Navy Relief Fund Drive Goal Passed; Quad-Command Reaches 103 Percent

The combined efforts of all Commands at Camp Lejeune have pushed the 1963 Navy Relief Fund Drive over the top and beyond the $67,000 goal. At press time 69,015 or 103% of the goal had been received for Navy Relief with more to come. Membership cards remain available until noon Friday June 21.

Due to space limitations and incomplete returns the Globe may have missed some units on its 100 percent honor roll. It does wish to extend to all hands, however, a well done for a magnificent effort in the late stages of the drive.

The exact date of the awards presentation will be made known next week when all returns have been tabulated.

Those that have donated to the Navy Relief Drive have actually made an investment. The Navy Relief's Funds will be available for the personnel at Lejeune who find themselves in need of financial assistance, which is the basic goal of the Navy Relief Society.

The Quad-Command percentage standings are as follows: Marine Corps Base 48.38 percent; 2d Marine Division 83.8 percent; Force Troops 94. percent; and the Marine Corps Air Facility with 94. percent.

During the past week, 13 new comers have been placed on the Navy Relief Fund Drive's Honor Roll. Top Honors of the honor roll members go to the 1st Infantry Training Regiment with 358.99%.

6th MEU Holds 'Operation Clean House'

WITH THE 6TH NEU, June 4—Directed by Col. Robert W. L. Bross, the MEU commander, the deployed force-in-readiness began preparing to invade Hades and engage the "Aggressor" forces which had taken control of the island democracy.

Marines of the 2d Force Recon Co. parachuted into the vicinity of the selected helicopter landing zone, nearly 2000 combat-ready Marines stormed ashore to begin a systematic elimination of "aggressor" forces.

OPERATION CLEANHOUSE, as the amphibious landing exercise was called, utilized the Marine Corps "vertical envelopment" as well as the time-tested ship-to-shore assault tactics.

Company "E", BLT 2/6, commanded by Capt. R. V. Walker, flown ashore by helicopters from Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron 264, under the command of Maj. W. C. Carlson, landed behind enemy lines at Helicopter Landing Zone EAGLE, secured by the Marine paratroopers landed earlier.

The Marines immediately seized the Political Prisoners Stockade and moved to attack and secure the Main Reservoir and the Womens Detention Camp.

Upon completing its initial actions, the company advanced on Cerro Playuela Airfield, securing it and sending a force to Landing Zone PIGEON, where the Marines assisted in evacuating U. S. and other friendly nationals.

At the same time, Company "G", led by Capt. V. E. Firnstahl, landed across Red Pier secured it and began moving Northwest to assault a POL Farm fortified and controlled by the "aggressors."

Meanwhile, Company "H", driving across Blue Beach under the command of Capt.

T. G. Adams, easily overcame "enemy" forces occupying a

Sugar Cane Mill, the Guerrilla Training Camp and the island's Radio Station. During the circular sweeping drive, the company moved as an armored column, supported by tanks, onts and amphibious tractors.

Supporting the over-all assault exercise, aircraft from VMF (AW) 122 made precision strafing and bombing runs on targets, providing close "air-ground support" for the Landing Force.

Later that evening, after completing OPERATION CLEAN HOUSE, the Marines returned to the ships of Amphibious Squadron 10, to resume their three-month joint operational and "good-will" tour of the Caribbean.

Col. Bross' unit consists of BLT 2/6, commanded by Maj. R. D. Humphreys; Provisional Marine Air Group 40, led by Lt. Col. D. P. Casey, and the MEU Provisional Headquarters Company, under the command of Capt. C. L. Manwarring.

The 200-man Expeditionary Unit is scheduled to return to the United States in mid-July. It is currently enroute to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, where the Marines will a "Port of Call" visit prior to returning to the Vieques land, Puerto Rico, training area.

BLT 1/6 Troops Build Med. Friendship Through Time, Effort, Blood Donations

WITH THE U. S. SIXTH FLEET IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, Palermo, Sicily, June 3 (Delayed)— Through the volunteer blood contributions of Battalion Landing Team 1-6 the Sicilian Branch of the Italian Red Cross hopes to gain the interest of Sicilians to donate for their own needs accordingly.

