score of 270 or better out of a 300 possible. An additional 106 scored 250 or better for a sharpshooter rating.

Considering the fact that rifle firing was new to so large a part of the Battalion, the accomplishments of one brief week speak well for the ability of MCB-FOUR to continue its tradition as a sharp unit in the nation's Defense System.

UNDER THE WATCHFUL GUIDANCE of a Marine Corps rifle instructor, one of the Seabees of MCB FOUR was sketched in action by MCB FOUR illustrator M. Franson, JOSN. MCB FOUR is deployed for six weeks of advanced infantry training at Camp Lejeune. The commanding officer of MCB FOUR is Cmdr. Charles Miller, CEC, USN.

Parris Island's 'Mr. Sit-Up' Does It Again

Parris Island's Mr. Sit-Up struck again here last Saturday. Cpl. Wayne Rollings, a junior Drill Instructor assigned to the Second Recruit Training Battalion polished off 9, 125 consecutive sit-ups in a four hour, 58 minute period at the Depot Weight Room.

Rollings' 9,000 plus count was some 4,125 more than his September 28 effort of last year, which was then thought to be an unofficial world record, and 1,125 more than reportedly accomplished by an FBI man in Virginia several months ago.

The soft-spoken Depotite began his stint at 9:01 a. m. Saturday and finished at 1:59 p. m., averaging better than 30 sit-ups per minute for each of the first four hours and 27 per minute for the last 58 minutes.

Though in a state of "exhaustion" when he finished, Rollings, less than an hour afterwards, was back supervising his platoon (228) in preparing for the Regimental Commander's Inspection. Plt. 288 completed recruit training here today.

Sharing counting honors for Rollings Saturday were Dave Jones, C. J. Padgett, and F. E. Lee. Also witnessing the event were Rollings' Company Commander, Captain Norm Henry, Series Officer First Lieutenant Bill McAdams, Chief Drill Instructor Gunnery Sergeant Jim Kildonas, and Staff Sergeant H. D. Jeffery, one of Rollings' most avid supporters during his preparation for the feat.

Surprisingly, Rollings felt that he could have done better than his 9,125. "I didn't feel that I was at my peak physically," he stated.

"Many people think I do nothing but sit-ups," Rollings commented, "but, in reality, I also do quite a bit of running"—he jogged 10 miles in less than an hour earlier last week—"and push-ups"—he can crank off 300 at a stretch—"and weightlifting"—he will participate in a Parris Island—Marine Corps Air Station weightlifting match to be held here in March.

New Special Recruiting Course For Sgt. Maj.'s Set At Parris Island

A special two-week course for Sergeants Major being assigned to recruiting duty has been initiated at the Marine Corps Recruiters' School at Parris Island, S. C.

Formerly, Sergeants Major assigned to recruiting duty attended the six-week recruiters course held at the school.

The new course familiarizes Sergeants Major with procurement procedures, enlistment requirements, sales management, publicity and public relations required for recruiting duty. However, it eliminates many hours of instruction in general office procedures and public speaking.

The syllabus for the new course was written by Captain Harold D. Haviland and Sergeant Major John F. Burnett, Officer in Charge and Chief Instructor of the school respectively.

The first class started January 16, and will graduate January 29. The Sergeants Major in the first class are Joseph M. Bock, Franklin W. Ayres, Charles B. McDaniel, Jr., Charlie E. Martin and George Hully.

DROPS IN FOR PROMOTION—Sgt. John H. Cole, Jr., center, of 2d Force Recon Co., Force Troops, is congratulated and presented with a promotion warrant meritoriously promoting him to his present rank by Capt. J. H. Carothers, Jr., company commander on January 10 after Cole had completed his 42nd parachute jump. Maj. I. H. MacLean, right, of the Royal Australian Infantry observed the ceremony during his visit to 2d Force Recon Co.

Meritorious Promotion In The Field Awarded 2d Force Recon. Marine

Sgt. John H. Cole, Jr., of 2d Force Reconnaissance Co., Force Troops, was meritoriously promoted to his present rank by Capt. J. H. Carothers, Jr., company commander on January 15, at Ball Point drop zone after Cole completed his 42nd parachute jump.

