Nov. 1 Deadline Set For Freedom Letters

Is your letter in the mail?
Final postmark for all letters to the Freedoms Foundation must be in the mail by November 1.

The theme for this year's letter is "What Can I Do For Freedom". The Freedoms
Foundation is asking for a letter from you in 500 words or less on the topic. There are incentives for the letter writing in the form of 101 cash awards with the top winner receiving a sizeable $1,000.

The money is a nice reason for taking part in the Letter Awards Program. However, it is not the most important. If we sit down and ask ourselves
the question "What Can I Do
For Freedom?", we may realize that we have not been applying ourselves to this goal in the manner we should. Also we may come up with a clearer idea on just what we can do for freedom.

Their address--Freedoms
Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa.

FISH FRY--Maj. M. F. Mehlinger, commanding officer, Base Mat. Bn., is presented $381.03 for the United Fund Drive by Mr. Sam Smith, Leading Preservation Mechanic, Preservation and Packing section of the base. Mr. Smith raised the money through a fish fry held at the Preservation and Packing warehouse last week.

RC Blood-Mobile Visit Scheduled

The American Red Cross Blood-Mobile will visit Camp Lejeune next Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 5-6, seeking volunteer donors.

The Blood-Mobile will be located at the Marston Pavilion and will operate from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. both Tuesday and Wednesday. Enclosure One of Base Bulletin 6530, Oct. 15, 1963, contains the eligibility requirements for donors and all prospective donors should familiarize themselves with these requirements in order to reduce the number of rejects at the Blood-Mobile.

Donors should eat something light prior to donations, but should refrain from eating fatty foods such as gravies, creams and fried foods.

Units are requested to have the following numbers of donors report to Marston Pavilion on the dates and at the times indicated. It is imperative that the schedule be followed closely in order to facilitate operations and units will provide their own transportation.

tion."

Mr. Chuck Benson, drive chairman for Onslow County, reported Tuesday, October 29, that the County goal of $24,000 was 33 per cent completed on that date.

"We didn't get off to as fast a start as we had hoped," Benson stated, "but the returns from the County are coming in better now and I'm feeling much encouraged. I feel like we'll make the goal before it's all over."

If the Camp Lejeune and Onslow County campaign workers are successful, they will have $120,000 to divide among the 28 participating organizations that receive all or a part of their support from the United Fund.

GySgt. Gets Appreciation Of Chinese Commandant

GySgt. Gerald P. McKay, 2d AT Bn., 2d Marine Division, received a letter of appreciation last Wednesday from Cheng Wei-Yuan, Commandant, Chinese Marine Corps for his assistance to the Nationalist Chinese Marines from November 1961 to August 1963.

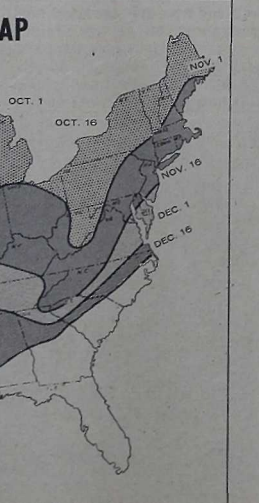

The letter commended GySgt. McKay as an operational communications advisor to the Nationalist Chinese Marine Corps. According to the letter, he "... consistently devoted himself to improvements of communications operations, and assisted in obtaining equipment, conducting training, and the proper use and maintenance of switchboards. "During operation SHANTIAN," the letter continued, "the sergeant personally went aboard ship to observe the land-sea communications and made timely suggestions on the corrections of discrepancies. Through his advice, a long range training program has been formulated."

WINTER DRIVING TIP—A slippery winter may hinder your holiday leave travel. Snow tires or chains, required by law in certain areas, can save valuable time. This U. S. Weather Bureau map, showing the average date of the first snowfall, can be used to determine when to make the tire changeover. (Data in mountainous regions refers only to the lower levels.)

firing exercises at the sprawling Fort Bragg complex. Three of the regiment's four battalions made the trek westward to utilize the army's vast artillery firing ranges. The 3d Bn., remained at Camp Lejeune.