Blood for Sicilian hospitals and emergency centers has been previously obtained from the Italian Red Cross of Italy since the Sicilian branch, until two months ago, lacked the facilities to extract the life saving fluid from its citizens.

Now, according to Dr. Walter Merlo, Staff MD for the Sicilian Red Cross branch, "The people must be made aware that through these new facilities, their need for blood must come from their own contributions."

Battalion Landing Team 1-6, under the command of Lt. Col. M. W. Schmidt, is the first unit of the 2d Marine Division to volunteer blood donations on the island of Sicily.

The campaign got underway when the new Sicilian Red Cross bloodmobile stopped on the pier next to the USS Francis Marion. A long line of blood contributing Marines and sailors kept the Red Cross workers busy until late afternoon.

According to Dr. Merlo, who met the following day with Lt. James J. Quinn, (MC), USNR, aboard the Francis Marion, "The publicity concerning the blood contributions of the Marines and sailors in Palermo's newspapers should inspire the Sicilian people to do likewise."

Through the efforts of 85 Marines from BLT 1/6, the dreams of a Sicilian Monsignor for a "Boys Town" of Palermo are a few degrees nearer reality.

The Monsignor, affectionately referred to as "Father" Bonodono Vito, is the director of the Casa Del Fanciullo, (Boys Home) which three years ago was an abandoned train depot located on the outskirts of Palermo.

Three buildings formed the original depot. One of these, a two-story structure consisting of twelve small rooms serves as a dormitory. The interior of this structure was completely painted "Marine Corps green" and the outside shutters coated brown.

Another building, measuring 64'X20', formerly used as a repair shop serves as a study hall. Father Vito was seriously concerned about this dwelling because of large holes in the roof. Sunlight passed through and in winter, it was a building impossible to heat.

Marine engineers replaced broken tiles and used cement to seal off the overhead leaks. Inside, they installed a new false ceiling and completely painted the interior.

In the parish church, Marines painted all the pews and doors. To Father Vito, the crowning joy was the installation of an intercom system, presented by the Marines, linking all the buildings with a central station in his office.

Outside, the Marines labored to extract 100-yards of railroad track, 50-yards of which was buried beneath hardened soil. The steel is to be scrapped and the money used for modernization.

In the future, Father Vito plans for modernization. A year ago he had prints drawn for a three-story centralized unit. Asked when construction would begin and from where financial aid for the project was originating, Father Vito said, "When? I do not know. I pray and I hope. As for the help, that comes from heaven and the goodness of people like these United States Marines."

In return for their labors, the 85 Marines enjoyed a surprise spaghetti dinner prepared by the two cooks who work at the orphanage. Father Vito walked from man to man during the dinner and through use of his interpreter, asked the question, "Is this as good as Brooklyn spaghetti?"

Each of the 127 orphans was presented a new shiny 100 lire piece as a personal gift from the U. S. Marines just before they left.

Vieques-Lejeune Communications

Up To 8th Comm.

Radio Relay and Construction Co., 8th Comm. Bn., Force Troops has the task of operating and maintaining communications at Camp Garcia, Vieques, Puerto Rico.

The communicators' mission is to keep a radio circuit between Camp Garcia and Camp Lejeune and internal communications for Camp Garcia. They also support all MEU and BLT operations, plus radio relay communications with the Naval Air Station at Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico.

The unit repairs its own equipment including fourth echelon repairs and are now looking forward to moving to a new concrete building being built for them by 8th Engineers.

1st Lt. Graydon S. McKee, section leader, remarked that the ham station which they operate is one of the most popular places at Camp Garcia. The station enables the detachment personnel to talk with their families in the states.

On a sentimental basis they have the upkeep of a grave of an unidentified human male skeleton found on the beach in April 1962. The skeleton was sent to the FBI where they were unable to identify the human remains. The skeleton was sent back to the detachment where it was buried in April 1963 alongside their mascot, Smitty, Jr., a land crab.