Sgt. Cole joined 2d Force Recon shortly after enlisting in the Marine Corps in Jan. 1960.

During his tour of duty with Recon he attended various military schools including: Force Troops Clerical School, five weeks duration; 2d Marine Division Military Law School, four weeks duration; 2d Marine Division Court Reporter Course, two weeks; U. S. Army Basic Airborne Course at Ft. Benning, Ga., four weeks and the Administrative Chief's School at Parris Island, S. C., eight weeks.

Sgt. Cole's letter recommending him for meritorious promotion read in part:

"Since joining this unit and subsequently assuming the duties of a Staff Sergeant Administrative Chief's billet, Cpl. Cole has continuously demonstrated his capacity for additional responsibility and higher rank. The caliber of results he has produced with regards to personnel administration, organization and training of his subordinates leaves little to be desired. Cpl. Cole is therefore highly recommended for accelerated advancement to the rank of sergeant."

Notice

All officers recently promoted and those officers selected for promotion during March are invited to attend a meeting on Friday, February 21 at 5 p.m. in the main Paradise Point Club to plan a mass wetting down party scheduled for Friday, March 13. Further information can be obtained by calling Capt. Hudson at Ext. 7-5853 or WO Selleck, Ext. 7-5613.

First Naval Officer Graduates 'Copter Flight Training Course At MCAF

Navy or Marine "Wings of Gold"? There is one naval aviator today who may have some doubt. He is Commander Eugene Bezore, a recent graduate of the helicopter transition course administered by Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-262, Marine Aircraft Group-26 (MAG-26).

The completion of the course by Cmdr. Bezore gained him the distinction of becoming the first naval officer to complete a Marine flight training program.

The syllabus, eight weeks in length, consists of two phases (academic and flight). The academic phase is two weeks long, and covers helicopter aerodynamics, engines and tactical employment.

The flight phase is divided into two phases, a familiarization and an operational phase. In the "fam" phase the pilot learns the fundamentals of helicopter flying, while in the operational or advanced stage, he is taught how to handle the "copter" under operational conditions, concentrating on formation flying, rough area landings (landing on rough terrain, sides of hills, in dense foliage, etc.), and carrying internal and external loads.

This Marine helicopter training should place Cmdr. Bezore in good stead for his forthcoming assignment. He is to be the air officer aboard the USS BOXER, LPH-4, which acts as home for Marine helicopter assault units afloat. The commander will have many chances to renew old friendships if the ships past history is an indication of future assignments. Units of MAG-26 have constantly been deploying aboard her, six months out of every year.

The commander, holder of the Air Medal with four stars and the Navy Unit Citation, reported aboard HMM-262 for training, after a tour of duty with Staff Command, Carrier Air Group-4, Cecil Field, Florida.

BLT 3/2 Claims Its Share For MEDLANDEX 1-64

BLT 3/2, participated in MEDLANDEX 1-64, a nine day live firing exercise at Porto Scudo, Sardinia, January 6-14, 1964.

MEDLANDEX was a full-scale amphibious exercise conducted by elements of the U. S. Sixth Fleet. Marine landings were preceded by advance operations including anti-submarine operations, air strikes, mine sweeping and reconnaissance operations.

Surface vessels of the Sixth Fleet screened the amphibious objective area while others conducted live surface and aerial firing exercises.

Marines ashore conducted live fire problems with every Marine firing his weapon. All BLT weapons—tanks, ontos, 106mm recoilless rifles, 81 mm mortars and 105 mm howitzers fired during the nine day period.

Upon completion of the exercise the landing team reembarked and resumed its position as the amphibious striking force of the U. S. Sixth Fleet.

Australian Infantry Major Visits Force Troops Unit

Maj. I. H. MacLean, of the Royal Australian Infantry, visited various Force Troops units during his recent tour of Camp Lejeune.

One of his first stops among Force Troops units was 2d Force Reconnaissance Co. where he observed a parachute jump at Ball Point Drop Zone.

In the afternoon the major traveled to Courthouse Bay where he was briefed by Lt. Col. T. W. Clarke, commander of 2d Amphibian Tractor Bn. on the mission and capabilities of the amphibian tractor.

