Expeditionary Unit-6, of 1st Battalion, 6th Marine Regiment, returned to Camp Lejeune after elements of the unit were aboard the USS Boxer—commanded by the United States at Independence Celebration, Sept. 3.

At Trinidad, the 6th Marine Regiment was aboard the Boxer as it participated in the first 21-gun salute in unison with British, Canadian and other warships, welcoming the newest member of the family of nations.

A 21-gun salute was fired after the following day as the Trinidad flag was raised at Naval Station.

People-to-People Program continued Saturday and Sunday with 1,000 islanders aboard the Boxer.

Hundred children from Belmopan were entertained aboard the Boxer Saturday at a party and presentation of a plaque to the organization by Capt. J. A. Marks, Amphibious Squadron commander.

Evening, Marine and other participants in a reception at the American delegation at the U. S. Naval Station, William H. Christensen, in charge of affairs.

Col. Hitt Assumes Duties
At Marine Corps Base

Col. Wade H. Hitt assumed command of Headquarters and Service Battalion, Marine Corps Base, and duties as Central Area Commander last week, relieving Lt. Col. R. G. Howie, who is now the battalion's executive officer.

Prior to assuming the new command, Colonel Hitt was commanding officer of the 10th Marines, 2d Division, for more than a year and was relieved by Col. William P. Oliver Jr.

A veteran of more than 20 years active Marine Corps service, Colonel Hitt was awarded the Silver Star for heroism against the enemy while serving as a battery commander with the 10th Marines on Guadalcanal during WWII. He also was awarded two Purple Hearts during this campaign.

Again serving with the 10th Marines at Saipan he was awarded the Legion of Merit.

Following World War II, Colonel

Hitt was assigned as recruiting officer at Newark, N. J., and later in New York City. He attended the Amphibious Warfare School at Quantico, later becoming an instructor at the school.

Assigned to Yale University, Hitt served as executive officer of the NROTC unit until ordered to Korea where he served as executive officer, 11th Marines, and later as executive and commanding officer of West Coast Island Defense Unit.

Prior to his command of the 10th Marines, Colonel Hitt was Deputy Director and for a short period, Director of the 1st MCRRD. The colonel was promoted to his present rank while serving in that billet.

Following completion of the Senior Officer's Course at Quantico, the colonel served as Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, 2d Division, from June, 1960, until assuming command of the 10th Marines.

World News Bulletins

BERLIN — The British have permitted three Soviet armored cars to enter West Berlin despite a western demand that the Russians must use buses to transport their guards to the Soviet War Memorial. Two British military police jeeps escorted the Soviets on their half-mile drive into the British sector. The allies say the Russians will be given a little time to study the demand but, eventually, must stop using the armored cars.

CHICAGO — Representative Perkins Bass won the Republican nomination Tuesday for the Senate seat left vacant by the death of U. S. Senator Styles Bridges earlier this year. Bass defeated Bridges' widow in a New Hampshire primary which was one of nine held in the United States. Also in New Hampshire, State representative John Hillsbury upended GOP Governor Wesley Powell, who has been trying for an unprecedented third term.

HOUSTON — President Kennedy again dwelled on United States' plans for the conquest of space when he addressed a crowd of some 70,000 here earlier this week. Mr. Kennedy, after arriving from missile sites in Huntsville, Ala., and Cape Canaveral, said the U. S. has a long way to go but will be first at sending a man to the moon before 1970.

LONDON — General plans remain uncertain for the burial of 61-year old Robert Soblen who died Tuesday after being unconscious for five days following his suicide attempt. It was the second such attempt by Soblen who faced life imprisonment in the United States for giving Russia war time secrets.

Nation To Observe
'Citizenship' Day

An important day and an even more important week will be celebrated beginning Sept. 17. The President of the United States has proclaimed Sept. 17 as "Citizenship Day" and the week has been set aside in observance of the signing of the Constitution of the United States.

High School Test
Taken By 122
In Force Troops

Force Troops commands emphasized education for non-high school graduates recently as the overall program to raise the educational level of Marines in their units moved into mass testing for possible high school diplomas.

During the week of Aug. 27 to 31, 122 Marines from Force Troops Commands were tested in the USAFI High School Level GED Test. The battery of tests, included English Composition, Social Studies, Science, Mathematics and Literature, was administered to the group in five days, initiating the first mass GED testing held by Force Troops.

The test was held in Mess Hall 211, located in the 2d Marine area as it was the largest building available for this purpose.

Administering the tests were, SSgt. L. I. Blades, and Pfc E. M. Forbis, of the Base Education Office. In addition to the personnel from the Base Education Office, the Force Troops Education NCO, Sgt. R. E. Carver handled the job of supplying transportation to and from the mess hall and preparing the mess hall for the testing periods.

Units that had men tested were: 2d Field Artillery Group; 8th Engineer Battalion; 8th Motor Transport Battalion; 2d Tank Battalion; and 2d Amphibian Tractor Battalion.

President Kennedy has called upon American and naturalized American citizens to join in observance of our heritage and to "rededicate themselves to the faith of our founding fathers and to the ideals upon which this nation was established and built."

Formerly known as "Constitution" Day, Sept. 17 was observed as early as 1887 as special to the occasion. At that time a three-day, nation-wide celebration began with these words from President Grover Cleveland:

"... as we rejoice in the patriotism and devotion of those who lived a hundred years ago so may others who follow us rejoice in our fidelity and in our jealous love of constitutional liberty."

The 100th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution and reaffirmation of citizenship began the now 75-year observance of Sept. 17 by patriotic groups throughout America. Due to the number of "new" holidays, observance of Citizenship Day slackened.

In 1952 President Truman signed the bill passed by Congress uniting the two holidays as "Citizenship Day," to be observed on the day of the signing of our American Constitution, thus ending Constitution Week.

The proclamation signed by President Kennedy hails the observance of Citizenship Day and reinstitutes Constitution Week.

The President has requested "all Federal, State and local officials as well as all religious, civic, educational and other organizations" to hold appropriate ceremonies on Sept. 17 to inspire all our citizens to rededicate themselves.