24 Surgical Teams For Naval Reserve

The first of 24 proposed Naval Reserve surgical teams that would serve with the Fleet Marine Force in an emergency is expected to be established some time between July and September.

The Navy hopes to have a dozen teams "operating" by the end of fiscal 1964, and the remainder as soon thereafter as possible. Each team will consist of two surgeons, an anesthesiologist and 12 enlisted hospital corpsmen qualified in operating room techniques.

Some of these new surgical teams would possibly serve with the 4th Marine Division should it be called to active duty in a national emergency.

The Navy now has 20 surgical teams on duty assigned to the staffs of 14 naval hospitals around the world. They are ready to go on independent duty or to the field with the Marines on short notice.

1st Lt. C. L. Browder, Jr. assigned to the 2d Marine Division for duty. He subsequently served as a platoon leader in Company "C", 1st Bn., 8th Marines and as liaison officer for that battalion. He is a graduate of Bob Jones University, Greenville, S. C., and holds a baccalaureate degree in history and English.

LINE UP TO SAVE A LIFE—Marines of Battalion Landing Team 1/6 line up outside the new Sicilian bloodmobile to answer the call for blood donors on behalf of the Sicilian Branch of the Italian Red Cross at Palermo, Sicily where BLT 1/6 visited from May 29 to June 3.

EDITORIALS

SCHOOLS ARE BARE--MOTORISTS BEWARE

School is out and that means the younger set will be very much in evidence during the coming days of summer vacation. It also means that those of us who drive will have to be doubly careful at all times. The happy youngster engaged in a game or chasing a ball doesn't always stop to think or realize where his running legs carry him. Drivers are urged to observe all traffic signs and be particularly on the lookout in the densely populated areas of Jacksonville and the Base.

Parents by the same token are urged to encourage their children in learning good pedestrian habits.

Awakeness

There is an old saying, "To be awake is to be alive."

Today in the United States the tired, sleepy citizen takes a big risk. The world in which we live is moving. Its citizens are moving too.

The man or woman who looks back may risk the fate of "Lot's wife" — the danger of being frozen or locked in place. If you're not alert the world will pass you by.

So, it behooves us to battle any form of stagnation. The man who carefully plans and picks his path and follows the road toward a definite goal, no matter how it winds or turns, is awake. And once awake he is better able to cope with life and its complexities.

"Wake up, America," is a common plea from the political rostrum of all parties. It is the call of the church and the appeal of the educator.

Nowhere is the need for alertness more pronounced than in the preparation, blast-off and orbital-tours of our astronauts. Here attention at all times — to the most minute details — insures success in a mission that may ultimately result in man's victory over space.

In the military, awareness of being and constant alertness, is a means of insuring rewarding individual and group life. For the sentry, the navigator or the IBM operator who misses the message from lack of awakeness, may deliver his country, our country, into the hand of the enemy.

Our slogan should be not only "Wake up, America," but "Stay Awake, Americans."

Dumpsters are a source of danger if for no other reason than that they obscure a driver's vision, allowing him small reaction time should a child suddenly dart in front of him. Bicycles are another potential hazard and as a driver must control his auto, so must a child control his bicycle. The rules of the road apply to a cyclist as well as the motorist. Motor vehicle and traffic regulations for Camp Lejeune are found in a booklet designated as Base Order P5560.2B issued to all drivers whose autos are registered at Camp Lejeune by the Provost Marshal's office.

Make the summer a happy one. Motorists, drive CAUTIOUSLY and with eyes on the road. Slow down when you see children playing until it becomes a reflex action. Parents, teach your children to obey the rules for pedestrians. The good pedestrians of today could well be the good motorists of tomorrow.

Beach Bugs

Sun, Sand and Surf. Those three words signify a recreation area, namely a beach. In turn, a beach signifies a place where one can relax and enjoy the pleasures offered at the sea side.

Can they be enjoyed though, when some persons have little or no regard and consideration for others. Is the beach enjoyable to the woman sitting with her baby while beer is dropped on her by others sitting in the pavilion above. This does not leave personal guests with a very good impression of Marines.

Consideration of others could be shown by persons on the beach if they would just police the area around them.

