delegates to the symposium had been hard at work all last week. All questions in the previously published agenda were thoroughly discussed and recommendations prepared for submission to Headquarters, Marine Corps.

In addition to the agenda items, delegates also added a few of their own making. Headquarters, Marine Corps also submitted some extra topics to the conference for consideration and recommendations.

At the closing of the symposium, Sgt. Maj. Frank A. Mills, symposium coordinator, expressed his belief that the delegates had carried out their mission in a most commendable way and that many good ideas were submitted which would be beneficial to the personnel of the Marine Corps.

General Shoup in his address praised the dedication and thoughtful thinking exhibited by the delegates. He went on to express the conviction that, in the symposium, many many ideas. Those we can adopt and others we can pursue further will be in the great interest of the Marine Corps. ## McMillan Wins Match; Sets New Pistol Record

Marine Captain William W. McMillan, using a .45 caliber pistol and hardball ammunition, captured the 1963 National Trophy Individual Pistol Championship at Camp Perry, Ohio, after defeating approximately 2000 of the nation's top shooters.

McMillan, NRA National Pistol Champion in 1959, and winner of an Olympic Gold Medal the same year, also set a new National Match Record in the event by firing a blazing 294-13X. The old record was 294-12X fired in 1960 by Army SFC Andrew N. Jackson.

In the NRA Championship Aggregate which was finished last Thursday, Captain McMillan was one of three of the nation's top military handgunners to beat the old National Match Record of 2635-128. However, he finished third behind Army SFC William Blankenship with a record shattering 2654-151X and Air Force SSgt. Alvin R. Merx with 2639-124X. McMillan finished the aggregate with 2638-133X.

Earlier in the week the Turtle Creek, Pa., Marine won the Center Fire, Timed Fire, match with a score of 200-17X for another new National Match Record. The old record of 200-16X was fired last year by Army SFC John H. Lingle.

In winning the National Trophy Match, which is fired over the National Match Course, McMillan won a plaque of the General Custer Trophy, a .45 Colt Pistol, and a gold watch from Navy Times.

McMillan is a member of the Marine Corps Rifle and Pistol Team stationed at Quantico, Va.

Marines Make Television Debut Through 'The Lieutenant' Series

"The Lieutenant" is the first series to tell the dramatic adventures of a young American who chooses the peacetime Marine Corps as a career. The full-hour show will be seen Saturday nights on NBC.

Starring Gary Lockwood in the title role and co-starring Robert Vaughn as his tough superior officer, "The Lieutenant" combines the spine-tingling tradition, pageantry and drama of the Corps with the zest, romances and crises of a young man who, at 24, is discovering that he is now an adult.

Gene Roddenberry, topflight television writer and winner of the Writers Guild Award for "best script of the year" in 1959, conceived the series in 1962 after developing the idea for two years.

"The most challenging and diversified career a young man could choose today is that of a Marine Corps officer where he has an incredible variety and scope of responsibility," Roddenberry says. "On one day, for example, he may find himself acting as a defense in a court martial, on another an air observer in a Mach-II jet or as an investigator in a defense plant. Many of the men under his command are older and more experienced. Others are teen-agers who consider him the 'old man'."

"Laid against this service drama is the whole kaleidoscope of a young man's personal life with his romances, problems and adventures."

The Marine Corps offered its enthusiastic cooperation from the top echelon of Commandant General David M. Shoup all the way down the ranks to the privates taking part in the first episode which was filmed at Camp Pendleton.

Pendleton provides a major locale for many episodes, but "The Lieutenant" company will film at varied sites. These include the Marine Corps Cold Weather Training Station high in the Sierra Nevadas, El Toro Air Station, San Diego Recruit Depot, all in California, aboard a carrier in the Pacific, and at Quantico, Va., San Clemente, a picturesque seaside city near Pendleton.

To authenticate all scenes involving Marine Corps activity, MGM obtained the services of Lt. Col. Clement Stadler as technical advisor. Stadler, officer-in-charge of the Marine Corps Information Office in Los Angeles, has been a Marine for 20 years. He is a veteran of the Guadalcanal, Tarawa, Saipan and Tinian campaigns and holds the nation's second highest award, the Navy Cross.

Although the stories for "The Lieutenant" are by professional writers, as soon as news of the series got around, there was a flood of ideas piling up on the producers' desks from hundreds of Marines who had unusual personal anecdotes to tell of their experiences in the Corps.

