General Bowser Accepts Portrait For Marine Corps

An oil portrait of the late President John F. Kennedy was accepted on behalf of the Marine Corps Monday, December 23, 1963 by Maj. Gen. A. L. Bowser, Commanding General, Marine Corps Base at a ceremony held in his office. The portrait will be forwarded to Headquarters Marine Corps for disposition.

SSgt. Edward D. Overvold, HqCo., H&SBn., Marine Corps Base, NCOIC of the Art Department, Base Training Aids Library, and painter of the portrait, made the presentation to General Bowser. The portrait is SSgt. Overvold's contribution to the Marine Corps in memorializing the memory of the late President Kennedy.

SSgt. Overvold, a veteran of 18 years service with the Marine Corps, painted the 24X28 inch portrait in 1-1/2 weeks during his off duty hours at his quarters in Tarawa Terrace.

His only training in the field of art consisted of two years in an art school located in Seattle, Washington, under the G. I. Bill.

While a member of Marine Corps Base, he has received two letters of appreciation for his outstanding professional workmanship in the field of illustration and painting.

KENNEDY MEMORIAL—SSgt. Edward D. Overvold, HqCo., H&SBn., Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, presents an oil portrait that he painted of the late President John F. Kennedy Maj. Gen. A. L. Bowser, commanding general, Marine Corps Base at a ceremony held in the General's office on December 23, 1963. General Bowser accepted the portrait on behalf of the Marine Corps and will forward it to Headquarters, U. S. Marine Corps in Washington, D. C.

Corps Begins New Year Moving 152 Staff Ranks

In starting the New Year on the right foot, the Marine Corps has announced the promotions, as of Jan. 1, of 152 pre-selected Marines to the top four enlisted ranks.

This is the second largest group to be picked for promotion since last July, while the highest number, 187, was chosen in November.

The breakdown for the 152 promotions is as follows: nine new sergeants major, 10 master gunnery sergeants, 25 first sergeants, 10 to gunnery sergeant, 48 new staff sergeants, 50 master sergeants.

It is reported that the January increment for E-8s would reduce the first sergeant and master sergeant waiting lists to five in each rank and clear the decks for the coming selection board, scheduled to meet in April.

It is now expected, with so many higher enlisteds moving into the Fleet Marine Force Reserve, that the Corps' promotion picture should brighten for the enlisted personnel.

MCB Paydays January - July

The following units within Marine Corps Base; 1st ITR; H&S Bn.; MCSC: Eng. School.; RR Det.; Base Mat.; and U. S. Naval Hospital will be paid by the Base Disbursing Officer and his Deputy Disbursing Officers on the following dates:

January 10-Friday; January 27-Monday; February 12-Wednesday; February 26-Wednesday; March 12-Thursday; March 27-Friday; April 13-Monday; April 27-Monday; May 12-Tuesday; May 27-Wednesday; June 12-Friday; June 26-Friday.

Rail Rates Extended Six Months

The railroads have extended for another six months their special low rates to servicemen traveling on leave in uniform.

The low rates, which were to expire December 30, 1963, now apply until June 30, 1964. The special fares apply to both one way and round trip tickets and also allow one route going and another returning.

Special fares for servicemen traveling by bus are due to expire January 31, 1964, but it is expected they will be extended until July 31. These fares are good only on round-trip tickets. Defense travel officials point out that service people should check the bus line they're going to use before counting on special rates since some carriers are not taking part in the plan.

Space available air furlough fares which are roughly 50 percent of the jet coach fares are expected to be kept in effect until at least next April 25. These fares are available only to those service people in uniform with proof of authorized leave.

President Johnson Sends Personal Message To All Federal Employees

In these first days, men and women of all ranks within the government have asked me, "What can I do to help?" Many of you, deeply committed to the Federal Service, are undoubtedly asking yourselves the question, "It is impossible for me to make a direct and personal response to all of you, as I would like to do so. There is an answer which I like to express to every employee in every agency at every location in the Federal government. It is simply this: your best to your job and your country."

ports and recommendations to assist me in this purpose.