The full story of Constitution Day and Citizenship Day can be read in "All About American Holidays," by Maymie R. Krythe.

Pioneer Battalion Has Retirement Ceremonies

Three 2d Division Marines — each with 20 years service in the Corps — were retired to the Fleet Marine Force Reserve during ceremonies held in Pioneer Battalion Aug. 30.

The three men are 1st Sgt. Calvin D. Clark, MSgt. Fred A. Williams, and GySgt. James H. Reid. They were honored by a battalion parade on the Base Parade Ground.

Prior to their retirement, they were thanked by their battalion commander, Lt Col. John F. Mentzer for their long service to the Marine Corps. Col. Mentzer also added his hopes that the three "enjoy a prosperous and long life."

Clark — a well known rifle and pistol marksman — entered the Marine Corps in Jan. 1943 and is one of the few Marines who ever saw action as a member of a PT boat crew.

He served as a machine gunner on a motor torpedo boat during raids throughout the Bismark Archipelago, Russell Island, Rendova, New Britain, New Hanover, and Manus Islands.

He joined the 2d Division in Feb. 1959 and became a member of the Division Rifle and Pistol Team.

He won numerous trophies up and down the east coast and took part in the Cassidy trophy match in the Mediterranean.

BLT-2-6 Conducts Guerrilla Exercise

WITH THE U. S. SIXTH FLEET IN THE MEDITERRANEAN —

"Almost immediately we began to feel the pressure. The first day we lost 20 percent of our food and water and the sleep we thought would come in the daytime failed to materialize."

With these words Capt. Jack W. Davis, commanding officer of Company "F", Battalion Landing Team 2/6 explained the difficulties experienced by his company during a realistic three-day guerrilla exercise that high-lighted extensive training exercises for the BLT at Porto Scudo, Sardinia.

During the Porto Scudo problem, Company "F" represented guerrilla forces assigned the mission of harassing the landing force in every way possible while protecting themselves. The ways and means of attack, maneuver and escape was left to the unit.

The problem called for the company to operate without support from the BLT. Food and water was hidden throughout the training area before the problem began. Each platoon had one or more hidden operating bases. The food and water allotment initially supplied would furnish the men with three combat-ration meals and two canteens of water a day. Every man in the platoons knew where the stores were hidden.

Capt. "Jack" explained that each platoon was designed to operate on a squad level (13 men), fire team level (four men) or on an individual level as tactical situations demanded.

Plans for the first night called for them to hit pre-selected targets in the beach support area. At about 9 p.m. Capt. Davis lost all communication with his platoons and had no clear idea of the effectiveness of what was going on until the end of the problem.

The harassing forces found beach security to be very good but in some cases squads got through the outer perimeters to accomplish their missions the first night. However, once they got through and attacked, many were captured on the way out.

With the coming of dawn BLT forces began vigorous patrol actions assisted by spotting and troop-carrying helicopters. The guerrillas immediately felt the pressure. Some units were cut off from their supply sources. Twenty percent of the supply caches were discovered and captured.

The guerrillas were driven to desperate means to recoupe their losses and were often captured. By the end of the problem more than 60 prisoners had been captured.

The rest that the guerrillas had expected during daylight hours did not come. Units became mentally tired trying to keep concealed from helicopters that were constantly flying overhead. They did not know if they had been spotted or not and expected to be forced to vacate the area on a moments notice.

Capt. Davis explained that a great deal of the effectiveness of the helicopter patrols during the problem was in their mental effect on the guerrillas. Too often the guerrillas moved when helicopters flew overhead. In cases where they did not move the helicopters flew right over well concealed guerrillas without spotting them.

By the end of the second day 50 guerrillas had been captured. Some personnel had been existing on one meal and one canteen of water for 36 hours.

The guerrilla leader explained that relatively few objectives were hit the second night, because of mammoth security preparations it had become almost impossible to break into the beach support area.

As dawn broke on the morning of the third day the helicopters were again airborne and started the chase. Patrolling action on the part of BLT troops had improved considerably from the first two days.

In a briefing following the problem the exercise was counted as excellent training for both the guerrilla forces and pursuing BLT troops. In addition to getting excellent practice in conducting and defending against guerrilla attacks, many of the men had a good chance to face POW conditions they may encounter if ever captured in an actual conflict.

Each American Should Reaffirm Citizenship

"BREATHES THERE A MAN WITH SOUL SO DEAD, WHO NEVER TO HIMSELF HAS SAID, THIS IS MY OWN, MY NATIVE LAND."

On Sept. 17, America will observe Citizenship Day. To many Americans it will have an extremely important meaning. To some, unfortunately, it will have little.

In this day of synthetic cynicism and sophistication, a man who waves the flag is more often laughed at than praised. Yet, one Marine answered when chided about the Marines' proclivity for raising our flag over captured strongholds, "... they are a lot less likely to run from the enemy with the flag in their packs." The nation is less likely to fear any aggressor as long as they are strong in the faith and unity which has built our country.

Citizenship Day. What is it? The President of the United States says it is a "... day to inspire all our citizens to rededicate themselves to the faith of our founding fathers and to the ideals upon which this nation was established and built."

He also asked that the people of the United States observe this day with appropriate ceremonies and activities in their schools and churches and in other suitable places to the end that our citizens, those who have come of age and those who are naturalized, may have a better understanding of the Constitution and of the privileges and obligations of United States citizenship.

We in America walk in freedom, yet few can tell you how many articles were in the original Constitution and how many amendments have been made to that wonderful declaration of the dignity of man. Many attempts have been made to change it but luckily the men who framed our Constitution made it difficult to change. The legislatures of three-fourths of the states must approve each addition. In spite of this restriction, more than four thousand attempts have been made to amend the Constitution. Of these, 22 were approved.

In the 175 years that men have been born or have become citizens of the United States through due process of law, we have fought several wars, developed from a frontier area into a world leader, still holding to the same basic principles of government and life set down by the far-sighted Americans who wrote the Constitution.

It is little to ask that each American reaffirm his or her dedication to our country on Sept. 17.