Base Bus On Trial; Better Schedule

Temporarily replacing the Industrial Area bus service on a trial basis, two buses, marked "Hadnot Point Bus 1A" and "1B" are now operating as the Intra-Base bus service. The amount of utilization of the present service during the trial period ending Sept. 20, will determine if it is being continued or dropped.

Bus "1A" departs the main terminal on the hour, 7 a. m. to 5 p. m., Monday through Saturday. Buses marked "1B" leaves the terminal on the half hour, 7:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Monday through Saturday.

The use of the Intra-Base bus system eliminates the necessity of persons waiting for a specific bus to go to a specific destination and also offers a wider range of stops.

Brown's Island Area Dangerous To All

Signs are designed with intent of conveying a message. Yet in the summer weeks since Onslow Beach again become a popular place for Marines and dependents, the message of DANGER in bold letters has been ignored by many. The area north of Onslow Beach is an area of danger and possible death for those who do not heed the warning signs put up for their safety benefit.

Shell gatherers and fishermen of all ages beware. The shells infesting the Brown's Island Range area know no sex nor age when they explode to maim and kill those foolish enough to enter their domain.

Brown's Island Inlet not north of Onslow Beach is a target and bombing impact area for the Marines at Camp Lejeune. It is virtually an arsenal of unexploded and dangerous ordnance. This stock pile, however, is just waiting for the careless foot or unwary boat to set it off.

The deadly projectiles are always visible to the eye. They have become embedded in the sands of Brown's Island or surrounding shlands while still others are concealed by water and shifting sands. They have come both land and sea, capable of killing and maiming for life. Due to the inaccessibility of many sections of the swampy lowlands in this impact area, explosive ordnance personnel are only able to remove or neutralize about 10 per cent of the live shells.

Stay Out

Federal regulations concerning the Brown's Island area read in part: "All navigable waters between the south bank of Bear Creek and the north bank of the north connecting channel between the Atlantic Intercoastal Waterway and and Brown's Inlet will be closed to navigation at all times.

Vessels may pass through the north connecting channel and the south connecting channel (Bank's Channel) between the Intercoastal Waterway and Brown's Inlet to the ocean whenever the military is not using the area. Extreme caution is urged when using these waters. Unusual water turbulence could trigger the unpredictable explosives."

Warning by Base officials of military use of the impact area and surrounding waterways is periodically inserted in the weekly "Notices to Mariners," local news media and Base firing bulletins.

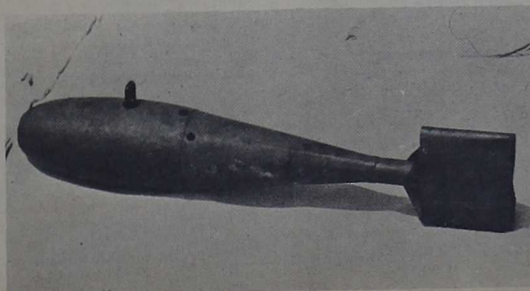

In addition to published warnings, large and numerous "Impact Area" signs are posted throughout the danger area and in the water approaches to the area.

Regulations prohibit Marines from entering any danger impact area, at any time, including that of Brown's Island. This does not mean, however, that all others should enter the danger area.

That fish you are seeking or that rare sea shell you are after may be more than you bargained for — but you would not be able to show it to your family or friends. Heed the signs of safety.

Safe Thinking

From July 1 of this year to the 15th of this month, there has been an increase of accidents on base due to drivers failing to see that their intended moves could be made in safety. None of these accidents have proven fatal, and in some cases little damage was reported.

However, this does not mean accidents of this nature will always result in light damage or without the loss of life. The life that may one day be taken in a "failure to see" accident could be that of a member of your family, a best friend or even your own.

One means of avoiding these unnecessary accidents is to simply use the gifts from our Creator. Gifts such as seeing, hearing and the ability to think. The more drivers who put these gifts to good use, the more drivers and passengers there will be who stay alive and unharmed.

Chaplain's Corner

We ask ourselves what is the greatest thing in life itself, and yet there are so many great things in life. We turn our thoughts to a great man called Paul to find out his thoughts of the greatest thing in the world. Paul, a man of experience on both sides — the believer and unbeliever — a man of learning, leadership, and courage of his day.