During the chilly two-week "siege", the regiment expended approximately 6,000 rounds of artillery ammunition. Setting up their guns in areas covering many miles of the huge army reservation, the batteries began firing three days after establishing gun emplacements.

Participating in numerous displacement exercises, the hard-working cannoneers displaced their guns from one position to another in numerous "battery tests". Many of the displacements were carried out over areas covering from 10 to 15 miles.

The entire problem was conducted to allow the 2d Division's artillery arm to flex its muscles in long-range firing exercises.

The problem was highlighted Oct. 7 by an inspection tour of regimental positions by Maj. Gen. W. J. Van Ryzin, Commanding General, 2d Marine Division, and Brig. Gen. R. McC. Tompkins, Assistant Division Commander.

The division leaders began their artillery inspection tour with a briefing by Col. Reichner at the 4th Bn's command post. From the briefing, they commenced the inspection of each battalion's gun positions.

The generals ate hot noon chow at the 2d Bn. field mess, before observing an afternoon "battery test", held by members of Battery "F", 2d Bn. Displacing from an area some 10 miles away, the F-2-10 cannoneers rapidly reset their guns, unloaded ammunition, and were ready to fire on the "enemy" within minutes after debarking from the trucks that transported them and their equipment from their former positions.

Historically, the 10th Marines have been using Fort Bragg since June 1951, when the Marine Corps signed an agreement with the U. S. Army through the Department of Defense. Since 1955, the regiment has been training, usually twice yearly, at the huge army installation.

Commanding Flame Tank No Simple Responsibility

Commanding 54 tons of deadly, destructive, fear producing machinery calls for a distinctive type Marine.

Such a Marine is Cpl. James M. Jones, Jr., who is a flame tank commander with the 2d Tank Bn., Force Troops.

Cpl. Jones, a seven year veteran of the Marine Corps and tanks, is assisted on his "flaming dragon" by a driver and a gunner. With Cpl. Jones's leadership these crewmen make the M67 flame tank one of the deadliest and most feared weapons in the Marine Corps.

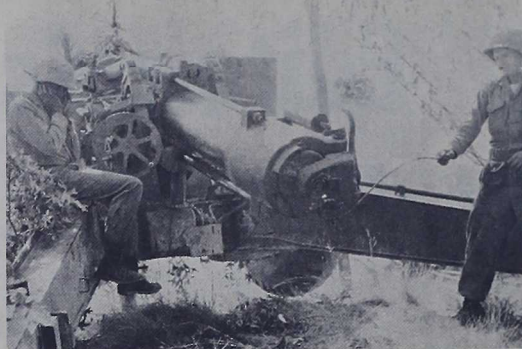

The mission of the flame tank is to destroy enemy fortifications such as bunkers and machine gun emplacements. The clearing of inaccessible areas such as caves also comes under a flame tank's mission.

Accomplishing this mission is attained by the main gun which can fire a deadly stream of napalm or other flammable gasoline up to a range of 300 yards.

A .50 caliber and .30 caliber machine gun are mounted on the flame tank for added fire power.

Correct employment of the flame tank is the most important factor and Cpl. Jones and his crew spend many hours in the classroom and in the field learning the correct procedures of employment.

Cpl. Jones summarizes his job as flame tank commander as "a responsibility not only to the Marine Corps, but to my crew as well. It is my responsibility to be sure that they 'know' the tank thoroughly."

Busy 20 Years Behind VMO-1

Marine Observation Squadron-1 (VMO-1), Marine Aircraft Group-26, MCAF, New River celebrated its twentieth year as an aviation squadron on October 27.

VMO-1, the oldest squadron in MAG-26, was commissioned at MCS Quantico, Va., on October 27, 1943, as an artillery spotting division. When organized it was known as VMO-155, the only squadron of its kind in the world.

The missions of VMO-1 today are varied and numerous. Although their primary is flying air support for FMF, Atlantic, they also engage their aircraft and crews in aerial photography and reconnaissance, message drops and pickups, supply drops, wire laying, medical evacuation and search and rescue.

Whether it is spotting enemy artillery naval gunfire, enemy troop movements or controlling our own ground and air fire power, VMO-1 maintains a busy schedule.