He also observed a display of various types of amphibian tractors including an amphibian tractor retriever, a command tractor and the new LVT E-1 tractor which is capable of clearing mine fields and barbed wire entanglements. A simulated beach landing demonstration was also performed by amphibian tractors debarking two Marine rifle squads and various equipment.

The major remained at Courthouse Bay and visited 2d Air and Naval Gunfire Liaison

Co. where he heard a briefing on the mission and operation of the company by Lt. Col. J. W. Tuma, company commander.

The tour of ANGLICO was concluded with a static display of communication equipment used for close air support and a working display of Naval Gunfire spot teams.

Maj. MacLean later visited 2d Topographic Co. and 2d Bridge Co. at Camp Geiger where he was briefed on Topo's mission as part of the Fleet Marine Force by Maj. O. G. Candler, Jr., company commander.

Maj. W. E. Snyder, company commander of 2d Bridge Co. explained the structure of Bridge Co. and escorted the Australian major on a tour of the bridge training site and equipment lot.

Maj. MacLean ended his tour of Force Troops with a visit to the FMFLant Communication School and FMFLant Language School and witnessed a decontamination and radiological survey exercise at the FMFLant NBC School.

Quantico ISO Gets Strange Request

A new branch of the Armed Forces may be in the making according to a letter received by the Informational Services Officer here last week.

The letter didn't indicate whether the originator was the commanding officer of the group or merely the supply officer submitting a requisition, but it spells possible competition for the Marine recruiter covering the New Britain, Conn., area.

Obviously not one to waste words, the writer asked for a "general's medal, a colonel's medal, a captain's medal, a lieutenant colonel's medal, a major's medal," in that order.

Investigation failed to shed any light on the exact military position or plans of the letter's originator. It did, however, establish that the person's name is Mark Warner, of 42 Patton Drive in New Britain, Conn.

Local Marines are pondering whether Mark is planning to regiment the entire town, the local neighborhood or perhaps only his own fourth grade class. Another possibility is that the 9-year-old boy only wants the insignia for a collection.

In any event, the boy's letter was forwarded to the Officer in Charge of the Marine Recruiting Station, Hartford, Conn., for "appropriate action".

Episcopal Classes

Confirmation classes for Episcopal children will be held in the Protestant Chapel on Saturday mornings at 10 a.m. beginning February 22. Children must be 10 years of age or older to enroll. The class beginning February 22 will be completed by the end of May. Further information may be obtained from Chaplain Kreymeyer, 7-3994 or 6-6574 after working hours.

Brig. Gen. Marion Carl Takes Over 1st Brigade

Brig. Gen. Marion E. Carl has taken command of the First Marine Brigade.

Change of command of the Pacific air-ground team was marked informally as Brigadier General C. A. Youngdale passed the Brigade battle colors to Gen. Carl.

Gen. Youngdale ordered his personal flag hauled down from the pole on the Station administration building. Gen. Carl ordered his run up, marking his assumption of command.

If Tax Bite Smarts, Consider Alternatives

Mark Twain, like many other conscientious Americans, had his say about paying taxes. After reading how a foreign country withdrew appropriations from public schools because of the expense of maintaining an army, Mr. Twain wrote:

"Why, I remember the same thing was done when I was a boy on the Mississippi River. There was a proposition in a township there to discontinue public schools because they were too expensive. An old farmer spoke up and said if they stopped the schools they would not save anything, because every time a school was closed a jail had to be built."

In other words, it may be difficult to pay taxes cheerfully, but not so much so if we stop to consider the alternatives.

Without adequate tax collection in the United States public highways wouldn't be as smooth, public schools would be run-down and hopelessly overcrowded, public parks would be almost non-existent, and the public everything from streetlamps to lighthouses would be fewer and shabbier.

Americans who grumble loudly each year at tax time would do well to remember a very old business principle — you don't get something for nothing.

Who is in a better position to see what tax money can do than those of us in the Armed Forces? Tax money helps pay our salaries, provides for our medical care and account for our retirement benefits.

The same tax dollars that keep men in uniforms give our country a strong and well-equipped Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps — the same forces, if you've forgotten, that guard this nation's ideals and make it possible to have "the best that money can buy."