In the 13th Chapter of I Corinthians, he gives us the greatest thing in the world. Paul tells us that knowledge of all things in life is not the greatest. Faith by itself cannot stand in the storm of life's problems. Man can live and dream, hope from day to day, but hope by itself will soon fade away in life. Paul, looking back on the road of experience in this world, tells us three great things abide — faith, hope, love — but the greatest of these is love. First, love for God in our lives; secondly, love for our fellowman.

Regardless of what life may hold for us, surely love in our hearts will abide forever, thus love becomes the greatest thing in the world.

As in checkers and chess, think out your move before you make it.

Nameless Bugs

Artists and poets have frequently used the surf and sands as the subjects of their works. The sound of the breakers crashing on the beach, the scenic view of sand dunes, a stretching beach and the white foam of the surf has long captured their creative imaginations.

Then came beer cans, drinking cups, paper plates, napkins and food wrappers — gone is the scenic beauty at the ocean's edge.

In an effort to curb this scene-destroying litter, cans and baskets had been placed in a convenient quantity where they could do the most good.

Yet, when the writer of this article goes to Onslow Beach in his off-duty hours, he finds ready evidence that the litter bugs had been there before him. The paper debris on the sand tells the story of their lives. They make a mess, lay in it and then leave it for someone else to clean up.

The GLOBE salutes the Marines and families who use Camp Lejeune's beach facilities and keep it clean considering those who come to the beach after them.

As for those who litter the beach with their trash, consider the fact that even animals have a strong sense of cleanliness.

Steps To Security

Since World War II, the word "espionage" has become more frequently used throughout the world. Espionage itself, however, is as old as recorded history. The Egyptians had organized a secret service 5,000 years ago.

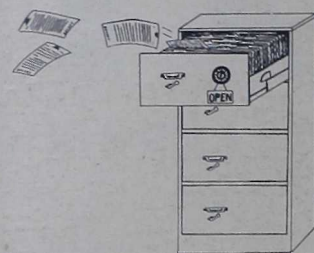

Espionage, in the practice between governments, is defined by Encyclopedia Britannica as "the attempt to obtain clandestinely or

Not all secret information passes into the hands of espionage agents through official documents and high government or Defense Department officials. The wrong ears may often succeed in gaining important information by sitting at the right table or booth in a restaurant or on the right stool at a bar. Information can be picked up through normal conversation on buses, trains, planes and even in car pools.

Security of military information does not rest on the shoulders of any one man or group. It is the responsibility of every individual in the armed forces. The responsibility rests with the newest private participating in an evaluation test of new equipment or weapons. It rests with the highest man who handles secret documents or other information that could prove useful to an agent of another government.

Thought and patience is needed on the part of the individual before speaking of the things he learns through his normal duties or inadvertently overhears. Whether the information, whether it concerns tests of equipment and weapons or other military matters, considered safe to be made public by the Department of Defense will make a public distribution.

Until information is publicly released by the Defense Department, every Marine aboard Camp Lejeune can hold up his end of the huge task of security of military information by remembering when off-duty, and "mum's word," to simply keep it "mum."

A LOOSE TONGUE

under false pretenses information concerning one government for transmission to another government." Espionage of today has generally been classified into two main categories — Political and Military.

Naturally, we of the military must be more concerned with the latter. Military espionage is directed toward securing all possible information, especially that of secret nature, concerning the armed forces.

MOVIE REVIEWS

GYPSY

Called "loud, long and lusty" by reviewers, this film is the screen production of the popular Broadway musical. The story tells of a Vaudeville mother, fighting to bring about a comeback in show business. The mother, played by Rosalind Russell, once a Vaudeville star in her own right, attempts the breakthrough with her children, but fails to realize that the corny Vaudeville acts are dead in modern entertainment. She drags her children from one whistle stop to another, finally ending up in a burlesque theatre.

LOVER COME BACK

This one can't mist for sheer comedy entertainment! Reviewers all over the country reported that the dialogue of the film was continuously drowned out by the delighted howls of the audience. The cast utilizes some of Hollywood's greatest comedy talent—Rock Hudson, Doris Day, Tony Randall, and Edie Adams. Set in the plush, but back-slapping splendor of the Madison Avenue advertising firms, the film is a hilarious spoof on high-finance advertising and the ulcer men (and women) who give birth to a wide variety of consumer junk.