VMO-1 has been involved in all the major combat theaters since their conception. It was the first squadron to land on Guam. It is of interest to note that during the Guam operation, VMO-1 sustained neither wounded nor the loss of an aircraft in view of the 213 combat missions flown. These missions took place in an area of five to 10 miles behind enemy lines and at altitudes of 50 to 1,500 feet.

The squadron returned to the United States in January of 1948 and was assigned to the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing to assist with tactical and artillery observation. Except for spare parts and motor transport, they were a combat equipped unit.

From as early as 1948 to the present day VMO-1 has participated in the exercises of the 2d Division staged in the Caribbean area.

In its present role, VMO-1 works hand in hand with the artillery regiment of the Division, the 10th Marines, in field exercises at Fort Bragg, and flies all aerial observer students from FMF, Atlantic.

VMO-1's always ready attitude and its aggressive, resourceful spirit are fully exemplified by its motto, "CAN DO".

Engineers Begin Two-Year Project On Vieques Island

Company "D", 8th Engineer Bn., Force Troops, embarked aboard the USS Talbot County and the USS Cheyebogan County Oct. 16 at Morehead City, bound for Vieques, P. R. with 18,000 tons of material and equipment to be used in the modernization and expansion of Camp Garcia.

The two-year construction project, scheduled to begin Nov. 1 will see some 140 quonset huts, and Butler type buildings constructed. The buildings will be used for troop housing, administrative areas, warehouses, medical facilities, showers and heads, as well as a post exchange and service club.

The loading of the 18,000 tons of gear took approximately 66 hours to complete as the Engineers moved "lock, stock, and barrel" to Vieques where they will be deployed until April 1964.

To facilitate the loading project 2d Bridge Co., constructed a "bridge" between the loading ramp of the LST to the concrete pier, which aided the movement of the heavy engineer equipment.

Protect PX Privileges

As military personnel and dependents we are entitled to use all Marine Corps Exchange facilities. We may need small items or large items — only one or many — but all at rates lower than what a civilian pays.

Whatever the reason for using PX facilities—whether the convenience of being near or the lower rates — this privilege, like all others, must be protected and not abused.

Unfortunately, the individual abuser may not be the only one to lose his or her PX privileges. There are always those in Washington who would like to discontinue all service exchanges. The abusers only give these persons more ammunition for argument.

Don't be an abuser. Don't buy PX items, other than as a bona-fide gift, for anyone not authorized to use the exchange facilities. A gift is an item given for which nothing is expected in return. Accepting money for PX items, either before or after the actual purchase, is abusing your exchange privileges.

As an abuser, you are not only jeopardizing your privileges but the privileges of all military personnel.

Value Of Time

Ever wonder where all the time goes? It is such a busy world we live in today that often we simply cannot find the time or energy to do work properly.

The fact of the matter, however, is that we waste enough time each day to get all our work done and still have enough left over to relax.

Granted, one cannot work continuously throughout the day without a break or letup at sometime. But it is necessary to have the day broken up into tiny bits of work and disproportionate bits of rest?

A job to perform is your main object of the day. Constant concentration and a mind oriented to the task at hand can keep you going on the right track.

Never let time be your enemy. Make friends with it fast.

Chaplain's Corner

A Chinese jaywalker lay unconscious on the pavement of Joffre Lu in front of my jeep. It was Shanghai, October 11, 1950. The city had just celebrated the founding of the Republic of China, the new Peoples' Government, and the war was on in Korea. After preliminary booking I was held in the Lawza jail — being "an American person" — for traffic court the next morning. All night I sat on my shoes since the filthy cell was unfurnished. I was an enemy national and as a clergyman a member of a professional class hated by the "Army of Liberation." My exit visa was good for ten more days. The man was not badly injured, I could pay his hospital bill, but who would guarantee my bond? That afternoon J. C. Hsia walked into the jail, he was president of the Alumni Company of China, and a Chinese Christian. In a brief but tense ritual he placed his chop, his name, alongside mine, and I was free. J. C. by that act took full responsibility for me — an American in Communist China. Paul once wrote from prison "see with what large letters I have written" as he signed his name. It took courage for Paul to appeal to Caesar and face probable death in pagan Rome. It took Mr. Hsia as much to appear personally as a Christian and as the friend of a foreigner in Communist China. Our Bible says "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friend." I prize very much a Chinese driver's license which states that on a certain day "I made trouble." I treasure more the memory of a man who testified in a nation divided against itself that he was the friend of an American Christian. It's easy to be "a quiet Christian." But how often do we challenge temptation, sin, and prejudice, when we see it?