Beach 'litterbugs' are just as much a nuisance as those that litter the highways. A little thought for someone besides themselves could mean more pleasure and relaxation for all.

Chaplain's Corner

Let no man talk of freedom who will not have God for his Father. This freedom has its source in the source of human nature. The Founding Fathers of our nation phrased it well: "We are endowed by our Creator with certain unalienable rights." These rights are part of the freedom which the Creator gives to his human creatures. They cannot be destroyed by any power under God.

Let no man ask for liberty who will not obey God's moral law. It is insane to talk about liberty unless we talk about law. In this life you cannot ship somewhere east of a moral Suez, "where the best is like the worst, where there are no Ten Commandments, and a man can raise a thirst," because "where there are no Ten Commandments," there is no freedom, no liberty, no respect for human rights. Thus we must understand freedom not as an absolute, but as a relative term, relating everlasting bonds of justice and the service of God and Man.

Let no man claim any right which does not correspond to moral duty. Whenever men have claimed rights and neglected duties, they have brought utterly selfish, self righteous, and lamentably wrong. We are free, that is not all that we are. We are accountable — accountable for our freedom to God, to our neighbor, to our country. Let us accept this responsibility and serve the cause of Freedom with honor and accountability.

Corps' Mighty Missile -- HAWK

The 3d Light Anti-Aircraft Missile Battalion, newest unit of the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing, demonstrated the capability of their HAWK missiles June 6-7 at Camp Lejeune's Onslow Beach.

The two-day practice firing, culminating a 12-day field problem for the battalion, marked the first time the HAWK had been fired on the East Coast.

Witnessing the two-day live firing exercise were military and civilian officials, including representatives of the Raytheon Company, manufacturers of the HAWK missile.

Lt. Col. Edward D. Oglesby, commanding officer of the missile unit, briefed spectators on the unit's mission within the Wing and specifics of the shoot, including information regarding the highly sophisticated radar utilized with the HAWK. He pointed out that the 3d LAAM's radar is highly effective against low-flying supersonic aircraft capable of detecting planes flying at tree-top level and tracking them while ignoring stationary objects and vehicles on the ground.

Visitors watched as missiles sought and destroyed drone aircraft flying offshore. The drones, provided by the Navy's Utility Squadron-6, Norfolk, Va., were launched from the beach using JATO (jet assisted take-off). The 2d Wing's Marine Air Support Squadron-1 provided personnel and equipment for radar control of the drones.

Pushbutton Warfare

Ready—

Probably nothing has captivated the interest of man more than flying—especially flying without motors and propellers. History books tell of men who applied wax, or tar, to their arms, applied feathers to the substance, and jumped off mountain ledges. Their success was "short lived", however, for history tells, no one accomplished the feat.

About as close as man can get to flying is that done by a paratrooper or sky diver. These individuals have the ability to fall through space with remarkable accuracy while descending.

Like any other activity, if pleasure is removed, only work remains, and work is the primary interest of the Basic Airborne School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Only four weeks in length, the school is designed to make man forget that he is a part of human society—nothing but a coordinated machine capable of performing with such precision that his every reflex is a tutored reaction, done to perfection without thought.

This is the case of 1st Sgt. Francis M. Sweeney, Company "M", 3d Bn., 6th Marines, when he joined the ranks of more than 600 students to learn the intricacies of combat parachuting.

1st Sgt. Sweeney became known as student 567—all other identity became history. He wore no rank or insignia denoting title or service, and was subjected to rigors that a man his age (40 plus) should have forgotten years before.

Instructors at the school are referred to as "gorillas" (not openly) and before the course is completed, each man, from private to lieutenant colonel, dreams of the day he may have one of these instructors under his command.

Instructors couldn't care less how the men refer to them for they have one job—train and mold raw material into sinewy combat fighters necessary to complete an assigned mission.

If a student is found breaking a rule, he is punished—not with a "cat-o' nine"—but, is told to "DROP". He's then told, "Give me 10 airborne push-ups." If the student doesn't please the "boss" he's given the task again, and if necessary—again.

What's 20 or 30 push-ups?

