Holiday routine will pre-vail around Camp Lejeune next Monday, Labor Day, 1963. The Commissary and the Branch Store at the Air Facility will be closed on Monday and Tuesday, Sep-tember 2 and 3. get incentive pay. According to Mr, McNamara there Is little chance of the services getting any more pro-pay until it can be proven that it has a beneficial effect on retention. As he sees the situ-ation, it will take the rest of fiscal year 1964 and all of FY '65 to get an accurate reading of this, so the money slated for pro-pay will probably stay at the present level for the next two years.

Safety In Knowledge

Now that school is just around

Now that school is just around the corner and the small fry are very much in the limelight again it is time to bring a few remind-ers to parents and Marines. In the realm of driving it is wise to re-member that school zone signs are there for the safety of the school children and therefore must be obeyed by motorists. Recently in the Paradise Point and Berkeley Manor areas parents have reported their children bringing home clips of blank am-munition and old C-Ration cans unopened. These are hazards which must be with us to some degree because of the Marine training areas adjacent to housing areas. Parents can help by alerting their youngsters to the dangers inherent in small arms blank am-munition. The parafin wadding can tear a hole in small muscles or put out an eye. The black pow-der can cause painful burns. Un-opened C-Rations are a source of temptation for youngsters who want to sample the food daddy eats in the field. Cans however to rust through and exposure to the elements can taint the condo rust through and exposure to the elements can taint the con-tents and cause, if eaten, much discomfort and severe illness to children.

children. Even the most careful policing of a training area sometimes fails to clean up some items that are like buried treasure to playing children. Educate them to the dan-gers of blanks and abandoned rations

Lack of supervision has also been apparent recently when the PMO had to chase several young-sters out of New River where they had been swimming. There are designated safe swimming areas and for their own welfare par-ents should caution their children that New River is NOT one of them them them. The youthful age of some chil-dren at the unattended base the-atres has been startling to say the least. The number of children playing in the streets in the Berk-eley Manor and Tarawa Terrace housing areas appears to have in-creased of late. It all adds up to the simple fact that although we are on a military reservation and are on a military reservation and recreation programs, a free bus system, free theaters and play-grounds exist for our benefit the ultimate responsibility for the education, guidance and care of the child away from home is still very much the parent's responsibility. The rules and regulations gov-erning Camp Lejeune are design-ed with the good of all in mind. The idea is not so much one of restriction as it is to make Le-jeune a safer, better home for all who live here.

Highways Know No Rank

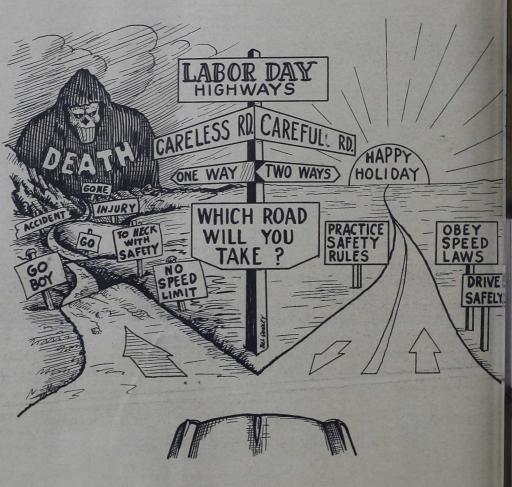

Labor Day weekend, 1963. Crowded highways, careless driv-ers and an increase in cemetery memberships. This will be an en-joyable weekend for most Ameri-cans, but not for a few hundred persons across the nation.

No one, military or civilian, regardless of rank or position is invulnerable to Death on a high-way. Whether you drive a car with a yellow, red, green or white Base sticker, it makes no difference on the highway. Neither color stick-er makes a vehicle immune to traffic accidents, although some

Camp Lejeune drivers seem to lieve so. Death has no preferer

Nor does the number or decal act as a special permit the driver to ignore traffic si and signals and to disregard "rules of the road," which add to safety on the highway

Enjoy your weekend — don't commit the crime of kill yourself or others on the high or elsewhere. DRIVE CAREF LY AND PLAY SAFELY. Rem ber — although you have holid Death takes no holiday.

that an explosion shot is re-quired. You should play this shot with your feet fairly close together, the hands a bit ahead of the clubhead, a slightly open stance, weight evenly distributed and the ball off your left instep. You should shorten your grfp so as not to overswing and also to get better control of this shot. Select a target about one-half to one inch from the ball, closer than usual, and execute the shot with a smooth, un-turried swing, as in other trap shots, a follow-through is es-sential. A lot is said and written about the National Rifle and Pistol Matches, around this time of the year. However, many people don't know exactly what they are. The National Matches were established by Act of Congress in 1903, The first matches were held in that year with partici-pation limited to teams from the Active Armed Services and State National Guard organiza-tions. tion tions. With the passage of the Na-tional Defense Act in 1916, parti-cipation of civilian teams from each state was also authorized, and the Small Arms Firing School became an important part of the National Match program in 1918, The National Championships of the National Rifle Association have been an important part of the National Match program from the begin-ning. ning.

Academic-Minded Division Marines Finish 450 MCI Courses in 4 Months

How do you think your unit stacks up academically?

Before you answer this, look at the record of Company "E", 2d Battalion, 8th Marines: In just four months their per-sonnel have completed more than 450 MCI courses.

This enviable achievement, which was practically an all-hands effort, was the brain child of 1st Lt. Clark S. Lam-bert, and Sgt. Raymond G. Belli-veau, the company's Education Officer and Education NCO.

Furthermore, the courses were not completed in the rela-tive tranquility of the company barracks, but aboard ship while the unit was participating in Landing Force Mediterranean 1-63. And although it's unknown if Company "E" has set any kind of a record, they've cer-

For N.Y. Recruiter

A New York "recruiter on the go", GySgt, Carmelo La Spada, now with H&S Bn., MCB, earned, through exceptional at-tention to duiy, a Meritorious Mast from the Director, 1st Marine Corps Reserve & Re-cruitment District, Col. A. F. Lucas.

Sgt. La Spada, while at the Marine Corps Recruiting Station, New York, earned both the admiration of the surround-ing populace and that of his superiors through the diligence he exhibited in accepting and carrying out duties not normally expected of a recruiter.

Among the most important of the many projects Sgt. La Spada undertook was an active Physical Fitness Program for high school students of the area.

In addition, La Spada per-formed the duties of Area Com-mander for the New Jersey area, and was in charge of publicity between the Main Sta-tion and the Recruiting SubStation located in the New Jersey area. His efforts "produced favorable and excellent pub-licity coverage in the New Jer-sey area, producing an increase in applicants for enlistment.