How bold are the letters with which you sing your name by His, who gave Himself because of a greater Love?

'Chimes At Midnight'

"Youth is the time to go flashing from one end of the world to the other," wrote Robert Louis Stevenson, "to try the manners of different nation: to hear the chimes at midnight."

Today's young military man faces greater opportunities and challenges of this sort than any other generation in history. He has been born in an age when miracles are occurring everywhere and when the air is filled with the throb of even greater marvels to come and when the opportunities for travel and learning are greater.

The military has accepted the responsibility of aiding these young men and women to become not only first-rate military personnel — but even more first-rate citizens. The Armed Forces have developed programs that enable its people to see themselves as participating in this most exciting era and to have a sense of purpose in relation to it.

The military man who views his educational opportunity simply as a means toward a better paying future job or improved position seriously misses the point of this education — or of life itself. True education help each man to find himself an individual and, further, him to involve himself in his interests and ideas larger and more enduring than he is.

All education has larger than just cramming its students with facts in order for each to earn a living. Our young military people must turn to education because they want to realize their full capacity as human beings and do their parts in creating a better world.

The military has undertaken to help every man in its organization develop into the broadest and deepest, most vital person possible. In fulfilling himself, the military man will arrive at moments of heightened insight where he sees more clearly than ever before what the world is all about and how he can better fit into it and perhaps "hear the bells chime at midnight."

MOVIE REVIEWS

A GATHERING OF EAGLES
 The Strategic Air Command (SAC), a remarkable unit of the U. S. Air Force, about which hangs an aura of glamor, excitement and suspense.

is the focal point of "A Gathering of Eagles." Rock Hudson portrays a colonel whose drive for perfection in a unit of SAC threatens to destroy the loyalty of the men under him and the love of his beautiful wife. Rod Taylor and pretty Mary Peach have lead roles, also.

THE SLAVE
 Steve Reeves again badboinks out onto the spectacle stage, flexing muscles, striking poses and producing another nauseous hero for another (of who knows how many) Italian "spectacles."

This time, Steve, as a Roman Superdoorman, is sent as a spy by Caesar to snoop on the court of a bad-guy type noble.

During the course of events, he single-handedly (as usual) manages to spark a slave rebellion and crunch a respectable number of skulls. Fair entertainment if you don't take any of it too seriously.

BETWEEN HEAVEN AND HELL
 Excellent! Bob Wagner stars as a young Army NCO in the middle of a gory Pacific Campaign. While his unit is being cut to pieces during a Jap attack, a young lieutenant goes berserk and kills three of his own men. Wagner strikes the officer, and is hurriedly transferred by his superiors.

He winds up in the sadistic crew of a front line outpost company. Excellent battle scenes, masterful use of color photography and solid, capable acting by the cast turns out a fine war picture.

51 DAYS AT PEKING
 One of the most bizarre occurrences in international political history was the so-called "Boxer Uprising" which took place in Peking, China, at the turn of the century.

Here, fanatical bands of nationalist Chinese, resentful of the incursions of the Western powers, turned themselves into armed bands and struck at the representatives of the West.

For two months, a small band of Marines and soldiers, hemmed in by the Chinese at bay at the international compound in Peking.

Charlton Heston, Ava Gardner, David Niven and John Ireland lead a powerful cast.

The background scenes are big and beautiful, and the photography and musical scores make this a memorable movie.

55 DAYS AT PEKING

THE ZANY HARMONICA RASCALS will be performing at Camp Lejeune on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd of November. They will be appearing at the following places at these times. Friday, Nov. 1, Geiger Trailer Park, 7:30 p.m.; Paradise Point Officers Club, 10 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 2, Jacksonville USO, 4 p.m., and the Montford Point Staff NCO Club at 11 p.m. On Sunday the Rascals will be at the Camp Theatre, 6 p.m. and the NCO Club at 9 p.m.