Chaplain's Corner

Prayer is the elevation of our minds and hearts to God to adore Him, to thank Him for His benefits, to beg pardon for our offenses and to ask Him for His help. It may more easily be defined as talking to God or conversation with God.

We are instructed to pray often, particularly morning and night, before our principal actions and most of all in time of temptation. Holy Scripture encourages us to pray continually.

One good method of daily prayer is to offer each day at its very beginning, to our Creator. Some have the good habit of offering up every thought, word and deed of the day at awaking in the morning. You can use your own words but in essence you say the same: "O Lord, I offer you this day as a continual prayer. I offer you everything that happens this day, every thought I have, every breath I take, every beat of my heart, everything I see, hear, smell, taste or touch, every step I take. Everything today, Lord, belongs to You."

If we do this daily, we shall live continually in the presence of God, grow in grace, and happiness will come to us a hundredfold in this life and happiness eternal in the life to come.

This type of life through prayer is a man's greatest contribution to peace amongst men.

Suggestions Fine, But Follow-through Counts

Ask Y. A. Tittle or Arnold Palmer. They'll tell you it's nice to think about being on target, but it's the follow-through that counts.

What's true for a pro football passer and a champion golfer holds true in other walks of life, including the Armed Forces. If you have an idea you think is worth trying, by all means follow it through properly.

Any service man with pride in his outfit will always claim it's the best, but seldom will he claim that it couldn't be better. There's always room for improvement, and consequently, there's always room for the thinking man.

But good ideas are not made operational in barracks gripe sessions, so don't be a member of the why-don't-they-do-it-my-way clan. Instead, carefully analyze your idea to see if it seems to hold water, then put it neatly down on paper and submit it through channels.

Good suggestions are not necessarily earth-shakers — ones that will win you medals or save Uncle Sam a million dollars. There are little ideas as well — ones that over the long haul will save enough money and enough time and effort to make them worthwhile. And you may win a generous reward.

If your idea is a safety tip that will save a buddy a burned finger or a broken toe, follow it through. The same goes for a suggestion that would cut down on paperwork or maintenance, making your outfit smoother and more efficient. Think for your outfit and let your thoughts be known.

Wherever you are, whatever your job, the Armed Forces require thinking men — men who can take careful aim and follow through.

MOVIE REVIEWS

VIP's

VIP's. This story recounts the complications in the lives of a handful of V.I.P.'s as a result of being fog-bound at famed London Airport for almost 24 hours, unable to take off on a flight bound for New York. The action takes place entirely within the area of the airport, in the terminal, the so-called VIP lounge and an airport hotel, where the V.I.P.'s are forced to spend the night.

SIEGE OF THE SAXONS

An Arthurian movie produced by the British with King Arthur who has outlived his knights of the round table. King Arthur is beset upon by Saxon invaders from without and an unsuspected traitor from within, a trusted Cornish Knight who seeks the crown for himself. The king's good old wizard, Merlin has disappeared and the king is lost without him for he has only the magic sword Excalibur and a dastardly outlaw, whose achievements and manners mark him as the possible ancestor of Robin Hood. This rousing adventure has plenty of action ranging from a dimly lit castle where danger lurks in every shadow to jousting, hard riding, pursuits through the greenwood. A competent cast maintains the right period spirit and flavor, starring Ronald Lewis and Janette Scott.

CIRCUS STARS

Circus Stars filmed in Russia. This picture offers some of the outstanding circus performers of that country. Offered as part of the cultural film exchange with the Soviet Union, this circus theme has wide appeal to old and young. Outstanding performers include clowns, animal trainers, trick riders, acrobats, and aerialists.

THE L-SHAPED ROOM

The little Leslie Caron of "Lili" and "Gigi", who passed from the dew-dappled stage with her more mature offering of "Fanny" now comes to full professional age. She gives a stunning, mature performance in the British-made film "The L-Shaped Room."

WONDERFUL — REALLY INFORMATIVE — LOVED THAT RIDE

These were just a few of the many comments overheard from the 81 Marine wives at the conclusion of the Dependents Orientation Day Program held January 22 by 2d Amphibian Tractor Bn., Force Troops at Courthouse Bay.