We have a great resource of abilities and talents among the people serving our Federal Government. We have career systems to assure continuity of people and programs. We are organized for the job and the work is before us. President Kennedy did not shrink from his responsibilities, but welcomed them, and he would not have us shrink from carrying forward the great work he began so well. I say to you as I said to the Congress: "Let us continue."

Openings in the Afternoon Kindergarten Classes

Anyone interested in entering children in the Midway Park and Paradise Point Kindergarten classes in the afternoon, are asked to call 6-6702 for information. Monthly tuition is $12.00.

Single Regulation For Car Shipping

Beginning in March the shipment of servicemen's cars to and from overseas assignments will be governed by a new Defense Department regulation, instead of separate regulations the services now issue.

Officials say the new Joint Travel Regulation will not change any entitlement.

A new chapter (Chapter 11) will be added to the regulation in March as a result of a determination of the Per Diem, Travel and Transportation Allowance Committee.

Active duty men E-4 (with four years of service or more) and above will continue to be able to ship cars at government expense. There are exceptions for lower ranking men who were assigned overseas before April 1, 1956. There is also a special provision to handle men reduced in grade after they have purchased a car.

The new JTR does not contain this Army language (from AR 55-76) which also occurs in one form or another in other Service regs:

"Shipment of flashy or expensive vehicles to foreign areas is discouraged. Personal vehicles taken to foreign countries should be appropriately inconspicuous and unostentatious." The Services, however, may still enforce that rule.

AWARDED FOR HEROISM—LCpl. Bruce C. Davis (left) Co. 1st Bn., 6th Marines, was honored November 6, for an act of heroism which took place at Sherrill, N. Y. While on duty, Davis pulled a drowning three-year-old girl from a creek then administered artificial respiration. His action is credited with saving the child's life and, as a result of his quick thinking and heroism, he was awarded the Treasury Department's Silver Life Saving Medal by Col. Glenn R. Long, Commanding Officer, 6th Marines.

EAST MEETS WEST—Rudyard Kipling was wrong when he said, "Oh, East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet," however, he was right when he said, "When two strong men stand face to face . . ." This was the case here when Maj. Gen. W. J. Van Ryzin, commanding general, 2d Marine Division, greeted Maj. Gen. W. T. Fairbourn, commanding general, 1st Marine Division. The meeting took place at 2d Division Headquarters, when Gen. Fairbourn and numerous other flag officers visited here.

MAG-26 Marines Earn 'S' Award

Seven of Marine Aircraft Group-26's pilots and crewmen were awarded the Sikorsky Winged "S" Award, for their rescue of personnel while flying the Sikorsky Corps Aircraft.

Capt. J. D. Watson, 1st Lt. R. F. Slahucka and Cpl. R. Murff, from Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-265 (HMM-265), MAG-26 were awarded the "S" award for their rescue of two personnel, while deployed on the squadrons first cruise. SSgt. W. F. Goodson and Cpl. J. Johnson, also of HMM-265 were awarded the "S" awards for rescuing personnel while deployed overseas.

Two members of Headquarters and Maintenance Squadron-26, Cysgt. K. L. Yoak and SSgt. L. J. Whidden were awarded the coveted Winged "S" for their rescue work, while deployed overseas. Mr. William Skillman, Sikorsky representative presented the awards to all concerned.

2d FAG Marines Lend Scouts Helping Hand

On October 9, 1962 Sgt. Willie Edwards, presently with the S-4 Section, Headquarters Battery, 2d Field Artillery Group, Force Troops reported back to the United States after spending 13 months on Okinawa. Before Sgt. Edwards reported to his present duty station here at Camp Lejeune he took his annual 30 days leave at his home town, Valdosta, Ga.

While on leave he was asked by the Valdosta Boy Scout master of Troop 559 if he would help shape up the scouts by drill in preparation for a parade they would be a part of for the Valdosta Pineville High School homecoming football game.

Sgt. Edwards spent about two hours every evening with the scouts showing them the various movements of drill, how to execute them and the actual drill itself.

The scouts seemed to like the sergeants drill tactics and they asked him if he could give them something for their troop of 16 men to show that they had been associated with a Marine.