Eustis Downs Devildogs; 1st ECI Loss For Marines

The Devildogs took their first conference loss of the season last Sunday when they went down 13-7 to the Fort Eustis Wheels in a football game delayed one day by Hurricane Ginny.

Prior to this game Fort Eustis and Camp Lejeune were tied for second place in the East Coast Interservice Conference (ECIC) with two wins and no losses.

The Wheels got on the scoreboard in the first period, capitalizing on a Marine fumble. Taking possession of the ball on the Lejeune 36 yard line, the Army eleven moved down to the 13. Quarterback Ben Charles then fired a pass to Tom Boris who made a diving catch in the end zone. George Burdette kicked the PAT.

The Marine cause took another set-back early in the second half in the form of an intercepted pass. Charlie Robinson snatched an aerial thrown by Warner Terhes and returned it 36 yards to set the score at 13-0.

Marines Rally

In the last part of the fourth quarter the Devildogs finally worked their way across the Army goal. A pass interference penalty helped set up the TD effort when split-end Charlie Heard was tripped up on the Wheels 29, trying to get a pass from Tony Harris. The ball was spotted where the infraction occurred.

Art Redden fought his way down to the eight yard mark on the next play. Harris got to the two on a keeper, then Redden took the ball in, going around the right side of the line. Clark Blake kicked the point after touchdown to set the game score at 13-7.

The Marines, with less than five minutes remaining in the game, made a determined effort to save the contest.

After the kick-off to the Army team, the defense tightened up, forcing the Wheels to kick.

Unable to move the ball enough for a first down, the Marines punted, but then held the Wheels offense, once more getting the ball after an Army punt.

Harris hit Redden on a screen pass play to advance the ball to the Wheels 43, then passed to John Level on the 36. From there, with less than a minute left in the game, Harris started hurling long passes into the end zone, narrowly missing Heard with two of them before the clock ran out.

Next Friday the Devildogs will face Fort Lee in a road game, without the services of first-string end, John Level, who was discharged earlier this week. Fort Lee has a two win three loss ECIC record for the season.

Local Marine Takes 2d In Canadian Karate Meet

Sergeant Sam Pearson, a local karate instructor, battled his way to second place in the black belt division of the 2d Annual Open Canadian Karate Championship held in Toronto, Canada last week.

In addition the Camp Lejeune Karate Club, represented by ten participants, with 1st Lt. Art Whittier in charge, took an unofficial second place, with a karate club from Toronto rated five years.

Called karate-doh (empty hand way), the sport is probably one of the most graceful, but potentially deadly of all body contact sports. Points are awarded for the striking of hand and foot blows which, if not "pulled" just before contact, could cripple or kill. An overly enthusiastic attack can draw a penalty for a karate player in the scoring.

first on a basis of number of rounds won per number of participants entered within a club.

Two white belt holders from Camp Lejeune, William Betha and Manuel Sustata got to the semi-finals, winning two matches before being eliminated.

Entered in the tournament were 18 karate clubs from the United States, and four from Canada. Over 150 Karate exponents were entered in the event, 22 of which were holders of black belts.

Shaen Higashi, from the host Tsuruka Karate Club defeated Pearson in the finals to become the Open Canadian Black Belt Champion. Higashi has been studying karate for about

The 19th Hole

By BOB SPENCER

Many people have asked me to explain how to play and what to wear in cold weather golfing.

You should try to cope with cold weather by wearing warm but not bulky clothing. At times I wear two loose fitting sweaters and a rain suit. The rain suit will keep out the cold wind. In very cold weather I wear a pair of gloves. (They are golf gloves made especially for this purpose.)

You should use three or four balls alternating them on each hole. Since the balls lose some of their resiliency in cold weather, try to keep them as warm as possible.

Quite often when it is cold it is also pretty windy. Therefore going into the wind, I over-club if it's a long shot. I take one more club than I would normally use to cover the distance.

If a short-iron is called for, I take two clubs more and punch it to keep the ball low and into the wind.

To play well in cold weather plan ahead and visualize what effect the weather will have on each shot. You must also check ground conditions such as hard or soggy turf.