Together they are able to provide the battery surveillance capabilities allowing it to have the quick reaction necessary in case of emergency. In other words, it is the battery itself that can acquire a target through the possibility of longer range radars relaying target information to the battery, eliminating the need for them to have their radar equipment in continuous operation. This makes it extremely difficult for an enemy to pinpoint the location of the battery through the use of its own radar.

The LAAM battalion fires 18 HAWK missiles annually to maintain proficiency with the weapon.

Sto Fantry School

Nothing for some people, but multiplied time and again over the course of a day, an Airborne student may have to do as many as 300 or 400.

Training isn't confined to push-ups, however. Movement from one area to another is always done at a jog or double time. Physical calisthenics are scheduled for one hour each day, and physical fitness tests are given each Friday.

Individuals must exceed the minimum acceptable exercises or they're not considered fit, and are dropped back one week. Other instructions familiarized the men with finer points of jumping, guiding a chute, landing without breaking bones, collapsing the chute so he won't be dragged across the terrain and injured, getting out of his harness and preparing for combat.

Some classes suffer more drop-outs than others but all classes run true to form--an average of about 50 percent won't make it. Hot weather and lack of sleep account for the majority of student drops.

The first three weeks of training are spent in getting the particulars and jumping from towers of various heights. In the fourth week, the men are taken aloft to jump. In fact, they will make five jumps in the fourth week.

While in school the men are rousted out of the sack at 2:30 a. m. and make chow call at 4 a. m. After their meal, they commence daily activities--physical training, inspection, classes and finally, free time when they can review everything they did during the day.

On next to the last day of school, the final jump is made. This is the big occasion, the day the honor student is selected. Prior to this day no one knows what his class standing is.

Now that the worst is behind them, each student takes a few minutes to reflect the training and rigors the "gorillas" put him through. As 1st Sgt. Swenson said, "Those guys really weren't too bad. They are all highly experienced jumpers, all NCOs and 'outstanding' in their field. They're the pick of the Airborne, and a great bunch of professionals to have on our side."

MARINES SWEEP DOUBLEHEADER

Lejeune Wins 13th In ECI Conference

The Camp Lejeune Marines defeated Ft. Belvoir 3-2 and 9-0 in the twi-light double header Tuesday night, bringing their East Coast Interservice Conference record to 13 victories and no defeats.

Frank Wilhelm (11-3) hurled the first game for the Marine nine. He was in trouble in the first inning, walking Felix Montoya and Dave Washington. Then, with one out, Nick Garofalo, the Army first-sacker, blasted the first pitch to left center for a double, driving in both base runners. Frank struck the next man out, and the sides were retired when the Ft. Belvoir third baseman grounded out.

Hal Norton started the Marines' offensive campaign in the third inning when he rapped a line drive between second and third for a single, with two outs. Cicero McClellan followed with a hard hit double to centerfield, driving in the first run. Chuck Teletchea brought in McClellan with a base hit, but was thrown out trying for second base, to end the inning.

The score remained tied 2-2 all until the last half of the eighth inning. Billy Garret started the Lejeune half of the stanza going, smacking a 350 foot drive to left center field for a double. Westindick was sent in the game to run for Garrett. McClellan then stroked a 400 foot blast to centerfield to bring Westindick home to end the ball game, 3-2. The game was scheduled for seven innings.

Wilhelm gave up five hits, four walks, and fanned eight batters.

Tom O'Leary singled, took second when Garcia walked, and scored after Bright bunted. Belvoir fumbled the ball, then threw it away.

When the smoke cleared Garcia was perched on third, with Alex Bright holding down second base. Buddy Sir singled to left field, scored. Billy Garrett drew a base on balls; in the mean time, Bright scored on a passed ball. Hal Norton got on first. Garrett was forced out at second on a fielders choice. McClellan got a base hit, and Teletchea drove him in with a single.

Marines Take All On 5 Game Trip

The Lejeune nine swept all five games of their last road trip, winning three games by shutouts.

In the first game of the trip, the Marines edged out Leonas, at Baltimore, Md., by 3-1 in 13 innings.