Sgt. Edwards said he would try and upon reporting here at Camp Lejeune discussed the matter with his company commander, Capt. D. D. Hall.

MAKE MINE BURTON AND WATER—A jigger of Jill Burton mixed with water is about to grace a Las Vegas resort hotel. Whatever your preference, this Miss is a fabulous treat.

Force Troops Dr. Designs New Sink

A new portable scrub sink designed by Capt. J. K. Cunningham, Medical Corps, USN, commanding officer, 2d Hospital Co., Force Troops for use by doctors operating in field surgery tents was tested and proved efficient during a three day field exercise held here last week.

Lt. (J. G.) R. M. Coan, Medical Service Corps, USNR, administrative officer for the company, said the sink constructed from a discarded oil drum and having hot and cold running water provided by the field laundry unit water system, proved very useful to the doctors in preparing for surgery.

Second Hospital Co., operating for the first time as support for Corpsmen undergoing training at the Field Medical Service School at Montford Point also set up an II tent hospital unit.

The unit, acting as a Collecting and Clearing Station included an admission tent, minor surgery tent, one operating room, one surgical medical ward, laboratory, supply, complete galley and messhall, a shower unit and an X-ray tent capable of using polaroid or conventional film, operating with the company's own water and power supply.

Military instructors from Field Medical Service School acted as enemy aggressors throughout the maneuvers, inflicting simulated casualties on the Corpsman students. But, the highlight of the exercise was a mock atomic explosion on the last day of the exercise.

Casualties caused by the explosion were given first-aid on the spot by the students themselves using the buddy system, for example each man dressing his own wound and giving help to anyone needing it.

Further realism was added by the use of plastic moulages, resembling real wounds.

The casualties were moved to a clearing station where doctors tagged them as to the seriousness of their wounds.

Minor wounds were then bandaged and the Navy "Docs" were immediately returned to the firing line.

The more seriously wounded were evacuated by jeep ambulance back to a II tent hospital unit manned by 2d Hospital Co. where medical treatment including major surgery could be performed.

Ellwood J. McLaughlin, Senior Chief Hospital Corpsman, Training Chief for the Field Medical Service School, said, "The exercise was a real success and gave the students very realistic training experience in treating battle casualties".

MAG-26 Supports NASA Program

Marine Aircraft Group-26 stationed at MCAF New River, is again supporting the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) program in capsule recovery. In the past, helicopters of MAG-26 aided in the recovery of two astronauts while participating in Project Mercury.

Presently a helicopter detachment of HMM-264 is aiding NASA at Wallops Island, Va., in the recovery of the Nike rocket nose cones. The nose cone contains a radio active source of Cobalt 60.

Flying the Sikorsky Corps, UH34D utility helicopter, the HMM-264 detachment will also perform aerial photographic missions at the NASA firing and tracking ranges near Wallops Island.

Time Killers Risk Regrets

When it comes to killing time, there are a few servicemen guilty of first degree murder.

They're the ones who bellyache that in the service "there's nothing to do" during off-duty hours. They're the ones who blow their paychecks in one evening, then "kill time" until their next payday. Are you guilty of this capital crime?

In the Armed Forces, there's really plenty to do in off-duty time. For entertainment, the low-cost schedule runs the gamut from motion pictures to swimming pools to golf courses to recreation rooms. There are also libraries, craft shops and gymnasiums.