It is not a weak man who stands, flag in hand, to say proudly to the world, "I am an American. I am a free man and I want every man to be free. If my love of country and the respect I hold for this flag makes me less in your eyes, then, for you I can have only pity."

Every Marine who has seen other countries of the world knows at first hand just how free we are. To be an American in this uncertain world is a blessing many millions more would gratefully accept.

To the millions of men, women and children of the world who do not walk in freedom, America holds the promise. In order to help all men be free, we must jealously guard our own freedom.

How can we better do this than by standing forth, united, and saying to the world, "I am an American citizen."

Teach this to your children and also tell them for what it stands. Reaffirm your citizenship on Sept. 17.

In it lies our children's freedom in the future and also the freedom of the world.

If You Ask Me:

IF YOU HAD IT TO DO AGAIN, WOULD YOU CHOOSE THE MARINE AS A CAREER?

SSGT. GERMAINE C. NOWINSKI, Fiscal Office—Yes, indeed! Where else can you find the security, travel, education and many other advantages that the Marine Corps offers? I know, I served three years and then got out for ten and a half months. I had to take a reduction in rank to come back in the Corps. I'll never make that mistake again. It's a good career. I'm sticking with it.

SSGT. DONALD P. MAGERS, Fiscal Office—If I had it to do over I believe I would like to have been a machinist and later on I would have taken up gunsmithing, something I am very interested in. However, in my nine years in the Corps it has been very good to me and I've been able to do a lot of things and go to many places that I would not have been able to. I do feel the Marine Corps is a good career for the man who likes to travel.

MSGT. MABEL A. R. OTTEN, Base Disbursing—Yes. The recruiting posters read, "It's a good career, stay with it." The Marine Corps has much to offer if one takes advantage of the many opportunities. To name a few: recreational activities, educational programs, security, retirement benefits, etc. In other words, the Marine Corps is what you make it. Who could choose a better career?

PFC BARBARA REVA, Base Disbursing—Yes, of course. The Marine Corps has been good to me and although I'm still a boot, unless something disastrous happens I see no reason to join the cruel civilian world. After all, there is no excuse for getting the wild idea that the end of an enlistment is the only thing to look forward to. When one considers the opportunities the Marine Corps offers and learns to cope with the petty things that must be withstood, the Corps and most certainly the individual profits considerably.

SGT. CHARLES R. COLLINS, Payroll—Being a career Marine, I answer yes. The Marine Corps offers many advantages, and for a career Marine, the pay is sufficient, retirement at 38, and dental and medical services free, and a salary and exchange. All these things will be a little old for adults, but they are, but nevertheless, they stretch the dollar. The pay in the Corps is not high, but how high is the outside? Then, having to work in the services, the take-home pay I believe, much less. Pride and to walk down any city street and see who can be identified from everybody.

SGT. BERNARD H. YOUNGS, NCO—If anyone has taken just a smidge at the Marine Corps and has thought of his career as a Marine he will not see the depth of its opportunities as I have. The Marine Corps has many fields of work that are well known, from butchers to atomic workers. But the thought instilled in me is the protection of my country so that we as Americans can live in peace. This peace is controlled by the quality of the group bound together by the title States Marine Corps.

THE IMPORTANCE OF THOUGHTS

It has been said that a person's thoughts create his character, or that he turns into the kind of thing he thinks about most. It has also been said that no man ever gives way to external deeds of evil unless he has, usually long before, succumbed to that evil in his mind. How to control and govern one's thought life, therefore, becomes one of the most important lessons one can learn.

One should never permit himself to follow the principle which has been the downfall of many: "I would never really do such and such an evil thing, but I can think about it"; or, "No one can be hanged for his thoughts"; or "What I think about is my own business." If in thought life, one enjoys an evil thing, he is guilty of that evil, and furthermore, will eventually put the thought into action in some way.

The mind must think about something, and therefore it can never drive out a thought of evil without replacing it with something good. That is why it is so firmly recommended that in temptation to evil thoughts, one turn to God in prayer, or, at least, to some pleasant and appealing but innocent object. Good reading is also an important aid to the control of one's thought life.

The reason why many people permit evil thoughts to occupy their minds is that they feel safe in so doing; no one can see their thoughts. If they would but remember that God sees every thought and will some day judge each person not only by his deeds but by his thoughts as well, they would be deeply concerned about leading a good life, even in their minds.

THE ARAB WORLD TODAY: by Morroe Berger, an American sociologist who has traveled and lived in the Near East, presents a many-dimensional picture of the contemporary Arab world. He shows the inter-relationship of religious, geographic, historical, economic, and political factors in determining present day Arab character and behavior. Concentrating on Lebanon, Syria, Iraq, Jordan, and Egypt, Professor Berger analyzes the influence of the Islamic religion in the past and the present; the effects of relations with the West and, recently the Soviet Union; the traditional and the new ways in life in the desert, the villages and the cities; and the changing roles of men, women, and the family. Combining his own research with the best historical studies of Islamic and Arab history and the latest and most reliable investigations by Arab and other social scientists, he has produced a portrait of the modern Arab and the world in which he lives.

2d Division Headquarters Battalion Controls Major Command Policies

Headquarters Battalion is the one unit at Camp Lejeune which exercises command, control, and administration of the 2d Marine Division and attached units.

The Battalion, organized at Camp Elliott, Calif., in 1941, is now commanded by Lt. Col. Carl O. J. Grussendorf, and is comprised of 1,441 Marines and 51 Navy-men.

Within the Battalion there are five units capable of self-administration and logistical support. Each of these organizations is given a mission to fulfill in support of the Division's three infantry regiments and one artillery regiment.

First of the five units is Headquarters Co., commanded by Maj. A. O. Nelson. Members of this company perform duties ranging from security for the Headquarters Bn., to Band support for the entire Division. The company also has a Chaplain assigned to it, who services those organic units in the Division which do not have a Chaplain of their own.

Incorporated into the Company is the Division Post Office, where all of the mail received by members of the 2d Division is sorted and handled. Directed by CWO L. P. Wallis, the Division Postal Officer, the "Postmen" sort and distribute the mail to smaller Post Offices in each of the Division's regiments. They also handle outgoing mail and provide postal money orders.