Ralph McIntyre started the game, pitching 6-2/3 innings, allowing 1 run, 5 hits, and 3 walks. Gene Caffrey got in the game in the seventh stanza, and pitched four innings. He was tagged for one hit, and walked one man. Reliever Dick Hall took the mound for the last 2-1/3 frames, giving up one hit, and striking out two men. Hall is credited with the win.

Scoring got under way in the third inning when Garcia drew a base on balls. Simpson then rapped a single out to left field. The ball got through the Leonas left fielder, and Garcia tallied. In the Leonas half of the third their pitcher, Holler, 1-1 in a single, followed by a three run blast from Swoboda, coming in Holler with the tying run.

The score remained tied 1-1 until the 13th inning, when Garcia again started the ball rolling, this time in a single. Hall sacrificed, Billy Simpson singled, and McClellan moved closer to home. Simpson then dropped the ball. Hal Norton drove in with a single, and Simpson scored. The run scored. The Marines won 3-1.

All-Pro Grid Star Trains With Div.

National Football League All-Pro defensive back, Erich Barnes of the New York Giants, traded his off-season civilian attire for the uniform of the Marines May 23, when he joined the 2d Marine Division for 30 days active duty training.

A member of the Marine Corps Reserve, 'E', as his teammates call him, joined the reserves after graduating from Purdue University in 1958, where he majored in education. Currently with Comm. Co., Hq. Bn., he is being trained in the operation and maintenance procedures of radio equipment used in support of the Division.

Taking the college-to-pro switch in stride after being picked up in the 1958 draft by the Chicago Bears, he turned in one of the most brilliant rookie performances in recent NFL history, and was selected as a member of the NFL All-Pro squad by Sporting News.

After three years with the Bears, he was involved in a trade which sent him to the Los Angeles Rams during the off-season, then on to the New York Giants for the 1961 season. It wasn't long before he "clicked" with the Giant defensive unit led by All-Pro's Sam Huff, Andy Robustelli, Jim Patton, and Dick Lynch. The 1961 season turned out to be his finest, as the nation's sportswriters voted him to their NFL All-Pro defensive squad.

In addition to regular season play Barnes played in the Pro Bowl three times as a member of the Eastern Division team. Last year he made the NFL coaches All-Pro team, considered by many as the most representative all-star team.

Asked what he expects of the Giants this year, he replied, "We're a year older, a year wiser, and a year more experienced." He then added, "We'll be as good as last year, plus some." This could be fair warning to upcoming Giant opponents.

Barnes will complete his military tour of duty June 21. After his tour of duty he plans to spend a few weeks with his family. Barnes will then go to the Fairfield University campus, in Conn., for pre-season training before starting his third year with the Giants.

FISHING

You fishermen with big game aspirations and panfish purses, take heart. King mackerel are being caught from the piers at Morehead City and Topsail Island. The big news on kings is the 41 lb. fish landed June 13, from a Topsail Island fishing pier. Lorenzo Godwin, of Jacksonville, landed the five foot long kingfish using a live bluefish for bait.

Although kings are hooked on artificial lures occasionally, most of the "old-timers" on the piers use a blue, preferably about a foot long, for bait. The blue is fished live, with a single hook through the back, just to the rear of the dorsal fin. A treble hook is rigged to hang about 1-1/2 feet below the single hook, using a wire leader for both the single and double hook. The whole works is floated with a large float (balloons can be used) and fed out to sea from the end of a pier. In addition to kingfish, an occasional tarpon or shark will hit this rig.

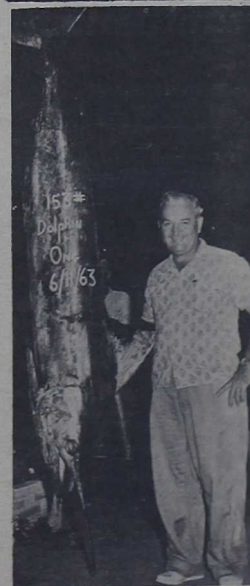

There have been large catches of bluefish reported. A father and son team caught 250 blues, and about 30 spanish mackerel from a pier at Emerald Isle.