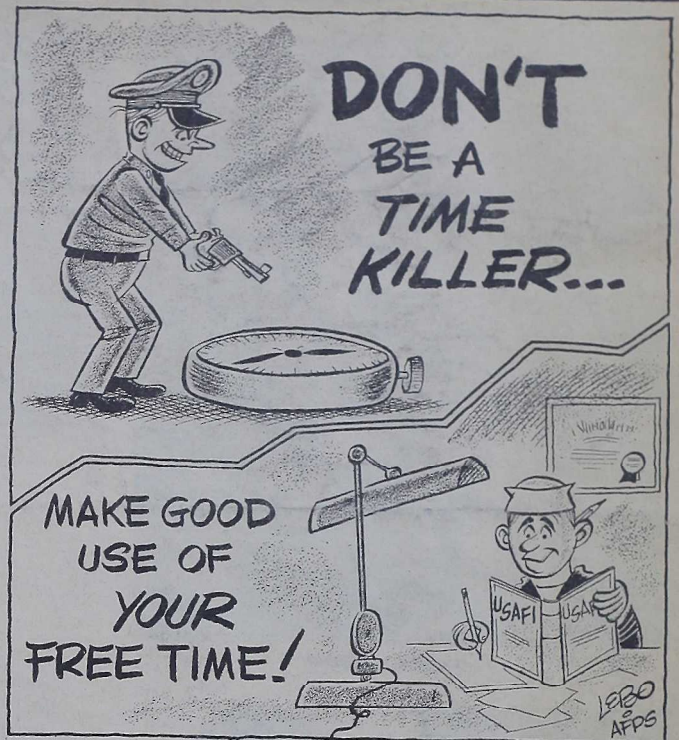

Why not budget your off-duty time? Put a little variety into it. Save an off-duty night or two for recreation, but be sure to leave room for self-improvement.

Self-improvement is one of the biggest bargains in military life. Self-study courses from the U. S. Armed Forces Institute are available at low cost. Anywhere you go, schooling always counts when promotions are passed out.

But school is not the only self-improvement challenge. Reading — good stuff — is another one. Compile a reading list — increase your knowledge of history, science and literature.

Or note the example of three servicemen who bought a guitar, a banjo and a mandolin. They spent two nights a week together over a year's time, practicing and learning a few things about music.

Whatever challenge you take on in your off-duty time, don't risk painful regret in later life for having killed time during service days.

Food Costs Money Too

The Armed Services are constantly urging servicemen to conserve resources.

We usually think of resources as lights, gas and other material goods used daily in military life. One very important area is often overlooked — conservation of resources in the mess hall.

Often, servicemen fail to realize the great expense of running a mess hall. At least this seems the case when men daily pile their trays high with meat, potatoes and fruit and then return a hefty portion to the scullery.

For many years servicemen were greeted in mess halls by the slogan "Take all you want but eat all you take." Even though it's not used much any more, it's still very pertinent.

No one cares how much food you take as long as you eat it all. But taking too much to begin with, knowing you will never be able to eat it all, is wasting food, money and manpower.

Wasting food is unnecessary and in turn means that money is wasted both in buying and preparing food.

The Armed Forces spend about $2.5 million a day to feed military personnel. How much of this is literally thrown away?

A concerted effort by servicemen to conserve food in the mess hall could lead to dividends in other areas. Money saved in the mess hall could be used elsewhere to make the serviceman's life more comfortable and fulfilling.

"WHO CARES?"

This is a fair question, and one that many many young people are asking themselves right at this moment. If we could put our finger on a major scandal in our society it would be pointing at the general attitude or feeling maintained by many people that no-body cares — including God about what I think and what I do with my life.

All over this country new communities are being established and folks are on the move. Technological advances are forcing swift changes upon individuals and communities alike. Therefore, the answer to the above question is more important now than ever before, simply because of the vast number of young people who are asking the question.

God cares about each one of us. The Bible from the beginning to end is a living testimony of His concern for our well being. The teachings of Jesus, and His very personal ministry, was very much concerned with the answer to this question, "Who cares?" He told us that God does care.

The major response to this question is, do you care for God? Do you really consider Him important? Do you include God in your plans? Do you consider life sacred enough to ask for God's guidance in your daily life? Is God in the center of your life, in all your hopes and plans for the future? Only you can provide this answer, and your answer will tell you any doubt that God cares for me.

Elon Repeats Asir

Earlier this month the cream of the athletic crop of seven colleges located at various spots along the eastern seaboard converged on Camp Lejeune where for three days they loped up and down the hardwood floor of Goettge Memorial Field House in pursuit of fame in the form of a brown sphere with a circumference not greater than 30 inches and not less than 29½.

Chasing these young athletes were two older men who displayed a penchant for tootling merrily on policeman whistles and gesturing wildly, much to the agitation of the "father image" type men who could be observed shouting, pacing, throwing towels, begging, threatening, and in other ways spurring their young men "On To Victory" from the sidelines.