Also under the administrative control of the Company, is the responsibility of providing musical accompaniment for Division parades and official ceremonies. The Band also maintains a Drum and Bugle Corps which is utilized for official functions. The Band is currently directed by CWO K. W. Rhine.

Communications Company, which is charged with maintaining the Battalion's communications with Division Headquarters and lower echelon units, is led by Maj. W. J. Wagner.

The "Comm" men, who are usually experts in their field, install, operate and maintain the radio and other communications equipment used by the Division Headquarters and the Headquarters Bn. They also man radio, radio relay, and field telephone wire communications centers.

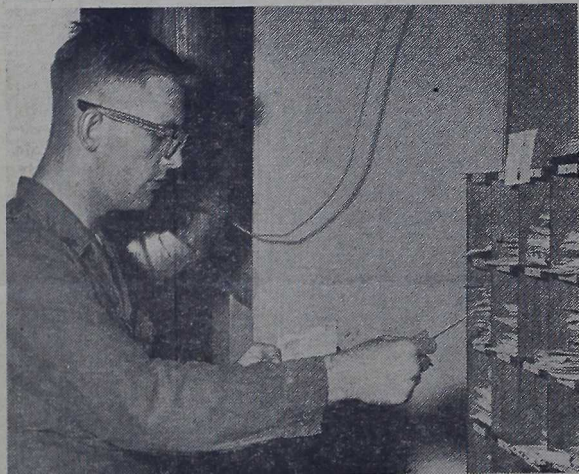

Supply and Motor Transport for the Battalion is assigned to Service Co., third of the group, which is under the command of Capt. R. J. Finn. In addition, the Company also provides reproduction services, photographic aids, and disbursing facilities for the Division.

The Military Police Co., fourth of the group, is assigned the task of providing traffic control, general guard duty, and security for the Division. Headed by Maj. J. H. Cahill, the MPs maintain an around-the-clock patrol of the Division area and the areas of its attached units.

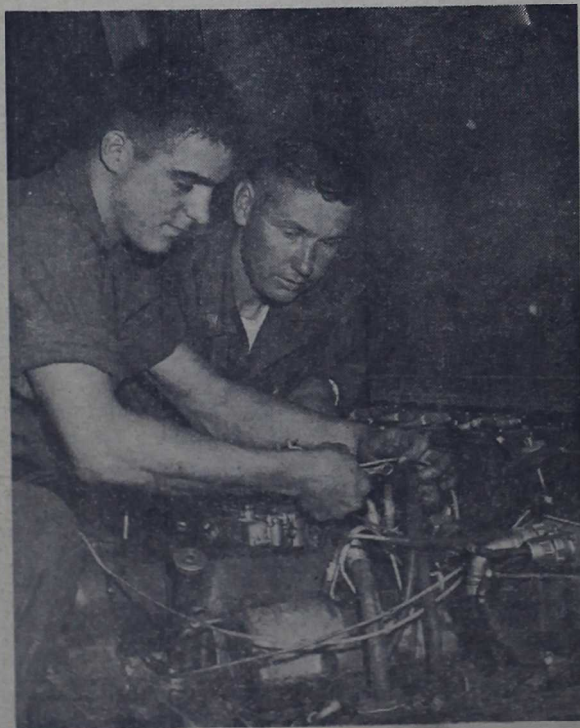

The Non-Commissioned Officers Leadership School, at Montford Point, is the fifth unit of the Battalion. It provides training for Division NCOs in leadership. The school, under the direction of Maj. R. H. Barnard, provide classroom and field training instruction for corporals and sergeants in one section, and for Staff

(General Vandegrift, 75, had been seriously ill and this was his first public appearance in many years.)

One after another they paused to pay their respects to their commanding general. Each one could tell another part of the hot, bloody campaign. Mosquitoes, swamps, the firmly entrenched Japs, the endless patrols, the George Medal, each one's story would tell of how he remembered the Canal. The general knew all of their stories, for he had shared each heartbreak, felt each loss of life and had known the moment of triumph when the vicious Japanese attack across the Pacific had been broken. The general's warmth spread among the guests.

They all smiled as they recollected. Humor had been the mainstay 20 years ago. It is the way of a Marine to laugh at the impossible.

Talk of Rough Times

The veterans moved to the main dining hall where Father Francis "Fox-Hole"

Kelly offered the invocation "... any possible honor we might give to those who died would only be a token of our appreciation ..."

During the meal conversations were passed across the table, and from table to table. They talked of the Japanese fleet, flushed with success, rampaging nightly down the "slot" between Guadalcanal and Savo, shelling the unprotected Marines on the beaches ... the recalled "Cactus" air force ... Marines zoomies flying battered Grumman Wildcats from a jungle clearing called Henderson Field.

They recalled a fanatic "banzai" attack which ended in disaster for the Japanese at the Tenaru river. There, one blood-stained night, the cream of Major General Hyakutake's Sendai Brigade skewered themselves on the bayonets of Marines. The following morning's sun shown on the bodies of 700 dead Japanese.

Old Praises New

The meal finished, a veteran major, himself now a general, stood to introduce their commander. The grand old man stood, felt for the microphone while the band played ruffles and flourishes. Everyone stood, and remained standing while he recalled:

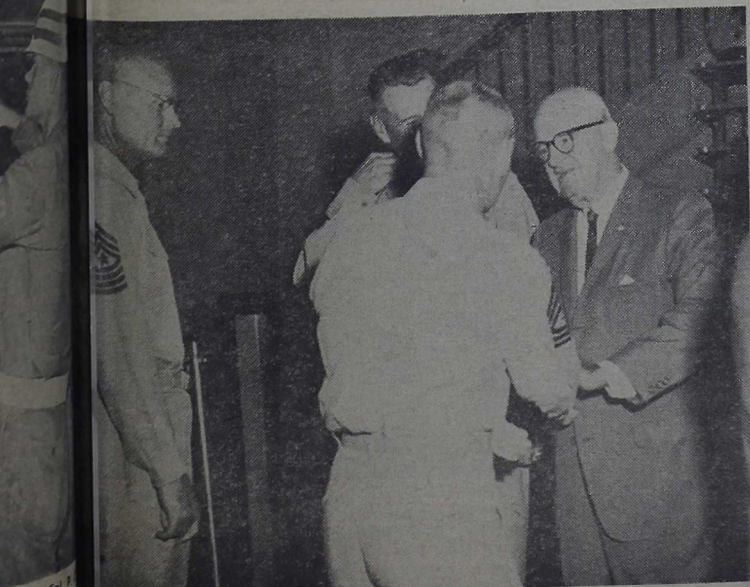

"... we had the will even if we didn't have the means ... the new breed is just as good as the old, maybe a damn sight better ... the quality of Marines has not changed, we all have loyalty to the nth degree ... now we have the knowhow to do our job better, and the guts to do it ... the new breed, and the newer breed will always go forward ... will still be the top fighting men in the world ..."

They all applauded his finish, many with tears in their eyes. As he left the main dining room, a proud veteran on each side, the band played the Marine Corps Hymn. Every eye followed him. He was their commander. They were proud of him ... and rightly so. President Franklin D. Roosevelt had given him the Medal of Honor. It was a deserving tribute ... he is that kind of Marine.

Pfc Larry F. Cianchetta

Division Marine Competes For '62 'Mr. America' Title

By Cpl. Don Gee
Division ISO

Pfc Larry F. Cianchetta, a six-month reservist now training with the 2d Division, will be representing the Marine Corps at the 1962 "Mr. America" Contest to be held at the Brooklyn Academy of Music in New York this Saturday.

Larry, presently a member of Communications Co., Headquarters Bn., will be appearing in the contest under the name of Larry Powers.

In March of this year, Larry joined the Marine Corps, and by so doing, forfeited a film contract in a series of "Hercules" films.

Larry's sporting interests include swimming, skin diving, surf boarding, judo, baseball, basketball and karate, in which he holds a 1st degree Brown Belt. His favorite hobbies are painting and sketching.

Larry says, "Mr. America should be an all-around person in my opinion, and I am trying hard to be the all-around person that should represent the United States in the 'Mr. Universe' contest. I don't know how much of a chance I have to become 'Mr. America,' but with God's help, I'll give it my best."

Larry has been lifting weights and working out seriously for the past five years, and oddly enough, he was started on his muscle building career by a former Marine.

Larry Powers is no newcomer to the world of musclemen. He holds the titles of Mr. Staten Island, Mr. New York Coast, Mr. Iron Man, and last year, he placed third in the "Mr. America" contest, winning the Mr. America Height Class title.

He has also been the subject of various articles published in national muscle magazines. He is currently appearing on the cover of the December issue of "Muscle Builder" magazine.

When asked why he joined the Marine Corps, Larry replied, "I wouldn't join any other branch of service. My Marine Corps training has helped me to keep in shape. As a matter of fact, it hasn't given me a chance to get out of shape."

The "Mr. America" contest is expected to have about 40 participants from all over the United States. It will be judged by seven of the nation's top muscle experts. The "Mr. Universe" contest, which is directly related to the "Mr. America" contest, is scheduled to begin at the conclusion of the "Mr. America" contest.

'Devil Clerks' Hold Margin In Force Troops Intramurals

The Force Troops Intramural Football League completed its first week of action with clear leaders beginning to emerge. The two most highly rated teams before the season, Headquarters Co. "Devil Clerks" and 2d Tank Battalion's "Bettles" met in the first game of the season on Sept. 4. The battle was close throughout the game, Tanks drawing first blood, which was quickly countered by Headquarters' halfback, Jerry Simmons, running back the TD kickoff better than 60 yards for a score. For the rest of the game, the

Ft. Dix Takes Conference Baseball Title

The Fort Dix Burros clinched the East Coast Interservice Conference baseball crown last week by posting back-to-back victories over the Fort Belvoir Engineers on the loser's home field, closing out any Lejeune hopes to capture the coveted title.

The pair of victories put Fort Dix ahead to stay in the ECIC with two nearest competitors, Camp Lejeune and Fort Lee, having 24 and 23 wins respectively, to finish in second and third place. Dix' second victory over Belvoir was their 25th win of the campaign.

Lejeune, who finished their season almost a month before other competition in the conference, blew their own chances for the title during their final road trip of the year. Prior to the trip, the Marine nine boasted a record of 17-8. The four losses, including a 5-2 setback at the hands of the conference titlists, Fort Dix, was the main cause for the second place finish.

Third place finisher, Fort Lee, had held down the conference top slot almost the entire season. They started their slide to third place after dropping a two-game series with Lejeune and continued to falter until ending in the third place slot. Most of their success in the early part of the season was due to the number of players on their roster called up for active duty as reservists.

Rod & Gun Club Meets

The Camp Lejeune Rod and Gun Club will hold their regular monthly meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. tonight at their club house, located on French's Creek.

Immediately following their regular business meeting, refreshments will be served.

It's Time For Predictions

With the beginning of the 1962 Lejeune season, it's time once again to stick our necks out a bit further than we normally do, and pick the probable finish in the East Coast Interservice Conference.

Last year's selections were pretty close to finish, but we might as well have been altogether. Only three places differed from our pre-season first, second, and third.

In '61, the GLOBE picked Lejeune to win hands down, to be followed by Quantico and Ft. Eustis in third. Eustis, however, did not go along with our turned the tables on the Lejeune eleven to finish top slot, pushing the local eleven back one notch while our powerful brothers from the Marine Corps were left to take third place.

What Happens This Year

We'll have to stick with our '61 predictions year and select the Lejeune varsity to finish on top, as they should have last season. Quantico, to end the Eustis "Wheels", to take second place. Wheels are the strongest contender for third.

From that point in the standings, the rest of the conference should be a toss-up.

Belvoir Better Than Ever

Although winning only one ball game last year, Belvoir "Engineers" should move from last to fourth this season.