Virginia mullet (whiting) are being caught in fairly good numbers, and flounder are being caught in limited quantities.

Several red drum (channel bass) were caught last week from the surf at Topsail Island. Cut mullet and a spinning outfit with 17 lb. test line accounted for one red drum weighing 28 lbs.

In blue marlin tournaments held recently at Morehead City, and Hatteras, 121 marlin were caught, most of which were released. There is also an abundance of kings, amberjack, and some big dolphin being caught offshore.

First Reserve Units Complete Field Training

Windy City Reserve riflemen from Chicago's 2d Battalion, 24th Marines, will "relieve" the Bayou Battalion from New Orleans this weekend as the 3d Battalion, 24th Marines completes its two weeks annual field training. Along with the 3d 155 Howitzer Battery, Connellsville, Pennsylvania; 1st Ordnance Field Maintenance Company, Columbia, Pa.; and the 5th Communications Company, Greensboro, N. C., the Louisiana Leathernecks will round out their training schedules tomorrow and depart Saturday.

Communications Company, Headquarters Battalion, 4th

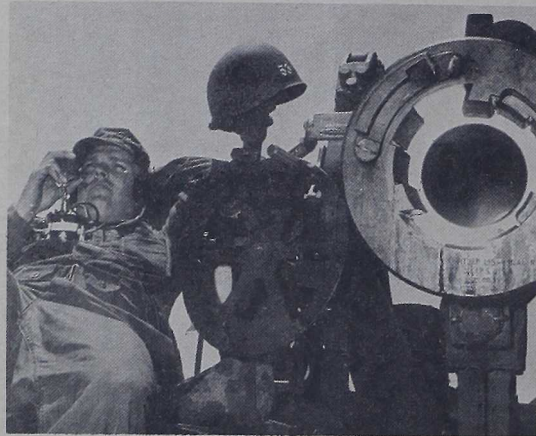

Marine Division, Cincinnati, Ohio; Material and Supply Maintenance Battalion, Norfolk, Va., Charleston, S. C., 4th Engineer Company; and the 31st Rifle Company, Johnson City, Tenn., will join the Chicago unit to make a total of 1507 Citizen Marines who will train here in the second two-week increment of summer training.

The riflemen from Johnson City, Tenn., and the Communicators from Cincinnati will fire the rifle range while the other units, who fire for record at their home armories this year, will start right in Monday with a program of training activities under the guidance of their 2d Division, 2d and Engineer Schools here. More than 8,600 Reserve Marines will pass through Camp Lejeune training technical schools and shore part of the 1963 annual training program, with the increment finishing their August 31.

Notice

Commissary Patrons

The Base Commissary will be installing air conditioning beginning this week. The work is expected to last for a period of approximately 30 days. During this time aisles will be partially blocked. The Commissary store requests that all its patrons bear with them during this temporary inconvenience, which will later prove to make shopping more pleasant.

Navy Approves Bi-Weekly Pay

The Navy has notified commanders that they are now authorized to pay their personnel every other week, on any given day, although the selection of day should be made to best meet with local conditions.

Some of the advantages of this new pay scheduling are that with pay every other week, pay days spanning three week-ends will be eliminated; it permits easier personal budgeting due to pay days being on a definite day of the week and for the majority of personnel, it means the same amount of pay each pay day.

When a regular day falls on a holiday, the pay day should be scheduled for the day preceding the holiday, unless there are local circumstances which dictate otherwise.

The main point of criticism of this rescheduling of Navy pay days, noted from conducted tests, was that the new pay system resulted in withholding of a small portion of the earned pay. After the first adjustment, however, regularity and the increase in the number of pay days compensated for the small withheld amount.

The notice also said the new pay system does not currently apply to Marine Corps personnel.

Commercial Lines Give Armed Forces Reduced Air Fares

Armed Forces personnel are offered special 50 percent Furlough Air Fares which became effective May 1. Eligibility for the special rates includes that a man be on official leave status, purchase his ticket and travel in uniform.

Also, travel under the reduced fare plan is on "stand by" basis. If space is available at departure time, a seat will be confirmed. Once confirmation has been received, no full-fare passenger is able to displace the service man.