Anyone who attended the doings may remember the rather short, slightly stooped player on the Elon team who prowled around the outskirts of the main action. He wore number 10. Roland Miller is his name. Mostly all he did was stand behind one of his team mates and shoot baskets from 40 to 50 feet away from the goal. Once in a while his shot would nick the rim before it went in, but most of the time they just swished through the net. Miller is the man who made six straight goals against Camp Lejeune from about 40 feet to help put the Marines in fourth place.

All told, it was a fine tournament, although attendance was rather poor, and it would have been even better if our team could have came out on top. Oh well, maybe next year . . .

THE MUSIC MAN

The Music Man makes a grand, flourishing showing on the screen after three and a half years on Broadway, with all flags flying and "76 Trombones" blowing their loudest. Robert Preston, the gay and friendly super-salesman, trying to organize boys' bands and selling them uniforms and instruments with the promise of the necessary music lessons. Since he himself can't read a note of music, it is his custom to leave town before this is found out. One town is different, however, and love puts him in its trap. Starring along with Preston is Shirley Jones.

MAGNIFICENT SINNER

A background of historical accuracy gives this story of Russian royalty and tragedy added spice for a rating of a well-produced, well-acted and colorful film. Produced in France, but with English so well-dubbed in, this movie has not received the usual objection to dubbed-in movies. Curt Jurgens and Romy Schneider portray the two main characters of the story supported by many others.

THE QUICK AND THE DEAD

A fight for survival is the center of this one as an American infantry patrol finds itself well-battered by German artillery in Northern Italy in 1944. As the patrol dwindles down one by one, and is finally captured, two girls get into the picture, also prisoners. An escape is pulled in the confusion of a bombing attack and the action picks up again. Leading members of the patrol and the two girls are Larry Mann, Victor French, Jon Cedar, James Almanzar, Louis Massad while Majel Barrett and Sandy Donigan portray the two girls.

FIVE MINUTES TO LIVE

"Five Minutes To Live," power-packed drama of a psychopathic killer and his reign of terror in a calm, quiet, suburban town, stars Johnny Cash, Cay Forester, Donald Woods and Pamela Mason.

The exciting action-suspense film tells the story of a housewife held and tortured at gun point in her own home by a psychopathic killer for the purpose of forcing her husband, a bank official, to turn over a cash fortune from the bank's vault to the killer's partner. Suspense is heightened when it is learned that the banker is planning to run away with another woman and looks upon the circumstances as a perfect way to rid himself of his wife.

2d Division's Decorative Winner

HISTORIC FLAG—Col. John R. Reilly, U. S. Army (Ret.), displays the 45-star flag he presented to Maj. Gen. Bruno A. Hochmuth, commanding general of the San Diego Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Dec. 10. During the siege at Peking, China, in 1900, it was the only American flag available and belonged to the Marines who had carried it to China prior to 1900. The Marines provided this flag to cover the fallen body of Col. Reilly's father during the Boxer Rebellion siege.

Historic American Flag Returned To Marines

Sixty-three years ago, Marines of the Peking Legation in China provided a 45-star, silk American flag to cover the body of Army Captain H. J. Reilly, 5th U. S. Artillery. He was killed during the siege of Peking during the Boxer Rebellion in 1900.

That flag was returned to the Marine Corps by Captain Reilly's son, Colonel John R. Reilly, 76, U. S. Army (Ret.).

Major General Bruno A. Hochmuth, commanding general, Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, accepted the flag for the Marine Corps on behalf of the Marine Corps Museum located at Quantico, Va.

The banner has a background of considerable historic significance. It first went to China with the Marines prior to 1900, and was the only American flag available in Peking at the time of Capt. Reilly's death. Blood stains from his fatal wounds can still be seen on the flag.

Captain Reilly was shot down while directing the fire of his artillery during the siege on The Forbidden City.

Because it was the only U. S. flag, the American Minister attempted to remove it from the fallen form. But Army General A. Chaffee would not allow it, saying, "If it's the last American flag in China it shall be buried with Reilly." The Minister desisted.