An earlier report on the Engineers stated that they were in for a worse season than they had in 1961.

It seems we were just a bit hasty in labeling them. Last Sunday's Washington Post gave them a good enough to make us change our prediction and place them to fourth place.

Belvoir's head coach, Nelson Peterson, states the team was well-balanced, in fact, he further states the Engineers this year will be the best team fielded by an Army base since 1958. A few top college prospects to the team since the start of workouts bolstered the team.

Peterson's newly-found optimism lies in the fact of quarterback Paul Golozewski of University of Kansas State and about seven others. The stopping them from going all the way will be, without a doubt, Lejeune, Quantico and Eustis.

A Toss-Up For Fifth

Fifth place will end up in the hands of either Fort Devens or Fort Dix. This will be settled on Sept. 17 when the two teams meet in their respective opening games. The loser of this game will finish fifth.

Devens is big and powerful with the offensive line weighing the scales with an average of 210 pounds. Their field weighs in at about 185 lbs.

Lee In The Cellar

For a change, unless there is another reservist sent to the offing, the Fort Lee Travellers will view the Interservice Conference from a new position from the cellar. Unlike basketball with Lenny Wilkens, Louis Hawks and baseball with reservists Gil Hodges, Jess Merrill, Ft. Lee will have only "lady luck" as they try to buck the powers of the conference.

We wonder how many choices will be right or wrong????

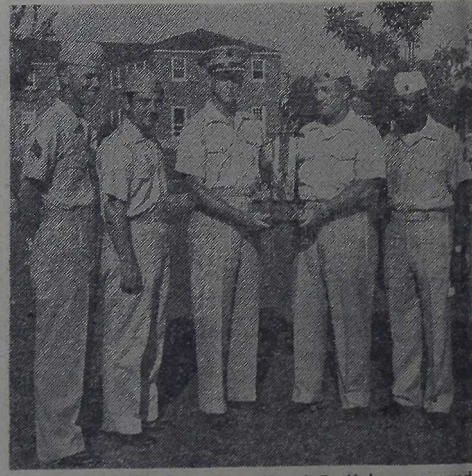

SO CLOSE, BUT . . . —Two members of the Camp Lejeune soccer team move in on the goal-tender in an attempt to score, but arrive too late to make the play as the goalie snaps up the ball. The action took place last Saturday during an intra-squad contest on the Base soccer field. The Lejeune team has made arrangements to meet other military installations in the area. Complete information will be given in next week's GLOBE. (Photo by LCpl. Walt Friesendorf, Base Photo Lab) lead changed hands several times until, with less than one minute remaining, and the score 26-25 in favor of the Beetles, the Devil Clerks' quarterback, Ralph Brown tossed a 20 yard pass to end Bill "Twinkletoes" Jenkins who scampered the final 10 yards for the winning touchdown. The final point of the game was scored by Simmons, who caught the PAT pass from Brown. The game was later protested by Tanks, and has not, as yet, gone into the record.

In the other game played Tuesday, 2d Composite Radio Co., was leading 2d AmTrac Battalion 13-7 when AmTracs was awarded a disputed touchdown by the officials, due to a mistaken whistle. That game will be replayed from the point of protest, about three minutes from the final gun, and also is still off the record.

In the other games played so far, 2d ANGLICO failed to field a team before the fifteen minute time limit, and forfeited to Headquarters Co. 6-0; 8th Motor Transport Bn. beat 8th Communication Bn. 25-12; 2d Composite Radio won a close game from AmTracs, 13-7. The next day, AmTracs bounced back and won a close one from ANGLICO 6-0 and 2d Tanks came back to trample 8th Comm Bn. 36-0; Hq. Co., came out on top in the second game in a row forfeited to them, when 8th Motors failed to field their team.

During the week, the league lost two teams, when 2d FAG, who had not played at all, and 8th Engineer Bn., with a 0-2 record both dropped from the league.

GOLF CHAMPS—Brig. Gen. Wood B. Kyle, commander of the Force Troops, presents the Commanding General's Trophy to Maj. G. M. Olszewski of the victorious 8th Communication Bn.'s Open class golf team. The team finished first in the presentation were team members, left to right: Boyd, HMI W. H. Lowry, General Kyle, Major Olszewski, Stewart and Pfc A. L. Gregory.

HE TOP—Lejeune's starting varsity eleven will jump right into action this as they travel to Georgia to take on the Fort Benning "Doughboys" to air 1962 football season. Starting for the Lejeune eleven in an attempt to air 8-1 season record of last year are, left to right, linemen: Ken Williams,

Barrett ran off 18 yards for the first Devilpup score with only four minutes left in the first half. Prior to the score, the Devilpups, led by Barrett, compiled 33 yards in five plays, ending up on the Aycock 18-yard line. At that point, the flashy quarterback, finding no receiver, picked up blockers and went over for the score.

With the clock running out, Barrett unleashed an aerial to Warren Smith, good for 39 yards and the second Lejeune score of the night. The 'Pups held a 13-0 lead at the intermission.

As the second half started, so did the Lejeune defense as they stopped the Falcon surge, taking over on the Devilpup 30-yard line.

Two big penalties against Aycock and some fine running by Lejeune backs brought the football back to the Falcon 17-yard stripe. Once again Barrett pushed the ground attack and rushed into the end zone for the score.

Later in the third quarter, Barrett started again, after Lejeune recovered a fumble, and scored the fourth TD of the night.

To start another Lejeune attack, Dan Pactow picked off a Falcon pass and returned it to the Aycock four-yard line, getting the final quarter under way.

From the four, Barrett took two tries, one play called back for a penalty, to score Lejeune's fifth tally of the night.

Aycock broke their scoreless column with an 80-yard desperation pass-play with less than three minutes remaining.

After the Aycock score, Barrett retaliated by tossing a 36-yard aerial to Dan Pactow for the final score of the night as the clock ran out. Barrett scored the extra point to end the scoring with Lejeune on top, 39-6.

The Camp Lejeune Marines were the only service team to defeat the Pensacola Navy last season on the gridiron. Pensacola suffered four losses throughout the season, three of which were to Lejeune teams.