However, should the trip mean changing planes at another point, the confirmation can only be made up to the point of transfer. The process of applying for a seat and receiving confirmation has to be repeated for further travel.

General information indicates that the days best suited for travel are week days, with the exceptions of Fridays, and a day or two before a major holiday.

JOIN ME SIR?—Navy Corpsman George H. Rhea, HM3, (left), offers Maj. Gen. James P. Berkeley, commanding general, Marine Corps Base, a cup of punch to join in a toast to the Naval Hospital Corps as Sharon Bailey, Mable Stokes and Judy Christman, HNs, stand ready to serve the cake during ceremonies commemorating the 65th Anniversary of the Navy Corpsmen. ## Gen. Berkeley Promotes Reservist Nearing End Of Career Begun In 1920

Marines in Haiti were the subject of conversation as Gunnery Sergeant Edward L. Newman, Sr., 3205 De Saix Blvd., New Orleans, and Maj. Gen. J. P. Berkeley, commanding general of Marine Corps Base, talked in the General's office Tuesday morning.

The action discussed was that of the "Old Corps", however, not the present. GySgt Newman served in Haiti in 1920 and 1921 during his first Marine Corps tour. Newman, a member of the 3d Battalion, 24th Marines, of New Orleans, will complete two weeks annual field training here tomorrow. He met General Berkeley Tuesday when the Base Commander delivered the sergeant's promotion warrant.

Newman, born in 1904, entered the Marine Corps in 1920 at the age of 16. He went through Boot Camp at Parris Island, South Carolina, and then spent the next 15 months fighting the Cacos guerrilla bandits who were terrorizing Haiti at that time. Later he served on border guard duty on the Haiti--Santo Domingo border.

At Quantico, Va., in 1923, Sergeant Newman was a member of the 10th Marine Regiment when ordered to Nicaragua where he served for nine months on patrols chasing the legendary Augusto Sandino through the tropical jungles.

After the Nicaraguan tour Newman extended for two years of duty in Hawaii where he served under Lieutenant "Chesty" Puller. He returned to New Orleans in 1933 where he was discharged.

World War II brought Sergeant Newman back into the Corps from 1942 to 1945, after which he again dropped back into the Marine Corps Reserve.

When he was recalled to active duty during the Korean conflict his son, Edward, Jr., then a Marine Reserve private first class went with him. Then a Staff Sergeant, Newman was assigned to a replacement draft at Camp Pendleton, but before the draft sailed, was pulled out and sent instead to Parris Island to train Women Marine recruits until his release in 1951.

Nearing 60 years of age, retirement will be mandatory. GySgt Newman will complete his Marine Corps service next May and retire, closing a career spanning 44 years.

Local LCpl. Commanded For Roadside Assistance

Playing the part of "Good Samaritan" along a highway has earned LCpl. James L. Rouse, ASD Bn., 2d FSR, a commendation letter to his commanding officer and a personal "thank you" from a Naval Reserve dental officer, Capt. James W. Bellows.

Regardless of the mud from recent rains and the prospect of getting his clothes greased, Rouse crawled under the car to search for the cause of the trouble. In a few minutes he had temporarily re-connected the accelerator pedal linkage. When he turned to crawl from under the car he saw a pair of Naval officers' shoes beside the car.

Returning from Greensboro, N. C., with his family on June 1, LCpl. Rouse spotted a station wagon with a woman and five children inside parked along a deserted stretch of Hwy. 70. Noting also that the car had a NAVY sticker on the rear window, Rouse stopped next to the parked car to offer assistance if needed. He learned that the car had just suddenly gone "dead" and could not be started, and the woman's husband had gone to seek help.

He met Capt. Bellows and learned that the captain had been walking in search of aid or a telephone with which to call for aid. According to LCpl. Rouse, however, there were no houses or gas stations within a distance of approximately 10 miles from the parked car.

The letter received by Rouse's commanding officer read in part:

"I believe this was an outstanding performance beyond normal, merely because LCpl. Rouse had observed the sticker on the rear window of my car and recognized a serviceman in trouble."