Playing downwind use one club less, and since it is often hard to get the ball to set down, try landing on the front edge of the green and allow for considerable roll.

The tip of the week for the next issue will concern hitting from frozen turf.

RECORD BREAKER—Maj. James H. Landers, displays the fine group he fired on his record-breaking target.

Marine Major Establishes New Cap-and-Ball Record

Major James H. Landers, 2d Anti-tank Battalion, 2d Marine Division, set a new Cap-and-Ball revolver record Sept. 28-29, at the 28th National Skirmish, Winchester, Va.

Firing against 450 competitors, Maj. Landers also won top honors in the National Grand Aggregate, third place in the Civil War Musket Aggregate, and another third place in the Civil War Musket-Carbine Aggregate.

While posting his win in the revolver Aggregate at Winchester, Maj. Landers set a new National record at 25 yards slow-fire with a 98-2x out of a possible 100 points.

On Oct. 19-20, he journeyed to Richmond, Va., to compete in the Middle Atlantic Muzzle Loader Championship matches. While there, he shot his way to more victories by winning the fourth consecutive time.

In other matches, using an original flintlock "Kentucky" rifle, approximately 200 years "young", Maj. Landers won third place in the flintlock match, third place in the Off-hand Aggregate, and third place in the "Light Rifle" (less than 10 pounds) Aggregate.

An old hand at muzzle loaders, the major is a member of the 17th Virginia Infantry Regiment of the North-South Skirmish Association, and has defended his Cap-and-Ball Revolver Championship in three regional meets and five National Championship meets.

His weapons are all original and consist of an 1858 Remington .44 caliber cap-and-ball revolver, and 1862 Tower (British) .58 caliber cap-and-ball carbine with a 19-inch barrel, and a 1863 Remington .58 caliber Civil AR Musket.

Sportscasters Get Sec. Def. Award

Letters of appreciation by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara have been presented to sportscasters Walter L. "Red" Barber and Philip "Phil" Rizzuto for their services to Armed Forces Radio Service.

Col. Joseph D. Hornsby, USAF, Officer-in-Charge, Armed Forces Press, Radio, and Television Service presented the letters to the sportscasters at a ceremony in his New York office.

During such events as the All-Star Game and the World Series, the sportscasters contributed their time and efforts often at the expense of their convenience 56 times between 1958 and 1963.

Overseas listeners have commented enthusiastically on their broadcasts noting that they have made a considerable contribution to strengthening the morale of overseas audiences.

Halloween Could Be Fun; If Safety Steps Are Taken

Tradition is going to be carried out Thursday, October 31, by children all over the world. Halloween is the tradition that marks the day.

As dusk sets in October 31, knocks will be heard on the doors of residents in the Camp Lejeune area. The familiar words "Trick or Treat" will echo from the ghost, witch or goblin standing in your doorway. The fearful masqueraders you see are only seeking to frighten you into paying them for not inflicting some devilish trick. To keep property and personal belongings safe, offer a treat. This will satisfy the devilish ideas.

Along with providing the children with candy and cookies; we owe them the assurance that they can embark on their evening of adventures with a feeling of safety.

The masqueraders will be adorned with all sorts of Halloween masks which will reduce their vision to a critical point when walking from door to door and crossing streets. Watch for the "trick or treaters" as you drive.

This Halloween, when driving, a great deal of responsibility will be placed on the driver. Let's all be positively safe this Halloween and help make it a real treat for the children of the area.

American Appetites Rise; Consumer Records Set

Are you eating more now but enjoying it less? Or have you ever thought about it?

According to Agriculture Department figures, Americans are eating on the average 18 percent more food than they did a half century ago.

The reports show that per capita consumption has been increasing at the rate of about one fourth of one percent a year.

Reports indicate that per capita consumption has increased for meat, poultry, eggs, milk, fats and oils, fruits, vegetables, sugar, coffee, tea and cocoa.

But consumption of fish, potatoes, sweet potatoes and cereal products has declined.

With per capita consumption in 1947-1949 as a base, the Agriculture Department found an increase of 12 percent in the amount of meat eaten.

This year's per capita rate of consumption was estimated to be at record high levels for poultry and at near record levels for meat, fats and oils, and sugar.