AmTrac Bn. hosted the dependent wives to better inform them of the missions and methods of operations of the battalion and to familiarize them with the facilities available at Camp Lejeune. The program included talks by representatives from the Navy Relief, Red

Baby Sitting

Cross and the U. S. Naval Hospital.

The battalion departed from their usual routine in several respects, including lowering the drinking age in the Courthouse Bay Enlisted Men's Club to three months. The day's special was formula milk. This was due to a nursery being established in the club.

Forty-seven children ranging in age from three months to five years were cared for in the nursery by Mrs. C. E. McFarland, Mrs. J. F. Burke, Mrs. E. H. Graham, Mrs. P. Simmons, Mrs. J. MacKenzie and Mrs. W. H. Baker.

Cpl. L. H. Van Scoy, and PFC D. E. Nielson also helped out and D. L. Gilligan, HNI, USN, was on hand to handle any emergency first aid problems.

Lt. Cdr. C. E. McFarland, the battalion chaplain began the program with an invocation and introduced Lt. Col. T. W. Clarke, Commanding Officer of 2d AmTrac Bn.

Col. Clarke spoke on the history of the battalion from its inception in Dec. 1941 at Dunedin, Fla., and its illustrious past during World War II and the Korean Conflict.

He concluded by explaining the role AmTrac husbands have in the battalion as a part of our present day Force-In-Readiness.

After enjoying a dinner of Chinese food at the messhall, the husbands escorted their wives through a barracks to give them a first-hand look at the interior of a Marine squad-bay.

This was followed by a talk in the Courthouse Bay Chapel by Chaplain McFarland on the 'role of the Chaplain' as a minister in the Armed Forces.

The guests then boarded buses for the 10-minute ride to the amphibian tractor park located at the boat basin.

Here Capt. R. S. Huston, battalion S-3 officer briefed the assembled wives on the different types of amphibian tractors including the Personnel and Cargo Carrier, Command Tractor, Maintenance Tractor, and the new LVT E-1. He further explained the purpose of the LVT E-1 in clearing paths through mine fields and barbed wire entanglements.

Chow Time

A guided tour was then conducted through a static display of the various types of amphibian tractors where crew members explained the operation of the 35-ton tractors. The guides explained that the amphibian tractor weighs approximately 40 tons when loaded with its full complement of 34 combat equipped Marines.

Steel helmets and life jackets were issued and the wives, accompanied by their husbands, were treated to the most popular item on the program — a ride in an amphibious tractor.

The wives were enthusiastic in agreeing that the amphibian tractor ride was very thrilling and that the program was informative, entertaining and helped them to better understand their husbands jobs.

Author Of 19th Hole Qualified To Advise

Sergeant Bob Spencer, author of the 19th Hole is no newcomer to the golf links. Spencer started swinging his big stick at the age of 17 while a member of his high school team in Quincy, Ill. He led his team to the regional and sectional titles and placed fifth in the individual Illinois State High School Tournament.

While a member of the 3d Marine Division in the Far East, he placed fourth in the Philippines-American Golf Tournament.

When he was on leave in Quincy, Ill., in 1961 he set the current course record for tournament play during the Labor Day Tournament qualifying rounds with a red hot 64, which was eight under par for the course.

Soon after that record, he reported to Albany and teamed up with SSgt. Ray Leach to take the Albany American Legion's Thanksgiving Day Tournament with an impressive nine under par 61.

While a member of the Camp Lejeune team Bob recently competed at Parris Island and came through with a 230 mark for the 54 hole tourney to aid his team in taking first place.

In May 1962, Spencer captured the medalist honors among the play for pay ranks with a five under par 67 in a Supply Center Tourney.

In May 1963 Bob came through with a blazing "65", seven under par to match the course record set in 1961 by 1st. Sgt. Al Greer.

Spencer, a 1-handicapper at the Lejeune course, is currently serving out his five-year apprenticeship as a professional golfer. He has approximately 18 months remaining as an apprentice.

Before fulfilling his ambition to become a teaching professional, Bob plans to finish his Marine Corps career and devote his full time to the golf circuit upon retirement.

FAG Runs 17 Straight In FT Intramural Action

2d ANGLICO, with 2 successive victories, dominated Force Troops intra-mural basketball play this past week, and 2d FAG added another win to its 17-0 record.