Varsity Travels To Georgia To Kick Off '62 Grid Season

Wrapping up their final pre-season scrimmage and practice drills, the Camp Lejeune varsity football squad has set its sights on a victory as they tackle the rough Ft. Benning, Ga., "Doughboys" this Saturday, opening their 1962 gridiron campaign.

This will be the first of two consecutive road contests which the Marines play, prior to the home opener with Ft. Belvoir, on Oct. 6.

"Two of my assistant coaches, Brian Nealy and Joe DeDimincantano scouted Benning last week," stated Lejeune head coach, Phil Monahan, "and they reported that Benning is tough, much tougher than last year."

Last week, opening their season, the Doughboys slaughtered Gordon Military Academy, 66-0.

For Saturday's contest, Monahan plans to start with two veterans and two newcomers in the backfield. Bill Tasker, in his second year with Lejeune, will be at the fullback slot, while Dan Droze, a mid-season arrival last year, will be at right-half. Starting at quarterback for the opener will be Frank James, a newcomer with a year's experience at Auburn, while Darrell Fitts, also a newcomer to the Lejeune eleven will start at left-half. Fitts, well-known to Lejeune, was starting left halfback at Quantico last year. He also has experience in college ball while playing with the University of Alabama.

The line, which told the tale during the 1961 season, underwent an almost complete re-vamping this year, with only three returnees in the starting lineup.

The right side of the line will have Ken Williams at end, Tom Montgomery, in his second year with Lejeune, at tackle, and Charlie Gill at guard. The left side must be considered the strongest, with Lawson Manous at end, Larry Wagner at tackle and Jack Ebbitt at guard, while Dallas Zieber, another newcomer will fill the center slot. Wagner and Ebbitt are the only returnees on that side of the line.

With a victory on Saturday, Lejeune can extend their winning streak to four straight over two years of play with Monahan. Following their loss to Ft. Eustis last season, Lejeune closed out the year with victories over Ft. Lee, Ft. Dix, and Quantico.

Boys League Opens Play In 1962 Football Season

Maj. Gen. F. L. Wieseman, Division commander, called signals last Sunday that officially opened the 1962 Boys League Football season for 149 young boys, comprising eight teams in two separate sections.

After General Wieseman completed his quarterbacking chores, he headed to the sidelines and became a spectator for three exciting contests.

The first Midget League game saw a hard-fought contest between the 1961 champion Eagles taking on the Redskins. After a scoreless first half, the Redskins, behind the powerful running of Milt Ortiz and Carl Wiggins, broke into the scoring column when Wiggins powered over from the three-yard line for the score. The game ended that way, with the Redskins posting a 6-0 upset over the defending champs.

The Tiny-Tots, a new division in the Boys League, took the field for the second contest of the day as the Lions downed the Rams, 13-0. Lion scoring was credited to Paul Black, going over from the 10 in the second quarter and Claude Campbell, from 19 yards out in the third.

The final contest of the afternoon saw the Colts and the Bears, both of the Midget League, fight to a scoreless tie at the end of the regulation play. A defensive battle for the entire four quarters, the contest was marked by an excellent performance from Bear center, Ken Bossard, who, incidentally, received the 1961 award for the most valuable lineman.

Next Saturday afternoon, the Boys League resumes competition with a Tiny-Tots contest, the Viking and Browns meeting in the opener, to be followed by the Redskins vs the Bears, and the Colts vs the Eagles.

Wieseman, 2d Division commander, gives a few words of encouragement to the young football stars of tomorrow during opening ceremonies of the 1962 Camp Lejeune Boys League last Sunday. ## Force Recon Examining Applicants On Sept. 24

Camp Lejeune Marines who do not possess a critical MOS and who are not school trained in any MOS will have the opportunity to become a member of 2d Force Reconnaissance Co., Force Troops.

Between Sept. 24-28, Force Recon. will hold a week of testing at Camp Geiger to determine the capabilities of the applicants.

Marines applying for Recon. will be sent TAD to the company for one week, during which time they will take an airborne physical fitness test, swimming test and other physical and mental tests.

Those found unqualified for Recon.

connaissance duty will be returned to their parent organization.

Once qualified for Recon. duty, the Marine will undergo additional physical training and testing and be afforded the chance to attend many schools to increase his proficiency in his job. Some of these diverse specialties are: SCUBA School in Key West, Fla., Army Ranger School at Fort Benning, Ga., Winter Mountain Leadership and Summer Mountain Leadership Schools, held at Pickle Meadows, Bridgeport, Calif., Jungle Warfare School in Rodman, Panama Canal Zone and the Pathfinder School, Fort Benning, Ga. Special units also attend Communication Schools.

The Recon. Marine will usually attend all of these schools which are available to him during his 24 month tour with Force Recon.

Most of the billets now available are open for Corporal E-4 and below in the Pathfinder platoon. Any men who possess the qualifications and wish to be tested for this duty can do so by contacting their unit Career Advisory NCOs.

Sgt. Lowe's Commendation On Photo

Sgt. Charles G. Lowe, Jr., of the Photographic Company, Force Reconnaissance, was presented with a letter of commendation from Col. J. M. Smith, former commanding officer, Reserve Liaison Unit, MCI, for outstanding professional and technical knowledge as a photographer.

Sergeant Lowe worked with the Informational Services Company, the Reserve Liaison Unit, on the annual reserve training on a "loan" basis to assist in news coverage of reserve activities.

Colonel Smith said in presentation of the commendation that the subject Marine Corps Reserve Unit was far greater than the Reserve Liaison Unit could possibly have without his assistance.

"Sergeant Lowe's eagerness and willingness to work more than required of him, apparently boundless energy and efficiency are highly commended and reflect credit to Sergeant Lowe and to the U. S. Marine Corps."

NEW LOOK IN 'CHUTING—LCpl. D. N. McCarthy comes to earth after making a 10,000-foot jump with a 50-second delay using a TU modification type 'chute used by the United States Parachute Team that took three of four major categories in the World's Sport Parachute Competition in August. Attached to the jumper's left ankle is a chemical smoke grenade used to trace his descent.