That same afternoon Captain Reilly was buried with full military honors in the Legation compound. The flag, however, was retrieved just prior to lowering of the coffin in its grave.

In his original letter, offering to return the flag to the Marine Corps, Col. Reilly said, "...real Boxer Campaign items are becoming scarcer all the time. I am 76 years old.... and am disposing of everything worth putting in the right place."

MCB MSgt. Commended

MSgt. Norman J. Follis, H&S Co., Base Material Battalion received a letter of commendation last week from Maj. Gen. A. L. Bowser, commanding general, Marine Corps Base, for his outstanding performance of duties during the past two and one half years.

The letter of commendation read in part, "During the past two and one half years your performance as Supply Chief of Central Shop Stores has been outstanding. You have provided stability and continuity which otherwise would have been absent due to the frequent change of officers in charge. Your professional skill, mature judgment and devotion to duty enabled you to accomplish all assignments in a highly effective manner. Your supervisory techniques have encouraged maximum cooperation from all subordinates while simultaneously maintaining a high state of morale. Your excellent relations with military and civilian associates have provided harmonious working conditions and have avoided many potential problems.

Your exemplary manner has earned you the praise and respect of both military and civilian personnel within this command.

I wish to congratulate you on your devotion to duty. By your conduct you have contributed materially to the successful accomplishment of the mission of your organization."

MSgt. Follis is being transferred to the 8th Marine Corps Reserve and Recruitment District, New Orleans, La., for duty.

MILITARY SCHOOLING—The Suvorov military school system was established in Dec., 1943, by the Soviet Government to mold future leaders for the Soviet Army.

History Of Communism

Fevered Industry Rush Grips A Growing Russia

(Seventh of a series of 20 articles entitled The History of Communism, by MSgt. Walter Stewart, USMC. Reprinted by AFPS from the San Diego Chevron, Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.)

The third decade of the 20th Century was largely used by the Soviet Union--which is to say Stalin, since he was the prime power of that Republic--to entrench, Industry, Stalin's personal position, the strength of the Communist Party, and military might--all were solidified.

The Thirties began in a fevered rush of industrialization, i. e., the carrying out of the Five-Year Plan begun in 1928. In bringing the directors of industry to heel, Stalin was, in the words of author I. Deutscher, "the arch-intimidator, the arch prodger, and the arch-cajoler...."

There was appreciable opposition, both agriculturally and industrially to the unrealistic goals of the Five-Year Plan; Stalin was forced to slow down and a second Five-Year Plan (1932-1937) was not so ambitious. Nevertheless, by the end of the decade--Russia's economic attainments were amazing: coal increased 300 percent; oil production was up 200 percent; steel, employment and education had made impressive advancements.

Economic improvement brought much popularity to Stalin, even from "white (as opposed to "red" revolutionary) Russians, who began to accord him the status of national hero.

He had, in effect, employed in peace time what many governments have done in war: control and direct industrial and agrarian production. He strayed from other governments in that he used force to accommodate the desires of his people.

In strengthening his own position, Stalin held the infamous purge trials of 1936-38, felt serious crises were ahead--as, indeed, they were--and he wanted to take no chances on the overthrow of his regime by other political leaders.

With Andrei Vyshinsky prosecutor, Stalin sent to the deaths all those he considered capable of establishing a government. Warning to work, he also doomed thousands of others to prisons and concentration camps.

In the military alone, he rested some 20,000 officers (many of whom fell before firing squads). The victims faced ridiculous charges and only were honored with formal trials. Trotsky was sentenced to death, in absentia. He was later assassinated in Mexico in 1940.

In the late Thirties, the Russian people were given two constitutions and a new "authentic" history.

The constitution, among other high-sounding democratic phrases, permitted no opposition parties. "Freedom for all parties," Stalin said, "exists only in a society in which there are antagonistic classes whose interests are mutually hostile and irreconcilable. In the USSR there is ground for only one party."

The new history, written by Stalin's secretaries, rewrote every event of importance in the light of the purge trials.

Next week: Prosperity for War.