Sharp-shooting Jim Durda cleared a path to the 'winners circle' for 2d ANGLICO as they downed 2d Bridge Co., 81-65 and took a close decision from Hq. Co., Force Troops, 86-80. Durda gunned-in 43 points against the bridge-men and chalked-up 42 points in the Hq. Co. contest.

A highly-polished offense was displayed by 2d FAG as they handed 2d Radio Co. a 75-55 defeat. Karl Gardner made the most of 2d FAG's powerful

Charleston Boxers Here Wednesday

The Camp Lejeune boxers will face Charleston AFB, Wednesday, February 12th at 8:15 p. m. in the Goettge Memorial Field House.

Earlier this year the Camp Lejeune fighters raided Charleston Air Force Base winning four out of five bouts, two by knockouts.

Lejeune's John Davis, the most experienced fighter on the squad, downed his opponent for the count in 2:10 of the second round.

Art Redden, a well known sports figure to Camp Lejeune football followers KO'd Raynold Bush in 2:05 of the second round.

Clifford Harris, fighting for the first time took a unanimous decision over his Air Force opponent Ray Porter.

Capping the night's action was Bob Glaister fighting at 178 lbs. who won a unanimous decision over Danny Hogg.

Fresh from their title winning spree in the Carolina Amateur Athletic Union Boxing Tournament at High Point, N. C., the boxing team will be primed for their engagement with the Police Athletic League at St. Petersburg, Fla., on Friday, February 7th.

In a previous match with the St. Petersburg sluggers, the Marines won four bouts out of seven.

Darrell Smith decisioned Jessie Brown in the 132 lb. class.

Bill Verdier fighting in the 139 lb. class decision Jim Mells

These two matches will win up the season as far as fight against individual clubs are concerned. However, three tournaments are coming up that will be of tremendous importance to the fighters.

The first of the tournament will be at Camp Pendleton, Calif., in the All-Marine Boxing Championship Tournament during the week of March 27th.

Three of our fighters will be competing in the National Amateur Athletic Union Boxing Tournament at Las Vegas, Nevada. The date for the National AAU's is April 8-11.

The Interservice Boxing Championship Tournament will be held here on May 4-6. In this tournament champions from all branches of service will be battling it out for the interservice title.

A good showing is vital to the fighters in all of these tournaments, as the promise of an Olympic tryout is inherent in the tournament championships.

Know Your Team

Bill Jenkins, starting forward for the Camp Lejeune basketball team is a man well schooled in the fundamentals of the game.

He has been playing basketball since he was nine years old. He played church league basketball and then graduated into three years of varsity basketball playing for Boy's High School of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Jenkins has played with the 2d Marine Division basketball team and this is his first year with the base varsity team.

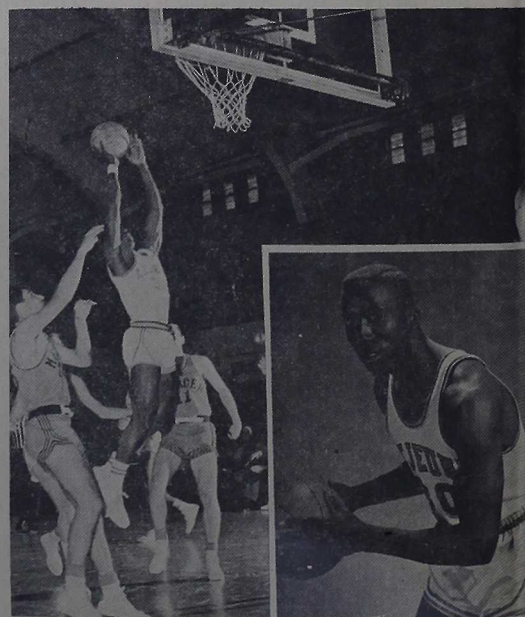

Coach Joe Walsh said that the 6' 20 year old Brooklyn ace "seems to take naturally to the various shooting techniques and has acquired a high degree of general ball-handling ability"

When asked what he felt was Jenkins' best shot Coach Walsh replied, 'Jim adjusts his shots to the situation. His drive-in-lay-up shot has become quite effective but he uses a one-handed set shot and hook shot quite effectively.'