DAYS OF WINE AND ROSES

Excellent! A masterpiece of dramatic entertainment, handled superbly by the versatile Jack Lemmon and the beautiful Lee Remick. Lemmon plays a little man in a big business firm with a job in public relations, which consists of "partying" clients and providing booze and frilly companions to aid the closing of accounts. Lemmon rebels, finds that he cannot fight the system and hides himself in alcohol. Lee Remick, at first repulsed by the nature of his work, is charmed by his school-boy attentions, but is caught up in his escape from reality through a bottle. The events that follow powerfully build to an unforgettable, suspense-filled ending. The entire performance is marked with straightforward, hard-hitting drama, charged with emotion. Drunk tank and rehabilitation scenes are disturbingly realistic. This is not light entertainment, and should be seen by adults and mature youth only. The film is definitely not suitable fare for the squeamish or the highly emotional! Rated "Superior" by reviewers.

THE GIRL CAN'T HELP IT

Released in 1957 at the peak of the "Rock And Roll" craze, this was Jayne Mansfield's first serious attempt in a lead movie role. In addition to the surprising acting ability of Miss Mansfield, when she comes busting out across the landscape in her first major screen appearance, ice melts, milk boils, and little newsboys' voices drop an octave. Supported by the comedy talent represented by Tom Ewell and Edmond O'Brien, the film develops into a fine comedy-musical with an impressive musical lineup. Top names from the rock 'n' roll roster include "Fats" Domino, The Platters, Little Richard and others. Also appearing in the film are Julie London and Ray Anthony. Rated "Excellent" by reviewers.

Warner Brothers will present "Days of Wine and Roses" early this year, starring two top stars, Jack Lemmon and Lee Remick.

The handsome challenger from Louisville, Ky., was reminded that Joe Louis held the title while serving in the Army during WWII.

Since Clay's interview, the proposed fight with heavyweight champion, Sonny Liston, Sept. 30, in Philadelphia, has been cancelled due to income tax problems on Liston's part.

The "Louisville Lip" said he was "gravely disappointed that I won't be the youngest heavyweight champ in history, because that big, ugly bear (Liston) is afraid of me."

He further added, "He's scared to death of me. I'm no Patterson. He's afraid of this little old kid beating him. A little kid, who doesn't even shave yet. Everybody says Liston is so bad and so mean, they say he'll kill me. He's just scared. I got tax problems too."

Clay said he has no fight plans for the future. He stated, tongue-in-cheek, that he's "thinking about retiring. I'm making so much money in outside businesses, that I don't really need the fight game."

He was referring to the record he is cutting in New York.

Places In Shelby Competition Won By Local Team

Fifteen members of the Camp Lejeune Dependent's Swim Team traveled to Shelby, N. C., for a four day meet in connection with the Carolina Junior Olympics earlier this month.

In the boys, age 15-17, 200 yard medley relay, Chip Patton, Frank Costanza, Dave Schmidt and Sammy Brooks stroked their way into fourth place. The same team captured seventh in the 200 yard free-style relay.

Laura Larson, Cindy Noren, Sarah Gardner, and Molly Country, placed seventh in the girls, age 13-14, medley relay.

Swimmers placing in individual events were: 50 yd. free style--Chip Patton, 2d; Dave Schmidt, 3d 100 yd. free style--Chip Patton, 4th; Frank Costanza, 6th 100 yd. individ. back stroke--Dave Schmidt, 6th.

Ginny Noren had a field day in the girl's events, placing sixth in the 50 yard breast stroke, fourth in the 50 yard free style, and fourth in the 100 yard individual medley.

The team will have a four week layoff and then begin practice again in the Area Five pool Sept. 3, after working hours. Until then any dependent child interested in competitive swimming is urged to come out to the pool for a tryout.

ITR Sweeps Golf Championship

First ITR won the Marine Corps Base Golf Tournament last week, in both the open and novice divisions.

In the open competition, ITR defeated Base Med. Bn., ASD Bn., and then won over H&S Bn. in a play-off. H&S was runner-up in the Tournament.

The novice team ran through all the competitors for a first place, with Engineer Schools coming in second.

The winners and runners-up in the base tournament are representing MCB in the Quad-Command Tourney which began day before yesterday.

Base Mat. Vs. 3/2 Tonight For All-Lejeune Softball Championship

Base Materiel Bn. and 3/2 will clash tonight for the All-Camp Lejeune Softball Championship at 7:30 p. m. The game will be played at the lighted softball field adjacent to Harry Agganis Field.