FT Parachute Club Puts On Exhibition

Just as the sun began to warm the first day of September 1962, a Marine HUS-1 helicopter from Squadron 261, Marine Air Facility, New River, piloted by Lts. G. A. Rengel and W. R. Hyatt, was hovering 10,000 feet above Oak Grove, Pollocksville, N. C. Inside were five Marines from various Force Troops commands, members of the Force Troops Sport Parachute team, about to make a jump.

Far below on the ground near the drop zone were a number of interested spectators, including the Commanding General of Force Troops, Brig. Gen. Wood B. Kyle. At 9:45 a.m., the first tiny speck could be seen leaving the hatch of the 'copter, followed by second, third, fourth and fifth, in rapid succession. Smoke began to pour from grenades attached to the jumpers, ankles, tracing their graceful pattern through the sky.

During free fall, two of the jumpers, Cpls. I. L. Trantham and P. E. Smith, came in contact with each other for a period of four seconds; this is known as "relative work," another phase of which is the passing objects between two jumpers in free fall.

After nearly a full minute of free falling, descent of the two men was suddenly arrested as white canopies billowed above them. Seconds later, the specks finally became recognizable as human figures swinging slowly as they drifted toward the ground.

Sport parachuting is called "jumping from an airplane simply for the thrill of it" by Cpl. Trantham, spokesman of the team. The sport is practiced almost every weekend in North Carolina by civilian and military clubs.

The five men participating in the jump were:

Capt. Norman J. Jasper, Jr., team captain, Headquarters Co., Force Troops, LCpl. D. N. McCarthy, 2d Tank Bn., Sgt. R. C. Armstrong, 2d Force Recon Co., Cpl. I. L. Trantham, 8th Engineer Bn. and Cpl. P. E. Smith of the Air Delivery Platoon (Shipping and Receiving Co.), H&S Bn., 2d FSR.

They have made 35 free-fall jumps as a team since their organization several months ago.

According to Cpl. Trantham, the team has been invited, and plans to attend, a jump meet at Fort Bragg, to be held this fall, and also plans to participate in meets at Surf City, N. C., and the Mullet Festival in Swansboro, N. C.

Anyone interested in joining the club should contact Cpl. Trantham at 7-5115.

Water Instructor Overjoyed With Job

When a man attending the Red Cross National Aquatic School is overjoyed with the fact that his elective subject is "The Instruction of Handicapped Swimmers," there must be a reason.

Cpl. John Howell of Headquarters Battalion, Marine Corps Base, is that man and had such a reason.

"Working with handicapped children is a challenging, new field," stated Howell. "It provides me a chance to help those who have a tough time helping themselves.

Glidesail Parachute Tested For Space

VAN NUYS, CALIF. — A new parachute called the Glidesail, which the wearer can guide in direction and angle of glide, is being developed here for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center.

In small sizes the Glidesail, also known as a controlled-descent landing system, will serve as a personnel parachute, but it will also be usable in NASA's manned space vehicles now under development.

The Glidesail was developed from the Ringsail parachute which Project Mercury astronauts use to return from space missions.

The new device is controlled by the pilot who can execute 360 degree turns and shift from a gliding to a vertical descent within seconds.

Its designers believe the Glidesail will enable astronauts of the future to control spacecraft while descending and also to land in areas selected in advance as free of hazards.

Colonel Oliver Commanding 10th Marines

A formal change-of-command ceremony was observed in the 10th Marines as Col. William P. Oliver, Jr., relieved Col. Wade Hitt as commanding officer of the 2d Marine Division's artillery regiment.

Troops of the regiment were formed for the ceremony which was viewed by Maj. Gen. Frederick L. Wieseman, commanding general of the Division, and members of his staff.

Col. Hitt, who has commanded the 10th Marines for more than a year, recently received orders to Marine Corps Base.

Col. Oliver was previously Division Deputy Chief of Staff.

He is a veteran of more than 20 years' service and received a Silver Star medal for gallantry in action on Saipan while serving with the 10th Marines. He also wears the Navy Commendation Medal for his services in Korea with the 1st Marine Division.

Col. Oliver is a native of Cape Girardeau, Mo., and a graduate of the University of Missouri. He also received a juris doctorate at George Washington University in 1949.

The colonel attended the officers advanced course at Fort Sill, Okla., in 1945; the Marine Corps Senior School in 1955 and the National War College in 1962. He reported to the 2d Division about two months ago.

During Aug. 1950, and July 27, 1953, Marine helicopter squadrons evacuated almost 10,000 personnel fighting in Korea.

Moving No Trouble For Medical Men

WITH THE U. S. SIXTH FLEET IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, PORTO SCUDA, SARDINIA.

Is there a hospital in your city? How long would it take to move it across town?

This is one of the problems continually encountered by the medical men of the 2d Marine Battalion serving as the collecting and clearing unit of BLT, during training exercise at Porto Scuda, Sardinia.

The unit's ability to move from one location to another is of prime importance. The mission is to collect casualties from the front lines and provide emergency medical attention. It is necessary to enable the unit to be evacuated to permanent hospitals in the rear. Its vehicles operate as close to the front as possible, and be ready to move at a moment's notice.

In addition to handling evacuations rapidly, the unit is a gas and nuclear contamination and treatment unit.

In an amphibious landing operation ashore within 100 miles, this unit is in reality a 30-bed front line hospital. It has a balance support. It is a self-contained unit composed of an X-ray facilities, intensive therapy department, 15-bed wards, kitchen facilities, electrical generating unit in seven warehouse tents.

Unit personnel currently equipped with the BLT consists of medical corpsmen and 2nd Marines. A dental section, Dental Company, Force Recon, is attached to the unit in dentist, two dental technicians.

To insure that skilled never wanting, Marines trained in emergency procedures and in an emergency take the place of a field service technician. Navy personnel are trained to be drivers of other jobs normally assigned to Marines.

The medical unit is available to Marines who may serve. Its mobility and equipment and trained guarantees Marines the attention even under adverse conditions.