Jenkins has been a big factor in Lejeune's control of the backboards with his deft rebounding. He has consistently secured rebounds from his own backboard giving his team a further opportunity to make good the missed shot instead of losing possession.

He is a member of the 1st Bn. 6th Marines.

The Camp Lejeune High School Varsity Basketball Team will play against the male faculty teachers, Thursday, Feb. 6, at 7 p.m. A fee will be charged for both children and adults. The game is sponsored by the Monogram Club.

Camp Lejeune To Host Boxing Championships

The 12th All-Marine Corps Boxing Championship will be held March 23-28, 1964 at Camp Pendleton, Calif. National Amateur Athletic Union rules will apply in this competition, and protective headgear will be worn in all bouts.

At the conclusion of the tournament a champion and runner-up in each class weight will be selected. However, only one boxer in each weight class will represent the Marine Corps in the Interservice Championship.

Camp Lejeune has been selected as the site for the Interservice Championship Boxing bouts during the period May 4-6, 1964.

The next step for the sluggers will be the Olympic Regionals. Between April 20th and May 1st the Eastern Regionals will be held in Washington, D. C. The site for the Western Regionals will be announced in February.

After the eliminations the boxers will go to the Olympic Trials which will be held May 18, 19, and 20, 1964 at the New York Worlds Fair.

fast-break and tallied 19 points for the winning team.

Player-coach Howie Luttrell's 8th Engineer Bn. team doggedly held onto the number two spot in the Force Troops standings this week as they took a 78-69 victory from Hq. Co., Force Troops. Luttrell led the well-balanced engineer attack with 27 points.

The 8th Engineer team is going to have a tough time wrestling the Force Troops title from powerful 2d FAG. 2d FAG touts a club that is fast on both offense and defense. However, balance seems to be the biggest weapon in the "field gunners" camp, as they can call on the services of 15 equally talented shooters and play-makers. The championship could be decided when these two teams meet on January 12.

Other winners in Force Troops this week were 2d Tank Bn., who defeated 2d Amtrac Bn. 62-53, and 8th MT Bn., who topped 2d Topographic Co. 63-46. 2d Amtrac Bn. won its game with 2d Bridge Co., 55-45.

Baseball Tryouts Bolstered By Vets

Tryouts for the 1964 Camp Lejeune varsity baseball team began this week for pitchers and catchers.

Forty-seven hurlers turned out, along with 15 catchers. Five pitchers returned from last year's East Coast Interservice Conference Championship team.

In addition to the pitchers, other returnees from last year are catcher Tom O'Leary, outfielders Buddy Simpson, Dave Hinz, and Chico Lugo, infielders Hal Norton and Dick Garcia and "Jake" Jakubek.

The first diamond action of the season will be here, against Wilmington College in an exhibition game March 16th. The first conference game will be May 11th, against the Fort Dix "Burros".

Swordfishing Is New Sports Event

For the first time in the history of the North Carolina coast swordfish, many of them, have been taken commercially during the current winter by fishermen and crews using long line methods.

Longlining in the ocean is like trot-fishing in fresh water. The lines extending for hundreds of yards have up to 800 squid or scrap-fish baited hooks.

Sports fishermen have received the commercial catch reports with much encouragement. They believe that come Spring or early summer they can catch the giant fish with rod and reel.

Unattended Stoves Cause Most Fires In Kitchens

"Although it may not be deliberate carelessness, it is carelessness just the same," according to Camp Lejeune's Fire Chief, F. J. Schlarp, when pinpointing the cause of grease fires in homes across the United States.

Of all the home fires in the country during 1963, 14.58 percent began in the kitchens. Camp Lejeune's fire department has answered several calls this year to fight fires in quarters which had started from overheated grease. Two such fires were during a 24-hour-period and one of these had been started by a child playing with the stove.

As in the majority of industrial or home fires, grease fires are easily prevented. Were the housewife, or whoever may be the "duty chef", even if just preparing a cup of coffee, to use a little caution and care around the stove, there would be fewer fires in the home.