In the preliminary games of the tourney the Air Facility team #1 went down 4-1 at the hands of the Force Troops team #2.

Division team #1 (3/2) beat MCB team #2, 4-2. Force Troops team #1 eliminated the Division #2 team 7-4, and the MCB #1 team (Base Mat.) defeated the Air Facility #2 team in the final game of the preliminaries.

In the semi-finals Base Mat. won over the Air Facility #1 team to qualify for the final, by a 6-3 score.

In 3/2's semi-final game, the going wasn't as easy. Larry Hartzler buckled down to hurl a no-hit game, and needed it, as the opposing pitcher threw a one-hitter right back. However, the Force Troops team #2 went down 2-0, due to errors.

One run came home in the third inning for 3/2 when Allen walked, stole second, took third on an overthrow, and come in on a ground ball.

In the fourth frame Stone rapped out the only hit of the game when he singled, and later came home on an overthrow to first base that went into right field.

2d Division Heavyweight Beat Cassius Clay In '60

That modern gladiator of the prize ring, Cassius Marcellus Clay, really hasn't changed that much in three years.

So specifies another modern gladiator, Camp Lejeune's perennially popular Percy Price. The 6'3", 206-lb. Marine heavyweight is not only a good friend of Clay's, but holds the distinction of once having pounded out a three-round decision over the famous "Louisville Lip."

It all happened in Fort Dix, N. J., in April, 1960. Price, then, as now, a powerful, symmetrical heavyweight with a lethal left hook, was vying for the honor of representing the heavyweight division on America's Olympic Boxing Team. In a ten-bout "showdown" card at Fort Dix, Olympic officials were attempting to select the fighters best qualified to represent America in Rome.

Enter Cassius Marcellus Clay, a brilliant 18-year-old boxer-puncher out of Louisville, Ky., who was trying to make the big leap from the light-heavyweight to the heavyweight class in one dramatic sweep. Only one man--Price--stood in his way. If Clay could defeat the two-time All-Marine heavyweight champion, he would become the "big" man on the Olympic squad.

The fight was set for three, two-minute rounds. For all three heats, Price fought an inside battle, bobbing, weaving, banging to the body, and coming inside the defense of Clay. A poor "in-fighter," Cassius had very little chance for long-range punching, his specialty. At the end of the third round, Percy Price walked away with the decision, and went on to a third-place finish in the 1960 Olympics at Rome, representing the heavyweight class. Clay slipped back into the light-heavyweight division, and returned to America with a first-place gold medal, mountains of publicity, and a promising future.

In retrospect, Price has this to say about the "poetic pugilist": "When I fought him, he was very fast. He's still very fast. When I fought him, he held his hands low. He does the same thing now. All in all, I'd say Clay really hasn't changed that much in three years. He's put on about 20 pounds, but as a fighter, style-wise, I can't notice too much difference since 1960."

When asked if he thought Clay could beat Sonny Liston, Price smiled. "Not now. Liston's too strong. In another year or so he might have a chance. At present, I'd say Doug Jones would give Liston the best fight of any heavyweight around."

Philadelphia's 26-year-old Price, a Marine since October, 1955, still corresponds with Clay. "We became good friends," said Percy. "We sparred together and got to be roommates in Rome. He was always somewhat of a talker."

Price, a soft-spoken, polite giant of a man, also has his plans for the future: a place on the 1964 Olympic Boxing Team.

Head Coach Wanted For Varsity Basketball

Base Special Services is accepting applications for the position as head basketball coach of the 1963 Camp Lejeune varsity team. Applications, including experience and other pertinent data should be forwarded to Base Special Services, Goettge Memorial Field House, Bldg. 751, for consideration.

Local Skeet Team Wins 5-Man Title

A five-man team from Camp Lejeune captured top honors in the annual North Carolina Mid-Summer Skeet Tournament held at Pinehurst, N. C. July 26. In addition, a local two-man team won the Class AA 28 gauge two-man event.

Members of the five-man team were, Leland Ziegler, Edwin Vrieze, Eugene Brower, and Billy Sherrow. They turned in a team score of 478/500 for the match.

Eugene Brower and Clyde Hicks teamed up to take first place in the 28 gauge Class AA competition with a combined aggregate of 195/200.

In individual competition Edwin Vrieze was runner-up to the champion in the 28 gauge division with 50/50.

Besides shooting, members of the Camp Lejeune team served as officials during the match. The field of shooters was comprised of people from North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia.