A few precautionary ideas are as follows: never let grease over heat; don't allow children to play near or with the range;

before leaving the quarters or securing for the night, be sure all units of the range are in the "off" position; don't leave pans of grease on the stove, although stove is off, when pan is not expected to be used in a short time; and above all, DON'T LEAVE STOVES UNATTENDED WHILE BURNERS ARE ON.

The latter of the above is usually the most common cause of kitchen fires. Although grease does heat quickly, in most reports no one ever leaves the range for more than "a minute". Not two, three or even one and a half, but "just a minute".

If a grease fire should occur do not attempt to extinguish it through the use of water. It is best to try to smother the flames by throwing a wet dish towel or other such item over the pan. A more serious fire and burns on the hands could result from someone attempting to pour grease down the sink drain or throw the pan outside.

Before doing anything else, remember, don't leave the stove unattended.

Dependents Lose Money If NSLI Waivers Active

If you applied for waiver of premiums on your National Service Life Insurance (NSLI), which was possible under the so-called "Free Insurance Law" of 1951 and have not cancelled this waiver, your dependents could stand to lose money.

According to Cysgt. P. D. Sparks, Base Career Advisory NCO, in the event of your death your beneficiary would receive $69.60 per month veterans benefits (plus the face value of the policy in whatever form designated) if the waiver is still in effect.

If you have cancelled the waiver and resumed payments on your NSLI policy, your widow could receive $120.00 plus 12 percent of your base pay per month, for life, or until such time as she remarried. (Plus the face value of the policy).

By saving the $6.50 to $15.00 monthly premium on your insurance, you could be depriving your dependents of many more dollars each month.

For example, on the present pay scale, the widow of a Cysgt. with 12 years service would lose more than $91.00 per month if his waiver was uncancelled.

Under similar circumstances, the widow of a captain with over 12 years of service would lose $125.00; and a Colonel over 20 years, in excess of $160.

The best course of action is to check your service record book; if there is no notation of the waiver being cancelled, write the Insurance Division of the Veterans Administration and inquire if your NSLI policy is being continued under the waiver. If it is, Sgt. Sparks advised, re-evaluation should be made to consider which plan best suits your status now.

History of Communism

Eyes Of Soviets Eagerly Look West Upon Europe

(Thirteenth of a series of 20 articles entitled The History of Communism, by MSgt. Walter M. Stewart, USMC. Reprinted by AFPS from the San Diego Chevron, Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.)

The international ascent of Communism—as a goal—is just as much a part of Communism as the preservation of personal freedoms is a part of democracy. International expansion, however accomplished, is an honorable, absolutely justifiable act in the Red mind.

To understand such thinking, it is necessary to understand that (according to the communists) Communism is "good" and all other ideology is "bad". Consequently, anything done to promote the Red cause taken on a holy sanction.

There can be no "reasonable objection" to the forcible annexation of a nation (by a communist nation) since it is actually being liberated from its arch enemy—capitalism.

It follows, then, that to accomplish the "peaceful solution" to any problem, the problem must be resolved in favor of Communism; otherwise, it has not contributed to peace (only Communism, with its elimination of the class struggle brings peace.)

Thus, the 1956 Hungarian uprising was an act against the people, permitting Col. G. Fedorov to write in Krasnaya Zvezda, "Trained by the Communist Party, the armed forces of the USSR live up to their international duty. This was demonstrated by the aid of Hungary in suppressing the counter-revolutionary rebellion organized by international imperialism. The armed forces of the USSR performed their international duty with honor."

Expansion (from fewer than 200 million people before WWII to almost one billion at present) of the Red movement got into full swing at the end of WWII.

Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Hungary, East Germany, Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania were harnessed to the Red yoke. In each of the allegedly coalition governments (a coalition of communists, socialists, peasants and clericalists), the communists head (having control of police) and the army.

Report I. Deutscher in "Stalin: A Political Biography," the Reds then "used those departments to establish control first over the country as a whole, and then over their partners in the government, until they were able to either oust their partners or to compel them to cooperate in the revolution."

Yugoslavia, although a communist dictatorship, was expelled from the Soviet Bloc in 1948 because of an inherent sense of nationalism and the strength of Marshal Tito.

Finland, under Soviet domination, has been permitted to operate in the manner of a democracy inasmuch as it is too weak to represent a threat, serves as a satellite showplace to other nations.
